The Verdi Manzoni Requiem will be given as the opening concert of the Worcester Music Festival of 1913. It will be the eighth performance of this work at this festival and its frequent repetition in itself is a guarantee of the excellence of the work, and the esteem in which it is held. It is easily conceded to be one of the best things ever done by the festival chorus, as well as one of the masterpieces of the great composer, Verdi. To the many who know him as the composer of opera only, his "Il Trovatore," "Aida" and "Othello" stand out most conspicuously among his works. To others who know his Te Deum and the Manzoni Requiem, the marvel is that one man could be capable of such widely diversified compositions.

The festival management is confident that it has secured the finest quartet of soloists ever engaged for an opening concert, for the Manzoni Requiem. A quartet so evenly balanced, so perfect altogether has seldom if ever been heard at any of the previous concerts.

The requiem was composed in memory of Manzoni, the Italian poet and novelist and friend of Verdi. At the time of the first performance in Milan in 1847, it was harshly criticised as operatic and unchurchly, but the dramatic power and religious impressiveness of the work are now generally recognized.

For the third concert on Thursday night, Pierne's "St. Francis of Assisi" is to be given.

It is in the new work "St. Francis" that much of the interest centers. Written by a French composer who has already produced one remarkable work, it is replete with beautifully melodic features—from the prologue, which presents St. Francis with his boon companions in a scene of revelry, through the succeeding scenes The approach of the leper, in the first scene, the lovely scene which represents St. Francis preaching to the birds and the succeeding one called "Stigmata" of tremendous dramatic power, all offer wonderful contrasts impossible of description. The most moving scene of all is the closing one, the death of St. Francis. It is said that only one thoroughly in sympathy with the subject as Pierne was would have conceived and carried out such a rarely beautiful scene.

The chorus of birds is to be represented by a chorus of children who are to be selected and drilled by Charles I. Rice.

Walter W. Farmer is festival organist and plays at the production of the Manzoni Requiem.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Boston Opera Course

Notice has been sent out of a local Boston opera series of concerts under the direction of Frederick Lamb, with Mrs. J. Hurd Cutter and Mrs. William Hogg, managing local detail.

The announced schedule is, November 11, the Boston Opera Company; December 1, Lina Cavalieri and company; January 6, Luisa Tetrazzini and company; January 30, the Boston Opera Company, and Febru-

COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
NINTH FLOOR—AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO, ILL. MRS. W. S. BRACKEN, President
Offers exceptional advantages in all departments. We call attention this week to the well known names in our piano department; Mr. Henry P. Eames, Director; Miss Jeanette Durno; Miss Marie Schada, Mr. Geo. G. Lewis, Dr. W. Waugh Lauder, Mrs. Katherine Howard-Ward, Mr. Clarence Eidam, Mrs. Mabel Webster Osmer, Miss Henriette Weber, Mrs. Chas. Orchard, Miss Marie Edwards, Miss May D. Laukart, Miss Vivian Scott, Miss Adela Laue, Miss Vera Brady, Mr. Guy A. La Belle, Miss Dorothy Pelck, Miss Marguerite Dresser.

Bertha Beeman
Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

H. W. OWENS, MUS. B.
VOICE BUILDER COACHING
PUPILS PREPARED FOR CHURCH POSITIONS, CONCERTS, ORATORIO
Monday and Saturday—Maller's Bldg., Madison & Wabash
Studio Telephone Harrison 4573
CHICAGO
Friday—2112 Washington Boulevard

Peoria Musical College
102-104 North Madison Avenue
PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT
Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr.
Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS
Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker
TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN
ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
6217 MONROE AVENUE
Phone Midway 930

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago
SCHOOL OF MUSIC

A University Professional School, for the comprehensive study of practical and theoretical music, either as a profession or as an element of culture. Located upon the shore of Lake Michigan in Chicago's most attractive suburb.
I. Course in Applied Music, leading to the Degree of Graduate in Music.
II. Course in Theory and History of Music, leading to the Degree of Bachelor of Music.
III. Post-Graduate Course.
IV. Literary-Musical Course.
V. Course in Public School Music Methods.
VI. Normal Course in Piano Methods.
Course I., II. and V. include literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Academy without extra expense.
A thorough Preparatory Department is maintained.
The environment and social advantages most excellent.
Faculty of 25. Send for detailed descriptions of courses and book of Evanston views.
P. C. LUTKIN, Dean, Evanston, Ill.

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

FREDK J. PERSSON PIANIST ACCOMPANIST 1921 Wolfram St.

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
309 KIMBALL HALL Teacher of Singing
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

HELEN Bright-Bengel CONTRALTO
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Regina De Sales
TEACHER OF SINGING
PUPILS PREPARED OPERA, ORATORIO, CONCERT
Rue de Villejus (Bois de Boulogne), Paris
Paris Studio Open All Summer.

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Management - - HARRY CULBERTSON

ary 2, the same company. Tickets for the course are $6, $8 and $10.

♮ ♮ ♮

Our Bands

During the summer the local bands, The Naval Brigade, Worcester Brass, Battery B, and the Tilander Band, have given weekly concerts, which have been largely attended at the Green Hill Institute, and other public parks.

Tilander's band, under the direction of Angelo Truda, in the absence of Nils Tilander, who is filling an engagement in the White Mountains, has played three concert programs at Nipmuck Park, since July 1.

At one concert the band music was supplemented by the singing of a glee club of 16 voices, at another Mrs. Carolyn Kiel Staff, a local soprano, was the soloist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Old Home Day Banquet in Fitzwilliam, New Hampshire

Some years ago Governor F. W. Rollins of New Hampshire urged upon the people of his state the sentimental and practical value of an Old Home day, when those sons and daughters who had left their one-time home, would be allured back to the hills and mountains of the land of their birth, reviving their fealty for their native state, and renewing the friendships of an earlier day. The idea gripped, and almost every year an "Old Home" celebration in some town or city of the state, makes insistent demand that the absentee return and partake of the hospitality generously provided.

It was the pleasure of the writer to attend a banquet, a fitting and successful close to such a celebration, at Fitzwilliam, N. H., Monday night, August 18. More than 400 guests sat at the tables, that occupied and filled the Town Hall, where the banquet was held.

The toastmaster was F. W. Crooker, president of the Old Home Week Committee, and editor of the local newspaper, The Monadnock Breeze. Other members of his committee were L. E. Gilson, secretary; E. L. Stone, Treasurer; W. E. Barrus, and W. E. Holman.

After the discussion of material things, in the shape of food, an intellectual feast was provided by a number of speakers who answered the following toasts: "Woman," Leonard Treat of Boston; "Our State," Dr. E. W. Emerson; "The Grand Army," E. E. Lawrence; "The Man from a Far Country," Rev. Donald Fletcher; "Forty Years Ago," verse, Mrs. Hattie Cummings; "Grand Old Monadnock," Mr. Vining, Brookline, Mass.; "Keene," Mayor C. S. Shedd; "The Absent Ones," George A. Parker, Hartford, Conn., and "Our Beauty Spots," Rev. C. E. Jefferson, of New York City.

Mingled with these toasts were songs by the Nevin mixed quartet of Fitchburg, Mrs. Luthera Stratton, soprano; Miss Florence Hersom, contralto; Dr. E. H. Page, tenor; William J. Arkwell, of Worcester, basso-cantante.

The musical program was largely of folk-song variety, and entirely appropriate. Two numbers, "The Vacant Chair," and "When Mother Said Goodbye," words by President F. W. Crooker, music by Mr. Page and Mr. Arkwell, of the quartet, are worthy special mention.

In connection with the subject of musical programs, those by the Fitzwilliam brass band, during the day, and of a chorus and orchestra, Mrs. Beronson of Boston, the vocal soloist, at the service in the Town Hall, Sunday morning, the 17th, when Rev. C. E. Jefferson preached from the text, "Look to the rock from which ye were hewn and to the hole of the pit before it was digged," gave much enjoyment to those who were present.

The banquet ended with the singing of "Home, Sweet Home," and "America" by quartet and audience.

♮ ♮ ♮

Coming at Worcester Theater

The last of September, "Amazon," with Billy Burke the leading character; in October a trio of dancers, in historical dances, Lady Constance Richardson, Madame Polaire, French dancer; Gertrude Hofmann, and Faversham in "Julius Caesar," in December. LESTER S. BUTLER.

———♯♯♯———

BOSTON

A part of an interesting sketch in the Boston Sunday Post, August 31, presumably by Olin Downes, the music critic of this paper, is so pungent, and encouraging to aspiring students of singing, that it is worth space in the columns of Music News.

An attack has been made upon Mme. Olive Fremstad as Isolde by a German critic who declared her "naturalistic death study," was in effect a "danse du ventre." He said other unkind things, and the Americans in Munich, where the performance was given in the Prinz Regenten Theater, are trying to boycott this theater.

Incidentally the Post article defends Mme. Fremstad's Isolde, in no uncertain language.

"What," said Criticus, with a splendid flourish, "what have Roman stools, sofa cushions and bearskins to do in a drama of the soul which wants nothing external or material?"

What, indeed, save the idiotic attempt to give the effect of a ship sailing on a sea in the one manner which makes this an utter impossibility, and for which the more antediluvian practices of the German art of the stage are responsible.

But that also was along the line of Americanism, and with the exception of the box office that is fatal to everything wherein the world touches Wagner.

There is another Americanism that the gentleman of music neglects to mention. This is the fact that young men and women of this benighted land, with better voices, more temperament, and as a general rule, far more brains than their Teutonic rivals—and above all, with far better vocal methods, are taking leading roles in most of the important German opera houses, and it is easy to suspect that the chauvanism which expresses itself in the derision of the traditional American dollar proceeds from an even more sensitive source.

It is not pleasant to witness an artistic decline in one's own land, and a corresponding advance on the part of those from over the seas. Incidentally, so far as experience of the best opera singers of the days may be taken as a premise—and these singers are heard far oftener in America than Germany—that nation has of late years produced no artist whose impersonation of Isolde can nearly compare with Mme. Fremstad's dramatic and poetical performance. Nor is there, so far as "naturalistic" effects are concerned, an actress of similar distinction and presence in these roles on the German lyric stage today.

♮ ♮ ♮

Municipal Band Concerts

"Request Sunday," the entire program, including encores, made from requested numbers, marked the last band concert from the Parkman bandstand August 31, and the concert fittingly closed a highly successful season.

Theron D. Perkins and his band, had Prof. John A. O'Shea, Mrs. John D. O'Connor, and Mrs. Christine Galbraith as assisting talent, the former conducting his own number, "Venetian Nights," and the latter sang a vocal duet. The program may be said to indicate popular taste and so is included:

Overture, "Fest" ..... Lassen
Barcarolle, "Venetian Nights" ..... O'Shea
By Courtesy of Mr. Perkins, Professor O'Shea will conduct this number
Sextet from "Lucia" ..... Donizetti
By Messrs. Brenton, cornet; Krulec, flugelhorn; Proctor, Howard Woelber, trombones, and Balch, euphonium.
Overture, "1812" ..... Tschaikowsky
"Quis est Homo," from "Stabat Mater".....Rossini
Barcarolle from "The Tales of Hoffmann," Offenbach
Mrs. John D. O'Connor and Mrs. Christine Galbaith, soprano and contralto.
"Largo" ..... Handel
Descriptive Fantasia, "The Civil War"..... Tobani
Synopsis, ending with "The Star Spangled Banner." "Auld Lang Syne."

At Franklin Park the concert was given by the Ninth Regiment, M. V. M.

Band, W. A. Barington Sargent, leader.

♮ ♮ ♮

Ferrari-Fontana, who comes to the Boston Opera Company as its principal tenor for the first two months of the season 1913-14, will be followed by Giovanni Zenatello, and Mme. Maria Gay, Alessandro Bonci, Giovanni Martinelli, Aristodemo Giorgini, loaned by the Chicago Opera Company, Enrico Caruso, Riccardo Martin, from the Metropolitan Opera Company, and possibly Florencio Constantino, may appear during the season.

Frederick Lamb, a local teacher of singing, has been engaged by Manager Russell of the Boston Opera Company, to direct all concerts given by artists of the company in New England during the season of 1913-14.

The dates for the appearance in Boston of the Flonzaley Quartet, now in Lausanne, Switzerland, returning to America early in November to make their seventh concert tour of this country, are December 4, January 29, and March 12. The New York dates are December 1, January 26, and March 9. The first concert will be given in Waterbury, Conn., November 18. The last appearance will be about May 1.

Ralph L. Flanders, general manager of the New England Conservatory of Music, with his family, passed the month of August at Pleasant Lake, Carroll, Maine.

Frederick L. Trowbridge, the assistant manager of this institution, had his vacation at York Beach, with his family.

Miss Alice Eldridge, the pianist engaged for the coming Worcester Music Festival, and who will play a Liszt concerto at the Friday afternoon concert, played an interesting program at Mrs. Winthrop Winslow's residence, Duxbury, Wednesday afternoon, August 27. The proceeds of the concert went to the building fund of the new Duxbury Yacht Clubhouse.

Invitations are out for all pupils, parents and friends, a numerous body, to attend a recital by Carl Faelten, in Huntington Chambers Hall, Saturday morning, September 13, at 11 o'clock.

An informal reception is to be held by the director and members of the faculty, after the recital.

Registration may be accomplished at the office of the school during the day, Manager Frank Spurr being in charge.

A most helpful little work by R. Orlando Morgan, professor of harmony, composition and pianoforte, at the Guildhall School of Music, London, "The Rules of Harmony," is offered in the catalogue of Percy Ashdown, publisher, and dealer in music, 218 Tremont street.

The rules are tersely given and clearly expressed, and the edition being of pocket size, is easy to carry. This on the "Inversion of Triads," shows something of its style. The price of the book is fifty cents net.

INVERSIONS OF TRIADS

$\frac{6}{4}$

Rules for approaching a $\frac{6}{4}$:

49. A $\frac{6}{4}$ chord may be approached by:

Leap (a) from the root position only of another chord; or (b) from another position of the same chord.

Step from a root position or inversion of another chord.

$\frac{6}{4}$

Rules for following a $\frac{6}{4}$ chord:

It may also be approached from another chord on the same bass note.

$\frac{6}{4}$

50. A $\frac{6}{4}$ chord may be quitted by:

(a) Step of a second upwards or downwards.
(b) Another chord on the same bass note (§ 51.)
(c) Another position of the same chord.

51. The second inversions of the Tonic and Subdominant chords are the only ones which may be followed by another chord on the same bass note.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

♯ ♯ ♯

LIEDERHEIM SCHOOL OF VOCAL MUSIC

Among the notable examples of American success in Music is that of the Liederheim School of Vocal Music, Auburndale, Mass., and of its founder and principal, Mrs. May Sleeper Ruggles, a Wellesley College woman, author of the "Wellesley Cheer," and recognized as one of Boston's leading contralto singers and teachers of voice.

Liederheim is the home of Mrs. Ruggles at Liederheim Heights, Auburndale, a beautiful suburb of Boston, some ten miles out on the Boston and Albany railway.

The name "Liederheim" means "Home of Song," a new word and a more expressive felicitous name for this veritable "Home of Song" would be hard to find. One of our prominent Boston educators and writers said of it, "the name alone is enough to insure the success of the school."

Liederheim is the culmination of Mrs. Ruggles' years of successful singing and teaching and of her accurate knowledge of what is needful and best for a young woman on leaving home to take up the study of voice and its affiliated branches. Mrs Ruggles' musical equipment and her genius for teaching, guiding and inspiring young women have brought to Liederheim elements of unusual strength, attractive alike to parents and students.

It is the element of "home life" that so strongly attracts the parents to Liederheim. The fact that their daughter is taken into the home circle of the principal and surrounded with the safeguards and good cheer of home life appeals irresistibly to father and mother, while each girl feels that the "mother-teacher" has a personal interest in her happiness, progress and well being.

A glimpse into the school life shows us

Valparaiso Music College
Department of
Valparaiso University
Second Largest University in the United States
VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks. This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President
OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER
SOLO VIOLINIST
Welsh International Festival
MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE
SOPRANO
Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils
5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN
PIANIST
8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE
CONTRALTO
Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL
TEACHER OF SINGING
STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON
BASSO-CANTANTE
Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency
416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496
Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475

Mrs. Edward B. Summers
VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION
METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE
Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL
The Art of Singing
81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday
Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD LOEBER
VIOLINIST
TEACHER
RECITALS
Musicales
3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA WAIT
Contralto
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

DESTINY A Striking New Song By Jane Ogden Hunter
For Sale by all Music Dealers, or address
The Publisher, K. F. HUNTER. 2722 N. Sacramento Av.

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

Hazel Dell Neff
SOPRANO
PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN
PIANIST TEACHER
NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and
4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.
COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing
Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin
Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LESTER S. BUTLER
Voice, Harmony, Counterpoint
SPECIAL WRITER: CRITIC
Editors and others wishing articles on musical topics, gladly served.
Boston, Mass. Steinert Hall
Worcester, Mass. Day Building

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
441 Sidney Av., CHICAGO Phone Drexel 7910

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - Baritone NEWMAN
Joint Recitals Oratorio
237 North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

MARY CROFUT GIBBS
Mezzo-Contralto
Oratorio Concert Recital
404 Kimball Hall

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston, Ill.

that besides the individual instruction, the daily study and supervision there are many varied and interesting "Liederheim Events," the "At Homes" and "Musicales," which serve to turn educational practice into wholesome good times for students and friends.

Thus it is that young women of earnest purpose come to Liederheim to live and study voice under the Liederheim method and the personal training of Mrs. Ruggles.

Liederheim fits her girls for practical singing and teaching; equips with scholarship and self-sustaining profession. Instrumental and academic branches are arranged for as desired and under the best teachers.

Here is another feature peculiar to Liederheim that deserves strong emphasis: To the "non-college" girl, the girl who for any reason is not to go to college, Liederheim offers a rare opportunity to complete her education and obtain a profession that has an available money value. This means much to the girl who seeks to prepare herself for emergency or to make her own way in the world and do something worth while.

While pointing out Liederheim's unique plan for the education of singers, its home life, resultant methods and ideal conditions it must not be overlooked that it has a wonderfully picturesque location on Liederheim Heights overlooking the famous, canoe-dotted Charles River, with its meadows and wooded banks stretching out to meet the verdant hillsides beyond. Here visitors come daily to the "look-off" to wonder and exclaim over the marvelous beauty of the landscape.

What wonder is it that Liederheim has won the endorsement and approval of musicians, parents and students? Fathers and mothers have found that at Liederheim their daughters will be safe, happy and thoroughly educated. Employers of musical talent seek her graduates and students because they have found that the Liederheim girls are thoroughly qualified and prepared for responsible positions. Liederheim is spoken of as a school that is presided over and inspired by a wonderful personality that brings out the utmost and best of talent, character and ambition that is in a girl; one who understands girls and the musical nature, and in whom they have mother, comrade and teacher entering with enthusiasm into all that concerns and interests them. These things hint of the secret of Liederheim's popularity and success.

EDITORIAL

(Continued from page 2)

has been seriously offered in the greater places and on the finest programs. If some of the young Americans were engaged and given absolutely proper presentment the public would very soon learn to ask for "more" of the same kind of entertainment.

And, most important of all, the factors concerned in the argument—the musical clubs of the country—should cease exploiting the foreigner as far above the American. It has happened hundreds of times the past few years that large and influential clubs in the smaller cities have paid almost their entire appropriation for the year to one foreigner and have had to offer mere pittances to the people who provided the other half-dozen or so entertainments. Ridiculous as is the fact, it is yet true that in many cases a foreign opera singer has been paid a sum approximating $500 for a recital before one of these clubs where young American artists have been asked to appear at $10 to $25. This is not fiction. It is disgraceful fact.

We do not in the least wish to depreciate the value of the foreign artist merely because he is such. As a matter of fact, America owes an immense debt to the great artists of the world, and we still want them all to come to us and we will always be glad to learn wherein they excel and to take to heart such lessons as they can teach us. But they should be paid only what we can afford to pay them, and that sum in every case should be just what we pay our own best artists. We should place America first and should be ashamed to continue to pay the foreigner more than the American simply because he is foreign.

———♯♯♯———

BERNHARD ZIEHN
(Contributed Editorial)

If we are to celebrate anniversaries let us not forget that a year ago the greatest living theorist died in our midst (September 8, 1912). The genius of the great man was fully appreciated by his friend and admirer of many years, Theodore Thomas, who once remarked: "I have met one man from whom I can always learn—Bernhard Ziehn." And as unqualified praise has been given this great master by such men as Hans von Bulow, Otto Lessmann, Robert Franz, Prof. Dr. Heinrich Reimann, Eugen d'Albert, Ferruccio Busoni, Frederick Stock and scores of others, we need hardly draw the attention of our composers and musicians to this great man, who made Chicago his home since 1886. But what we must all know, is that his published works, Manual of Harmony, Five and Six-Part Harmonies, and Canonical Studies, are now published in this country, from which to draw knowledge, and thus place ourselves, should we have talent, on an equal footing with other countries. So many German periodicals have done honor to the memory of Mr. Ziehn, that we certainly dare not be behind in expressing our appreciation of him nor our regrets over our loss.

A devoted pupil and friend, E. E. F.

———♯♯♯———

VACATIONS

Now that the serious work of a year is about to be taken up and absentees of the past three months are returning, it is a good time to ask whether or not the vacation idea has not been overdone the past few years.

That relaxation and change are necessary are so self-evident facts as to require no attention at all, but when the vacation period is so extended and so frequent as in many cases, is it really to be considered "relaxation" and "change," or is it not rather a concession to that spirit of the day which demands a "good time" in spite of every other consideration?

Chicago is a very good town, indeed, in which to teach throughout the summer. Conditions approximate pretty closely those in many "resorts" which are chosen as idling places. But many studios in Chicago are closed for far too many weeks out of each year.

Of course, an established school or studio which makes a lot of money in a limited "season" can "close" without disaster, as far as the work of the leading teachers is concerned, but even in these cases the "promotive" work for the next year has to be taken care of by assistants. But a private studio, closed throughout the summer, is a dead loss. The rent goes on; pupils often come up in the elevator and, finding a locked door, go elsewhere. Much promotive work done the previous year is lost.

And in the case of students. Has it not become far too general a thing that all effort to advance is suspended during the entire summer? And, while this may be justified by the thought that one "will work all the better" after a vacation, and also that other threadbare thought that a "rest" is actually needed, yet the truth remains that the really great artists of today will tell you one and all that during their formative periods they worked almost incessantly for twelve months out of every year, and the chances are very good indeed that you, with three or four months missing from each year, will never be their successors.

Of course if every teacher kept open his studio continuously, and if every student worked unremittingly, it would soon be the case that there would be an overproduction. But this will not be done in this "take-it-easy" age and you, if you realize the weakness of the majority and take advantage of it, may be the very one who will be thoroughly established long before the crowd arrives.

It is worth considering.

MR. AND MRS. KARL BUREN STEIN

Some comment on recent Iowa concerts:

Friday evening at the Presbyterian Church a large audience greeted Mr. and Mrs. Stein in a musical dramatic recital and were privileged to listen to one of the best things of the kind held in Clarinda in many a day, bar none. Mr. Stein has a powerful, yet rich and sweet tenor voice and his selections were rendered in an artistic and pleasing manner, every number calling forth a hearty encore. Mrs. Stein gave a number of readings, varied in character, furnishing a part of the program as enjoyable as that of her husband and received an equal share of the generous applause. No wonder the institute was so successful with a faculty composed of such artists. —Clarinda Herald.

The final number of the institute occurred at the Baptist Church last evening in a recital given by Professor and Mrs. Stein of Chicago. Mr. Stein is a vocalist of much merit and his wife is an exceptionally talented reader. They gave a varied program which was a fine exhibition of real art in the realm of music and interpretation. Mr. Stein has a way of prefacing his numbers by a short explanation of their setting which enhances their value. An aria from "Martha," and "On the Road to Mandalay," gave an exhibition of the singer's versatility, but his voice is especially sweet and sympathetic in such selections as "Turn Ye to Me," "My Love Is Like a Red, Red Rose," and "Memories." Mrs. Stein has an especially fine voice and charming presence, and her work was a blending of all the arts of good wholesome reading. It would be difficult to tell which kind she does best, as both comedy and tragedy were exceedingly well given.—Mason City Globe-Gazetter. (Advertisement.)

———###———

Thompson.—Mr. Cave Thompson, who has been spending the summer at his cottage at Bass Lake, Mich., reopened his Kimball Hall studio this week.

PIANO TEACHER WANTED—A leading music school can give a capable teacher one to three afternoons per week; must play well; age 20 to 30. Address "College," care Music News.

LARGE STUDIO FOR RENT—Some morning and afternoon time; 516 Kimball Hall.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 56 Rue de Seine
EVERINGHAM Hazel (Tel. North 3765) 1251 N. State St.
FORD Susie B. (Phone Seeley 1268) 760 S. Leavitt St.
GALLUP Helen (Phone Austin 11713) Chicago Piano College
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mahel (Phone Austin 5171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4788) 620 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.

DRAMATIC ART

PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 3751)
EMANUEL N. B. (auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO Charles E. Watt, Mgr Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boislevant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir.), 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
CULBERTSON Harry 605 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av.
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 803 Cable Bldg.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3835 Flournoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 5881)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., Central Park Pres. Church 267 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4340)
CARL Wm. C. 34 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 544 Woodland Park (6th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5756) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps (Phone Midway 930) 6217 Monroe Av.
DEAL Alice R. 716 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6210) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 624 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 64th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6507) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo, Milwaukee, Wis. 179 Pleasant St.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2855) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (51 Schiller St.) Pianist, Organist, Accompanist
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (646 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra, Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6614 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4457 North Winchester Av.

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North shore School of Music
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BARTHOLOMEW H. B. 502 Kimball Hall
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 36 S. Maple Street
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Milwaukee, Wis.) 568 Jefferson St.
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 6055) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenn
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 338 N. Ashland Avenue
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 54 Auditorinn (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Enrope
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3856 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Pianist—Teacher) 4009 Drexel Boulevard
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.

DESMOND Grace (Accompanist) 4430 Vincennes Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.
DOELLING Mae (Concert Pianist 4141 N. Hermitage Av.
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 623 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio
ERST Stephen Adolph 1653 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H. Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn
FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season. 2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Studio, 1527 High St.
FOERSTER Anton 1024 Lawrence Ave.
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Aldine 2917) 646 Woodland Park
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236) Organist, 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur Columbia School of Music
GODFREY Eleanor F. Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music Northwestern University School of Music
HEAPHY Alice Christine (Boston, Mass.) Worcester, Mass.—Day Building
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7046) 426 Fine Arts Building
HERSHENOW Dora (South Bend, Ind.) South Bend Conservatory
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agatbe (Pupils, Recitals) 3350 North Halsted St.
LERNER Tina (New York Loudon Charlton, Manager
LEVY Henlot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence American Conservatory
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Louis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich.
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (University School of Music
OLIVER Mary Lindsay Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 415 W. 51st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 367 W. 63rd St.
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288) 1921 Wolfram St.
PETERSON Edna Gunnar 519 Fine Arts Bldg
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope 707 Fine Arts Bldg.
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
RANN Editb V. (Phone Harrison 3766 620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res, 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Garfield 2629
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta Superior, Wis.
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow 4716 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 6715) 5826 Woodlawn Av.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Scbuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V. (512 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs Peoria, Ill.
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 274-J Berwyn) 616 Kimball Hall
von MICKWITZ Harold Bush Temple Conservatory
WALLACE Evangeline 622 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H. Chicago Piano Colle
WILFORD J. E. 502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str. 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L. 1616 Maller's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Col'o (2226 Williams St.
ZEISLER Fannie Bloomfield 6749 Woodlawn Ave

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son 820 Fine Arts Bldg.
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver Boston, Mass
DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8196) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House 628 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro., New York 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co. 67 E. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. 6119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co. 522 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G. Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 64 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co. A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. 236 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2161) 639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOLLINGER CONS. (I. Edwin Sebnelder, Prop.) Fort Smith, Ark.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music 69 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 609 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music 61 Auditorium Bldg
DERDIGER (Spicker) E. J., Vocal and Piano 500 Kimball Hall
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianoforte School Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2831 Washington Boulevard
ILLINOIS College of Music and Dramatic Art 1225 N Ashland Ave.
KROEGER School of Music (St. Lou's) Musical Art Building
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music) 629 Fine Arts Bldg.
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir.) 309 Kimball Hall.
Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music Evanston, Ill.
OAK PARK CONS. Music and Dramatic Art Warrington Bldg.
OSTROVSKY Institute, Hand Development 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art 66 Auditorium Bldg.
TOLEDO Musical College Toledo, Ohio
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance 42 W 76th St., New York,
VILIM American Violin School. 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1516 Mallers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art. 29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 69th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

ALBERT Teachers Agency 633 S. Wabash Av.
BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency
ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kennetb M. Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S. Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C. Evanston, Ill.

THEORY

ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 716 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A. (North Shore School of Music) 4666 Evanston Av. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Lonis (Phone North 815) Studio, 226 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Ludwig Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Douglas 9194 Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg.
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Ravenswood 141) 1962 Leland Avenue
CLEOPHAS Cornelia Studying Abroad
COHEN Sol (Cincinnati Orchestra) 628 Lincoln Ave, (Avondale) Cincinnati
DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Avs.) North Shore School of Music
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall
DEVORE Jessie (Phone 8671 Drexel) 4634 Lake Av.
DRAKE Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.
EVANS Clarence B. (San Francisco 1549 Octavia St.
FISCHEL Max I. 610 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst) 106 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 426 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4365) 4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Maurice H. Chicago Musical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KITCHIN Joseph 5416 Jackson Av.
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6617) 3533 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago Branch, Kankakee, Illinois
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nussbaum School of Music) 4654 Grand Boul.
PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York,
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 530 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 652-R Blue Island) Vilim, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston) 1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music
STEINDEL Albin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1325 Birchwood Av.
TOWNSEND Winifred 411 Kimball Hall.
VAN AIKEN Hal G. Soloist and Principal, Violin Dept., So. Bend (Ind.) Conservatory
WALKER Sadie (Phone Belmont 4534) Cosmopolitan School of Music
WOODARD Guy Bush Temple
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis) 22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALDA Frances (Shipman) 3836 Flourney St.
ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinsbaw Conservatory 606 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.) 54 Auditorium Bldg.
BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 419 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.
BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1006) 303 Kimball Hall
BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.) Northwestern University School of Music

BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist) 6119 Greenwood Ave.
BISPHAM David 44 W. 44th St., New York
BLAAHA Wayne Anton (Phone Douglas 9194) Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg.
BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg. Drake School of Music
BOGERT Walter L. (Baritone) Pres. N.Y.S.M.T.A. Aeolian Hall, New York City
BOLLMAN Maude Fenlon Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.
BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York) Care Haensel and Jones
BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 5819) Kimball Hall
BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8620) 4822 Madison Ave.
BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium) Cosmopolitan School of Music
BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor) 1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.
BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2269 Northwestern Uni. School of Music
BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3886) (Harry Culbertson, Manager)
BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio) Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
BRUEGGER Frederick 720 Fine Arts Bldg.
BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth) 7022 Vernon Av.
BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041) 727 Fine Arts Bldg.
BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.) Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau
BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183) 520 Fine Arts Building
Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass. 413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.
BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 5486) 612 Fine Arts Building
CASE Harriet Auditorium Bldg.
CHEATHAM Kitty (New York) 274 Madison Avenue
CHENEY Mary (New York) 600 Carnegie Hall
CHILSON-OHRMAN Luella, (Soprano) 4603 Sheridan Road
CLARK Charles W. (Paris) 12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.
CLARKE Edw. 613 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831) Residence Phone, Douglas 3722)
CLARK Lizzie Ahhott Res. 6498 Cornell Av. (Phone Hyde Park 6971)
CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1162 Sherwood Music School
CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearhorn St., (Baritone) Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus, 1908-9-10 11
CLIPPINGER D. A. 410 Kimball Hall
CONANT Alice Widney (Soprano) University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.
CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher) 721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495
COOK Dwight Edrus (Tel. Oak Park 2091) 120 N. Oak Park Ave., Oak Park, Ill.
COOK John Loring (Tenor) 300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 6166)
CORLEW Mabel (Contralto) 4202 Prairie Ave. (Phone Harrison 973)
COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France) 6 rue Edmond About
CRAMER Alice Ione 901 Lafayette Parkway
CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor) 2961 Prairie Avenue (Phone Aldine 1896)
CUTLER Ethel Conneiy (Phone Wentworth 4304) 427 Fine Arts Bldg.
DAHLSTROM Margaret 3242 Clifton Ave.
DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique 30 Rue Marbeuf, Champs Elysses, Par
DE RIGAUD (Mme.) New York Vocal Art Studios 2747 Broadway (Phone 1162 River)
DE SALES Regina (Paris, France) 40 rue de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)
DeYOUNG Richard B. American Conservatory
DEVRIES Herman 618-628 Fine Arts Building
DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478) 816 S. Harvey Avenue. Oak Park, Ill.
DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310 710 South Central Park Avenue
FARNUM Mrs. Frank 3359 Warren Ave.
FARRELL Joseph (Kansas City) 301 Studio Building.
FICHTNER Ludwig Carl (Basso-Cantante) 149 Tremont St., Boston
FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Longwood 408) 9648 Howard Court
FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg 6906 Ontario St. (Contralto)
FRIDENBERG Abbie L. (New York) Studio 110 Carnegie Hall
FRISBIE Constance (Soprano) 5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)
GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782) 318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.
GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886) 3435 Flourney St.
GARTON Samuel B. (Home Phone Ravenswood 6392) 323 South Wabash Av.
GANNON Rose Lutiger 716 Kimball Hall
GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone) 413 Kimball Hall
GIBBS Mary Crofut (Res. Phone—Longwood 1633) 404 Kimball Hall
GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone) 1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.
GINGRICH Irving (Dir. Wawasee Summer School of Music.) Ins. South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory
GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend. Ind. Conservatory) Chicago Address, 622 Kimball Hall
GERHARDT Elena (Wolfsohn) 1 W. 34. New York.
GROW Ethel (Phone North 2686) 1002 Dearborn Av.
GERVILLE-REACHE Jeanne, (Haensel & Jones) 29 W. 42nd, New York
GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art) 623 Fine Arts Bldg
HADLEY Grant (Tenor) Suite 73 Auditorium Building
HAGGERTY-SNELL Ida (Phone Morningside 3810) 2881 Broadway, N. Y. City

HAIGHT Irma (Detroit, Mich.) 956 Third Aveuue
HALL William John (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Concert, oratorio and opera) care of Music News
HART Belle 509 Kimball Hall
HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 8497) 423 Fine Arts Bldg.
HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher) 72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.
HAMILTON Jessie Mack, (Phone Ravenswood 326) 714 Kimball
HARRIS Milon R. 403 Kimball Hall
HARTLEY Sybil Owen, (Atlanta) 999 Piedmont Av.
HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.) Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)
HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Building
HERDIEN Mabel Sharp 6132 Kenmore Ave.
HEUCHLING Mathilde 712 Fine Arts Building
HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923) Chicago Musical College
HINKLE Florence (Soprano) 294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)
HINSHAW William Wade (New York) Metropolitan Opera Company
HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003) 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson) 304 Kimball Hall
HOLT GeorgeNelson 509 S. Wabash Ave.
HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano) 3800 Broadway, New York
HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 10511) 6836 Washington Blvd.
HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544) Auditorium Bldg.
Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland) Tudor Mansions, 3616 Pine Grove Av.
HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante) South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.
HUNTER Jane Ogden (Phone Belmont 6530) 2722 N. Sacramento Av.
HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880 608 Fine Arts Building
HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund Alliance, Ohio
HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267) 601 Kimball Hall
IKERT Charlotte (Contralto) Management Harry Culbertson
JACOBS M. Beryl (Phone Harrison 2513) 616 Kimball Hall
JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 5104) 4937 Michigan Ave.
KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8619) 4433 Racine Avenue
KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Edgewater 868) North Shore School of Music, 4666 Evanston Av.
KIMBALL Roscoe (Baritone Management Harry Culbertson
KIMBELL Grant (Tenor) 5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831
KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
LA BERGE Charles (Baritone) American Conservatory
LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 6774) 1376 East 54th Street
LASH De Witt Durgin (Phone Harrison 5365) 420 Fine Arts Bldg
LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6880) 6460 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1
LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4336) 4460 Berkeley Av.
LINDQUEST Albert (Phone West Pullman 366) 237 E. 113 Street
LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto) 1311 E. 63rd St.
LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola 3814 Ellis Avenue
LUND Rene S. (Baritone) 2463 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 6802)
LUND Mme Edia Scandinavian Song Program
LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone, Evanston 2561) 1867 Sherman Ave., Evanston, Ill.
LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder) Drake School of Music
MacBURNEY Thomas 609 Fine Arts Building
MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060) 3422 Fulton Street
McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439) 3620 Parnell Av.
MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France) 27 rue Boisievant
MARCUSSON Grace Brune (Phone West 681) 2459 Jackson Boul.
MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402) 6256 Berteau Av.
MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.) 209 Wesley Av.
MILLER Nevada Van der Veer (New York) 749 West End Av.
MILLER Christine 1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.
MILLER Herbert 808 Fine Arts Bldg
MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn) 1, W. 34th St., New York
MILLER John B. (Tenor) Chicago Musical College
MOSHER L. Drew 137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.
MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone) 1155 Belmon Ave
MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles) 446 W. 40th Place
MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.
MULREY Mabel V.—Soprano—Pianist 47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.
MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4577 300 Athenaeum Bldg.
MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Pittsburgh) 2 Fairfield Lane
MURRISON Harry R. Alliance, Ohio.
NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122) 1215 E. 53rd Street
NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano Plymouth, Ind.
NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Anstin 11199) 237 North Howard Av., Austin.
NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York) 330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)
NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5509) 4125 Drexel Blvd.
OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute) 303 Kimball Hall
OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147) 2112 Washington Blvd.

PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London, England) Care L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent St.
PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto) Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.
PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.) Toledo Musical College
PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3246) 4173 Lake Av.
POTTER Mildred (Contralto) Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St., N
PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.) Winona School of Music
PROTHEROE Daniel 810 Fine Arts Bldg.
RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bluilding
RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 6782) 1738 Humboldt Boulevard
RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor) Barre Plains, Mass.
RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 251 413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av.
REED Esta Asher (Soprano) Abroad for a season
REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165) 5627 Indiana Av.
REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg) 202 Nixon Building
RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.
ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877) 7206 Stewart Ave.
RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto) Principal Liederheim, Auburndale, Mass.
RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 5265) 719 Fine Arts Bldg.
RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448) 3100 Lexington St.
SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing 999 Walnut St., Newton Highlands, Mass.
SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano) 401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.
SCHUSTER Katherine 71 Auditorium Bldg.
SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York) Wolfsohn Bureau
SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 459) 408 Kimball Hall.
SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner) St. James Bldg., New York
SEVERINGHAUS Edna Reiffert (Soprano) 63 Auditorium Bldg.
SHELP Dr. H. Wm. 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor) 516 Kimball Hall
SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano) 4044 Indiana Av.
SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano) 6523 St. Lawrence Av.
SMIDT Mabie Cerlew (Phone Austin 12717) 5943 Ontario St.
SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173) 825 Madison St., Gary, Ind.
SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano) Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio
STEELE Mary Hinman 503 Kimball Hall
STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh) Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.
STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 46) 4439 Calumet Av.
STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 66 Auditorium Building
STEPHALI Sofia (Phone Midway 6912) 6106 Kimbark Av.
STEVENSON Lucille 4438 Berkeley Avenue
STROMFELD Raoul (Berlin, Germany) Stubbenstrasse 9
STULTS Walter A. (Evanston) Northwestern University School of Music
TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L. Lewis Institute, Phone West 793
THATCHER Burton (Res. Phone Drexel 4861) Chicago Musical College
THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano) Zion White Robed Choir. Zion City, Ill.
THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2068) 620 Fine Arts Building
TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3765 Bush Temple Conservatory
TORRENS Mr. and Mrs. L. A. (Ninth Floor) Auditorium Bldg., Wabash Av.
TOWNS Kirk Chicago Musical College
TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor) 813 La Salle Av.
TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949) 404 Kimball Hall
VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Hyde Park 4473) 1370 E. 61st Street
WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2360) 428 Fine Arts Building
WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2868) 1325 E. 64th St.
WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Oak Park 4397) 206 S. Lombard Av., Oak Park.
WATSON Ruth Swing 1225 E. 52nd St.
WEAVER Iva Bigelow Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.
WEBSTER Frank B. Bush Temple Conservatory
WEGENER Mme. Justine Bush Temple Conservatory
WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone) 61 Auditorium Bldg.
WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 5946) Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal
WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 1 E 34th St., New York
WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 1697 728 Fine Arts Bldg.
WILCOX John C. (Teacher) Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo.
WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio) 516 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS Dr. Carver (Samuel B. Garton) Auditorium Bldg
WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey 406 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS H. Evan Akron, Ohio
WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway 8167 Woodlawn Av.
WYNN Bessie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall
WYCOFF Eva Emmet 500 W. 143rd, New York
YOUNG Walter S. (801 Carnegie Hall, New York) Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair, N. J.
ZENDT Marie Sidenius (Wilmette, Ill.) 719 Park Av. (Phone 849-R Wilmette
ZIMMERMAN Collata 72 Auditorium Bld

Facts You Should Know

Before you make your choice is the time to find out all there is to be learned about the instrument that is to furnish the music for your home or studio for years to come.

Find out for yourself not only how pianos are built but how they are sold.

Learn the facts regarding the STARR piano—how it is made in one of the largest and best equipped factories in the world and how coupled with every known factory facility, that counts for efficiency and economy, there is employed the greatest creative ability and the most competent workmanship.

Everything that has been learned in a half century of piano building is utilized in the building of the STARR piano of today to make it as perfect a piano as human ingenuity can devise.

The STARR LINE of PLAYER PIANOS and PIANOS is sold absolutely at ONE PRICE—this means that every purchaser pays the lowest price for which the instrument he buys can be sold.

Investigate before you buy. Call or write for information regarding prices, terms, etc.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Subscribe for

Music News

Music News of this issue will reach many people who are not subscribers—many of them in fact will see it for the first time. To such we offer the explanation that we are making a special

Promotive Campaign

and are sending sample copy ONCE to very many people who do not often read music papers. We invite all such to become

Subscribers

The cost of the paper is only two dollars a year—which is only four cents a week, and for that sum we will bring to your home

Every Week in the Year

full and adequate announcement and review of the concert and opera situation of the country.

A Premium of One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music given to each new subscriber and each renewal

Send Your Subscription Today
Before You Forget It

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko.

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic
(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport, Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TWO DOLLARS A YEAR
TEN CENTS A COPY

Music News

Vol. 5 CHICAGO, SEPTEMBER 12, 1913 No. 37

THEODORE S. BERGEY

CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL - FINE ARTS BUILDING

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Chicago, September 12, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

United States, per year, postpaid.....$2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's, Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are chargel to their accounts.

Frances Bowser, Business Representative

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs. Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
Jniversity of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
)n sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block

TOLEDO, OHIO
Frank E. Percival
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Robert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20
Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

Editorial

SLANG

Some slang is very expressive—in fact, the success of such a "Column" as the "Line O'Type" in The Tribune is based almost absolutely on the clever use of slang.

But—there are places and times where slang should be absolutely taboo. Serious conversation should ever be free from it, and to say that its use should be prohibited in a real magazine or a genuinely sincere publication of any sort should be so self apparent as to need no reinforcement.

It is an amazing fact, however, that so prevalent has the use of slang become that nine-tenths of the people who contribute to any magazine whatsoever interlard their copy with more or less grotesque perversion of the language—slang, more or less offensive.

All this being true, it might certainly be expected that schools—especially high schools, would set an example to the public of what true dignity of language should be.

Many instructors, however, have fallen into the general error—a case in point being one of the teachers at the John Marshall High School, Chicago, who continually interjects into his remarks before his classes the classic phrase, "I should worry."

A fine example this!

THE PARK CONCERTS

The concerts given at Grant Park during the summer by the Chicago City Band under direction of Mr. Weil have certainly proven that the great out-door populace of down-town Chicago appreciates an opportunity to hear good music even as it had been shown conclusively during the past winter that these concerts were very much liked at the concert halls in the various parks of the city and suburbs.

At the last concert of the summer series at Grant Park on last Saturday night an immense throng of people occupied the comfortable benches provided and an overflow of thousands was scattered about the park and along Michigan avenue for several blocks listening quietly and appreciatively to a program which contained much that was distinctly worth while.

The band certainly played in a musicianly way and the conducting of Mr. Weil was promotive of some real artistry and finish. The effort to provide good music under such auspices, so well begun this year, should be still further amplified next summer.

FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

(Reprinted by request)

The advertising of free scholarships has become almost an obsolete custom in Chicago.

When a department store advertises something "Free" it is for the purpose of attracting a crowd of people who mayhap will buy other wares—good, bad and indifferent.

The public long since formed the shrewd opinion that when a music school advertises "Free Scholarships" there are other motives back of it than those which are wholly altruistic.

The public, therefore, has learned to laugh at the free scholarship advertisements and the newer schools, the really progressive schools, have come to regard this hilarity of the public as a sign which, very properly, guides them clear of making the ridiculous blunder of advertising free scholarships.

THE NOTE BOOK FAD

(Contributed Editorial)

Many singers of the present day have acquired the habit of carrying a small note book while singing, to which they constantly refer for the words of a song. What is the reason? Are they unprepared? Are they nervous? Are they simply following a fashion?

Preparedness, according to our Editor, is one of the foundation stones of a professional career.

Nervousness vanishes with perfect preparation and experience.

To follow a pernicious fashion is beneath the dignity of a serious artist.

The habit is indeed pernicious. It hinders absolutely the free delivery of the message. The moment a singer comes onto the platform without the sign of unpreparedness he or she sends out confidence to the audience that grips the attention at once; a feeling prevails that that singer knows something, has something in his or her possession to give and it comes free and unhindered, with all the attention of the performer concentrated on the interpretation.

The work done without this reminder stands head and shoulders above other work. The note book should disappear.

M.

THE VERDI CENTENARY

The Verdi correspondence will be the most important product of the Verdi centenary. For sixty years (1840-1900) Verdi habitually made sketches of the more important letters he wrote. These sketches, bound in five volumes, have been in care of his niece, Mme. Carrara, since his death. She has also placed at the disposal of the publishers thousands of letters, telegrams and cards sent to Verdi, including many by famous contemporaries.

Among the treasures hoarded by Mme. Carrara is a "King Lear" libretto. During the last years of Verdi's life there were occasional rumors that he was writing a "Lear" opera; but in truth he never got beyond the libretto, which he arranged himself. The oldest among the Verdi manuscripts is a "History of the Popes."

Verdi's "Requiem Mass" and three of his operas will be heard at Milan the coming season, the operas being "Falstaff" (with Scotti), the juvenile "Nebuco," and his first great success, "Ernani."

—Chicago Evening Post.

Music News

Music in Chicago

"THE WHIP" AT THE AUDITORIUM

"The Whip," advertised as "the one hundred thousand dollar melodrama," with phenomenal records at London, Australia, and in New York, makes a brave showing at The Auditorium and nightly delights thousands of people who love the thrill of the train collision and the horse race and are also mightily diverted by the well-knit story which threads together the wonderful succession of scenes.

The actors, without being great in any particular case are yet well chosen for their parts, their work being unintelligible in some cases however, through their very indistinct enunciation, but the massing of people and scenery, the exactitude and delight of the mechanical contrivances, the careful dressing and above all the super-expert stage management constitute an ensemble which is at once beautiful and intensely exciting. It is no wonder that the crowds dote on this play and it would be easy, probably, to duplicate the long runs of New York and London,

It might be suggested to Mr. Brady, however, that since he has been so profligate in his expenditure in every other department it would have been wise to have been a little more generous in his provision for music. The orchestra as now constituted is not effective in The Auditorium and the quality of the entre act music is far from high.

APOLLO CLUB CONCERTS

The following information on the works to be sung this season is taken from the advance sheets of the Apollo Club (Chicago) program.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Creation—Haydn

"The Creation," which represents the highest point of Haydn's genius, was first presented in the year 1799, and since that time has ranked with "The Messiah" and the "Elijah" as the most popular of oratorios. Its interest is due to its picturesqueness and its melody. The representations of chaos, night, the spirit of God moving upon the face of the waters, the burst of radiance in the phrase "Let there be light," the rage of the demons, the storm, the boisterous rolling of the waters, the verdure of the hills, the animals with their varied characteristics vividly expressed, finally, the idyllic love of our first parents, present a series of pictures which stand alone among their kind in musical art.

♮ ♮ ♮

Elijah—Mendelssohn

Elijah, written in 1846, is more modern in its methods than either the "Messiah" or the "Creation." It is distinguished among oratorios by its dramatic power. The first part shows us the drought in Israel, the cry for help, the raising of the widow's son, the trial by fire,—a picture never to be forgotten in which Elijah puts to rout the priests of Baal and orders their destruction. This number gives us the description of the great storm.

The second part presents Elijah rebuking Ahab, and threatened by Jezebel, thence fleeing into the wilderness, sustained there by the angel of the Lord, and at length taken up into heaven in a fiery chariot. It is undoubtedly the most powerful and dramatic of Mendelssohn's works.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Messiah—Handel

"The Messiah" needs no comment or description. It was the first of our great oratorios in point of time, and is still first in harmony, freshness and devotional spirit. Composed in 1741 and first presented in the following year, it has ever since maintained its hold upon the hearts of all lovers of music, the world over.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Music Makers—Elgar

"The Music Makers" is a marvelous interpretation of poetic moods. An ode by Arthur O'Shaughnessy, describing the place and influence of the musician, is translated by Elgar into musical phraseology, with more of melody than is found in much of his work, and with a breadth and majesty of diction which show real inspiration. The leading theme is taken up by the chorus with sustained breadth, in the words, "We are the music makers, and we are the dreamers of dreams." At this point the music fades away into silence, beginning again with the finely descriptive phrase, "Wandering by lone sea breakers, and sitting by desolate streams;" and rising into a burst of majestic grandeur in the words "Yet we are the movers and shakers of the world."

The power and the pathos of the musician's life are described in several series of interpretative musical phrases, one of the most effective of which is, "One man with a dream at pleasure Shall go forth and conquer a crown, And three with a new song's measure Can trample a Kingdom down," the movement of the last phrase accelerating toward a majestic climax in which the drums of the orchestra lend their aid to the tone picture of the conquest.

The contralto takes up the theme in the solo, "They had no vision amazing," accompanied by the chorus, now in stately declamatory passages, now in melting and melodious harmony, and again in a passionate frenzy of inspiration. A most touching and haunting phrase is "O men, it must ever be that we dwell, in our dreaming and singing a little apart." Such phrases as "Out of the Infinite Morning," "The Comers from the Dazzling Unknown Shore," and the exquisitely pathetic "A Singer Who Sings No More," indicate the variety and breadth of this wonderfully poetic and emotional work. This is its first presentation in Chicago and the west.

♮ ♮ ♮

Stabat Mater—Dvorak

This brilliant work of the great Bohemian composer consists of ten numbers: First, the "Stabat Mater Dolorosa" of the old Latin hymn, arranged for quartet and chorus; second, the elaborate and finely developing quartet, "Quis est homo," with its powerful climax, fading away in the coda to a whisper; third, the "Eia mater," with its tender chorales; fourth, the "Fac ut ardeat," for solo bass and chorus of women, reaching a climax in the full chorus "Sancta Mater;" then the smoothly flowing number "Tui nati;" the tenor solo and male chorus, "Fac me vere," stately in its opening phrases and growing in elaborateness as it proceeds; followed by the beautiful and impressive "Virgo," for full chorus, the responsive duet for soprano and tenor, "Fac ut portem," the masterly "Inflammatus," for soprano solo, with its contrasts of majesty and pathos, and finally the quartet and chorus, "Quando Corpus" which bring together the themes outlined in the first number and close with an "Amen" of marvelous power and dignity.

The Stabat Mater was composed in 1875. Strangely enough, the composer was unable to obtain a hearing for it until its beauties were recognized by Brahms and Joachim and it was brought out in London in 1883 amid the greatest enthusiasm.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mass in B Minor—Bach

The mass in B Minor is the greatest of Bach's works. Only the St. Matthew Passion approaches it in majesty and in technical skill. It stands alone among all the Latin masses, vast, sonorous, and sublime.

REFLECTIONS FOR PIANOFORTE STUDENTS

By SIDNEY SILBER

Do not treat compositions which you essay as passing acquaintances. Treat them at least, like friends. If you treat them LOVINGLY, all the better.

The incorrect and inartistic use of pedals—which is perhaps the most common of pianistic defects—covers a multitude of keyboard sins.

Iconoclasm is the basic law of all progress.

A great teacher must be able to do three things surpassingly well, viz.: (1) He must be able to discover defects and suggest proper remedies to overcome them. (2) He must be able to demonstrate to the pupil how his (or her) playing sounds. (3) He must be able to demonstrate to his pupils how compositions (or passages) should sound. In other words, he must not only be able to criticize but he must demonstrate. Last—but by no means least—HE MUST INSPIRE.

Differentiation is the basic law of all good teaching.

Naturalness and simplicity are perhaps the most difficult elements of expression—hence the general absence of Mozart on the programs of today.

Pianists given to "brain storms" and subject to exaggerated ego invariably "fizzle out."

If it required ONLY muscle to play the piano effectively, the pugilists would be the best pianists. As a matter of history, the most POWERFUL pianist had just ordinary, and in some instances, frail constitutions.

It is the height of profanation to use Bach's smaller compositions "for technical purposes only."

No human being ever made his fingers equally strong or equally independent by practicing "torture exercises." Don't try.

If all purchasers of pianos were independent-thinking individuals, they would not have to be influenced by the "choice" of great artists.

Success in public piano playing cannot always be reliably measured by box office receipts. Success is only a relative term.

Great ability, plus judicious advertising, invariably create a demand for public piano playing. In every case, however, one must "make good" in order to "come back."

The best way to find out whether you have mastered a composition is to "try it" on some one.

If you have an exaggerated opinion of your pianistic merits, the chances are that very few persons will agree with you.

(To be Continued.)

Opening with the alternating resonant choruses and tender interludes of the "Kyrie," the work passes into the "Gloria," which is the angel song of the Nativity. Then follow a succession of wonderful tone pictures memorable among which are the duet "Domini Deus," with its pizzicato accompaniment of violins and violas, mingled with the weird wailing of the flutes; the pathetic chorus "Qui Tollis," and the triumphant hymn "Cum Sanctu Spiritu" which closes the first part of the Mass.

The second part opens with the majestic "Credo," blending into the representation of God the all powerful, in the "Patrem Omnipotentem," and followed by a series of duets, arias and choruses showing the divine nature and human sacrifice of Christ and the sustaining power of the Holy Spirit.

The wonderful "Sanctus" is nothing less than the soaring of the seraphim. Never elsewhere has music been made to express so much as here; never elsewhere are we so carried into the realm of pure spirit, with all its uplift and its inspiration. The "Agnus Dei" of the contralto adds another touch of lyrical tenderness and leads up to the final chorus "Dona Nobias" which is not only a prayer for peace but a solemn hymn of thanksgiving.

CHICAGO PIANO COLLEGE

Recital by Miss Bessie M. Howland, lecture room, 4th floor, Saturday, September 13, at 2 p. m.:

PROGRAM

Romance ..... Grunfeld
Mazurka, F sharp minor ..... Debussy
Humoreske ..... Poldini
Melodie-Polonaise ..... Liszt
Wilde Jagd ..... MacDowell

BACH-SCHUBERT CONCERT

Harriet Martin Snow, manager, announces the following soloists for the first concert of the season, to be given by the Bach Choral Society in Association Auditorium, 19 South La Salle street, Wednesday evening, November 19. Mabel Sharp-Herdien, soprano; Jennie F. W. Johnson, contralto; Grant Kimbell, tenor, and Luther J. Williams, bass.

Bach's "Bide with Us" and Schubert's "Song of Miriam" will be sung. There will be a boys' choir of thirty voices in addition to the regular chorus of mixed voices and musicians from the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will furnish the accompaniments.

ALBIN STEINDEL

Mr. Albin Steindel, who has appeared as soloist five times this summer with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, at Ravinia Park, has been engaged by Mr. Stock as one of the soloists for the coming season at the regular concerts of the orchestra in Orchestra Hall.

His solos with the orchestra always met with great success. The numbers played were the "Concerto, D Minor," Wieniawski; "Concerto, D Minor," Bruch; "Souvenir de Moscow," Wieniawski; "Concerto B Minor," Saint-Saens; "Nocturne," Chopin.

Mr. Steindel will tour for three weeks through the principal southern and eastern cities, beginning September 23, with the Bruno Steindel Trio, where in addition to the trio numbers he will play a number of solos.

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

CHARLES LaBergé Baritone
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

FRANK B. WEBSTER
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Bush Temple Conservatory
STUDIO—SUITE 719-722 KIMBALL HALL

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Ce lo; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Have you seen the new Musical Journal

Every person interested in Bands or Orchestras should receive

The Army and Navy Musician

Here is a journal that makes its influence felt—one that is valuable to all its readers.

Write for FREE sample copy.

The Army and Navy Musician
ELKHART, IND., U. S. A.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE VIOLIN CEDARGREEN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Edna Reiffert SEVERINGHAUS
Mezzo Soprano - Teacher of Voice
63 Auditorium Building

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

CHARLES W. CLARK

"The World's Greatest Interpreter of Song"

AMERICAN TOUR NOVEMBER, 1913—JUNE, 1914
Direction REDPATH MUSICAL BUREAU, Cable Bldg.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE WITH THE REDPATH MUSICAL BUREAU FOR MR. CLARK TO TEACH IN CHICAGO IN DECEMBER

For Particulars, Address Dr. Frederick Clark, Redpath Musical Bureau - - Cable Building, Chicaga, Illinois

The Elderly Person

"Oho! Mr. Elderly Person! Are you awake?" came the sound of a voice from below, very clearly. It belonged to the Visiting Lady. It reminded the man of his promised willingness to walk in the early morning. There was not much to be hoped for in the way of trophies, for the summer season was far spent, and it was yet early for the fall mysteries. But the haunts were still there, and the places where secrets are kept could be shown to one who was keenly appreciative.

It did not take long to become ready to join the Visiting Lady, and the Elderly Person didn't express too much humiliation at being the call-ee instead of the caller. It gave opportunity to revert to the to-be-expected disorganization of affairs now that suffrage and suffragettes are in the field. The weather had been behaving itself in a way quite unseemly. For September, the sun was piping hot. He had burned and parched and dried things that did not need to be burned and parched and dried. As the walkers went along the paths the weeds fairly panted for moisture, and this was early morning. The night had brought them coolness and calm, but no freshness. There was no dew. The earth had a tired manner, as though it were overworked, or at least was expected to do more than its share. It could not be asked to give out dampness, when its supplies were exhausted. True, it had rained at intervals, but the busy absorbing gravel underneath stole all the reserved stores, for the numberless springs it had to feed and keep going, and there were the big and little roots of the trees, making tremendous demands daily, and insisting that their needs were of first importance. And those same trees had a way of wheedling anyway, for they were always promising more rain, false weather prophets that they were. They had such tall limbs, that they could see what was going on up in the sky, and really should be reliable. They were in a position to give inside information if any one was, but, like many other such forces, the knowledge acquired was used strictly for personal benefit. Thus the dried up earth explained her lax housekeeping at the end of the summer of trying heat.

As the walkers left the camp cottages, they paused for a moment to enjoy the garden of the man who loved his neighbors, and had put all the loveliness under their very eyes and noses, so that they could not fail to see and smell. The asters and salpiglossis and tall phlox were in their very prime. They had been watered freely and laughed and nodded in very lavish fashion. They were the petted and well cared for children of the well-to-do, and knew but little of the thirst of their wild brothers and sisters just over the line. Small wonder that the latter looked envious, and surreptitiously squeezed through the fences where they could do so, and fought for some of the water they wanted. Turning from all this cultivated beauty the walkers climbed the hill road, on one side hedged by a steep incline, heavily wooded on the other by the cool recesses of stretches of forest and undergrowth. The endless procession of wild sunflowers, ageratum, lion's mouth, goldenrod, purple, lavender and white asters lined every inch of roadside. Plants perched themselves in dizzy places and leaned their heads of bloom over recklessly. They crowded to the very edge of the oiled right-of-way, and felt no resentment at not being observed closely. True, many of them had a forced appearance. There was not the riotous lushness of the early fall. Close inspection revealed many imperfect blooms, and immaturity was in evidence again and again. But the Visiting Lady would not hear to this. Where she lived the drouth had been cruel and blighting. The fair harvest promised in spring, had all disappeared. Brassy skies and heated winds had been their portion, and the thermometer had climbed to impossible records. Nights had brought no cooling relief, and the days dragged with hot dreariness. And, too, the Lady said, what the weather had left undone the hand of man had finished. The adorable curves in the country roads, the ravines and canny spots where she had been wont to find treasures, had been raided to make room for automobiles. The trees which hung long branches over the routes, had been either trimmed out of all semblance of their former beautiful selves, and stood abashed and ashamed in their undraped state, or else had come down to earth with a deep groan, when the last stroke of the axe had separated trunk and roots. Of course such things must be, when once those become masters whose idea of beauty is a right angle. The Elderly Person quite sympathized in her losses and her attitude. There need not be such drastic sacrifice of beauty to insure safety for the honk-honkers who insist upon speeding in the country. To accent this spirit of rebellion, the walkers shook the oily dust of the automobile track from their feet, and plunged into the woods at a convenient cleft near by. Here could be shown the place where the pyrolas were found—but there were no leaves to show. The work was completed and the seeds stored for next year's blossoming. Up the rocky bed of the stream, which dashes vehemently when overcharged by the drains from the hills, they picked their way. But there was none of the fresh luscious moss asking to have fingers plunged into its deep reservoirs of coolness. Just dried clinging masses, with promise of better luck next spring. The maidenhair ferns were doing their best. There were many clumps of them, but they were like elderly maiden ladies with mitts and veils, and fans, and they could only give weary greetings, and ask the walkers to call again sometime when they felt better. The bracken and frondy ferns had given up the struggle. They haven't the wiry endurance of the maiden-hair. They were shriveled or else yellowed and exhausted and asked to be excused from any sort of an interview. The blackberry and raspberry bushes were scrawny and leafless, but, tramps that they are, they clutched at the walkers with briers that held tight, and sometimes exacted highwaymen's tributes. The spreading dogbane had measurable freshness yet in its level branches, but despite its brave show, the yellowing process was at work. Solomon's seal, both true and false, were maturing their berries hopefully. The red heads of Jack-in-the pulpit were glistening, but laid very close to the ground and about ready to lose all sap and substance and become spongy seeds.

The dried tufts of bergamot were stiff and uncompromising in their brown maturity. There was much discussion as to why this plant was called by natives "Balm of Gilead," and many bypaths into the lore of mints were followed. When the place where the yellow lady's slipper can be found in its season was reached, a little halt was made, while the Visiting Lady told of her expe-

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

DanielProtheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

BOLLINGER CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
I. EDWIN SCHNEIDER, Proprietor
FORT SMITH, ARK.
FACULTY—I. Edwin Schneider, Florence Mitchell-Schneider, Exene T. Nixon, Hulda A. Deden, Clark W. Young, Mary Boyd Pauline Curtin, Edgar Robinson, Frederick P. Bally. EMIL LIEBLING, Musical Examiner Piano Department

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO 955 Third Av., Detroit, Mich.
Chicago address, care of Music News

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

Effa Ellis KEYBOARD HARMONY
203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
Tel. Douglas 701 OMAHA, NEB

KatherineHowardWard
ORGANIST and ACCOMPANIST Tel. Ravens'd 2152
Teaching Cosmopolitan School of Music

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
ABROAD FOR SEASON

THEODORA
STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

HarrietCase SOPRANO
Management Sam'l B Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., Second Floor

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

H. B. Bartholomew
Teacher of PIANO AND VOICE 502 Kimball Hall

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

rience. In her love for the wild things, she had noticed the gradual disappearance of these orchids. One spring she happened upon a peculiarly choice specimen. Instead of digging it up to preserve it as so many misguided people do, or picking it as the reckless are apt to, she made a clearing about it. Then she placarded it in an invisible but well indicated manner just the same, and announced it as her own particular property and not to be disturbed. For several years her rights were respected, and the lovely flower was visited and enjoyed in its blooming time. But one day it was missing, root and branch. The Elderly Person was so sympathetic that he would have willingly turned away, had there been evidence of tears. But there was no tear—a cheerful philosophy meeting and accepting whatsoever life brings.

The jaunt was long and perhaps it was hot, but it ended near the iron spring and the cooling drink was all that was needed. As the walkers came toward the breakfast table, a bit later, a cry of protest went up from the sleek mortals there assembled. For the walkers were literally covered with arabesques and fanciful designs wrought by berries and needles, and stick-tights and tick-trefoil. The smooth linen dress of the Visiting Lady lent itself to endless patterns and traceries and was decorated as no hand could have embroidered it. The masculine trousers were not so beautiful, but had gathered much more, which was quite as it should be.

"It's all we have to show for our walk," said the Elderly Person composedly.

At table they told these stories:

"A clergyman spending his vacation in a small town was persuaded to preach in one of the churches. He was surprised next day to have a committee from the church wait upon him, express their pleasure at the impression he had made, and then tender him a call to the parish. "But," gasped the startled parson, "you already have a pastor. How about him? "Oh," replied the deliverate spokesman, "he has been handed his resignation."

Cross examining a witness, the attorney asked him how far was the distance between two points spoken of in the testimony. "About two miles, as the flow cries," was the answer. The attorney laughed and said, "Didn't you mean to say 'As the cry flows'?" "Then the judge laughed and said, "No! You are both wrong. What you are trying to say is 'As the fly crows.'"

Then although the judge glared severely, everybody laughed. Perhaps you will too, unless you don't know what the witness should have said. THE ELDERLY PERSON.

WILLIAM LESTER COMPOSITIONS

G. Schirmer Company has accepted for publication the following works by William Lester: "O Mistress Mine," "If She Be Made of White or Red," and "Come Unto These Yellow Sands."—three male choruses; "A Dirge," for low voice; "The Tryst," and "Phyllis and Damon,"—two three-part choruses for female voices; "The Way of Righteousness," two for soprano, alto, and tenor; "The Lord Is in His Holy Temple," anthem for mixed voices—they are to be published immediately.

APOLLO CLUB TO RAISE $100,000 ENDOWMENT

The Apollo Musical club soon will start a $100,000 endowment fund to insure the future of its organization, provided plans of the club officers are ratified at a general meeting of members in Fullerton Hall, Art Institute.

The building of a permanent club home is the ultimate aim of the society, although this phase of the plan will not be taken up, say the officers, until the endowment plan is perfected.

"The club is in the best condition now that it ever has been and it is forty-three years old. There are 350 active members, and we believe that now is the time to look ahead and insure the future," said Harrison G. Wells, the president.

"We propose to raise an endowment fund of $100,000, accumulating the money by gifts, by legacies, possibly by concerts; in fact, by any legitimate means.

"The board of managers passed resolutions to this effect six weeks ago, and these will be offered for the ratification of the members Monday night. W. B. Sloane, vice president of the club, is chairman of the committee.

"The meeting will be the first of the season and the first held in Fullerton Hall. The trustees of the Art Institute have given us permission to use it as a meeting place, although there is nothing permanent in the arrangement."

Mr. Sloane refused to discuss the resolution, saying that the plan was to be a surprise to the members, and that he could make no comments regarding it until after the general meeting.

"Has anybody started the endowment fund with a gift?" he was asked.

"No, not altogether," was the reply.

Mr. Wells, Mr. Sloane and Carl Kinsey, secretary of the club, asserted that there was no truth in a rumor recently in circulation that Harrison Wild, conductor of the club, might offer his resignation.

—Chicago Record-Herald.

———♯♯♯———

Orchard.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Orchard have returned to Chicago after a trip to the Yellowstone Park, Salt Lake City, Colorado Springs and other western points. Mrs. Orchard will resume her work at the Cosmopolitan School of Music on September 15 and also at the Kenwood branch of that institution.

———♯♯♯———

Hamilton.—Jessie Mack Hamilton, soprano, after fulfilling concert engagements the early part of the summer spent a vacation at Lake Zurich. She will resume work at her Kimball Hall Studios on Mondays and Thursdays, beginning next week.

———♯♯♯———

Cookingham.—After a quiet summer spent at Libertyville, Ill., and Ramona, Mich., Miss Edna Cookingham has returned to her work in Chicago and reports that she already has a very heavy booking of piano pupils both at her residence studio and at the American Conservatory.

———♯♯♯———

Johnson.—Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson, who has spent the summer at Tower Hill, Wis., sang last Friday evening at Zion Temple, Union Park.

People & Events

HARRIET CASE

Harriet Case spent the summer months on the Massachusetts coast, where she was engaged as soprano of the Boston Church of Nahant. Miss Case returned west in time to fill an engagement with the Chicago Cycle Quartet at Fort Dodge, Iowa, the end of August.

HARRIET CASE

Wallace.—Miss Evangeline Wallace of Kimball Hall, who has been teaching a summer class at Afton, Ia., presented these pupils in a concert at the M. E. Church last week and won hearty commendation from the local press. The "Plain Dealer" spoke in particularly enthusiastic terms of the singing of Miss Wallace herself.

THEODORE S. BERGEY

Throughout the summer Mr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Bergey have continued to teach a large class of pupils at the Bergey Chicago Opera School and the class registered for the coming season is the largest in the history of the school.

Always a prominent figure in the Chicago pedagogic field, Mr. Bergey has during the past few years attained a position which is certainly an enviable one and which also is eloquent proof of the value of the work always done in his studios.

During the coming season there will be several performances of opera by the pupils of this school, and these functions will certainly be among the most important and most enjoyable of the season's offerings. Full details of these events will be announced in due time.

Mr. Bergey is a voice teacher with few equals and the long list of pupils who have attained success under his instruction is proof enough of his thoroughness and of his artistry. He is fortunate, indeed, in having the constant help of Mrs. Ethel Sutherlin-Bergey, an accompanist and coach, whose work is authoritative and thoroughly artistic.

Mrs. Bergey is also a piano teacher of distinction and the work of the studio is therefore rounded out in a way to inspire all who come there to study.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bergey are extremely popular with the large clientele which they have built up and in social life as well as in the musical field they are in constant demand.

CLARENCE EDDY RUSHES ACROSS CONTINENT

From Seattle to New York in three days and twenty-two hours in order to keep a dinner engagement at Ossining is the feat just accomplished by the distinguished organ virtuoso, Clarence Eddy. Monday evening of last week Mr. Eddy dedicated an organ at Seattle, Wash.; the next morning, Tuesday, at 9 o'clock, he boarded a Great Northern limited train and speeded eastward. At St. Paul only twenty minutes were allowed the great organist in which to change to the Burlington Route, over which he rushed from St. Paul to Chicago. A brief ten minute connection was effected in the latter city with the "Broadway Limited" train over the Pennsylvania road, and Saturday forenoon found the genial organist safely landed in New York with ample time to catch an early afternoon train up to Ossining and his dinner engagement.

Here is a list of Clarence Eddy's accomplishments during the short period of three weeks: Left Chicago on August 4; dedicated a large organ, August 7, in Third Avenue Methodist Church at Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, B. C.; August 11, 12 and 13, dedicated, with three recitals, a large organ in St. John's Church, Victoria, B. C., hundreds of disappointed music lovers being turned away from each concert; gave two recitals in Vancouver (B. C.), Mt. Pleasant Methodist Church, August 14 and 15; dedicated a large four manual organ in First Baptist Church, Seattle, Wash., August 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddy are visiting for a week at the home of their friends, Dr. and Mrs. John Greulich, at Ossining, N. Y., after which they will spend a few days with friends on Long Island. The Eddys plan to return to their home in Chicago the fourth week in September.—New York Courier.

Robinson.—Miss Carol Robinson will resume her Chicago teaching on September 15.

STEINDEL ALBIN
SOLO VIOLINIST Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
RECITALS and MUSICALES. ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY.
Music Critics say: "Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose playing inspires and 'Makes Not Mars' the soloist."
2550 BURLING ST. TELEPHONE DIVERSEY 8470

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art. Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT, Sec.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Herbert E. Hyde
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
STUDIO: 407 Kimball Hall RESIDENCE: 1370 E. 61st St.

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

CHARLOTTE LOUISE PETTIBONE
Piano Accompanying Instruction
224 North Prairie Av., Austin, Chicago

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

van Vliet
The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
901 Lafayette Parkway Phone Ravenswood 7201

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland

North Shore School of Music

Broadway and Leland Ave.

The Ideal School for Resident and Out of Town Pupils.

WILLIAM A. WHITE, President. Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, William A. White, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC AND THEORY, William A. White DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul

ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated) TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868

CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar

Ostrovsky Institute of Hand Development

For Pianists, Violinists and 'Cellists

Apparatus and system same as used in the London Insitution and the Stern Conservatory in Berlin

513-514 STEINWAY HALL BLDG., CHICAGO

REX UNDERWOOD, Director

From ARTHUR SHATTUCK—

It gives me unlimited pleasure to express my appreciation of Mr. Ostrovsky's method of developing the hands of artists. I cannot say too much of its superlatively excellent results which in my case have proved absolutely permanent.

The improvement in my own hands obtained by Mr. Ostrovsky was so amazing and has since so eliminated the drudgery of practice, especially during my tour of America last season, that I can endorse his admirable system with sincerest enthusiasm.

ARTHUR SHATTUCK.

Previous to September 18, address all inquiry to Mr. Rex Underwood, in care of Music News, Kimball Holl, Chicogo

MR. and MRS.

Herman Devries

Voice Production

Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian

Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO

Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studebaker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone

H. B. TURPIN Accompanist

Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are

Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913

Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON

VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND

VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction

411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

DAVID BISPHAM AT THE MAJESTIC

"In Germany, opera is sung in German; in Italy, the Italians insist on their own language; in France nothing but French is accepted; but in America anything and everything is used and tolerated. This cannot possibly be ascribed honestly to any alleged angularity of the language either. It is just because Americans have not awakened to the fact that their own language is as beautifully expressive as any other and also because of the fact that so little really good enunciation of English text is heard in concert or opera. Singers learn other languages, the English they merely pick up."

Thus, and with much more sensible comment does David Bispham preface his singing at The Majestic this week, and that his pioneer work in behalf of "singing in English" is very popular is proven nightly by the immense enthusiasm with which his words are greeted.

David Bispham is the one best person to promulgate such a propaganda too—for his own pronunciation and enunciation of the English text is absolutely without flaw. Every person in The Majestic hears every word of every one of his songs.

But, the enunciation of English text by no means completes the list of his accomplishments and by facial expression and suggestive attitude he reinforces every depicted mood in his songs and thus does he make each song a complete picture in miniature, tragedy or comedy as the text may warrant. In fact, his histrionic ability is so marvelous as to somewhat defeat his own contention that all singing should be (in America) in English, for, after his singing of "Der Erlkonig" in German (there being no adequate translation according to his statement), the young lady seated next the writer, who understands not a word of German, said, "Why! I could UNDERSTAND everything he said, even though I didn't know the words."

Thus was his great art manifested, and thus did he himself prove that German text, or any other for that matter, may be made

DAVID BISPHAM

Thomas N. MacBurney

Baritone Voice Production Song Recitals

Three years assistant to King Clark

508-609 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago Phone Harrison 6880

THE BANCROFT

Worcester's New Million Dollar Fireproof Hotel
European Plan. Tariff, Rooms $1.50 and upwards
CHARLES S. AVERILL
President and Managing Director

intelligible to any audience provided the mood, color and sentiment are carefully conserved in tonal color and musical phrase and especially so if reinforced by a play of mobile facial expression.

The Majestic, always in the van—is the first of the season to offer any real music, and, not only so but the setting and the environment provided Mr. Bispham are perfect—absolutely.

Mr. Bispham himself is a stately figure and adds most graciously those touches of realism which the vaudeville audience loves.

He, however, brings to the environment a perfect example of interpretation of song, and in this work he is artistic and altruistic as well as attractive. No lowering of his own standard is in sight anywhere, and the only feeling possible after hearing his group of songs at The Majestic, is that every person present has been the recipient of an artistic benediction and that many of them will remember for years this object lesson in pure art and will demand in consequence more of the same sort and less of the musical balderdash which now so largely obtains on the vaudeville stage.

As to his work—after a most careful and very illuminative explanation of plots and text he sang "Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves" from Handel's "Scipio," and "I Am a Roamer Bold" from Mendelssohn's "Son and Stranger," these two forming an admirable foil and contrast each to the other and the total of singing worth being very great. English translations of text were used and, as said above, every word of each aria went straight home and every musical nuance was enjoyed to the full.

Mr. Bispham was suffering (on Tuesday evening) from a very bad cold, but this affected neither his interpretative powers nor his musical intelligence, and the two arias were models of taste and style, which any young singer might well consider it a great privilege to hear.

These were followed by "Der Wanderer" and "Erl Koenig" (Schubert), in German, and again was there evident absolute insight into innermost meanings and complete mastery of the means of presenting these to the public.

Truly, the "Erl King" has never had a more amazingly beautiful or dramatically tense reading in Chicago and to this was added a companion picture in "Danny Deever" (Kipling-Damrosch), which was given by request for encore and which was a piece of dramatic work beyond compare.

Accompaniments of generally fine value were provided by Harry M. Gilbert. The arias were played with classic simplicity and corresponding effect. There was real pathos in "Der Wanderer." The "Erl King" was good accompanying, but far short of the pianistic effects possible to some other players, while "Danny Deever" was so exact and so forceful as to prove "at the piano" an exact and worthy counterpart to the wonderful reading of Mr. Bispham.

The temptation to comment a little on the balance of the program is too strong to be resisted. There were three worthy "acts" and several which were intolerably common.

Some acrobats were skillful, a little play given by S. Miller Kent and Company was fascinating and the violin playing of John Geiger was marvelous—this amazing man absolutely "makes his violin talk."

But, it is a sad commentary on public taste when it must be recorded that the acts of Alberta Moore and Myrtle Young, Maybelle Lewis and Paul McCarthy and Lloyd and Whitehouse were also much applauded, for all of these were coarse, inartistic, extremely suggestive and vulgar, and absolutely devoid of any musical merit whatever.

C. E. W.

COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART

One of the handsomest catalogs of the fall is that emanating from The Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art, which is in The Auditorium building and which has long since reached a place second to that of no school in the country in the matter of scientific courses and artistic attainments.

Mrs. W. S. Bracken

William Carver Williams

The officers and board of directors is as follows: Mrs. Willard S. Bracken, president; Dr. W. C. Williams, consulting director and treasurer; L. A. Torrens, vice president; C. E. Sindlinger, secretary; Julius N. Heldman, counsel; Shirley M. K. Gandell, Franz Esser, Hubbard W. Harris, and Henry Purmort Eames, directors.

The head of the piano department is

L. A. Torrens

Henry Purmort Eames

Henry Purmort Eames, while Clarence Eidam, Frank L. Denhard, William Waugh Lauder, Mae De Puy Laukart, George Lewis, Mrs. Charles Orchard, Mabel Webster Osmer, Marie Schada, Daisy Waller, Stephen, Henriette Weber, Vera Corinne Brady, Marie Edwards, Vivian Scott, Marguerite Dresser, Sarah Nadine Jones, Guy A. La Belle, Elizabeth Layman and Dorothy Pelck complete a very fine list.

At the head of the vocal department is

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
504 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 1931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

HAZEL EVERINGHAM
Pianist Accompanist Teacher Ensemble
Address 1251 N. State St. REDPATH BUREAU

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
Special Summer Session—June to August
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Languages The Berlitz School of Languages,
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

Elias Bredin
TENOR
NINTH FLOOR, AUDITORIUM BUILDING

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Mrs. W. S. Bracken and the list includes such distinguished artists and teachers as Dr. William C. Williams, Lucille Stevenson, Elias Bredin, Harriet Case, Jessie Lynde Hopkins, L. A. Torrens, Jennie Thatcher Beach, Shirley M. K. Gandell, Marion Green, John Nelson Randolph, Charles E. Sindlinger, Mrs. L. A. Torrens and Carl Voelcker, with the following associate teachers: Mary Stevenson Atwood, William H. Knapp, Grace J. Saltonstall, Bess Beyer, Gertrude Kastholm, Maude Lewis, Claribelle Rice, and Giraldi Voedisch.

Clarence Eidam

Mrs. Charles Orchard

The violin department is represented by Franz Esser, Fritz William Itte, and Mrs. Charles Hagenow, while violoncello is taught by Mr. Day Williams.

Palmer Christian has charge of the organ department and theory classes are taught by Hubbard William Harris. History and kindred branches are taught by Waugh Lauder; languages by native teachers; ensemble by Messrs. Eames, Itte and Williams; ear training and sight reading by Miss Brady and Jeanette Hughes Birk, who also teaches public school music, while a department for the training of boys for choir work is in the capable hands of John Allen Richardson. Expression and dramatic art are cared for by Anne D. Larkin and William Owen.

Lucille Stevenson

Elias Bredin

Harriet Case

Jessie Lynde Hopkins

PIANO TEACHER WANTED—A leading music school can give a capable teacher one to three afternoons per week; must play well; age 20 to 30. Address "College," care Music News.

LARGE STUDIO FOR RENT—Some morning and afternoon time; 516 Kimball Hall.

TO RENT—Kimball Hall Studio; Tuesday, and Wednesday and Saturday a. m. Address Music News.

TIME TO RENT—In large studio in Fine Arts Bldg. Address W. D. Music News.

WANTED—Pupils in German by teacher who has studied in Germany; reasonable rates. Miss House, phone 3056 Drexel.

PIPE ORGANS—If the purchase of an Organ is contemplated, address HENRY PILCHER'S SONS, Louisville, Ky., who manufacture the highest grade at reasonable prices.

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TEACHER TENOR DIRECTOR
120 North Oak Park Av., Oak Par., Il.

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone O. P. 4397. 206 South Lombard Av., Oak Park Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

Wm. Clare Hall
Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Sara Burdick
TEACHER OF VOICE DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Concert, Oratorio, Recital 727 FINE ARTS BUILDING

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

Shipley Watson
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
Pupil of Heinrich Barth, Berlin; Martin Krause, Leipzig; Edward MacDowell, New York; Carl & Rheinhold Faelten, Boston. 4414 Main St., Kansas City, Mo.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Accommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS, PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

Classes in Ensemble Playing

MR. HENRY P. EAMES, DIRECTOR.

This is a class open to all students of violin, 'cello, piano and other instruments. It meets for a period of two hours each week and offers opportunities for the study and presentation of the best chamber music compositions under the guidance of an instructor experienced in ensemble playing, and candidates for graduation in instrumental departments are required to take one year of this work and every serious student should early seek practical experience in this stimulating and refining phase of applied musicianship, the knowledge of which will be of the highest value throughout his musical career, as art of effective playing with other instruments is distinct from that of the soloist. Parts learned independently of each other must be artistically blended and a perfected whole worked out. To be able to perfect his part and finally to merge it with those of other instruments, into an impersonal but vitalized ensemble is necessary to the musicianly player; experience and aid along this line will be derived by students in this class.

Fritz William Itte

Day Williams

John Allen Richardson

Palmer Christian

Works written for two pianos (four hands) and sonatas for combinations of various instruments by Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Brahms, Saint-Saens, etc., will be studied.

Members of the ensemble class will give two public recitals each year and no memorization is required.

♮ ♮ ♮

Kenwood Branch Studio

The Cosmopolitan School has a branch studio for the convenience of pupils, especially children, living in the neighborhood of Kenwood, at 1535 Hyde Park boulevard (opp. Hyde Park Hotel). Phone Midway 8088. Mr. John Allen Richardson will act as director of this branch.

Arrangements may be made to secure instruction in all departments of musical culture at this studio from any members of the faculty of the Cosmopolitan School.

———♯♯♯———

PITTSBURGH EXPOSITION

Two very popular features have been added to the program for the exposition concerts this evening under the direction of Wassili Leps, conductor of the Cincinnati orchestra. The first will be at the early evening concert when in the presenting of Saint-Saens' "Dance Macabre," Mr. Herrmann will render the violin obligato, and because of his ability a treat is assured. The second feature will come during the late concert when a soprano solo will be rendered by Miss Cunningham, a local soloist, who will render a specially interesting number, a dramatic song, "Hero and Leander," from the pen of Adolph M. Foerster, also widely known as a Pittsburgh composer. Both additions to the program give a tinge of delightful localism that will be strongly appealing to the audiences.

Last night's concerts were attended by large crowds and brought out enthusiastic applause. The program for this evening's concerts follows:

7:30 to 8:30

Overture, "Phedre" ..... Massenet
(a) Chaonne (Oboe obligato to Mr. De Buscher). ..... Durand
(b) Scarf Dance ..... Chaminade
Dance Macabre ..... Saint-Saens
Violin Obligato, Mr. Herrmann
Intermezzo and Valse lente, and Pizzicato from "Sylvia" ..... Delibes
Scene Pittoresque ..... Massenet
March, Air de Ballet, Angelus, Fete Boheme

9:30 to 10:30

Overture, "Der Freischutz" ..... Weber
Cavatina ..... Raff
"Invitation to the Dance" ..... Weber
(Transcribed by Weingartner)
Second Roumanian Rhapsody ..... Enesco
"Hero and Leander" (Dramatic Song) ..... Adolph M. Foerster
Miss Mary Cunningham
Heroic March ..... Foerster

———♯♯♯———

FOUR ARCANGELI PUPILS FOR GRAND OPERA

Miss Irene Jonas, who has been mentioned before in connection with the Boston Grand Opera Company, and who has been coaching all summer with Signor Arcangeli, leaves next month for Boston to begin rehearsals prior to the opening of the grand opera season.

She will sing principal coloratura soprano roles.

Mr. Harry Schneider, who also has been coaching all summer with Signor. Arcangeli, has been engaged for the Colon, Buenos Aires, season 1914, May to August, leading bass roles.

Miss Easter, a fine lyric soprano, and a tenor with a splendid dramatic voice, are negotiating with a well known impresario for the season of 1914.

Truly a record for a teacher who opened his studio only two years ago. Sig. Arcangeli's eighteen years of experience on the grand opera stage is having a telling effect upon his pupils.

———♯♯♯———

Bowman.—E. M. Bowman, a piano teacher of the older generation in New York, and a life long friend of the late William Mason, died at his home in Flatbush, L. I., last week.

North Shore School of Music

Broadway and Leland Avenue
CHICAGO

The North Shore School of Music is an institution in which music is taught in all its branches, and, offers complete courses in Acting and Dramatic Art, as well as in the various branches of the Art of Dancing.

THE PAST YEAR

During the past year the school has enjoyed unprecedented growth in all departments. In the regular courses the classes have grown, as well as in the private teaching. The Violin department developed remarkably and promises to be one of the strongest in the school. Under the able direction of Miss Louise Noyes, who will continue in charge of the work, the department of dancing registered large classes during this, its first season.

Many faculty and student recitals have been given during the year. The following members of the faculty have given, or appeared on, programs: Myrtle Hatswell-Bowman, Minnie Cedargreen, Electa Austin, Louise Marie Boche, Alice Emmons-McBride, George Dasch, Lemuel W. Kilby, Lester Alden and Charles J. Haake.

THE COMING YEAR

All plans are for the greatest efficiency and activity in the several departments. A number of additions to the faculty have been made in anticipation of the year's demands. In addition to programs, similar to those of past seasons, it is planned to give a series of three concerts by the North Shore String Quartet. This organization, which will henceforth be affiliated with the school, is composed of the following well known men, all members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra: George Dasch, first violin; Hjalmar Rabe, second violin; Otto Roehrborn, viola; Carl Brueckner, violoncello. In order to add to the interest of the programs, a soloist will appear in each concert.

It is with pleasure that we announce the addition to the faculty, in the voice department, of Mary Ann Kaufman. Miss Kaufman has had a varied professional experience, as singer and teacher. She holds an important position as soprano in the Oak Park Congregational Church, and those who attended the North Shore Festival concerts in Evanston last May will recall her beautiful work as soprano soloist in Pierne's "Children's Crusade."

REINDAHL VIOLINS AND BOWS

VIOLAS and 'CELLOS

Artists know the rarity of violins whose tones are "sweet" from lowest G to A in altissimo. You know how much you desire a violin whose tone qualities are distinguished in power, intensity, brilliance, evenness, sympathy, perfection of open fifths, stopped fifths, thirds, octaves, clear harmonics, pure pizzicato tones, distinct arpeggios, distinct in shake, trill and staccato, and withal quickly responsive to bow pressure from real pianissimo to fortissimo. If you have such a violin you may not be interested; if you have not, you will be interested in a booklet—"An Artist's Touch"—which I will gladly mail you FREE, and which contains opinions from world famous artists who use

Reindahl Violins

Violins sent to responsible persons on trial, for comparison with other new or famous old violins. If desired, gradual charge accounts opened.

Reindahl Grand Model, $250.00

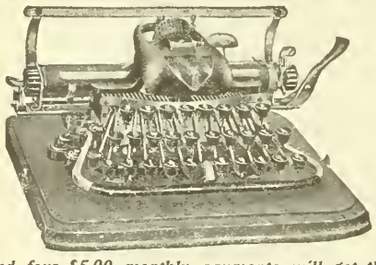
REINDAHL VIOLINS
Used and Endorsed by

Bernard Listemann	Kocian
Chas. Gregorowitz	Jan Kubelik
Leonora Jackson	Emile Sauret
F. E. Haberkorn	Fritz Kreisler
Axel Skovgaard	Alexander Bull
S. M. Jacobsohn	Hugo Heermann
Arthur Hartmann

Knute Reindahl

Atelier, 318 Athenaeum Bldg., 59 East VanBuren Street, Chicago, Ill.

$6.50 Cash



and four $5.00 monthly payments will get this GUARANTEED Shopworn No. 7 BLICK TYPEWRITER

Worth $50.00

Traveling and professional men will find this machine a big help. It will make your private and personal correspondence less irksome. At home on trains—in hotels—anywhere.

Don't Miss This Opportunity

The number is limited—order now—Pay on delivery of machine.

Blickensderfer Mfg. Co. 121 N. Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.

Bergey

CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL

Voice Piano

30-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

A Few Words on Plain Chant

By S. HARRISON LOVEWELL

The last decade has experienced a remarkable increase of interest in the matter of plain chant. The progress made in its study and practical adaptation to the service of the church must be hailed with joy by all who love this form of music. Naturally, more has been accomplished in the Roman church than in any other, but it is more than gratifying to see how widely the High Church Episcopal is making use of this mystical, this most devotional and this most truly churchly of all the sacred forms of church music.

Possibly another decade may fulfill our expectations and exactly determine its origin and may give proper indications of the correct rendition of the same. First of all, there must be the adoption of viewpoints other than the traditional ones. Then there must be a thorough sifting of authoritative sources. As is generally known, the Benedictines have done the most hitherto toward the restoration of the plain chant melodies to their pristine form. Their propaganda has aroused the musical consciousness of the world. Now there is going on, as there has been for many years, a devoting of scholarship to the decipherment of the neumes, the defining of rhythm and a comparing of ancient manuscripts. There is also every effort being put forth to penetrate the darker recesses of antiquity to discover the origin of this universal music. Soon, it is believed, this secret will be disclosed.

A few years ago musicians ridiculed the statement that polyphony was native to the British Isles. There is documentary proof that substantiates this origin. It is now possible very nearly to demonstrate that plain chant was very early practiced in the British Isles, even though it is not yet possible to prove that it originated with the ancient Cymri, or Welch. The great Roman emperor, Clemens Maximus, was a Welchman. During his rule some 60,000 Cymri migrated from Wales and Ireland and lived in new homes on the continent. History says that this took place 383-387, or during the last part of the fourth century. It was Maximus who visited Bishop Ambrose at Milan, and there were Welch bards with him and his army. About this time also accented Latin poetry came into being. Possibly this is the origin of plain chant. Anyhow, it is the present viewpoint of Victor Lederer, a German scholar. All that has been stated thus far can be learned by anyone who will read history.

The Motu Proprio has done wonders for the devotional side of the Roman Mass. The Catholic movement, or restoration of the pre-Reformation ritual and ornaments, is doing a like work in the so-called Episcopal church. More and more commonly in the Episcopal church are heard plain chant introits, graduals, communions and post-communions, as also plain chant masses.

Plain chant is in harmony with the Divine Mysteries, and not only adds to the impressiveness of the Office, but is music that quickens acts of reverence and devotion. As it has the power of arousing the spirit of adoration in the devout worshipper, why not concede its inspiration along with Gregory? No modern music opens the gates of heaven as does this music. While most of it is diatonic in melodic structure, some of it is pentatonic and shows a very primitive origin. Being pure melody with the faculty in itself of expressing holy aspirations, it requires no harmony to adorn it, but it must be beautifully sung to free it from monotony and make it of overwhelming effect. Unless the conditions are right, the voices of men, proper associations and environment, modern music is much better and more in keeping. This matter should not be overlooked when the subject is considered by those who have not grasped the import of plain chant.

HIS QUAKER MOTHER

Proud as she was of her son's increasing prestige, David Bispham says that it took years to reconcile his mother to the idea of his being a grand opera singer. Mr. Bispham, who is an important addition to this week's entertainers at the Majestic Theater, says that he doesn't remember being surprised at her opposition, however. The family of Bisphams lived in Philadelphia, for one thing, and Philadelphia is always respectable, whether opera is or not. But there was another reason. The Bisphams are a Quaker family, with a pedigree that reaches so far back that anything like grand opera worldliness and matters of art generally did not fall in with its scheme of life and death.

"She felt that even the building itself was immoral," comments Mr. Bispham. "As a boy I could not agree with her, but even when I began to act and sing a good deal in amateur performances she refused to come and see me. It was not until some years later, when I was engaged for Covent Garden, that she overcame her scruples and withdrew her objection. This was a great concession for my Quaker mother, who would not enter a theater even to hear a lecture on a serious topic.

"The best influence on my musical training was the series of 'quartet evenings' at a friend's house. There I heard the great masterpieces of chamber music often enough to become thoroughly familiar with them. It was the most vital training I had as a youth.

"During the whole period of my appearances as a soloist in oratorio and concert and performances in many Gilbert and Sullivan operettas I never saw my mother in the audience. It was only when I was recognized as being a worthy artist by engagement at Covent Garden that her scruples vanished."—Chicago Record-Herald.

COLUMBIA SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The thirteenth year of the Columbia School of Music opened on September 8, the location remaining the same—the Ohio building.

The faculty includes the same distinguished list as before, with some important additions and the courses have been still further improved in conformity with the plans which make this school one of the most progressive of the country.

The calendar for the year is as follows:

September 1 to 6—Examinations for entrance.

September 8, Monday—First term begins, all departments.

October 23, Thursday—Annual recital. Winifred Lamb, pianiste.

November 17, Monday—Second term begins.

November 20, Thursday—Joint recital. Louise St. John Westervelt, soprano; Helen B. Lawrence, pianiste.

November 22, Saturday—First term ends.

November 27, Thursday—Thanksgiving Day recess.

December 11, Thursday—Recital. McElroy Johnston, baritone.

December 8 to 13—Academic and Collegiate examinations.

December 24—Christmas vacation begins.

January 2, Friday—Work resumes. (January 1, lessons to be made up.)

January 12 to 17—Primary and intermediate examinations.

January 15, Thursday—Annual recital. Ludwig Becker, violinist.

February 14, Monday—Third term begins.

February 17th, Thursday—Seventh annual concert Columbia School Chorus.

April 20, Monday—Fourth term begins.

April 23, Thursday—Third annual concert. Columbia School Orchestra.

May 11 to 23—Final examinations.

May 23—Thirteenth annual recital children's department.

June 6, Saturday—Annual program original compositions.

June 22 to 27—Commencement week.

June 27, Saturday—Close of regular school year.

June 29, Monday—Summer school begins.

August 1, Saturday—Summer school ends.

Special announcement of other recitals will be made later.

———♯♯♯———

BERNHARD ULRICH

Mr. Bernhard Ulrich, business manager of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, has returned from one of his lightning trips across the continent, having made Dallas, Tex.; Los Angeles, San Francisco, Cal.; Salt Lake City, Utah, and Denver, forward and back, in a period of nine days, passing eight nights upon the sleeper.

He declares that the itinerary of the western trip is now practically settled. The tour will open in Dallas, Tex., on March 4. Thence to Los Angeles for a week and San Francisco for two weeks. Portland and the north coast cities will not be visited. On the return Denver will have probably four performances, and Salt Lake City, two, the Salt Lake City performances being contingent upon Denver. He reports the interest as extra good and the sale as most promising.

New England CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

Year opens Sept. 18, 1913

BOSTON, MASS.

GEORGE W. CHADWICK, Director

THE LARGEST AND BEST EQUIPPED SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Located in the Music Center of America. It affords pupils the environment and atmosphere so necessary to a musical education. Its complete organization, its imposing Conservatory Building, splendid equipment, and the Residence Building offer exceptional facilities for students.

Complete Curriculum. Courses in every branch of Music, applied and theoretical, including Opera.

Owing to the practical training of students in our Normal Department, graduates are much in demand as teachers.

The free privileges of lectures, concerts and recitals, the opportunities of ensemble practice and appearing before audiences, and the daily associations are invaluable advantages to the music student.

A Complete Orchestra offers advanced pupils in voice, piano, organ and violin experience in rehearsals and public appearances with orchestral accompaniment.

Dramatic Department. Practical training in acting.

Ralph L. Flanders, Manager.

Julia Culp

Management of Antonia Sawyer

Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston

Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY Bass-Baritone Oratorio Concert

MURRISON

JOINT-RECITALS

MABEL Pianist Accompanist

Alliance Ohio

CHRISTINE MILLER

CONTRALTO

In Europe until Oct. 1, 1913

Address, care of American Express Co., Paris

Management HAENSEL & JONES

Aeolian Hall, New York

ELEANOR DRAMATIC SOPRANO RECITALS CONCERTS

HAZZARD-PEOCOCK

Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London

FRANCE ENGLAND GERMANY

WHITEHILL

BARITONE

Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

BONCI

THIRD AMERICAN TOUR SEASON 1912-13

"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"

Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES

92 West 42nd Street, New York

Knabe Piano Used

LOUISE BURTON

SOPRANO

520 Fine Arts Bldg

Phone Drexel 8183

MR. TENOR MRS. DRAMATIC READER

Karl Buren Stein

JOINT RECITALS

55 Auditorium Bldg.

TEACHERS of SINGING ELOCUTION ACTING

Esther Plumb

CONTRALTO

4173 Lake Avenue

Phone Oakland 3246

Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS—VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Brokaw Power-Meyer
Violinist Conservatory
WICHITA, KAN

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

MARY HIGHSMITH
E SOPRANO 624 Michigan Av., Phone Midway 2923

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

SADIE WALKER
University Studios VIOLINIST Exclusive M'g't
5828 Woodlawn Av. Harry Culbertson

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

DEWITT DURGIN
TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg

COLLINS J.
Basso-Cantante BROCK
EUDORA MOODY
SOPRANO Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

MARY ANN KAUFMAN
SOPRANO
Edgewater 8519 4433 Racine Av., CHICAGO, ILL.

Grant KIMBELL
Tenor
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

MR. AND MRS. BAILEY

Mr. Herbert M. Bailey, baritone, who has been doing most excellent work at the MacBurney Studios, has announced his decision to remain in Chicago the ensuing season. During the winter Mr. Bailey will be available for concerts and will also continue his teaching, a field in which he has had distinct success. During three years' time, he was the head of the vocal department at Central College, Pella, Iowa, having been called there upon leaving Bethany College (Lindsborg, Kansas.)

HERBERT M. BAILEY AGNES A. BAILEY

An able assistant to Mr. Bailey, is Mrs. Agnes A. Bailey, a soprano, of wide experience and splendid attainments. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey are doing most delightful work together, and feature ensemble numbers on all their programs.

HAGGERTY-SNELL MUSICALE

A song program was given by pupils of Mme. Ida Haggerty-Snell at the Studios at 210 West 107th street in New York, the last week in August, with the following program:

Vocal—
Rose in the Bud ..... Foster
The Dream Maker Man ..... Nevin
Sunbeams ..... Ronald
Miss Woody
Reading, Seeing Things ..... Fields
Mrs. Perkins
Vocal—
The Corporal's Ditty ..... Squire
The Little Irish Girl ..... Lohr
Mr. Hallock
Piano—
Nocturne, Op. 9, No. 1 ..... Chopin
Song ..... MacDowell
Miss Woody
Reading, Hagar ..... Lena Rivers
Mrs. Perkins
Vocal—
Gypsy Daisies ..... Woodman
Ashes of Roses ..... Woodman
The Swallows ..... Cowan
Miss Woody
Reading, Parting Message ..... Joaquin Miller
Mrs. Perkins
Vocal—
At Parting ..... Rogers
Haymaking ..... Needham
Miss Woody
The Admiral's Broom ..... Bevan
Young Tom o'Devon ..... Russell
Mr. Hallock
Cantique d'Amour ..... Liszt
Concert etude, Gnomenreigen .....
Miss Woody

Daddi.—Francisco Daddi, of the Chicago Opera Company, will play a preliminary season with the Century Opera Company in New York.

CONSTANCE FRISBIE

A recital given by Constance Frisbie, lyric soprano, at Battle Creek, Mich., on September 9, had the following program, in which she was assisted by F. Harry Strong, whistler, and Mrs. Clarissa Dickie-Stewart, accompanist:

Within a Garden Rosery
Folk Song ..... Hildach
Spring
Miss Frisbie
Quartet—Rigoletto
Mr. Strong
Irish Love Song
Beautiful Land of Nod ..... Lehman
There are Birds in the Valley
Miss Frisbie
Sextet, Lucia di Lammermoor
Mr. Strong
My Queen
To a Violet
Lullaby ..... Brahms
Serenade
Mr. Strong
Song of the Soul
Miss Frisbie, Mr. Strong
Haymaking ..... Needham
Miss Frisbie
Carissima
Miss Frisbie, Mr. Strong

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5166

The ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE
OF THE NEW AMERICAN SCHOOL OF VOCAL ART
(Founded by Anna Groff-Bryant.) Exclusively a Vocal School. Offering courses distinctively Cultural and Vocational. Instructions given in classes and private individual lessons. Ninth school year opened October 1, 1912. Send for booklet giving full particulars. Address THE ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE, 522 to 526 Fine Arts Building, Chicago.

ELLA C. BIGELOW
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
AKRON, OHIO

Grace Desmond
Pianist and Accompanist
4430 Vincennes Av. Phone Drexel 6846

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians
by Horace D. Hitchcock
A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original.
The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:
"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."
For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cent's Postpaid.

THE ALBERT TEACHER'S AGENCY
633 S. Wabash Av., Chicago, Ill. C. J. Albert, Mgr
Special department for Music Teachers. Good positions in Colleges, Conservatories, Normal Schools, Public Schools.
Address Music Department. Western Office, Spokane, Wash

CLARENCE EDDY

May be engoged for the
Opening of New Organs and for Organ Recitals
During the Season of 1913-1914.
Address: 510 Oakwood Blvd., Chicago.

ROY DAVID BROWN

Mr. Roy David Brown has returned to his Kimball Hall Studio after a two weeks' tour of the beaches of the Great Lakes—the picture herewith given shows Mr. Brown and his friend, Mr. Carl Beutel, at Niagara Falls, where they spent several days.

Mr. Brown will resume lessons with his large class of piano students and expects also, during the coming season, to give a number of recitals. Two of his programs read as follows:

ROY DAVID BROWN AND CARL BEUTEL AT NIAGARA

PROGRAM I.

Sonata, Op. 27, No. 1	Beethoven
Capriccio, Op. 76, No. 2	Brahms
Spring Song	Emil Liebling
Le Meteore	Emil Liebling
Humoreske	Dvorak
The Humming Bird	Paul Perillo
A La Bien Aimee	Schuett
Witches' Dance	MacDowell
California Suite	Friml
An Old Monastery
Mountain Cascade
Orange Blossoms
Spanish Dance
Waltz, Op. 35, No. 1
Etude, Op. 25, No. 9	Chopin
Polonaise, Op. 53

PROGRAM II.

Sonata in F major	Mozart
Intermezzo, Op. 119, No. 1	Brahms
Rhapsody, Op. 79, No. 2	Brahms
Albumblatt	Emil Liebling
Florence Waltz	Emil Liebling
Prelude, Op. 10	MacDowell
Concert Etude	MacDowell
Waltz, Op. 64, No. 2
Nocturne, Op. 37, No. 2	Chopin
Polonaise, Op. 26, No. 1
Hark! Hark! the Lark	Schubert-Liszt
Liebestraum, No. 3	Liszt
Rhapsody, No. 6	Liszt

Bartholomew.—Mr. H. B. Bartholomew will meet new pupils at his Kimball Hall Studio on Saturday from 11 to 12.

McCutchen.—Mrs. Blanche McCutchen will reopen her Sioux City Studio this week.

MABEL CORLEW SMIDT

Some press comment is as follows:

Princeton, Illinois.—The feature of the evening was the singing of Mrs. Mable Corlew-Smidt, who is heralded as an operatic soprano, and she is entitled to the distinction. Mrs. Smidt possesses an unusually well developed voice. Her singing is full of expression and her very pleasing personality creates a wonderful impression with an audience. She gave as one of her encores "The Last Rose of Summer," and her rendition of this well-known old gem was wonderful.—Bureau County Tribune.

Elkhart, Ind.—Mrs. Smidt, the vocalist, has a beautiful soprano voice, with rich, full notes in the lower register as well as a melting sweetness and purity in her higher tones. Her selections were none of them showy, but rather, were of a sweetness and simplicity calculated to show to the full the beautiful qualities of her voice. Added to her ability as an artist, she has a personality which appealed to the audience, winning instant sympathy, which expressed itself in delighted applause.—Elkhart, Truth.

La Salle, Ill.—Mrs. Mable Corlew-Smidt, the soprano, proved herself to be an incomparable operatic vocalist, her beautiful tones, strong and sustained through to the end of every line, and the sweet and strong caliber of the voice was fairly a revelation to the local music lovers.—Daily Post.

South Bend, Ind.—In the voice and exquisite singing of Mrs. Mable Corlew-Smidt was a distinct surprise. One can easily glow with enthusiasm and call it ravishing. A more effective reading of the emotionally dramatic "Cry of Rachel" by Salter, has not been heard in this city. The audience followed her through it with nerves tense and appreciation of every detail of her wonderful delineation. Her charming stage presence, both as to attire and manner, must be mentioned.—South Bend Tribune. (Advertisement.)

AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

To the long list of appointments for pupils of O. E. Robinson, director of the department of public school music of the American Conservatory, the following have just been added.

Ivy Goldsmith, supervisor of music, Cleveland, Okla.; Zelia Soule, teacher of music, Indian School, Rapid City, S. D.; Alma Marie de Young, supervisor of music, Horicon, Wis.

MINNEAPOLIS ORCHESTRA

The dates of the Friday concerts of the Minneapolis Orchestra, Emil Oberhoffer, director, and the list of soloists is as follows:

First concert, Friday, October 24. Soloist, Putnam Griswold, leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York.

EMIL OBERHOFFER

Second concert, Friday, November 7, soloist, Richard Czerwonky, popular violin virtuoso, concertmaster of the orchestra.

Third concert, Friday, November 21, soloist, Katherine Goodson, pianist.

Fourth concert, Friday, December 5, soloist, Johanna Gadski, popular Wagnerian soprano.

Fifth concert, Friday, December 19, soloist Cornelius van Vliet, brilliant Dutch 'cellist. Solo 'cellist of the orchestra.

Sixth concert, Friday, January 2, soloist, Eugene Ysaye, proclaimed the king of violinists.

Seventh concert, Friday, January 16. So-

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. CONTRALTO STEELE
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. Else Harthan-Arendt
Concert, Oratorio and Opera
Care of MUSIC NEWS KIMBALL HALL

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

loist, Julia Claussen, prima donna contralto, Swedish opera, Stockholm. Sensational success Chicago opera.

Eighth concert, Friday, January 30. Soloist, Fritz Kreisler, distinguished Austrian violinist; first Minneapolis appearance.

Ninth concert, Friday, February 13. Soloist, Teresa Carreno, queen of pianists, dean of women artists.

Tenth concert, Friday, February 20. Soloist, Harold Bauer, European pianist.

Eleventh concert, Friday, March 13. Soloist, Mischa Elman, celebrated Russian violinist.

Twelfth concert, Friday, March 27. Soloist, Emma Loeffler, dramatic soprano. Fresh from European operatic triumphs.

ERNEST O. TODD

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest O. Todd have returned to Chicago from a long motoring trip during a two month's vacation from Mr. Todd's work at the Ravenswood Methodist Church. He has, however, managed to make a number of appearances during the summer, singing in concerts at Freeport, Ottawa, Antioch and Lake Forest and has sung as substitute at the New England Congregational and St. James Methodist churches.

Mr. Todd resumes his teaching at the Bush Temple Conservatory on September 15.

———♯♯♯———

Bonci.—Alessandro Bonci, tenor, will be one of the great attractions at the Verdi Festival at Parma, Italy, this month.

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC MILWAUKEE, WIS.

CHILSON-OHRMAN
SOLOIST AT WORCESTER FESTIVAL SEASON Address 4603 Sheridan Road

CHARLOTTE IKERT CONCERT-ORATORIO JOINT RECITAL ROSCOE KIMBALL
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON - - - - Fine Arts Building Chicago

JOHN R. RANKL Bass-Baritone
PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING Phone Harrison 6880

HANS HESS CELLIST
American Conservatory
Telephone Lincoln 7917

SOFIA STEPHALI
COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Outside of Chicago, Exclusive Direction, National Society for Broader Education

MARGARET SOPRANO Phone Harrison 6880 LESTER WILLIAM COMPOSER Accompanist
608 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Louise George Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Preiser Violin School
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director Phone Austin 4043
STUDIOS 530 N. Pine Av., Austin 5407 S. Halsted St. and 2831 Washington Boul.

CONCERTS RECITALS ORATORIOS OSCAR SEAGLE 17 Avenue Mozart Paris (France)
BARITONE
American Tour October to March, 1913-14

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER In Paris all Summer 119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

MR. & MRS JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS Address 330 West 58th St. NEW YORK CITY

It Is Not Raining Rain to Me
AND OTHER SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM
BE MERCIFUL TO ME (2 KEYS) 50c
BEATITUDES (New) 60c
ROCK HIM TO SLEEP 50c
HER LITERARY TASTE 50c
Usual Discounts at all Music Stores or of the Publishers
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. CHICAGO

MRS. STACEY WILLIAMS' STUDIO

Miss Vesta Lister, a charming young soprano from Newton, Ia., a former pupil of Mrs. Williams, is in the city for the purpose of coaching preparatory to touring with one of the Will Best Concert Companies.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mrs. William Brown, Jr., is at her Summer home, "Kilbryde," Spring Lake, Wis., but makes frequent trips to the city and, as Mrs. Williams also goes often to "Kilbryde," lessons go on almost without interruption.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Josephine Lydston and her mother, who have been spending the summer in California, have returned to Chicago.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Julia Manierre is resting at the Manierre cottage at Harbor Point, Mich.

♮ ♮ ♮

Maybelle Fisher is with Mrs. Williams coaching for her coming tour at the head of her own concert company.

———♯♯♯———

SIDNEY SILBER

Mr. Silber, who will soon appear in piano recital in Chicago has made the following appearances with orchestra:

Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra: Henselt F Minor Concerto.

Vienna Tonkuenstler Orchestra; Tschaikowsky B Flat Minor Concerto.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aschenbroedel Orchestra: Mendelssohn G Minor Concerto.

Des Moines, Iowa, Thomas Orchestra: Beethoven Choral Fantasia.

Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Minneapolis: Saint-Saens G Minor Concerto.

Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Des Moines: Saint-Saens G Minor Concerto.

Russian Symphony Orchestra of New York, Lincoln: Saint-Saens G Minor Concerto.

———♯♯♯———

CHORUS SCHOOL OF THE CHICAGO GRAND OPERA COMPANY

One of the best artistic by-products of the Chicago Grand Opera Company has been the chorus school, established in association with it, and conducted by N. B. —Chevalier—Emanuel. This distinguished director, who conducted opera over continental Europe, was for many years the operatic director with the Savage Grand Operas in English, and has had a vast experience in all forms of opera and classic music, both as an instructor and a director. He was first asked to take up this work early in the season of 1910, and opened the first class in the Auditorium on the 18th of July. The proposition that he received from the Grand Opera directors was to give talented young women, with good voices, free instruction and a knowledge of all the operas of the repertoire. The first season was tentative, being in the form of an experiment, but it was so succesful and the results so pronounced that it was made a permanency. The first year sixty young ladies took the course without expense and with great profit to themselves. The second season a similar number availed themselves of this privilege, but last year the number swelled itself to eighty. This school has given the Chicago organization a chorus second to none ever heard in America—

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST

In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.

Address until October, Care Music News, Chicago; after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.

NOW begins a most remarkable season, including four crossings of the Continent and over 100 Recitals. Engage immediately if you want your city included.

first in the matter of comeliness and intelligence. Chevalier Emanuel, who has just concluded a season of eleven weeks' orchestral directing this summer, has gone to Waukesha, for a brief rest, but announced that he will meet the members of the new chorus and try voices at the Auditorium, on Monday, September 15, at 10:30 a. m. No operatic organization in the world offers such advantages to talented young women as this, and it is confidently expected, judging by the success of past seasons, that the current one will surpass its predecessors in the matter of enlistment and in the quality of voices engaged.

JOHN W. NICHOLS

Francis Porter, a gifted young baritone of Paterson, and a pupil of John W. Nichols, the tenor, is now in Europe singing in various concerts and recitals. He will return to America in the fall to resume his studies.

Another of Mr. Nichols' pupils, the well known New York tenor, W. L. Watson, is spending his summer in the hills of New Hampshire. Mr. Watson is tenor soloist in one of Brooklyn's prominent churches, also at Temple Israel in Harlem, and at St. Paul's chapel, Columbia University. He is also a member of the Musical Arts Choir, and first tenor in a well known male quartet, all of which, with many concert engagements, keeps him very busy throughout the season.

Mr. Thomas E. Delaney, tenor of Patterson, N. J., is now at Ocean Grove, N. J., and is singing at numerous concerts along the Jersey Coast. Mr. Delaney has had a very flattering offer to join a male quartet for touring the country. He has a remarkably high tenor voice, which is especially adapted for first tenor in male quartet work.

Mrs. Benton McMillan, a prominent society woman of Nashville, Tenn., wife of ex-Governor McMillan, who is now appointed minister to Peru, will spend the coming winter in Lima, where her beautiful voice and charming personality will win for her many friends. She was one of Mr. Nichols' most earnest pupils and made very rapid progress under his direction.

Mr. Harold H. Hurlburt, tenor, another prominent Nichols pupil, has established a very flourishing class in Portland, Ore., and is numbered among the most successful of teachers.

Three talented young sisters, the Misses Foster, who have the great success with various theatrical and vaudeville companies throughout the United States, are preparing themselves under Mr. Nichols' direction for operatic engagements.

AN AMERICAN WAGNERIAN PRIMA DONNA

Minnie Saltzman-Stevens writes to friends in this city, from her summer retreat, 6 rue Eugene Manuel-Passy, Paris: "I am hard at work, giving myself a 'post-graduate' course, as it were, in French, vocalizing and polishing on the voice, and working on the roles I am to sing in the coming season. I have indulged to the fullest extent in solitude and hard work, with my soul on fire with enthusiasm and joy over it all. After a few weeks' vacation at the country house of my London friends, Dr. and Mrs. Aarons, I came to Paris and settled in my little nest among the tree tops, where I reign in solitude, living a simple and absolutely uneventful life. I am doing considerable reading of the classics, and the only enjoyment I allow myself is attendance at the Comedie-Francaise, witnessing performances engaging Mounet Sully and his brother, Paul Mounet. It was my great privilege to hear three Russian operas in London, 'Khowanchina,' 'Ivan the Terrible' and 'Boris Gondoinov. I was so profoundly impressed and deeply touched by this superb artist that I know the effect of it will remain with me during my entire life. I compel myself to spend some time out of doors each day, as old Dame Nature has always something good to give us."

LETTERS TO EFFA ELLIS

It is one of the most fascinating courses I have ever studied. It covers so much ground—I am very enthusiastic and expect to make it a big success.

(Signed) Mrs. Carrie D. Barrows,
Teacher of Children, Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. Fletcher Copp Method. Assistant to Robert Goldbeck of Chicago Musical College.

♮ ♮ ♮

To Musicians and Music Teachers:

Effa Ellis' Keyboard Harmony will stand the test of the most profound musician, as only Truth can. It marks a new era in harmony.

(Signed) B. M. McDowell.
Columbus, Ohio.
(Advertisement).

THE INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

A debut recital by Mr. Daniel Jones, pianist, was given in Hollenbeck Hall on last Friday evening, with the following program:

Sonata, Op. 57 ..... Beethoven
Allegro assai
Andante con moto: Allegro ma non troppo
Ballade, Op. 47
Nocturne, Op. 15, No. 1
Polonaise, Op. 53 ..... Chopin
Etudes en forme de Variations ..... Schumann
"Du bist die Ruh'" ..... Schubert-Liszt
Legende of St. Francis Walking on the Waves..Liszt
Concert Paraphrase from Tschaikowsky's Opera, "Eugene Onegin" ..... Pabst

The Starr piano was used.

The Fifth Anniversary Number of MUSIC NEWS will be something of Very Unusual Significance and Very Great Importance to Advertisers.

The Date will be October 10th. MAKE RESERVATIONS OF SPACE EARLY.
Call, Write or Phone Harrison 7169.

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY

A school of unique aims and remarkably fine plans is the new Lyceum Arts Conservatory which has opened its first season at 522 Fine Arts Building with Elias Day as director, Frank A. Morgan, manager and Kate Jordan Hewett, secretary.

ELIAS DAY

The faculty includes Elias Day, Oranne Truitt Day, and Clara Mae McCloud in the dramatic department. Leon Marx, Zetta Gay Whitson and Max I. Fishel, violin; Sibyl Sammis MacDermid, Frank B. Webster, Lemuel W. Kilby and Ora Padget Langer, voice; Leon Aubel, French; Katherine Howard Ward, and Marguerite Dresser, piano, and a number of teachers of various orchestral instruments.

Music News will have more to say of this very promising school next week.

STILL MORE MODERNISM

We live in swift times. It seems only a short time since Strauss out-Wagnered Wagner; still more recently that Strauss' audacious light was put out by Scriabine and Schonberg; and now these latte are completely outclassed as regards their modern tendencies by Stravinsky.

The culmination of Stravinsky's art is found in his ballet "Le Sacre du Printeps," which was produced so frequently at Sir Joseph Beecham's Russian Ballet season last month. The main features of this work of Stravinsky are a wilful delight in the morbid, and a deliberate cultivation of discord to its strongest offensive power. In the second scene, gruesome skeleton heads of nameless creatures of the Ichthyosauria species appear in the gloomy middle ground, whilst principal themes are hurled forth on two trumpets proceeding in semitonic combination (or opposition) one to the other.

It is all very clever—diabolically clever—and these composers have the sure touch. But let us make no mistake; such art does not lie along the direct path of progress. The traits which have been specialized and carried to the nth power by Schonberg and Stravinsky were well known to the ancients, to Bach and Beethoven, just as the Cubism idea in painting was as familiar as his breakfast to Albert Durer some four hundred years ago. Tastes must indeed be jaded, and people be blase, to need such strong stimulants to waken them out of their lethargy.—Musical Record.

MILON R. HARRIS

Mr. Harris has returned from his short vacation in Canada and summer school in Indiana and opened his studio Monday, the 8th. His choir at the California Avenue Congregational Church will sing Sunday, the 14th, and each Sunday thereafter. Many new students are already registering for the year and no doubt the Harris Studio will be one of the busy places in Kimball Hall by September 15th.

CLARENCE EDDY IN SEATTLE

Eight hundred persons assembled last evening in the First Baptist Church for its inaugural organ recital, which was given by Clarence Eddy. A magnificent orchestral instrument, under the touch of a master of its technic, with a program of such variety could not fail to please.

The wonderful capabilities of the organ under its modern orchestral assembly were perfectly illustrated during the recital. From the contrapuntal intricacies of a fugue based on the "Old Hundred," arranged by the organist himself, to the simpler melody of an evensong by Edward Johnson, the instrument displayed its wonderful range of capability; sharply contrasting in the thunder of its diapason and the vibrating of the bourdon with the tremolo of the vox humana and the thin treble of its flute in the swell manual, the sound diminishing till the diminuendo was hardly to be heard, and yet the notes pervaded the edifice.

The central feature of the recital was Rogers' "Sonata in E Minor," but the organist's arrangement of Wagner's "Pilgrims' Chorus" was most favored by the audience.

The gem of the evening was a sympathetic rendition of Schubert's "Am Meer," the only number which approached the religious tone. For the modern organ is at least as adapted to opera as to oratorio, and last evening the thin harmonies of Palestrina were conspicuously absent, while Handel and Haydn, Mozart and Gounod gave place to Klein and Sibelius, Dudley Buck (an arrangement of Rossini) and Pietro Alessandro Yon.

Mr. Eddy may be sure of an audience at any time he conducts another recital on the organ of the First Baptist Church.—Seattle Post-Intelligence. (Advertisement.)

THE AMERICAN 'CELLIST

It is gratifying to all lovers of American music to watch the extraordinary advancement of Frederick Preston Search. Enthusiastically American, trained under the best masters of the world, a graduate and post-graduate of the Royal Conservatory of Music at Leipzig, with five years of special virtuoso preparation under the great Julius Klengel, enjoying unique favor under Arthur Nikisch, the greatest living conductor, as a member of the famous Gewandhaus Orchestra, heard often in the chamber concerts of Europe, and himself a most remarkable soloist, having at command a repertoire of over three hundred great concert pieces, young, vigorous and strikingly original, this musical young genius, who is capturing his audiences by storm wherever appearing, has before him a future of most distinguished favor in the musical world. Belgium has its Ysaye, Russia its Elman, Austria its Kreisler, Germany its Klengel, Hungary has had David Popper, Spain now is honored by the great Casals, among the great string masters, and, if we mistake not, America has her own 'cellist, who in time will write the name of SEARCH high on the walls of the Temple of Fame.

During this year Frederick Preston Search is to play over 100 recitals, requiring four trips across the continent. He is to be accompanied by Walter Chapman, of New York, the same brilliant concert pianist who was with him in his sixty recitals of last season. There is this characteristic of Frederick Preston Search, his programs are built with highest art, and he never risks results excepting with his own superb accompanist. Mr. Chapman plays all his accompaniments, no matter how difficult and varied, entirely without manuscript. This, added to the 'cellist's wonderful power and amazing technic, enables Frederick Preston Search to present his audiences with programs and masterpieces of unsurpassable beauty.

DENVER

The following program was given at the close of the summer session of the R. Jefferson Hall Studio:

"Vissi D' Arte" (La Tosca) ..... Puccini
"The World in June" ..... Spross
Mrs. H. C. Beeler
"The Call of the Homeland" ..... Teschemacher
"The Whispering Wheat" ..... Elliott
Miss Irene Oppenlander
"Mattinata" ..... Leoncavallo
"I Looked Into Your Heart" ..... Kahn
Gordon Miles
"Rose in the Bud" ..... Foster
"Eilcen" ..... San Souci
Miss Lillian Argall
"Roses in My Garden" ..... Le Bas
"Tell Me, Was I Dreaming" ..... Bendix
Miss Carolyne Finley
"A Reverie"
"The Brooklet" ..... Salmon
"Paraphrase on German Waltz Theme"
Theodor Salmon
"I Love the Moon" ..... Reubens
"Rose Song" ..... Wood
Miss Marguerite Clark
"I Know Not Love" ..... Warner
"L' Alba d' Amore" ..... Friml
Mrs. E. Horace Adams
"Proposal" ..... Huhn
"Queen of Loveliness" ..... Clarke
R. Jefferson Hall
Mr. Hall and Mrs. Alvah G. Talbot at the piano.

JENNY DUFAU'S CYCLE OF CONCERTS

Jenny Dufau, the brilliant coloratura soprano of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, who has achieved such a distinct success during the summer with opera in miniature at Ravinia Park, has been enjoying that species of hard work—outing—with gusto. Fortunately for Miss Dufau her engagements for the opera are not as early as some others, which enables her to take advantage of a concert season under the Johnston auspices, giving her a series of eleven big concerts in the most important centers in the east, opening with a recital in Carnegie Hall, New York, on October 19. This is one of the most important cycles of concerts thus far announced for the artists of the Chicago organization.

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL

Mr. L. Douglas Russell, whose success as a concert singer (baritone), and as a teacher, was very great last season has opened a studio at 719 Fine Arts Building and also announces the establishment of the Russell School of Music and Dramatic Art at Seventy-fifth street and Vincennes boulevard.

The faculty in this school will include Miss Louise Cozad, a pianist, whose work has often been detailed in Music News and whose successes have been pronounced. Mr. Isadore Berger, who will have charge of the violin department; Miss Mary Hester Cleary, dramatic art, and Erma Wilson, Guy Allen, and Emma Wetzel, pianists and David Jacobs, violinist, with others to be announced later.

Mr. Douglass Russell, director of the school, will be in charge of the vocal department. He has had broad and varied experience in the field of music as teacher, singer and director. One of his proudest memories is three years' membership in the unique and justly renowned A Cappella Choir of Northwestern University School of Music from which school he is a graduate. Much of his information regarding directing, the beauty of the unaccompanied human voice, sustained tone production and general vocal effects was gained in this organization under the direction of Dean Peter C. Lutkin and also in a less intimate way as a member of the North Shore Festival under the same leader. He was for several years either solo baritone or director of prominent north shore churches in Glencoe and Highland park. During the season of 1911-12 he directed the Northwestern University Glee Club producing a club that won a trip over the Santa Fe to the Pacific Coast. For several years he has been a successful teacher. During the season of 1912-13 he had charge of the voice department in Drexel Conservatory. His work as a teacher has attracted critical attention while as a singer he has received much favorable comment. His teaching and studies have further equipped him for work in the more unusual branch of voice-work, namely—the cleft-palate. His advanced work as a vocal student has been done under G. A. Grant-Schaefer of whose masterly ideas he is an exponent.

From Rev. Thomas J. Everett, Pastor, Methodist Church, Northwest Indiana Conference.—I have known Mr. L. Douglass Russell for more than a year. The results of his work as I have observed them justify me in saying that he ranks high as a teacher and voice builder. He not only knows how the voice ought to be used, but he can show his pupils how to get the right use of the voice, his ability soon wins their confidence and their success in the use of his methods kindles their enthusiasm. Several young people of my acquaintance who thought they could not sing have developed voice and been able to sing very creditably. Mr. Russell has a fine musical education, is gifted as a teacher and his methods produce results. (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

MAUDE KLOTZ

Maude Klotz made a flying trip from the Adirondacks last week to give a recital on Thursday evening in the Auditorium at Stony Brook, L. I., but notwithstanding her long journey she was in splendid voice and delighted a large audience that came from surrounding towns to hear her.

Miss Klotz was assisted in her program by Zoltan Gyongyoshalaszy, a Hungarian pianist, and Mr. Walter Kiesewetter accompanied her. The program was as follows:

"Tre Giorni," Aria.....Pergolesi
(Concert arrangement by Gyongyoshalaszy)
"Fantasia, C Minor".....Mozart
Mr. Gyongyoshalaszy
"Morning".....Speak
"Lady of Dreams".....Daniels
"Cherry Ripe".....Horn
Miss Klotz
"King of Thule".....Liszt
"On Wings of Song".....Mendelssohn-Liszt
"Rhapsody, No. 8".....Liszt
Mr. Gyongyoshalaszy
Aria, "Un Bel Di".....Puccini
(Madame Butterfly)
Miss Klotz
"Nocturne" }
"Serenade" } .....Gyongyoschalaszy
"Hungarian Fantasia" }
Mr. Gyongyoshalaszy
"Madchen Gluck".....Koemmenich
"Bergere Legere".....Wekerlin
"Chanson Indow".....Rimsky-Korsakow
Miss Klotz

While at Stony Brook Miss Klotz was entertained by Mrs. J. Elliot Langstaff but left on Friday afternoon for the mountains, where she will stay until late in September.

———♯♯♯———

Lewing.—Miss Adele Lewing will resume her piano classes at 1125 Madison avenue, New York, on September 15.

Katherine Schuster, Voice
ONLY AUTHORIZED CHICAGO TEACHER—DORA DUTY JONES METHOD OF LYRIC DICTION
Miss Katherine Schuster's long experience in teaching, her progressive spirit and receptive mental attitude, have enabled her to grasp the principles of my method so intelligently that her progress has been exceptional. I shall be glad to have the Chicago field in her hands.
(Signed) DORA DUTY JONES, Berlin, Germany, April 4, 1911.
71 The Auditorium Bldg., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS
VIOLINIST
WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago
Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

Bispham
Summer of 1913 in Australia
For Terms and Dates, Address
Frederic Shipman, 3835 Flournoy Street CHICAGO, ILL.

ALBERT SPALDING
European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT
SOPRANO CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS
Phone Austin 12717
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT 5943 ONTARIO STREET

ELLA L. MILLS PIANIST
American Conservatory and
117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

PALMER CHRISTIAN
Concert Organist Pupils Coach Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

Iva Bigelow Weaver SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Jennie F. W. Johnson Contralto
American Conservatory and
4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET
BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

Science of Expression and Musical Interpretation
Pupils Prepared for Mise-En-Scene Classes
May Mansfield
PARIS STUDIOS:
27 rue Boisleveu
Passy

HELEN GALLUP Pianist Accompanist
Address
Chicago Piano College

HERBERT BUTLER VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL
CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory 207-211 S. Main St
South Bend, Ind.
A Modern and Thoroughly Equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under Fine Faculty of Fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Sample Sent on Request Ask for Catalog
Address T. O. HICKEY, Business Manager, Box 123
MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN AMERICAN COMPOSER
In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals.
Recitals of His Compositions.
Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs
WITH R. E. JOHNSTON OF NEW YORK SEASON 1912-1913

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

ISAAC VAN GROVE
ACCOMPANIST AND COACH
716 FINE ARTS BUILDING

LIZZIE ABBOTT CLARK
Sister of Emma Abbott
Mezzo Soprano Teacher of Singing
719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
179 PLEASANT STREET MILWAUKEE, WIS.
Available for Church position. Next Season

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

FRANK W. Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN
American Conservatory Kimball Hall

JOSEPH KITCHIN VIOLINIST
5416 Jackson Avenue
CHICAGO
Phone Midway 6400

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

WALTER DIEDERICH
TENOR 608 Fine Arts Bldg., Phone Harrison 6880

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium. Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

BEN Q. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg.

BRIEFER FORM

Melba.—It is said that Melba will make some appearances with the Chicago Grand Opera Company this season.

Whittaker.—Mr. James Whittaker has accepted a position on the faculty of DuPauw University, Indiana.

Scofield.—Mrs. W. C. Scofield will present her pupil, Miss Lillian Malatesta, coloratura soprano, in a song recital on Wednesday evening, October 1, at Kimball Hall.

Blackmore.—Miss Rosa Blackmore of London, England, was a Music News visitor last week. Miss Blackmore is a pianist and expects to locate in Chicago.

Studio Time.—Part time in piano studio for rent. Reception room included. Best location in city. Suite 1516 Maller's Building, 5 South Wabash avenue.—(Adv.)

Corette.—Miss Edith Corette played a recital in dedication of the new organ in the M. E. Church at Libertyville, Ill., being assisted by Miss Carrie Chard and Milan Lusk.

Vernon.—Mrs. Mary Strawn Vernon taught all the harmony classes at the National School of Methods in Lincoln Center during August, her work being extremely successful.

Olin.—Miss Nora Loraine Olin was organist at the Waukesha, Wis., First Congregational Church on last Sunday evening, this being the first time the organ had been used after a general remodeling of the church.

Wisconsin Conservatory.—The Wisconsin Conservatory, William Boeppler, director, remains in the Stephenson Building, Milwaukee, Wis., and opened with very large classes in all departments on last Monday.

Clark.—Miss Ella M. Clark of La Grange substituted all summer for Miss Ora Johnson at St. Paul's Evangelical Church. She also served as organist for the Cook County Association Teachers' meeting at the Willard Hall throughout August.

Fallon.—Miss Rose Fallon acted as soloist at St. Mary's Catholic Church during the August vacation of the choir, and also sang at a recent wedding at Corpus Christi church. Miss Fallon was one of the soloists at the Italian garden party at the residence of Harold McCormack.

Alliance, Ohio.—The new catalog of the Mt. Union-Scio College is at hand and shows a splendid music department under the direction of Herbert Edmund Hutchinson. The courses are very well arranged and the splendid faculty includes many fine teachers, among them being Harry R. Murrison, Ruth Louise Stahl, Mabel Durrette Murrison, Zoe Peter, Grace Shaffer, Ezra H. F. Weis, Austa Belle Speck, Josephine Burrows and Violet Patterson.

Scionti.—Mr. and Mrs. Silvio Scionti have returned from a month's vacation in Colorado. Mr. Scionti resumed teaching at the American Conservatory this week and expects to fulfill a very large number of recital engagements during the season.

Christian.—Chicago friends of Palmer Christian were glad to learn early in the week that the operation for appendicitis which he had to undergo was successfully performed and that he is now on the high road to a rapid recovery.

Bonci.—From Rome comes an interview with Alessandro Bonci, bel canto tenor engaged for his first operatic season in Chicago. It will be remembered he was here last season in recital. The tenor is tactful and praises American audiences highly. What most impressed him, apparently, was the cordial support of a financial sort given by the scattered few of various communities to bring opera or recital to their midst. This, he remarks, is "most admirable in a country where 'subventions' for art are as yet unknown."

GEORGE W. MUNRO
Voice Specialist
Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.
Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.
Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.
Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

Chicago Piano College
(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. Baritone DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING
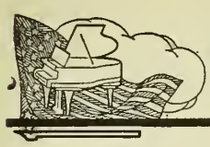
American Conservatory Kimball Hall

The Musicians' Piano Tuner
Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161



Music in America

WORCESTER, MASS.

During the week the Announcement Book of the Fifty-sixth Musical Festival has been distributed through the mail and by the music houses of the city.

It is larger than in former years, and the cover is crimson and white in design. The design, which was submitted by Miss Marion L. Fosdick of Fitchburg, won the prize offered by the festival management for this book.

The announcement contains the programs of the concerts, a list and brief sketch of the artists, advertisements of local musicians and others. There is a foreword by Dr. Arthur Mees, the festival conductor, which is instructive, and helpful to those wishing to know the policy of the directors of this festival.

He says:

Realizing the musical performances are increasing in number and importance in other than metropolitan cities, the management of these festivals feels it incumbent upon itself to impart to them the distinctive character which should differentiate festivals from concerts taking place in the ordinary course of the season. Towards the accomplishment of this purpose the city of Worcester contributes the most important factor, the one factor which no expenditure of money, no matter how liberal, can provide. The factor is its chorus, recruited from the residents of the city and from the pupils in the public shools, who represent the real lovers of music and the devotees to the musical culture of the community, and who are eager to become familiar with the best choral literature. In further pursuance of its purpose to fulfill the highest mission of musical festivals it has been the aim of the management to choose for performance choral works which can not be produced properly under ordinary circumstances, and which, because of their being of recent date, have the virtue of being novelties. This latter consideration, however, has always been made secondary to that of the intrinsic merit of the compositions as such. In Pierne's "St. Franciscus" (scenes from the life of the most beloved of saints) a choral work has been found which is peculiarly adapted to a festival performance and which will prove unusually attractive to the public. It is of outstanding importance among the works exemplifying the latest tendency in musical composition. The resources it calls for are such as can be provided on unusual occasions only.

A large and efficient chorus, semi-choruses, a chorus of children's voices, eleven children soloists, the very best solo artists, an orchestra of unusual size and capabilities, supplemented by the celeste, large and small bells and a large array of percussion instruments are required for the proper performance of this remarkable composition, which will have its first American production at this festival. Not to speak of the other features, that of the appearance of the children, both as soloists and as choristers, must prove particularly interesting. In the scene given to them alone they impersonate the birds to which St. Francis, according to legend, delivered his sermon. It is an episode delightfully poetic in conception and remarkably felicitous in realization. In striking contrast with the delicately constructed scene are such scenes as the brilliant one of the prologue, descriptive of a fete in Assisi; the dramatic one picturing the appearance of the leper; the realistic one of the miracle of the stimmata, and the tenderly impressive final scene, the death of St. Francis.

Remarkable as was the popularity achieved by Pierne's "Children's Crusade," it is safe to predict for his "St. Francis" even more widespread public approval.

For the great role of St. Francis, Worcester's favorite, the ever popular tenor, Evan Williams, has been engaged.

The work chosen for the repetition at the festival is Verdi's "Requiem," one of the most brilliant and effective of modern choral compositions. In view of the extraordinary opportunities which the "Requiem" offers to the soloist, the board of directors has secured the services of this remarkable quartet, Miss Florence Hinkle, Madame Schumann-Heink, Lambert Murphy and Herbert Witherspoon.

It is apparent, therefore, that the coming festival promises to be in point of artistic excellence and in point of attractiveness to the public at large equal if not superior to any heretofore held in Worcester.

On the back cover an advertisement of the Bancroft Hotel appears. This space has been unused for several years.

An enterprising young music lover, Bernard Wentworth Emmons, had charge of the advertising this year.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Bancroft Hotel

Worcester is rejoicing in the completion of the Bancroft, a hotel costing over a million dollars, superb in architecture, construction, situation (looking out on the old city common, and the City Hall), in convenience, in detail of hospitality for its guests, in service and cuisine.

The resident manager, also president and treasurer of the Bancroft Hotel Company, Charles S. Averill, has a lifetime experience in the hotel business, knows what guests want at a first-class hostelry, and will be sure that their desires are gratified.

To enliven and interest its patrons, a seven-piece orchestra under the leadership of Felix Tush, a noted violinist, will play from 12:30 to 2 p. m.; 4:30 to 5:30 p. m.; 6:30 to 8:30 p. m., and from 10:45 p. m. to midnight daily. From 7 to 10 o'clock Sunday night there will be music

The personnel of the orchestra is, Felix Tush, leader, first violin; Harry Tush, piano; Samuel Tush, 'cellist; John Lewin, second violin; Abraham Feder, clarinet; Louis Noudelman, viola; Jacob Tuschinski, bass.

Mr. Tush has written a new march which he has dedicated to the Bancroft.

In the corridor of the hotel, is a bust portrait of George Bancroft, Ph. D., L. H. D.,

COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
NINTH FLOOR—AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO, ILL. MRS. W. S. BRACKEN, President
Offers exceptional advantages in all departments. We call attention this week to the well known names in our piano department: Mr. Henry P. Eames, Director; Miss Jeanette Durno; Miss Marie Schada, Mr. Geo. G. Lewis, Dr. W. Waugh Lauder, Mrs. Katherine Howard-Ward, Mr. Clarence Eidam, Mrs. Mabel Webster Osmer, Miss Henriette Weber, Mrs. Chas. Orchard, Miss Marie Edwards, Miss May D. Laukart, Miss Vivian Scott, Miss Adela Laue, Miss Vera Brady, Mr. Guy A. La Belle, Miss Dorothy Peck, Miss Marguerite Dresser.

Bertha Beeman Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

H. W. OWENS, MUS. B. VOICE BUILDER COACHING
PUPILS PREPARED FOR CHURCH POSITIONS, CONCERTS, ORATORIO
Monday and Saturday—Maller's Bldg., Madison & Wabash Studio Telephone Harrison 4573
CHICAGO
Friday—2112 Washington Boulevard

Peoria Musical College 102-104 North Madison Avenue PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr. Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
6217 MONROE AVENUE
Phone

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago
SCHOOL OF MUSIC

A University Professional School, for the comprehensive study of practical and theoretical music, either as a profession or as an element of culture. Located upon the shore of Lake Michigan in Chicago's most attractive suburb.
I. Course in Applied Music, leading to the Degree of Graduate in Music.
II. Course in Theory and History of Music, leading to the Degree of Bachelor of Music.
III. Post-Graduate Course.
IV. Literary-Musical Course.
V. Course in Public School Music Methods.
VI. Normal Course in Piano Methods.
Course I., II. and V. include literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Academy without extra expense.
A thorough Preparatory Department is maintained.
The environment and social advantages most excellent.
Faculty of 25. Send for detailed descriptions of courses and book of Evanston views.
P. C. LUTKIN, Dean, Evanston, Ill.

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

FREDK J. PERSSON PIANIST ACCOMPANIST 1921 Wolfram St.

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
309 KIMBALL HALL Teacher of Singing
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

HELEN Bright-Bengel
CONTRALTO
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Regina De Sales
TEACHER OF SINGING
PUPILS PREPARED OPERA, ORATORIO, CONCERT
Rue de Villejus (Bois de Boulogne), Paris
Paris Studio Open All Summer.

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON

by T. J. M'Auliffe, which attracts attention at once.

Heroic in size, and blending with the color scheme of the decorations in Georgian design around it, the bronze portrait, vigorous in outline, yet somewhat idealized, faithfully and artistically delineates the photographs, the only guides procurable, from which the sculptor worked. The bust stands to the right of the main entrance above the fireplace.

A hall, with a seating capacity of nearly five hundred, is another feature of this modern hostelry. The roof garden, to be a fact next summer, will be a place for musical and other entertainments. A passenger elevator will take guests to this pleasure spot, and this being the first roof garden in Worcester, it will, without doubt, receive large patronage.

And crowning all is the hotel's absolute defense against fire. It is of steel and concrete construction, and this, together with its elaborate system of fire-escapes make it practically impossible for fire tragedies to occur.

Many noted men were present at the formal opening Thursday night, September 11, including Mayor George Wright of this city, and the mayors of several other cities of the commonwealth.

A New Method of Teaching Rhythm

The Progressive School of Music, Miss Winifred Mayhew, principal, will introduce into its curriculum a new method for rhythmical training, that is called Eurythmics or Esthetic Dancing (the study of musical interpretation through dancing.)

The originator of this method was Jaques Dacroze, born in Vienna in 1865, and appointed professor of harmony in the Geneva conservatory, in 1892. In 1906 the first training course, for teachers, in Eurythmics was given at Hellerau, again in 1907, and in 1909, short courses for teachers were given. In 1910 the brothers, Wolf and Harold Dohrn, built him a college for rhythmical training, at Hellerau, and there children have been developed until they can do three different rhythmical acts at the same time—mark time with the arms, timing notes with the step, and singing in a different rhythm.

These rhythms are taught, 2-4 to 12-4, in equal rhythms: 5-4, 7-4,9-4, in unequal.

Plastic expression of music with the body, sums up the purpose of the training.

This department is in charge of Miss M. Grace Greenwood, graduate of the Faulhaber Normal School of Dancing, Cambridge, who will talk on the subject of Eurythmics, at the progressive school, September 22 and 29.

This is the second year of the school, the eighteenth of Miss Mayhew's work as a teacher of piano, and the faculty includes the principal, the pupil teachers, Lottie B. Gowans, Ruth M. McNally, Flora I. Cole, Mildred Dow, Ernest L. Smith, and Miss Greenwood.

The violin department, and a sight-singing department are additional new features offered this year.

The school opened September 8.

Personal Mention

Mr. Hultman, the well-known pianist, entertained the pianist and composer of Chi-

Lucy J. Hartman
CONTRALTO
Concert Recital Oratorio Opera

MISS HARTMAN IN "MARTHA"

MISS HARTMAN'S appearances last season in Concert, Oratorio and Opera were uniformly successful.

The following comment was made on her "Messiah" appearance at Winona Lake:

Lucy J. Hartman, of Chicago, sang the contralto solos with a great deal of feeling and beauty. She has a rich and large voice and sang all of her songs with ease and confidence.—Winona Lake Edition.—Warsaw Press.

Lucy Hartman, of Chicago, sang the contralto solos beautifully, for she possesses a voice of great range and beauty and presents a good stage appearance. She was entirely at home in her chosen field and pleased the audience with her rendition of her solos.—Warsaw Daily Union.

. . . Miss Hartman appeared in Winona Lake on two other occasions, when she won the contralto solo prizes in the contests held in the great auditorium in that city.—Warsaw Press.

For Terms and Dates, Address
CHARLES E. WATT
Kimball Hall, Chicago

cago, David Nyvall Jr., for a day or two last week.

The writer had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Nyvall, who has been secured as the head of the piano department in the Hill Piano School, Jamestown, N. Y., and to fill the position of organist at the Swedish Congregational Church of that city.

Stephen E. Rich, tenor, sang the song by Marshall, made famous on the programs of Mr. McCormack, "I Hear You Calling Me," "The Foggy Dew," and "Mother Macree," other songs sung by the noted Irish tenor, at a concert at Rutland recently. His audience demanded additions to his original program.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

BOSTON, MASS.

The first rehearsal of the Boston Symhony Orchestra, is scheduled for Monday, October 6, Dr. Muck, who has been at his summer place, Gratz, Austria, most of the time during his vacation, and is expected in Boston the last of this month, will be at the desk. The first public rehearsal is set for Friday afternoon, October 10, and the first concert will be given Saturday night, the 11th.

A private concert will be given by the orchestra, in Symphony Hall with Dr. Muck conducting, as one of the entertaining functions to the delegates to the convention of the Bankers' Association, which will be held before the regular concerts of the orchestra season begin.

Auction sales of seats for the Friday afternoon rehearsal October 10, will take place Monday and Tuesday, September 29, and 30, and for the concert Saturday night following the sales will be held October 2 and 3.

The seats are all taken for the series of concerts to be given in Carnegie Hall, New York city. The programs and soloists are not yet announced.

♮ ♮ ♮

Concerts by the Boston Opera House

Frederick Lamb, who gave a very educational and entertaining series of concerts at Worcester, and in other New England and Canadian cities, with an organization selected from the younger artists of the Boston Opera Company last year, has been secured by managing director, Henry Russell, to have charge of all the concerts given by artists of the Boston organization in New England during the season of 1913-14.

Mr. Lamb, whose studio was in the Pierce building, will have his headquarters at the Opera House.

He has already completed arrangements for his company to appear in Worcester, Hartford and New Haven, and tentative plans cover every city in his territory.

These concerts are for the purpose of creating a desire to hear good music, especially opera, and it is believed that the demand for operatic productions will become so insistent in Worcester and other cities approaching it in population and wealth, as to make a limited number financially possible. The crying need of Worcester is an auditorium, or opera house, where opera might be adequately staged.

An agreement has also been made by Mr. Russell for the Boston Opera and Mr. Campanini for the Chicago Opera that allows Mmes. Claussen, Teyte, Saltzmann-Stevens, Riegelman and White and Messrs. Bonci and Giorgini to come from Chicago to Boston for various appearances during the season.

Mr. Urban, stage director of the Boston Opera House, is working upon the dresses and settings for "Monna Vanna."

These will be used in Boston and Chicago. A palace in Pisa, in the early years of the Renaissance and a tent opening upon a prospect of the city blazing with fires of rejoicing for deliverance from siege, are the scenes portrayed.

Zandonai's "Francesca," which will be given in February for the first time on any stage, will be conducted by Mr. Caplet.

Mr. Russell has not yet returned from Europe, being expected about the 27th. Mr. Hubbard, head of the publicity department, and lecturer on the operas given, is making his return slowly from the west, where his vacation has been taken, and will arrive in Boston about the 16th.

♮ ♮ ♮

Reminders

Miss Alice Eldridge, Worcester Festival pianist, will play the Liszt E flat concerto, No. 1, at the Friday afternoon concert in that city October 4.

Mrs. Carolyn King Hunt, pianist of Boston, and teacher in Worcester, is planning a reception for some of the artists of the Worcester festival and her musical friends, at her studio in that city festival week.

Mr. Mudgett, the well-known manager of the Sunday afternoon concerts in Symphony Hall, has returned from Lake Winnipesaukee, and is arranging his schedule for the ensuing season. Although arrangements are practically completed for one or more concerts, formal announcement is withheld for the present.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

ERIE, PA.

Mrs. C. W. McKean, soprano, of the Park Presbyterian Church, gave an informal musicale the other evening at her studio which brought together many Erie people prominent in musical affairs. A delightfully informal program was given by Harry Oliver Hirt, pianist; Mr. Charles Le Sueur, tenor; Mrs. McKean, soprano; Mrs. Edwin H. Brevillier, contralto; Wilson Root Bushnell, baritone; Miss Ruth Bowers, violinist; Mrs. Winifred LeSueur, reader; Albert H. Dowling Jr., composer and pianist. Mrs. Gertrude Colby was the accompanist of the evening.

The Erie Conservatory of Music opened oepned on September 8 with Peter LeSueur, as principal and Charles LeSueur, vice principal. A very interesting season is anticipated.

Franz Kohler, violinist, and Morris Williams, baritone, opened a joint studio in the Majestic Building on September 8th. It is indeed a great honor for Erie to have in her midst one who stands so high in his profession as Mr. Kohler, and while Mr. Kohler lived in Erie earlier in his life, the greater part of the past fifteen years have been spent away from here. The musicians of Erie are very glad to have Mr. Kohler with them again, and it is to be hoped that it will be a long time before he leaves his native city.

The Apollo Club will give its first concert of the season early in October with Mme.

Valparaiso Music College
Department of
Valparaiso University
Second Largest University in the United States
VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks. This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President
OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER
SOLO VIOLINIST
Welsh International Festival
MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE
SOPRANO
Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils
5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN
PIANIST
8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE
CONTRALTO
Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL
TEACHER OF SINGING
STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON
BASSO-CANTANTE
Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency
416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496
Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers
VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION
METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE
Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL
The Art of Singing
81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday
Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD LOEBER TEACHER
VIOLINIST RECITALS
Musicales
3523 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA
Contralto WAIT
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

DESTINY A Striking New Song By Jane Ogden Hunter
For Sale by all Music Dealers, or address
The Publisher, K. F. HUNTER. 2722 N. Sacramento Av.

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

Hazel Dell Neff
SOPRANO
PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN
PIANIST TEACHER
NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and
4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.
COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing
Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin
Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LESTER S. BUTLER
Voice, Harmony, Counterpoint
SPECIAL WRITER: CRITIC
Editors and others wishing articles on musical topics, gladly served.
Boston, Mass., Steinert Hall
Worcester, Mass., Day Building

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
441 Sidney Av., CHICAGO Phone Drexel 7910

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - Baritone NEWMAN
Joint Recitals Oratorio
237 North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

MARY CROFUT GIBBS
Mezzo-Contralto
Oratorio Concert Recital
404 Kimball Hall

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston, Ill.

Frances Alda and Frank La Forge as soloists. This promises to be one of the most brilliant concerts the club has ever given.

ALBERT H. DOWLING, JR.

♯♯♯

WICHITA

Wichita, Kan., Sept. 8, 1913.—The lull is on before the storm. The extreme heat is holding musical activity in the background, notwithstanding the openings of the music schools. The public schools have delayed their openings until two weeks later than usual, and the 15th will see more movement toward study. So far Power-Meyers Conservatory and the Wichita College of Music have begun enrolling. The last named school gives its regular opening faculty concert September 11 and the following is the announced program:

Concerto for piano and orchestra ..... Beethoven
T. L. Krebs and Orchestra
"Why Do the Nations?" (Messiah) ..... Handel
Harry Evans
Rhapsody No. 8 ..... Liszt
Louella Weaver
My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice ..... Saint-Saens
Elsie Randall
Polonaise in A flat ..... Chopin
Study ..... Chopin
St. Francis Walking on the Waters ..... Liszt
Otto L. Fischer
Duet—Watchman, What of the Night? ..... Sargeant
Randall and Evans
Violin Solo—
Romanze ..... Lindberg
Vienna Caprice ..... Kreisler
Liebeslied ..... von Carse
Theodore Lindberg
Ballads—
Bandolero ..... Stuart
Absence ..... Metcalfe
Ben the Bo-sun ..... Adams
Harry Evans
Wanderer Fantasie, Piano and Orchestra ..... Schubert-Liszt
Otto L. Fischer

"The Pirates of Penzance" will be given the first week in October by home talent at the Crawford Theater.

Mrs. Frederick Hella, soprano, of Wichita, was one of the soloists of the Denver Symphony Orchestra this summer.

Miss Leida H. Mills, who managed many excellent musical offerings here in the past, has moved to Portland, Ore. Miss Mills was at the head of the movement which brought here the London Symphony, Cincinnati Symphony, Schumann-Heink, Bonci, Elman, Nordica, and similar attractions and to her is due a great deal of the musical advancement of Wichita.

The third annual Wichita Fair and Exposition brings Thaviu and his band, October 8 to 18. Daily concerts will be given at the Forum.

For those who take music less seriously the announcements of the coming of Rose Stahl, Lillian Russell, Olive Vail and of Joseph Sheehan in "Salome" will be of interest. These will be at the Crawford. Minnie Maddern Fisk, Walker Whiteside, E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe in Shakespearean roles will balance in dramatic offerings the musical stars to be presented by the Wichita Chorus, a list including Paderewski, Schumann-Heink; Elman, Alma Gluck, McCormack, Evan Williams and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brokaw played Chautauquas this summer in Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, playing preludes for lectures by ex-Governor Richard Yates of Illinois, ex-Governor Buchtel of Colorado, and Senator Bentley of Kansas.

Leo C. Bryant, violinist, with the Power-Meyers Conservatory, has moved to Dallas, Texas. Ralph Brokaw has taken over his classes and takes charge of the department in the Power-Meyer School.

Mrs. Jetta Campbell Stanley, soprano, leaves soon for study in New York City.

Wonderland Park closed this week. The big musical attraction there this season was Ferullo and his band in a short engagement.

♯ ♯ ♯

Credits for Music Work

The Musicians' Club formed last year has accomplished one important tour de force if no other, and one significant of the value of a similar club in any city. It has been working on the establishment of a credit system for music in the schools for music study done outside, and have this fall been able to evolve a system whereby the high school student may receive a possible one-half credit for his work outside. This step looks important musically, as it secures credit recognition for the study in the high school at least, and is one big step for the art. This seemed to be the most important item at hand and while at this time your correspondent can not give the detailed plan whereby credited teachers will be listed, that part of the work is expected to be in the hands of the Musicians' Club, and a committee will no doubt be appointed to make the list.

♯♯♯

LIMA, OHIO

Local music patrons will be supplied, this coming season, with even more than the usual quota of good attractions, the supply being due to the activities of the Women's Music Club and to the ventures of churches in the entertainment field.

Madame Louise Homer will open the winter festivities in a song recital at Memorial Hall, early in the month of October, followed on October 16th by Clarence Eddy, concert organist, assisted by Mrs. Orville Thompson, soprano, appearing at Trinity Church, where Handel's "Messiah" will be heard on December 18, directed by Miss Millie Sonntag, with a chorus of eighty-five, a capable orchestra and soloists of renown, yet to be selected.

Sousa's Band will play in the Faurot Theater during the holidays, and the Dunbar Operatic Quartet will give a characteristic program at Memorial Hall on January 8. On February 18 Frederick Stock and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will appear in the same huge auditorium. Jennie Dufau, soprano, will sing there in concert on the night of March 12, and the Music Club will conclude its season with Vera Poppe, South African violoncellist. She is to appear at the Market Street Presbyterian Church.

Local singers will produce "Ahasuerus" on September 30 and October 1, 2 and 3. The Aborn Company will sing "Chimes of Normandy," and another yet to be selected, during mid-winter.

♯♯♯

DENVER

The ninth symphony concert of the summer season given by the Denver Philharmonic Society, Horace E. Tureman, director, took place at Elitch's Gardens on Friday afternoon, August 15.

The opening number was Dvorak's overture, "In der Natur." This is a typical expression of the composer's love for nature, and one has to interpret for himself the moods the music suggests.

Mrs. Theresa R. Eells, pianist, was the soloist. Her number was "Concerto in D Minor" (piano and orchestra) by Rubinstein. Mrs. Eells is the possessor of a clear and facile technic and an excellent sense of rhythm. She has won for herself the position of a conscientious and earnest musician. Her public work shows most careful preparation.

The orchestra was in excellent form and gave a fine reading of one of the best programs it has offered during the season.

The last two numbers were "To a Vanishing Race," Cadman (string orchestra), and dances from the opera "Prince Igor," Borodin. These last were received with great enthusiasm.

The concerts at Elitch's will close Friday, August 29. The program will be Wagnerian. Mrs. Delia Donald Ayer, a soprano of grand opera fame, is the soloist.

We people of Denver feel we owe an immense debt of gratitude to the Elitch-Longs. For many years each summer we have been privileged in hearing music of the highest order at their beautiful gardens. Their motive in presenting these concerts has been altogether altruistic, for the thought of pecuniary gain has been eliminated. They have made for themselves a reputation that is founded on something fine and strong—their unselfish giving of what has proved to be an uplift, a stimulus to the cause of music in our beautiful city.

IDA WELKER.

LOS ANGELES

Calvin B. Cady of New York, assisted by Josephine Large, has conducted a summer school in Los Angeles, Vernon Spencer also having made a specialty of summer work.

The $30,000 guarantee fund is about complete for the Symphony Orchestra, under the business management of Mr. Frederick H. Toye. At a luncheon with Mr. Adolph Tandler, the new director, I learned the plans for the season, which are quite ambitious and with the experience of the leader and the excellent ability of the orchestra membership, the season's course will be a musical success.

The key center will be Beethoven, with a centennial Wagnerian program. Richard Strauss, Glazounow and the modern of great ideas will have due consideration and the climactic work of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, with the Choral auxiliary, to crown the season's study and presentation.

The season will open in November.

♮ ♮ ♮

Riccardo Lucchesi, composer of "Marquise de Pompadour," has left for New York to supervise its presentation in that city early in the season.

An enjoyable musical evening at the home of Miss Adele Olney was given last evening, a program of merit and interest was rendered. The pianists were Miss Olney, Mrs. Louise Clark, and Mr. L. H. Campbell.

The vocalists were Mr. Walter H. Olney, baritone; Mr. R. T. Roberts, baritone, who gave two Welsh songs, and an English selection. The writer, basso cantante, gave several solos.

S. W. MOUNTZ.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 66 Rue de Seine
EVERINGHAM Hazel (Tel. North 3765) 1251 N. State St.
FORD Susie B. (Phone Seeley 1268) 750 S. Leavitt St.
GALLUP Helen (Phone Austin 11713) Chicago Piano College
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 5171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4786) 520 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. F., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.

DRAMATIC ART

PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 3751)
EMANUEL N. B. (Auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO Charles E. Watt, Mgr Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boislevant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir), 54 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av.
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3935 Flournoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.
BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 267 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. 34 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (6th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church

ORGAN

COWAN Phelps (Phone Midway 930) 5217 Monroe Av.
DEAL Alice R. 716 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6210) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 624 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6507) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo, Milwaukee, Wis. 179 Pleasant St.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2866) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (61 Schiller St.) Pianist, Organist, Accompanist
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra, Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 84 14 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4451 North Winchester Av.

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BARTHOLOMEW H. B. 502 Kimball Hall
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 35 S. Maple Street
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Milwaukee, Wis.) 558 Jefferson St.
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5065) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenu
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 338 N. Ashland Avenue
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 64 Auditorium (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3856 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Pianist—Teacher) 4009 Drexel Boulevard
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DESMOND Grace (Accompanist) 4430 Vincennes Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 523 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall

EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio
ERST Stephen Adolph 1653 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H. Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn
FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season. 2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Studio, 1527 High St.
FOERSTER Anton 1024 Lawrence Ave
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Aldine 2917) 646 Woodland Park
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236) Organist, 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur Columbia School of Music.
GODFREY Eleanor F. Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music Northwestern University School of Music
HEAPHY Alice Christine (Boston, Mass.) Worcester, Mass.—Day Building
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7046) 425 Fine Arts Building
HERSHENOW Dora (South Bend, Ind.) South Bend Conservatory
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals) 3350 North Halsted St.
LERNER Tina (New York Loudou Charlton, Manager
LEVY Heniot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence American Conservatory
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Louis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich.
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (University School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (Jamestown, N. Y.) Hill Piano School
OLIVER Mary Lindsay Moline, Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 415 W. 51st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 357 W. 63rd St.
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288) 1921 Wolfram St.
PETERSON Edna Gunnar 519 Fine Arts Bldg
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope 707 Fine Arts Bldg
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766 620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5629
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta Superior, Wis
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow 4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420) American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715) 5828 Woodlawn Av.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V. (512 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs Peoria, Ill.
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 274-J Berwyn) 515 Kimball Hall
von MICKWITZ Harold Bush Temple Conservatory
WALLACE Evangeline 522 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H. Chicago Piano Colle
WILFORD J. E. 502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str. 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L. 1516 Haller's Bldg.
WORRELL Lois Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Col'o (2226 Williams St.
ZEISLER Fannie Bloomfield 5749 Woodlawn Ave

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Louisville, Ky. Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son 820 Fine Arts Bldg.
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver Boston, Mass
DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8195) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House 528 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro., New York 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co. 67 E. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. 6119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co. 522 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G. Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 64 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co. A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. Publishers 235 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2131) 639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOLLINGER CONS. (I. Edwin Schneider, Prop.) Fort Smith, Ark.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music 69 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 509 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music 61 Auditorium Bldg
DERDIGER (Spicker) E. J., Vocal and Piano 500 Kimball Hall
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianaforte School Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music 5th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2831 Washington Boulevard
ILLINOIS College of Music and Dramatic Art 1225 N. Ashland Ave.
KROEGER School of Music (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music) 629 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir.) 309 Kimball Hall.
Morningside Conservatory Sionx City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music Evanston, Ill.
OAK PARK CONS. Music and Dramatic Art Warrington Bldg.
OSTROVSKY Institute, Hand Development 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art 65 Auditorium Bldg.
TOLEDO Musical College Toledo, Ohio
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance 42 W. 75th St., New York
VILIM American Violin School 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1515 Mallers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art. 29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 56th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

ALBERT Teachers Agency 633 S. Wabash Av.
BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency
ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S. Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C. Evanston, Ill.

THEORY

ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 715 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A. (North Shore School of Music) 4566 Evanston Av. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone North 815) Studio, 726 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Ludwig Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Douglas 9194 Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg.
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Ravenswood 141) 1962 Leland Avenue
CLEOPHAS Cornelia Studying Abroad
COHEN Sol (Cincinnati Orchestra) 628 Lincoln Ave. (Avondale) Cincinnati
DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Avee.) North Shore School of Music
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall
DEVORE Jessie (Phone 6071 Drexel) 4634 Lake Av,
DRAKE Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.
EVANS Clarence B. (San Francisco 1549 Octavia St.
FISCHEL Max I. 510 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst) 106 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 426 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4355) 4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon R. (Phone Belmont 2569) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Maurice H. Chicago Musical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KITCHIN Joseph 5416 Jackson Av.
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517) 3533 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago Branch, Kankakee, Illinois
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nussbaum School of Music) 4654 Grand Boul.
PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York.
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 530 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island) Vilim, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston) 1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music
STEINDEL Albin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1325 Birchwood Av.
TOWNSEND Winifred 411 Kimball Hall.
VAN AIKEN Hal G. Soloist and Principal, Violin Dept., So. Bend (Ind.) Conservatory
WALKER Sadie (Phone Belmont 4534) Cosmopolitan School of Music
WOODARD Guy Bush Temple
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis) 22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory 606 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.) 64 Auditorium Bldg.
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert (Phone Hyde Park 5760 6365 Ingleside Avenue
BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 419 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.
BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005) 303 Kimball Hall
BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.) Northwestern University School of Music

BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist) 6119 Greenwood Ave.
BISPHAM David 44 W. 44th St., New York
BLAAHA Wayne Anton (Phone Douglas 9194) Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg.
BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg. Drake School of Music
BOGERT Walter L. (Baritone) Pres. N.Y.S.M.T.A. Aeolian Hall, New York City
BOLLMAN Maude Fenton Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.
BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York) Care Haensel and Jones
BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 6819) Kimball Hall
BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8520) 4822 Madison Ave.
BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium) Cosmopolitan School of Music
BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor) 1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.
BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2269 Northwestern Uni. School of Music
BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3885) (Harry Culbertson, Manager)
BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio) Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
BRUEGGER Frederick 720 Fine Arts Bldg.
BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth) 7022 Vernon Av.
BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041) 727 Fine Arts Bldg.
BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.) Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau
BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183) 520 Fine Arts Building
Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass. 413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.
BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 5485) 612 Fine Arts Building
CASE Harriet Auditorium Bldg.
CHEATHAM Kitty (New York) 274 Madison Avenue
CHENEY Mary (New York) 500 Carnegie Hall
CHILSON-OHRMAN Luella, (Soprano) 4603 Sheridan Road
CLARK Charles W. (Paris) 12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.
CLARKE Edw. 613 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831) Residence Phone, Douglas 3722)
CLARK Lizzie Ahhott Res. 5498 Cornell Av. (Phone Hyde Park 6971)
CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152 Sherwood Music School
CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone) Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11
CLIPPINGER D. A. 410 Kimball Hall
CONANT Alice Widney (Soprano) University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.
CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher) 721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495
COOK Dwigbt Edrus (Tel. Oak Park 2091) 120 N. Oak Park Ave., Oak Park, Ill.
COOK John Loring (Tenor) 300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 6156)
CORLEW Mabel (Contralto) 4202 Prairie Ave, (Phone Harrison 973)
COUDERT Pbilippe (Paris, France) 6 rue Edmond About
CRAMER Alice Ione 801 Lafayette Parkway
CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor) 234 W. 57th St. (Pbone Normal 5373)
CUTLER Ethel Connely (Phone Wentworth 4304) 427 Fine Arts Bldg.
DAHLSTROM Margaret 3242 Clifton Ave.
DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique 30 Rue Marheuf. Champs Elysees, Par
DE SALES Regina (Paris, France) 40 rne de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)
DeYOUNG Richard B. American Conservatory
DEVRIES Herman 618-628 Fine Arts Building
DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478) 816 S. Harvey Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.
DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310 710 South Central Park Avenue
FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio H. B. Turpin, Manager
FARNUM Mrs. Frank 3359 Warren Ave.
FARRELL Joseph (Kansas City) 201 Studio Building.
FICHTNER Lndwig Carl (Basso-Cantante) 149 Tremont St., Boston
FITCH Mrs. Wilhur (Pbone Longwood 408) 9648 Howard Court
FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg 5906 Ontario St. (Contralto)
FRIDENBERG Abbie L. (New York) Studio 110 Carnegie Hall
FRISBIE Constance (Soprano) 5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)
GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782) 318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.
GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886) 3435 Flournoy St.
GARTON Samuel B. (Home Phone Ravenswood 6392) 323 Soutb Wahasb Av.
GANNON Rose Lutiger 715 Kimball Hall
GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone) 413 Kimball Hall
GIBBS Mary Crofut (Res. Phone—Longwood 1633) 404 Kimball Hall
GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone) 1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.
GINGRICH Irving (Dir. Wawasee Summer School of Music.) Ins. Soutb Bend (Ind.) Conservatory
GRIFFITH Milton B. (Soutb Bend. Ind. Conservatory) Chicago Address, 522 Kimball Hall
GERHARDT Elena (Wolfsohn) 1 W. 34. New York.
GROW Ethel (Pbone Northb 2635) 1002 Dearborn Av.
GERVILLE-REACHE Jeanne, (Haensel & Jones) 29 W. 42nd, New York
GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art) 623 Fine Arts Bldg
HADLEY Grant (Tenor) Suite 73 Auditorium Building
HAGGERTY-SNELL Ida (Phone Morningside 3810) 2881 Broadway, N. Y. City

HAIGHT Irma (Detroit, Mich.) 955 Third Avenue
HALL William John (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497) 423 Fine Arts Bldg.
HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher) 72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.
HAMILTON Jessie Mack, (Phone Ravenswood 325) 714 Kimball
HARRIS Milon R. 403 Kimball Hall
HART Belle 509 Kimball Hall
HARTLEY Sybil Owen, (Atlanta) 999 Piedmont Av.
HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Concert, oratorio and opera) care of Music News
HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.) Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)
HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Building
HERDIEN Mabel Sharp 5132 Kenmore Ave.
HEUCHLING Mathilde 712 Fine Arts Building
HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923) Chicago Musical College
HINKLE Florence (Soprano) 294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)
HINSHAW William Wade (New York) Metropolitan Opera Company
HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003) 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson) 304 Kimball Hall
HOLT GeorgeNelson 509 S. Wabash Ave.
HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano) 3800 Broadway, New York
HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 10511) 5836 Washington Blvd.
HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544) Auditorium Bldg.
Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland) Tudor Mansions, 3615 Pine Grove Av.
HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante) South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.
HUNTER Jane Ogden (Phone Belmont 6530) 2722 N. Sacramento Av.
HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880 608 Fine Arts Building
HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund Alliance, Ohio
HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267) 501 Kimball Hall
IKERT Charlotte (Contralto) Management Harry Culbertson
JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Pbone Drexel 6104) 4937 Michigan Ave.
KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8619) 4433 Racine Avenue
KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Edgewater 868) North Shore School of Music, 4666 Evanston Av.
KIMBALL Roscoe (Baritone Management Harry Culbertson
KIMBELL Grant (Tenor) 5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831
KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
LA BERGE Charles (Baritone) American Conservatory
LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 8774) 1375 East 54th Street
LASH De Witt Durgin (Phone Harrison 6365) 420 Fine Arts Bldg
LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6830) 6450 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1
LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335) 4460 Berkeley Av.
LINDQUEST Albert (Pbone West Pullman 366) 237 E-113 Street
LONGMAN Marie Wbite, (Contralto) 1311 E. 53rd St.
LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola 3814 Ellis Avenue
LUND Rene S. (Baritone) 2453 W. Monroe Street (Pbone Seeley 6602)
LUND Mme Edla Scandinavian Song Program
LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J) 1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.
LYNCH Mirian Goodbue (Voice Builder) Drake School of Music
MacBURNEY Thomas 609 Fine Arts Building
MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060) 3422 Fulton Street
McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439) 3620 Parnell Av.
MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France) 27 rue Boislevant
MARCUSSON Grace Brnne (Pbone West 661) 2469 Jackson Boul.
MERCER Ella-Freeman (Pbone Edgewater 7402) 5256 Berteau Av.
MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.) 209 Wesley Av.
MILLER Nevada Van der Veer (New York) 749 West End Av.
MILLER Christine 1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.
MILLER Herbert 808 Fine Arts Bldg
MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn) 1. W. 34th St., New York
MILLER John B. (Tenor) Chicago Musical College
MOSHER L. Drew 137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.
MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone) 1155 Belmon Ave
MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles) 446 W. 40th Place
MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.
MULREY Mabel V.—Soprano—Pianist 47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.
MUNRO George (Studio) Pbne Harrison 4677 300 Athenaeum Bldg.
MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano) 2 Fairfield Lane, Pittsburgh
MURRISON Harry R. Alliance, Ohio.
NAZOR Naomi (Pbone Midway 7122) 1215 E. 53rd Street
NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano Plymouth, Ind.
NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11198) 237 North Howard Av., Austin
NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York) 330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)
NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5509) 4125 Drexel Blvd.
OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute) 303 Kimball Hall
OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147) 2112 Washington Blvd.

PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London, England) Care L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent St.
PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto) Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.
PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.) Toledo Musical College
PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3246) 4173 Lake Av.
POTTER Mildred (Contralto) Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St., N
PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.) Winona School of Music
PROTHEROE Daniel 610 Fine Arts Bldg.
RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Building
RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 6782) 1738 Humboldt Boulevard
RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor) Barre Plains, Mass.
RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 251 413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av.
REED Esta Asher (Soprano) Abroad for a season
REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165) 5627 Indiana Av.
REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg) 202 Nixon Building
RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.
ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877) 7205 Stewart Ave.
RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto) Principal Liederheim, Auburndale, Mass. L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 5265)
RUSSELL 719 Fine Arts Bldg.
RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448) 3100 Lexington St.
SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing 999 Walnut St., Newton Highlands, Mass.
SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano) 401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.
SCHUSTER Katherine 71 Auditorium Bldg.
SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York) Wolfsobn Bureau
SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 459) 408 Kimball Hall.
SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner) St. James Bldg., New York
SEVERINGHAUS Edna Reiffert (Soprano) 63 Auditorium Bldg.
SHELP Dr. H. Wm. 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor) 516 Kimball Hall
SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano) 4044 Indiana Av.
SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano) 6523 St. Lawrence Av.
SMIDT Mahle Corlew (Pbone Austin 12717) 5943 Ontario St.
SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173) 625 Madison St., Gary, Ind
SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano) Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Obio
STEELE Mary Hinman 603 Kimball Hall
STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgb) Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.
STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48) 4439 Calumet Av.
STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building
STEPHALI Sofia (Phone Midway 5912) 6106 Kimbark Av.
STEVENSON Lucille 4436 Berkeley Avenue
STROMFELD Raoul (Berlin, Germany) Stuhhenstrasse 9
STULTS Walter A. (Evanston) Northwestern University School of Music
TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L. Lewis Institnte, Pbone West 793
THATCHER Burton (Res. Phone Drexel 4861) Chicago Musical College
THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano) Zion White Roked Choir Zion City, Ill.
THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082) 620 Fine Arts Building
TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Pbone Edgewater 3765 Bush Temple Conservatory
TORRENS Mr. and Mrs. L. A. (Ninth Floor) Andltorinm Bldg., Wabash Av.
TOWNS Kirk Cbicago Musical College
TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor) 813 La Salle Av.
TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949) 404 Kimball Hall
VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Hyde Park 4678) 1370 E. 61st Street
WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380) 428 Fine Arts Building
WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2958) 1325 E. 64th St.
WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Pbone Oak Park 4397) 206 S. Lombard Av., Oak Park.
WATSON Ruth Swing 2226 E. 62nd St.
WEAVER Iva Bigelow Mack Block, Milwankee Wis.
WEBSTER Frank B. 719 Kimball Hall
WEGENER Mme. Justine Rush Temple Conservatory
WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone) 61 Auditorium Bldg.
WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 6946) Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal
WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 1 E 34th St., New York
WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Pbone Rogers Park 1607 728 Fine Arts Bldg.
WILCOX John C. (Teacher) Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo.
WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio) 516 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS Dr. Carver (Samuel B. Garton) Auditorium Bldg
WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey 406 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS H. Evan Akron, Ohio
WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway 6107 Woodlawn Av.
WYNN Bessie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall
WYCOFF Eva Emmet 500 W. 143rd, New York
YOUNG Walter S. (801 Carnegie Hall, New York) Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair, N. J.
ZENDT Marie Sidenius (Wilmette, Ill.) 719 Park Av. (Phone 849-R Wilmette
ZIMMERMAN Ogliata 72 Auditorium Bld

Facts You Should Know

Before you make your choice is the time to find out all there is to be learned about the instrument that is to furnish the music for your home or studio for years to come.

Find out for yourself not only how pianos are built but how they are sold.

Learn the facts regarding the STARR piano—how it is made in one of the largest and best equipped factories in the world and how coupled with every known factory facility, that counts for efficiency and economy, there is employed the greatest creative ability and the most competent workmanship.

Everything that has been learned in a half century of piano building is utilized in the building of the STARR piano of today to make it as perfect a piano as human ingenuity can devise.

The STARR LINE of PLAYER PIANOS and PIANOS is sold absolutely at ONE PRICE—this means that every purchaser pays the lowest price for which the instrument he buys can be sold.

Investigate before you buy. Call or write for information regarding prices, terms, etc.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Subscribe for

Music News

Music News of this issue will reach many people who are not subscribers—many of them in fact will see it for the first time. To such we offer the explanation that we are making a special

Promotive Campaign

and are sending sample copy ONCE to very many people who do not often read music papers. We invite all such to become

Subscribers

The cost of the paper is only two dollars a year—which is only four cents a week, and for that sum we will bring to your home

Every Week in the Year

full and adequate announcement and review of the concert and opera situation of the country.

A Premium of One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music given to each new subscriber and each renewal

Send Your Subscription Today
Before You Forget It

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic
(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport, Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN TH E WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

Vol. 5 CHICAGO, SEPTEMBER 19, 1913 No. 38

CORNELIUS VAN VLIET
POPULAR DUTCH CELLIST. AMERICAN T OUR 1913-1914

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Chicago, September 19, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

United States, per year postpaid.....$2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's, Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are chargel to their accounts.

Frances Bowser, Business Representative

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs. Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block

TOLEDO, OHIO
Frank E. Percival
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20
Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

Editorial

A BIG NOVELTY FOR MINNEAPOLIS

With musical Europe all agog awaiting the first performance of Richard Strauss's latest orchestral work, "Festliches Praeludium," dedicated to the opening of the new "Konzerthaus" in Vienna, Sunday, October 19, word comes from Emil Oberhoffer, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, announcing that he has been offered and accepted the rights for the first American performance of this important work. He states that he will use it as the opening number of the first concert of the season, Friday, October 24, just five days after the Vienna performance.

At the request of Dr. Strauss publicity concerning the work is to be withheld until after the Vienna concert, but so much is known, that the work is sensational, and tremendous in its climaxes.

Mr. Oberhoffer is in Berlin and will sail for this country at the end of the month.

SOME EARLY FALL CONCERTS

As a sample of the excellence of the work being presented in many quarters, Music News today prints several programs which were received during the week:

♮ ♮ ♮

Indianapolis

The Indianapolis Conservatory presented Charles H. Gabriel, pianist and Johann Berthelsen, baritone, in the following program, on Sept. 12:

Toccata and Fugue ..... Bach-Tausig
Mr. Gabriel
Wanderlied ..... Schumann
Am Meer ..... Schubert
Ungeduld ..... Schubert
Mr. Berthelsen
Pastorale Varie ..... Mozart
Nocturne, F Major ..... Chopin
Prelude, D Minor ..... Chopin
Mr. Gabriel
At Dawning ..... Cadman
Mifanwy ..... Forster
Mr. Berthelsen
Sarabande ..... Debussy
Prelude ..... Debussy
El Mogrado (From Suite for Orchestra) .....
..... Charles H. Gabriel
Mr. Gabriel
Prologue, I Pagliacci .....Leoncavallo
Mr. Berthelsen
Rhapsody, Op. 11, No. 3 ..... Dohnanyi
Mr. Gabriel
Miss Alta M. Randall, Accompanist

♮ ♮ ♮

Denver

Mr. Paul Clarke Stauffer presented his pupils last Saturday in this program:

Concerto D Minor, Allegro ..... Mozart
Cadenza by Hummel
Gertrude Gibson
(A little artist pupil of 10 years)
Six Preludes Op. 28—Nos. 1, 2, 19, 17, 5, 16 ....
..... Chopin
Elfentanz ..... Popper-Kundinger
Maynard Andrus
(A "Summer School" pupil only)
Six Preludes Op. 28—Nos. 4, 10, 6, 18, 9, 22 .....
..... Chopin
The Two Larks ..... Leschetizky
Etude in E Major ..... Thalberg
Dora Vandebergh
(A member of the Teachers' Certificate Class)
Six Preludes Op. 28—Nos. 15, 8, 21, 11, 12, 24....
..... Chopin
Etude Japonaise ..... Poldini
Etude Chinoise Op. 25, No. 3.....Arensky
Blanche Havnes-Jacobs
(Member Artists' Class)—
Song Cycle, Love's Epitome.....Salter
Since First I Met Thee
In the Garden
She Is Mine
Dear Hand, Close Held in Mine
Requiem
Filomena Sarconi
(Member Teachers' Certificate Class)
Symphonic Variations .....Franck
Maynard Andrus
Six Preludes Op. 28—Nos. 15, 8, 21, 11, 12, 24 ....
..... Chopin
Puck .....Phillipe
Gertrude Gibson
Concerto D Minor, Moderato.....Rubinstein
Blanche Haynes-Jacobs
Orchestral Parts to Concertos and Symphonic Variations on Second Piano—Mr. Stauffer

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Carl Fallberg, pianist, and his wife, Mme. Gunhild Sjoestedt, soprano, gave the following program at the Central Christian Church of Denver last Thursday evening:

Ballade in form of Variations.....Grieg
Prolog
A Mother's Sorrow } .....Grieg
Ragnhild
Echo Polka .....Hebbe-Dannstrom
Nocturne F Sharp Major.....Chopin
Polonaise A Flat Major.....Chopin
Shadow Aria from "Dinorah".....Meyerbeer
Castilian Dance .....Albeniz
Rhapsodie, C Major.....Dohnanyi
Mandoline
Rain } .....Debussy
Merry Go Round

♮ ♮ ♮

Frankfort, Ind.

Miss Lyravine Votaw of Chicago sang the following program on September 4, illustrative of "Child Life:"

Bed-time Stories—
The Sandman .....Brahms
Rock Him to Sleep.....Bingham
Mighty Lak' a Rose.....Nevin
A Necklace of Love.....Nevin
Nursery Rhymes (Represented by Living Pictures)—
By Elizabeth Coolidge
Little Miss Muffet
This Little Pig
Little Boy Blue
By Edmund Rickett
Pat-a-Cake
Baby Bunting
Little Bo-Peep
Jack Horner
Mistress Mary
The Old Woman
Favorites with Little Folk—
By Jessie Gaynor
The Little Shoemaker
The Tulips
The Woodpecker
Sweet-Pea Ladies
Turkey Gobbler
Jerushy
Daisies .....Hawley
The Red Parasol.....Bingham
The Balloon Man.....Bingham
Up in a Swing.....Nevin
The Cuckoo Clock.....Grant-Schaefer
Character Songs of Children in Other Lands
(Represented by Children in Costumes)—
By Otto Miessner
Holland
Greenland
China
Japan
Scotland
Germany

THE LULL BEFORE THE STORM

As far as Music News knows there was not a single concert in Chicago last week, and very few the week before, the appearance of David Bispham at The Majestic

(Continued on Page 20.)

Music News

Music in Chicago

OPERATIC NOTES

William Lines Hubbard, for many years musical critic and musical editor of the Chicago Tribune, who for two years past, has been associated with the Boston Grand Opera, visited friends in this city a few days this week, on the way from his home in California to his place of occupation in Boston. Mr. Hubbard is optimistic over the outlook for opera in Boston this season, considering that it will surpass all previous records.

Marta Wittkowska, the most promising singer and the best study of all the young singers who have appeared in the Chicago Grand Opera Company, who sang contralto roles here the first season of opera, and mastered no less than seven grand opera parts, new to her at that time, has developed into a dramatic soprano and last year filled leading roles at the grand opera at Frankfort-on-Main, and in Hamburg. This year she has been engaged for the opening season at Covent Garden, and will make her first appearance on November 3, creating the title role in "Jeanne d'Arc." On the 6th, she will sing at that famous opera house, "Isolde." During the season, she is booked to appear in her successes of last season in Germany, in "Fidelio," "Brunnhilde," "Salome," and "Carmen."

The domain of the stage is so frequently neglected, it may be comforting to the song birds to know that this important residence of art in the Auditorium, has been thoroughly renovated, redecorated and refurnished, during the summer, as far as it concerns the dressing rooms.. In order to provide for contingencies of temperament. as well as sanitary surroundings, the management has put on three coats of paint, and then covered it with a coat of white enamel. New carpets and new furniture have also been provided for all the dressing rooms.

A delightful story is told of Aristodemo Giorgini, one of the noted group of tenors, associated with the Chicago Grand Opera Company, indicating that Cupid still has the call, outside the calloused world of commercialism. He had studied four years under the greatest possible difficulty, occasioned by financial stress, and finally after singing at minor opera houses, received a contract to sing at La Scala, to replace the famous Russian tenor, Sobinoff. The manager announced that he must appear in "Don Pasquale," in two weeks. It was a wonderful opportunity, and while the young tenor was profoundly sensible to the compliment, he said that he must have a week's more time. The manager in great wonder, remarked: "Why? Why, this is the opportunity of a lifetime." Thereupon, the young tenor remarked: "I am engaged to marry a girl, my sweetheart, in Naples, in two weeks from today. My first duty is that." The manager conceded the point in favor of sentiment. Giorgini appeared a week later than scheduled, and made a pronounced hit. It is possible he may appear in that role during the Chicago season.

On next Monday the chorus school of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, will commence its sessions at the Auditorium, under the direction of Chevalier E. B. Emanuel. The advantage of this organization, offering free instruction in all the operas of the repertoire, is unequaled. Application for voice trial should be made to Director Emanuel, in person, Monday morning at 10:30.

Glenn Hall, the tenor, formerly with the Metropolitan Grand Opera, who was announced as appearing with the Chicago Opera Company, will not be connected with that organization. He has signed a contract for light opera, to which he is better adapted.

AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

The twenty-eighth season of the American Conservatory opened most auspiciously, the attendance exceeding that of any previous year, especially the non-resident students being strongly represented. Every member of the faculty of seventy artists has resumed his work with the exception of Adolf Weidig who will arrive October 1st from his vacation abroad.

But few new instructors have been added to the faculty, the majority being familiar names long prominent in musical affairs of this city and recognized as among the finest artists in this country.

The high class of numerous advantages offered to the students will be fully maintained, including the superior Teachers' Training School with its many lectures on important musical subjects, the Children's department under the capable direction of Louise Robyn, the Students' Orchestra under Herbert Butler and the Saturday afternoon series of recitals by both the faculty and advanced students.

The classes of the Dalcroze system of Eurhythmics will be a new department of absorbing interest to music students. Miss Lucy Duncan Hall, who has lately returned from abroad where she had a thorough training under the personal direction of Dalcroze at Hellerau, Germany, will be in charge.

BALLMAN HAS A BIRTHDAY

Martin Ballman, the very popular band and orchestra leader, who made so great a success at the Cotton Exposition at Galveston in August and who has been playing at Forest Park the past three weeks, celebrated a birthday on Friday last and his friends helped him to make it a memorable occasion.

On Friday evening his entire band followed him all the way from Forest Park to his home in Edgewater and gave him a midnight serenade, after which festivities were indulged in the Ballman home until the early morning hours.

On Saturday night the management of Forest Park gave Mr. Ballman a very handsome gold medal and the employes of the park contributed a great basket of roses, both these being presented on the stage and a speech being made by the manager, which was notable indeed.

This gentleman said that although Ballcan confessed to but forty-five years of life it yet seemed, from his musical attainment that he must certainly be seventy-five, while his appearance was such as to justify the belief that twenty-five was the limit.

Mr. Ballman declined to make any spoken response to all this felicitation, but indicated, through his spokesman, that he would play "as much as the audience wanted." This came near being an impossible promise for encore followed upon encore for a half hour or more.

The work of the band at this time was excellent. In the marches and other dance pieces as well as in those popular songs which the general public likes so well Ballman and his men are of supreme excellence. There is certainty of rhythm, brilliance in the coloring and always light and shade in pleasing measure. As a sample of what they really can do, when the public allows it, Mr. Ballman presented an arrangement of "Lohengrin," which was good music in

REFLECTIONS FOR PIANOFORTE STUDENTS

By SIDNEY SILBER

You may quite reliably judge of the mental emotional calibre of a pianist by his programs, for programs are artistic creeds. If the artist "lives up" to his creed, your anticipations will be realized.

Do not judge an artist's progressiveness by the number of novelties which he presents. Judge him solely by the kind of novelties and the manner of their presentation.

Plasticity is one of the pianist's most valuable assets.

Many so-called artists and musicians are only musicologists. They know a great deal about music—but they do not MAKE music.

The world-at-large is neither interested nor inclined to acknowledge young struggling artists. They must fight for recognition. They must create a demand for their services.

There are three kinds of pianists, viz: (1) Those who have something to say and whose technical equipment is adequate; (2) those who have nothing to say and who would not have, even though their technic were adequate; (3) those who have something to say, but whose technic is inadequate—all of which is but another way of saying that there are good, bad and indifferent pianists in the world.

It is easier to be novel than original in interpretative art.

Belief in yourself, plus inspiration of a superior and sympathetic instructor will make you as good a pianist as you were intended to be.

Don't aspire to become a "second anybody." The world is not interested in seconds.

Piano playing, at its best, is musical photography. If you desire musical oil-painting, you will have to look for it in a first class symphony orchestra.

It matters little whether an artist becomes great in the interpretation of small forms (de Pachmann) or in the large forms (Busoni). Fresco and miniature each have a legitimate place in the esteem and affection of real art-lovers.

It matters less what you play than HOW you play.

The great messages in music remain eternally new if "re-created" by great artists.

In spite of the awe-inspiring numbers of public pianists, the number of really elect may still be counted on the fingers of both hands.

The piano is the easiest musical instrument to learn and the most difficult to play.

(Concluded)

every sense of the word and which was received also with acclaim.

Mr. Ballman soon after the close of the summer season will begin work at rehearsals for the Sunday afternoon concerts which he is to present at Lincoln Turner Hall throughout the winter, beginning in October. C. E. W.

AT ORCHESTRA HALL

The twenty-third season of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Frederick Stock conducting, will open October 17 with this program:

Overture, "Academic Festival".....Brahms
Symphony No. 7, A major, Opus 92, poco sostenuto-Vivace, allegretto, presto, allegro con brio .....Beethoven
Rondo, "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks"....Strauss
Suite, "Petite," barcarolle, cortege, menuet, danse ..... Debussy
Symphonic tableau, "The Kremlin," Opus 30..... ..... Glazounow

Among the soloists to appear at the twenty-eight Friday afternoon and Saturday evening concerts this season will be the following:

Vocal—Mme. M. Matzenauer, Leo Slezak.
Piano—Ignace Paderewski, Harold Bauer, Leopold Godowsky, Mrs. Fannie B. Zeisler.
Violin—Eugene Ysaye, Fritz Kreisler, Jacques Thibaud, Carl Flesch, Harry Weisbach, Hugo Kortschak.
Harp—Enrico Tramonti.
Violoncello—Jean Gerardy, Bruno Steindel.

The Chicago Chamber Music Society announces seven concerts to be given on Thursday afternoons in Orchestra Hall foyer. The organizations engaged are the Chicago String Quartet, the Chicago Wood Wind Choir, the Kneisel Quartet and the Flonzaley Quartet. The dates are:

December 4—The Chicago String Quartet.
December 18—The Chicago String Quartet.
January 15—The Chicago Wood Wind Choir.
January 29—The Kneisel Quartet.
February 19—The Flonzaley Quartet.
March 19 The Chicago String Quartet.
April 7—The Chicago String Quartet.

The Wessels & Voegeli management announces the appearances of the following artists in recitals and concerts for the coming season:

Violinists—Jan Kubelik, Fritz Kreisler, Eugene Ysaye, Jacques Thibaud, Harry Weisbach.
Pianists—Ignace Paderewski, Leopold Godowsky, Harold Bauer.
Ensemble—New York Philharmonic Society; The Flonzaley Quartet.
Vocalists—Mme. Melba, Edmund Burke, Miss Maggie Teyte, Miss Julia Culp, John MacCormack, Mme. Clara Butt, Kennerly Rumford, Miss Alice Nielsen.
Violoncellist—Jean Gerardy.

The first recital of the season will be given in Orchestra Hall on Sunday afternoon, October 5, by Jan Kubelik, the Bohemian violinist, and one week later, October 12, in the same hall, Mme. Melba will be heard. The following Sunday, October 19, Miss Maggie Teyte will make her first appearance in Chicago for the season at Orchestra Hall.

THE MAGNUS STUDIOS

Contrary to her custom, Mrs. Florence Magnus has already opened her Fine Arts Building Studio, this being a month earlier than usual, this concession being made to the very large class of pupils insisting on an early resumption of work with this excellent voice teacher.

Associated in the studio with Mrs. Magnus is her son, Rudolph Magnus, a tenor with most pleasing voice and personality

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

CHARLES LaBergé Baritone
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

FRANK B. WEBSTER
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Bush Temple Conservatory
STUDIO—SUITE 719-722 KIMBALL HALL

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Have you seen the new Musical Journal

Every person interested in Bands or Orchestras should receive

The Army and Navy Musician

Here is a journal that makes its influence felt—one that is valuable to all its readers.

Write for FREE sample copy.

The Army and Navy Musician
ELKHART, IND., U. S. A.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Edna Reiffert SEVERINGHAUS
Mezzo Soprano - Teacher of Voice
63 Auditorium Building

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Anniversary Number

The Fifth Anniversary Number of Music News, which will be dated October 10th, 1913, is already assured to be a splendid success.

The advertising space has been subscribed to a very large degree—but there is still some of it for sale. Make your reservations promptly, please. Call, Write or Telephone, Harrison 7169.

Music News

and also a teacher who has been very successful in his work.

Mr. Magnus has classes in Hinsdale and will also devote two days a week to the work in the Mary Wood Chase School, besides continuing his classes in the Magnus Studios.

———♯♯♯———

PREMIER FACULTY RECITAL

The first faculty program of this season in Chicago and the very first of the new Russell School of Music and Dramatic Art, was held at the Auburn Park M. E. Church on Tuesday evening, the participants being Mr. L. Douglas Russell, baritone; Miss Louise Cozad, pianist; Miss Mary H. Cleary, reader, and Mr. Isadore Berger, violinist, Miss Cozad acting also as the accompanist and accomplishing her work in that field with much distinction.

A motto on the back of the announcement of the school reads: "Music is Love in search of a word," and surely, in this concert the "word" was found in the group of short songs given by Mr. Russell for, here was an exposition of musical interpretation and a correctness of poetical insight rarely encountered.

Mr. Russell showed his good voice and his fine method in a "Messiah" aria earlier and in this number entirely convinced the audience of his sincerity and his musicianship—but, the four songs, "The Horn" (Flegier), "Boat Song" (Ware), "Banjo Song" (Homer) and "The Road" (Armstrong) not only formed the keystone of the program, but it was indeed an unusual accomplishment along the line of expressive singing.

Mr. Russell has a voice which does his bidding readily and his presence and style are very good—but, it is in his sincerity of interpretation and his deftness in reading text that he excels—and on Tuesday this group was made wonderfully potent by the certainty with which it was presented, the absolute clarity and meaningfulness of the text enunciation and the poesy with which it was overspread.

Miss Cozad played the "Hungarian Dance" (Brahms) in which she so excels as an opening number and later was heard in the Grieg "Sonata" entire. This stupendous work was given with absolute truth as to its varied content and with a warmth and breadth of musical feeling very unusual.

Mr. Berger played the "Rondo" of Saint-Saens with fine tonal quality, in spite of the fact that the movement was too slow, and pleased greatly in Schubert's "Serenade," his second group not being heard by this writer, while Miss Cleary, a reader of distinguished gifts held close attention to her numbers.

Mr. Russell is to be distinctly congratulated on the auspicious opening of his school and the fine showing made by his faculty.

Situated at Vincennes and Seventy-fifth streets, this school has a splendid field all to itself and with such excellence of courses and teachers as are shown in the catalog and were further emphasized in the program of Tuesday evening, it is very easy to predict distinct and constantly growing success.

C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

JAPANESE FESTIVAL

A Japanese Fantasi, under the management of Fannie E. Warren, will be given on next Friday afternoon at 2:30, with the picturesque garden of Mrs. A. W. True's residence in Hinsdale as its setting. "A Flower of Yeddo," a quaint Japanese playlet, will be produced under the direction of Miss Frances Donovan. The beneficiary is the portrait prize fund of the Municipal Art League of the Chicago exhibition committee.

The complete program for the afternoon's entertainment follows:

A JAPANESE FANTASI

Song Cycle "Sayonara" ..... Cadman
Helen Abbott-Beifeld

A Flower of Yeddo
(Japanese Comedy)

Adapted from the French by Victor Mapes.

Cast:

Kami ..... Miss Louise Suess
Sainara ..... Miss Violet Weyland
Musme (Sazhima) ..... Miss Miriam Doyle
Taiphoon (Djouros) ..... Miss Frances Donovan

The action takes place in an arbor of Kami's little country house, near Yeddo.

Danseuse ..... Miss Frances Benedict

The dances include:

Japanese Etude
The Danza ..... Chadwick
Punchinello ..... Herbert
"One Fine Day" from Madame Butterfly.....Puccini
Helen Abbott-Beifeld

———♯♯♯———

Studio Time—Part time in piano studio for rent. Reception room included. Best location in city. Suite 1516 Maller's Building, 5 South Wabash avenue.—(Adv.)

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

Daniel Protheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

BOLLINGER CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
I. EDWIN SCHNEIDER, Proprietor
FORT SMITH, ARK.
FACULTY—I. Edwin Schneider, Florence Mitchell-Schneider, Exene T. Nixon, Hulda A. Deden, Clark W. Young, Mary Boyd, Pauline Curtin, Edgar Robinson, Frederick P. Baily.
EMIL LIEBLING, Musical Examiner Piano Department

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO 955 Third Av., Detroit, Mich.
Chicago address, care of Music News

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

Effa Ellis KEYBOARD HARMONY
203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
Tel. Douglas 701 OMAHA, NEB

Katherine Howard Ward
ORGANIST and ACCOMPANIST Tel. Ravens'd 2152
Teaching Cosmopolitan School of Music

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
ABROAD FOR SEASON

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

Harriet Case SOPRANO
Management Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., Second Floor

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

H. B. Bartholomew
Teacher of PIANO AND VOICE 502 Kimball Hall

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

Churches

FESTIVAL SERVICE AT ST. JAMES' CHURCH

Sunday, September 21, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, will be held the first festival service for the season at St. James' Episcopal Church, Cass and Huron streets. The choral service will be sung by the vested choir of forty men and boys, and the anthems to be used are as follows: "Grieve Not the Holy Spirit" by Stainer and "Praise Ye the Lord" (the 150th Psalm) by Randegger. The "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis" will be sung to the setting in B flat by P. C. Lutkin. Mr. John W. Norton, organist and choir master, will be the soloist for the occasion. His program follows: "Cantilene" by Wheeldon, "March of the Priests" Mendelssohn, "Indian Summer Sketch" by Brewer, "Lied des Chrysanthemes" by Bonnet, "In Summer" by Stebbins and the Guilmant "Grand Choeur" in E flat.

These festival services are held the third Sunday in each month, from September till June, and some of the soloists to be presented during the present season will be Mr. Robert Birch, organist; Miss Florence Hodge, organist; Mr. John R. Rankl, baritone; Mr. Harrison M. Wild, organist; Mr. George Fraley, baritone; Dr. Francis Hemington, organist; Mr. William Belknap, organist; Masters Paul Alexis Heise and Earl Abramson, sopranos, and others to be announced later.

SAINT PETER'S

The regular monthly festival services of St. Peter's Church choir will be resumed next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock and thereafter, on the evening of the third Sunday of each month.

The choir, under the direction of Herbert E. Hyde, organist and choirmaster, will sing the following program: Buck's "Sing Alleluia Forth," Gounod's "Unfold Ye Portals Everlasting" and a "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis" by Aitken.

Following the service Mr. Hyde will give a brief organ recital consisting of the D Minor Fantasia and Fuge of Bach; Three Pieces, Chauvet; Toccata, Fifth Symphony, Widor.

SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH

Second Baptist Church has engaged Mrs. E. N. Bonney of Oak Park as soprano soloist. The organist engaged is Byrl E. Ballard recently of Janesville, Wis.

Miss Ethel Hall of Oak Park is retained as contralto.

J. Whelden Williams, tenor, sung last Sunday evening.

The choir is under the direction of Edward Clissold.

ST. JAMES' M. E. CHURCH

Music program for Sunday morning, September 21:

Organ prelude: "Chorale and Andante".....Bartlett
Hymn:
Response by Choir.....Hanscom
Anthem: "To Him Be Everlasting Praise".....
(Daughter of Jairus) .....Stainer
Gloria Patri
Anthem: "Art Thou Weary".....Tina Mae Haines
(See Hymn No. 293)
Offertory: "Mary and the Evangelist".....Massenet
(Mary Magdalene)
Hymn:
Response by Choir.....Burdett
Organ Postlude: "March for a Church Festival"....
.....Best

CHURCH CHOIR

Miss Naomi Nazor .....Soprano
Miss Esther May Plumb .....Contralto
Mr. Frank Barnard .....Tenor
Mr. Charles F. Champlin .....Bass
Miss Tina Mae Haines .....Organist and Director

Sopranos—Agnes Roberts, Martha Harris, Helen Rubel, Louise McKee, Lola Leathermann, Margaret Brayton, Anna Hoerger.

Altos—Emma Jenkins, Mildred Marshall, Martha Schiller, Ruth Brayton, Charlotte Upp, Myrtle Mason.

Tenors—Davies Lazear, Ben Cox, Jean Van Arsdel.

Bassos—Earl Newman, C. F. Alfvin, Angus Chassells.

BACH CHORAL SOCIETY

The first rehearsal of the Bach Choral Society, John W. Norton, conductor, will be held in the regular rehearsal hall, 4039 West Madison street, Monday evening, October 6. Applications for active membership are now being received by the business manager, Harriet Martin Snow, 64 East Van Buren street (in Summy's Music Store), who will make appointments for trial of voices.

Mr. Norton has already organized the Boys' Choir which will be used in addition to the regular chorus of mixed voices in the first concert, and they have had several splendid rehearsals.

BORROFF PUPIL ENGAGED AT EMPORIA

Carl Lundegren, a pupil of Albert Borroff, has been appointed to take charge of the vocal department of the Kansas Normal School at Emporia, Kas.

A MUSICAL CATECHISM

A neat little book "compiled by a Professional Musician," contains 101 of the most important Theoretical Questions, with very concise and sensible answers, couched in language at once scholarly and simple.

This book, though so modestly assigned to "musician," is really the work of Petrowitsch Bissing, a serious minded and thoroughly artistic violinist who has recently taken a studio in Kimball Hall.

TEACHERS' CHORUS

The Chicago Teachers' Chorus for Women is now forming under the guidance of a committee from the Chicago Principals' Club. Mr. O. E. Robinson will be the director of this unique chorus and the first rehearsal will be held on Friday evening, October 3, at 7:30, in the Principals' Club room, Mallers Building, Chicago.

Williams.—Mr. Evan Williams will give a song recital at Carnegie Hall, New York on November 7.

People & Events

CORNELIUS VAN VLIET

Few artists have appeared in America during the past decade whose work has so quickly won a place in the first rank and who have been so enthusiastically received by the public as has Cornelius van Vliet, the Dutch 'cellist whose picture appears on the front page of Music News today.

MRS. ELSA VAN VLIET

Mr. van Vliet is a 'cellist whose technic is of the transcendent variety and whose musicianship is on a correspondingly high plane.

CORNELIUS VAN VLIET

His tone is so rich and vibrant and his musical feeling so fine that each interpretation offered by him is convincing and beautiful.

Mr. van Vliet, contrary to most European artists who have come to America, spends his entire time here and does not consider it necessary to go to Europe for the summer.

During the past month Mr. and Mrs. van Vliet have been living at their summer home at Lake Minnetonka, Minn., the pictures showing both these artists and also their cottage.

Cornelius van Vliet will continue his work as solo 'cellist with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra during the coming season and will also play extensively in recitals throughout the country.

Elsa van Vliet, who has a soprano voice of much beauty, was born and educated in Tireuse (Italy), her father being German and her mother a Viennese. Mr. and Mrs. van Vliet were married in Munich and made their home in Vienna previous to their coming to America.

SUMMER HOME OF MR. AND MRS. VAN VLIET AT LAKE MINNETONKA

Mr. and Mrs. van Vliet say that their summer at Lake Minnetonka has been the most pleasant of their lives.

———♯♯♯———

Whittaker.—Music News inadvertently gave the impression last week that James S. Whittaker, who has just been elected to the faculty of the De Pauw University at Greencastle, Ind., would give up his Chicago teaching. As a matter of fact, Mr. Whittaker will continue his Chicago work at his studio, 606 Fine Arts Building, on Mondays, making the trip from De Pauw every week for that purpose.

———♯♯♯———

James.—Miss May Rosella James, soprano, spent seven weeks at Colorado Springs and Denver during the summer and sang in the latter city in a number of concerts, as also at St. Mary's Church for three Sundays.

STEINDEL ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
RECITALS and MUSICALES. ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY.
Music Critics say: "Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose playing inspires and 'Makes Not Mars' the soloist."
2650 BURLING ST. TELEPHONE DIVERSEY 8470

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art.
Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT, Sec.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Herbert E. Hyde
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
STUDIO: 407 Kimball Hall RESIDENCE: 1370 E. 61st St.

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

CHARLOTTE LOUISE PETTIBONE
Piano Accompanying Instruction
224 North Prairie Av., Austin, Chicago

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

van Vliet The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4365

Alice Ione Crame
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

North Shore School of Music

Broadway and Leland Ave.

The Ideal School for Resident and Out of Town Pupils.

WILLIAM A. WHITE, President. Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, William A. White, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC AND THEORY, William A. White. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul

ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated)

CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar

TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868

All the Leading Artists
Are Featuring
Palmer John Clark's
New Song
Someday, Sometime
Published in four keys

Low in Eb	Med. low in F	Med. high in G	High in Ab

For Sale Everywhere

GAMBLE HINGED MUSIC CO.
CHICAGO

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studebaker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production | Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. | 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

MINNEAPOLIS ORCHESTRA

In a letter received at the office of the Orchestral Association of Minneapolis, Mr. Oberhoffer, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, and at present in Europe, announces the following partial list of works to be performed or under consideration for performance this winter.

♮ ♮ ♮

First Performance in America

Richard Strauss—Festival Prelude, Op. 61, for grand orchestra and organ. (Written for the dedication of the new concert hall at Vienna, Sunday, October 19. This number will open the program of the first concert, Friday, October 24, and will be the second performance anywhere of Strauss's latest orchestral composition.

Arthur Hinton—Symphony No. 2, in C minor. (First produced by the London Symphony Orchestra in London.)

Hugo Alfven—Symphony No. 2, in E major. (Produced at the Swedish Musical Festival at Stuttgart.)

♮ ♮ ♮

First Time in Minneapolis

Symphonies—

Hadley—Symphony, "North, East, South and West."

Rachmaninoff—Symphony in E minor.

Schumann—Symphony No. 3, E flat major. "Rhenish."

Symphonic Poems—

Saint-Saens—Symphonic Poem, No. 4, "La Jeunesse d'Hercule."

Rachmaninoff—Symphonic Poem. "Die Toteninsel," Op. 29.

Richard Strauss—Rondo, "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," Op. 28.

Debussy—Prelude to "L'Apres-Midi d'un Faune."

Tschaikowsky—Fantasia, "Francesca da Rimini," Op. 32.

Suites—

Charpentier—Suite, "Impressions d'Italie."

Dohnanyi—Suite, Op. 19. New).

Foote—Four Character Pieces, (Op. 48), from the "Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam."

Sinigaglia—Suite, "Piemonte," (sopra temi popolari), Op. 36. (New).

Sibelius—Suite, "Scenes historique," Op. 66. (New).

Miscellaneous—

Stenhamer—"Midwinter," Op. 24.

Ravel—Valses nobles et gallantes.

Delius—A Dance Rhapsody.

Humperdinck—Three pieces from "Die Koenigskinder."

Hahn—Suite for Woodwinds, harp and piano.

Wagner—"Schmiedelieder," from "Seigfried."

Weidig—Capriccio. (New).

In addition to the above numbers Mr. Oberhoffer has chosen the following symphonies from the regular repertoire of the orchestra for performance during the season:

Beethoven—Symphony No. 3, E flat major, "Eroica."

Beethoven—Symphony No. 5, C minor.

Brahms, Symphony No. 2, D major.

Brahms, Symphony No. 4, E minor.

Cesar Franck— Symphony in D minor.

Tschaikowsky—Symphony No. 5, E minor.

JOHN W. NICHOLS

John W. Nichols, the well known tenor, has already opened his studio at 330 West Fifty-eighth street, New York City, and is now busily engaged training the voices of aspiring young students who have come to him from all over the country. Mr. Nichols' singing at Chautauqua, N. Y., Assembly and at Ocean Grove, N. J., this summer, has added a number of pupils who have realized in his work the bel canto they wished for themselves, and have therefore come to New York to pursue their studies with him.

Mr. Nichols has studied with the very best masters in the old world as well as here. In Paris he was under Jean de Reszke, who became greatly interested in him, foreseeing a promising future for the young man. He said Mr. Nichols' voice was perfectly placed owing to the good work under Dr. Carl Dufft of this city, and Edward Iles of London, combined with his own efforts and a naturally good voice as a foundation. Recently he has had some special study with Sig. Braggiotti, of Florence, Italy, with whom Riccardo Martin, studied in Italy. Mr. Nichols is a teacher who does not overlook the fact that nature has her share in the work of cultivating a voice, and his large class of pupils is delighted with the simplicity of his explanations.

MARGED EDITH JONES

Miss Marged Edith Jones, Mus. Bac., piano and composition instructor at the Ohio State University, at Athens, for twelve years, passed through Chicago September 6, en route to take charge of the piano department at the Idaho State Normal college, Lewiston, Idaho. This position of importance was secured for Miss Jones, whose credentials and reputation are of high order, by the Clark Teacher's agency, Steinway Hall, Chicago.

The Misses Edna M. Martin, of Chicago, and Emasue Wilson, of Meridian, Texas, both graduates of the Sherwood Music School, in public school music and sight reading, have secured school positions, Miss Martin at the Lincoln school, Maywood, Ill., and Miss Wilson at Meridian,

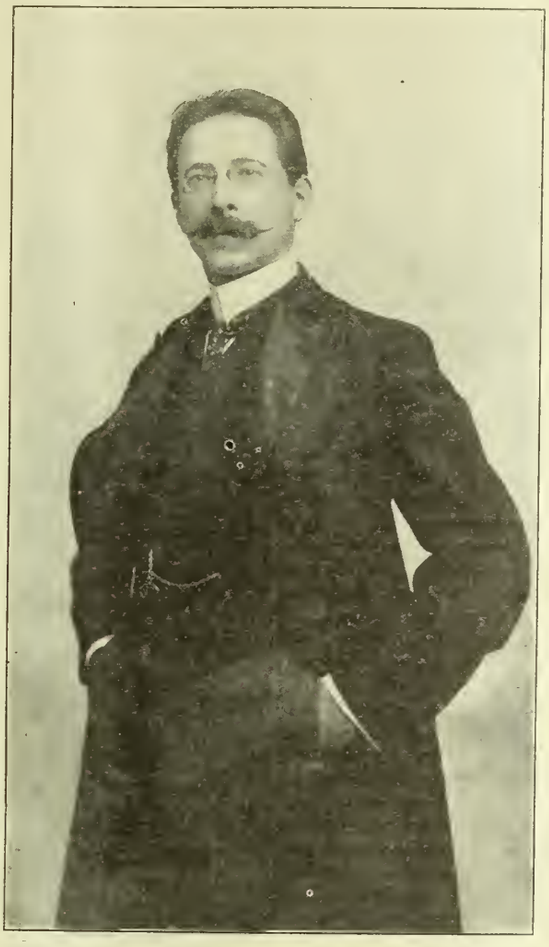
Thomas N. MacBurney
Baritone Voice Production Song Recitals
Three years assistant to King Clark
608-609 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago Phone Harrison 6880

EDWARD B. FLECK

Mr. Edward B. Fleck of Denver reports that prospects are fine for a very busy and very successful season. Mr. Fleck is a piano teacher of such magnetic personality and fine reputation that he draws pupils from many points in the vicinity of Denver and, as a matter of fact, his bookings for the coming season include students from several other states than Colorado.

On September 26, Mr. Fleck will give a program of chamber music in Denver in connection with Alexander Saslavsky, the concertmeister of the New York Symphony Orchestra and Mr. Fred Barthen, a 'cellist of Denver.

The program will comprise the Cesar Franck "Sonata" and a "Sonatina," by Dvorak for piano and violin, and also the "Trio" in G major by Mozart.



EDWARD B. FLECK

CECIL FANNING

The following are press comments upon Mr. Fanning's singing at Newcastle-on-Tyne, one of England's chief musical centers, a city of 500,000:

Newcastle Daily Journal, March 31st, 1913.—Mr. Fanning soon demonstrated that all the fine tributes to his powers which had preceded his own arrival were in no sense exaggerated. He has a beautiful quality of voice, an even and extended range, and he uses it with the utmost command and artistry. As an interpretative artist he must also take high rank. He sang a couple of numbers by Schubert, "Der Wanderer" and "Wohin?" in faultless style, and with a wonderful command of vocal tone. In a suite of Old English songs we had much vivacious and masterly singing, with an altogether new, original and typical American interpretation of Madam's haughty disdain in "The Keys of Heaven."

Newcastle Daily Chronicle, March 31st, 1913.—The next point of interest was the introduction of Mr. Cecil Fanning, who more than justified the reputation that had preceded him from his native America and from Germany on this his first appearance in England. He has a marvelous command, color, a surprising clarity of diction, and is master of most styles from the intensely dramatic songs of Schubert and Loewe to the delightful humors of the Old English songs, and of the most graceful and musicianly of the moderns. He gave examples of them all, infusing exceeding dramatic force into those of the two first-named composers, while his "Over Hill, Over Dale," "Dame Durden," and "Keys of Heaven" were full of winning charm of expression.

Yorkshire Post, Newcastle, March 31st, 1913.—Mr. Fanning is both a fine baritone and a comedian with an astonishing variety of interpretation. He gave a memorable reading of Loewe's tragic and immortal ballad "Edward," which made a profound impression, and he sang Liza Lehmann's "The Mad Dog," and also "No! John!" with an irresistible comic touch.

MR. AND MRS. REED MILLER

Mr. Reed Miller and Nevada Van Der Veer Miller have returned from their summer in Europe much refreshed physically and in excellent musical trim for their season's bookings, which are the heaviest they have yet filled. They will appear in nearly all the large cities of the east and middle west. These engagements include oratorio and recital engagements for each of the artists and many appearances also in joint recital.

The Musicians' Piano Tuner
Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty

639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161
Mrs. Else Harthan-Arendt
Concert, Oratorio and Recital
Care of MUSIC NEWS or 5742 CALUMET AV

J. E. Willford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
1450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5166

The ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE
OF THE NEW AMERICAN SCHOOL OF VOCAL ART
(Founded by Anna Groff-Bryant.) Exclusively a Vocal School. Offering courses distinctively Cultural and Vocational. Instructions given in classes and private individual lessons. Ninth school year opened October 1, 1912. Send for booklet giving full particulars. Address THE ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE, 522 to 526 Fine Arts Building, Chicago.

ELLA C. BIGELOW
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
AKRON, OHIO

Grace Desmond
Pianist and Accompanist
4430 Vincennes Av. Phone Drexel 6846

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians
by Horace D. Hitchcock
A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original.
The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:
"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."
For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cents Postpaid.

THE ALBERT TEACHER'S AGENCY
633 S. Wabash Av., Chicago, Ill. C. J. Albert, Mgr
Special department for Music Teachers. Good positions in Colleges, Conservatories, Normal Schools, Public Schools.
Address Music Department. Western Office, Spokane, Wash

PERMELIA GALE

Permelia Gale, the contralto, spent the summer in Southern California, giving programs in many of the beautiful homes in Los Angeles and near-by places, including Pasadena, Oxnard, Santa Barbara and Ventura.

Among the Los Angeles musicales, was an interesting program given at the home of Mrs. Stimson, who is well-known throughout the west as a patroness of music and art. As a result of this successful appearance, Mrs. Gale was engaged to give a second program in April, when she will make a hurried trip to the west, filling engagements with prominent clubs along the coast, including the Friday Morning Club and the Ebell Club of Los Angeles, the musical club of Ventura, and the musical club of Eureka, as well as a private musicale in the home of one of Pasadena's wealthy citizens. A number of engagements are being arranged in San Francisco and in Fresno.

PERMELIA GALE

The coming season promises to be a very busy one for Mrs. Gale, as aside from her recital and oratorio engagements in and around Chicago and her position as soloist in the First Congregational Church of Oak Park, she has been made a member of the faculty of the Bliss School of Music of Oak Park, and will teach vocal music at the Academy of Our Lady at Longwood, one day each week.

———♯♯♯———

SIDNEY SILBER

Following is some comment on the work of Sidney Silber, pianist, who is shortly to appear in Chicago:

Mr. Silber's playing of the Henselt "F Minor Concerto" elicited such spontaneous outbursts of applause that the artist was obliged to respond to nine recalls.—Berlin (Germany) Lokal-Anzeiger, (Translation.)

Of an interest quite extraordinary was the playing of Sidney Silber whose interpretation of Chopin's "B Flat Minor Sonata" was marked by mature understanding, plastic touch, and beautiful tone.—Berlin (Germany) Boersen-Courier. (Translation.)

Sidney Silber is a pianist of the great order. He has power and the finest of dreamy delicacy. He has a marvelous technic, whirling in its velocity and clean as perfection. The audience gave itself over to real loving admiration and demanded a repetition of the work.—Des Moines Capital.

Sidney Silber belongs to the iron-fingered intellectual type of pianists. He is an artist given to massive effects, to great striking rhythms, and to a definite ordering of the dynamic forces of the keyboard. Bach could hardly be in safer hands.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Mr. Silber's Schumann playing was of an unusually high order which bespeaks best of all musical intelligence and feeling.—New York Musical Courier.

As a Chopin player Mr. Silber was fully as satisfying as he had been in the bigger and heavier numbers which preceded the group. The brilliancy and clearness of his technic in the six difficult studies were an example of the almost unattainable. All in all, the concert has seldom been excelled in its effectiveness by even the performances of the great international celebrities who have visited this city.—Lincoln, Nebraska State Journal. (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

CHARLES W. CLARK, THE FAMOUS BARITONE, IN NEW ROLE

The latest story about Charles W. Clark is exciting great interest amongst his numerous friends and admirers. The great singer has been spending the week ends motoring to the many interesting places in France. He is generally accompanied by his brother, Dr. Frederick Clark, a well-known physician from Chicago. On the last trip in the chateau district, Chinon was the objective point, and a most enjoyable visit was made, the surrounding country being extremely beautiful and very hilly in character. On the return journey the large motor was crowded with the party in high spirits, and speed was being made. A long steep hill offered a tempting prospect and the car was going at the rate of about fifty miles an hour. The road was clear, but there is always a "but;" the trouble generally is the cross roads; at the bottom suddenly a teamster and his wagon hove into sight. A warning screech from the siren only seemed to all the more bemuddle the wits of the peasant, for he tried to turn around. This was so clumsily done that though the brakes were set hard on the car, and she was swerved as far as possible to the right, yet she caught the wagon and the driver was tumbled out. Charles W. Clark was out before the car could be stopped, and Dr. Clark, who always carries his emergency kit on his travels, as people are continually seeking his skilful services, hurried up to the hurt man, and with the famous singer, who generally holds first place on the stage, now playing the part of a surgeon's assistant, helped wash away the blood and bind up the wounds, which proved after all not to be serious. With his customary genialty and compelling magnetism, Charles W. Clark soon had the man in a good humor, and with a large tip to cover his anxiety and fright, and a good caution to look well next time at what he was driving into, the automobile party climbed aboard, and directly the motor was humming merrily on to Paris.

MAY MANSFIELD.

———♯♯♯———

HAROLD HENRY

Mr. Harold Henry, whose success at Peterborough, N. H., was so genuine, and who is booked for an unusually heavy season of recitals, has reopened his studio at 426 Fine Arts Building, and has already an extremely interesting and large class. Many pupils have come to him this fall from surrounding states.

PIANO TEACHER WANTED—A leading music school can give a capable teacher one to three afternoons per week; must play well; age 20 to 30. Address "College," care Music News.

TO RENT—Kimball Hall Studio; Tuesday, and Wednesday and Saturday a. m. Address Music News.

TIME TO RENT—In large studio in Fine Arts Bldg. Address W. D. Music News.

WANTED—Pupils in German by teacher who has studied in Germany; reasonable rates. Miss House, phone 3056 Drexel.

PIPE ORGANS—If the purchase of an Organ is contemplated, address HENRY PILCHER'S SONS, Louisville, Ky., who manufacture the highest grade at reasonable prices.

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TEACHER TENOR DIRECTOR
120 North Oak Park Av., Oak Park, Ill.

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone O. P. 4397. 206 South Lombard Av., Oak Park
Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

Wm. Clare Hall
Tenor
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Sara Burdick
TEACHER OF VOICE
Concert, Oratorio, Recital
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
727 FINE ARTS BUILDING

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

Shipley Watson
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
Pupil of Heinrich Barth, Berlin; Martin Krause, Leipzig; Edward MacDowell, New York; Carl & Rheinhold Faelten, Boston. 4414 Main St., Kansas City, Mo.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS, PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

CONSTANCE FRISBIE

Miss Frisbie gave a very successful recital at Battle Creek, Mich., last week, the local press commenting as follows:

The recital given in the Sanitarium Gymnasium last evening by Miss Constance Frisbie, a lyric soprano of Chicago, served to fill the large room to its capacity, the audience being appreciative as well as of goodly proportions. Miss Frisbie, who has studied in Boston and is also a pupil of MacBurney of Chicago, an instructor of high rank, has a very pleasing voice which she uses with perfect ease, her singing being especially free from mannerisms. With tones of a smooth and velvety sweetness, Miss Frisbie chose her selections with good taste and each number received generous applause. She sang groups of songs by Brahms, Lehman and Hildach, a charming number being "Haymaking" by Needham, also two numbers with F. Harry Strong, the assisting artist. Mr. Strong is too well known as an artistic whistler to need any words of praise. His selections included solos from the grand operas, "Rigoletto," "Lucia di Lammermoor," two numbers with Miss Frisbie and several encores He was a decided favorite last evening, sharing honors with Miss Frisbie. Ward French, a fine pianist of East Tawas, Mich., graduate of the Albion Conservatory of Music, played the accompaniments for the whistler, proving himself an artist in pianoforte work. Mr. French chanced to be in the city yesterday and his services were enlisted, the two having been associated in concert tour to the coast. Mrs. Clarissa Dickie-Stewart played Miss Frisbie's accompaniments, thereby assisting in the pleasing impression made by the vocalist, who sang thirteen numbers and several encores entirely from memory.—Battle Creek Union.

CONSTANCE FRISBIE

Four musicians of rare talent entertained 700 persons last night in the gymnasium at the Battle Creek Sanitarium.

Miss Constance Frisbie, a lyric soprano from Chicago, gave the recital. She was assisted by the local favorite accompanist, Mrs. Clarissa Dickie-Stewart; Battle Creek's well known whistler, F. Harry Strong, and his accompanist, Ward French of Chicago.

Miss Frisbie possesses a clear, rich voice, which is especially pleasing when she sings lullabies. Her rendering of Lehman's "Beautiful Land of Nod," was well appreciated. Brahms' "Lullaby" was another favorite with the audience.

Perhaps the most enjoyed number of the entire program was "The Song of the Soul," which has become so famous through its connection with the drama, "The Climax." This number last night was given by Miss Frisbie and Mr. Strong. Mrs. Stewart accompanied them.

"Carissima," the closing number of the program, as given by Miss Frisbie and Mr. Strong, was received with a feeling of regret that the program had come to an end.

By coincidence, Ward French of Chicago, who has accompanied Mr. Strong on many of his whistling tours throughout the country, arrived in Battle Creek yesterday and consented to play last night.

Both he and Miss Stewart are accompanists of rare skill. Their work added much to the enjoyment of last evening's program.—Battle Creek Journal. (Advertisement.)

VON ENDE MUSIC SCHOOL

The following program was given at the last concert of the summer session of the Von Ende School of Music in New York by Mr. Eugene W. Adams, baritone; Mr. Lawrence Goodman, pianist; Master Harold Micklin, violinist; Miss Ethel Stone, contralto; Mr. Samuel Saron, violinist; Mrs. Toku Takagi, contralto; Mrs. Nathaniel Parker Turner, soprano; Mr. Duane Bassett, accompanist.

PROGRAM

Scherzo in G minor ..... Chopin
Mr. Goodman
When Song Is Sweet ..... San Souci
When Love Is Done ..... Lynes
Spring Again! ..... Wright
Mrs. Takagi
Valentine's Aria (Faust) ..... Gounod
Mr. Adams
Margaret am Spinnerade ..... Schubert
Mrs. Turner
First Movement from Violin Sonata ..... Rubinstein
Mr. Saron
Toreador's Aria (Carmen) ..... Bizet
Mr. Adams
Oh! Star Deceive Me Not ..... Franz
A Swan ..... Grieg
Devotion ..... Strauss
Miss Ethel Stone
Air Varie ..... Vieuxtemps
Hungarian Fantasy ..... Hauser
Master Micklin
Marie ..... Franz
Serenade ..... Tschaikowsky
Mr. Adams
Waldesrauschen ..... Liszt
Nocturne in G flat ..... Liszt
Appassionata ..... Liszt
Mr. Goodman

MRS. WILBUR FITCH

Mrs. Wilbur Fitch, soprano, assisted by Mr. Charles L. Hutzler, bass, gave a beautiful program of songs, Sunday afternoon, September 7, at "The Oakhurst" in Longwood. A varied program was given, perhaps the most enjoyable numbers being the duets, "Passage Bird's Farewell," Hildach, and "Amore," Pinsuti, in which the blending of the two voices was most beautiful. Mrs. Fitch expects to give a number of studio musicales during the winter.

Stevenson.—Lucille Stevenson has sent out cards announcing her return from Europe and the fact that she has resumed teaching at the Cosmopolitan School of Music in Chicago.

OVATIONS TO FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

It is interesting to note the pride with which several cities are claiming Frederick Preston Search as past resident. When this talented young 'cellist and composer first returned after his six years of study and concert successes in Europe, his first recital in America, excepting one at Knoxville, Tenn., was announced for Cincinnati. Hearing of this, the suburban village of Wyoming, Ohio, where his parents live, protested against such home-coming recital being given in any place excepting in their own midst, and a petition, signed by over 250 most eminent citizens, was presented to the noted 'cellist, asking that such first formal American appearance should be in Wyoming. In consequence of this remarkable interest, a Wyoming evening was arranged just one week in advance of the Cincinnati recital; and the entire population, by representatives from every home, turned out to honor the rising young 'cellist who had been bringing so great honor to the community of his school days.

The 'cellist's father, Professor Preston W. Search, the eminent educator, author and lecturer, twenty years ago was city superintendent of schools at Los Angeles, and this made another home of spontaneous interest. Learning that the young soloist was touring the Northwest last December, Southern California caught him by urgent invitation at Seattle and rushed him by special arrangements and fast trains to Los Angeles, for special appearance as artist at the greatest convention of the year, where he was greeted by a most enthusiastic audience of over four thousand in the great Auditorium. Subsequent audiences in Los Angeles, closely following the convention appearance, made him feel the generous welcome that California knows so well how to express.

Frederick Preston Search, however, was born in Pueblo, Colorado. The 'cellist had not expected to appear there last season; but an invitation came in such a way that a recital could not be denied. A citizens' committee of eighteen eminent members, headed by Ex-Governor Alva Adams, Dr. R. W. Corwin, surgeon-general of the Colorado C. & F. Co., Mrs. W. L. Hartman, Mr. W. L. Graham, Prof. J. F. Keating and others, was appointed to arrange all details for a community ovation, and, when the evening came, a representative audience, such as was probably never known in the history of Colorado, gathered to welcome the musician to the city of his birth. As Governor Adams, in telegraphic report of the occasion, felicitously phrased it: "The only unhappy people today are those who did not attend the Search recital. It was a wonderful triumph. Frederick Preston Search admits Pueblo as his birth-city; so the future will have no

Further Comment on the Work of

Sidney Silber

Is as Follows

He approaches his work from the standpoint of finish of detail and so the Schumann Novellette had the real kaleidoscopic effect. Liszt's Rigoletto Paraphrase was finely given and encores graciously added. The last number by MacDowell was the best of all and strengthened the adage that "it takes art to discover an artist."—Daily Star, Lincoln, Neb.

The playing of the second piano concerto of Saint-Saens by Sidney Silber was an astonishment to those of us who were so lamentably ignorant of the presence of such a rare artist in one of our neighboring states. It was a magnificent event in every way for both the soloist guest and for Conductor Oberhoffer's orchestra.—Daily News, Minneapolis, Minn.

His phrasing is clear and decisive, and his technic is clean and brilliant, one would almost say scintillating. There was never a moment of obscurity and he was tremendously applauded when he finished. He played Liszt's Rigoletto Paraphrase for an encore and showed abundance of technic in doing it. The audience desired another encore, but the hour was growing late and so it was impossible to grant it.—Musical Courier, New York.

Sidney Silber, pianist, received an ovation and well he deserved it. He revealed a most adequate technic, a massive style where it was demanded and an equally superb pianissimo upon occasion. His playing is characterized by which stamps the musician, by a brilliancy which is expected in the virtuoso.—Register and Leader, Des Moines, Iowa.

RUTH ALTA

ROGERS

PIANIST

If desired, Recital Programs will be opened with explanatory talks on the compositions to be played.

MANAGEMENT
CHARLES E. WATT 522 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Bergey

CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL

Voice Piano

430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Chicago Concert Trio

ALBERT E. FOX, Piano WILLIAM HOFMAN, Violin
MARJORIE DODGE WARNER, Soprano
Management CHARLES E. WATT Kimball Hall.

Elias Bredin

TENOR
NINTH FLOOR, AUDITORIUM BUILDING

Homeric contest as to where a genius was born."

The following report from the Pueblo Star-Journal will indicate the musical success of the evening, besides which were receptions and public testimonials galore:

"Friday evening was the occasion of the recital appearance of the violoncellist, Frederick Preston Search, in the city of Pueblo. A large audience was present to do honor to the musician born in Pueblo and every one showed appreciation in a marked degree.

"Mr. Search displayed a complete mastery of his instrument and delighted his audience with compositions from Bach to the present day American composers. His versatility is remarkable; and the unmistakable grasp of the composer's intent convinced those present of the soloist's deep and artistic insight. Throughout the evening new beauties of his talent revealed themselves and he was accorded a veritable ovation, responding graciously with numerous encores. With the assistance of his accompanist, Walter Chapman, whose playing was faultless, Mr. Search opened his program with the Sonata in A. Minor by Grieg, one of the most fascinating and beautiful sonatas ever written; and the interpretation of this number was one of the most pleasing ever heard in Pueblo. After the wealth of melody in the slow movement the audience sat spell-bound for several minutes and then burst into tremendous applause; but the 'cellist refused to repeat this part, afterwards remarking that such repetition often impairs the artistic structure of a program. However, there were more treats to follow. The second part of the program contained three of the soloist's own compositions, which showed him to be a composer soon to be known throughout the world, just as his reputation as a 'cellist now includes him among the greatest of living soloists.

"What could surpass his rendition of the prelude from Bach's Sonata for 'cello alone? We only wish that the entire sonata might have been included in the evening's program. Then his rendition of two numbers by David Popper showed him to possess a faultless technique and easily proclaimed him a thorough musician. MacDowell's sketch was a delicate piece of melody. The two following numbers were recently heard here at the concert given by Mlle. Alma Gluck and the Boston 'cellist, Alwin Schroeder. The Cadman number never sounded better and the applause following the well known Beethoven Minuet was so insistent that this number had to be repeated. It was very interesting to make comparisons between the three 'cellists heard here this winter and it is safe to say that Mr. Search can compete with any. Cassini, the young Russian now touring with Mme Sembrich, was a classmate with Mr. Search while he was yet a pupil of Dr. Julius Klengel in Leipzig, Germany, and the young men have many qualities in common, due to this association.

"Space does not permit of more than mentioning several of the most brilliant numbers played Friday evening, including the 'Preislied,' from Wagner's 'Meistersinger' (Wilhelmj arrangement), and the magnificent Concerto in D Minor by Dr. Julius Klengel. Mr. Search's encores were numerous and enjoyed by all. Following the concert a reception was given in honor of the distinguished soloist of the evening."

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY

In the current issue of the Lyceum Magazine announcement is made of the opening of the Lyceum Arts Conservatory. This is an enlargement of the scope and purpose of the Elias Day School of Lyceum Art—a step which has been contemplated for some time, but hitherto impracticable on account of being unable to secure suitable studios. An ideal location recently became available in the Fine Arts Building by the retirement of a tenant from a beautiful suite of rooms after ten years of occupancy. The suite includes a studio-recital room where fifty or more persons may be seated with ease.

In the selection of a faculty, it was gratifying to find that the claims of the lyceum and chautauqua movement were sufficiently strong to allow the management choice from among the Chicago teachers who were best qualified by training and experience for this special work. They not only recognize the importance and possibilities of the work, but each enters upon it with characteristic lyceum enthusiasm. In answer to a telegram to Leon Marx, he promptly replied: "Will accept place as head of your violin department and be in Chicago September 9." For thirteen years Mr. Marx was with the Theodore Thomas Orchestra and then became second concertmeister of the Chicago-Philadelphia Grand Opera Orchestra. "I become more and more enthusiastic over the school," writes another. "I have never been so enthusiastic over anything in my life was the remark of Sybil Sammis-MacDermid, the well-known concert singer and most successful teacher, after the plans of the school and the greatness of the work had been discussed. "Your invitation is like a message from heaven," was the inspiring answer of Katharine Howard Ward, who for years has been a member of the faculty of the Cosmopolitan Conservatory and who is referred to by a competent critic as "one of the finest musicians in this city—or any other city."

Such enthusiasm will inspire enthusiasm on the part of students and thus contribute much to their success and the improvement of lyceum and chautauqua work. Every member of the teaching force looks upon this school and the lyceum movement as of supreme importance—unsurpassed by any that is offered in any other field. They consider that the allurements of the theatrical profession, when all conditions are taken into account, or even of grand opera itself, are not more attractive than the invitation of the lyceum. Those professions may offer greater inducements in the way of remuneration, at least to the chosen few, but there are thousands of people engaged in the work of the lyceum, and many who are aspiring to honors and service on the platform, who give to the dollar second place in the choice of a vocation. And even if money is to be considered, who will say that the lyceum does not provide abundantly for its own or who will say that this great field is not worthy of the best that the world has to offer? Why should not some of us live to see the day when this school will command the services of a Jean De Reszke in its vocal department, a Eugene Ysaye in its violin, and every department, lecture work included, be in charge of the best known teachers in the world. No cause is more worthy and none is more filled with vitality and growth. We have already supplanted the theater, except in the larger cities, and have done it so quietly that they have not discovered the cause. We have met the "movies" in ten thousand towns and cities and without swerving from our purpose have convinced committees, wherever they needed convincing, that the more the "movies" multiply the more is the lyceum and its inspiration needed. And we have accomplished all this with borrowed material and borrowed men and women! What can we accomplish when we have a literature and music of our own and men and women trained expressly for this special work? The lyceum as we see it today is young, very young, and it takes time to produce these things, but it is not neecssary for the lyceum and chautauqua to advance more rapidly than during the past ten years to soon take first place as a profession even in the eyes of those who have hitherto ignored us.

It must be admitted, however, that the best friends of the lyceum cause have been the most emphatic in saying that the preparation made for platform work is too often woefully inadequate. When the manager is blamed for sending poor talent, he tries to justify himself by saying that he chose the best obtainable from the material at hand. It will be the aim of this school to improve the product by specific treatment, to prepare the way for platform success by teaching the thing itself and not by teaching something else.

But the need of this preparation is not confined to the musicians and entertainers. If they are in need of it, how much more the better paid man, who delivers his own message, in his own words, and is expected to instruct and entertain an intelligent audience for an entire evening? A young minister, a graduate of Columbia University, New York, who recently completed a term of work with Mr. Day. was asked: "What would be the effect if all ministers should take Mr. Day's course?" and he replied: "It would revolutionize the pulpit!" It is the purpose of the school eventually to offer help to the lecturer not only in delivery, but also in subject matter, choice of material and style of composition.

It is not the intention of this school to set forth a prescribed course of study, after the fashion of the college, which shall inevitably lead to the giving of a diploma or the conferring of a degree. A diploma or certificate of graduation will not be given unless at least one full year's work has been taken in this school—however thorough may have been the previous training before enrolling—and in addition one year of successful work has been done in the lyceum field or one year given to successful teaching. It is the purpose to make graduation a proof of merit. It is believed however, that with the splendid help offered by the faculty of this school, any person of average intelligence, and something more than average energy, can by diligent effort complete the course required.

Kate Jordan Hewett has been engaged

4
GREAT AUSTRALIAN TOURS

DAVID BISPHAM — Opening at Sidney May 31, 1913
MADAME LILLIAN NORDICA — Opening at Sydney July 26, 1913
MISCHA ELMAN — Opening at Sydney June, 1914
MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK — Opening at Sydney June, 1915

Under Exclusive Management and Personal Direction of
Frederic Shipman
American Address 3835 Flournoy St., Chicago
Australian Address Hotel Australia, Sydney

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY Bass-Baritone Oratorio Concert
MURRISON
JOINT-RECITALS
MABEL Pianist Accompanist
Alliance Ohio

CHRISTINE MILLER
CONTRALTO
In Europe until Oct. 1, 1913
Address, care of American Express Co., Paris
Management HAENSEL & JONES
Aeolian Hall, New York

ELEANOR HAZZARD-PEOCOCK
DRAMATIC SOPRANO RECITALS CONCERTS
Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London
FRANCE ENGLAND GERMANY

WHITEHILL
BARITONE
Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

BONCI
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York
Knabe Piano Used

LOUISE BURTON
SOPRANO
520 Fine Arts Bldg
Phone Drexel 8183

MR. TENOR MRS. DRAMATIC READER
Karl Buren Stein
JOINT RECITALS
55 Auditorium Bldg.
TEACHERS of SINGING ELOCUTION ACTING

Esther Plumb
CONTRALTO
4173 Lake Avenue
Phone Oakland 3246
Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS—VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Brokaw Power-Meyer
Violinist Conservatory
WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

MARY HIGHSMITH
E SOPRANO 624 Michigan Av., Phone Midway 2923

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

SADIE WALKER
University Studios VIOLINIST Exclusive M'g't
5828 Woodlawn Av. Harry Culbertson

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

DEWITT DURGIN
TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg

COLLINS J.
Basso-Cantante BROCK
EUDORA MOODY
SOPRANO Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

MARY ANN KAUFMAN
SOPRANO
Edgewater 8519 4433 Racine Av., CHICAGO, ILL.

Grant KIMBELL
Tenor
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

for secretary of the school and will be in active charge. There is not a better qualified woman anywhere for such a position.

The business management of the school is in the capable hands of Mr. Frank A. Morgan.

His experience and business acumen will go far toward winning permanent success.

———♯♯♯———

REPERTOIRE OF ROSCOE KIMBALL

Following is the extensive and very well selected repertoire of songs given by Roscoe Kimball, baritone:

GERMAN LIEDER

Franz—
- Aus meinen grossen Schmerzen
- Auf dem Meere
- Stille Sicherheit
- Bitte
- O, Luge nicht
- Die Blaue Fruhlingsaugen
- Am Leuchtenden Sommermorgen
- Fur Music
- Wie des Mondes Abbild
- Gute Nacht

Wolf—
- Zur Ruh
- Anakreon's Grab
- Auf ein altes Bild
- Auftrag
- Gebet
- Lebe wohl
- Verborgenheit
- Das verlassene Magdlein
- Wer sich der Einsamkeit ergiebt
- Wie viele zeit verlor ich

Schubert—
- Erlkonig
- Am Meer
- Der Lindenbaum
- Sei mir gegrusst
- Was ist Sylvia

Schumann—
- Ich grolle nicht
- Die beide Grenadier
- Im wunderschonen Monat Mai
- Volksliedchen
- Wenn ich in deine Augen Seh
- Die Lotusblume

Strauss—
- Zueignung
- Die Nacht
- Allerseelen

Rubinstein—
- Der Asra
- Es blinkt der Thau
- Es war ein alter Konig
- Ein Lied
- Die Thrane
- Gut' Nacht

Ich liebe dich.....Grieg
Ein Ton.....Cornelius
Nacht Gebet.....Von Fielitz
Als die alte Mutter.....Dvorak
Don Juan's Serenade.....Tschaikowsky
Pilgrim's Song.....Tschaikowsky
Liebes Ode.....Louis Victor Saar
The Wanderer.....Lund
Mandoline.....Debussy

ARIAS

Wagner—
- Traume, Evening Star from "Tannhauser"
- Wotan's Abschied from "Die Walkure"

Bizet—
- Aria from "Le Jolie Fille de Perth"

Massenet—
- Aria from "Le Roi de Lahore" and "Vision Fugitive" from "Herodiade"

Leoncavallo—
- Prolog from Pagliacci

Verdi—
- "Iago's Creed" from "Otello"
- "Di Provenza" from "Traviata."

Handel—
- "Where'er You Walk" from "Semele"

(To be continued next week)

———♯♯♯———

Owens.—Mr. H. W. Owens resumes his regular work at the Western Conservatory in the Mallers Building, Chicago, on September 22. Miss Margaret Owens, soprano, and Mr. Haydn Owens, pianist, have both fulfilled long Chautauqua tours during the summer.

THE REMOVAL OF THE ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE

Announcement is made that the Anna Groff-Bryant Institute of vocal art, education and vocal therapeutics, will open its tenth season about October 1, in its new Bungalow Studio, being erected by the Lombard College of Galesburg, Ill., for the exclusive use of Anna Groff-Bryant, founder and director of the institute. The institute has always held a "unique position" in the center of Chicago's many schools, colleges and conservatories of musical activities.

The institute was founded in 1904 for the double purpose of a school for the "higher education" of vocal students and vocal teachers, and as a "practical experimental school" in matters vocal.

The institute was the outgrowth of many years of independent thinking and scientific research and practical experimental work conducted by Anna Groff-Bryant in her "private" studios in Chicago.

The experimental branch of work had for its purpose the solving of the many vocal problems puzzling men of science and vocal teachers alike, namely: "Registers," "breaks," the so-called "falsetto tone," and "tremolos." "But far and above these problems," states the recent "Bulletin," of Lombard College, "was the 'inspiration' to investigate the subject of 'voice-talent,' or the 'singer's talent,' and the yet unrecognized and unexplored field of possibilities in the commonly considered 'unmusical,' 'defective,' 'impossible,' and the 'pathological' vocal conditions so universally found to exist in all voices such as 'chronic laryngitis,' 'pharyngitis,' 'chronic hoarseness,' 'bronchitis' and 'nasal' defection; also 'total loss' of voice, either of the 'speaking' or 'singing' voice, stuttering, stammering, catarrhal conditions of the vocal organs and the 'school teachers'' and 'preacher's' sore throat.

"Mrs. Groff-Bryant is the only one either in America or Europe to suspect artistic possibilities in the above mentioned vocal 'diseases,' and conditions commonly expressed by such phrases as 'he or she has no voice.' 'Oh! he has an impossible voice,' or 'he or she is not born with a voice,' and the like; or to conduct practical experimental work with the 'impossible voices' with a view of restoring 'healthful conditions' and perfecting the 'impossible singing voices' into beautiful and musical singing voices.

"All previous attempt of scientific analyses of the singing voices Mrs. Groff-Bryant points out were of a nature directly opposite to her own, which had for its purposes the establishing of a scientific basis of 'tone production' and cause of vocal sound. Also that the experiments were made with 'trained voices' and even 'great singers' voices, from a purely physiological, anatomical and acoustic viewpoint, and primarily confined to the larnyx and the so-called 'vocal chords,' which, as the result of previous investigation have been erroneously regarded by all scientists and vocal teachers as the 'whole' of the 'vocal instrument.'"

The "Bulletin" points out the "unique" position filled by the Anna Groff-Bryant system of vocal education, and that it has a "real place" to fill, never filled here-to-

CLARENCE EDDY

May be engaged for the
Opening of New Organs and for Organ Recitals
During the Season of 1913-1914.
Address: 510 Oakwood Blvd., Chicago.

fore by any system of education. First, it is aiding a class of people in the world—and there are hundreds of such—who have an "inborn desire" to sing or express themselves in song, but who have been shut out by the limitation of past systems and knowledge, and who "dared" not voice such a desire for fear of being ridiculed and considered "crazy" and a general "nuisance." For all such recent "discoveries" made in the "impossible voices" have lifted the veil of the "mysteries" of the "beautiful voice" and proven all to be equal sharers of the "rich inheritance" of the children of God—and not the "few."

Still another class of people have heretofore been depending wholly upon "medical aid" of one form or another of all chronic diseases of the "larynx," "pharynx," "nasal cavities," "bronchial," "total" and partial loss of voice, "preacher and school teachers' sore throat." These conditions are being helped to an "astonishing degree," and especially all such as have failed to receive help under old methods.

Lastly, it is aiding vocal students of "real talent" in a manner never equaled before. First, it will rid him of the many limitations of "range," "volume," "resonance," "flexibility," "registers," "breaks," "tremolos," "diction," "breathing" and the so-called "falsetto tone."

Again, it is going to set the vocal student free from the "greatest evil" of all, the "imitation method," which neither pupil nor teacher would openly acknowledge that he was studying, or would teach. Yet, every student is hunting for a teacher who has a "voice" like his own, either "tenor," "bass," "soprano" or "contralto" for "imitation of tone" and "interpretation." It is the "imitation method" which Mrs. Groff-Bryant has steadfastly denounced both in "writing" and in her institute for years, as "destructive" and robbing the student of something more vital than "voice," his very "soul"—his "personality," his "individuality," and "originality" and stifling all possibility for "individuality" of "voice," "interpretation" in "thought," "action" or "creative powers." Finally, it is going to educate the vocal student in a manner not equaled since the latter part of the seventh century. History shows that during that period there existed the first and highest form of educational discipline for singers known before or since. Vocal students at that time were required to devote eight hours a day for five years, to the study and practice of various prescribed lines of work necessary to the perfection of their art and thorough equipment for their life work.

The following is the prescribed course of the Anna Groff-Bryant system of vocal education. The first year work includes:

Vocal (practical)—

Correct bodily poise and develpment. Physical technic and facial muscles. Corrective "tonal work." Constructive "tonal work."

Breathing. Tone attacks. Diction. Intervals. Execution. Tone formation and songs.

History of music, harmony, ear training, and rhythm, English, German, history, physical education.

Elementary floor work—

Swedish, gymnastic, aesthetic dancing and athletics.

Lectures—

Mrs. Groff-Bryant will personally supervise the rounded-out system of education at Lombard College. She will divide her time each week between Lombard College and her private studio, 606 Fine Arts Building, Chicago. It is in the interest of the "rounded out" system of vocal education that Mrs. Groff-Bryant accepted the offers of Lombard College to remove her institute to the Galesburg College, where special provisions have been made to arrange for all the studies correlated in the new system of vocal education in the college. In addition, Lombard College is erecting a bungalow studio for the exclusive use of Anna Groff-Bryant for "private" individual vocal lesson and general class work and lectures.

Mrs. Groff-Bryant will devote her time in Chicago principally to private vocal lessons, and the advanced part of her creative work and song-action classes, private class lessons, and lectures. Her new studio will be specially fitted out to do the advanced work, and is one of the largest and most attractive studios in the Fine Arts Building.

Cards will be issued for the formal opening of the new studio in Chicago about October 3.

———♯♯♯———

EDDY UNDISMAYED BY MUSICAL TREND

Clarence Eddy, dean of American organists, honored at home and abroad for nearly half a century as the exponent of all that is distinguished and worthy in one of the most serious departments of music, is not dismayed over present-day musical tendencies and conditions.

The pupil of Buck, Haupt and Loresehorn, unquestioned master ot every resource of his art, high in the intellectual aristocracy of music, he is democratic in his attitude toward new developments, and optimistic as to the musical taste of the American people as a whole.

"Mechanical contrivances, for instance," he said yesterday, "do, of course, spread much bad music broadcast, but they spread the good music too. The very best in all lines is brought into the homes and heard daily, such music as would otherwise be heard seldom. ♮ ♮ ♮

No Use for Ragtime

"A concern that manufactures mechanical piano-players is now undertaking the making of a concert-organ on the same plan, in Germany. They have asked me to make some records for them at their New York office and I shall be glad to do so. I do not see how modern methods and facilities can fail to result in the raising of the general musical taste."

Mr. Eddy's serenity over the outlook was just a little shaken by a cautious mention of the rage for ragtime.

"I have no patience with that," he exclaimed, and his eyes flashed. He refused to admit, however, that he saw anything menacing in the situation.

♮ ♮ ♮

Enjoying Seattle Weather

Mr. Eddy is the guest of Mrs. Albert C. Phillips, 654 Olympic Place.

"Rev. Carter Helm Jones, at whose request I am to play on the First Baptist Church organ Monday evening, is an old friend of mine. I played on his organ in Oklahoma City not so long ago. I am enjoying the opportunity of renewing acquaintances I made in Seattle on my last visit, and am also enjoying your Seattle weather.

"It has been terribly hot in the east, and was very cold in Victoria and Vancouver."

—Mabel Abbott in Seattle Sun.

———♯♯♯———

OPENING CONCERTS.

The Uhrichsville - New Philadelphia Branch of Mount Union-Scio College Conservatory of Music, Herbert E. Hutchinson, director, opened with two faculty concerts by Herbert Hutchinson, robust tenor; Ezra H. F. Weis, pianist; Austa Speck, lyric soprano; Violet Patterson, pianist, and Zoe Peter, violinist. There was a good attendance at both concerts. The new members of the faculty made a most excellent impression. The old members strengthened their artistic hold upon the community.

This branch work is an interesting experiment, in that it is an attempt at Conservatory extension of a high type. The work of the home school (Mount Union-Scio College Conservatory, an old conservative school) is carried on fully in the branch, except that of the senior year. The first year in the life of this institution was quite encouraging in its results; and should a second year show the requisite growth, its success will doubtless encourage other established schools of high standard to go into the business of carrying the advantages of conservatory work into many communities not now enjoying such opportunities. It is a very practical way of raising the standard of teaching—that is, when and where the finances are successfully managed.

The program of the opening concerts follows. It was given in Uhrichsville, O., Sept. 1, and in New Philadelphia, O., Sept. 5:

(a) Berceuse ..... Chopin
(b) "If I Were a Bird" ..... Henselt
Miss Violet Patterson, Pianist
(a) "Wandering," from "The Maid of the Mill" ..... Schubert

(b) "Mine," from "The Maid of the Mill" ..... Schubert

Herbert Hutchinson, robust tenor

(a) Knotting Song ..... Purcell

(b) Nymphs and Shepherds ..... Purcell

Miss Austa Belle Speck, Lyric Soprano

The Swan .....Saint-Saens

Miss Zoe Peter, violinist

Concerto (Italian Style).....J. S. Bach
Allegro Animato

Mr. Weis

Aria, "I Will Extol Thee," from "Eli" ..... Costa

Miss Josephine Burrows, dramatic soprano

Alla Tarantelle ..... Nicode

Miss Patterson

Aria, "Celeste Aida," from "Aida".....Verdi

Mr. Hutchinson

Rondo (from Sonata Op. 13, No. 8)..... Beethoven

Mr. Weis

Aria, "Ah! fors e lui," from "La Traviata" ..... Verdi

Miss Speck

Airs Varies ..... De Beriot

Miss Peter

Trio—Finale from "Faust" ..... Gounod

Miss Speck, Mr. Hutchinson, Mr. Weis

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Sunnyside 8540

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
MILWAUKEE, WIS.

LUELLA CHILSON-OHRMAN
SOLOIST AT WORCESTER FESTIVAL SEASON
Address 4603 Sheridan Road

CHARLOTTE IKERT CONCERT-ORATORIO JOINT RECITAL ROSCOE KIMBALL
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON - - - - - Fine Arts Building Chicago

JOHN R. RANKL Bass-Baritone
PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING Phone Harrison 6880

HANS HESS CELLIST
American Conservatory
Telephone Lincoln 7917

SOFIA STEPHALI
COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Outside of Chicago, Exclusive Direction, National Society for Broader Education

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM
SOPRANO COMPOSER
Phone Harrison 6880 Accompanist
608 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Louise George Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Preiser Violin School
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director
Phone Austin 4043
STUDIOS
530 N. Pine Av., Austin
5407 S. Halsted St. and
2831 Washington Boul.

CONCERTS RECITALS ORATORIOS
OSCAR SEAGLE
BARITONE
American Tour October to March, 1913-14
17 Avenue Mozart
Paris (France)

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER
In Paris all Summer
119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

MR. & MRS JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS
Address 330 West 58th St.
NEW YORK CITY

It Is Not Raining Rain to Me
AND OTHER SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM

BE MERCIFUL TO ME (2 KEYS) ... 50c
BEATITUDES (New) ... 60c
ROCK HIM TO SLEEP ... 50c
HER LITERARY TASTE ... 50c
Usual Discounts of all Music Stores or of the Publishers
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. CHICAGO

VICTORIA, B. C.

The following programs were played by Clarence Eddy on the fine new organ at the Church of St. John the Divine, in August:

FIRST PROGRAM

Toccata in F major.....Johann Sebastian Bach (By request) (1685-1750)

Prelude in F major.....Louis Nicholas Clerambault (1676-1749)

Rondo, "Soeur Monique".....Francois Couperin (1668-1733)

Fugue in E flat.....Niccolo Porpora
(Arranged by M. E. Bossi)

Note—Porpora, a contemporary of Bach (1685-1750) and Haendel (1685-1759), was born August 19, 1686, in Naples. He died there in 1767.

Theme, Variations and Finale.....Louis Thiele

Fantasie in D flat, Op. 101.....Camille Saint-Saens

Vocal .....Selected

Madame Clarice Davies

Pastorale, Op. 59, No. 2.....Max Reger

Benedictus, Op. 59, No. 9.....Max Reger

"Finlandia" .....Jean Sibelius
(Tone Poem for Orchestra, arranged for the organ by H. A. Fricker)

"Meditation Serieuse," Op. 243 (new)..... .....Homer N. Bartlett

Toccata in F major.....Charles Marie Widor
(From the Fifth Organ Symphony)

SECOND PROGRAM

Festival Prelude and Fugue on "Old Hundred".... .....C. Eddy

Spring Song (from the South).....Edwin H. Lemare

Toccata in F major.....Thomas J. Crawford

Prelude in D major.....G. Jennings Burnett

Minuet in the Style of Handel....G. Jennings Burnett

Sonata in E minor.....James H. Rogers
Allegro con brio
Adagio
Vivace, ma non troppo
Interludio, Moderato
Fuga, Allegro

Vocal .....Selected

Madame Clarice Davies

"Christmas in Sicily" (new)....Pietro Alessandro Yon

"Am Meer" (By the Sea).....Franz Schubert

"Pilgrims' Chorus," from "Tannhauser"..... ..... Richard Wagner
(Arrangements by Clarence Eddy)

Evensong .....Edward F. Johnston
"And far away through the arches dim
A sad, sweet melody,
Like the wind as it wails its evening hymn
Over the rustling sea,
Rises now like a bird on the wing,
Now sinks to an amorous murmuring."

Variations de Concert.....Joseph Bonnet
(Dedicated to Clarence Eddy)

Overture to William Tell.....Rossini
(Arranged by Dudley Buck)

THIRD PROGRAM

For Wednesday Evening at 8:15 o'Clock

Overture to Euryanthe.....C. M. von Weber
(By request) arranged by S. P. Warren

"In Springtime".....Alfred Hollins

Allegretto in E Flat.....William Wolstenholme

Allegro Militaire.....William Wolstenhome

Consolation .....Arpad Laszlo
Arranged by Clarence Eddy

"Kamennoi Ostrow".....Anton Rubinstein
Arranged by Edwin Lemare

Fantasie Symphonique, Op. 28 (new)..... .....Rossetter G. Cole

Vocal, Intermezzo (arrangement).....Mascagni
Madame Davies

"At Twilight" (new).....Frysinger
...When the sun has sunk to rest,
And ceased to sweep her golden rays across the ocean's breast
The Wanderer, from his apparent joy
Returns, in sorrow, to the empty nest.

"See the Conquering Hero Comes".....Handel
Arranged by Guilmant

Concert Fugue in G major.....J. L. Krebs
By request

"Love Death" from "Tristan and Isolde"..... ..... Richard Wagner
Arranged by Archer Gibson

March and Chorus from "Tannhauser"..... ..... Richard Wagner
Arranged by Homer N. Bartlett

###

Nixon.—Charles E. Nixon, press representative of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, spent his summer vacation at Glacier Park, Montana.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST

In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.

Address until October, Care Music News, Chicago; after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.

Salt Lake Republican:

In arrangement, technique and interpretation his program was unsurpassingly fine.

ON IMPROVISING

By J. S. VAN CLEVE

"Over the keys, the musing organist
Beginning doubtfully and far away,
First builds a bridge from dreamland for his lay.
Then, as the touch of his loved instrument
Gives hope and fervor, nearer draws his theme
First guessed by faint auroral flushes sent
Along the wavering vista of his dream."

The organ has been named "the king of instruments" and, there is no form of human utterance in which the utterer takes a more rapt delight than does the performer upon this mighty sound producer. Even those who can manipulate its wonderful and complex mechanism but crudely, are enraptured with the melodies and harmonies which answer to the call of their feet and fingers. The organ is, of all instruments, the one upon which it is at the same time so easy and so difficult to improvise.

Almost any reasonably accurate union of tones according to those laws of tonality, harmony, and melody which a tyro in theory is required to know, will have some effect when colored by the well-voiced pipes of the organ.

Since this is the case, possibly a few rambling hints may be of help to organists of small ability who either desire to improvise, or who must do a little of it. First then, be very careful not to go on and on without a plan. True, you may not be able to see in your mind any very elaborate and sustained scheme, but, some form, some method must be followed. Thus as soon as you have found a bit of melody, or a complete tune, be sure to hold on to it for a while. You may do this by playing it twice through with an interesting change of stops.

The organ is so enormously rich in such possible combinations that you can scarcely go astray. Indeed the possible details of combination in a great organ are so vast, that many of the greatest virtuosi have to study for hours before hitting upon the best or most original treatments. However, one of the simplest is to play once with some very soft stop, or group of stops such as you must learn to have at your finger ends, upon your particular instrument, then follow it with some bolder cluster such as the open diapason, or the radiant brasses. This might be rather glaring, and against all such extreme contrasts you must guard yourself.

Again you may take your chosen melody, now in an upper voice, now in a lower voice, and then, in an inner voice. This latter treatment is especially beautiful if the contrast between the stops used for the song and those for the accompaniment is a happy one. Just here it may be said, that a most attractive effect may be made by placing a melodic phrase upon the pedals alone. You must, however, not keep this up very long, for it soon becomes tiresome. Now you must learn to put in bits of suitable interlude between the phrases of the theme. This is not easy and requires either a remarkable degree of musical instinct, or excellent theoretic training.

It is in this special art that the hymn interlude is to be classified. The artistic effect of a good interlude upon a hymn is very beautiful, but such crude lumbering and ill harmonized attempts as we sometimes hear are enough "to make the judicious grieve," the angels weep, and the musicians in the audience swear sotto voce. Another thing which you can do is to take a short and distinct part of your theme and repeat it in many regions of the grand scale, and with varied tone-color. This is especially charming if you have the real gift for musical invention and a fertile imagination. Rhythmical variations upon a given theme, though much affected by great masters, will probably be beyond your capacity. It was in this art of developing and decorating a melody assigned that the late Alexandre Guilmant was a master almost unimaginable.

Lastly, if you try to improvise, do not fail to bring your simple theme, in its naked beauty either whole or in part at or near the conclusion, and be sure to end in the key in which you began. Improvisation must resemble a stroll in a park, or garden not a vague zigzagging through an illimitable forest.

. . . . . .

Some General Comment

The musical world of this mighty metropolis is just beginning to turn over in its sleep, and to yawn and stretch itself. We are promised the most phenomenal operatic season ever heard of here or elsewhere. First there is the historic Metropolitan opera house now more than a quarter of a century old, then there is an enormous enterprise of thirty-five weeks at the Century Theater, and Mr. Hammerstein is building a million dollar opera house to be known as the American National Opera. Each of these has engaged a galaxy of singing stars, of whom many have already arrived, while others are said to be wonders in embryo. Let us hope that all these constellations will not forget the scriptural example of those morning stars which sang together at the dawn of creation.

The world of instrumental music is also sending out its promises and prophecies, and while the church world is still dormant, murmurs of activity fill the wandering breezes. New York has a large number of churches, which employ quartet chorus choirs, and a goodly number which have vested choirs of boys and men, and a few have large mixed choruses. Few of these churches begin their full service before the first of October. There is an ever unsatisfied demand for really beautiful and effective solos for church singers, and any young composer with a bit of real metal in him may hope to win a little lucre by casting his inspirations into forms suitable for divine worship.

Is there anything which can be a nobler occupation for a gifted musician than to sing worthily the praise of the Universal Father? The other day I was talking with Mr. James Pearce an English organist, who has been in this country since about 1860 and he spoke with positive rapture of his experiences at Rochester cathedral in

The Fifth Anniversary Number of MUSIC NEWS will be something of Very Unusual Significance and Very Great Importance to Advertisers.

The Date will be October 10th. MAKE RESERVATIONS OF SPACE EARLY.
Call, Write or Phone Harrison 7169.

England, where as a choir boy singing in daily services he became familiar with the standard old English music for liturgical use, and its solemn beauty so deeply affected him, that often he found himself moved to tears, and frequently after a service bathed in profuse perspiration as if he had been engaged in violent physical exercise.

What a blessing it would be to our rather flippant and harum-scarum youngsters if, instead of chanting jigs at Sunday school, they were bearing a part in lofty music of a sincerely sacred character. While we do not wish to "run amuck" against those simple and shallow tunes which seem to be an absolute necessity in our country, we may utter a fervent prayer that our newly organized guild of church musicians may succeed in training both choir masters and choristers, that we may find really churchly music a more common thing in future.

In the recent death of that veteran organist and choir-master, E. M. Bowman, the musical world has sustained a loss not soon to be repaired. Mr. Bowman of whom we may have more to say in a later number of the Music News was for many years a most prominent teacher of the piano, and an organist of sterling qualities. He had a large volunteer choir, numbering 125 members and they were held together by a most clever system of social and formulated interests whereby he secured many good rehearsals, and consequently most artistic results. He was for a long time organist at Calvary Baptist Church on West Fifty-seventh street.

Many New York churches spend large sums of money for their musical embellishment of divine worship, and there is one a high church Episcopal society, "Saint Mary, the Virgin," which appropriates yearly, $25,000. Of these and other interest along the line of religious music the monthly letter from New York will take proper notice from time to time.

———♯♯♯———

OSTROVSKY METHOD OF HAND DEVELOPMENT

Following is some comment of the London Press on the Ostrovsky Method as taught at the Institute, in London, a branch of which is being opened by Rex Underwood in Steinway Hall, Chicago:

MANUAL TRAINING FOR MUSICIANS

To pianists weary of unlimited repetition of five-finger exercises and scales any device likely to induce strong technic in a short time is always interesting. Hence there was an interested group of musicians and teachers at the Ostrovsky Institute of Hand Development in Leinster-gardens yesterday afternoon to watch a demonstration, given by the inventor, of the Ostrovsky apparatus, which, it is claimed, will do away with such hand defects as hinder technical development without endless hours of practice. Stiff joints can, it is said, be made supple, fingers lengthened, and the space between them increased, and speed, looseness, and elasticity can be acquired through the use of the machine, which is devised alike for pianists, violinists, and violoncellists. The fingers are adjusted in the correct position, and the manipulation of a lever causes the machine to work in such a manner that they are gently but firmly massaged, and it is possible, even in a few minutes, to induce pliancy in a most firm and unyielding hand.—"The Standard," June 20th, 1913.

THE MUSICIAN'S HAND

Rather more than four years ago a concert organized to show the work of violin students trained in the technical method of Mr. Ostrovsky was noticed in the columns of The Times. The critic remarked, "It is quite clear that Mr. Ostrovsky's method gives the pupils a great deal of flexibility," but added, pertinently enough, a comment to the effect that flexibility of the left hand upon the fingerboard is not the whole art of violin playing. Since that time (January, 1909) Mr. Ostrovsky has devoted a great deal of attention and skill to perfecting certain mechanical appliances for developing the hand, and a demonstration which he gave last week at his "Institute of Hand Development" (50, Leinster-gardens, W.) concentrated attention solely upon this department of work in which he has specialized. It was neither a musical performance nor a display of technical acquirements, but simply an illustration of the way in which the machine works. The machine is not the whole of the system. The system is the right use of the machine, and the right use varies to some extent with each hand that uses it. What Mr. Ostrovsky does is to diagnose the physical short-comings of the hand and to prescribe a course of exercises upon his machine for rectifying the short-comings. The machine is skillfully adapted for use in a number of different ways, for increasing the span between the fingers, for giving greater suppleness and strength to each individual joint, and even lengthening the fingers to a certain extent. Its use is not a course of instrumental technic, but a preparation for the technic of any instrument. It stands in the same relation to the musician as the systems of Sandow or Muller do to the athlete. The latter do not teach you to play football or tennis, but they claim to make you more fit to do so if you want to. Mr. Ostrovsky's method claims to make your hands more fit to play the piano or violin or violoncello by putting them in good condition.

The first question that one naturally asks is, "Does the use of the machine involve risk of hurting the hands by straining them?" As it stands on the table, a piece of steel mechanism about 18 inches long, a conglomeration of screws and springs with a single racket wheel underneath, it looks like a small instrument of torture. But it is not one, for its action is all a process of gentle massage, and the exercises properly carried out are pleasant.

Mr. Ostrovsky maintains that the new instrument cannot put on greater pressure than the hand can conveniently bear; and he gave an illustration to show the refusal of the instrument to respond to an attempt to increase the pressure unduly. Within this limit the person on whom the instrument is being used works it himself and regulates the pressure by his own sensations. Mr. Ostrovsky contends that an ignorant person who took the machine home and practiced upon it without instruction could do himself no harm, though he would probably do no good.

It is possible that musicians, remembering the example of Schumann and others who ruined their hands by the ignorant use of crude mechanical appliances, are too apt to fight shy of all outside aids in the purely physical part of their work. Our object here is merely to record the ingenuity of Mr. Os-

GEORGE W. MUNRO
Voice Specialist
Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.
Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.
Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.
Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

Chicago Piano College
(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. Baritone DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING
American Conservatory
Kimball Hall

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

IT has become quite the habit in Chicago, when any musical address is wanted, to say "Look in the classified Directory Card columns of the Music News, and you will surely find it."

The habit is growing in other localities too.

This is not without its good and sufficient reason either, for while the cost of this service is only twelve dollars a year (including subscription) the advantages gained are very material. Not only do prospective managers and pupils use this list continually to find the addresses of artists and teachers, but also, church people often find it of service in locating desired organists, directors and singers, and further—the complete list is used habitually by all sorts of advertisers who want to send announcements of new and novel productions to a representative list of musicians.

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

trovsky's invention and the scientific skill which he has devoted to the system of exercises and the machine by which the exercises are made effective. We do not express an opinion whether in certain circumstances the system might produce injury or of the extent to which it may be beneficial, but such evidence as has been produced goes to show that properly applied it should be exceedingly useful in producing the elasticity of hand which is essential to a good instrumental technic.—The Times, June 23, 1913. (Advertisement.)

———###———

AT THE LITTLE THEATER

The Chicago Little Theater will open its second season on Tuesday evening, October 28, with a triple comedy bill which has been given the cheering title of "An Evening With Colombine."

The first fairy playlet will be Reginald Arkell's "Colombine," a dramatic fantasy, which won much praise from the reviewers when it was published, and which was taken by Miss Horniman for Manchester, Louis Meyer for London, and Maurice Browne for America, on three successive days. The academy said of the play, "It possesses just that delicate sense of the borderland between tears and laughter which many poets strive to capture and very few attain," when Mr. Arkell tried the play out last December.

The second of the Colombine series is "The Maker of Dreams," by Oliphant Don. The original production was in the repertory theater in Glasgow.

The last comedy is "Mr. and Mrs. Pierrot," by Martyn Johnson of Chicago.

The second play of the season will be "Deborah," Lascelles Abercrombie's tragedy. The play was one of Mr. Browne's summer discoveries.

The "Medea" of Euripides will be the third production. The translation used is Gilbert Murray's.

Synge's "Deirdre of the Sorrows" will be the fifth production.

———###———

NEEDS MORE THAN HIGH G

Upon the conjunction "if" hangs the career of Lillian Bennett, the 18 year old Milwaukee girl who on Wednesday sang high G during a rehearsal of A Cappella Choir in that city. Leading voice experts and musical critics of Chicago say that if she has a wide range of soprano, a flexible voice, and talent to sing lower notes she has with training, opportunity to become the greatest soprano the world has ever known. If she has all these plus dramatic ability she bids fair, the critics say, to become the world's greatest grand opera star.

If, however, her claim to fame rests solely upon her ability to sing high G, she had best resign herself to household duties and hope only to sing in the a Cappella choir now and then on Sundays.

Despite the prophecy by Director William Boeppler of the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music that "nothing can stop the girl from gaining fame," Chicago critics are conservative. Few opera singers have ever reached high G, and Chicago critics say "they don't need to." Christine Nilsson and Fidet Devries sang high F sharp in the mad scene from Ambroise Thomas' "Hamlet," Adelina Patti occasionally has sung high F sharp. Herman Devries, friend of Gounod, Thomas, and Massenet, formerly with the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, and who has a studio in the Fine Arts building, acknowledged he had never heard any one sing high G sharp.

Katherine Schuster, Voice

ONLY AUTHORIZED CHICAGO TEACHER—DORA DUTY JONES METHOD OF

LYRIC DICTION

Miss Katherine Schuster's long experience in teaching, her progressive spirit and receptive mental attitude, have enabled her to grasp the principles of my method so intelligently that her progress has been exceptional. I shall be glad to have the Chicago field in her hands. (Signed) DORA DUTY JONES, Berlin, Germany, April 4, 1911.

71 The Auditorium Bldg., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS

VIOLINIST

WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

Bispham

Summer of 1913 in Australia
For Terms and Dates, Address
Frederic Shipman, 3835 Flournoy Street CHICAGO, ILL.

ALBERT SPALDING

European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT

SOPRANO CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS
Phone Austin 12717
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT
5943 OHIO STREET

ELLA L. MILLS

PIANIST
American Conservatory and
117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

PALMER CHRISTIAN

Concert Organist Pupils Coach Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

Iva Bigelow Weaver

SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Jennie F. W. Johnson

Contralto
American Conservatory and
4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET

BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

Science of Expression and Musical Interpretation
Pupils Prepared for Mise-En-Scene Classes

May Mansfield

PARIS STUDIOS:
27 rue Boisleveu
Passy

HELEN GALLUP

Pianist Accompanist
Address
Chicago Piano College

HERBERT BUTLER

VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL
CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory

207-211 S. Main St
South Bend, Ind.

A Modern and Thoroughly Equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under nine Faculty of Fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Sample Sent on Request Ask for Catalog
Address T. O. HICKEY, Business Manager, Box 123
MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN

AMERICAN COMPOSER
In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals.
Recitals of His Compositions.
Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs
WITH R. E. JOHNSTON OF NEW YORK SEASON 1912-1913

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Applicotion KIMBALL HALL

ISAAC VAN GROVE
ACCOMPANIST AND COACH
716 FINE ARTS BUILDING

LIZZIE ABBOTT CLARK
Sister of Emma Abbott
Mezzo Soprano Teacher of Singing
719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
179 PLEASANT STREET MILWAUKEE, WIS.
Available for Church position, Next Season

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio. Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

FRANK W. Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN
American Conservatory
Kimball Hall

JOSEPH KITCHIN VIOLINIST
5416 Jackson Avenue
CHICAGO
Phone Midway 6400

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

WALTER DIEDERICH
TENOR 608 Fine Arts Bldg., Phone Harrison 6880

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium. Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

BEN Q. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg.

"Composers seldom write vocal music with high G notes," he said. "If this young woman can really sing the rest of the scale, composers will write music especially for her. She will become great.

"What is high G, however, if there are no beautiful tones accompanying it? There are several Russian singers who sing in very low bass and produce the effect of the roaring of the heavy notes of a pipe organ. But is it by itself art? No."

"Quality is the thing," said Frederick Stuegger. "How well does the girl sing high G? Coloratura sopranos like Sembrich and Tetrazzini are frequently called upon to sing high E flat, but usually opera singers are not called upon to sing higher notes than high C. In the 'Magic Flute' I have heard singers like Sembrich sing a flawless, beautiful high E, but that is rare. Mere ability to sing high notes means nothing. Frequently it is a screech. I had a girl only 16 years old sing high G for me recently, but her other notes were not beautiful."

More than a dozen musicians expressed similar opinions.—Chicago Tribune.

EDITORIAL

(Continued from Page 2.)

constituting almost the entire music offering of the fortnight.

Up to the very end of August the various summer schools and institutes offered frequent concerts, the University of Chicago concerts and those at Warren avenue Congregational church lasted well into the month of August, and the Ravinia concerts even lapped over into September.

But last week was the very limit of dullness; and there was enquiry about concerts also. Several people called at Music News office to ask "where music might be heard."

In view of this fact it seems a mistake for everybody to shut down on recitals and concerts simultaneously and thus leave the first half of September wholly barren.

Wouldn't it be a good plan for the schools to hold over a few of the spring concerts and present them the first week in September? Certainly the field would be clear at that time and the public would be glad to dispense with a few of the superfluous programs of June.

However, this seeming dullness is but the pause before the avalanche, for, two weeks from now announcements will be thick and recitals will already be under way in many quarters.

The prospect at this moment is that Chicago will hear an even greater number of concerts and recitals during the coming season than ever before. Prospective concert givers will need to look sharp to their programs and also to the publicity given them, for it will be only the well arranged and well advertised concerts and recitals of the coming season which will arrive anywhere.

♯♯♯

A NEW MUSICAL MONTHLY

Mr. Milton B. Griffith is sending out this week a new musical monthly published at South Bend, Ind., the title of which is "The Lark." Congratulations are offered on the fine appearance of the initial number and on the certain value of its editorial and review matter no less than on the very fine evidences it contains of financial success also. Wishing "The Lark" a long flight and a merry song!

BRIEFER FORM

Devries.—Mr. and Mrs. Devries have returned from their trip to Europe and have reopened the Devries Vocal Studios in Fine Arts Building.

♮ ♮ ♮

Zukowsky.—Mr. Alexander Zukowsky has resumed work at his studio, 627, Fine Arts Building, where he may be found on Mondays and Thursdays throughout the season.

♮ ♮ ♮

Stauffer.—Paul Clarke Stauffer is managing three concerts in Denver, this season, the artists being Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fallberg, Harold Henry and Thuel Burnham.

♮ ♮ ♮

Bartlett.—Dr. M. L. Bartlett will present the following artists in Des Moines during the season. Sidney Silber, Alma Gluck, Mischa Elman, Nellie Melba and Jan Kubelik.

♮ ♮ ♮

Christian.—Mr. Palmer Christian is recovering rapidly from his operation for appendicitis and expects to resume his work in Chicago on October 1.

♮ ♮ ♮

Votaw.—Miss Lyravine Votaw, contralto, who has been filling institute engagements in Illinois, Iowa and Indiana during the summer has resumed her classes at the Stevens Conservatory of Music in Chicago.

♮ ♮ ♮

Loudon.—Miss Jennette Loudon has returned from her summer vacation at Bloomington, Ill., and has reopened the Loudon Piano School in the Fine Arts Building.

♮ ♮ ♮

Wallace.—Miss Evangeline Wallace of 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago, has resumed her classes in piano and voice. On September 9 Miss Wallace gave a song recital at the Oakley Methodist Episcopal Church, in Kansas City.

♮ ♮ ♮

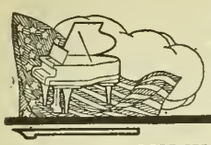
Elvyn.—Myrtle Elvyn arrived in New York City September 14, and will open her concert season on October 1 at Fall River, Mass. Her engagements in the East extend over six or eight weeks. She will play in various large cities of Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and then through the Middle West, going to the Pacific coast later.

♮ ♮ ♮

Langer.—Ora Padgett Langer, who has just connected herself with the Faculty of the Lyceum Arts Conservatory has already many engagements for the coming season. She will sing at The Hyde Park Travel Club on October 13, the Tuesday Art and Travel Club, October 14 and The Arche Club on October 31.

♮ ♮ ♮

"Bethlehem," the third sacred cantata of the cycle of five suggested by Mr. Sidney Grew, of Birmingham, England, in his delightful review of "The Nazarene," the second cantata in Music News, awhile ago, composed by Dr. W. Rhys-Herbert, of Minneapolis, is out of press, with five church choirs and societies rehearsing it for presentation at Christmas time. The publishers are J. Fischer and Bro., New York. A review of "Bethlehem," written by a musician of note, will soon appear in Music News.



Music in America

MILWAUKEE

One of the earliest announcements for the coming season was that of the Mills-Hollander concert course of four events. Melba-Kubelik. Minneapolis Orchestra with Harold Bauer soloist. Mme. Clara Butt and Kennerly Rumford. Alice Nielson and Adams Buell and others. All good wishes extend to these new managers. Both have been well known as professional musicians. Mr. Mills as a tenor, and Mr. Hollander as pianist, for some time, and their many friends are just as interested in them in this new capacity.

The various schools and private studios almost without exception reopened September 8. The members of the Wisconsin Conservatory who formerly constituted the Wisconsin College, have again established themselves as a separate institution under the old title.

Miss Charlotte Peige, contralto, and Mrs. Myrtabel Wooster, soprano, pupils of Iva Bigelow Weaver, have just returned from a successful ten weeks' chautauqua engagement. Mrs. Wooster was understudy to the leading soprano part in the recent Pageant of Light and Darkness at Chicago Auditorium, and in her several appearances was given quite an ovation.

———♯♯♯———

DENVER

Musical life in this city, during the coming season, gives promise of splendid things. Two symphony organizations, each striving to give the best that is in them, the Slack season, a splendid course under the Stauffer direction and a very live set of teachers and pupils concerts will fill the season with enough to suit the most hungry musical taste.

Cavallo announces his first concert, which will be given on Friday afternoons at 4:15, for October 24, with Amato as the visiting attraction.

Paul Clarke Stauffer announces Harold Henry, Thuel Burnham and Carl Fallberg as his attractions, the first coming the latter part of this month. Doubtless the success attending this series last season will be even more pronounced this, as the attractions are stronger.

The Western Institute of Music reports the most successful openings of its existence and a large enrollment of pupils. The Woman's Club is extending its usefulness to the community and has organized a choral section under the direction of Frederick Schweikher. It is to be hoped that this branch will be supported as it ought to be and be fully brought to some permanent result. Too often the enthusiasm is not of sufficient duration and a depletion of the ranks of the chorus is the result.

HALL.

———♯♯♯———

LOS ANGELES

The orchestra is being strengthened and enlarged, the number of applicants for the vacancies being more than 300.

Herr Adolph Tandler, the new symphony director, will have the distinction of presenting the new symphonic poem of Jan Sibelius, called "Scenes Historiques," which will be the first time in the United States.

Mr. Ralph R. Laughlin, tenor, made his first appearance in his engagement in the Temple Baptist Church. Miss Mildred Langworthy will begin as soloist the coming Sunday. She is a soprano of excellent vocal accomplishments.

A meeting of more than common interest was held by the Music Teachers' Association, over 500 were in attendance at the Gamut Club Hall. The addresses of Mr. Vernon Spencer, A. A. Butler, Mr. L. J. Selby and City Superintendent J. H. Francis of Los Angeles schools, were full of uplift and inspirational values, to stimulate action on a movement which is to advance musical education among the masses. Mr. Francis spoke of the active part taken in the public schools in recognizing the aesthetic and cultural elements of the musical side of the child. Mrs. Spencer outlined a plan to establish an endowment of $100,000 to carry out this educational movement which was well received by the audience.

A very excellent program interspersed the papers and addresses.

The Tandlers' Quartet presented two compositions by Mr. Tandler, the "Sustained C" Quartet and prohibited music, an ingenious work in handling consecutive fifths and avoiding the bad effect so objectionable to the instructors in harmony. Mendelssohn's "Andante and Finale" was given by the Bierlich Trio, Mr. Stamm at the piano. Mrs. Edmund S. Shank, soprano, gave two French songs in good style with Mrs. Robinson at the piano. She also sang two songs by Mr. Roy Lamont Smith (MSS.), especially composed for this occasion.

(a) "It's O My Heart, My Heart."
(b) "The World Is Full of Sunshine."
(c) (encore) "I Sing to Thee."

COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
NINTH FLOOR—AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO, ILL. MRS. W. S. BRACKEN, President
Offers exceptional advantages in all departments. We call attention this week to the well known names in our piano department, Mr. Henry P. Eames, Director; Miss Jeanette Durno; Miss Marie Sebada, Mr. Geo. G. Lewis, Dr. W. Waugh Lauder, Mrs. Katherine Howard-Ward, Mr. Clarence Eidam, Mrs. Mabel Webster Osmer, Miss Henriette Weber, Mrs. Chas. Orchard, Miss Marie Edwards, Miss May D. Laukart, Miss Vivian Scott, Miss Adela Laue, Miss Vera Brady, Mr. Guy A. La Pelle, Miss Dorothy Pelck, Miss Marguerite Dresser.

Bertha Beeman Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

H. W. OWENS, MUS. B. VOICE BUILDER COACHING
PUPILS PREPARED FOR CHURCH POSITIONS, CONCERTS, ORATORIO
Monday and Saturday—Maller's Bldg., Madison & Wabash Studio Telephone Harrison 4573
CHICAGO
Friday—2112 Washington Boulevard

Peoria Musical College 102-104 North Madison Avenue PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr. Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
6217 MONROE AVENUE
Phone Midway 930

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago
SCHOOL OF MUSIC
A University Professional School, for the comprehensive study of practical and theoretical music, either as a profession or as an element of culture. Located upon the shore of Lake Michigan in Chicago's most attractive suburb.
I. Course in Applied Music, leading to the Degree of Graduate in Music.
II. Course in Theory and History of Music, leading to the Degree of Bachelor of Music.
III. Post-Graduate Course.
IV. Literary-Musical Course.
V. Course in Public School Music Methods.
VI. Normal Course in Piano Methods.
Course I., II. and V. include literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Academy without extra expense.
A thorough Preparatory Department is maintained.
The environment and social advantages most excellent.
Faculty of 25. Send for detailed descriptions of courses and book of Evanston views.
P. C. LUTKIN, Dean, Evanston, Ill.

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN
SOPRANO
Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital
429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

FREDK J. PERSSON PIANIST ACCOMPANIST
1921 Wolfram St.

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL. CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
309 KIMBALL HALL Teacher of Singing
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Regina De Sales
TEACHER OF SINGING
PUPILS PREPARED OPERA, ORATORIO, CONCERT
Rue de Villejus (Bois de Boulogne), Paris
Paris Studio Open All Summer.

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON

All to be published soon.

Mr. Smith is a new arrival and a good addition to the large list of able piano teachers.

The People's Orchestra will open seasons of forty concerts September 21.

S. W. MOUNTZ,
446 West Fortieth Place.

INDIANAPOLIS

Mr. Daniel Jones, pianist, a recent acquisition to the Indianapolis Conservatory of Music, gave a piano recital at Hollenbeck Hall, September 5. Mr. Jones made an excellent impression in numbers from Beethoven, Chopin, Schumann, Liszt and Tschaikowsky. He has unusual strength, fine technic and an ease that is agreeable.

Charles H. Gabriel, also a new piano teacher of the Indianapolis Conservatory of Music, gave his initial recital on the evening of September 12. He played numbers by Bach-Tausig, Mozart, Chopin, Debussy, Dohnanyi and Gabriel. He has a very beautiful tone and plays with temperament and finish. His facility in all passage work is wonderful. He played several of his own compositions as encores and they proved to be very modern in character and unusually effective. Mr. Wesley Howard, tenor, Jessie Luther, reader, and Gaylord Yost, violinist, also assisted in the program and came in for their share of honors.

The list of attractions for Indianapolis this season are as follows:

Maggie Teyte, October 22.

Russian Symphony Orchestra, November 10.

Flonzaley Quartet, November 28.

Russian Ballet and Symphony Orchestra, December 4.

Jacques Thibaud, January 7.

New York Symphony Orchestra, January 12.

Julia Culp, February 12.

Paderewski, February 25.

Schumann-Heink, March 19.

Clara Butt and Kennerly Rumford, April 8.

Besides these there are a number of extra attractions for which negotiations are now pending.

G. Y.

ST. PAUL NEWS

After an absence of three years Mr. Malcolm Dana McMillan, the well known composer, has again taken the position of organist and director at the People's Church The organ and the solo quartet are known as among the finest in the northwest.

THE COMING MUSICAL SEASON IN DALLAS

Next season bids fair to be one of the most remarkable in the musical chronicles of Dallas and of Texas, promising to even surpass in brilliancy the past season.

When last year the Dallas Chamber of Commerce established a music committee, Dallas took a leap forward in music, which placed her in the front rank of musical cities of America.

The Schubert Choral Club plans to bring to Dallas such splendid artists as Schumann-Heink, Mischa Elman and others. This club always meets with success.

There will be a second season of Grand Opera for Dallas in March with artists of equal note as the past year and will doubtless be even a greater success than the first season.

The German societies of Dallas plan to entertain the State Saengerfest with a musical entertainment never before surpassed. The writer was chairman of the music committee in 1905 when the twenty-fifth Jubilee Saengerfest was held in Dallas. He was intimately associated with the Germans and they always make good on any undertaking.

WATKIN.

Hyde.—Mr. Herbert E. Hyde has returned from Europe and resumed his duties as organist and director of music at St. Peter's Church, Chicago.

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
304 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 1931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

HAZEL EVERINGHAM
Pianist Accompanist Teacher Ensemble
Address 1251 N. State St. REDPATH BUREAU

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
Special Summer Session—June to August
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Languages The Berlitz School of Languages,
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

The Elderly Person

There are times when one in inclined to be disheartened by some of the things which obtain in the civic life of Chicago. Certain conditions seem so palpably wrong that, if ever they become different, we shall wonder, as people always do, why we ever put up with the wrong way of doing them for so long. Of course they are as they are because of hidden strong influences which know they profit by the present order, or rather disorder, and do not feel at all sure that they would do so well, if markedly altered conditions prevailed. So blind are strictly selfish reasonings, that they grow to consider themselves impregnable, and above any outside criticism that could presume to see further than their own powerful lenses carry their sight. For example, the railway companies fought and lobbied bitterly against the Inter-State Commerce act,—and they are having a bit of trouble, just now, because the Commission will not readily grant them permission to advance their present freight rates. And they are bothered, too, by the attitude of certain States which claim the right to dictate what shall be a reasonable rate within their borders. But, for many years, the roads have given testimony of their gratification at the absence of all necessity or demand for special concessions and rebates. Their efficiency and profit have been increased by the removal of this incubus. The other problems they must now solve, remembering that life is just one thing after the other, and that there is practical truth in the Biblical utterance that parents' sins inconveniently come home to roost with the children.

Really, there is cause for swelling pride and unadulterated happiness for any one who knows about the park system of Chicago. No matter what it cost over its real value, or how mismanaged in its detail, the plan and scope are magnificent. If you don't believe this, hint around, until finally an unsuspecting friend will ask you to motor with him some Saturday evening. The Elderly Person hopes for you that it will be one of those big heavy smoothly gliding machines with room for three on the back seat, if they are not unreasonably plump, and then for two others on those twirling seats with skeleton backs. Then, if you have such a host as The Elderly Person had, he will sit on the front seat next the chauffeur, who will likely be colored and answer to the name of Gene,—and you will be assured that there will be no speeding and that you are in for a real joy ride. Because all the seats are filled, and the comrades are choice and the host brims with good will, even down to his name. If you are thus lucky, the car will start from a comfortable Western suburb, where it is delightful to live, even if you do have to pay extra for everything, because of this exclusiveness. And speeding past the attractive homes, and the churches and school houses, you once more grow to believe that Chicago and its environs are not all sordid and distressing. You can't help the latter sensation if your task carries you often to where the less fortunate exist. There seem so many of them and the outlook so shadowy, to put it mildly. * * * And before you realize the distance you are in Garfield Park and the lights are beginning to peep among the thick branches of the trees, and to sparkle on the water of the artificial lake. You can see the boats bobbing about, and you know that for the most part, they are manned or womaned by inexperienced rowers, who zigzag distractedly in their enjoyment over the surface, bumping into one another cheerfully and catching crabs in the meantime, throughout the hour for which the boat is rented. And you see all along the circling roadways which gleam like white ribbons underneath the shadows of the thick foliage, the picnic parties which are prolonging the holiday because the night is sultry, and the close quarters of the flat or rooming house do not beckon invitingly. Ont on and down the smooth boulevard runs the heavy car, as though its wheels were made of velvet. The air in motion is heavy and burned. It is hot from contact with the rays of the sun shining unsparingly upon the corn fields farther away, and not yet cooled with the chill belonging to the night. But the rapid movement of the machine gives it a freshness. The temptation to sit back and enjoy this vigor which ministers to your great comfort is irresistible. It makes all the difference in the world, you discover, if you are in or out of an automobile. The very things you have done as a foot passenger in your resentment at fancied certain arrogances of automobilists, look like amazing actions when you are in a good seat and whizzing along, while the other man is afoot and possibly inconvenienced by the string of machines that seem unlikely to cease passing and give him a chance to cross the street. The motor car is without doubt a ministrant to ease, complacency, and in some cases to attempted superiority. To have so tamed the monster that it surrenders its unlimited strength to yield pleasure, is little short of wonderful. The wiseacres who predicted for it a skyrocket existence as a fad, were wrong, as they usually are. You find the driveways alive with machines of endless style, size and degrees of noise. For the most part, though, they slide along confidently, and the little jar of motion is so pleasurable that you indulge yourself with attention to it. And then you are apt to say something about the feeling of satisfaction you have that the car's feelings or condition do not have to be considered. With horses, the state of the weather and their physical state had to come to the front. On hot nights you could not drive fast or far, or up hill, because of the frailty of horse flesh. Not so the motor. It takes its toll in gasoline and goes on without a hint of fatigue except—but we won't go into that.

These boulevards connecting the parks are the very happiest of the happy thoughts of the men responsible for the entire park system. That long stretch of grass and

Valparaiso Music College

Department of

Valparaiso University

Second Largest University in the United States

VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks. This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President
OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER
SOLO VIOLINIST
Welsh International Festival
MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE
SOPRANO
Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils
5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN
PIANIST
8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE
CONTRALTO
Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL
TEACHER OF SINGING
STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON
BASSO-CANTANTE
Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency
416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496
Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers
VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION
METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE
Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL
The Art of Singing
81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday
Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD LOEBER
VIOLINIST TEACHER RECITALS Musicales
3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA WAIT
Contralto
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

DESTINY A Striking New Song By Jane Ogden Hunter
For Sale by all Music Dealers, or address
The Publisher, K. F. HUNTER. 2722 N. Sacramento Av.

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

Hazel Dell Neff
SOPRANO
PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN
PIANIST TEACHER
NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and
4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.
COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing
Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin
Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LESTER S. BUTLER
Voice, Harmony, Counterpoint
SPECIAL WRITER: CRITIC
Editors and others wishing articles on musical topics, gladly served.
Boston, Mass. Steinert Hall
Worcester, Mass. Day Building

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
441 Sidney Av., CHICAGO Phone Drexel 7910

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - NEWMAN
Baritone
Joint Recitals Oratorio
237 North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

MARY CROFUT GIBBS
Mezzo-Contralto
Oratorio Concert Recital
404 Kimball Hall

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston, Ill.

shrubs and trees and flowers is the foreground in the lives of countless people during the summer months. On these links you see whole families taking the evening respite from the day's heat. Father is stretched out full length on the grass, a picture of relaxation. Mother sits near him with the youngest baby on her lap, and the other babies are restlessly busy with all sorts of play or, at least, of occupation. You mentally say that the children ought to be in bed, according to the correct formula for rearing children. But you can't help knowing that they are pretty well off to have these breathing spaces, so at their hands that there is nothing to do but accept the city's gift of light and air. The young woman from New York grew enthusiastic and readily gave Chicago a long mark of approval. The hurrying car passed so many, many romping, merry children that you began to be cheerily hopeful about the future men and women they would develop into. The splendid school buildings on every hand, the broad parks themselves, with the central houses for gatherings and amusements, and the churches on every other corner, all held out hands to these flocks of children, calling to them to love the things that were most worth while. The saloons and little theaters were on the cross streets, holding out their hands, too, and you knew that in some way the allure of them made an appeal, but in the presence of so much good, and because of your very present comfort you couldn't help a becoming optimism.

The auto, leaving Douglas Park behind, ran past the vacant acreage dedicated by the city to garden patches for such persons as would cultivate them. In the dusk were to be seen some bending figures, so intent on the joy of watching things grow, that they were loth to leave. After all, whether high or low be the culture, it all comes back to the ground again for its perfect expression. The rich man has his orchids (air plants though they are, they belong to the earth) and the poor man his potato patch. It is only a difference in voicing. Across the long downs the perfect road wound and then the ear went with a swing into Washington Park. A rude voice disturbed the serenity, by ordering the rear light to be cared for. Although the officer wore white gloves, he handled the situation without them, creating quite a disturbing jar to one's sub-conscious self-importance. Across the famous Midway "Gene" bowled along, and here the lines of travel seemed to converge and pour forth a regular torrent of machines. Thicker and thicker they grew, until they dissolved through the many avenues of Jackson Park, and eventually divided themselves into two lines, going and coming, along the esplanade fronting the lake. Here, also, were all the other people who were not outdoors somewhere else. Picnics abounded with young men and women dashing around in circles; youngsters everywhere; and the center of it all the beach in front of the German building, where every sort of a bathing suit was in evidence, and the endless procession of those "going in" and those "going out," passed and repassed. Many as were the bathers, either in the water or playing on the sands, there were more people outside the ropes untiringly watching them. This sight bottled up the varied sensations of the drive into one jovial whole. Every conceivable definition of happiness was there in profusion, and every exponent of an ideal was apparently finding his solution completely satisfactory, and, therefore, a luxury.

THE ELDERLY PERSON.

MUSIC ABROAD

DRESDEN

The summer is gone and musical pleasures again begin to delight us, refreshed as we feel after the time spent in our pleasant summer resorts. The court opera opened on August 17 with a model performance of "Tannhauser," under von Schuch's lead, the cast was first rate with soloists such as Eva von der Ostern (Elizabeth,) Plaschke, (Wolfram), etc. Some novelties are being prepared.

Festivities were further arranged in honor of Dresden's great musician, Jean Louis Nicode, who on August 12 celebrated his sixtieth birthday. In Tepritz, under John Reichert's baton, a concert took place, the program of which was devoted exclusively to works from Nicode's pen. In Dresden his compositions will be specially noticed during the coming season. Nicode, born in Silesia (Fersitz) 1853 achieved world-wide fame, perhaps first with his grand composition, "Das Meer" (The Sea), which had its first hearing in the year 1888. Further his biggest works, the "Gloria Symphony," won him unstinted recognition. The composer has just laid the finishing touch on various choral compositions such as "Deutsche Gebet," "Morgen-wandering," in three movements, "Nacht Sonnenuntergang" (After Sunset), a symphonic poem, "Adler von Mars-la Tour," and other important compositions. Nicode is a master of brilliant instrumentation. His deep musicianship and spirited endowments place him at the side of the first composers of our time. As an orchestra leader he has the power to enthuse, to thrill, to carry one away. One regrets that he so seldom steps forward in Dresden, while other cities, such as Chemnitz and other places derive the benefit of his gifts.

Great expectations are put on the "Master school" for singing, which will open here on September 1. At its head are E. von Schuch and Giacomo Minkowski.

During summer Johann Strauss, concertized at the pleasant gardens of the Linckesches Bad. Of course the waltzes were in the ascendant and evoked storms of enthusiatic applause. The "Rudolfsklange," the "Wienerwald," the "Blue Danube," as well as the folk songs—haunting, often plaintive airs—were given with great feeling and mood, the Viennese orchestra and its leader, excelling in fine shadings and a musicianly interpretation.

Many concerts are in sight which will begin in October, the Philharmonic concerts (five in succession) with soloists such as Moritz Rosenthal, Eugen d'Albert, Ysaye, de Wullner, and others.

The orchesterverein will introduce a seldom heard symphony by Schultz-Benthen as well as Draeseke's beautiful concerto, interpreted by Fraulein Schubert. The same work will also be played in another concert by Miss Thraile, a pupil of Mme. Rappold.

Felix Draeseke's biggest work, the trilogy "Christus," which achieved sensational success some years ago in Berlin, Dresden and other places will soon appear in print, edited by Leuckardt of Leipzig, It will this year be produced in Berlin, Nuremberg, Zwickau, Kiel, Riga, Hamburg, Osnabruck, Barmen, Copenhagen, etc., which proves its excessive drawing power in the masses. The grand work is replete with religious zeal and conviction, which in conjunction with its supreme technical mastership makes it stand out as a monumental creation of lasting value for all time. Many programs of the coming season will be made up of the great deceased composer's creations, the singer, Luise Ottermann, will sing some leider which were found in the United States among his posthumous manuscript collections.

A. INGMAN.

Franklinstrasse 20, August 21, 1913.

THE OSTROVSKY METHOD IN CHICAGO

As has been advertised in Music News the past two weeks, the Ostrovsky Institute of Hand Development for pianists, 'cellists and violinists, has opened a Chicago branch this week at 513 Steinway Hall under the care of Mr. Rex Underwood.

The writer had the privilege of a private view of the apparatus and an explanation of the method and it certainly is most convincingly simple and fascinating in the possibilities it presents of increasing the strength and reach of the hands with a special view to increasing their proficiency at the piano, violin or violoncello.

This method has been adopted in some of the largest schools abroad and the Home Institute in London has grown to great size and significance.

Mr. Underwood is a splendid musician and a thoroughly intelligent exponent of the Ostrovsky method and he cordially invites all teachers to come to the Steinway Hall rooms and see a practical demonstration of what the apparatus can actually accomplish.

Zimbalist, Shattuck and many other famous players have written glowing tributes to the Ostrovsky institute in praise of the method and the apparatus.

———♯♯♯———

EXAMINATIONS FOR MUSIC TEACHERS.

At the last meeting of the Illinois Music Teachers' Association it was voted that a committee be appointed to prepare an outline for examinations in the various branches of music. Those who pass the examinations are to be granted a certificate of efficiency by the association. Following is the committee:

D. A. Clippinger (Voice) Chairman, Chicago.

Rossetter G. Cole (Theory), Chicago.

Walter Spry (Piano), Chicago.

Victor Bergquist, (Organ), Rock Island.

Herbert Butler (Violinist), Chicago.

F. W. Westhoff (Public School Music), Normal, Ill.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 66 Rue de Seine
EVERINGHAM Hazel (Tel. North 3765) 1251 N. State St.
FORD Susie B. (Phone Seeley 1268) 750 S. Leavitt St.
GALLUP Helen (Phone Austin 11713) Chicago Piano College
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Anstin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 5171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 Northb) 45 Bellevue Place
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4788) 520 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.

DRAMATIC ART

PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 3711)
EMANUEL N. B. (Auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO Charles E. Watt, Mgr Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boisievant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir). 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av.
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3835 Flournoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.
BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 267 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4640)
CARL Wm. C. 34 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3903) 644 Woodland Park (6th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church

ORGAN

COWAN Phelps (Phone Midway 930) 5217 Monroe Av.
DEAL Alice R. 715 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6210) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 524 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6607) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo, Milwaukee, Wis. 179 Pleasant St.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2866) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (61 Schiller St.) Pianist, Organist, Accompanist
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 6346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St, Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra, Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 55th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4451 North Winchester Av.

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BARTHOLOMEW H. B. 502 Kimball Hall
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 36 S. Maple Street
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Milwaukee, Wis.) 558 Jefferson St.
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5065) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1162 N. Ashland Avenue
BURNHAM Tbuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 338 N. Ashland Avenue
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 54 Auditorium (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3856 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Pianist—Teacher) 4009 Drexel Boulevard
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DESMOND Grace (Accompanist) 4430 Vincennes Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 523 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio

ERST Stephen Adolph
1653 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H.
Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.
FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season.
2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.)
Res. Studio, 1527 High St.
FOERSTER Anton
1024 Lawrence Ave
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Aldine 2917)
646 Woodland Park
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3235)
Organist, 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise
Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur
Columbia School of Music
GODFREY Eleanor F.
Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music
Northwestern University School of Music
HEAPHY Alice Christine (Boston, Mass.)
Worcester, Mass.—Day Building
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773)
750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7045)
425 Fine Arts Building
HERSHENOW Dora (South Bend, Ind.)
South Bend Conservatory
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.)
443 Day Building
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741)
Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41)
Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.)
Arlington Av. and May St.
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School)
712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals)
3350 North Halsted St.
LERNER Tina (New York
Loudon Charlton, Manager
LEVY Henlot (Kimball Hall)
American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil
Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence
American Conservatory
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.)
North Shore School of Music
McKAY Louis P., 2 Nelson Pl.
Grand Rapids, Mich.
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W)
American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.)
(University School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (Jamestown, N. Y.)
Hill Piano School
OLIVER Mary Lindsay
Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute)
415 W. 61st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904)
419 Merrick Bldg. 357 W. 63rd St
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8388)
1921 Wolfram St.
PETERSON Edna Gunnar
619 Fine Arts Bldg
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope
707 Fine Arts Bldg
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.)
Huron College School of Music
RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766
620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av.
Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma
Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie
Busb Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N (Pianist—Organist)
Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5529
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142)
726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta
Superior, Wis
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.)
3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow
4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420)
American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.)
Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715)
5828 Woodlawn Av.
STOUT Lillian Mary
429 Fine Arts Bldg.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V (512 Kimball Hall)
1524 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher)
American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.)
Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs
Peoria, Ill.
THOMAS Artbur P. (Appleton, Wis.)
Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin
Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 274-J Berwyn)
515 Kimball Hall
von MICKWITZ Harold
Busb Temple Conservatory
WALLACE Evangeline
522 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831)
American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo. Sbipley (Kansas City)
4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H.
Chicago Piano Colle
WILFORD J. E.
502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise
721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany)
Schaper Str 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L.
1515 Maller's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist)
Denver, Colo (2226 Williams St.
ZEISLER Fannie Bloomfield
5740 Woodlawn Ave

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Lonisville, Ky.
Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son
820 Fine Arts Bldg.
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block
Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver
Boston, Mass
DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8155)
608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House
628 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro., New York
7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co.
87 E. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO.
6119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co.
522 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G.
Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.)
64 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co.
A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. Publishers
235 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons
New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2131)
639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3749-R)
Columbia School of Music
ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1671)
American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory
Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art
Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art
74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle
School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park)
234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice
714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music
Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director
N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music
59 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College
Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.)
Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.)
430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec.
40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.)
509 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music
Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music
61 Auditorium Bldg
DERDIGER (Spicker) E. J., Vocal and Piano
500 Kimball Hall
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha)
203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianaforte School
Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music
8th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir.
2831 Washington Boulevard
KROEGER School of Music (St. Louis)
Musical Art Building
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music)
629 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074)
522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano
413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College
Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir)
309 Kimball Hall
Morningside Conservatory Orwin A. Morse, D.
Sioux City, Ia.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music
Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music
Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music
Evanston, Ill.
OAK PARK CONS. Music and Dramatic Art
Warrington Bldg.
OSTROVSKY Institute. Hand Development
513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art
55 Auditorium Bldg.
TOLEDO Musical College
Toledo, Ohio
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir
11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music
Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance
42 W. 75th St., New York
VILIM American Violin School
411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres.
1515 Mallers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438)
27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art.
29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano)
85th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

ALBERT Teachers Agency
633 S. Wabash Av.
BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency)
Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston)
College and Church Agency
ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf
421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M
Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S.
Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C.
Evanston, Ill.

THEORY

ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin)
716 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H.
Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A. (North Shore School of Music) 4555 Evanston Av. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone North 815)
Studio, 226 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849)
309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Ludwig
Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.)
812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Douglas 9194
Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg.
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory)
Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond
Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831)
Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Ravenswood 141)
1962 Leland Avenue
CLEOPHAS Cornelia
Studying Abroad
COHEN Sol (Cincinnati Orchestra)
628 Lincoln Ave. (Avondale) Cincinnati
DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.)
North Shore School of Music
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547
412 Kimball Hall
DRAKE Earl R.
84 Auditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121)
6352 Rhodes Av.
EVANS Clarence B. (San Francisco
1549 Octavia St.
FISCHEL Max I.
610 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst)
105 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik
425 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Metha Mae (Phone Oakland 4365)
4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio
1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969)
3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Maurice H.
Chicago Musical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.)
917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.)
Heizer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra)
1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KITCHIN Joseph
5416 Jackson Av.
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio)
Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517)
3533 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin
411 Kimball Hall
MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago
Branch, Kankakee, Illinois
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357)
1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nusshaum School of Music)
4654 Grand Boul.
PLUZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832)
101 West 115th St., New York,
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago
530 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island)
Vilim, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston)
1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb.
University School of Music
STEINDEL Alhin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra)
1325 Birchwood Av.
TOWNSEND Winifred
411 Kimball Hall.
VAN AIKEN Hal G. Soloist and Principal, Violin
Dept., So. Bend (Ind.) Conservatory
WALKER Sadie (Phone Belmont 4534)
Cosmopolitan School of Music
WOODARD Guy
Bush Temple
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937
American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord
Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander
627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917)
American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P.
Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis)
22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480
1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30)
4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante)
Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory
606 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison
304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.)
54 Auditorium Bldg
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert (Phone Hyde Park 5750
6365 Ingleside Avenue
BARRADELL Kennard
Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano)
110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William
419 Fine Arts Bldg.
BE K Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580)
Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto)
Edison Park, Ill.
BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005)
303 Kimball Hall
BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.)
Northwestern University School of Music
BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist)
6119 Greenwood Ave.

BISPHAM David
44 W. 44th St., New York

BLAAHA Wayne Anton (Phone Douglas 9194)
Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg.

BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg.
Drake School of Music

BOGERT Walter L. (Baritone) Pres. N.Y.S.M.T.A.
Aeolian Hall, New York City

BOLLMAN Maude Fenton
Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.

BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York)
Care Haensel and Jones

BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 5819)
Kimball Hall

BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8620)
4822 Madison Ave.

BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium)
Cosmopolitan School of Music

BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor)
1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.

BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2259
Northwestern Uni. School of Music

BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3886)
(Harry Culbertson, Manager)

BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio)
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music

BRUEGGER Frederick
720 Fine Arts Bldg.

BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth)
7022 Vernon Av.

BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041)
727 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.)
Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau

BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183)
520 Fine Arts Building

Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass.
413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.

BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 5485)
512 Fine Arts Building

CASE Harriet
Auditorium Bldg.

CHEATHAM Kitty (New York)
274 Madison Avenue

CHENEY Mary (New York)
500 Carnegie Hall

CHILSON-OHRMAN Luella, (Soprano)
4603 Sheridan Road

CLARK Charles W. (Paris)
12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.

CLARKE Edw. 613 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831)
Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)

CLARK Lizzie Ahbott
Res. 5498 Cornell Av. (Phone Hyde Park 6971)

CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152
Sherwood Music School

CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone)
Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11

CLIPPINGER D. A.
410 Kimball Hall

CONANT Alice Widney (Soprano)
University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.

CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher)
721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495

COOK Dwight Edrus (Tel. Oak Park 2091)
120 N. Oak Park Ave., Oak Park, Ill.

COOK John Loring (Tenor)
300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 6156)

CORLEW Mabel (Contralto)
4202 Prairie Ave. (Phone Harrison 973)

COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France)
6 rue Edmond About

CRAMER Alice Ione Phone Drexel 7009)
508 E. 46th Place

CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor)
234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)

DAHLSTROM Margaret
3242 Clifton Ave.

DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977)
608 Fine Arts Bldg.

Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique
30 Rue Marbeuf, Champs Elysees, Paris

DE SALES Regina (Paris, France)
40 rue de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)

DeYOUNG Richard B.
American Conservatory

DEVRIES Herman
618-628 Fine Arts Building

DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478)
816 S. Harvey Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310
710 South Central Park Avenue

FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio
H. B. Turpin, Manager

FARNUM Mrs. Frank
3359 Warren Ave.

FARRELL Joseph (Kansas City)
201 Studio Building.

FICHTNER Lndwig Carl (Basso-Cantante)
149 Tremont St., Boston

FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Longwood 408)
9648 Howard Court

FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg
5906 Ontario St. (Contralto)

FRIDENBERG Abbie L. (New York)
Studio 110 Carnegie Hall

FRISBIE Constance (Soprann)
5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)

GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4784)
318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.

GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886)
3435 Flournoy St.

GARTON Samuel B. (Home Phone Ravenswood 6392)
323 South Wabash Av.

GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone)
413 Kimball Hall

GIBBS Mary Crofut Res. Phone—Longwood 1633)
404 Kimball Hall

GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone)
1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.

GINGRICH Irving (Dir. Wawasee Summer School of Music.) Ins. South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory

GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend. Ind. Conservatory)
Chicago Address, 622 Kimball Hall

GERHARDT Elena (Wolfsohn)
1 W 34. New York.

GROW Ethel (Phone North 2685)
1002 Dearborn Av.

GERVILLE-REACHE Jeanne, (Haensel & Jones)
29 W. 42nd. New York

GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Unca. Art)
623 Fine Arts Bldg

HADLEY Grant (Tenor)
Suite 73 Auditorium Building

HAGGERTY-SNELL Ida (Phone Morningside 3810)
2881 Broadway, N. Y. City

HAIGHT Irma (Detroit, Mich.)
915 Third Avenue

HALL William John (St. Louis)
Musical Art Building

HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497)
423 Fine Arts Bldg.

HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher)
72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.

HAMILTON Jessie Mack, (Phone Ravenswood 326)
714 Kimball

HARRIS Milon R.
403 Kimball Hall

HART Belle
608 Kimball Hall

HARTLEY Sybil Owen, (Atlanta)
999 Piedmont Av.

HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Recital, oratorio and opera) care of Music News

HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.)
Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1757)

HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Building

HERDIEN Mabel Sharp
5132 Kenmore Ave.

HEUCHLING Mathilde
712 Fine Arts Building

HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923)
Chicago Musical College

HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano)
1144 Dive sey Parkway Tel. Grac. 1733

HINKLE Florence Soprano)
294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)

HINSHAW William Wade (New York)
Metropolitan Opera Company

HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003)
6th Floor, Kimball Hall

HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson)
304 Kimball Hall

HOLT GeorgeNelson
509 S. Wabash Ave.

HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano)
3800 Broadway, New York

HOSTLER Eleanore Cappe (Phone Austin 10511)
5836 Washington Blvd.

HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544)
Auditorium Bldg.

Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland)
Tudor Mansions, 3615 Pine Grove Av.

HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante)
South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.

HUNTER Jane Ogden (Phone Belmont 6530)
2722 N. Sacramento Av.

HUNTLEY Hazel Phobe Harrison 6880
608 Fine Arts building

HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund
Alliance, Ohio

HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4257)
501 Kimball Hall

IKERT Charlotte (Contralto)
Management Harry Culbertson

JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 6104)
4937 Michigan Ave.

KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8619)
4433 Racine Avenue

KILBY Lemnel W. (Phone Edgewater 868)
North Shore School of Music, 4665 Evanston Av.

KIMBALL Roscoe (Baritone
Management Harry Culbertson

KIMBELL Grant (Tenor)
5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831

KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

LA BERGE Charles (Baritone)
American Conservatory

LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 6774)
1375 East 54th Street

LASH De Witt Durgin (Phone Harrison 5365)
420 Fine Arts Bldg

LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6880)
6450 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1

LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335)
4460 Berkeley Av.

LINDQUEST Albert (Phone West Pullman 366)
237 E-113 Street

LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto)
1311 E. 53rd St.

LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola
3814 Ellis Avenue

LUND Rene S. (Baritone)
2453 W Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 5802)

LUND Mme Edia
Scandinavian Song Program

LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J)
1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.

LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder)
Drake School of Music

MacBURNEY Thomas
609 Fine Arts Building

MacLEISH Lillian Phone Garfield 3060)
3422 Fulton Street

McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439)
3620 Parnell Av.

MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E.
615 Fine Arts Bldg.

MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France)
27 rue Boislevant

MARCUSSON Grace Brune (Phone West 661)
2459 Jackson Boul.

MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402)
5256 Berteau Av.

MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.)
209 Wesley Av.

MILLER Nevada Van der Veer (New York)
749 West End Av.

MILLER Christine
1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

MILLER Herbert
808 Fine Arts Bldg

MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn)
1, W. 34th St., New Ynrk

MILLER John B. (Tenor)
Chicago Musical College

MOSHER L. Drew
137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.

MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone)
1165 Belmon Ave

MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles)
445 W. 40th Place

MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.

MULREY Mabel V.—Soprano—Pianist
47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.

MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4577
790 Atheuaeum Bldg

MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano)
2 Fairfield Lane, Pittsburgh

MURRISON Harry R.
Alliance, Ohio.

NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122)
1215 E. 53rd Street

NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano
Plymouth, Ind

NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199)
237 North Howard Av. Austin

NICHOLS John W Tenor (New York)
330 W. 56th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)

NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5509)
4125 Drexel Blvd.

OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute)
303 Kimball Hall

OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147)
2112 Washington Blvd.

PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London, England)
Care L. G. Sharpe, 51 Regent St.

PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto)
Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.

PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.)
Toledo Musical College

PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3248)
4173 Lake Av.

POTTER Mildred (Contralto)
Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St., N

PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.)
Winona School of Music

PROTHEROE Daniel
610 Fine Arts Bldg.

RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Building

RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 5782)
1738 Humboldt Boulevard

RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor)
Barre Plains, Mass.

RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513
413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av.

REED Esta Asher (Soprano)
Abroad for a season

REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165)
5627 Indiana Av.

REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg)
202 Nixon Building

RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.)
Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.

ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting)
1372 E. 52nd St.

ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877)
7205 Stewart Ave.

RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto)
Principal Liederheim, Auburndale, Mass.

RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 5265)
719 Fine Arts Bldg.

RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448)
3100 Lexington St.

SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing
999 Walnut St., Newton Highlands, Mass.

SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano)
401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.

SCHUSTER Katherine
71 Auditorium Bldg.

SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York)
Wolfsohn Bureau

SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 4690)
408 Kimball Hall.

SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner)
St. James Bldg., New York

SEVERINGHAUS Edna Reiffert (Soprano)
63 Auditorium Bldg.

SHELP Dr. H. Wm.
726 Fine Arts Bldg.

SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor)
516 Kimball Hall

SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano)
4044 Indiana Av.

SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano)
6523 St. Lawrence Av.

SMIDT Mahle Corlew (Phone Austin 12717)
5943 Ohio St.

SPEARIN Jane Poison (Phone Gary 1173)
625 Madison St., Gary Ind

SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano)
Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio.

STEELE Mary Hinman
503 Kimball Hall

STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh)
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.

STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48)
4439 Calumet Av.

STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977)
55 Auditorium Building

STEPHALI Sofia Phone Midway 5912)
6105 Kimbark Av.

STEVENSON Lucille
4438 Berkeley Avenue

STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923)
1134 E. 47th St.

STULTS Walter A. (Evanston)
Northwestern University School of Music

TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L.
Lewis Institute, Phone West 793

THATCHER Burton (Res. Phone Drexel 4961)
Chicago Musical College

THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano)
Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill.

THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2089)
520 Fine Arts Building

TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3765
Bush Temple Conservatory

TORRENS Mr. and Mrs. L. A. (Ninth Floor)
Auditorium Bldg., Wabash Av.

TOWNS Kirk
Chicago Musical College

TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor)
813 La Salle Av.

TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949)
404 Kimball Hall

VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Hyde Park 4678)
1370 E. 61st Street

WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380)
428 Fine Arts Building

WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2958)
1325 E. 64th St.

WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Oak Park 4397)
206 S. Lombard Av., Oak Park.

WATSON Ruth Swing
1225 E. 62nd St.

WEAVER Iva Bigelow
Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.

WEBSTER Frank B.
719 Kimball Hall

WEGENER Mme. Justine
Bush Temple Conservatory

WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone)
51 Auditorium Bldg.

WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 5946)
Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hall

WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 E 34th St., New York

WING Eloise Hilton (Soprann), (Phone Rogers Park 1656)
728 Fine Arts Bldg.

WILCOX John C. (Teacher)
Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo.

WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio)
516 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS Dr. Carver
(Samuel B. Garton) Auditorium Bldg.

WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey
406 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS H. Evan
Akron Ohio

WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway
6107 Woodlawn Av.

WYNN Bessie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

WYCOFF Eva Emmet
500 W. 143rd, New York

YOUNG Walter S. (801 Carnegie Hall, New York)
Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair, N. J.

ZENDT Marie Sidenius (Wilmette, Ill.)
719 Park Av. (Phone 849-R Wilmette

ZIMMERMAN Collata
72 Auditorium Bld

Facts You Should Know

Before you make your choice is the time to find out all there is to be learned about the instrument that is to furnish the music for your home or studio for years to come.

Find out for yourself not only how pianos are built but how they are sold.

Learn the facts regarding the STARR piano—how it is made in one of the largest and best equipped factories in the world and how coupled with every known factory facility, that counts for efficiency and economy, there is employed the greatest creative ability and the most competent workmanship.

Everything that has been learned in a half century of piano building is utilized in the building of the STARR piano of today to make it as perfect a piano as human ingenuity can devise.

The STARR LINE of PLAYER PIANOS and PIANOS is sold absolutely at ONE PRICE—this means that every purchaser pays the lowest price for which the instrument he buys can be sold.

Investigate before you buy. Call or write for information regarding prices, terms, etc.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Subscribe for

Music News

Music News of this issue will reach many people who are not subscribers—many of them in fact will see it for the first time. To such we offer the explanation that we are making a special

Promotive Campaign

and are sending sample copy ONCE to very many people who do not often read music papers. We invite all such to become

Subscribers

The cost of the paper is only two dollars a year—which is only four cents a week, and for that sum we will bring to your home

Every Week in the Year

full and adequate announcement and review of the concert and opera situation of the country.

A Premium of One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music given to each new subscriber and each renewal

Send Your Subscription Today Before You Forget It

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"

by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic
(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport, Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

Vol. 5 CHICAGO, SEPTEMBER 26, 1913 No. 39

WILLIAM BARLOW ROSS

TENOR

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Chicago, September 26, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

United States, per year, postpaid.....$2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's, Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are chargel to their accounts.

Frances Bowser, Business Representative

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs. Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block

TOLEDO, OHIO
Frank E. Percival
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20
Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

Editorial

ENDORSEMENT

One of the finest composers in America has just written a letter to Music News in which occurs the following sentence:

"Congratulations upon the editorial in Music News against slang and also that on the unnecessarily vulgar part of vaudeville performances. How many young people might profit by Bispham's singing! —But, the program must be decent from one end to the other. Good English and understanding will help our public toward a higher appreciation of our national American art and its workers."

OPERA IN ENGLISH

Opera in English is the one great question of the hour, and nearly every musical editorial in Chicago last Sunday was devoted to the subject even as the weekly music papers have also been burdened with the same story for many weeks.

It appears that the season just now opening will certainly be the one in which the subject shall be settled, at least to a far greater degree than heretofore, for there will not be lacking plenty of opportunity to actually hear opera in English and that also under most favorable circumstances.

At the Century Opera House in New York there has already begun a thirty-five weeks' season which is to be devoted wholly to opera in English and it is announced also that in Chicago all of the Saturday nights of the coming grand opera season will be assigned to the exploitation of opera in the vernacular. These are not flash-in-the-pan efforts either, but full fledged operatic performances given with the best of casts and in the finest style of the art.

Surely, it ought to be a little more clear at the end of the season that opera in English either is or it is not a plausible thing and also that the great public either does or does not want opera in English.

At the present time it is impossible to say just how successful it may be or in just what degree it will be accepted by the public. There is nothing to do but wait patiently while all the critics of the world have their say in the matter and to watch for the final verdict of the supreme court, in other words, the great public.

The following article, written by Felix Borowski in the Chicago Record Herald is one of the clearest items which have come to hand in this matter:

"Opera in English entered upon its long expected struggle for supremacy when last Monday evening the Century Opera Company opened its season at the Century Theater, New York, with a performance of Verdi's "Aida." The clash of schools was on and those patriotic people who nurse in their innermost souls the conviction that the language spoken and understood by the inhabitants of America is the sole tongue which should be warbled on our operatic stages were on hand to participate in the victory which they were certain would be theirs.

"It was, at least, a good omen that the interest in the Century Company's ambitious endeavor to do something for opera in the vernacular was so great that when the curtain went up on the opening act of Verdi's composition only standing room was available for a large section of the public which had negelected to purchase tickets in time. The gathering was not, however, one of those patrician assemblages whose members, clothed in purple and fine linen, stow themselves more or less conspicuously into the boxes of the Metropolitan Opera House. The reviewer of music for the New York Evening Sun assured his readers that the Century audience 'of 2,200 was a model of good behavior.' No testimonial could have testified more explicitly to the plebeian character of Mr. Aborn's patrons.

"The management and directors of the Century Company, not having expected a vast concourse of millionaires, their resplendant wives and families, were not disappointed, it is to be presumed, because the people who sat and listened to Verdi's tuneful inspirations were merely music lovers of moderate incomes who preferred to look at the unfolding of Aida's tragic history rather than at the diamonds of their neighbors. Probably the directorate was secretly glad that Mr. Caruso's affluent admirers were but meagerly represented in the throng; for 'popular' opera has long been sniffed at by the rich and fashionable who, it has always been said, like their opera only when they are unable to understand what it is all about.

"As one of the principal arguments against a change of existing conditions in the linguistic methods of interpreting opera has been the general inability of singers to make themselves understood in any tongue, it is a point in favor of the cause that the Century artists were so excellent as to their diction that the badness of the English translation of Ghislanzoni's text was apparent to everyone.

"'On the whole,' wrote Mr. Finck in the Evening Sun, 'the standard of enunciation was high last night. About three-quarters of the singers engaged for the Century company are natives of this country, while some of the others are English. While many of the American born members of the Metropolitan have on various past occasions made a sorry showing in using their own language for operatic purposes the outcome of last evening's test of English as a singing language was distinctly encouraging, though it is no doubt easier to project words comprehensibly into the auditorium of the Century Theater than across the gigantic spaces of the Metropolitan. It is regrettable, however, that a better translation of the text than the clumsy version used on this occasion could not have been obtained.'

"Mr. Krehbiel also testified in the New York Tribune to the fine quality of the enunciation in 'Aida.' 'A great many,' he wrote, 'an unusual number indeed, of the

(Continued on page 23.)

Music News

Music in Chicago

NEWS OF THE OPERA

Among the notable revivals promised by Maestro Campanini, for the season of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, will be: Mozart's "Don Giovanni" with Titta Ruffo and Aristodemo Giorgini; there are several prima donnas for the female roles; Giordano's "Fedora" with Lucien Muratore and Lina Cavalieri; Massenet's "Manon" with Mary Garden and Lucien Muratore; Donizetti's "Linda di Chamounix" with Titta Ruffo and Rosa Raisa; Bellini's "Puritani" with Alessandro Bonci and Florence Macbeth; Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" with Amedo Bassi and Rosa Raisa; Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West" with Carolina White and Edmond Warnery. The probabilities are that other favorite operas will be given with strong casts.

Patrons of the grand opera this season are evincing unusual interest in the plans of Impresario Campanini, to present grand opera in English, a fact that was a subject of much complimentary remark, at the season reservations placed on sale yesterday. Primarily, the management has adopted a scale of prices, which should determine the popularity of opera in the vernacular, the range being from $2.50 to $20.00, for the entire season of ten weeks, varying with location. This certainly puts grand opera within the range of the most moderate purse, and below the tariffs demanded in any of the big opera houses of continental Europe, sustained either by subvention or subscription. In these advancements of opera in English, all the rich scenic resources of the Auditorium stage, and the splendid wardrobe of the opera company, will be used together with an imposing enlistment of high-class artists and unsurpassed orchestra, and a chorus, second to no operatic organization in the world.

Saturday evenings have heretofore been reserved for the popular priced performances and achieved such success in the esteem of the public that the operas in English will be given for the same prices in even better fashion, because the operas selected invariably demand large ensemble. News from the east proclaims that opera in English has made a pronounced impression, and the call for great works in the vernacular is more than ever before attracting the attention of musicians, music lovers, and the opera-going public of this country. The management of the Chicago Grand Opera Company will put this to a pleasant test, in presenting ten of the most popular operas available, for representation in English. The recent successes of "The Cricket on the Hearth," "Hansel and Gretel," and "Natoma" have demonstrated their popularity. Others already nominated for advancement in English this season include: "Martha," "Faust," "Mignon," "Cinderella," "Carmen," "The Secret of Susanne," "The Lovers' Quarrel," and "Cavalleria Rusticana."

The enlistment of the Chicago Grand Opera Company includes an unusual number of American artists; likewise of English-speaking artists, of other nationalities, so that the integrity of high grade casts can be readily maintained.

MUSICALE AT ELEANOR CLUB

Miss Marion Lychenheim, pianist, and Miss Mabel Barrows, dramatic mezzo soprano, gave a program at the Central Eleanor Club rooms in the Powers building on last Sunday afternoon and provided a rare treat for each of the fifty people who were present.

The Eleanor Club is a very cozy and homelike place and is provided with a concert grand piano of good make so that a recital there is provided with a helpful setting and environment.

Miss Lychenheim opened the program with MacDowell's "In Deep Woods," which was intended as a sort of reminder of the summer vacation days spent at Eleanor camp at Lake Geneva. This poetic piece was played with true insight into its most hidden meanings and made to ring entirely true to its name. MacDowell is evidently a great favorite with this young pianist for later she played the "Scherzo" from one of his "sonatas" with much vivacity and ended the program with a really virtuosic presentment of the notable "Concert Etude."

Other numbers played were the sedately musical "Prelude," E minor (Mendelssohn), the charming "Nocturne" by Grieg, the much liked "Romance" (Gruenfeld) and the peculiar "Dr. Gradus" by Debussy, a work, which, while very interesting, yet falls far short of really exemplifying the story it is supposed to stand for.

Miss Lychenheim plays the piano in a most wholesome way, her tone is large and round, her phrasing is accomplished in broad sweeps, her rhythm is impeccable and her memory without flaw. Added to this, her tone is sweet as well as big and round and, by most adept pedaling she makes her effects musical at all times.

Altogether, this young player is certainly one who has made excellent use of her opportunities and it may be very confidently predicted that her future will be a bright one.

Miss Barrows has a voice which has a particularly long range, being very rich in the lower tones and perfectly clear in the heights, while also she has a most remarkable control of pianissimo effects.

Her dramatic instinct is unusually well developed and each interpretation projected by her is full of meaning and very carefully conformed to the mood of her text.

Some of the Finden Love Songs were well treated, familiar works of Lang, Homer and Ware were very well sung, the "Cuckoo Clock" of G. A. Grant-Schaefer was exquisite in its drollery and the "Secret" of Woodman was sung better than within memory, from the interpretative side, being made a very paean of spring rapture.

In this number Miss Lychenheim also distinguished herself, playing the elaborate accompaniment as it has rarely been played and adding not a little to the exhilaration of the moment. Throughout the program she showed herself not only a finely developed young pianist but also displayed versatility and her real musicianship by proving to be an expert accompanist as well.

C. E. W.

MME. RYDER'S PUPIL

Mme. Theodora Sturkow Ryder presented her piano pupil Ernau Blythe Smith in piano program at the Wilmette Woman's Club House on last Thursday evening, assistance being given by Mme. Jessie De Vore, violinist, while Mme. Ryder furnished the second piano parts in the concerted numbers.

The Wilmette Club House is certainly a charming place for a debut recital, and the audience in attendance on Thursday was a finely representative one. Cordiality was in the air and Miss Smith was shown in unmistakable way that her work was thoroughly appreciated.

The two piano ensembles included an arrangement of the Von Weber "Invitation to Dance," the entire "Concerto" G Minor, of Mendelssohn, and "Le Soir" by Chaminade and "Espana" by Chabrier.

The "Invitation" and the last two named pieces were all given with brilliance and a liberal amount of applied color, while the "Concerto," best known of the list, was

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

CHARLES LaBergé Baritone
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

FRANK B. WEBSTER
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Bush Temple Conservatory
STUDIO—SUITE 719-722 KIMBALL HALL

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Have you seen the new Musical Journal

Every person interested in Bands or Orchestras should receive

The Army and Navy Musician

Here is a journal that makes its influence felt—one that is valuable to all its readers.

Write for FREE sample copy.

The Army and Navy Musician
ELKHART, IND., U. S. A.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE VIOLIN CEDARGREEN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Edna Reiffert SEVERINGHAUS
Mezzo Soprano - Teacher of Voice
63 Auditorium Building

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

given new life and proved thoroughly agreeable, especially in the slow movement, which was received with unusual acclaim.

As a solo offering Miss Smith played the "Black Key Etude," by Chopin and one in G Flat, much less known—cantabile in effect and given by the young artist with fine tonal quality.

Miss Smith has a reliable technic, an accurate memory and much taste in her playing.

Mme. De Vore is a violinist of decided grace and much musicianship. Her tone is always agreeable and her intonation impeccable, while such matters as phrasing and color receive intelligent attention also. In the "Sonata" for piano and violin by Rubinstein, which she played with Miss Smith, there was great brilliance and decided musical effects at times, though the piano occasionally overshadowed the violin too much.

The Tschaikowsky "Canzonetta" was distinctly fine in melody line and tone color—the accompaniment being played superbly by Mme. Ryder, while the Nachez "Danse Tzigane" provided a generous splash of color, startling in its very bold contrasts.

C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

CHICAGO TENOR AN ENTHUSIASTIC HORSEMAN

The accompanying cut shows John Loring Cook, the well known singer and teacher, enjoying his favorite outdoor sport. Mr. Cook has had the most successful summer season of teaching in the history of his fourteen years in Steinway Hall, and in fact, has had his time taken up at the studio to such an extent that he has not been able to leave the city for a vacation. Pupils from many distant points have taken work with him this summer, among whom many be mentioned Miss Eva Burford of Arkansas and Miss Alice Marrs of Australia, both fine voices. Being extremely fortunate in disposing of his suburban interests lately Mr. Cook has again located in Hyde Park in order that he may superintend the building of some very attractive homes which his contractors are getting ready for the market in one of the south side sub-divisions.

JOHN LORING COOK AT HIS FAVORITE PASTIME

———♯♯♯———

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Any one who has kept track of the musical situation in Chicago and vicinity the past five years or more cannot fail to know that the concerts and recitals given at the Northwestern University School of Music in Evanston during that time have been of extraordinary interest and value, and an occasional attendance at these concerts has proven the fact that they are given in a style and with a finish not excelled elsewhere.

The new catalog of the institution, just at hand, shows a steady growth in the school in all departments, and the faculty announcements for the coming season prove that this excellence will certainly be well maintained in the coming months.

The complete list of the faculty reads as follows:

FACULTY LIST

Abram Winegardner Harris, Sc.D., LL.D., President.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Mus.D., A. G. O., Dean.

Irving Hamlin, Secretary.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Mus.D., A. G. O., Professor of Organ, Theory and Composition,

Harold Everard Knapp, Director of the Violin Department; Professor of Violin and Ensemble Playing.

Arne Oldberg, Director of the Piano Department; Professor of Piano and Composition.

George Alfred Grant-Schaefer, Director of the Vocal Department; Professor of Voice Culture and Normal Vocal Methods.

Osbourne McConathy, Director of the Public School Music Department; Instructor in Sight-Reading, Choral Music and Public School Music Methods.

William Henry Knapp, Instructor in Voice Culture.

Day Williams, Instructor in Violoncello.

Margaret Cameron, Instructor in Piano.

Louis Norton Dodge, Mus.G., Instructor in Piano, Theory and Ensemble Playing.

Nina Shumway Knapp, Instructor in Piano.

Victor Garwood, Instructor in Piano and History of Music.

Bertha Beeman, Instructor in Voice Culture.

Hila Verbeck Knapp, B.A., Mus.G., Instructor in Piano.

Charles John Haake, Mus.G., Instructor in Piano and Normal Piano Methods.

Alta Dorothy Miller, B.L., Instructor in Voice Culture.

Gail Martin Haake, Instructor in Piano and Normal Piano Methods.

Alfred George Wathall, Instructor in Violin and Theory.

Walter Allen Stults, Mus.G., Instructor in Voice Culture.

Lura Mary Bailey, Instructor in Piano and Ensemble Playing.

Hedwig Brenneman, Mus.G., Instructor in Voice Culture.

Odile Goddard Frost, Mus.G., Instructor in Piano and Organ.

Anniversary Number

October 10th, 1913

Greatest Advertising Opportunity of the Year

Only a Few More Days in which Copy Can Be Sent

Music News

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

Daniel Protheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

BOLLINGER CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
I. EDWIN SCHNEIDER, Proprietor
FORT SMITH, ARK.
FACULTY—I. Edwin Schneider, Florence Mitchell-Schneider, Exene T. Nixon, Hulda A. Deden, Clark W. Young, Mary Boyd, Pauline Curtin, Edgar Robinson, Frederick P. Bally.
EMIL LIEBLING, Mnsical Examiner Piano Department

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO 955 Third Av., Detroit, Mich.
Chicago address, care of Music News

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

Effa Ellis KEYBOARD HARMONY
203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
Tel. Douglas 701 OMAHA, NEB

Katherine Howard Ward
ORGANIST and ACCOMPANIST Tel. Ravens'd 2152
Teaching Cosmopolitan School of Music

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
ABROAD FOR SEASON

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

Harriet Case SOPRANO
Management Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., Second Floor

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

H. B. Bartholomew
Teacher of PIANO AND VOICE 502 Kimball Hall

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

Myrtle Hatswell-Bowman, Instructor in Voice Culture.

Carl Milton Beecher, Mus.G., B. Mus., Instructor in Piano.

John Doane, Jr., B. A., B. Mus., Instructor in Organ.

Alphonse de Salvio, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Italian Language and Diction.

Wilhelmina Christiana Pfirshing, Instructor in German and French Languages and Diction.

Walfried Singer, Instructor in Harp.

Elizabeth Shotwell Burger, B. A., Mus.G. Assistant Instructor in Piano.

Janet Maureen Hanna, Mus.G., Assistant Instructor in Piano.

The very interesting introductory paragraphs of the catalog are here reproduced:

Facilities for the study of music have existed in the University since 1873, when the Evanston College for Ladies, together with its music department, was absorbed.

In 1891 the department was reorganized and placed in charge of its present head. So rapid was its growth and such was the character of its development that in 1895 it was made a degree-conferring school, with its Dean and Faculty, bearing the same relation to the university as its other professional schools of Law, Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, Engineering, Commerce and Oratory.

The school offers extensive courses in the practical and theoretical study of music, and it is designed to fit students for the profession as composers, theorists, artists, teachers, or critics.

It aims at academic standards and methods in the study of music, and to this end the general plan of the school is modeled after that of the College of Liberal Arts of Northwestern University, with four-year courses pursued under the same rules for attendance, discipline, and examinations. Provision is also made for the study of music as a part of general culture or as an accomplishment.

The City of Evanston is twelve miles north of the business center of Chicago, and adjoins its northern limits. It is on the shore of Lake Michigan, and is reached by frequent suburban trains on the Milwaukee Division of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway. It is also connected with Chicago by the Northwestern Elevated Railway, as well as by an electric surface line. The Chicago & Milwaukee Electric Railway now gives transit north from Evanston to Milwaukee. The population is about twenty-five thousand. As University town and Chicago's most popular suburb, Evanston combines advantages as a musical educational center equaled by no other locality in the West. Beautifully situated on the shores of Lake Michigan, with its park-like streets, its artistic homes, its libraries, art collection, noted public schools and numerous churches, it is an ideal residence for students. These possibilities were grasped fifty years ago by the trustees of Northwestern University in selecting a site. The institution has now an attendance of about five thousand students, including the enrollment in the professional schools.

The larger part of the patronage of a music school is naturally of young women. In attending city schools, where the students are of necessity scattered over large areas, it is impossible to have any oversight of their conduct. They are free to come and go as they please, and to choose their companions, and much time is lost in traveling to and fro on the street cars. In Evanston the young women are housed either in official dormitories or in private homes in close proximity to their work, and are surrounded by wholesome religious and social influences.

Churches of all denominations abound, with numerous societies for young people. The community is noted for its active religious life, its charities, and its lively interest in the sociological problems of the day. While all reasonable freedom is allowed in social matters, a certain amount of supervision is exercised to protect the interests of student life.

There is a tendency on the part of many music students to neglect the essential elements of a general education. To them the study of music in itself is so engrossing that the importance of other branches of study is overlooked. In schools where music is taught exclusively this tendency is aggravated, but the School of Music has always advised and encouraged supplementary work, and beginning with the year 1902-3, new courses went into effect, some of which added literary studies to the existing courses in music, while others made room for music when its pursuit was a secondary matter. It is believed that these courses fill a real need and will help to solve the difficulties involved whenever a good general education is desired in addition to the serious study of music. These courses in detail will be found upon pages 11 to 22.

The School of Music presents its comprehensive and systematic courses of instruction under the guidance of experienced specialists who have enjoyed the best advantages offered by this country and Europe. The scholarly side of musical attainment represented in the theoretical courses is unusually complete and exhaustive. While open to all seeking musical instruction, the school particularly welcomes the earnest, capable, and diligent student, who desires to comprehend adequately and interpret worthily a noble art.

———♯♯♯———

BACH CHORAL SOCIETY

On Monday evening, October 6, the Bach Choral Society, John W. Norton, conductor, will begin rehearsals for the season 1913-1914. The society is entering upon its third season under most favorable conditions. The first two seasons having been successful both musically and financially, the members now feel that the society has taken its place in the front ranks of the choral organizations of the city and are working hard to make this a banner year.

The first concert of the season will be given in the association auditorium, 19 South La Salle street, on Wednesday evening, November 19. This will be a "Bach-Schubert" concert and will enlist the services of the following well known soloists: Mabel Sharp Herdien, soprano; Jennie F. W. Johnson, contralto; Grant Kimbell, tenor, and Luther J. Williams, bass. There will be a boys' choir of thirty voices in addition to the regular chorus of mixed voices and members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will furnish the accompaniments.

Following is a list of the officers for the ensuing year:

John W. Norton, conductor.
James A. Harvey, president.
Guy S. Webster, vice president.
Miss Martha Davenport, secretary.
Mrs. John E. MacDonald, treasurer.
Miss Mabel Oberhart, accompanist.
Roy R. Murphy, librarian.
Richard Williams, assistant conductor.
Mrs. Edward Jones, director.
Harriet Martin Snow, business manager.

THE APOLLO CLUB

Morgan Kingston, the English tenor, made his first appearance in grand opera in America last week at the new Century Theater, New York. Mr. Kingston will make his first appearance in concert in this country with the Apollo Musical Club at its performances of "Elijah" and "Creation" in the Auditorium Theater early in November.

Interest is keen in Mr. Kingston's singing in Chicago after his success in opera in New York. It is not generally known that until three years ago Mr. Kingston was employed in a coal mine in England and knew nothing about music, but of course, was the possessor of a good singing voice.

The sale of season tickets for the regular Apollo concerts has opened most auspiciously and a prosperous season is anticipated.

———♯♯♯———

Miller.—Mr. Herbert Miller and Alice Prince Miller announce the opening of their new vocal studio at 716 Fine Arts Building, on October 1.

Music in New York

By ABBIE STEPHENS FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall

A NEW SEASON

Walter Peach says in a pregnant four lines, which he entitles "For a Sundial:"

"I mark thy human years with shadow hand;
Behind, before me lie eternities;
But though I rest not, never have I spanned
The life of love that mocks the centuries."

"The life of love that mocks the centuries," makes one think of St. Paul and his affirmations regarding the potency of love, and perhaps the years in the passing, incarnating themselves into giant personalities, bringing all things to all men if not being all things to all men.

For though time works in huge cycles his progress is hesitant; moving no mite faster than the clock ticking time into eternity.

And nature is a constant reminder of time's delicate artistry; the slow—almost retarded changes in the workshop of the universe.

The almost impalpable change from vernal green to ruddy autumn! Athwart the daisy-pied meadows the goldenrod blazes supremely—an illumination to light the way of Ceres, goddess of sheaves; blotting from view the sere, fallen leaves. If Ceres bears the harvests in her hands and upon her queenly brows, she also presages with no uncertain tone and gesture that inevitable decay which follows the ultimate fruitage.

Autumn and winter spell decay and death for the aftermath of Mother Earth's putting forth.

Not so with her human children who devise new and richer forms of life and liveliness for the seasons in their sequence.

The grasshopper dances until he falls at the first touch of autumn's frosty finger. He finds his replica almost in the fragile creature who has tangoed all summer and who strives to gird his loins for another have-at-the-dance with new vigor in the insistent whirling of the mad, human merry-go-round.

The dance, modern, up-to-date—with a thousand apologies for its grossness—has usurped almost every function. Going to the opera is a secondary consideration, a possible interlude to whet the appetitie for more Tango trotting, and still more, until the whirling Dervish of song and story become a chief and impossible "bounder." (The writer denies herself the privilege and pleasure of a pun, for whatever the turkey trotter. the bunnyhugger, and the tangoist may contrive in defiance of Terpsichore, there are no saltatory effects nor athletic attempts.)

We shall see if our own social dervishes command the rout to the exclusion of the profitable, the edifying and the educational.

Next in point of prominence come the most modern and up-to-date examples of the dramaturgists. The plays with a moral wrought out of immoral elements.

More or less friendly arguments fill the editorial pages of the daily papers, those exhorters to virtue and sackcloth, who are mummers of a different stripe and kind, willing to bend to circumstance without a protest when the command arrives from the gentleman "higher up."

The "Lure" and the "Fight" have suddenly become a stench in the nostrils of a city famous for its fine upstanding goodness, and freedom from vice, according to the journalistic moralists.

And, notwithstanding journalistic assumption that good, old decent, old New York's best citizens were shocked, the houses were packed to the roof and then some, and those upon the outside like Alexander Pope's "Mad rabble and rout," were vociferous to get in. Dear decent society had suddenly become invisible, or squeezed itself down to pilulous smallness; for the antis (the uncles had little chance to do more than decorate the walls) and their flushed, Pankhurstian foes, the suffragists and the suffragettes had put themselves in evidence.

The sex hygienist—the eugenist—sees nothing salacious in these plays and regards them as powerful vehicles for the sending home of the moral. If there be sermons in stones what of the content of these transcriptions from the life of the underworld and borderland? What lessons to be remembered to the end of a lifetime.

Salacious, who knows? But full of the truth as those who realize see it. Education of faith in virtue and all that stands for the sweet and pure, by the reversal of the universal picture.

"To the pure all things are pure." To the children of men—those youthful entities past the age of swaddling clothes—these terrible pictures present a moral unknown to the pulpit. Powerful for their emphasis of conditions which the earnest minded may only hope to change—to overcome when society is purged of hypocrisy.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mme. Nordica and Frederic Shipman

The Australians are a critical people. They recognize a good thing when they hear or see it, and when they approve they emphasize their approval openly; frankly; almost brusquely. That comes of being a new people. A race with red blood in its veins and the ocean's sweet breath in its nostrils.

The Australians are an educated people, with a fine discrimination in knowing what they want and getting what they want. Yes, almost invariably they get what they desire.

And how does one sense this superiority of the people of the Antipodes?

In the first place one—(this time the editor of the New York section)—reads in her letters from the dazzling and enthusiastic prima donna, Lillian Nordica, an almost inspired praise of Australasia, its people, its customs, and its charm.

If Mme. Nordica has achieved a new series of triumphs she also admits her conquest by these gay, debonair, wildly enthusiastic Antipodeans.

True it is not difficult to adore the most astounding prima donna of her time; a creature so palpitatingly full of life, and so filled with interest in everything that makes

BONCI
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR
SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York
Knabe Piano Used

MYRTLE ELVYN
RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE
Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914
Concert Direction, M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av., New York.
Kimball Piano Used

CHRISTINE MILLER
CONTRALTO
In Europe until Oct. 1, 1913
Address, care of American Express Co., Paris
Management HAENSEL & JONES
Aeolian Hall, New York

MR. & MRS. JOHN W. NICHOLS
Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS
Address 330 West 58th St.
NEW YORK CITY

North Shore School of Music

Broadway and Leland Ave.

The Ideal School for Resident and Out of Town Pupils.

WILLIAM A. WHITE, President. Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, William A. White, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC AND THEORY, William A. White. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul

ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated)

CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar

TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868

All the Leading Artists
Are Featuring
Palmer John Clark's
New Song
Someday, Sometime
Published in four keys

Low in Eb	Med. low in F	Med. high in G	High in Ab

For Sale Everywhere

GAMBLE HINGED MUSIC CO.
CHICAGO

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Stude

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production | Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. | 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

for truth and beauty and uplift that at times it seems difficult to grasp and take home to one's mind the magic and the wonder of her.

This generation has surely been thrice blessed in the possession of this beloved prima donna. This soprano assoluta whose absoluteness extends to her personality and makes it one with her art.

At the writer's right hand is a group of pictures the prima donna has chosen for our own collection. Snap shots of the dainty singer in a hundred graceful, provocative poses. One more bewitching than the other. Imagine this beautiful creature made ready for the Honolulu concert, her retrousse bewitchingness upturned at just the most fetching angle.

What other woman can equal her in the point of knowing how to choose and better still—to wear a gown? All unconscious of her power, like Cupid she wings a dart at your very heart. Nolens volens you sur render yourself to her, and find yourself her vassal forever.

Here's a snapshot taken on the Hawaiian beach which the writer shows to a connoisseur of the male persuasion—a journalistic connoiseur, beside whom none others are quite so fastidious. Quoth he: And who is the beautiful maiden with the young elastic body, the dancing eyes and exquisite face? Ah, so it is Mme. Nordica. What right has she to be so delicious? Cleopatra, she is the eternal youthful feminine. A sixteen year old indeed. The Journalist after his kind insisted upon having the picture to show to his brethren in the profession.

There was a passage at arms, but the writer won her own. Some day perhaps the writer will let the readers of that favored journal Music News see this little gem: Lillian Nordica, a sea nymph—bewitching in her simple bathing suit.

Mr. Shipman is very proud of "Madame." In the Shipman menage there is only one "Madame." And really why should there be any other? And why should not the Australians learn to know "Madame."

A manager is not invariably hypnotized by his artist's talents, beauty and accomplishments; that would postulate a boundless faith in the artist. This confidence in his star's compelling influence, magnetism and drawing power Mr. Shipman possesses, and he is a clever man. A student of human nature, both upon the side of the star and on the side of the audience, anticipating its wishes.

Mr. Shipman is like a general—a wise general—who maps out his campaign, and matures his plans one and even more seasons ahead.

The Australian tour was planned long ago with the forethought this unique manager always displays. Perhaps he was not entirely uninfluenced by the numerous requests he received from Australasians to be permitted the privilege of hearing and seeing one of the world's famous sopranos, Mme. Nordica.

At all events he realized that the bringing of Mme. Nordica to Australia would be one of the greatest feats of his astoundingly successful career as an entrepeneur—sans peur et sans reproche where his business acumen was concerned—"And it was so."

Australia knows Mr. Shipman. Knows his indomitable spirit, and his talent for keeping his word and "delivering the goods."

The Triad, one of the most highly esteemed of the Australian magazines—a paper with a reputation for knowing what's what, says of Mr. Shipman: "Mr. Frederic Shipman, whom we knew as an entrepeneur some years ago, before and after he had won adulation . . . . . is arranging for a notable round of concert stars. The first of these, Mr. David Bispham, is not only a very famous operatic baritone; he is also a ripe amateur of literature; a singularly appealing raconteur and wit, a man of distinguished personality and high character, and one of the finest all around entertainers the modern world has known. His appeal is alike to the cultivated ear and to the average man or woman of intelligence no sensibility highly developed for music or literature.

"Other Shipman surprises for the immediate future will be Mme. Nordica, one of the world's few really great dramatic sopranos. Mischa Elman who, while still a boy, is one of the most notable violinists now living; and Mme. Schumann-Heink, almost undoubtedly the world's greatest contralto.

"One way and another, then, it seems that Mr. Shipman is likely to bear away the blue ribbon of his profession, so far as our recent Australasian experience is concerned. We were well aware that he knew his business; but these engagements prove that he knows it absolutely. The experiment of bringing four such stars as these to Australia shows a splendid courage that goes nigh to audacity. And yet Mr. Shipman is really on safe ground. As to these people there is no difference in the highest critical opinion anywhere. Tastes differ and opinions vary.

"Mr. Shipman is bringing all these eminent people to New Zealand, and New Zealand can be trusted to accord him fitting recognition. Indeed Mr. Shipman is a manager who has proven the exception to that ruling that "A prophet is not without honor excepting in his own country." Mr. Shipman has won his spurs in America: his reputation for honesty, reliability and

Thomas N. MacBurney
Baritone Voice Production Song Recitals
Three years assistant to King Clark
608-609 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago Phone Harrison 6880

The Fifth Anniversary Number of MUSIC NEWS will be something of Very Unusual Significance and Very Great Importance to Advertisers.

The Date will be October 10th. MAKE RESERVATIONS OF SPACE EARLY.
Call, Write or Phone Harrison 7169.

genius in his profession—for he lifts the managerial end to the high plane of an art—are some time since established. He will be a conqueror wherever he goes.

From Sydney came a letter from Mme. Nordica some weeks ago from which we excerpt a paragraph or so.

"My Dear Mme. Fridenberg:

"Well, last night was our opening concert and we all scored tremendous successes—really wonderful. There was indeed an ovation."

Elsewhere the diva writes:

"I know you will be interested to learn that today I was given a splendid reception at the Town Hall by the Lady Mayoress. The decorations—a wilderness of wonderful flowers and growing plants—were gorgeous, and all the Sydney society ladies out in full force, etc."

There was also one line which the editor of the New York end of the Music News cannot resist inserting, and which reads:

"Your article in the Music News was wonderful" (referring to our last article about the soprano). This bit of flattering unction we share with the readers of Music News, so highly esteemed wherever it appears.

In our next issue we will have a few more words to say about the effect Mme. Nordica's singing and personality made upon the enthusiastic Australasians.

♮ ♮ ♮

A Visitor

Miss Frances Bowser, business representative of Music News, called on us this last week. She is a clever young woman and up-to-date. A really representative member of the wide awake Chicago publication she represents.

There can be no doubt that in her case success will only have to wait upon endeavor.

♮ ♮ ♮

Two popular contraltos are already booked for the coming season of oratorio. One is Miss Mildred Potter, the other Miss Christine Miller. They will sing with the New York Oratorio Society, and under the baton of that conscientious director, Mr. Louis Koemmenich.

♮ ♮ ♮

Philharmonic Program

The programs of the New York Philharmonic will, as usual, be enhanced by the appearance, as assisting artists, of the most distinguished of the great artists who will be heard in America the coming season. The names already announced by the management make up a well balanced list of vocal and instrumental artists and are as follows:

Vocalists—Margarete Matzenauer, contralto of the Metropolitan Opera House; Mme. Gerville-Reache, operatic contralto; Mme. Ottillie Metzger, leading contralto of the Hamburg Opera; Julia Culp, Dutch lieder singer; Jacques Urlus, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera.

Violinists—Mischa Elman, Carl Flesch, Jacques Thibaud, violinists; Leopold Kramer, new concertmeister of the Philharmonic.

Pianists—Teresa Carreno, Harold Bauer, and Max Pauer.

Violoncellists—Jean Gerardy, Leo Schulz, popular first 'cellist of the Philharmonic, and Beatrice Harrison.

Also to be heard are Mr. Henri Leon Leroy, first clarinet, and Xaver Reiter, first horn. Miss Kitty Cheatham will be the soloist at the Young People's concert.

The Philharmonic will also have the cooperation of the St. Cecilia Club, Mr. Victor Harris, conductor, in the performance of the Liszt "Dante" Symphony.

♮ ♮ ♮

New Concertmeister

Leopold Kramer, the new concertmeister of the Philharmonic Society, comes to New York with a fine artistic record, having filled many important positions. He was educated at the Prague Conservatory and before coming to America was associated as concertmeister with some of the largest European orchestras including Hamburg, Amsterdam, Cologne and Covent Garden, London. In 1897 he was brought to this country by the late Theodore Thomas as concertmeister of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, with which orchestra he remained for twelve years, giving up his work to accept a position in the same capacity with the Chicago Grand Opera. He has appeared as soloist at many important concerts, both in this country and abroad, and his appearance with the Philharmonic society is looked forward to with no small degree of interest.

THE SOUSA BAND

Following is the route of the Sousa band for the month of October:

Wednesday, 1, Bay City, Mich., matinee, Washington Theater; Saginaw, Mich., evening, Academy of Music.

Thursday, 2, Owosso, Mich., matinee, Owosso Opera House; Lansing, Mich., evening, Gladmer Theater.

Friday, 3, Adrian, Mich., matinee, Croswell Opera House; Ann Arbor, Mich., evening, Whitney Theater.

Saturday, 4, Toledo, Ohio, matinee and evening, Valentine Theater.

Sunday, 5, Cleveland, Ohio, matinee and evening, Hippodrome.

Monday, 6, Akron, Ohio, matinee and evening, Grand Opera House.

Tuesday, 7, Sharon, Pa., matinee, Morgan Grand; Youngstown, Ohio, evening, Grand Opera House.

Wednesday, 8, Corry, Pa., matinee, Library Theater; Jamestown, N. Y., evening, Samuels' Opera House.

Thursday, 9, Buffalo, N. Y., matinee and evening, Elmwood Music Hall.

Friday, 10, Lockport, N. Y., matinee, Temple Theater; Niagara Falls, N. Y., evening, International Theater.

Saturday, 11, Rochester, N. Y., matinee and evening, Shubert Theater.

Sunday, 12, Syracuse, N. Y., matinee and evening, Wieting Opera House.

Monday, 13, Oneida, N. Y., matinee, Madison Theater; Utica, N. Y., evening, Majestic Theater.

Tuesday, 14, Amsterdam, N. Y., matinee, Opera House; Schenectady, N. Y., evening, Van Curler Opera House.

Wednesday, 15, Albany, N. Y., matinee and evening, Harmanus Bleecker Hall.

Thursday, 16, Hudson, N. Y., matinee, The Playhouse; Poughkeepsie, N. Y., evening, Collingwood Opera House.

Friday, 17, Great Barrington, Mass., matinee, Mahaiwe Theater; Pittsfield, Mass., evening, Colonial Theater.

Saturday, 18, Worcester, Mass., matinee and evening, Mechanics Hall.

Sunday, 19, Malden, Mass., matinee, Auditorium; Boston, Mass., evening, Colonial Theater.

Monday, 20, Portland, Me., matinee and evening, Jefferson Theater.

Tuesday, 21, Augusta, Me., matinee, Opera House; Waterville, Me., evening, City Opera House.

Wednesday, 22, Bangor, Me., matinee and evening, Opera House.

Thursday, 23, Brunswick, Me., matinee, Cumberland Theater; Lewistown, Me., evening, Empire Theater.

Friday, 24, Portsmouth, N. H., matinee, Music Hall; Dover, N. H., evening, Opera House.

Saturday, 25, Manchester, N. H., matinee and evening, Franklin Street Church.

Sunday, 26, Malden, Mass., matinee, Auditorium; Boston Mass., evening, Colonial Theater.

Monday, 27, Fall River, Mass., matinee and evening, Savoy Theater.

Tuesday, 28, Milford, Mass., evening, Opera House.

Wednesday 29, Providence, R. I., matinee and evening, Infantry Hall.

Thursday, 30, Springfield, Mass., matinee and evening, Court Square Theater.

Friday, 31, Derby, Conn., matinee, Sterling Theater; South Norwalk, Conn., evening, Armory, or Music Hall.

♮ ♮ ♮

Rogers.—Miss Ruth Alta Rogers, will play the Rachmaninoff "Sonata" for piano and violin with Mr. Carlo Fischer of Minneapolis at Duluth, Minn., on October 6.

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

ISAAC VAN GROVE
ACCOMPANIST AND COACH
716 FINE ARTS BUILDING

LIZZIE ABBOTT CLARK
Sister of Emma Abbott
Mezzo Soprano Teacher of Singing
719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
179 PLEASANT STREET MILWAUKEE, WIS.
Available for Church position. Next Season

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

FRANK W. Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN
American Conservatory Kimball Hall

JOSEPH KITCHIN VIOLINIST
5416 Jackson Avenue
CHICAGO
Phone Midway 6400

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

WALTER DIEDERICH
TENOR 608 Fine Arts Bldg., Phone Harrison 6880

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium. Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

BEN O. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg.

Churches

SECOND CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST CHURCH

At the Second Church on last Sunday evening the organ was played by Walter Spry, in place of Mr. William E. Zeuch, who was away on concert engagement.

Mr. Spry is a solidly good organist, displaying all the musicianly traits of fine rhythm, clean technic and perfect control of the registration effects in the organ and also presenting his list of chosen numbers with much regard to interpretative values.

The Guilmant "Grand Chorus" was played with virility, a "Meditation" by Klein was thoroughly musical and the "War March" by Mendelssohn proved virtuosity as well as musicianship.

The soloist of this church, Mr. Edward Clarke, chose for his number a new song by Lily Wadhams Moline, entitled, "A Psalm of Praise" and very easily maintained the high regard in which his work is always held and at the same time proved Mrs. Moline a strong as well as a graceful writer.

For her text, she has chosen parts of the 107th Psalm and has most deftly built up a dramatic climax in the "O that men would praise the Lord," which is in very fine contrast to the semi-recitative style of the preliminary portion.

The movement is graceful, the melody flow attractive and the climax building thoroughly convincing; altogether a song full of beauty and effectiveness.

Mr. Clarke's voice found in this vehicle full sweep and came to the audience in a succession of broad phrases, each one aptly colored and all of them building up to a tonal climax which showed the voice to splendid advantage. C. E. W.

ST. JAMES FESTIVAL SERVICE

There was a singular freshness and vigor in the work of the men and boys in St. James choir on last Sunday afternoon, when Mr. Norton led them through their first festival service for the season. Evidently some one had been in charge during the vacation, who had held the forces well in hand, for there was but little of the unevenness that customarily obtains after the summer's let-down. Every thing went with a fine snap and enthusiasm. Occasional lapses from a decisive attack were noticeable, but excusable. The Lutkin canticles are always well done, and wear exceedingly well. Anything more cumulative in effect than the opulent "Gloria," is not often found. Stainer's "Grieve Not the Holy Spirit," came to its first hearing, for this writer, for some unknown reason. It is in the Englishman's best vein, varied and well wrought. The Randegger "Praise Ye the Lord," did not quite get its usual hold, although it was done brilliantly. The "Orison" was tenderly effective, the "Sevenfold" not so much so as usual.

Mr. Norton's post-recital was given splendidly. In it he paid heed to the season of the year. The big number was the Guilmant "Grand Chorus" in E flat, which tested the qualities of the organ and its player. Both came through in superb style. The Stebbins "In Summer" had a nice sense of Pan's little escapade, and the Brewer "Indian Summer" was notably good. The Bonnet "Chrysanthemum" somehow never grows less uninterestnig. Organists love to play it, but they cannot enliven it. The Mendelssohn "Athalia" march closed a really excellent service.

ALBERT COTSWORTH.

ST. PAUL'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

On next Sunday afternoon at 4:30 a special musical service will be given at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Fiftieth street and Madison avenue by the choir, under direction of John Allen Richardson, with the assistance of Dr. Carver Williams, basso and Mrs. Anna W. Lawrence, harpist.

The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in E flat by Lutkin, will be used as also the Anthems, "Ho, Every One That Thirsteth" (Martin), "Great Is the Lord" (Maunder), and Mosenthal's duet, "I Will Magnify." The choir soloists will be William Clifford and Robert Rea.

ST. JAMES M. E. CHURCH

At St. James next Sunday the anthem of the morning will be "Thy Will Be Done," by Hugo Wolf, with "The Silent Sea," by Neidlinger as offertory, and the "Te Deum in B," by Clough-Leighter.

A specialty of the evening will be the playing of Miss Tina Mae Haines' "Bagatelle" as a voluntary.

AMERICAN CONSERVATORY RECITALS

The season 1913-1914 of Saturday afternoon recitals given by the American Conservatory will open Saturday, October 4, with a song recital by Edward Clarke, baritone. These recitals begin at 3:30 and last about one hour. Being given by prominent members of the faculty or by advanced students, they have always been a feature of the Conservatory's musical activity and have been attended by large audiences.

The American Conservatory students' orchestra will be as usual under the direction of Herbert Butler.

Adolf Weidig writes that he has heard a number of the most important modern operas at Frankfurt, Berlin, Dresden, Hamburg, etc., besides much orchestral music. Some of his own orchestral works are scheduled for performance this winter at various German cities, under his personal direction. Mr. Weidig, however, made arrangements to have the performances take place under the regular conductors of the various orchestras, and will be at his post at the American Conservatory October 1.

Heniot Levy will appear in recital at St. Louis, Mo., October 2, for the National Guild of Violinists.

Music in America

BOSTON, MASS.

The American Bankers' Association holds its annual convention here the week of October 6, and music will be the most important feature in the program of entertainment provided for the event.

T. B. Beale, Jr., of the Second National Bank, has the general management for the committee on entertainment, and Arthur Adams of the New England Trust Company, is the director for the music committee.

The musical programs will call out the resources of the musical talent of Boston, and include instrumental and vocal soloists, popular quartets, and the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The bankers of Boston will give a public entertainment on the Charles river esplanade, with music and fireworks, on the night of October 6.

A band furnished by the city will play near the West Boston bridge, from the municipal bandstand. Three other bands supplied by the bankers will be stationed one on the Cambridge side of the river and two on the Boston side. The guests of the convention will have a place reserved for them at the foot of Dartmouth street.

Konrich's Orchestra will play for the dancing in Symphony Hall, at the reception held in the evening of October 7, and players will give a musical program in the supper room in Horticultural Hall, across Massachusetts avenue.

Four historic meetings are to be held at Faneuil Hall, the Old South Church, the Old North Church and King's Chapel at the same hour, on the night of October 8. This will enable the bankers and their families, numbering, it is expected, nearly 4,500 men and women, to divide into four groups and better enjoy the meetings.

The orchestra of the first corps of cadets, John B. Fielding, leader, will play a program of American airs. The Weber quartet of men's voices will sing patriotic numbers, former Lieutenant Governor Robert Luce will speak at the meeting in Faneuil Hall, and the exercises will close with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," by the audience. Edwin D. Mead speaks at the Old South meeting house. The Harvard Male Quartet will sing, and Harry C. Daggett's Orchestra will play American airs.

The music at Old North Church will be given under the direction of Arthur W. Thayer, and will consist chiefly of singing.

The Guild of Bellringers of the parish will appear in a forty minute prelude, and throughout the program there will be lanterns hung and ringing of bells.

The historical talk will be given by the Rev. George Hodges of the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge.

Ex-Governor John D. Long speaks at King's Chapel. Malcolm Long will play an organ concert, and the Pilgrim Men's Quartet will sing.

"Our Fathers," from old New England Psalmody, which the Rev. John Pierpont wrote, will be sung as a special feature of the program.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Dr. Karl Muck conducting, will give a concert in Symphony Hall, for the entertainment of the delegates and their friends, on the night of October 12.

The bankers go to Nantasket Beach October 10, by three boats, an orchestra of ten players on each. Song books will be provided on each boat and general singing, led by a professional quartet, will be the musical feature. A shore dinner will be partaken of at Paragon Park, and the orchestras from the three boats will combine and give a program of incidental, appropriate music.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Boston Symphony Season

Dr. Muck, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, sailed from Bremen on the steamer George Washington, Saturday, September 20, and is expected in Boston Monday, September 29.

He has engaged two first violinists, who take the place of Messrs. Mullaly and Strube, retired; two second violinists, a viola and two horns.

Alfred Holy of Vienna, will take the chair of the late Heinrich Schnecker, harpist of the orchestra for many years.

Quoting from the official announcement of 1913-1914:

"The character of the musical season is, to a certain extent, established by the invasion of foreign virtuosos. One year there will be a dearth of artists of the highest rank. Another year will be marked by the absence of pianists and an embarrassment of violinists, while the next year an American manager may hardly be able to care for all the pianists that come, and wonder where he can get good violinists.

"Two years ago there were comparatively few artists of the first rank in America. Last season was a year of violinists. The coming season will be rich in pianists.

"For the past several years it has been the rule of Mr. Ellis in engaging artists for the Symphony concerts in Boston to have only a few assisting soloists, those of the highest rank. There is no question about the wishes of the patrons of the concerts; they much prefer to hear the orchestra alone than to have the program disturbed by some mediocre person."

Mr. Ellis announces three singers, four pianists, two violinists, as the soloists, aside from orchestra artists, who may appear as soloists. There are Miss Geraldine Farrar, Mme. Elizabeth van Endert and Mme. Louise Homer, singers; Mme. Teresa Carreno, Harold Bauer, Josef Hofmann, Ignace Paderewski, pianists, Mme. Carreno, who will be sixty years old the 22d of next December, has been before the public as a pianoforte soloist since she was a little girl, yet her enthusiasm is not less, and her interpretations win her distinction. The violinists will be Fritz Kreisler and Carl Flesch. Mr. Kreisler is a favorite here.

The public rehearsal of the orchestra Friday afternoon, October 10, and the concert Saturday night, October 11, will begin the season, which will last until May 2.

A rehearsal and concert will be given weekly, with the exception of the time given to a six weeks' tour.

Auction sales of tickets begin Monday, September 29, at 10 o'clock, when the $18 seats for rehearsals will be sold; the $10 seats being sold the following day, the concerts seats being sold Thursday, October 2, and Friday, October 3; the $18 seats on the former day and the $10 ones on the latter.

♮ ♮ ♮

Notes

The list of chief singers under "direct contract" to Henry Russell, manager of the Boston Opera Company, for appearance next season, beginning Monday night, November 24, is:

Sopranos: Mmes. Bori, Cavalieri, Destinn, Edvina, Garden, Weingartner-Marcel, Melba, Nielsen, Tetrazzini. Sopranos of last season, headed by Miss Amsden, are retained, and there are newcomers, as Mme. Beriza, Mme. La Cilva, a coloratura soprano. "Mme. Heliane, born of Scottish parents in India, was engaged once before

CHILSON-OHRMAN
SOLOIST AT WORCESTER FESTIVAL SEASON
Address 4603 Sheridan Road

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Sunnyside 8540

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY MURRISON MABEL
Bass-Baritone
Oratorio
Concert
JOINT-RECITALS
Pianist
Accompanist
Alliance Ohio

for Boston, but was prevented by sickness from fulfilling contract."

Contraltos: Mmes. Claessens, E. Gauthier, Gay, Leveroni, Mandell, Swartz are retained. The new members will be Mme. Matzenauer, who has already sung here as Brangaene and at a Symphony concert, and Mme. Lydia Archinard-Rienskaja, who will take roles associated with Mme. Gay, will not return until the end of the season, and Cara Sapin.

Tenors: Messrs. Clement, Ferrari, Fontana, Laffitte, Urlus, Zenatello, as leading tenors already known here, besides Messrs. Giaconne, Pini-Corsi, and Ramella. Among the newcomers are Messrs. Martinelli and Muratore.

Baritones: Mario Ancona, Mr. Marcoux returns and Messrs. Blanchart, Everett, Fornari and Pulcini are retained. There will be several newcomers, with Henry Danges among them.

Basses: Messr. Lankow, Ludikar, Mardones, Sampieri, Sillich, Tavecchia, White, Wronsky. Paolo Ludikar, described as a Russian bass, has been singing at Buenos Ayres.

Prominent members of the Metropolitan and Chicago companies are Mmes. Alda, Fremstad, Gadski, Hempel, Teyte, White, Zeppilli and Messrs. Amato, Bonci, Burke, Caruso, Dalmores, Goritz, Polese, Scotti. There is this note: "While it is almost certain that each one will be heard at least once in the course of the season, their appearances cannot be guaranteed to the subscribers at this date."

The conductors will be Messrs. Weingartner, Caplet and Moranzoni. Mr. Urban will be general stage director. "La Gioconda" and "Manon" will be restored to the repertory. The cast of "The Jewels of the Madonna" on the opening night will be: Maliella, Mme. Edvina, Carmela, Mme. Archinard-Rienskaja, Gennaro, Mr. Ferrari-Fontana, Rafaele, Mr. Marcoux. Mr. Moranzoni will conduct.

♮ ♮ ♮

Of Special Interest

The Faelten pianoforte school began its seventeenth season with a recital by Director Carl Faelten, in Huntington Chambers Hall, Saturday morning, September 13.

The composers, interpreted with the ripe, artistic ability expected of Mr. Faelten, were Beethoven, Schumann, Henselt, Chopin and Liszt. Many friends and pupils were present.

Seasons began Wednesday, the 17th, and already registration exceeds that of last season.

A new musical organization, the Schroeder Trio, Ethel Cave Cole, pianist; Sylvian Naack, violinist, and Alwin Schroeder, 'cellist, will give programs of piano chamber music in its various branches this season. Mrs. Cole, a graduate of the London Royal College, has been prominent in the musical life of New York for ten years; Mr. Naack is second concert master of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and Mr. Schroeder is the first 'cellist of that organization.

The People's Choral Union begins work for beginners at Recital Hall, New England Conservatory of Music, Wednesday night, October 15, other classes meeting at the same hall for beginners and advanced singers, Sunday afternoon, October 19.

The Choral Union begins its rehearsal October 19, at 4 p. m., at Jordan Hall, in the Conservatory Building.

Two concerts will be given by the Union at Symphony Hall, and one by the classes at Jordan Hall this year.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

———♯♯♯———

WORCESTER, MASS.

The season of teaching is opening encouragingly to the private teacher and the music schools here.

The latter, of which there are several, are planning various forms of activity, promoting interest in music study, and frequent informal recitals, club features, and talks about music and musicians, are some of these.

The complimentary recital by pupils of Paul Hultman, pianist, and teacher of piano in the Hultman-McQuaid Music School, was the first of a series, to be given by pupils of the different members of the faculty of this school.

The program, which was given in Pythian Hall Wednesday night, September 17, presented works by world-famous composers, and suggested a standard well worthy of imitation. It was:

Beethoven ..... Sonata Pathetique Op. 13
Miss Elvira Swenson
Schubert-Liszt ..... Hark, Hark, the Lark
Miss Lillian Goodman
Chopin ..... Polonaise A Major
Mr. Benjamin Lan
Puccini ..... Un bel di vedremo, aria from "Madam Butterfly"
Miss Ruth Howe
Liebling ..... Florence Waltz
Miss Grace Jones
Grieg ..... Lyric Pieces Nos. 1-8
Master Raymond Helsing (12 yrs.)
Schumann ..... Papillons
Miss Agnes Cleary
Vieuxtemps ..... Reverie
Miss Hazel Dann
Schutt ..... A la bien Aimee
Mr. George Wickler
Chaminade ..... Intermede
Miss Norma Drury (7 yrs.)
Mr. Paul Hultman at second piano
Schumann ..... Faschingsswank Op. 26 (first movement)
Miss Phyllis Lations
Rimsky-Korsakow ..... Chanson indoue
Worrell ..... Song of the Chimes
Massenet ..... Il est doux, il est bon
Miss Ruth Howe
Chopin ..... Fantasy Impromptu
Miss Olive Johnson
Rubinstein ..... Staccato Etude
Mr. Rudolf Fagerstrom

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Ruth Howe, soprano, pupil of Mr. Morosini, one of the faculty of the school, and Miss Hazel Dann, violinist, a pupil of Miss McQuaid, the teacher of violin, assisted with several numbers to the interested pleasure of an audience that filled the hall to overflowing.

Among the piano students, all of whom showed careful instruction, the playing of a little seven-year-old miss, Norma Drury, who, in Chaminade's "Intermede," with Mr Hultman at a second piano, gave so much pleasure as to win a decided recall; and that of Raymond Helsing, twelve years old, whose presentation of "Lyric" pieces Nos. 1-8, by Grieg, was worthy the encore given him, are yet remembered as unusually effective.

With one exception the program was given from memory.

Miss McQuaid's pupils are preparing a recital to be held early in October.

♮ ♮ ♮

Musical Festival Notes

Word has been received that the Manzoni Requium, by Verdi, a work chosen for the festival concert of Wednesday night, October 2, will be produced without the organ. This, to say the least, is unfortunate, as there is no substitute to many, for the great harmonies of this "king of instruments," especially where music of grandeur and dignity is required.

The omission, it is said, is due to the difficulty of putting the organ in tune with the orchestra's higher pitch.

♮ ♮ ♮

Personal Mention

Miss Cora F. Woodbury, soprano, a pupil of the winter, was a soloist at the meeting of the Northbridge Grange Saturday night, the 13th, and sang "An Evening Love

GEORGE W. MUNRO
Voice Specialist
Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.
Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.
Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.
Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

Chicago Piano College
(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. Baritone DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING
American Conservatory
Kimball Hall

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

CLARENCE EDDY

May be engaged for the
Opening of New Organs and for Organ Recitals
During the Season of 1913-1914.
Address: 510 Oakwood Blvd., Chicago.

Song," by Chapman, winning a recall to which she responded with Watson's "All In a Garden Fair."

Other members of the Millbury Grange who entertained were: Miss Maud Dixon, soprano, who sang "White and Gold;" Mrs. Minnie F. Stockwell, who gave several readings, and Waldo McCracken, who gave a piano solo, and was the accompanist of the evening.

♮ ♮ ♮

William J. Arkwell, basso-cantante, has been secured to assist in concerts, from October 13 to the 18th, in various cities and towns in Maine. He is a member of the Nevin mixed quartet of Fitchburg, which is securing bookings throughout the New England states.

W. Lawrence Cook, who is organist at the Concord, Mass., First Parish Church, succeeding Raymond C. Robinson, who is now at Central Church, Boston, will begin the study of the organ with Wallace Goodrich this year.

Mr. Cook is a pupil of Everett J. Harrington, formerly director and organist at the First Baptist Church, here, but now playing at the Disciple's Church, Boston.

Miss Lillias Chapdelanie of Boston, a student at the New England Conservatory of Music, with a contralto voice which she is cultivating for the operatic stage, will give a concert in Southbridge, Mass., September 25, and the night after, the 25th, in St. Joseph's Church, Leicester, Mass.

The last concert will be for the benefit of the convent to be built there.

William C. Steere, composer-pianist, will assist at the Southbridge concert.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

OPERA IN NEW YORK

Another attempt to successfully present to New Yorkers opera in English and at popular prices, is being made by the Century Opera Company, under the management of the Aborns.

Verdi's "Aida" has been presented nightly for eight consecutive performances following the initial appearance on September 15, at the Century Opera House (better known as the Century Theater).

A capacity house greeted the singers—a great part of the audience being comprised of invited guests—and "critics'" row remained filled through a greater part of the performance. The usual enthusiasm and good wishes were evinced as is usual on first nights, and many expressed agreeable surprise at the general excellence of the work of the company, the presentation, etc.

Among the principals presented on the first night, but few were known to New Yorkers, though they are said to be in foreign parts. However, as the New York times says: "It was certainly not a performance dominated by 'stars.' Miss Elizabeth Amsden as Aida was competent and showed greater musical taste that she did for costuming, her gown being far too modernly tight to be either appropriate or beautiful.

"Miss Kathleen Howard as Amneris received an ovation. Hers is a powerful and beautiful contralto voice, with a wide range, while her intonation was at all times true. Miss Howard has a certain mastery of enunciation which shone brilliantly on this occasion. As regards the majority of the principals' 'enunciation,' the opera might have been sung in Esperanto, so far as the understanding of the audience was concerned. Louis Kreidler was another exception to the lack of proper enunciation of practically every singer, and all members of the chorus. Mr. Kreidler as Amonasro scored heavily, he being a baritone of standing and one having had experience and possessing a knowledge of the stage that served him in good stead. It will be remembered by Chicagoans that it was he, with Jenny Dufau, who really upheld the artistic standing of Ravinia opera last summer.

Morgan Kingston came to America as Andreas Dippel's "find," the glorious tenor of Wales and one whose life had been spent in the coal mines, at that. In "Aida" he was cast for the part of Rhadames, the lover. As for his wooing ability and his histrionic talent we are not prepared to state—but that the wonderful vocal organ is there, there is not a shadow of a doubt. New York critics predict, that under certain circumstances, Morgan Kingston will one day rank not only among, but as the greatest of the world's tenors.

Although it is at once evident that Mr. Alfred Szendrei is a director of exceptional merit, still it must be admitted that the orchestra left great room for improvement as regarded the ensemble and quality. The chorus though amateurish, is not appalling. Sheer force seemed to be goal striven for on that occasion.

On the whole the production was a fairly good one. However, quite to the point is the following from the knowing pen of the famous critic, H. E. Krehbiel of the Tribune:

> Perhaps the management will learn that it is expecting a very great deal indeed to expect an opera to attract a remunerative audience for seven successive nights and one afternoon, even in New York. The attractive power which the Metropolitan Opera exerts over all the strangers within New York's gates will not be duplicated by the Century Opera, whose transient clientele will have to come from the sincere music, or, better, opera, lovers who visit the city. And they have much else to divert their attention. Will operagoers who know how great the artistic exactions of operas so widely diverse as "Rigoletto" and "Tristan and Isolde" are be content with the representations which they are likely to receive at the Century Theater? These and many other things are to be unfolded to us.

♮ ♮ ♮

Notes

David Bispham, but last week singing to capacity houses in Chicago, is singing to Broadway audiences with his usual success, despite the fact that the season is hardly well on.

Francis Macmillen arrived in New York with his $15,000 violin last week, and will speedily begin his tour under the management of the Redpath Lyceum Bureau.

FRANCES BOWSER.

DENVER

Musical life is taking on the usual evidence of activity and teachers and institutions are reporting a good enrollment of students. There promises much of interest this winter. Rival symphony orchestras rival impresarios and theaters with a good booking of musical attractions will tax the amusement loving public to the limit.

The first of the musical series was given on Thursday night when Paul Clarke Stauffer offered as his attraction Carl Fallberg and Gunhild Sjoedstedt-Fallberg, soprano, in an interesting program at the Christian Church auditorium.

A fair house was in evidence and the playing of Carl Fallberg was marked by a clean cut technic and broad interpretation.

Mme. Sjoedstedt-Fallberg sang a group of Grieg and Debussy songs showing much versatility in her selection. She also sang the "Shadow Song" from Dinorah, displaying much flexibility. Altogether the audience seemed thoroughly satisfied with the first of the Stauffer series.

The coming week brings Saslavsky in concert assisted by Edward Fleck and Barthen as piano and 'cello players respectively. The impression made by this concertmeister with the Cavallo Symphony Orchestra during the past summer, will doubtless help to bring out a large house. Added to this a strong list of patronesses has been announced and an appeal to the strictly society element seems to have its reward in an added box office report.

Robert Slack tells me that he has coming for our delectation this winter Melba, Kubelik, Paderewski, Hofmann, Schumann-Heink, Lady Constance and Company, with Polaire and Hofmann, Geraldine Farrar, Alwin Schroeder, fine old man, Fritz Kreisler, Julia Culp and Ludwig Hesse. Assuredly this is quite an array of delectable treats in store for the neglected West.

It will be a pleasure to tell of the Cadman evening to be given at the home of Mr. Janeski on Tuesday, when we shall hear his own works played by himself and, for the first time his new trio for 'cello, violin and piano. Charles Wakefield Cadman is a name Denver is proud to have on her directory and the greatest regret is that he is so thoroughly well booked throughout the country that we shall see nothing more of him until June next year.

R. Jefferson Hall has arranged a series of concerts to be given in the new Parish House of St. Mark's this winter, covering a portion of the field of opera and ballad music not generally sung by choirs. He is also going to give a series of papers on church music and its origin.

WATERLOO, IA.

The following program was given by Harriett Case, soprano, and Agnes Bodholdt, pianist, on September 17:

Prelude and Fugue ..... Bach
Agnes Bodholdt

"A Spirit Flower" ..... Campbell-Tipton
"When Daisies Pied" (Old English) ..... D. Aone
"A Birthday" ..... Woodman
Harriett Case

"Reflection on the Water" ..... Debussy
"Etude Op. 23, No. 3"
"Nocturne C sharp minor" ..... Chopin
"Etude Op. 23, No. 11"
Agnes Bodholdt

Arias from Tosca ..... Puccini
"Vissi D'Arte, Vissi D'Amore"
"Non la sospiri"
Harriett Case

"Butterflies" (12) ..... Schumann
Agnes Bodholdt

"Song of the Chimes" ..... Worrell
"Spring" ..... Henschel
"Gretchen am Spinnrade" ..... Schubert
Harriett Case

Tarentella, No. 3, from "Venezia e Napoli" ..... Liszt
Agnes Bodholdt

MILWAUKEE

Mrs. Clara Bowen Shepard, Milwaukee's well known impresario, takes pleasure in having an unusually fine array of artists to present this season.

Maud Powell, violinist, will open season October 5. Mrs. David Rose, soprano. Mmes. Johanna Gadski, Maggie Teyte Ysaye, Godowsky and Girardy, Kneisel Quartet and Paderewski follow at stated intervals.

The Milwaukee Musical Society has arranged for an extended series of Chicago Orchestra concerts and also some two or three oratorio concerts. To this society we owe all our privilege of hearing this wondertul organization each year.

PITTSBURGH

The Russian Symphony Orchestra played a Pittsburgh composers' program on Tuesday night with great success. The full list of works performed was as follows:

Heroic March ..... Foerster
(a) Rosary ..... Nevin
(b) Narcissus ..... Nevin
Piano Solo—First Movement of Concerto in B Flat Minor ..... Tschaikowsky
Dallmeyer Russell

(a) The Vanishing Race (for strings) ..... Cadman
(b) Minuett ..... Pratt
American Fantasie ..... Herbert

DELMA-HEIDE
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris
MAESTO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

MARY CROFUT GIBBS
Mezzo-Contralto
Oratorio Concert Recital
404 Kimball Hall

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

People & Events

WILLIAM BARLOW ROSS

An artist whose fine tenor voice has been heard in many environments is William Barlow Ross, church singer, and one of exceptional value in oratorio and concert as well.

Mr. Ross has a voice which is both broad and beautiful and his musical intelligence is splendidly developed and made manifest, in his work, by many deft touches of artistry.

It is not necessary to give any list of the functions in which Mr. Ross has appeared, for every concert goer in Chicago of the past ten years has heard him frequently and he has also filled numerous engagements throughout the country, always with success and invariably creating the desire to be heard again.

One of the especial pleasures of Mr. Ross at present is the direction of the Woodlawn Musical Club, an organization of fifty mixed voices, which has frequently appeared the past few years in oratorio and miscellaneous concert programs.

Music News has found occasion in the past to endorse the work of this organization very fully and anticipates with pleasure the announcement of the plans for the coming season.

SOME WESTERN NOTICES FOR SIDNEY SILBER

Following are some comments of the Lincoln and Des Moines press on the work of Sidney Silber:

Daily Nebraskan, Lincoln, Neb. To say that Mr. Silber's playing was excellent would be like commending one of Mr. Turner's pictures as beautiful.

State Journal, Lincoln, Neb.—Mr. Silber's artistry is well recognized and there is little to add to what has been stated on his previous public appearances His performance always gives deep pleasure because of his fine musicianly qualities and his marked personality and authoritative tone make whatever he plays deeply impressive. It was in the encores that the full force of his poetic temperament was again felt and the beauty of tone, the caressing touch and the delicacy of interpretation made the audience seemingly of one mind in regretting that the performance must close.

State Journal, Lincoln, Neb.—Before Mr. Silber had finished his opening number—a Saint-Saens' arrangement of a Bach selection—the high rank which should be accorded him as a virile and authoritative pianist was instinctively recognized by almost every person in the large audience. Mr. Silber's artistic qualities become more and more apparent and the enthusiasm of the audience rose in a gradual crescendo. Mr. Silber was recalled repeatedly and added three encores to an already generous program. In presenting the same Mr. Silber exhibited technic of a high order and notable individuality of conception and style. Into well-known numbers, such as the Chopin "Berceuse," he infused a new charm. As an interpreter of Schumann he was most poetic and the beauty of his tone in the Schubert theme was all that could be desired. His runs were exquisitely even and pearly, and marked with delicate gradations of shading. Perhaps the greatest charm of the performance was its spontaneity and the sense that the player was not straining his powers to the limit but held much more in reserve.

Daily Star, Lincoln, Neb.—Mr. Silber is a true artist. With sufficient accuracy, thorough technic especially in the matter of running passages, he adds the qualities of musicianship, tone singing and individuality that is strong, yet artistically balanced. He is splendidly expressive in cantabile, recitative, declamation or dramatic episodes. He is also poetic and showed fine judgment in the making and rendering of the entire program. There is a nervous impulse in his work that delights constantly and seldom runs into undue haste.

Capital, Des Moines, Iowa. Des Moines did not seem to fully appreciate Mr. Silber when he was in this city. They made him realize that they do now. It was a generous ovation tendered him when he appeared at the instrument. (Advertisement.)

OSTROVSKY METHOD

Some further comment of the British press on the Ostrovsky method now being introduced into Chicago, is as follows:

. . . . Every now and then one comes across some paragon of virtue who professes that he or she enjoys practising finger exercises above everything else in the world. The average human being, however, is less happily constituted, and if Mr. Ostrovsky has perfected, as he claims, a mechanical instrument whereby the hands can be developed and the muscles rendered flexible and strong, not only more quickly but even more thoroughly than was ever possible under the old plan, he will have earned the heartfelt gratitude of violinists and pianists innumerable. . . . . —Daily Telegraph.

. . . . If the Ostrovsky appliance is as it promises to be, its introduction may lead to the discovery of many musical geniuses who possess the brain and the soul essential to high success, but whose hands and fingers have been unable to bend to the bow or to manipulate the keys of the piano with the requisite skill. . . . —Standard.

. . . . Many pianists and players of stringed instruments declare that their hands and fingers have been made most extraordinary supple by the aid of this apparatus. . . . —Pall Mall Gazette.

. . . . Smallness of the hand is no drawback. The naturally "impossible" hand that has no stretch and no strength may become as fluent and forcible as Busoni's and the puny fiddler whose ambition soared no higher than the first position can now listen to Kreisler or Mischa Elman with a new defiance in his heart. . . . —Daily Express.

. . . . Mr. Ostrovsky has devised an apparatus for correcting the faults of the normal hand. It is based on sound anatomical principles, and by its use the inventor claims that he can mold, develop, and perfect the hands of budding violinists and pianists. Thus his contrivance, which is perfectly painless in operation, promises to do away with much of the technical drudgery that cramps musical enthusiasm. . . . —The Globe.

. . . . Mr. Ostrovsky has made a very thorough scientific study of different types of hands and arms, his exercises are based on scientific principles and the ease which they give greatly reduces the strain of professional work. . . . —Musical Herald.

. . . . The lecturer gave a concise and interesting account concerning the new method of acquiring technic, and this was further demonstrated when he showed a few of the uses to which the Ostrovsky "hand machine" was put, for developing flexibility of the fingers, stretching the muscles, etc. To every subject there are, however many points of view, and though we may not have agreed with everything that was said, yet the lecturer stated some facts that students might consider with advantage.—The Strad.

. . . . The inventor is a musician and a scholar who has succeeded in producing a mechanical device by which the hand can be molded, modeled, and perfected until it is the most delicately sensitive and flexible member possible.—Continental Times (Berlin). (Advertisement.)

MR. FANNING'S BERLIN NOTICES

Following is some comment of the Berlin press on the singing of Cecil Fanning:

Der Reichsanzeiger, October 4, 1912.—On Monday the singer, Cecil Fanning, delighted us by his musical qualities. The carefully trained baritone voice of the artist showed suppleness and flexibility in a high degree, and melodious nuance, in addition to which came a tenderness and heartfelt warmth of expression that impressed the mind. The hearty appreciation of the numerous hearers could convince the singer of the deep effect of his singing.

Der Tag and Der Lokal-Anzeiger, Berlin, October 2, 1912.—The appearance of Cecil Fanning in Beethoven Hall, Monday ,was a very happy occasion.

Mr. Fanning possesses a very beautiful and well-trained voice, but, above all, expression is everything with him. He characterizes his text keenly, perhaps a little too keenly in "Edward," but he is always interesting. We would be glad if even a third of our singers sang as well. Mr. Fanning would make a fine opera singer.

Signale fur die musikalische Welt, Berlin, October 9, 1912.—Cecil Fanning pleased me very much. A baritone voice of such excellent timbre one does not hear every day. Mr. Fanning interpreted arias by Monteverde and Gretry with beautiful style, and among others a few songs from "Die schone Mullerin." His keenly accentuated art stood him in very good stead in the pitiless "Erlkonig" and the gruesome "Edward" by Carl Loewe.

Germania, Berlin, October 5, 1912.—In Beethoven Hall also appeared Cecil Fanning and H. B. Turpin, accompanist. Mr. Fanning displayed many talents combined with a magnificent, well-trained voice and a good stage presence.

Berliner Borsenzeitung, October 3, 1912.—Cecil Fanning made his appearance in an evening of song. In his delivery of a number of songs by Schubert and Loewe he showed thorough understanding and musical feeling.

Tagliche Rundschau, Berlin, October 4, 1912.—Cecil Fanning, the American baritone, proved himself to be an intelligent singer. (Advertisement.)

———ǂǂǂ———

AGNES PILLSBURY

The following press comment is copied from the handsome new circular being sent out by Agnes Pillsbury:

St. Louis Republic.—Agnes Hope Pillsbury, the pianist, proved a very charming soloist. Miss Pillsbury played Mendelssohn's "Concerto No. 1 in G Minor" very beautifully. Her technic was irreproachable and her sense of harmony and delicacy of expression admirable. In every way Miss Pillsbury was a most satisfying pianist.

Musical Courier.—Agnes Hope Pillsbury scored a decided success at Ravinia on August 15th as soloist, with the Damrosch Orchestra. Miss Pillsbury is one of the most successful piano teachers in Chicago. Her class numbers many professionals who are meeting with marked success in their own teaching and who are most loyal to Miss Pillsbury as instructor.

Davenport Times.—Miss Pillsbury's work demonstrates that she is an artist of the first degree.

Chicago Journal.—Three soloists were heard in a recital given in the new music hall at the South Shore Country Club yesterday afternoon. Agnes Hope Pillsbury, a young pianist of very unusual talent, played with fine feeling and a brilliant display of technic, a group of three numbers Chopin "Nocturne," Zerkowitz "Mazurka" and Schutt "Prelude."

Chicago Post.—In the Mendelssohn trio for piano, violin and 'cello, the parts were well balanced, Miss Pillsbury, pianist, and Mrs. Williams, violinist, playing in full spirit with Mr. Hess. In a group of piano numbers Miss Pillsbury was the star soloist of the occasion. The Adagio from Beethoven's "Pathetique Sonata" was given with a dignity and sense of its grandeur. (Advertisement.)

———ǂǂǂ———

SACRED SONG BY MRS. MOLINE

The sacred solo, "A Psalm of Praise," by Lily Wadhams Moline, organist at Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, is proving a popular number among church soloists. A song that proves to be effective and which is at the same time simple in its arrangement, is difficult to find; and these virtues recommend this solo to singers who are on the qui vive for songs that are both musical and artistic. The above mentioned solo was sung on September 14 in Wesley Church by Grace Dickinson Patterson, soprano, with fine effect. On last Sunday Mr. Edward Clark, baritone, sang it both morning and evening in "Second Church, Scientist."

It is also in the hands of a large number of Chicago's most prominent vocal instructors who are using it to good advantage. Mrs. Moline's compositions are meeting with excellent favor both in Chicag and elsewhere.

Katherine Schuster, Voice

ONLY AUTHORIZED CHICAGO TEACHER—DORA DUTY JONES METHOD OF

LYRIC DICTION

Miss Katherine Schuster's long experience in teaching, her progressive spirit and receptive mental attitude, have enabled her to grasp the principles of my method so intelligently that her progress has been exceptional. I shall be glad to have the Chicago field in her hands. (Signed) DORA DUTY JONES, Berlin, Germany, April 4, 1911.

71 The Auditorium Bldg., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS

VIOLINIST

WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST 106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

Bispham

Summer of 1913 in Australia

For Terms and Dates, Address

Frederic Shipman, 3835 Flournoy Street CHICAGO, ILL.

ALBERT SPALDING

European Tour Season 1912-13

Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris

Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT

SOPRANO CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS

Phone Austin 12717

MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT 5943 OHIO STREET

ELLA L. MILLS

PIANIST

American Conservatory and 117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

PALMER CHRISTIAN

Concert Organist Pupils Coach Accompanist

Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

Iva Bigelow Weaver

SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals

Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO

Mack Block, MILWAUKEE. WIS.

Jennie F. W. Johnson

Contralto

American Conservatory and 4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work

May Mansfield

PARIS STUDIOS: 27 rue Boisleveu Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET

BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HELEN GALLUP

Pianist Accompanist

Address Chicago Piano College

HERBERT BUTLER

VIOLINIST

KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory

207-211 South Main St. South Bend, Ind.

A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers

Publishers of THE LARK Aak for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN

AMERICAN COMPOSER

In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals. Recitals of His Compositions. Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs

WITH R. E. JOHNSTON OF NEW YORK SEASON 1912-1913

STEINDEL ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
RECITALS and MUSICALES. ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY.
Music Critics say: "Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose playing inspires and Makes Not Mars' the soloist."
2550 BURLING ST. TELEPHONE DIVERSEY 3470

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art.
Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT, Sec.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Herbert E. Hyde
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
STUDIO: 407 Kimball Hall RESIDENCE: 1370 E. 61st St

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

CHARLOTTE LOUISE PETTIBONE
Piano Accompanying Instruction
224 North Prairie Av., Austin, Chicago

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

van Vliet The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 412 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4 to

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

CECIL FANNING BEGINS HIS FALL SEASON

Cecil Fanning, accompanied by H. B. Turpin, gave his first recital of the fall season at Briarcliff Lodge, on Friday evening September 19, the occasion being one of the four concerts given at Briarcliff Lodge, under the management of Mrs. R. W. Hawksworth. Mr. Fanning's program was one of unusual interest, presenting several compositions new to American audiences. His singing was enthusiastically received. Mr. Fanning's voice has greatly broadened since he was last heard in America, and the convictions of his unusual interpretations are greatly strengthened by his many successes abroad. After hearing Mr. Fanning in one of his unique programs one can agree with the foreign critics who say that Mr. Fanning undoubtedly stands in the front rank of the world's great interpreters. The large number of engagements secured by Messrs. Fanning and Turpin for the present season, will give the music-lovers of America opportunities to hear this unusual artist.

CECIL FANNING AND H. B. TURPIN

COWEN MUSICAL BUREAU

Gertrude F. Cowen, musical manager, 1451 Broadway, New York, announces the following artists for the season of 1913-1914:

Jeanne Gerville-Reache, French contralto.

Marie Sundelius, lyric soprano.

Mabel Beddoe, mezzo-contralto.

Arthur Hackett, the young American tenor.

Bonarios Grimson, the young English violinist.

Mme. Gerville-Reache, who was recently a member of the Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston Opera Companies, is now engaged as leading contralto with the National Opera Company of Canada, with which she is to appear in "Samson and Delilah," "Herodiade," "Orpheus," "Fides," "Aida," and "La Navarraise."

She is also engaged for several special performances with the Boston and Chicago Opera Companies. Her concert activities open in New York City, November 16 when she will appear as soloist with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra at their opening concert, Carnegie Hall.

Owing to the great demand for concert appearances for Mme. Gerville-Reache, it has been arranged with the director of the National Opera Company of Canada, that Mme. Gerville-Reache may fill such concert dates as do not conflict with her operatic duties, which means that this celebrated French contralto will be one of the busiest artists of the coming season, before the American and Canadian public.

Marie Sundelius, the American trained singer, who has only recently appeared before the public, will be the soloist twice during the coming season with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and will also appear twice at the Worcester Festival. Later in the season, she will make her New York debut under the auspices of Mrs. Anson Dudley Bramhall, who sponsors the Tuesday Salons' Musical series, which formerly held at the Ritz-Carlton, will be given this season at Sherry's. Appearances in Cleveland, at the morning musicales given by Mrs. Hughes, and in St. John, N. B., and Bridgeport, Conn., have also been arranged for this charming soprano.

Mabel Beddoe, mezzo-contralto, has been booked for an appearance with Josef Hofmann at the Woman's Club, Columbus,

Ohio, November 11, and a number of other dates in the adjoining territory are also being closed.

Bonarios Grimson, the English violinist, who made his American debut last season with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, is slated for return date with that organization this season, and also as soloist with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra in Philadelphia. He will appear at a White House musicale, jointly with Marie Sundelius.

In New York City Mr. Grimson is a great favorite among the exclusive set who have lionized him since his first appearance in this country last season. His services are in constant demand for private musicales and recitals. He is also booked to appear at one of the Metropolitan Opera House Sunday evening concerts, while early in December, Mr. Grimson will give his own recital at the Little Theater prior to his Western tour.

Arthur Hackett, tenor, a young Bostonian, will make his debut in his home town, December 21st as a soloist with the Handel & Haydn Society. Later, he will make an extended festival tour which will take him throughout the large cities of the East.

———♯♯♯———

OSCAR SEAGLE

There are few artists of which the New York critics have written with more genuine enthusiasm than Oscar Seagle, the well-known baritone, whom Loudon Charlton has added to his list of attractions for the forthcoming season. Mr. Seagle is widely recognized as one of the best exponents of pure bel canto.

"Mr. Seagle's voice," said Richard Aldrich, in the New York Times, "is of unusual beauty in quality and exceptionally powerful sonority. It is, indeed, an exceptional gift of nature. But of equal importance are the fine training to which it has been submitted and the high and dignified artistic uses to which he puts it. There is a charm in Mr. Seagle's singing of the French songs; the old ones especially he delivers with finished phrasing and with a beautiful quality of tone.

The fact that Mr. Seagle's voice is unusually high for a baritone was commented upon by several critics last season, notably by W. J. Henderson of the Sun. "Mr. Seagle has a high voice," wrote Mr. Henderson. "The middle register is very powerful and sonorous. The singer can produce a big tone and a little one, and he produces them with musical results. His voice is admirable."

"The ease with which the singer produced his tones and propelled them to the remotest corners of the Auditorium was wonderful," was the tribute paid Mr. Seagle by H. E. Krehbiel, of the Tribune. "His voice is one of ample power and resonance. Especially gratifying is his English diction. If all singers could make themselves understood as did Mr. Seagle, there might be more chance for opera in English."

Mr. Seagle will arrive in America early in October and will devote his entire season to the concert field. (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

Butler.—Mrs. Hanna Butler will open her studio at 512 Fine Arts Building on October 1. She spent her vacation on the coast and in the forests of Maine.

CHARLOTTE IKERT CONCERT-ORATORIO JOINT RECITAL ROSCOE KIMBALL
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON - - - - Fine Arts Building Chicago

JOHN R. RANKL Bass-Baritone
PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING Phone Harrison 6880

HANS HESS CELLIST American Conservatory Telephone Lincoln 7917

SOFIA STEPHALI COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Outside of Chicago, Exclusive Direction, National Society for Broader Education

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM
SOPRANO COMPOSER
Phone Harrison 6880 Accompanist
608 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Louise George Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Preiser Violin School STUDIOS
530 N. Pine Av., Austin
5407 S. Halsted St. and
2831 Washington Boul.
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director Phone Austin 4043

CONCERTS RECITALS ORATORIOS OSCAR SEAGLE 17 Avenue Mozart Paris (France)
BARITONE
American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER In Paris all Summer 119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

It Is Not Raining Rain to Me
AND OTHER SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM
BE MERCIFUL TO ME (2 KEYS) 50c
BEATITUDES (New) 60c
ROCK HIM TO SLEEP 50c
HER LITERARY TASTE 50c
Usual Discounts at all Music Stores or of the Publishers
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. CHICAGO

WALTER DIEDERICH TENOR
TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
608 Fine Arts Building. Phone Harrison 6880

ELEANOR HAZZARD-PEOCOCK FRANCE ENGLAND GERMANY
DRAMATIC SOPRANO RECITALS CONCERTS
Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London

WHITEHILL
BARITONE
Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

LOUISE BURTON
SOPRANO 520 Fine Arts Bldg Phone Drexel 8183

MR. Karl Buren Stein TEACHERS of
TENOR SINGING
MRS. ELOCUTION
DRAMATIC READER JOINT RECITALS 55 Auditorium Bldg. ACTING

Esther Plumb CONTRALTO
4173 Lake Avenue
Phone Oakland 3246
Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago, Ill

FOR SALE—Chickering parlor grand; in good condition; $250. Address N. care of Music News.

PIANO TEACHER WANTED—A leading music school can give a capable teacher one to three afternoons per week; must play well; age 20 to 30. Address "College," care Music News.

TO RENT—Kimball Hall Studio; Tuesday, and Wednesday and Saturday a. m. Address Music News.

TIME TO RENT—In large studio in Fine Arts Bldg. Address W. D. Music News.

WANTED—Pupils in German by teacher who has studied in Germany; reasonable rates. Miss House, phone 3056 Drexel.

PIPE ORGANS—If the purchase of an Organ is contemplated, address HENRY PILCHER'S SONS, Louisville, Ky., who manufacture the highest grade at reasonable prices.

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TEACHER TENOR DIRECTOR
120 North Oak Park Av., Oak Par., Ill.

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone O. P. 4397. 206 South Lombard Av., Oak Park
Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

Sara Burdick
TEACHER OF VOICE DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Concert, Oratorio, Recital 727 FINE ARTS BUILDING

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

Shipley Watson
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
Pupil of Heinrich Barth, Berlin; Martin Krause, Leipzig; Edward MacDowell, New York; Carl & Rheinhold Faelten, Boston. 4414 Main St., Kansas City, Mo.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS, PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

MRS. HOSTLER'S MUSICALE

A very novel and most delightful evening was spent at the resident of Eleanore Capps-Hostler recently.

The Rev. Charles Crawford Gorst and Mrs. Gorst of the Boston University, Boston, Mass., cousins of Mrs. Hostler, were returning from a very busy season in chautauqua, and stopped in Chicago for a visit and to attend the I. L. A. convention at the Auditorium. On Friday evening September 19, Mr. and Mrs. Hostler entertained informally, their pretty apartment in Austin being crowded to its capacity.

Mrs. Emma Clark-Mottl, president of the International College of Music, played some piano numbers with a great deal of style and musical intelligence, and Miss Rhea Dorothy Lynch, who traveled under the same management with Mr. Gorst the past season, was enthusiastically encored for her brilliant and artistic rendering of some violin solos.

Mr. Gorst was then introduced. He first gave some whistling solos accompanied by Miss Lynch on the piano, imitating the flute, bell and fife. He then gave a lesson in whistling. Some of the ladies present wished to examine his tongue, to be very sure there was no instrument used in the production of tone, and then in a genial unassuming and thoroughly interesting and convincing manner, gave his lecture on "Common Birds and Their Songs." Mr. Gorst has made a study of birds ever since his childhood, knows their habits and imitates to the minutest degree. His lecture being illustrated with pastel pictures of the birds made it all the more interesting. The gentlemen present were particularly interested, many of them expressing a wish that they might take him with them on their hunting trips.

This is only one of many novel and interesting affairs which Mrs. Capps-Hostler will give during the season.

———♯♯♯———

MR. KIMBALL'S REPERTOIRE

Following is a continuation of the list of works in the repertoire of Roscoe Kimball, the first part having been printed in Music News last week:

AMERICAN SONGS

Sidney Homer—
- Song of the Shirt
- Pauper's Drive
- Fiddler of Dooney
- Dearest
- Six songs from "Underwood's" Bandanna Ballads

Cadman—
- Four Indian songs
- At Dawning

Downing—
- Only a Rose
- June
- Apparitions

Damrosch—
- Danny Deever

Gilbert—
- Pirate Song

Will Marion Cook—
- Exhortation

Bergen—
- Kissed in the Rain

Turvey—
- Irish Names

Harriet Ware—
- Boat Song

Woodforde-Finden—
- Flower of All the World

Campbell-Tipton—
- Hymn to the Night

Geehl—
- For You Alone

Victor Herbert—
- (1) In My Dreams
- (2) Serenade from "Natoma"

Dudley Buck—
- Sunset

German—
- Rolling Down to Rio

D'Hardelot—
- Because

Clay—
- Sands of Dee

Allitsen—
- Song of Thanksgiving

Huhn—
- Invictus

Old English—
- All Through the Night
- Oft in the Stilly Night
- Down Among the Dead Men
- Loch Lomond
- Stuttering Lovers
- Meet Me By Moonlight Alone

Del Riego—
- O Dry Those Tears
- Brown Eyes

Carrington—
- A Little Dreaming By the Way

ORATORIOS AND CANTATAS

Handel—
- Messiah
- Samson

Mendelssohn—
- Elijah
- St. Paul

Haydn—
- Creation
- Seasons

Paul—
- Holy City
- Joan d'Arc

Dubois—
- Seven last words of Christ

Elgar—
- Caractacus

Cowan—
- Rose Maiden

Goring Thomas—
- Swan and Skylark

Coleridge Taylor—
- Tales of Old Japan

SONG CYCLES

Liza Lehman—
- Persian Garden
- In Memoriam
- Nonsense Songs

Chas. W. Cadman—
- Morning of the Year

B. Huhn—
- The Divan

———♯♯♯———

NORDICA IN AUSTRALIA

"And you call this a winter's day?" demanded Madame Lillian Nordica, waving her hand towards the clear, beautiful sunshine, from a window of the Hotel Australia yesterday afternoon. Just then attention was drawn to the great bouquet of fresh violets handed to the eminent singer at the quay by Mrs. Shipman. She was astonished to learn that these lovely purple flowers had grown in the open air. "And this is winter! You have indeed a wonderful country."

Then, as she held out the bouquet that it might be admired, "Now, don't you think we are spoiled?"

"And don't you deserve it?" was the interviewer's answer.

"Well, perhaps we do," said Madame Nordica, archly, and with a merry laugh. "For singers really have to work hard. You must study continually. You must not only sing in different languages, but you must speak these languages as well. You must be thoroughly equipped for the task of going to any foreign country, and singing in the native tongue of the people of that country. Hard work is essential in the life of a singer; and that means solitude and unremitting application."

Madame Nordica thoroughly charmed the Sydney interviewers yesterday by her brilliancy as a talker. She is one of the most gracious and interesting of the great stars.

"I always sang as a little child," she said, when asked to review her career. "Yes, that is quite true that my first fee was given me to induce me not to sing. I had an elder sister who was a beautiful singer; she sang in 'The Creation' in Farmington, our birthplace, in Maine, at the age of 17, with a chorus and orchestra which came, with the director, from Boston. Well, my dear sister, who died later,

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST

In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.

Address until October, Care Music News, Chicago; after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.

Crosses the continent four times this season.

Available for eminent engagements in almost every state.

Now is the time to secure a matchless recital.

could not have a song in her possession that I would not exploit. Indeed, they had to hide me when she sang, so as to keep me quiet. But when she died, my parents were only too glad to encourage the gift in me.

"My first teacher was an Irishman, John O'Neill, at the New England (Boston) Conservatory. I saw the old gentleman only the other day, before I came away on this tour, and he asked me to sing some of the old music for him again, as well as some of the modern music, including Debussy's. When I first went to him at the Conservatory, a girl, he heard me, took me up and up the scale, and then suddenly burst out laughing.

"I was dismayed; I felt that I had failed.

"His laugh, it turned out, was really one of delight. He took me at once as a pupil, and for the next four years made me sing all sorts of scales—Handel, and the rest; but only for studies. I remember well when they wanted me to sing at a concert, and I asked his permission.

"'Oh! you think you know something,' was his comment. 'Well, you were never so mistaken in your life. You will sing when I tell you, but not till then.'"

Then at last her opportunity came, when she was chosen as the soprano soloist in the oratorio, "The Messiah," at a performance in Boston by the Handel and Haydn Society. When Gilmore heard her not long afterwards he engaged her for a tour of England, where she sang with his orchestra in seventy-eight consecutive concerts. This was her first visit to London. In Italy, she studied at Milan, as a pupil of the renowned San Giovanni, the teacher of many stars.

"I sang the aria from 'Traviata' for him. 'Why don't you sing the opera?' he inquired. So I set out to study it under his direction, and in three months sang the role of Violetta in Milan. It was he who gave me my stage name. My own name, Norton, was all right in concert and oratorio work; but when I seriously thought of going into opera I knew there would be an outcry at home. Then he chose my new name 'Nordica,' which in Italian means 'from the North."

The famous soprano traces her ancestry back to Great Britain. Her great-great-grandfather, Major Norton, was an English officer, who threw up his commission in the army and settled in America, where he owned the Martha's Vineyard Isle, one of the Elizabethan Isles, near Cape Cod. Enlisting as a private in the American army, he fought in the War of Independence, and for his bravery was promoted to his old rank of major. After the war he was appointed High Sheriff of the district of Massachusetts. His son, Madame Nordica's great-grandfather, another very brave man, once quelled an Indian revolt single-handed by facing the hostile tribes, and demanding "Who is master here—you or I?" So commanding was his attitude of fearless defiance that the Indians were completely baffled. Three of the great singer's ancestors went over on the Mayflower. The commission in the British army, which her great-great-grandfather received from King George, is still in her possession. Indeed, she has a collection of historical documents more complete than that of any other American—some dating back to 1632. The Boston authorities have asked that these should be given to the State, and this will probably be done.

"A deputy-sheriff of New York? Well, I was appointed by the mayor; but it was discovered later that I could not hold the appointment. Only voters are eligible, and a woman is not a voter in New York."

Asked about her favorite roles, Madame Nordica replied that she was more interested in the Wagnerian operas than any other, for the reason that they introduced new problems and personages. "When I am singing 'Traviata' or Marguerite, for instance, I know that there are certain traditions one has to follow; and the people in those operas are more or less known to us. But when we come to Wagner's heroes and heroines the case is different."

One of her cherished achievements is that she was the first to sing the role of Elsa in the Bayreuth production of "Lohengrin." Frau Cosima Wagner, who had the world to choose from, selected her. "I studied the part with Frau Wagner for three months, learning every gesture even. The rehearsals were so frequent and so exacting that when the time came for the performance it seemed just like one more rehearsal, that was all."

As to her concerts in Australia, the star points out that while she is announced as a dramatic soprano, her programs will begin with lyric music, and proceed to that of the more dramatic works. "Just as in learning the English language, one begins with the simpler forms, and proceeds gradually to Shakespeare, so in music, one must know how to sing before beginning to interpret. And just as one, when he reads Shakespeare, does not forget the simpler things he had previously learned, it follows that in the field of opera one who has studied Wagnerian roles does not necessarily forget those that have preceded this elevated plane. I have sung 'Don Pasquale,' 'Lucia,' 'Faust'—I am taking them in their degrees as heavy roles—'Aida,' 'The Huguenots,' 'Lohengrin,' 'Tristan and Isolde,' 'The Ring and 'Parsifal.' Between 'Don Pasquale' and 'Gotterdammerung' there is the widest of gulfs; of course but that does not imply that we lose the daintier music."

Madame Nordica treasures, amongst other recollections of a famous singer, the memories of her meeting with Queen Victoria and King Edward VI When she was first invited to Osborne, Queen Victoria presented her with a decoration, comprising an imperial crown in diamonds on an enamele background. Later she sang in a performance of "Lohengrin" at Windsor with Madame Schumann-Heink, the two De Reszkes, and Mr. David Bispham (who recently visited Sydney), and received another decoration from Her Majesty.

Madame Nordica was married four years ago in London to Mr. G. W. Young. Her husband, a millionaire banker of New York, was unable to accompany her on the present tour. Mrs. Baldwin, her niece, arrived with her by the Ventura, and the artists of the company—Messrs. Paul Dufault, the Canadian tenor (who will be cordially welcomed back to Australia), Franklin Holding and Romayne Simmonds—were also passengers by the vessel. The party was met at the Quay by Mr. Frederic Shipman (manager of the tour) and Mrs. Shipman.

———♯♯♯———

AN INTERVIEW WITH CARL

William C. Carl, the American organist returned on the "Lusitania" from his visit with the Guilmant family in Paris, in the best of health, ready for the coming season.

While abroad Dr. Carl presented the French committee of the Guilmant monument fund with the subscription from America, through the American committee of which Dr. Carl is chairman. The work on the monument in honor of the great French composer, will be started this fall, and when completed, will be placed at the side of the Trocadero, where M. Guilmant appeared so frequently, and scored many of his greatest successes.

When met by a representative of this paper, Dr. Carl was most enthusiastic over his trip, and the receptions accorded him.

The famous Guilmant Library, one of the finest in the world, has been given to the Sorbonne, although Dr. Carl is the possessor of many valuable works presented to him by the family. The organ built by his father, and of which he was always so proud, is now at the Conservatoire, while the marble bust is in the Petit Salon. "I was royally entertained by the family," said Dr. Carl, "and the guest of Mr. Felix Guilmant, the artist.

"Did you meet any of the French organists?"

"Yes, I was entertained by Mr. Joseph Bonnet, who is one of the most active artists in Europe today. Every Sunday morning during the season he plays a program of organ music at 11 o'clock at St. Eustache, of which he is organist. The choir does not sing at this service, and the Cure has instituted the mass especially for Bonnet. The church is crowded with the wealth and fasion of Paris, and so much so that the priests of other dioceses complain that their parishioners should invariably go there.

"Mr. Bonnet is writing a set of variations for me, on the 'Star Spangled Banner,' for my American tournee, and has just published a set of twelve pieces, one of which is dedicated to the memory of the Titanic's victims. He will concertize this season in England, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, and at St. Eustache, will play all the works of Bach, in addition to many important novelties and manuscripts.

"At Notre Dame, I met M. Louis Vierne, who succeeded M. Guilmant at the Schola Cantorum. His playing impressed me very much, and is both scholarly and brilliant. In his rendition of a Bach chorale, I have rarely heard anything more beautiful. M. Vierne is writing his fourth Organ Symphony for me, and as soon as finished it will be produced here. To my astonishment, the great organ is still blown by eight men. On questioning M. Vierne as to why an electric motor had not been substituted, he replied, 'You know things move slowly in France. In America the change I presume could be effected at once, while here it would be necessary to discuss it for ten years.' At St. Augustin, I spent a delightful afternoon with M. Eugene Gigout listening to his marvelous improvisations. It astounds me each year to see how such men as Saint-Saens, Widor and Gigout hold their own, and appear many years younger than they actually are. Gigout, who succeeded Guilmant at the Conservatoire, had exceptional success with his class this year, closing the season with three Premier prix, a Premier accessit, and a second accessit. Mr. Georges Jacob, a distinguished Guilmant pupil, played all the chorales of Bach, a distinguished Guilmant pupil, played all the chorales of Bach, with descriptive analysis of each, at the Schola Cantorum last winter, and will do so again this coming season. M. Jacob is a brilliant organist, and a most charming gentleman. I was quite astounded to see in the Sunday papers, that instead of announcing the usual high mass, a sacred concert is given instead in several of the largest churches,

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS—VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Brokaw Power-Meyer
Violinist Conservatory
WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

MARY HIGHSMITH
E SOPRANO 624 Michigan Av., Phone Midway 2923

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

SADIE WALKER
University Studios VIOLINIST Exclusive M'g't
5828 Woodlawn Av. Harry Culbertson

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

DEWITT DURGIN
TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg

COLLINS J.
Basso-Cantante BROCK
EUDORA MOODY
SOPRANO Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

MARY ANN KAUFMAN
SOPRANO
Edgewater 8519 4433 Racine Av., CHICAGO, ILL.

Grant KIMBELL
Tenor
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

showing that something has to be done to attract the people even in Paris. In former years nothing of this kind was considered necessary. M. Charles Tournemire, the successor of Caesar Franck at St. Clotilde, presented me with his 'Triple Chorale,' a work of unusual ability for the organ, and showing the consummate musician that he is. Harold Bauer, I found hard at work in his beautiful studio, even on a fete day, with many Americans studying with him. Bauer soon leaves for his tour of the United States, to last the entire season, as does Charles W. Clark and probably Mlle. Alice Verlet of the opera.

"Did you spend the summer in Paris?"

"No. I remained several weeks in the Swiss mountains, near Montreux, and at one of the most attractive retreats possible for a musician in search of rest. There is already a most distinguished artist-colony in this locality. Paderewski, with his magnificent villa and grounds; Josef Hofman, with his bungalow now nearing completion; Sembrich at Ouchey; Rudolph Ganz at Clarens; Schelling, Dalmores, Weingartner, Pugno, Ysaye, Stavenhagen, Zeisler, Oberhoffer, Christine Miller, William J. Guard, Leo C. Miller, John Spencer Camp and Warren R. Hedden and family, who spent some time with me; all were there this summer. One of the important events was the birthday party given by Paderewski when eight of the guests played a selection for sixteen hands. These were Paderewski, Hofmann, Samaroff, Weingartner, Stavenhagen, Ganz, Schelling and Stokowski. During the evening Hofmann and Schelling dressed as piano movers, came in carrying a piano—on setting down the instrument they opened a door and out walked Mme. Samaroff, to the delight of the guests.

"Did you visit any of the noted schools of music?"

"Yes, I had the opportunity of visiting several. In Brussels, I went through the Conservatoire Royale, where Fetis, Gevaert, and Tinel have been directors, and now M. Leon Dubois holds the coveted position. In London, I made a study of the methods used by the Royal College of Organists, Royal College of Music, Royal Academy of Music, Trinity School of Music, and the London Organ School. The new building of the Royal Academy is one of the finest in the world, and the equipment of this, as well in fact as in all the others, offers every up-to-date advantage to the student. I was delighted to see that several firms, notably, Weeks & Co., have built rooms for practicing purposes, where students can go and practice from an hour to the entire day by paying a nominal fee. This is sadly needed in New York, and I hope that something of the same sort can soon be instituted.

"In London I was most cordially received by Mr. J. Spencer Curwen, the well-known publisher and editor of the Musical Herald who tendered me a reception to meet the London organists. Most unfortunately my engagements in America would not permit of remaining, and I was therefore forced to decline. I, however, heard one of the promenade concerts, directed by Sir Henry Wood, and Mme. Sarah Bernhardt in 'La Samarataine,' the famous artist appearing younger and more vigorous than ever. I went down to the "————" to see the exhibition of the piano firms, which is one of the largest and most comprehensive of its kind yet held.

"The collection of old instruments included those used by Chopin at his London concerts, the one used by the Prince Consort, and until recently retained in his room at the Buckingham Palace; the one of Sir George Smart, played from the conductor's desk, etc. In addition to this, an opportunity was given whereby one could see a piano built from start to finish, the workmen were there with their tools, and everything in active operation. It was a notable exhibit. I had, however, an amusing experience. Anxious to ascertain if any of the church organ builders were exhibiting, I asked a gentleman in charge of one of the leading piano booths, if he could tell me. He replied: 'Do you wish to buy an organ? For, if so, I want to sell you one.' 'No,' I said, 'but if you wish to engage an organist, here I am quite ready to play.' 'All the more,' said he, 'if you play, you should buy this organ, which I can honestly recommend.' 'No, I have all the organs necessary at my disposal and therefore don't want to purchase.' 'But this one,' he persisted, 'is exceptional, and I particularly want you to buy it.' Whereupon I interrupted and said, 'You have not yet replied to my question.' 'As to that,' he said, 'I don't know, go ask the secretary.' As this gentleman said there were none, I did not ask for any more information.

"I went to the Gloucester Musical Festival to hear the new Saint-Saens oratorio, 'The Promised Land,' conducted in person by the composer. I wish it were possible to speak with enthusiasm regarding the new work which unfortunately is only new in that it was but recently written. There is nothing to remind one of the composer of 'Samson and Delilah,' or any of the works which have made him world famous. I also heard the re-written Te Deum by Dr. Perry, 'a new motet,' 'Ye Holy Angels Bright,' by Stanford, the Second Symphony by Elgar (all conducted by the composers), then a choral service where a motet by Bach was sung, and a capital performance of the Toccata and Fugue in D minor, by Bach, played by Dr. Sinclair on the Cathedral organ. In the evening Verdi's Manzoni Requiem, the Vorspiel to 'Parsifal,' and a large portion of Handel's 'Israel in Egypt,' were rendered under the able direction of Dr. A. Herbert Brewer, and all this in one day. It was the greatest musical dissipation I have ever indulged in, and although I had Louis Kommenech, conductor of our Oratorio Society, as a near neighbor, I felt that a return to Switzerland for additional rest would not go amiss.

"Did you enlarge your repertoire?"

"Yes, I am returning with many novelties, both from the Continent as well as England. These I shall utilize at the Old First Church, at the Guilmant Organ School, and during my tour of organ concerts. I signed a contract to edit the Lithurgical and several other of the lesser known organ works of Alexander Guilmant, with Schott & Co. in London, before sailing, these to appear in three volumes.

"What are your plans?"

"These are many. I am engaged as soloist with the People's Symphony Orchestra at the December concert and

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

will play the Marche-Fantaisie, for organ and orchestra by Guilmant, based on two chorals, 'Iste Confessor,' and 'Ecce Sacerdos Magnus'). I will exhibit a large number of new organs, give a series of recitals at the old First Church, where I will also produce several important novelties this in addition to my work at the Guilmant Organ School, which re-opens October 7 with the largest enrollment yet recorded.

"Before leaving Paris I was successful in placing my pupil, Rowland William Claffey, as assistant to M. Behrens at Holy Trinity Church in the Avenue de l'Alma.

"What do you think of the advantages for organists in America today?" To this Dr. Carl replied with enthusiasm. "There is no question but that we offer greater advantages than are to be had in any other country at the present time. To begin with there is a greater incentive for work, inasmuch as recitals are more numerous, and these are better attended with scarcely an exception. Musical services in our churches are becoming each season more general, and with the advent of organs in our municipal halls, theaters, hotels, private residences and department stores, as well as those in the churches, it is bound to popularize the instrument and create a larger demand for organ music. One can, without doubt, hear more organ music here now than in any other country. Each year I notice the change, and it is most gratifying to see it."

THE VON ENDE SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The finest announcement received by Music News from any New York School is that of the Von Ende School of Music, and this excellence is not alone in the work of the designer and the printer, but the content also is such as to prove that this thriving new institution is one certainly built upon the firmest kind of musical foundation, and that its success will be a substantial one throughout its future, even as it has already proven to be very remarkable in the first few seasons of the school.

ELSE HARTHAN-ARENDT

Mme. Else Harthan-Arendt, who has lately located in Chicago, has appeared several times here with the greatest of success.

The following biographical sketch is taken from the catalog of a school with which she was associated last year:

Mme. Else Harthan-Arendt was born in Odessa, Russia, where her father, a well-known composer and pianist, Dr. Hans Harthan, was at that time director of the Imperial Conservatory of Music. Her childhood was spent in Dresden and Wiesbaden, while her earnest musical studies began in Santiago DeChile. In 1896 her father was engaged by the Chilean government as director of the National Conservatory. The position of her father offered her many opportunities to appear in public and to distinguish herself in the great symphony concerts in Valparaiso.

On her return to Europe in 1901 she sang before many noted critics. Mme. Bianca-Bianchi, the world-famous singer, was so enthusiastic after hearing Mme. Arendt, then Else Harthan, in her first public appearance in Munich, that she immediately offered her kindly advice. Mme. Arendt became a pupil of Mme. Bianchi and was introduced by her to the musical world of Germany. She also studied under Professor Anton Dressler and Conductor Peter Raabe and received her last training from the famous oratorio and concert singer ,Mme. Rueckbeil-Hiller, of Stuttgart.

Mme. Harthan-Arendt filled engagements as soloist in a large number of concerts in Germany and came to America in order to tour United States and Canada with her father, and later to return to Germany and join the Berlin Opera.

MR. EDDY IN VANCOUVER

Mr. Clarence Eddy, of Chicago, the well known organist, who gave an organ recital last evening at St. John's Church, and who will give another performance this evening, is making his seventeenth Pacific Coast tour. Mr. Eddy visited Victoria about ten years ago to give a recital at the old St. John's Church, and, as Rev. Stanley Ard remarked in the course of last evening's recital, it was never expected at that date that Victoria would ever possess such an organ as was opened last evening. Mr. Eddy is at present negotiating for an engagement at the Panama-Pacific Exposition.—Daily Colonist, Victoria.

A large audience attended the organ recital which was given last night in the Mount Pleasant Methodist Church by Mr. Clarence Eddy, of New York. When the name of Mr. Eddy appears at the head of a program one does not attend in a spirit of criticism, but with a sense of assurance that even familiar compositions will take on an added charm, for this man's utter mastery of his instrument banishes all sense of that obvious artistry so dear to the technician and so hateful to the real lovers of music.

In the course of a generous program Mr. Eddy introduced his audience to a newcomer in the ranks of composers in the person of Mr. Edward F. Johnson. Mr. Johnson has lately arrived from England to take the position of organist at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. He showed Mr. Eddy a composition of his own entitled "Evensong," which so appealed to him that he had it rendered regularly on tour. It is a tender and tuneful thing, and its meaning is well rendered in the following lines, which Mr. Eddy recited in introducing the number:

"And far away through the arches dim
A sad sweet melody,
Like the wind as it wails its evening hymn
O'er the rustling sea,
Rises now like a bird on the wing,
Now sinks to an amorous murmuring."

—Vancouver Sun. (Advertisement.)

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN

Following is some press comment copied from the neat little circular being sent out by Mrs. Striblen:

Mrs. Striblen displayed a well cultivated high soprano remarkable for its purity of tone, feeling and correct interpretation.—Booklyn (N. Y.). Daily Eagle.

One of the treats of the evening was the singing of Louise Striblen. Her charming presence and delightful singing will long be remembered by those fortunate enough to have heard her.—Yonkers (N. Y.) Statesman.

Mrs. Louise Striblen made a decidedly favorable impression in her rendition of "Hear Ye, Israel." She sang with intelligence and interpretative talent. Her voice is of pleasing quality, full of expression.—Newark (N. J.) Evening News.

She sings with sentiment and musical expression, with tones that are rich and warm—possessing rare sweetness.—Kansas City (Mo.) Times.

Turner.—Mr. George Edward Turner gave a lecture-recital on many of the best known names in the pianoforte literature at the First Methodist Episcopal Church in Virden, Ill., in August.

A FINE COMPANY

One of the interesting features of the season, which has met with great success in booking engagements, is the series of programs to be given by Barbara Wait, contralto; Florence Hodge, organist and accompanist; Amy Keith Jones, violinist; Helena Stone Torgerson, harpist.

Among the dates arranged for October and November are the Catholic Women's League at the Blackstone Hotel, Chicago; Athletic Club, Illinois Atletic Club, North End Club, Edgewater Country Club, St. Cecilia Club of Grand Rapids, and a private musicale at the home of Mr. John Duffy of Grand Rapids.

Arrangements are now being made for engagements in the south and in California for January and February.

RECITAL BY MISS SMITH

Miss Nell Smith, a pupil of Emil Liebling and at present in charge of the music department at Stanton College, Natchez, Miss., played the following piano program at that institution of September 15:

Variations Serieuses.....Mendelssohn
Sonata in G minor, Op. 22.....Schumann
Allegro; Andantino; Scherzo
Romance .....Sibelius
Intermission
Mazurka de Concert.....Liebling
Hark, Hark the Lark!.....Schubert-Liszt
Spinning Song.....Wagner-Liszt
(From "The Flying Dutchman")
Ballade, Op. 23.....Chopin

MAUD POWELL TO PLAY WORK BY GAYLORD YOST

Maude Powell, the popular American violinist, has written Mr. Gaylord Yost, the composer-violinist, of Indianapolis, that she intends to use the "Danse Characteristique," which Mr. Yost wrote especially for Madame Powell. Madame Powell has been instrumental in the bringing out of many new and worthy works for violin, especially by American composers.

SARAH E. PAINE

Miss Sarah E. Paine is starting September 25 on a concert tour as soloist on the piano and on the Boehm flute, under the direction of C. W. Best. Associated with Miss Paine will be Miss Vesta Lister, soprano, and Miss Florence Smith, dramatic reader. Some of the first places visited will be Sparta, Manitowoc, Oconomowoc, Madison and Green Bay, Wis.

HENIOT LEVY

Mr. Heniot Levy has returned from his summer vacation and has begun work with one of the largest classes he has ever cared for at the American Conservatory of Music. In addition to his heavy teaching schedule he will play a great many concert and recital engagements during the winter.

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

IT has become quite the habit in Chicago, when any musical address is wanted, to say "Look in the classified Directory Card columns of the Music News, and you will surely find it."

The habit is growing in other localities too.

This is not without its good and sufficient reason either, for while the cost of this service is only twelve dollars a year (including subscription) the advantages gained are very material. Not only do prospective managers and pupils use this list continually to find the addresses of artists and teachers, but also, church people often find it of service in locating desired organists, directors and singers, and further—the complete list is used habitually by all sorts of advertisers who want to send announcements of new and novel productions to a representative list of musicians.

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

Bergey
CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL
Voice Piano
430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St.. Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Stewart 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing, Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

MUSIC IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOL

WILLIAM APMADOC

The readers of Music News undoubtedly will rejoice that its publisher and editor wishes to devote a portion of the Journal with its immensely large circulation, to what should be of interest to musicians in general, and, also, to the lovers of music throughout the land, namely, the music-education and singing of the children in all grades of the public school from the primary up to the fourth year of the high school. The field is somewhat broader, for it begins in the home, and in the kindergarten.

The music organizations of all kinds—the effective village singing class, the church choir and quartet, the small choral societies that are so significantly on the increase, the large choral societies that present the great masses and oratorios, the small orchestra and the symphonic orchestras—all of them should in spirit, word and deed, give sympathetic support to the thousands of faithful instructors who devote their lives to "teach the young idea how to shoot," musically. Probably these organizations recognize the fact that most or many of their members have been, and will be recruited out of the ranks of public school children. To merely recognize this is not sufficient—that would be but a poor expression of interest in the work that is done in all grades.

It would be the best kind of support if some of the leading vocalists of different communities—those who have at heart the advancement of the music art—should seek permission once in a while to visit classes in the higher grades in order to listen to the young voices in the matters of tone, enunciation and expression; also in order to sing to them and to speak a few words of encouragement. Parents, especially the mothers, by visiting the schools occasionally, would impress the classes with the best kind of influence. But these mother-visits, very much as the traditional visits of angels, are "few and far between."

It would astonish our choral societies and orchestras to learn how many thousands of the pupils, because of class lessons in music biography, in being told of the master creations of Bach, Handel, Gluck, Haydn, Mozart and others of the great composers, and by illustrating that all of them use the same grouping of intervals called chords, and that the building of other wonderful works have the same foundation chords as are taught in their classes and copied into their books—how many thousands of these pupils, we repeat, have taken up the study of harmony, of reading, of mastering some instrument or other, or have taken up vocal solo work and choir directing.

Should vocalists, here or elsewhere, find time to visit some of the advanced classes, they would have the pleasure of hearing a number of lovely soprano and alto voices—that have been "coached" not "trained," because they are too young for that—but voices of charming tone-quality that should be cared for immediately after leaving the high schools by those who are really voice teachers. Previous to the time of leaving school it is the province and privilege of the music teachers not only to discover and coach exceptional voices, but also, to impress all pupils with what music means to them in their daily lives, in their homes, in social circles, and in concerts. It is the time when such a question as "Do you think in music?" which was asked in good faith by a boy—can be discussed with good results. About two years ago this question was asked by the eminent French musician, Claude Debussy, in a Paris interview given to an interviewer for the New York Times—his reported words were, "How many persons really understand music? Of course, most people are fond of some form of it. I mean, they like to hear it, but how many think in music?" Significant words are these that may be of great assistance in pondering over, not only concerted selections, but also a simple melody that carries a sweet message to some one or other.

All along the line inside and outside of the public schools, there is need of showing to children what music as music in itself, apart from words, can do for them. A good melody in itself by its form and spirit, tells a story, and a very effective story sometimes. Words often will slip out of memory, but a melody remains to haunt us with its beauty and power. Horace Zimmerman relates an amusing anecdote of a little girl, which shows what teachers have to deal with once in a while; the story may be termed "I'm so full of words!"

"Elizabeth, just six, had been going to a kindergarten and enjoyed very much the motion songs taught there. She was enthusiastic at learning all the words, but one day she realized that try as she might, she could not make her voice harmonize with those of the other children. Thoroughly disheartened she ran home to her mother and with a sigh, said, 'Oh, mamma, I don't know what I shall do. I'm so full of words, but so empty of tune!"

In this column, once a month, it would be interesting and perhaps edifying, and by following the spirit of the old adage, "Charity begins at home," to note what school recitals, or short programs, and what the orchestras are doing, besides comments concerning the music rooms used, of the blackboards, or the need of them, a word about the pianos in use right here in Chicago, as well as in other places—all this and more provided the music teachers will kindly send to us brief accounts of their activities now and then.

———♯♯♯———

Christian College.—Christian College at Columbia, Mo., has sent out a catalog of rare beauty, and the showing made for the music department is a splendid one. The director of this department is Henry Stearns, well known in Chicago, and a new teacher in the vocal department is Frank Parker, who last year taught at the American Conservatory in Chicago.

HARRY R. MURRISON

Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Murrison, the baritone and accompanist, have returned to their work in Alliance, Ohio, where they are members of the faculty of Mount Union College Conservatory, after a delightful vacation of five weeks spent at their former home, Des Moines, Ia. where they visited their parents. The summer was divided between motoring over the excellent Iowa roads, preparing new programs and works for the coming season, and seeing and visiting "home" friends.

The season will be a busy one for Mr. and Mrs. Murrison, as a number of important engagements are already booked, with many others pending.

The following is from the Columbus, Ohio, "Sunday Dispatch:"

"In recital, Thursday afternoon, Harry R. Murrison, bass-baritone, and his wife, Mrs. Mabel F. Murrison, pianist, gave a very artistic joint recital. Mr. Murrison is the possessor of a big, dramatic voice with which he gets most gratifying results. Many of his interpretations show a strongly original turn of mind. His songs were well fortified and supported by the admirable accompaniments played by Mrs. Murrison." —(Advertisement.)

WEDNESDAY SALONS

The C. and F. concert course will be held at Hotel Kimball, New York, November 19, 1913; December 17, 1913; January 21, 1914, and February 18, 1914, presenting the following artists, whose fame and reputation in this country as well as Europe, are too well known to need special mention.

Mme. Gerville-Reache, contralto, of the Chicago-Philadelphia, Boston and National Opera Company of Canada, in a program of songs and operatic arias, assisted by Arthur Hackett, the young American tenor.

Alice Nielsen, soprano of the Metropolitan and Boston Opera Companies in an all-English program of songs, assisted by Charles Wakefield Cadman, the well-known American composer-pianist.

Edmond Clement, renowned French tenor of the Metropolitan, Chicago-Philadelphia and Boston Opera Companies, assisted by Marie Sundelius, lyric soprano, in a program of French chansons varied by Scandinavian folk songs

Yolando Mero, eminent Hungarian pianist, aided by Bonarios Grimson, English violinist in a program including a Sonata for violin and piano and a group of solos, assisted by Mabel Beddoe, the young Canadian mezzo-contralto.

The concerts will be given in the ballroom on the afternoon of the third Wednesday in each month, from three to five p. m. As a new and decidedly original feature, tea will be served at the close of each concert in the main dining room of the hotel. This latter, distinct from the concert itself, and purely social in its scope, offers a charming and unique combination of a social and musical afternoon in which the artist and his public have come into closer, more intimate touch than is otherwise possible.

Patronesses—Mrs. George Dwight Pratt Mrs. A. B. Wallace, Mrs. A. A. Packard Mrs. George M. Holbrook. Mrs. F. H. Wesson, Mrs. L. W. Besse, Mrs. Joseph Metcalf, Holyoke; Mrs. C. W. Johnson, Holyoke; Mrs. G. B. Holbrook, Mrs. Douglas Wesson, Mrs. Robert W. Day, Mrs. Frederick Harris, Mrs. W. G. Wheat, Mrs. George Savoy, Holyoke; Mrs. Henry Dike Sleeper, Northampton.

HARRY DETWEILER

Mr. Harry Detweiler, director of the Aurora Conservatory of Music and a member of the faculty of the Drake School of Music in Chicago has returned from a month spent at Winthrop Highlands, Mass., and reports an excellent vacation. Mr. Detweiler was so pleased with the possibilities of relaxation and study in Boston that he has already completed arrangements to spend next summer there also.

NEW YORK ORATORIO SOCIETY

The Oratorio Society of New York, Louis Koemmenich, conductor, announces this schedule for its forty-first season:

"Ruth," Georg Schumann (Op. 50), December 5.
"The Messiah," Handel (84th and 85th times), December 26 and 27.
"Mass in D," Beethoven (third time by the society), March 28.

A concert devoted to a cappella works is being planned for April 25. These will be the society's 227th to the 231st "regular" concerts.

Dahlstrom.—Miss Margaret Dahlstrom has returned from her trip to Europe during which she studied with Herr Linke in Copenhagen, visiting also Stockholm, Christiana and London. Returning to America and Chicago with Miss Dahlstrom was her sister, Miss Mildred Frohman, a lyric soprano, who has been studying for five years with Herr Linke in Copenhagen.

Downing.—Frederica Gerhardt Downing has returned to Chicago after an all-summer tour with the Chicago operatic quartet during which a large section of the west and south was covered. Mrs. Downing has resumed her position as contralto soloist at the First Methodist Church in Evanston.

North Shore.—The North Shore School of Music will present Miss Mary Ann Kaufman, soprano, with Alice Emmons-McBride at the piano, on next Monday evening at St. Simons Hall, Racine and Leland avenues.

EDITORIAL

(Continued from page 2.)

words which were sung were intelligible. This seems to indicate that the discussion concerning opera in English which has been carried on with a great deal of energy for several years has borne good fruit. It has left untouched the question whether the understanding of operatic English is always conducive to enjoyment.'

"The Tribune reviewer believes, however, that the season which has opened at the Century Theater will do more than prove that English is or is not the language in which operas in America should be sung. 'It will also demonstrate,' wrote Mr. Kreibiel, 'whether or not there is a large enough demand for opera at lower prices than those exacted at the Metropolitan Opera House to justify the existence of two operatic in-

The Musicians' Piano Tuner
Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty

639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161
Mrs. Else Harthan-Arendt
Concert, Oratorio and Recital
Core of MUSIC NEWS or 5742 CALUMET AV

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
4450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5156

The ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE
OF THE NEW AMERICAN SCHOOL OF VOCAL ART
(Founded by Anna Groff-Bryant.) Exclusively a Vocal School. Offering courses distinctively Cultural and Vocational. Instructions given in classes and private individual lessons. Ninth school year opened October 1, 1912. Send for booklet giving full particulars. Address THE ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE, 522 to 526 Fine Arts Building, Chicago.

ELLA C. BIGELOW
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
AKRON, OHIO

Grace Desmond
Pianist and Accompanist
4430 Vincennes Av. Phone Drexel 6846

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians
by Horace D. Hitchcock
A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original.
The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:
"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and lignified form."
For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cents Postpaid.

THE ALBERT TEACHER'S AGENCY
533 S. Wabash Av., Chicago, Ill. C. J. Albert, Mgr
Special department for Music Teachers. Good positions in Colleges, Conservatories, Normal Schools, Public Schools.
Address Music Department. Western Office, Spokane, Wash

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

Wm. Clare Hall
Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Elias Bredin
TENOR
NINTH FLOOR, AUDITORIUM BUILDING

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
304 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 1931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

HAZEL EVERINGHAM
Pianist Accompanist Teacher Ensemble
Address 1251 N. State St. REDPATH BUREAU

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
Special Summer Session—June to August
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Languages | The Berlitz School of Languages,
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

stitutions, one aristocratic on the basis of cost as well as artistic offering, one democratic in prices and performance.'

"The writer, asks, too, 'Is serious opera a really popular form of entertainment? Can it live without the help of fad and fashion?' 'We shall see,' said Mr. Krehbiel.

"The experiment of giving opera in English, which has been tried and retried many times in New York, Boston, Chicago and in other cities, will be tried again in Chicago this season at the popular performances of dramatic music which Mr. Campanini and his forces will give on Saturday evenings at the Auditorium. It is certain that a great many people who do not care particularly for the finer points of artistic enterprise, but who do care to know why this operatic puppet is about to spill the blood of an apparently harmless prima donna, or why the other has resolved to retire from existence on his own account, will rejoice exceedingly when the beautiful and ancient tongue consecrated by William Shakespeare is wafted to their ears.

"Whether it is in the highest degree advisable to banish French, German and Italian from the boards and to give opera only in English is a matter which can profitably be discussed by this department when the Chicago Opera Company brings about its performances in the vernacular next November. It is sufficient just now to affirm that the New York venture has begun well—so well that the upholders of its cause carry hope high within their hearts."

. . . . . .

Extremely interesting also, and illuminative as well, is the following comment of Mr. C. Gordon Wedertz in "Musical America:"

"In my experience with boy choir work and also with girl choirs I have met children of twelve and thirteen years who had never been taught the alphabet, did not know what vowels are and had never heard of consonants. They were of American parentage, too. Perhaps the worst enemy of English is careless pronunciation. This not only renders it impossible for the listener to understand but it seriously affects vocal resonance. Those who distinctly articulate their works reinforce their voices, which consequently carry further than they would otherwise. It is to vowel sounds and initial and terminal consonants that we should devote our chief attention. I have found that children learn more readily by imitation rather than by rule, and best results are obtained by those teachers who pronounce clearly themselves.

"Too little time is given to studying English in our public schools, and until the system is radically changed and a fuller comprehension gained of the importance of carefully studying the language, opera in the vernacular will not make much headway.

"Another serious fault found with average American singers is a lack of always understanding in their hearts what they sing with their lips, and they naturally fall into a habit of never connecting musical with verbal sense.

"We await with interest the efforts of the Aborns in their performances in the Century Opera House, New York, this coming season, and also the English performances of the Metropolitan and Chicago companies. They all serve as a stimulus for better English."

———♯♯♯———

A SMILE OR TWO—,

In one of the schools in the Ghetto district of Chicago a little girl changed her name during vacation from Irene to Ruth. When questioned by her teachers as to the reason, she said, "My mother got a set of false teeth in July and they don't fit, I guess—anyway, whenever she said 'Irene,' they fell out, so she made me change my name to Ruth."

♮ ♮ ♮

This is contributed by Arthur Frazer: "At mother's last Friday evening at home, I asked the crowd what they would like to hear me play, and one Mrs. Somebody, in a high, piercing voice, asked me if I played Beethoven's "Moonlight on the Sonata." I replied that I did not, but had often wanted to see it, whereupon she at once asked if I played Sinling's "To the Spring." When I told her that I did not play that either, but used to play "The Old Oaken Bucket," she screamed, "O, do!"

♮ ♮ ♮

As a rapid fire talker, a machine gun of wit and cannonade of denunciation Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is hard to beat. But there was one time when he met his match, and it was in the state of Indiana, where every man, woman and child becomes expert in politics before learning how to walk, and dies expressing regret at not being able to live until the next election.

The colonel was rushing along in the last presidential campaign with a fine demonstration that Woodrow Wilson was totally unfit for the white house.

"I don't like you!" a man on the outskirts of the crowd interrupted, rising to his feet and shaking his fist.

"You're a democrat, I suppose," said the colonel.

The man agreed that he was a democrat, and the speaker asked him why.

"Because," replied the disturbing element, "my great-grandfather, my grandfather and my father were democrats."

"My dear friend," said the colonel, with excellent sarcasm, "if your great-grandfather and your grandfather and your father had each been a fool, what would you be?"

"Sir," said the interrupter, "a bull mooser."—Popular Magazine.

♮ ♮ ♮

"Chicago is only a jay town after all," observed a New York visitor as he stopped at the corner of Dearborn and Monroe streets yesterday afternoon. He pointed to a crowd collected around a bit of equipment that had been put up to handle a large vault being moved into the First Trust and Savings bank. A blase Chicagoan lighted a cigaret and squinted casually at the workers.

"That's a clumsy way of handling that thing," continued the New Yorker after he had watched the labor a few minutes, "in New York we'd use a—"

"Oh, you don't understand," rejoined the Chicagoan, "we find this device very successful for attracting the jays who come here from other parts of the country."—The Tribune.

Books and Music

TWO NEW SONGS BY BINGHAM

Two little gems from the pen of Helena Bingham are "How I Love Thee" (words adapted from the German) and "A Ladder of Clover Bloom," a little fairy story, with words and music both by Miss Bingham.

The first of these is scored for low voice and is written in slow waltz movement. The accompaniment joins with a lovely melody line in completely expressing the sentiment of very beautiful text.

The second song is written both for high and for low voice and its title page is embellished by a very pretty picture of Miss Ferol Onnolee Leggette, a young soprano to whom the song is dedicated. In six-eight metre and with an infectiously alluring swing this little song is certain to make friends for Miss Bingham wherever it is heard.

♮ ♮ ♮

A March by Mrs. White

Mrs. Lida Browning White of Gary, Ind., has written an attractive piano piece which she has dedicated to Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris and which is entitled "The Wolverine State March." It is published by the Crescent Publishing Company of Gary.

♮ ♮ ♮

Compositions by Fallberg

The list of works by Carl Fallberg now published by the Clayton F. Summy Company includes eight, the titles being: "Album Leaf," "Intermezzo," "Etude," "Prelude and Fugue," "Serenade Trieste," "Spring," "Serenade Orientale" and "Autumn."

All of these pieces show a fine knowledge of pianistic possibilities and the harmonic treatment of each theme is of a character to prove that Fallberg is modern while at the same time he follows those rules which make for ready pleasure to the listener.

His melody lines are attractive always and the teaching value of his pieces is very great, having back of it the fine experience gained by many years in the teacher's studio.

♮ ♮ ♮

Songs from Ditson

A new edition of many old opera songs includes "Casta Diva" (Norma), "Vi ravviso" (La Sonnambula) and the "Ariosa" from Bemberg's "La Mort de Jeanne D'Arc."

The Mary Turner Salter songs in the Ditson list comprise "Blossom Time," "Contentment," "Good Night," "In Some Sad Hour," "Little Boy, Good Night," "Love of an Hour," "Memories," "My Lady," "A Rain Song," "Serenity," "She Is a Winsome Wee Thing," "Sleep, Little Lady," "A Water Lily" and "The Willow."

"Wilt Thou Not Revive Us Again," a fine new sacred song by Alfred Robyn and "Spinning Song," a most attractive arrangement of a German folk song by Heinrich Reimann.

♮ ♮ ♮

Brahms' Piano Works

The "Ballades," "Hungarian Dances," "Rhapsodies," "Waltzes" and various other shorter works of Brahms have been carefully edited by Rafael Joseffy and John Orth and put out in a very handsome edition by Oliver Ditson & Co. of Boston.

♮ ♮ ♮

Violin Works by Pilzer

Carl Fischer, New York, has just issued two violin pieces of very great worth and unusual charm from the pen of Maximilian Pilzer. One of these is a "Love Song" of simple form but deeply impassioned mood and the other is a "Caprice Waltz" which bristles with brilliance and is technically quite difficult while at the same time the form and content are of perfectly understandable charm. The piano accompaniments are well written and wholly in keeping with the melody lines.

Songs by J. Henry Francis

The Kanawha Music Co. of Charleston has published two short songs by J. Henry Francis which are well worth a place in the repertoire of every singer—both of them being written in keys suitable to either high voice or low voice.

The verses, as well as the music are by Francis and while the former are thoroughly expressive and fine when read alone, the composer has succeeded in amplifying and reinforcing their charm a hundred fold in the fine melodies with which he has clothed them.

♮ ♮ ♮

Wilbur Hascall

The C. W. Thompson Co., of Boston have added to their list of sacred solos three new works by Wilbur Hascall these being "At Eve It Shall Be Light" for low voice, "The Flight of the Arrow" for high or medium voice and "He that Dwelleth" for high or medium voice.

Mr. Hascall's fine feeling for religious

COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
NINTH FLOOR—AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO, ILL. MRS. W. S. BRACKEN, President
Offers exceptional advantages in all departments. We call attention this week to the well known names in our piano department; Mr. Henry P. Eames, Director; Miss Jeanette Durno; Miss Marie Sebada, Mr. Geo. G. Lewis, Dr. W. Waugh Lauder, Mrs. Katherine Howard-Ward, Mr. Clarence Eidam, Mrs. Mabel Webster Osmer, Miss Henriette Weber, Mrs. Chas. Orchard, Miss Marie Edwards, Miss May D. Laukart, Miss Vivian Scott, Miss Adela Laue, Miss Vera Brady, Mr. Guy A. La Belle, Miss Dorothy Pelck, Miss Marguerite Dresser.

Bertha Beeman — Contralto - Teacher of Voice — Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

H. W. OWENS, MUS. B. — VOICE BUILDER COACHING — PUPILS PREPARED FOR CHURCH POSITIONS, CONCERTS, ORATORIO — Monday and Saturday—Maller's Bldg., Madison & Wabash — Studio Telephone Harrison 4573 — CHICAGO — Friday—2112 Washington Boulevard

Peoria Musical College — 102-104 North Madison Avenue — PEORIA, ILLINOIS — Opens September 11 — Strong Faculty — Excellent Equipment — For Catalog Address — FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

Mrs. Stacey Williams — ARTISTIC SINGING — Specialization of Tone Production — 406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT — Basso-Cantante — ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr. — Concert Organist — Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE — PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH — NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley — Contralto — EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON — 609 FINE ARTS BUILDING — PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS — Contralto — Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago — HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 — STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker — TENOR — Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson — 1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill. — Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN — ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST — 6217 MONROE AVENUE — Phone Midway 930

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago
SCHOOL OF MUSIC

A University Professional School, for the comprehensive study of practical and theoretical music, either as a profession or as an element of culture. Located upon the shore of Lake Michigan in Chicago's most attractive suburb.

I. Course in Applied Music, leading to the Degree of Graduate in Music.
II. Course in Theory and History of Music, leading to the Degree of Bachelor of Music.
III. Post-Graduate Course.
IV. Literary-Musical Course.
V. Course in Public School Music Methods.
VI. Normal Course in Piano Methods.

Course I., II. and V. include literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Academy without extra expense.

A thorough Preparatory Department is maintained.

The environment and social advantages most excellent.

Faculty of 25. Send for detailed descriptions of courses and book of Evanston views.

P. C. LUTKIN, Dean, Evanston, Ill.

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN
SOPRANO
Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital
429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

FREDK J. PERSSON PIANIST ACCOMPANIST
1921 Wolfram St.

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL. CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
Teacher of Singing
309 KIMBALL HALL
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Regina De Sales
TEACHER OF SINGING
PUPILS PREPARED OPERA, ORATORIO, CONCERT
Rue de Villejus (Bois de Boulogne), Paris
Paris Studio Open All Summer.

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON

text, so often in evidence in the past, has not forsaken him in the case of these three songs, each of which is imbued with sincerity and fine religious thought.

"Sae we'll Bide a Wee" is an addition to the list of Scotch songs by Mr. Hascall, and it is also a charming piece of work, while the organ solo, "Idylle" (also published by Thompson) is well worth a place on any church program, either as offertory or short prelude.

♮ ♮ ♮

Some New Hymns

Twenty-two hymns have been set to music by Franklin Hopkins and brought to the attention of the public in pamphlet form by the H. W. Gray Company of New York. These are very musicianly and thoroughly interesting and ought to find a place in those Sunday schools and church classes where the too tenuous gospel hymn has become a drag—if there are any such instances.

♮ ♮ ♮

Our Country for All

This is the title of a short Thanksgiving cantata by Bruno Huhn which is not of great difficulty and quite within the reach of any ordinary chorus choir. It is endorsed by the Missionary Education Movement and its use is recommended by them as helpful in the upbuilding of the missionary spirit in churches.

———♯♯♯———

INDIANAPOLIS ORCHESTRA

The Indianapolis Orchestra, which for several seasons has been giving Sunday afternoon concerts at the Murat Theater, is to be strengthened in personnel the coming season and well known concert singers from outside the city will be added to the programs of the eight concerts to be given. Among the singers already engaged are Margaret Berry Miller, soprano; Alma Beck, contralto; Marion Green, baritone, and Kirk Towns, baritone.

The policy of very low prices will be continued and the fee for season tickets for the eight concerts will be two dollars as heretofore. The accruing deficits are being covered by a group of public-spirited men and women, who are glad to make up these deficits if the public will do its share in supporting the concerts.

♮ ♮ ♮

Views of Wallace Goodrich

Persons who have been active in maintaining the Indianapolis Orchestra have taken much interest in a recent magazine article by Wallace Goodrich, dean of the New England Conservatory of Music, one of the best known conductors and pedagogues in the country. They feel that Mr. Goodrich gives expression to many of their own thoughts when he makes a plea for more orchestras, more opera companies and more and better band concerts for the people of this country. Let the people pay for their concerts wherever practicable, Mr. Goodrich says, even though it be at a small fee, for this places the public and music on better terms with themselves and with each other and still does not commercialize the art.

The influence of a permanent local organization, Mr. Goodrich holds, is far more telling than that of a metropolitan organization which pays an annual visit. The fact that it belongs to its community with the natural pride in its ownership makes for a mutual exchange of benefits. Mr. Goodrich says that the great fortunes of America and the elaborate scale upon which art has been served by means of this wealth have had a dazzling and blinding effect on a part of the public and even affects its artistic judgment. In their just admiration of individuals and organizations of artistic preeminence many often fail to take into account the process of education and evolution which has been hidden from the eyes.

♮ ♮ ♮

Strengthening the Foundations

Our country, Mr. Goodrich says, is now strengthening the foundations upon which its great orchestras and opera companies must invariably rest if their permanence in public support is to be assured; that is, the accessibility of good music to the public at large. He rejoices at the number of orchestras being started in various parts of the country, and especially at those organizing to give good programs at popular prices.

Friends of the Indianapolis Orchestra point out that it is a co-operative effort with these objects in view. The attendance was good throughout last season, and it is expected to be even better with the added attractions the coming season.—Indianapolis News.

———♯♯♯———

MUSIC IN THE HOME

Musical students are made up to a large extent of the fair sex, and as I listened to the numerous recitals and concerts at the close of the last season, I could not help wondering what became of the endless succession of budding and graduate performers. How is it that one rarely hears them sing or play when their student days are over? Of course, a large number marry, and then one hears the oft repeated remark, "Oh I never have time to attend to my music; household cares take up all my time," and so on. Yes, but do they? You find time to read the latest novel, to go for a run in your motorcar, or to attend the theaters. One hears so much of the breaking up of the home life nowadays, and of the feverish rush after amusement, while the simpler home pleasures that were good enough for the older generation are overlooked. Do you know—I address the ladies here—that there is nothing the average man likes better than to listen to music after a hard day's work, and, if you can give him something better, he won't demand ragtime and the latest popular airs to the exclusion of all else. Why not try it?

Now for the young student. Will you not try to cultivate a taste for the best music—the music of the old and present day masters—this season? Don't condemn it offhand as "dry-as-dust;" find out first of all (your teacher will be only too glad to show you) why it is that it lives on from year to year, ever growing greener and fresher in the hearts of those who have learned to discern the gold from the tinsel, and then ask yourself why the music that you perhaps think so pretty sinks into oblivion after a few years' popularity. There must be some reason for it.—Victor in Joliet (Ill.) Herald.

The Elderly Person

The summer books on the porch table have been numerous, and for the most part well worth while. The spring was fruitful in its issuance of things of value. The Elderly Person felt quite satisfied with his gleanings among them. We are really in the midst of much fine creative power. There is no really great one among the many writers. Perhaps he or she is there in the midst of the host, but as yet without control of the divine spark possessed.

May Sinclair's "Combined Maze" easily reaches the high plane she obtained in her first book, "The Divine Fire." She found herself unequal to the heights of the latter for some time after it had won a wide hearing, by reason of its intense grasp, and deft handling of a delicate subject. After that book the sombre tones of her palette were called on too continuously, and an atmosphere of helplessness crowded into her pages. This is entirely missing in "The Combined Maze." It is aboundingly sanguine amid all the seriousness in which her characters are engulfed. She can devise the deepest sort of difficulties in which to ambush the unfortunates, but this time she succeeds in keeping a cheerful air circulating. One can thus surrender to her unquestioned ability to tell a capital story capitally. The Elderly Person confesses to still enjoying the idea which formerly dominated all English fiction: that if one did wrong he or she must suffer a punishment. Justice and honesty demanded that this stand out as a moral not to be trifled with. In the Sinclair book it obtains without question, even though it work hardship upon those most worthy.

"The Happy Warrior," by the much initialed Mr. Hutchinson was a surprise of the first water. It is such a fine story that one should not hesitate to recommend it. Yet this is always unsafe. Tastes will differ and there is so much of the "common" in this tale about a hero who had to gain some of his laurels as a boxer in a traveling circus, that it might offend delicate nostrils and ears. But it is engagingly alive, and there is a friendship between two men which should touch the sympathetic chord in every manly make-up. It is English to its finger tips, but fairly tingles with fine spirit and alertness. Once more the inevitability of wrong doing bears its penalty. And once more the sorrows appear to bear most seriously upon those not to blame for the sins of the fathers. The interest is sustained engrossingly to the last page. One lays down the book gratefully, because there is no glossing, useless, endeavor to create a "happy ending." Any other outcome would have been confessed weakness. As it is, the gates do not seem closed upon the "Happy Warrior," but he is the rather admitted to the higher fellowship of those who knew how to suffer and be strong. The style is virile, and the movement rapid enough for the most advanced twentieth century reader. One wants to keep tab on Mr. Hutchinson's future offerings.

And Jeffrey Farnol's "Amateur Gentleman" is quite a worthy comrade to the nobleman who was leading man in "The Broad Highway." There is the same light touch and geniality of thought and expression, and much of the quaintness of the first book. It would not be quite possible, however, to find just now, any two characters who would compare with the blacksmith "Garge," and the "Ancient," who made the "Broad Highway" so memorable. The testy Admiral and his faithful man Friday give us a little glimpse of the same sort. And "Barty" and "Natty Bell," the ex-prize fighters, the former with his enevitable "An' there y' are," are drawn to the life and their long talks bristle with clever speeches. The villains are very black, the heroine very fair, very haughty and very lovable, as befits one called the Lady Cleone. It is a luxurious book, in that one reads it lingeringly, without any desire to reach the end or to know "how it comes out." Because one knows it will have a "happy ending," and present enjoyment need not anticipate the greater one.

"The Winning of Barbara Worth" lay about conveniently, and so the Elderly Person went through the famous "best seller" of a million editions, more or less. The ex-minister, Mr. Wright, quite knows how to gather incidents, and to select unusual characters. And the book has the decided merit of being very American in a healthy way. For diversion it may be regarded as "not half bad." It has a real value as a stepping stone to something better. We shall see what sort of a play it makes.

The marvelous moving picture story of "Jean Valjean," so delighted the Elderly Person that he saw them on four occasions. Between times he took many enjoyable dips into the Hugo masterpiece. And as he reread it he wondered, as we all do at such times, why we read new things when the old are so much better. Presumably we cannot remain in rare atmosphere too long without danger to our physical selves. That's why we read "Barbara Worth" and "V. V.'s Eyes," the last a most atrocious name for a very good narrative, by the author of "Queed." It is more than a little over wrought. Still the tone is excellent. Self-surrender and self-sacrifice are beautified, and take their place again in fiction as worthy emulation.

The Brieux "Plays"—they are terrible. One questions whether the man was honest with himself when he wrote them. They are published as great human documents of warning. But they read, and it goes without saying, that they will be acted, so as to accent the sensuality and the moral lesson will not be taught. Everyone is perplexed at the present wave of immorality saturating all the avenues of living. Of course, the deplorable thing is that these lessons have to be learned. They have not been taught in homes and schools, and so have been badly learned. Now the penalty has come. The Elderly Person feels sure

Valparaiso Music College
Department of
Valparaiso University
Second Largest University in the United States
VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks. This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President
OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER
SOLO VIOLINIST
Welsh International Festival
MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE
SOPRANO
Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils
5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN
PIANIST
8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE
CONTRALTO
Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL
TEACHER OF SINGING
STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON
BASSO-CANTANTE
Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency
416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496
Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers
VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION
METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE
Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL
The Art of Singing
81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday
Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD LOEBER
VIOLINIST
TEACHER
RECITALS
Musicales
3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA WAIT
Contralto
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

REPRESENTATIVES FOR MUSIC NEWS

The following is an additional accredited list of representatives of Music News. Subscriptions or advertisements m ay be negotiated with them and copies may be ob tained or ordered

Jacksonville, Fla.—C. J. Bollinger, 306 Main street.
Muskegon, Mich.—Joseph Schilling, 89 W. Clay street.
Little Rock, Ark.—Mrs. Jones, Little Rock Conservatory.
Sioux City, Ia.—Blanche R. McCutchen.
Grand Forks, N. D.—Jennie Anderson, Wesley Conservatory.
Yankton, S. D.—Annie Tennent, Yankton College.
St. Paul. Neb.—Sarah I. M. Connell.
North Carolina—F. W. Kraft, Greenboro, N. C.
Topeka, Kas.—W. D. Boughton.
Erie, Pa.—Ione Phipps, 933 Buffalo road.
Lima, Ohio.—R. A. Shappell, 65½ Public square.
Boise, Idaho.—Arthur E. Wesbrook, 1404 Heys street.
Demorest, Ga.—Miss Mary C. Reynolds.
East Liverpool, Ohio—J. S. Noah, 1113 St. George street.
York, Pa.—Roman Shuman, 456 Princess street.
Streator, Ill.—Raymond Burkholder.
Syracuse, N. Y.—Zeno Nagel, Syracuse University.
Batavia. Ill.—Martin J. McCullough, 80 E. Wilson st.
Chattanooga, Tenn.—Carl Fallberg.
Springfield—Mary Tiffany-Hudson, Springfield Conservatory.
Neodesha, Kas.—E. H. Merkle, Box 372.
Charlotte, N. C.—W. S. Huggins, P. O. Box 137.
Marion, Ind.—Allen Spurr Music Co., Lock Box 156.
Cedar Falls, Ia.—Mrs. D. N. Hurd.
Decatur, Ill.—Angela Loos-Tooker, Suffern Building.
Carbondale, Ill.—Ellouise Sheppard.
Quincy, Ill.—Ella M. Jaques, 435 Ninth street.
New Orleans, La.—Miss Mitchell, Book Shop, The Grunewald Hotel.
North Carolina.—F. W. Kraft, Greenboro, N. C.
Springfield, Ohio.—E. W. Olds, The Magazine Han.
Freeport, Ill.—Flora Mayer, 118 Galena St.
Hillsboro, Ill., The Hillsboro Journal.
South Bend, Ind.—South Bend Conservatory.
Phoenix, Ariz.—C. R. Neutzel, Arizona School of Music.
Keokuk, Ia.—Mrs. E. B Summers.
Joplin, Mo.—Mary Bingham, 812 Wall street.
Burlington, Ia.—Ralph S. Perkins, 859 High street.

DESTINY A Striking New Song By Jane Ogden Hunter
For Sale by all Music Dealers, or address
The Publisher, K F. HUNTER. 2722 N. Sacramento Av.

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

Hazel Dell Neff
SOPRANO
PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN
PIANIST TEACHER
NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and
4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.
COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing
Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin
Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LESTER S. BUTLER
Voice, Harmony, Counterpoint
SPECIAL WRITER: CRITIC
Editors and others wishing articles on musical topics, gladly served.
Boston, Mass. Steinert Hall
Worcester, Mass. Day Building

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
441 Sidney Av., CHICAGO Phone Drexel 7910

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - Baritone NEWMAN
Joint Recitals Oratorio
7 North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

of a safe solution, but in the meantime is glad he has no children to "bring up," as Mrs. Ruggles would say.

Gilbert Parker is just as uneven as he was when "The Trespasser" sent a thrill of bigness abroad twenty or more years ago. That book indicated such a strength of promise, that it bade one hope for great things when the wings had acquired ability to go farther. But the flight never came, and the Elderly Person abandoned him after the "Right-of-Way." The new book, "The Judgment House," has a new field—South Africa, and some of the touches and moments are full of splendor. But the man seems to have no sense of proportion—to have no defined course. Pages of endless effort to knit things together weary the reader looking eagerly for something promised by the surroundings, and never found. The best thing preserved from the reading is the bit where one character says he can tell from the sound of leaves blowing what tree is near by. The size and shape give each tree its own tone when its leaves rustle. That's fine.

"Pity the Poor Blind" by H. H. Bashford, is as delicious in its design in the earlier chapters, as are those irresistible books of Arnold Bennett "Great Name" and "Denby." The pen pictures are vivid, and the style so easy and inviting that the mind runs along with delighted anticipation. But the people! Are they the English folk of past generations, or a barnacled growth hanging on to the noble country from which great things have come? Immorality, untruthfulness, irreligion, hypocrisy, self-seeking, recklessness, greed, sordidness—these are all laid out in bare hideousness as the normal conditions. The prudish young ladies of June Austen and Charlotte Bronte—what would they say to their English sisters of today, if this book's portrayal be true? And yet out of all the ugliness blooms a tiny flower of hope. For the sturdy avenging of wrong doing follows fast on the heels of the wrongs themselves, and the truth of punishment for offence is enforced. The people are just ready to begin living when the book closes.

A wonderful volume is that nature study by the Italian, Favre, "The Life of a Spider." It is a real comrade for Maeterlinck's "Life of the Bee." Unfortunately many of his spiders are those tropical tarantulas and their brothers. But while one knows he is not likely to see them, he submits to the book's unusual spell. The Elderly Person doesn't dare to say more of it. If he once began quotation, there would be room for nothing else.

John Forster is remembered so largely because of his monumental "Life of Dickens," that it is well to be reminded that he was not a man of one book. And, too, that he was not a Boswell, following up his chief to the exclusion of all other friendships. Forster, Browning and Dickens were all born the same years—1812—and as a centenary offering R. Renton issued a book of excellent reminiscence, "John Forster and his Friendships." He had plenty of material to work with, for Forster linked such lives as Charles Lamb and people who are yet living. But Mr. Renton was surely a poor relation of Forster's, and Forster was a patrician of the patricians. Therefore there is a subserviency, a deference in the writing that makes it stiff. Reminiscence requires garrulousness. The best things are the pictures, and they are so many that one can almost read the book by them. The fascinating Maclise portrait of Dickens is adorable—such a poetic conception even though it has an effeminacy that the fashions of the period accentuate. And Browning in his youth, with an esthetic beard, and Barry Cornwall, and Miss Landon ("L. E. L.") and youthful pictures of Jane and Thomas Carlyle and Tennyson, add abiding charm. The best thing preserved is Renton's comment on Carlyle, wherein he says that many people judge a book by its cover. It is only when the leaves are read that we obtain knowledge of the book itself.

Naturally this book suggested the great "Life" itself, and the Elderly Person has revelled in the three bulky volumes, each one more engrossing than the other. It was a species of bliss to read them for the first time when maturity was on the throne. Naturally there is nothing new to be said in comment. But, reading now of the last visit to America, and the excitement following the famous "Readings," the thrill which belonged to the young chap of 1867 is felt anew. Every Dickens lover was happy, when two years later "Edwin Drood" was announced. It was being followed enthusiastically when that 9th of June, 1870, clouded the sky. The Elderly Person has never forgotten the personal sadness and distress. It was a sunshiny day when the news came, but somehow that seemed of no value. The little groups who loved Dickens talked with moistened eyes. People who did not live in those days cannot understand how the man was revered. There was something so personal in his outgiving that he made the whole world his friend. At least he tried to, and blessed were those who responded. To them he was unique. Unvoiced, perhaps, but nevertheless sure, was the feeling, that we never should know his like again. And we haven't. THE ELDERLY PERSON.

———###———

Phoenix.—The Arizona School of Music opened its tenth year at Phoenix, Ariz., on September 15, under the direction of Mrs. Shirley Christy and with an exceptionally strong faculty.

HOW TO BECOME A CONDUCTOR

By ALFRED SZENDREI

There are in every country schools for teaching every conceivable trade or profession, from bricklaying to oil painting, from mining to operatic singing, but, curiously enough, conducting is not taught anywhere in the world. Where then do conductors come from? Nikisch used to play the violin at the Vienna Opera House; Richter played first horn and was considered a virtuoso on that instrument; Toscanini was a 'cellist and so was Lohse, who is now conducting the Leipsig Opera; Frederick Stock and Oscar Nedbal played the viola. This is the answer: The orchestra is the school from which conductors graduate and it is the best one at that.

The young musician who with only a theoretical knowledge of scores takes the baton and attempts to conduct is a sorry sight. However, perfect his musical education may be he will ever remain an outsider. He will never "feel" a score, symphony or opera, as does the man who sat in the orchestra night after night and was an actual part of the performance.

Personally I acquired my training under very fortunate circumstances. At the age of thirteen I was engaged by the conservatory orchestra of Buda Pest as a cymbal player. A cymbal player has very little to do; while the strings and winds were working almost continuously I could listen to every note, survey the whole orchestra and watch carefully every gesture of our conductor. After five years of that training I knew "from the inside" every piece of orchestral music that had ever been written.

While I learned a great deal of conducting at the Cologne Opera House, my first position as a conductor, it was in the orchestra pit cymbals in hand that I acquired the practical knowledge which was to prove to me most useful. When I stood for the first time holding the conductor's baton I felt as though I had merely changed places with one of the players. I was not self conscious; I had no fear of losing control of the orchestral masses I was called upon to lead. The mysterious pantomime which establishes a strong bond between all the members of the orchestra came as naturally to me as a series of reflexes.

I would not advise the young musician who is planning to take up the career of a conductor to try his hand first at conducting a small band. He should secure a position with a good orchestra or with several good orchestras so as to familiarize himself with a multitude of scores, operatic and symphonic. Then only would he acquire that feeling of absolute "oneness" which alone enables leader and orchestra to render every musical composition as a beautiful unit not as patch work.

———♯♯♯———

BURTON HOLMES LECTURES

The Burton Holmes "Travelogues" will begin at Orchestra Hall on October 15, and continue for one month, the subjects treated this year by the popular lecturer being Manila, Luzon, the Philippines, China and Japan.

———♯♯♯———

Cowan.—Mr. Phelps Cowan was accompanist at a musicale given at the residence of Mrs. Arthur Aldis last week, the singer of the occasion being Mrs. Holstman.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5527 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9155)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 56 Rue de Seine
EVERINGHAM Hazel (Tel. North 3765) 1251 N. State St.
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
GALLUP Helen (Phone Austin 11713) Chicago Piano College
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 5171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4788) 520 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.

DRAMATIC ART

PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 3761)
EMANUEL N. B. (auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO Charles E. Watt, Mgr Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boisievant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir), 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av.
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arbuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3855 Flournoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 267 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. 34 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 544 Woodland Park (6th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps (Phone Midway 930) 6217 Monroe Av.
DEAL Alice R. 715 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6210) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4388) 624 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6607) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo, Milwaukee, Wis. 179 Pleasant St.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2868) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (61 Schiller St.) Pianist, Organist, Accompanist
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra, Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4451 North Winchester Av.

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BARTHOLOMEW H. B. 502 Kimball Hall
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 36 S. Maple Street
BIRDFALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4635) 2315 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Stewart 2519) 6415 Sangamon Street.
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Milwaukee, Wis.) 558 Jefferson St.
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5085) 8555 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenn
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 338 N. Ashland Avenne
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 54 Auditorinn (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3855 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Pianist—Teacher) 4009 Drexel Boulevard
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DESMOND Grace (Accompanist) 4430 Vincennes Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 523 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio

ERST Stephen Adolph 1553 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H. Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.
FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season. 2608 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Studio, 1527 High St.
FOERSTER Anton 1024 Lawrence Ave
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearborn 6032) 874 Cass St.
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236) Organist, 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur Columbia School of Music
GODFREY Eleanor F. Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music Northwestern University School of Music
HEAPHY Alice Christine (Boston, Mass.) Worcester, Mass.—Day Building
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7045) 426 Fine Arts Building
HERSHENOW Dora (South Bend, Ind.) South Bend Conservatory
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals) 3350 North Halsted St.
LERNER Tina (New York Loudon Charlton, Manager
LEVY Henlot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence American Conservatory
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Lonis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich.
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (University School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (Jamestown, N. Y.) Hill Piano School
OLIVER Mary Lindsay Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 415 W. 51st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 357 W. 63rd St
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288) 1521 Wolfram St.
PETERSON Edna Gunnar 519 Fine Arts Bldg
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope 707 Fine Arts Bldg.
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766 620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res, 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5529
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Lyttersey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.) 11 South 20th Av., East
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow 4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420) American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W (Phone Midway 5715) 5528 Woodlawn Av.
STOUT Lilian Mary 429 Fine Arts Bldg.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V (512 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs Peoria, Ill.
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 274-J Berwyn) 516 Kimball Hall
von MICKWITZ Harold Bush Temple Conservatory
WALLACE Evangeline 522 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H. Chicago Piano Colle
WILFORD J. E. 502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L. 1516 Maller's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Colo (2226 Williams St.
ZEISLER Fannie Bloomfield 6740 Woodlawn Ave

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Louisville, Ky. Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son 820 Fine Arts Bldg.
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver Boston, Mass
DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8186) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House 528 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro., New York 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co. 67 E. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. 6119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co. 522 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G. Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 54 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co. A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. Publishers 235 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2151) 639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music
ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1871) American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av,
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music 59 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 509 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music 51 Auditorium Bldg
DERDIGER (Spicker) E. J., Vocal and Piano 600 Kimball Hall
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianaforte School Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2631 Washington Boulevard
KROEGER School of Music (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music) 629 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir.) 309 Kimball Hall.
Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music Evanston, Ill.
OAK PARK CONS. Music and Dramatic Art Warrington Bldg.
OSTROVSKY Institute. Hand Development 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art 55 Auditorium Bldg.
TOLEDO Musical College Toledo, Ohio
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance 42 W. 76th St., New York
VILIM American Violin School 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1515 Mallers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art. 29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 86th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

ALBERT Teachers Agency 633 S. Wabash Av.
BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency
ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S. Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C. Evanston, Ill.

THEORY

ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 716 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A. (North Shore School of Music) 4666 Evanston Av. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone North 815) Studio, 226 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Lndwig Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Douglas 9194 Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Ravenswood 141) 1952 Leland Avenue
CLEOPHAS Cornelia Studying Abroad
COHEN Sol (Cincinnati Orchestra) 628 Lincoln Ave, (Avondale) Cincinnati
DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.) North Shore School of Music
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall
DRAKE Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.
EVANS Clarence B. (San Francisco 1549 Octavia St.
FISCHEL Max I. 510 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst) 105 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 425 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4355) 4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Manrice H. Chicago Musical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KITCHIN Joseph 5416 Jackson Av.
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517) 3533 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago Branch, Kankakee, Illinois
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nussbaum School of Music) 4654 Grand Boul.
PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York.
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 530 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island) Vilim, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston 1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music
STEINDEL Albin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1326 Birchwood Av.
TOWNSEND Winifred 411 Kimball Hall.
VAN AIKEN Hal G. Soloist and Principal, Violin Dept., So. Bend (Ind.) Conservatory
WALKER Sadie (Phone Belmont 4534) Cosmopolitan School of Music
WOODARD Guy Bush Temple
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis) 22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Street

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory 606 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.) 54 Auditorium Bldg
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert (Phone Hyde Park 5760 6365 Ingleside Avenue
BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 419 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.
BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005) 303 Kimball Hall
BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.) Northwestern University School of Music
BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist) 6119 Greenwood Ave.

BISPHAM David
44 W. 44th St., New York

BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg.
Drake School of Music

BOGERT Walter L. (Baritone) Pres. N.Y.S.M.T.A.
Aeolian Hall, New York City

BOLLMAN Mande Fenlon
Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.

BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York)
Care Haensel and Jones

BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 6819)
Kimball Hall

BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8520)
4822 Madison Ave.

BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium)
Cosmopolitan School of Music

BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor)
1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.

BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2269
Northwestern Uni. School of Music

BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3885)
(Harry Culbertson, Manager)

BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio)
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music

BRUEGGER Frederick
720 Fine Arts Bldg.

BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth)
7022 Vernon Av.

BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041)
727 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.)
Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau

BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone)
609 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURTON Louise. (Phone Drexel 8183)
520 Fine Arts Building

Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass.
413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.

BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 5485)
512 Fine Arts Building

CASE Harriet
Auditorium Bldg.

CHEATHAM Kitty (New York)
274 Madison Avenue

CHENEY Mary (New York)
500 Carnegie Hall

CHILSON-OHRMAN Luella. (Soprano)
4603 Sheridan Road

CLARK Charles W. (Paris)
12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.

CLARKE Edw. 613 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831)
Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)

CLARK Lizzie Abbott
Res. 5498 Cornell Av. (Phone Hyde Park 6971)

CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Pbone Drexel 1152
Sherwood Music School

CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone)
Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11

CLIPPINGER D. A.
410 Kimball Hall

CONANT Alice Widney (Soprano)
University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.

CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher)
721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495

COOK Dwight Edrus (Tel. Oak Park 2091)
120 N. Oak Park Ave., Oak Park, Ill.

COOK John Loring (Tenor)
300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 5156)

CORLEW Mabel (Contralto)
4202 Prairie Ave. (Phone Harrison 973)

COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France)
6 rue Edmond About

CRAMER Alice Ione Phone Drexel 7009)
508 E. 46th Place

CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor)
234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)

DAHLSTROM Margaret
3242 Clifton Ave.

DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977)
608 Fine Arts Bldg.

Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique
30 Rue Marbeuf, Champs Elysees, Paris

DE SALES Regina (Paris, France)
40 rue de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)

DeYOUNG Richard B.
American Conservatory

DEVRIES Herman
618-628 Fine Arts Building

DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Pbone Oak Park 1478)
815 S. Harvey Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310
710 South Central Park Avenue

FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio)
H. B. Turpin, Manager

FARNUM Mrs. Frank
3369 Warren Ave.

FARRELL Joseph (Kansas City)
201 Studio Building.

FICHTNER Ludwig Carl (Basso-Cantante)
149 Tremont St., Boston

FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Longwood 408)
9648 Howard Court

FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg
5906 Ontario St. (Contralto)

FRIDENBERG Abbie L. (New York)
Studio 110 Carnegie Hall

FRISBIE Constance (Soprano)
5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)

GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782)
318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.

GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886)
3435 Flournoy St.

GARTON Samuel B. (Home Phone Ravenswood 5392)
323 South Wabash Av.

GARRETT A. Howard. (Baritone)
413 Kimball Hall

GIBBS Mary Crofut Res. Pbone—Longwood 1633)
404 Kimball Hall

GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone)
1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.

GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend, Ind. Conservatory)
Chicago Address, 522 Kimball Hall

GROW Ethel (Phone North 2635)
1002 Dearborn Av.

GROFF-BRYANT Anna. (Institute of Vocal Art)
623 Fine Arts Bldg

HADLEY Grant (Tenor)
Suite 73 Auditorium Building

HAGGERTY-SNELL Ida (Pbone Morningside 3810)
2881 Broadway, N. Y. City

HAIGHT Irma (Detroit, Mich.)
9-5 Third Avenue

HALL William John (St. Louis)
Musical Art Building

HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497)
423 Fine Arts Bldg.

HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher)
72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.

HAMILTON Jessie Mack, (Pbone Ravenswood 325)
714 Kimball

HARRIS Milon R.
403 Kimball Hall

HART Belle
608 Kimball Hall

HARTLEY Sybil Owen, (Atlanta)
999 Piedmont Av.

HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Recital, oratorio and opera) care of Music News

HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.)
Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)

HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Building

HERDIEN Mabel Sharp
6132 Kenmore Ave.

HEUCHLING Mathilde
712 Fine Arts Building

HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923)
Chicago Musical College

HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano)
1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel. Grac. 1733)

HINKLE Florence (Soprano)
294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)

HINSHAW William Wade (New York)
Metropolitan Opera Company

HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003)
6th Floor, Kimball Hall

HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson)
304 Kimball Hall

HOLT GeorgeNelson
509 S. Wabash Ave.

HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano)
3800 Broadway, New York

HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 13737)
5836 Washington Blvd.

HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Pbone Douglas 2544)
Auditorium Bldg.

Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland)
Tudor Mansions, 3615 Pine Grove Av.

HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante)
South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.

HUNTER Jane Ogden (Pbone Belmont 6530)
2722 N. Sacramento Av.

HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880
608 Fine Arts Building

HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund
Alliance, Ohio

HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267)
501 Kimball Hall

IKERT Charlotte (Contralto)
Management Harry Culbertson

JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 5104)
4937 Michigan Ave.

KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8619)
4433 Racine Avenue

KILBY Lemnel W. (Phone Edgewater 868)
North Shore School of Music. 4666 Evanston Av.

KIMBALL Roscoe (Baritone
Management Harry Culbertson

KIMBELL Grant (Tenor)
5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831

KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

LA BERGE Charles (Baritone)
American Conservatory

LANGER Ora Padget (Pbone Hyde Park 8774)
1375 East 54th Street

LASH De Witt Durgin (Pbone Harrison 5365)
420 Fine Arts Bldg

LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6880)
6450 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1

LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335)
4460 Berkeley Av.

LINDQUEST Albert (Phone West Pullman 366)
237 E-113 Street

LONGMAN Marie White. (Contralto)
1311 E. 53rd St.

LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola
3814 Ellis Avenue

LUND Rene S. (Baritone)
2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 6602)

LUND Mme Edla
Scandinavian Song Program

LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J)
1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.

LYNCH Mirian. Goodhue (Voice Builder)
Drake School of Music

MacBURNEY Thomas
609 Fine Arts Building

MacLEISH Lillian Pbone Garfield 3060)
3422 Fulton Street

McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439)
3620 Parnell Av.

MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E.
616 Fine Arts Bldg.

MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France)
27 rue Boislevant

MARCUSSON Grace Brune (Phone West 661)
2459 Jackson Boul.

MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402)
5256 Berteau Av.

MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.)
209 Wesley Av.

MILLER Christine
1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

MILLER Herbert
608 Fine Arts Bldg

MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn)
1. W. 34th St., New York

MILLER John B. (Tenor)
Chicago Musical College

MOSHER L. Drew
137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.

MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone)
1165 Belmon Ave

MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles)
446 W. 40th Place

MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.

MULREY Mabel V.—Soprano—Pianist
47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.

MUNRO George (Studio) Pbne Harrison 4577
300 Athenaeum Bldg.

MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano)
2 Fairfield Lane, Pittsburgh

MURRISON Harry R.
Alliance, Ohio.

NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122)
1215 E. 53rd Street

NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano
Plymouth, Ind.

NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Pbone Austin 11199)
237 North Howard Av., Austin

NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York)
330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)

NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5509)
4125 Drexel Blvd.

OLIN Nora Loraine (Wbeaton Musical Institute)
303 Kimball Hall

OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147)
2112 Washington Blvd.

PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England)
Care L. G. Sharpe, 61 Reg S

PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto)
Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.

PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.)
Toledo Musical College

PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3246)
4173 Lake Av.

POTTER Mildred (Contralto)
Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St., N

PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.)
Winona School of Music

PROTHEROE Daniel
810 Fine Arts Bldg.

RANKL John R. (Pbone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Building

RAYMER Abigail M. (Pbone Belmont 6782)
1738 Hmmboldt Boulevard

RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor)
Barre Plains, Mass.

RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2613
413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av.

REED Esta Asber (Soprano)
Abroad for a season

REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165)
5627 Indiana Av.

REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg)
202 Nixon Building

RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.)
Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.

RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall
6318 Birchfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.

ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting)
1372 E. 52nd St.

ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877)
7205 Stewart Ave.

RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto)
Principal Liederhelm, Auburndale, Mass.

RUSSELL L. Douglas (Pbone Stewart 5265)
719 Fine Arts Bldg.

RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448)
3100 Lexington St.

SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing
999 Walnut St., Newton Highlands, Mass.

SCHWARTZ Cora (soprano)
401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.

SCHUSTER Katherine
71 Auditorium Bldg.

SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York)
Wolfsohn Bureau

SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 459)
408 Kimball Hall.

SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner)
St. James Bldg., New York

SEVERINGHAUS Edna Reiffert (Soprano)
63 Auditorium Bldg.

SHELP Dr. H. Wm.
726 Fine Arts Bldg.

SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor)
516 Kimball Hall

SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano)
4044 Indiana Av.

SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano)
6523 St. Lawrence Av.

SMIDT Mable Corlew (Phone Austin 12717)
5943 Ohio St.

SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173)
625 Madison St., Gary Ind

SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano)
Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio

STEELE Mary Hinman
503 Kimball Hall

STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh)
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.

STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48)
4439 Calumet Av.

STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977)
55 Auditorium Building

STEPHALI Sofia Phone Midway 5912)
6106 Kimbark Av.

STEVENSON Lucille
4438 Berkeley Avenue

STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923)
1134 E. 45th St.

STULTS Walter A. (Evanston)
Northwestern University School of Music

TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L.
Lewis Institute, Pbone West 793

THATCHER Burton (Res. Phone Drexel 4861)
Chicago Musical College

THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano)
Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill.

THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082)
620 Fine Arts Building

TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3766
Bush Temple Conservatory

TORRENS Mr. and Mrs. L. A. (Ninth Floor)
Auditorium Bldg., Wabash Av.

TOWNS Kirk
Chicago Musical College

TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor)
813 La Salle Av.

TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949)
404 Kimball Hall

VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Hyde Park 4678)
1370 E. 61st Street

WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380)
428 Fine Arts Building

WALKER Edward (Pbone Midway 2958)
1325 E. 64th St.

WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Pbone Oak Park 4397)
206 S. Lombard Av., Oak Park.

WATSON Ruth Swing
1225 E. 52nd St.

WEAVER Iva Bigelow
Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.

WEBSTER Frank B.
719 Kimball Hall

WEGENER Mme. Justine
Bush Temple Conservatory

WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone)
61 Auditorium Bldg.

WETZEL Le Roy (Pbone Harrison 5046)
Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hall

WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 E 34th St., New York

WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Pbone Rogers Park 1607)
728 Fine Arts Bldg.

WILCOX John C. (Teacher)
Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo.

WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio)
516 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS Dr. Carver
(Samuel B. Garton) Auditorium Bldg.

WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey
406 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS H. Evan
Akron, Ohio

WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway
6107 Woodlawn Av.

WYNN Bessie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

WYCOFF Eva Emmet
500 W. 143rd, New York

YOUNG Walter S. (801 Carnegie Hall, New York)
Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair, N. J.

ZENDT Marie Sidenius (Wilmette, Ill.)
719 Park Av. (Phone 849-R Wilmette

ZIMMERMAN Ocliata
72 Auditorium Bld

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Subscribe for

Music News

Music News of this issue will reach many people who are not subscribers—many of them in fact will see it for the first time. To such we offer the explanation that we are making a special

Promotive Campaign

and are sending sample copy ONCE to very many people who do not often read music papers. We invite all such to become

Subscribers

The cost of the paper is only two dollars a year—which is only four cents a week, and for that sum we will bring to your home

Every Week in the Year

full and adequate announcement and review of the concert and opera situation of the country.

A Premium of One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music given to each new subscriber and each renewal

Send Your Subscription Today
Before You Forget It

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic
(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport, Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

Vol. 5 CHICAGO, OCTOBER 3, 1913 No. 40

JOHN R. RANKL

BASS-BARITONE

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Chicago, October 3, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

United States, per year postpaid.....$2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's, Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are chargel to their accounts.

Frances Bowser, Business Representative

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs. Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block

TOLEDO, OHIO
Frank E. Percival
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20
Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

Editorial

PROBLEM

The working of the British mind and the characteristic expression of the same in writing are shown in the following item clipped from "The Music Student" published in London.

Readers who like riddles may amuse themselves with the following, which appeared as one of the competition problems that regularly find a place in The British Weekly:

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Owen have one child, Lettice, aged twelve. James Oswald, a musical friend, is invited to stay with the Owens. The first evening Mr. and Mrs. Owen who are both utterly unmusical, call on Lettice to play to James. The child quite evidently has no ear for music, and plays atrociously. Mrs. Owens says proudly, "Miss Smith, who teaches Lettice, tells us that she is getting on well and will make quite a good performer, and has persuaded me to afford extra lessons for her in the holidays." James knows that this money will be absolutely thrown away. What should James say?

Here is the winning solution:

James should simply say, "I trust Lettice will make still greater progress when the holidays come." His advice not having been asked should not be offered. It would probably be resented, as it would certainly be unflattering to Lettice, and probably taken as a reflection on either the judgment or the good faith of Miss Smith, her teacher.

A large number of Readers appear to have agreed that this line of action would be the best, and the Editor remarks:—

It is a good plan, we think, to go through life without offering advice unasked, and without upsetting innocent delusions. We print the following to show that many readers disagree with us:—

(1) It is James Oswald's duty as a friend to say, "Lettice plays rather badly, I am afraid. I cannot see any trace of talent, and really think I should not afford her the holiday lessons."

(2) James Oswald should say, "Don't you think holiday lessons rather a mistake? I consider it will be throwing away money if you give Lettice an extra course. Why not find something that the child is really fond of and clever at if you are determined that she should work in the holiday?"

(3) James Oswald should say, "I am afraid Lettice's teacher is not a very truthful person."

It is a question whether the bald and bold statement of No. 3 might not lead to legal difficulties in a country where the law of libel is so very much at the disposition of every litigious-minded person. But then, of course, few music teachers have enough money to go to law, so perhaps James Oswald would be in no danger after all!

In America, unless James Oswald happened to be a partisan of Miss Smith his advice (given almost before asked) would be "Why don't you have her take lessons of Mr. A or Miss B?"

THE ATTITUDE OF THE ORGANIST

At the N. A. O. convention at Ocean Grove last summer there was constant reiteration, in the speeches, of the fact that the church organist ought to be fully in accord with the services in which he assisted.

That some English organists feel strongly on the same subject is indicated by the accompanying letter, which was written to the Musical News (London) in answer to a rather flippant comment on the subject by a Mr. Jeboult, in a former issue of the same paper:

Sir:—I do not think any organist who lives up to the responsibilities of his office can either "salve" his religious duty or his "conscience" by treating an early celebration of the holy communion in as offhanded a manner as one would an early morning bath, and by doing as Mr. Jeboult suggests.

Within a radius of eight miles of my town we have all amateur organists, and I am the only professional. Not one of the instruments is worthy of the designation of belonging to the "king of instruments"—most of them resemble "dismal Jimmies." When I attend Sunday services I could doubtless pick out dozens of mistakes if I looked for them. If anyone has a license to talk "shop," I should think I have.

To my mind, however, an organist should not go to church to play the organ, or the parson to preach. We should all go to worship. Moreover, we are commanded to keep the Sabbath day holy, and after an early morning celebration of the holy communion on Sunday the day is not free to anyone to do as he pleases, with all due respect to Mr. Jeboult. The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND A. R. C. O.
(Unemployed).

C. W. BEST CONCERT COURSE

The above series of musical entertainments is given by three companies—the Colonial Company, including Mrs. Vera Jane Edwards, reader; Miss Mabel Helen Rogers, harpist, and Master Stuart McCombs, soprano.

The Japanese Company—Miss Marguerite Austin, violinist; Mrs. M. M. Lawing, soprano, and Miss Nellie Woolman, violoncellist.

The Dutch Company—Miss Sara E. Paine, flutist and pianist; Miss Vesta Lister, soprano, and Miss Florence Smith, reader.

This course has been booked in the following towns before Christmas:

Wheaton, West Chicago, Batavia, Geneva, St. Charles, Harvard, Woodstock, De Kalb, Sycamore, Genoa, Marengo, Rockford, Ill.; Delavan, Beloit, Janesville, Whitewater, Edgerton, Lake Mills, Watertown, Columbus, Oconomowoc, Madison, Portage, Beaver Dam, Mayville, Horicon, Juneau, Ripon, Randolph, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Plymouth, Two Rivers, Manitowoc, Appleton, Green Bay, Shawano, New London, Antigo, Rhinelander, Tomahawk, Merrill, Wausau, Nekoosa, Stevens Point, Grand Rapids, Omro, Oshkosh, Mauston, Sparta, Reedsburg, Baraboo, Mineral Point, Shullsburg, Platteville, Wis.; Galena, Lena, Freeport, Lanark, Savanna, Ill.; Delmar, Maquoketa, Lyons, Ia.; Fulton, Morrison, Dixon, Sterling, Milledgeville, Oregon, Mt. Morris, Rochelle, Lombard, Ill.

MR. AND MRS. EDDY

Mrs. Clarence Eddy returned to Chicago on Sunday to take up her work at the Walter Spry School of Music, Mr. Eddy remaining in the east for the purpose of making a short visit in Boston, after which he will open a fine new three-manual organ at Rock Hill, S. C. (Winthrop College). On October 6 he plays at Harrisburg, Ill.

MILON R. HARRIS

Mr. Harris is engaged to conduct a choral society of sixty voices in Monon, Ind., Thursday nights. This society is the outcome of his summer institute at Monticello last summer. His choir at California Avenue Congregational Church will sing Dudley Buck's music Sunday, October 12.

Music News

Music in Chicago

BERGEY'S OPERA SCHOOL RECITAL

At the Bergey Opera School Rooms in Fine Arts Building on last Saturday evening a very entertaining pupils' recital was given; thoroughly satisfactory work being shown by voice pupils of Mr. Bergey and piano pupils of Mrs Bergey, who besides being a teacher who is able to get the very best results from her pupils is also an accompanist with few equals and no superiors.

MRS. BERGEY

Not only does she know how to play piano effectively and artistically, but she also is a genuine accompanist in that she feels each song with the pupil who may be singing it and not only gives the proper background to the picture but also is of splendid assistance in every detail where a pupil may need it.

The pupils of Mr. Bergey, even this early in the season, showed fine preparation and absolute certainty in their voice manipulation. The program being largely operatic was a certain indication that pupils of this school not only are taught excellent vocal method but also they as surely acquire correct operatic style and interpretation. The English text heard on this occasion was very good and the Italian was likewise admirably managed.

The very handsome studios were thronged with people and enthusiasm was at a high pitch.

The program in full was as follows:

Fantaisie Impromptu ..... Chopin
Florence Benson

Vissi d' Arte, from Opera La Tosca .. Puccini
Ida Fritz

Waltz ..... Friml
Ruth Hibbs

L'insana parora, from Opera Aida ..... Verdi
Midsummer Day Dream ..... Bingham
Nella Bosen

Shadow Dance ..... MacDowell
Martha Meier

Che Gelida Manina, from Opera La Boheme .... Puccini
Leslie Voigtmann

Waltz ..... Moszkowski
Florence Benson

Mad Scene from Opera Lucia ..... Donizetti
Theresa Dunlavey

Sonata ..... Beethoven
Irving Engel

She Alone Charmeth My Sadness, from Queen of Sheba ..... Gounod
Frank Sparrow

Duett, from Opera Hansel and Gretel ... Humperdinck
Misses Benson and Bosen

A NOTABLE CONCERT

The grand concert in this city will have a dignified inaugural at the Auditorium on Sunday, October 19, when a number of concerts will be given, among them a program of rare merit and diversity, presented for the benefit of the German Hospital and the German Aid and Relief Society, under distinguished social auspices. The program will be presented by Geraldine Farrar, soprano, and Clarence Whitehill, the eminent basso.

SEASON SEAT SALE FOR CHICAGO GRAND OPERA

In time past the season ticket seat reservations have opened for the Chicago Grand Opera on or about the first of November. This year, as the public are pretty well aware, the subscribers began to get their tickets last Monday. This sort of progression is a part of Manager Ulrich's organization, akin with the splendid precedent already established by the general director, Cleofonte Campanini, in the issuance of the prospectus the first Sunday in August—months before such a document is usually released, and far ahead of all other organizations in the country. Since last Monday the seat reservations have been taken up at the rate of $12,000.00 a day—a remarkable record. From the reservations already contracted for by mail, or assigned by phone, it would appear that the offices of the Auditorium, this state of affairs would continue during the coming week. This does not include season reservations that have already been made for the English opera, on Saturday nights, as these tickets have not yet been printed, but the demand for them has been very good and it is expected the house will be well reserved by the time the tickets are ready, on the 15th of October. The boxes have been well taken, but the list will not be ready, nor the tickets given out until the first of November.

HINSHAW CONSERVATORY

Mr. Ambrose J. Wyrick, who has been studying the past two years under Mr. Marvin Hinshaw, will spend two years abroad singing under the noted evangelist, Mr. Alexander. Mr. Wyrick will have an opportunity for travel and study abroad, that surely will mean much to him.

Possessed of a very fine natural vocal organ and also ability musically, Mr. Wyrick made very rapid development under Mr. Hinshaw's direction, and filled a great many good engagements during the period of his study, earning his entire expenses through his course of music.

Also another pupil, Mr. Reid Strahan, secures an engagement as a member of the Collegian Quartet under the direction of the Redpath Lyceum Bureau, which will make a tour of forty weeks. Mr. Strahan is also a pupil of Mr. Marvin Hinshaw.

Such engagements for pupils is surely evidence that the Hinshaw Conservatory is accomplishing not only excellent results through teaching, but also that they can place their pupils in good engagements when they are prepared.

MR. LIEBLING'S PROGRAM

Mr. Emil Liebling will give a Complimentary Chamber Concert at Kimball Hall on Sunday afternoon, October 5, at 3, assisted by David Rosensweet, violinist, and Day Williams, 'cellist, the program being as follows:

Trio in D minor, opus 63 ..... Schumann
Energico con Passione, Allegro ma non troppo, Adagio, Con Fuoco

Trio in F major opus 6 ..... Bargiel
Adagio, Allegro Energico, Andante, Scherzo, Allegro con Fuoco

Trio in B Flat major opus 52 ..... Rubinstein
Allegro, Adagio, Presto, Allegro Appassionato

A GREAT TENOR FOR CHICAGO

Lucien Muratore, the distinguished French tenor, who for seven seasons past, has been the idol of the patrons of the Paris Grand Opera, will appear with the Chicago Grand Opera Company during its engagement in this city, in some of the most famous roles he has created. Muratore is not only a remarkable dramatic singer, but is credited with great histrionic power.

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

CHARLES LaBergé Baritone
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

FRANK B. WEBSTER
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Bush Temple Conservatory
STUDIO—SUITE 719-722 KIMBALL HALL

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Have you seen the new Musical Journal

Every person interested in Bands or Orchestras should receive

The Army and Navy Musician

Here is a journal that makes its influence felt—one that is valuable to all its readers.

Write for FREE sample copy.

The Army and Navy Musician
ELKHART, IND., U. S. A.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE VIOLIN CEDARGREEN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Edna Reiffert SEVERINGHAUS
Mezzo Soprano - Teacher of Voice
63 Auditorium Building

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

A CHURCH CONCERT

Every seat was filled at the Waveland Avenue Congregational Church on last Thursday evening and very great enthusiasm was shown for a concert given by Foss L. Fellers, pianist; Mrs. Fellers, reader, Warner R. Nelson, violinist and Charles M. Dennis, baritone.

That the audience was an easily pleased one was proven in the aforementioned enthusiasm and also by the fact that an encore was demanded after every number (at least through the first part), in spite of the fact that every musical number was spoiled by a piano which was so frightfully out of tune that the wonder was created how the pianist could know at all whether he was striking the right keys or not, and the violinist may well be excused for trying to "tune" his instrument at every tutti, it being impossible for him to guess whether he was really in tune or not.

In view of this handicap the music can only be spoken of in generalities—it would be foolish to state that any of it was enjoyable.

Mr. Fellers displayed taste, poise and agile technic. His numbers had been well thought out and thoroughly practiced, and he was able to show so much ability that the wish was engendered that he might be heard again.

Mr. Nelson played the Vieuxtemps "Ballade and Polonaise" with surety and some degree of expressiveness. He showed to very much better advantage, however, in his encore which was a Bach "Air," played without accompaniment.

Mr. Dennis sang a Schubert group in a queerly uneven way. "Hedge Roses" was good, and "The Erl King" was excellent, but the "Hark, Hark the Lark" was given without a vestige of poetical thought, reminding one of a dance movement of some sort rather than of the charmingly sentimental "Serenade," Schubert meant it to be. Mr. Dennis has a nice voice and a very pleasant appearance and style—his humorous encore was particularly well presented

Mrs. Fellers reads with sincerity and with a great play of expressiveness—her "Messiah" story was thoroughly interesting.

C. E. W.

SHERWOOD MUSIC SCHOOL

The Sherwood School presents Mr. Paul Van Katwijk in piano recital, Sunday, October 5, 1913, at 3:30 o'clock, in Florentine Room, Congress Hotel, the program as follows:

Symphonic Etudes ..... Schumann
Fantasy, F. minor
Preludes Nos. 8, 17, 19, 23, 24
Ballade ..... Chopin
Tambourin ..... Rameau-Godowsky
Pastorale ..... Corelli-Godowsky
Gigue ..... Loeilly-Godowsky
Impromptu ..... Faure
Ballade
Minstrels
Arabesque ..... Debussy
Kermesse ..... Van Katwijk
Wasserfahrt ..... Van Katwijk
Rhapsodie Auvergue ..... Saint-Saens

NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The first faculty concert of the North Shore School of Music was given at St. Simon's Hall on Monday evening before a very large audience and took the delightful form of a song recital by Miss Mary Ann Kaufman, a new member of the faculty, and a singer whose work during last season was enthusiastically accepted by Chicagoans as very much above the average in musical beauty and intelligence of interpretation.

Miss Kaufman has a very full and very musical voice. Her very best work is in the coloratura line, and she sings the great "Traviata" aria as few singers can do it, for instance, but she is also versatile to a fine degree and on Monday night proved her aptness for a more sustained solo in the well known "Tosca" aria, showed linguistic abilities not only in her English text songs but also in her manipulation of German and Italian text, and proved great variety of interpretative ability in that she was excellent in the oratorio selection, and thoroughly charming in the small songs she so graciously offered—especially so in "Mavourneen," which she did exquisitely.

Loud's "Flower Rain" is interesting—by way of change; Saar's "Little Gray Dove" is very beautiful, the Schumann "Folk Song" proved novel and the "Queen Mab" selection was fascinating, but one could wish for the "Tosca" aria to be sung in its original text, or at least in a more adequate translation—that used on Monday was absurd.

Excellent accompaniments were provided by Alice Emmons-McBride, and the enthusiasm of the audience was such as to prove conclusively that the clientele of the North Shore School of Music is very much pleased with Miss Kaufman and will support her work royally. The very interesting program is given here in full:

Aria, "With Verdure Clad" ..... Haydn
Songs—
Flower Rain ..... Loud
Mr. Dream Maker ..... Woodman
The Little Gray Dove ..... Saar
Aria, "Ah, fors e lui" (La Traviata) ..... Verdi
Songs—
"Wohin" ..... Schubert
Die Lotus Blume ..... Schumann
Volksliedchen (Little Folk Song) ..... Schumann
"Er Ist's" ..... Hugo Wolf
Aria, "Vissi D'arte, Vissi D'amore" (Tosca) .. Puccini
Songs—
"The Lark Now Leaves His Wat'ry Nest" .... Parker
"Till I Wake" ..... Huhn
Queen Ma') (from song cycle "In Fairyland") ....
..... Morgan

FINE ARTS THEATER

Ben Iden Payne, director of the repertory company which will play at the Fine Arts Theater this season, is in Chicago and has announced the names of four of the members of his company. They are Whitford Kane of last season's "Hindle Wakes" cast; Miss Louise Randolph, formerly of the Marlowe Theater; Miss Maude Leslie, an English actress, and Miss Mona Limerick.

Mr. Payne is an actor and producer highly regarded in England. He made his first stage appearance at the age of eighteen, playing in F. R. Benson's presentation of "She Stoops to Conquer." Two years later his London debut was made in "Henry V" at the Lyceum Theater. He was associated with Miss Horniman's ventures, with the Abbey Theater, and again at the Gaiety Theater in Manchester. Many of the first performances of plays by Shaw, Galsworthy, Masefield and other distinguished dramatists were supervised by him.

He remained with Miss Horniman until 1911, when, with Miss Limerick, he mounted a group of plays by Shaw on his own

If you have not sent in your copy for the

Anniversary Number

(October 10)

Please do so at once.

No Copy can be accepted after Tuesday Noon, OCTOBER 7th

Single Copies will be sold at the usual rate of 10c, but there will be absolutely no reduction in price to any one.

Please order the Copies you want in advance.

initiative. He then added to his activities the artistic direction of Miss Horniman's Manchester company in 1912, and leaves that association for this, his first American visit.

APOLLO CLUB

Florence Hinkle, soprano, and Herbert Witherspoon, bass, have been engaged as soloists for the performance of "Creation" and "Elijah" by the Apollo Musical Club early in November, in the Auditorium Theater. Outside of the club's regular chorus of 300 singers to take the choral parts of both works, the club will have the assistance of a professional choir of sixteen voices and a professional ladies' trio in the "Elijah" concert.

NEWS OF THE OPERA

Cleofonte Campanini sends interesting pictures of two lovely dancing sisters, Teresa and Placida Battagi, Prima Ballerina, who, despite their youth, have won marked success as dancers, in the best opera houses in Italy, and in Russia, where the exactions of the dance call for the greatest skill. Last season these sisters appeared in the city of Mexico, with signal success, and have been engaged this year for the Chicago Grand Opera Company.

Chevalier N. B. Emanuel, who has charge of the Choral School, organized under the auspices of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, reports that he has room for a few more good voices in this organization, which meets at the Auditorium every morning, to learn the standard operas of the repertoire, as well as the novelties, for the coming season. He will receive applicants for the Choral Class, which gives instruction free, every morning from 10:30 to 12:30 during the coming week.

The fact that Mabel Riegelman has been announced to appear in concert with David Bispham has led to the circulation of the report that she was not associated this season with the Chicago Grand Opera Company. The suggestion that the California cantatrice, who is little—but mighty!—was not to appear with her former artistic associates, has aroused considerable comment and correspondence. Mabel Riegelman was the first artist to be re-engaged by Maestro Campanini, and will appear with the Chicago organization at home in the Auditorium and on tour. Miss Riegelman, it may be remarked, is one of the few young Americans with this organization who has continued from season to season and grown artistically stronger right along.

LESTER COMPOSITIONS

The White-Smith Music Publishing Company of Boston, who are just issuing four songs by William Lester—"As a Perfume Doth Remain," "Echo," "Compensation," and "To Phillis"—have accepted three more songs—"Apple Blossoms," "Remembrance," and "My Rose"—and two choruses for mixed voices. All the songs are published in two keys. The Clayton F. Summy Company are also issuing two sacred songs by the same composer—"My Prayer" and "Evening Hymn." That the work of this writer has received the notice it deserves is evident from the fact that within the past two months fifteen songs and eleven choral numbers have been accepted by such firms as G. Schirmer, the White-Smith Company and Clayton F. Summy Company. Several of the most prominent choral organizations in the country are preparing to include the above compositions on their programs during the coming season.

D. A. CLIPPINGER

Recent appointments for students of D. A. Clippinger.

Mr. J. W. Phillips, head of vocal department, Fremont Normal College, Fremont, Neb.

Mr. Theodore McCreery, head of vocal department, University, Lincoln, Neb.

Mr. Paul R. Utt, dean of college of music, Wesleyan University, Salina, Kan.

Miss Carey, head of vocal department, College, Brownwood, Texas.

Mr. Wallace R. Clark, head of music department, College, Portland, Texas.

MARY HIGHSMITH

Miss Highsmith has been substituting for Mrs. Zendt at Zion Temple through the month of September.

On October 6 she will be the soloist at the organ recital given by Dr. Francis Hemington at Epiphany Church, and on the 7th will sing at a banquet of the Baptist Young People's Union at the LaSalle Hotel.

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

DanielProtheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

BOLLINGER CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
I. EDWIN SCHNEIDER, Proprietor
FORT SMITH, ARK.
FACULTY—I. Edwin Schneider, Florence Mitchell-Schneider, Exene T. Nixon, Hulda A. Deden, Clark W. Young Mary Boyd Pauline Curtin, Edgar Robinson, Frederick P. Baily.
EMIL LIEBLING, Musical Examiner Piano Department

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO 955 Third Av., Detroit, Mich.
Chicago address, care of Music News

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

Effa Ellis KEYBOARD HARMONY
203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
Tel. Douglas 701 OMAHA, NEB

Katherine Howard Ward
ORGANIST and ACCOMPANIST Tel. Ravens'd 2152
Teaching Cosmopolitan School of Music

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
ABROAD FOR SEASON

THEODORA
STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

Harriet Case SOPRANO
Management Sam'l B Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., Second Floor

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

H. B. Bartholomew
Teacher of PIANO AND VOICE 502 Kimball Hall

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

Churches

FESTIVAL SERVICE AT ST. PAUL'S

The service presented at St. Paul's Episcopal Church on last Sunday afternoon was very largely attended and extremely enjoyable. The choir of men and boys, under the care of Mr. John Allen Richardson, was supplemented by Mrs. Anna Lawrence, harpist, and Dr. Carver Williams, bass.

St. Paul's rather comes under the head of a Low Church, although it does not accent the standard. But the rector reads the prayers and lessons slowly, the Psalter is not sung, and there is no intoning, nor any amen in responses by the choir. Quite pleasant, too, it was to an old-timer. The canticles were sung to settings by Aitken. Somewhat involved the "Magnificat" seemed, and with elaborate organ treatment. They were very well done, as were all the concerted efforts of the choir. There is a tricky place in the "Gloria" that was not well thought out by the writer, and so not well brought out by the singers. Mr. Richardson played royally and his efforts were many and beautiful. His forces responded, as a rule, with a fine restraint and sincerity. The balance of parts is very good and the alto section should have a special word of praise. There was some nice unaccompanied work and some sonority which pulsed with vigor. I think they will like it, if I say that at times they lacked enthusiasm, and there were some phases where certain voices trailed behind time. They did Maunder's "Great Is the Lord" and Martin's "Ho Everyone" for anthems. The Maunder was new to me, and quite effective, and the soprano lads were particularly good. Martin's anthem is an uncommon thing. Mr. Richardson must have put a lot of work on it to make it go as well as it did. The last phrases are the best, and they are really splendid, with the bass solo voice pouring out the initial strophe against the choral mass. Dr. Williams did this, and he did it superbly and gave me unlimited pleasure. And his singing, of Vanderwater's "Publican" was a presentation that was virtually ideal. His interpretative sense was masterly. The text came out with authority and a sense of fitness that is not to be accepted as ordinary. His voice seemed equal to all the demands which he made upon it. The number was something to be grateful for. Master Robert Rea and Mr. William Clifford did very neatly the Mosenthal "I Will Magnify Thee." Thirty years ago Mosenthal was a live figure in choir galleries, and his duet, originally prepared for two sopranos and written in canon form, was in continual evidence. It sounded first-rate for the soprano and tenor. Mr. Clifford's voice is mellow and smooth, his enunciation clean cut, and his musical sense alert and sincere. Master Rea has an unusually clear and sweet tone and good volume. The answering phrases were beautifully done. Mrs. Lawrence's "Aeolian Harps" was attractive and well attuned. The Kohler "Gondolier" seemed a bit commonplace for so good a player.

The hymns were taken at a lively pace, the processional and recessional spirited and the orison very simple and tender. The few words from Dr. Page were capital.

ALBERT COTSWORTH.

SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH

The monthly musical service at the Second Baptist Church under the direction of Edward Clissold, was held last Sunday evening, the choir gave Sullivan's "Hymn of the Homeland," and Horatio Parker's "The Lord Is My Light." Solos were sung by Mrs. E. N. Bonney, Mrs. S. S. Cooley and Henry Bachemeyer, the organist being Byrl A. Ballard.

EFFA ELLIS

Effa Ellis Perfield of Omaha, Neb., originator of the Effa Ellis Teaching System and Keyboard Harmony, has been conducting a harmony class for teachers for the last two weeks in Chicago, gave a practical demonstration of her work Tuesday at the studio of Miss Anna Tomlinson, one of her representative teachers, she gave a lesson to a class of ten small children 7 to 11 years old who had never studied music before. Teachers and parents were surprised to hear the children respond so quickly to the feeling and reasoning of music as developed by the Effa Ellis System. Notation, chords, note values and melody dictation were made so interesting and clear that the children at once made them their own and used them with ease.

This lesson proved beyond a doubt that the blending of feeling and reasoning is the only sure way to develop a pupil, and the progress of this class of little folks will be watched with interest.

Effa Ellis Perfield will return to Chicago in November, after holding training classes in Detroit, Toronto, Buffalo, Cleveland and Columbus.

SCHOLARSHIPS AT THE VON ENDE SCHOOL

Final examinations for scholarships at the von Ende School of Music, New York, in the piano, voice and violin departments will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 2, 3 and 4, from 9 to 11 a. m. and 3 to 6 o'clock. Applications should be made without delay by return mail or telephone. (Advertisement.)

THE WITEKS RETURN

Anton Witek, the famous violin soloist and concertmaster of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and his wife, Vita Witek, the eminent pianist, arrived in New York Wednesday, October 1, from abroad to resume their teaching at the von Ende School of Music.

Wilford.—Mr. J. E. Wilford, pianist, will play several groups of piano solos at a musicale given by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Oak Park Hospital at the residence of Mrs. Ray in that suburb, on October 8.

The Elderly Person

When the Elderly Person looked out there was nothing stirring, apparently. He knew it must be Sunday morning by that unusual silence. Even the sun seemed to be a little later than usual in rising, but that is to be expected in August. All he has to do then is to shine very hot when he does get up, in order to bring growing things forward rapidly. He knows that there is a lot to do before Jack Frost comes along, and the katydids have been saying for several nights that its only six weeks till frost.

Of course it is not the sun's fault if there has not been enough rain to give the grains the moisture they need before they start out on that homeward stretch towards maturity. The sun can be sorry, but he can't be responsible. He's been saving up his strength for this time when he has a clear mission to perform, and if other planets and elements have missed fire he can't help it. This is the time when sweating men endure, by repeating the timeworn truth that it is good corn weather. . . . The windowsill was low, so that even sitting on the low chair beside it did not give the right perspective. The best way was to get the knees down on the floor and rest the arms on the windowsill: not a half-bad position after all for a man in the country on a Sunday morning. The window gave on the river, but not the same river where the sun rises east of it. This river is just the other way and it confused the accustomed senses at first. A smooth-limbed linden, just coming to the dignity of a shade tree, was close at hand. A stillness that could almost be inhaled was over all, save a few clusters of young branches of the linden, which had an expectant rustle in them. The Elderly Person knew they would bear watching and was not surprised to find them a little later enthusiastically greeting the very advance guard of sun rays. These just touched with a faint color the stem of the tree near them. This tinge grew warmer and richer each second, until the tree was bathed in the soft glow. Then long shadows stole across the lawn, thin and vague of outline at first, then well defined although elongated. Far away on the bottom lands were the same stretches of light and shade, the sun gradually touching, with some sort of affectionate salutation, every tree and spire and tower and bluff and water course. Only the growth directly east of the bluff was slighted. That must wait for the afternoon. One knew it was August by the cobweb laces on the lawn, with just a little dew upon them to sparkle in welcome to the day's light. The mullein, which never tires of sending up its soft flannel ears to hear the news, was sparkling with little gems of moisture, which the sun kissed in passing.

A noise in the linden diverted the attention from what the sun was doing to the shadows. A regular racket indicated trouble, which proved to belong to a young jay trying to fly longer distances than it was then able to. It was in among the thick leaves and couldn't get out. It hadn't yet learned how to hop and skip to a favoring outlet, and then spread its wings. So it bumped itself as it tried to fly through the branches and leaves and sent appeals for help to the parents who, after the manner of jays, did not concern themselves with its youthful troubles. They had worn themselves out feeding it worms and insects, and then explained all the rules for flying, and given ample illustrations of how to do it. Like some other parents, however, it hadn't shown its infant how not to do things, and the young bird had a hard time until it finally flopped to the ground and got away from the window's ken. Then the eye discovered that the lawn had some early visitors, who came in with that quasi assurance which always gives its exponent away. A lady hen was aristocratically putting one foot after the other, and making her neck arch with the assertion that she was just as good as anybody else, and for the life of her couldn't understand all this palaver about first families like birds, being entitled to privileges which did not go to other creatures who wore fine feathers and could fly on a pinch. It certainly was very nice there, that she would admit, as she took a drink of water from the clay basin, where the catbird was wont to take her bath. While she was doing this, Mr. Jack Rabbit came stealthily in. Three or four little scampers, and then a settling back on the haunches to spy out the land. Then another advance, and another pause for reconnoitre. Feeling safe, he must have sent some sort of a signal to Mrs. Jack, or shall we call her Jill? for they were both coming up the hill in those queer little leaps, and finally disappeared in the direction of the pump and water trough. The robins skipped about in their proprietary way, and didn't seem to have any envy at the intrusion. They were so accepted as a part of the landscape, that they only moved out of the way when any other form of life came on the scene.

Suddenly there was a sound that made Jack and Jill prick up their ears, and the hen lady look a bit embarrassed. Unquestionably it was coming nearer. This was no place for rabbits, that was evident, for, as John of Svenska came out to start the hose on the grass, Jack and Jill made a break for the downward slope of the hill. John is a very fair-haired son of the Vikings, and wears glasses, and although stout of limb does not look alarming. But the rabbits took no chances. Away they bounded in spreadeagle leaps. There was no resting on haunches or reconnoitering. A safe cover was the thing, and they sought it so hard and fast that, like the Mother Goose creations, Jack lost his balance and rolled down, and Jill went tumbling after. There was a scurry, and the thicket received them. Presumably they then paused for breath, and to see if crowns were broken or no. A loud squawk from the lady hen expressed her protest at the shooing treatment offered to a creature of her rank. Preserving as much of her pride as possible, she spread her wings and slid over the ground in advance of the clod sent to hurry her footsteps.

With so much of life beckoning out of doors, it was only a sluggard who would go back to bed. Soon the Elderly Person was slipping through the halls, and down the staircase which had been trained to squeak as a burglar alarm. No amount of swaying from side to side could subdue the cracks of sound which shot into the silence in spite of the softest sort of a tread from the unshod feet. On the porch the shoes were put on, and a moment spent in saluting anew the wild beauty all around. . . . Then a rattle as of utensils came around from the corner of the house. That intimated that perhaps a cracker could be cajoled from the pantry. With his most insouciant niftiness the early bird sought for his worm, and got it, too. For the cook lady liked men, and said so. Although she was early at her preparations for that most delightful of functions, the Sunday dinner, she put ice in the water given to drink. She pressed newly-made ginger cookies and sponge cakes, and offered cheese, and insisted that coffee could be made ready in a few moments. The only way to resist such hospitality was to remind her that you didn't want to spoil your appetite for one of her fine breakfasts.

Then, quite at peace with the beautiful world in which he found himself, and doubly grateful for the capacity to enjoy its endless forms of inspiration and uplift, the Elderly Person lifted his hat to the sun just coming over the treetops. Then he let himself into the cool path through the thick wood, all fresh and dewy and alluring with the shadows which, like encircling arms, ran ever before the winding course.

Where did he go? Perhaps some day he will tell.

THE ELDERLY PERSON.

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON

Mr. Robert L. Barron, young Chicago violinist, will play in the following Colorado cities on the dates named: Holly, September 29; Las Animas, 30; Ordway, October 1; La Junta, 2; Salida, 3; Florence, 4; Del Norte, 6; Monte Vista, 8; Alamosa, 9; La Jara, 11.

MASON SLADE

Mr. Slade has returned from his all-summer vacation in Colorado and has resumed his work at Christ Church. He has also accepted the position as director of the organ department at the Leonard-Wilson School.

Thomas N. MacBurney

Baritone Voice Production Song Recitals

Three years assistant to King Clark

608-609 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago Phone Harrison 6880

North Shore School of Music

Broadway and Leland Ave.

The Ideal School for Resident and Out of Town Pupils.

WILLIAM A. WHITE, President. Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, William A. White, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC AND THEORY, William A. White. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul

ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated)

CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar

TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868

STEINDEL ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone R gers Park 411

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studebaker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Doyton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production | Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera | 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

14 Selected Songs by A. M. FOERSTER

The Daisy	The Robin's Lullaby
At Night	Nights of Music
The Fir Tree	After the Revel
In March	Those Eyes of Thine
The Water-Lily	Song of Hope
An Old Melody	Russian Lover's Song
Love Seemeth Terrible	When Evening Shades

$1.75 NET
New York—G. Schirmer Chicago—C. F. Summy Co.
Boston—Oliver Ditson Co.

SHEET MUSIC MENDED
Send me your torn and loose music and same will be put in good condition at very low rates; also your name and address stamped thereon if desired.
CHAS. A. KIMMIT Park Ridge, Ill.

People & Events

JOHN R. RANKL

The subject of our front page picture this week is John R. Rankl, a young bass-baritone who has steadily advanced the past few years until today his voice is acknowledged on all sides as one of the most reliable and attractive in the younger generation of men singers in Chicago, and he has also gained much prestige for his fine repertoire and the excellence of his interpretative abilities. He is also a member of the American Artists Opera Company Quartet.

During the past years he has taught at the Columbia School of Music, the Willett School of Singing, the Bush Temple Conservatory, the Sherwood School of Music and the Park Ridge School of Music, meeting with great success in each instance.

During the coming season he will continue working, as during the past year, as an assistant teacher in the MacBurney studios.

Mr. Rankl filled many engagements last season and his bookings for the current year are large. Those to be fulfilled during the next few weeks are as follows:

September 16, River Forest Women's Club, in folk songs.

October 7, Seventh District Federation of Woman's Clubs.

October 11, recital at Oshkosh, Wis.

October 14, Chicago Lawn Woman's Club.

November 12, Norwood Park Woman's Club.

November 20, Klio Association.

November 23, recital at Park Ridge, Ill. festival service at St. James' Episcopal Church.

JAMES T. QUARLES

Mr. James T. Quarles, for fourteen years organist of Lindell Avenue M. E. Church, St. Louis, Mo., has accepted the position of organist at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. St. Louis will lose one of her most prominent musicians. Mr. Quarles' organ recitals were features of her musical life and were the only opportunity the people that city had to hear the greatest master pieces of organ literature performed. Mr. Quarles was also organist of the Scottish Rite Cathedral, director of Miolah Chanters, A. A. O. N. M. S., and resident of the Missouri Music Teachers' Association. In his new position he will have two four manual organs, one by Skinner in Sage Chapel, the other now being built by Steere Company, for the new Auditorium of Department of Agriculture.

EDITH LUCILE ROBBINS

Miss Edith Lucile Robbins, recently added to the faculty of the University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb., has just returned from study in Europe. The following notices are typical of many which Miss Robbins has received.

Edith Lucile Robbins of Lincoln, Neb., who has been studying here for the past three years with George Fergusson, is the possessor of a sweet, pure soprano voice and a technical proficiency that bespeaks her admirable training. I recently heard the artist sing "Summer," by Chaminade, "The Norwegian Echo Song," by Thrane, and the aria, "Hear Ye, Israel," from "Elijah." A noteworthy feature of Miss Robbins' singing is her trill, which is remarkably quick and brilliant. She reveals intelligence and feeling in her interpretations and seems fitted particularly for oratorio work. She is also well equipped for concert singing and her repertory includes a large number of arias and songs.—Berlin Correspondent Musical Courier.

Miss Robbins is unusually well prepared for work on the concert and oratorio stage. She has a clear, high soprano voice of great purity and flexibility. To her practical experience acquired in pedagogical work in America she had added the broader outlook gained by an intelligent assimilation of the vocal principles characterizing the Fergusson "school," and goes back admirably equipped to do effective work in the parallel lines of teaching and concertizing, between which she means to divide her time.—Berlin Correspondent Musical Leader.—(Advertisement).

PROMINENT ARTISTS AT THE VON ENDE SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Herr Anton Witek and his charming wife, Mme. Vita Witek, will arrive soon for their duties at the von Ende School of Music of New York. Mr. Witek will resume his work as the concert master of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and will also supervise the first appearances of some of his latest artist pupils of the violin. Mme. Witek will also engage her time as soloist and pianoforte instructor at the school, and in addition will conduct a class at the school in ensemble playing. Hers is the unique distinction of being one of the few really capable orchestra leaders, having conducted at various times some of the well known orchestras of Europe, including a single performance of the Berlin Philharmonic.

ANOTHER VON ENDE PUPIL TO THE FORE

Samuel Ollstein, a gifted violinist, pupil of Herwegh von Ende, director of the von Ende School of Music, New York, opened last Wednesday at Montreal on tour with Xavier Mercier, the eminent Canadian tenor, for four weeks. Montreal criticisms have been most flattering. This is one of many instances where concert managers secured their artist from the von Ende School of Music.

The Fifth Anniversary Number of MUSIC NEWS will be something of Very Unusual Significance and Very Great Importance to Advertisers.

The Date will be October 10th. MAKE RESERVATIONS OF SPACE EARLY.
Call, Write or Phone Harrison 7169.

MADAME CAROLA LOOS-TOOKER

Unobtrusively, but with the confidence born of thoroughly genuine success in her teaching elsewhere through many previous years, Madame Carola Loos-Tooker came to Chicago three years ago and established herself as a teacher in this metropolis.

Chicago is cordial in its reception of a newcomer and there is room here for every really fine exponent of the music art, but there are so many long established teachers and there have been so many mediocre ones come here from time to time that the latest addition to the ranks must always prove his or her merit very conclusively before acceptance is gained from the general public.

MADAME CAROLA LOOS-TOOKER

That Madame Loos-Tooker has overcome this natural apathy and has thoroughly established herself in the short space of three years as one of the most successful of local teachers speaks volumes for her abilities and proves her beyond question to be a teacher of the finest attainments.

At several of her home studio recitals last season, as well as in the public work of a number of her pupils, this writer can faithfully testify that the work heard was of the very finest sort and the advancement of the Loos-Tooker students from month to month was extremely gratifying.

The things for which this splendid teacher stands in her work are correct placement and development of the child and adult singing and speaking voice; absolute breath control; repairing of damaged voices and cure of chronic hoarseness; scientific treatment of vocal defects; the art of bel canto; distinct enunciation of English, German, French, Latin and Italian; coaching of repertoire; diction; style and finish, and that she knows how to treat each item has been proven many times in the work of her pupils.

From an old scrap book many interesting items have been gleaned as to the work of this teacher, one of which details the extraordinary success attained by her when in 1910 she lectured before the New York State Teachers' Association in place of Dr. Griggs of Vassar College, and scored a complete success.

Madame Loos-Tooker has a large number of testimonial letters also and a few extracts from these are interesting reading—as for instance, after her daughter had studied with Madame Loos-Tooker, Mrs. S. L. Eisendrath wrote, "I never cease to feel grateful for having heard of Madame Loos-Tooker." Mrs. Turner, wife of Ex-Governor Turner, and Mrs. Charles S. Deneen write enthusiastically; Carl A. Sundberg of Ottumwa, Ia., speaks in glowing terms of her work, and Bishop Samuel Fallows of Chicago writes, "It gives me very great pleasure to bear testimony to the high character of the musical renderings which Madame Loos-Tooker gave in St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal Church. The audiences have been wonderfully pleased, and her patrons have been full of praise for her ability as an artist and successful teacher of music."

CLARA LOOS-STRAUCH

The Misses Ewing of Decatur, after long study with Madame Loos-Tooker and the giving of a very successful song recital in Chicago went abroad for a long visit during which time they sang for many European critics and teachers, in every case receiving absolute endorsement on the methods and style of their work—results of Madame Loos-Tooker's teaching. In one of the many letters written to Madame Loos-Tooker, Miss Ewing says, "You need not fear that we will forget you or prefer another method. We have only deepened our confidence in yours by hearing many others."

Madame Loos-Tooker is most fortunate in having two daughters who have proven faithful exponents of her work, and who on

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

ISAAC VAN GROVE
ACCOMPANIST AND COACH
716 FINE ARTS BUILDING

LIZZIE ABBOTT CLARK
Sister of Emma Abbott
Mezzo Soprano Teacher of Singing
719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
179 PLEASANT STREET MILWAUKEE, WIS.
Available for Church position. Next Season

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

FRANK W Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN
American Conservatory Kimball Hall

JOSEPH KITCHIN VIOLINIST
5416 Jackson Avenue
CHICAGO
Phone Midway 6400

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium. Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

BEN Q. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg.

their own account are progressing to artistic eminence.

Mrs. Clara Loos-Strauch, since her recent marriage to Dr. August Strauch, has continued her lessons with her mother and will make many professional appearances during the season under the management of Harriet Martin Snow. Mrs. Strauch possesses beauty, personal charm and a good stage appearance besides having a fine voice and an extensive repertoire.

Miss Angela Loos-Tooker, second daughter of Mme. Loos-Tooker, is in charge of the voice culture department of the Decatur (Ill.) Studios. She has often been heard in Chicago with much pleasure and of her work in Decatur the Studio Catalog says:

"Miss Tooker possesses a pleasing voice and personality, inherent musical talent and pedagogic fitness. Withal, she thoroughly understands one of the most simple, effective and scientific methods of voice production—a method that has been eminently successful in developing beauty in the most unpromising voice."

Mme. Loos-Tooker's studio is at present at her residence, 3314 Ellis avenue, but she is now negotiating for a downtown studio also.

ANGELA LOOS-TOOKER

HORATIO CONNELL

Following is some comment on the work of Horation Connell in oratorio:

New York Evening Sun, March 1.—The bass solo "Quia fecit" by Horatio Connell revealed a depth of impressive influence and power.

New York Mail, March 1.—Horatio Connell's baritone was healthily resonant and full of body and color.

Boston Post, January 27, 1913. Mr. Connell is a baritone of exceptional intelligence, and he made the most of all his opportunities. He handles his voice in a finished manner: he gives interest to whatever passage he sings.

Boston Globe, January 27, 1913.—Horatio Connell is a singer of unusual intelligence, both in the mechanical and interpretative elements of vocal art. He made much of music which, with a less able singer, would have been dull.

Chicago Examiner, May 26.—Mr. Connell is an artist who sings with particular skill and with a remarkably clear diction. All his text is emitted with particular distinctness, and his aria "Arm, Arm, Ye Brave" was a fine vocal performance. The aria "Pious Orgies" transposed for him from the original key to E flat, was sung with a smooth tone and most expressively. (Advertisement.)

VERDICT OF TWO CONTINENTS

Following is some selected comment on the work of Miss Myrtle Elvyn, pianist, extending all the way from Berlin to San Francisco:

Berlin.—Miss Myrtle Elvyn, the American pianist, was heard in Beethoven Hall with the Philharmonic Orchestra. I was much pleased at the wonderfully developed technic, strong elastic touch and poetical interpretation of the young pianist, to whom Nature has been most generous, bestowing upon her, in addition to her great talent, a very attractive and charming personality.—Professor E. E. Taubert, Die Post, December 21, 1904.

Chicago.—In the "Childhood Scenes" of Schumann, —which charming work she gave in its entirety, and merits sincere thanks for reviving it—she showed fantasy, imagination, tenderness, and an appreciation of the lyrical which promise well for the emotional and poetic quality of her work in the future.—Daily Tribune, March 19, 1909.

Chicago. The interpretation of the composer (Chopin) she produced with the greatest feeling, from the dark and melancholy to the most vulcan-like expression, full of fire and passion.—Illinois Staats Zeitung, March 19, 1909.

Denver, Colo.—She is an artist of most compelling magnetism. It really was a treat to listen to her. —Post, May 15, 1909.

Myrtle Elvyn is nothing short of great.—Republican, May 15, 1909.

Spokane, Wash.—Her playing possesses a distinction of its own—a distinction that rare musical intelligence, adequate technic and the gift of expression convey.—Spokesman-Review, February 18, 1910.

Austin, Texas.—Because she was born in Sherman, all Texas cities delight to honor her, but she deserves honors and has won them, both in this country and in Europe. Her technic is a wonderful combination of masculine virility and feminine charm, while her tone qualities captivate her hearers.—Tribune, January 19, 1910.

San Francisco, Cal.—Earned a place among the world-famous pianists who have appeared at the same theater.—Examiner, April 29, 1909.

Fulfilled all expectations.—Chronicle, March 7, 1910.

Miss Elvyn's gifts as a pianist are notable.—Call, March 7, 1910.

She is a real musician.—Evening Post, March 7, 1910.

Buffalo, N. Y.—A musician who compares with the best in the world today.—Evening Times, December 6, 1907.

The listeners were simply carried off their feet by her tremendous performance of the closing piece.—Express, December 6, 1907.

She may well be ranked as one of the greatest woman pianists of the age.—Enquirer, December 6, 1907.

Chicago.—Then came another return to beautifully serious things of music in the Tschaikowsky concerto in B flat minor. In this strong, even beautiful and impressive composition, with trying tasks in both octave and finger technic, she was equal to the emergencies at all times and the fiery temperament and finished equipment swept over the dazzling difficulties in amazing fashion. The Theodore Thomas Orchestra was in fine fettle and the players joined the audience in applauding the soloist—which was praise indeed.—Charles E. Nixon, in Daily News, October 30, 1907. (Advertisement.)

MELBA MAE FRENCH

Following is some additional press comment on the work of Melba Mae French:

Rev. John C. Jackson, pastor M. E. Church, London, Ohio: The entertainment given in my church last night by the Melba Mae French Concert Company was entirely satisfactory to everyone in the large audience.

Rev. M. J. Cameron, pastor First Congregational Church, Hammond, Ind.: We all enjoyed the French Concert Company's entertainment immensely. It was one of the finest we have ever had. I voice the sentiment of others when I say we hope they can be with us next year.

Mrs. W. H. Turner, president W. C. A., Mt. Vernon, Ohio: The Melba French Concert Company's entertainment was fine and gave excellent satisfaction to all.

J. B. Snyder, public schools, Grovesport, Ohio: The French Concert Company, who appeared here last night under the auspices of the school, gave us a splendid entertainment. We were especially pleased with the solo work.

Professor W. W. Weaver, Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio: The Melba Mae French Concert Company rendered a delightful program as the third number of the lecture course. Miss French is certainly an artist, her vocal work has a range that is remarkable, and a rich, rare quality. She sang her high notes with perfect clearness. Her violin work was as remarkable as her work with the voice. The music under her manipulation seemed to have new charms. I have never heard anyone who could excel her for pure tones, effective rendition and general satisfaction. This was the best number of the course and it was the opinion of many that it was worth the price of the entire course. They can certainly please the most critical audience with their delightful entertainment.

Masonic Sentinel, Chicago, Ill.: Miss Melba French gave several readings which were good, as they always are, and were applauded to the echo by the audience of hundreds of people.

Wheaton Illinoian: So diverse are Miss French's talents that all things point to a phenomenally brilliant future for this remarkable young lady, possessed of a voice of unusual sweetness, natural beauty and charm and has acquired a violin and piano technic which will attain brilliance and virility, and has all the requisites which make a successful reader. The Frenches gave an evening of music and verse long to be remembered in the hearts of their hearers.
(Advertisement.)

EFFA ELLIS

The following clipping is taken from the Oklahoma City Evening Times.

A most interesting exposition of one of the newest developments in music was given Saturday afternoon in the studio of Miss Hyla Florence Long when Miss Effa Ellis of Omaha gave a talk on the new system of musical instruction originated by her, which has brought her such world wide prominence in the musical field. Miss Ellis has lectured repeatedly before the National Association of Music Teachers and different state association and has lately received calls from Munich and London, on her system of keyboard harmony which is one of the most remarkable advancements in that line that has been brought out in years. Its basic teaching principle combines musical psychology and pedagogy and in this way really develops pupils in place of teaching them. The machine work of dry memorizing is done away with and a very simple method substituted. Miss Ellis demonstrated the principles by a class of children who had never had any musical instructioin and in one hour's time had taught them all the note values, notation, chord building, the keyboard, and some studies in rhythm. The two most interesting points made were that the teacher has no right to measure the dose for the child, some of whom absorb much more rapidly than can be imagined, and that when a mistake is made the child should not be told of it, and thus destroy its confidence in self but it should be brought about in another manner. Miss Ellis conducts classes of teachers by correspondence, and is now enroute to visit her classes in Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso, Phoenix, Ariz., and Los Angeles. The teachers who were invited to hear the address were Mmes. Mina Herz Hightower, Lane, Regina, Professor and Mrs. Charles M. Bliss, Misses Zoe Klein, Caldwell, Olivia Caylor, Clare, Reed, Amanda O'Connor, Belzora Phillips, Clara Waldron, Ruth McCornack, Ruth McCredie, Elma Haubach, and a large number of pupils and their mothers were also present. (Advertisement)

BONCI — THIRD AMERICAN TOUR SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York — Knabe Piano Used

MYRTLE ELVYN — RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE
Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914
Concert Direction, M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av., New York. — Kimball Piano Used

CHRISTINE MILLER — CONTRALTO
In Europe until Oct. 1, 1913
Address, care of American Express Co., Paris
Management HAENSEL & JONES
Aeolian Hall, New York

MR. & MRS JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS — Address 330 West 58th St. — NEW YORK CITY

LUELLA CHILSON-OHRMAN
SOLOIST AT WORCESTER FESTIVAL SEASON — Address 4603 Sheridan Road

LILIAN MARY STOUT — PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING — Phone Sunnyside 8540

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC — MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY Bass-Baritone Oratorio Concert MURRISON MABEL Pianist Accompanist
JOINT-RECITALS — Alliance Ohio

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers
Do you know how a "well placed tone" feels?
Do you know the fifteen definite vowel forms?
Do you know how all consonants should be produced? How connected?
Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled?
If you do not know these truths then your diction is inefficient?
If you are not happy in your work, call on
KATHERINE SCHUSTER
71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO
Specialists in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

EVA EMMET WYCOFF

The following are press notices of Miss Wycoff's singing at Chautauqua, N. Y., July, 1913:

Miss Wycoff's thorough capability as a musician, and the splendid quality of her voice won sincere appreciation on the several occasions in which she appeared.

In Sullivan's "Golden Legend" Miss Wycoff's voice was heard to great advantage in her excellent rendition of the attractive parts assigned to "Elsie" in this beautiful cantata.—Chicago Music News, July, 1913.

Miss Wycoff is so capable and such a thorough musician, that there is little to be desired after she sings except a repetition.—Chautauquan Daily, Chautauqua, N. Y.

Rendition of Sullivan's "Golden Legend"

Miss Wycoff sang the soprano role of Elsie and appeared to particularly good advantage in the solo "The Night Is Calm" with the chorus. Chautauqua Daily, Chautauqua, N. Y.

Miss Wycoff's singing was full of musicianly qualities.—Musical America, July 26, 1913.

GEORGE W. MUNRO

Voice Specialist

Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.

Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.

Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.

Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

Chicago Piano College

(Piano-Mu-lcianship)

Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors

Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

ROY DAVID BROWN

PIANIST

KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. Baritone DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING American Conservatory Kimball Hall

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt

SOPRANO

Oratorio Concert Song Recital

Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON

VOICE TEACHER Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN

LYRIC SOPRANO

Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

My Dear Miss Wycoff: I want to thank you heartily for the many pleasant occasions upon which I heard you sing, and I hope soon to hear you again. The day that I arrived at Chautauqua I heard you sing the delightful little "Cuckoo" song, and was always glad to hear you. Please accept this small token of my appreciation.

Sincerely yours,

AN UNKNOWN FRIEND.

(Advertisement.)

STEIN CONSERVATORY

The Stein studios, long eminently successful in Chicago, have grown to such importance, and the list of pupils has multiplied so many times, that now a full-fledged school has been evolved and the success of the Stein Musical-Dramatic Conservatory, proven emphatically last year, will be still more emphasized in the enlarged equipment and the splendid enrollment of pupils for the current season.

Very attractive studios are maintained at 55 and 75 the Auditorium, and the faculty list has been increased to the following: Karl Buren Stein, Victor Liska, Glendora Barnes, Ruth Hellene Dahley and Mabel Griggs, voice; Mrs. Karl Buren Stein, Bess Marion Anderson, Marguerite Sheffield and Mrs. Margaret Lurena Nelson, dramatic art; George Hrusa, violin; Stephen A. Erst, Anna Tomlinson, Anna Weske, Hazel Palmer and Florence Le Claire, piano; Josephine Hatlanck, ballet dancing; William Irving Andruss, organ.

Some items from the very handsome new catalog being sent out are here appended:

The Musical-Dramatic Club was organized for the purpose of giving the pupils experience in appearing in light opera.

The Ensemble Voice Club, composed of advanced students, rehearses duets, trios, quartets and sextets from the heavier operas and oratorios for public performances. Choral work in part songs, opera and oratorio is given for all students.

The Glee Club was organized from the young men students to train them for male quartet and part singing.

The Dramatic Club, composed chiefly of Mrs. Stein's pupils, study different dramas, comediettas and scenes, and present them at their recitals.

The orchestra rehearses regularly for the benefit of the students of stringed instruments. They practice standard music for use on chorus, opera and oratorio, to be played with the vocal students, as well as concertos and chamber music to be played with the piano pupils.

The Ensemble Piano Club gives concerted practice for the piano students. It develops ability in sight reading, accuracy in time and general musical training.

The North Shore School

Mr. and Mrs. Stein have found it expedient to form a branch school for North Shore students at Waukegan. Mr. William Irving Andruss will have entire charge of the piano department and Miss Griggs and Mrs. Nelson will assist in the voice and elocution, while Miss Barnes and Miss Anderson will devote their attention to the work in Kenosha, Wis.

RIHELDAFFER OPENS LIBRARY

Grace Hall Riheldaffer, the popular Pittsburgh soprano, is already heavily booked for the coming season. Two series of recitals are to be given in conjunction with Mary Dennison Gailey, the violinist. She is also taking a limited number of engagements in January for a lecture recital on Oriental music, with Nelle Richmond Eberhart, the collaborator of Charles Wakefield Cadman. Recently, during a visit of Miss Gailey to Mrs. Riheldaffer, they shared honors at a luncheon given by Mrs. George M. Jones for Fraulein Dorothy Richter of Hanover, Germany. The occasion marked the opening of the wonderful library of the new Jones residence on Squirrel Hill, a handsome edifice of modified Tudor architecture with pure Georgian interior, surrounded by an English garden and containing magnificent souvenirs gathered in world-wide travel. An informal concert in the library followed the luncheon, in which the group of Cadman and Woodforde-Finden songs aroused the especial enthusiasm of the German guest.

MARTHA S. STEELE

Some recent press comment on the work of this Pittsburgh dramatic contralto:

The second number of the artist's subscription course given last evening at Masonic Hall offered a program of interest interpreted by an artist of excellent, and as her work proved, well merited reputation. Mrs. Steele's rendition of her first song group was an exacting test for any vocalist, numbering Massenet's "Elegy," Schumann's "Widening," Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me," and Schubert's "Who Is Sylvia." Her voice proved to be one of remarkable compass without that throaty quality of the middle range almost invariably marking the powerful contralto, with rare and luscious sweetness in the lower tones. In the "big numbers" calling for the entire range and power of her voice the audience admired Mrs. Steele, but it was in those little songs of her second group, Nevin's "Nightingale Song," "The Wishes of Sans-Souci," and Cadman's "At Dawning" that they were delighted with her. Her works in "The Danza" was effective and worth learning, but the smaller vocal gems representing sentiment with a touch of passion revealed the singer at her best both as to tone, quality and interpretation. So unusual are the endowments of this singer and so sincere and meritorious her work that the event was one of real artistic interest and of distinct cultural value.—Erie Dispatch, Erie, Pa.

Martha S. Steele has a splendid contralto voice, and is well known in Pittsburgh musical circles.—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Martha S. Steele has a fine contralto voice and her singing was a rare musical treat.—Inquirer and Mirror, Nantucket, Mass.

Mrs. Steele scores at Schenley Concert. Popular contralto's singing with Festival Orchestra wins approval of large audience.

Mrs. Steele was heard first in the great aria "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from Saint-Saens, "Samson and Delilah," given with orchestral accompaniment.

The number was well chosen, affording as it did full play to the excellent vocal powers of the singer. Mrs. Steele has a voice of great beauty, rich, resonant, and marked by the pathetic quality which constitutes the true contralto timbre. Moreover, she has temperament and interpretative ability of a high order. The orchestra gave her notably good support. Mrs. Steele received an enthusiastic recall and responded by repeating the last half of the number. After the intermission she sang three songs with piano, Nevin's "Nightingale Song," Chadwick's "Danza," and MacFadyen's "Love Is the Wind," and as an encore gave the exquisite "Elegy" of Massenet with 'cello obligato.—Arthur G. Burgoyne, Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Martha S. Steele, soloist, with the Pittsburgh Festival Orchestra, acquitted herself with power and effect in the several roles which she essayed.—Weekly Herald, Sewickley, Pa.

Martha S. Steele has a rich contralto voice, and her singing gave great pleasure.—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Martha S. Steele has a contralto voice of exceptionally good quality and range.—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

It has been my pleasure to accompany Mrs. Steele and I am glad to speak of her beautiful voice. It is rich and powerful and when singing Mrs. Steele throws beauty into the music with delightful abandon.—Virgil Piano School, N. Y., Robert C. Young.

Martha S. Steele has given eminent satisfaction in her interpretation of my composition. Her rendition of "Saynonara" has given her hearers great pleasure. Mrs. Steele has a voice of rich quality and handles it in a musicianly way.—Charles Wakefield Cadman.

Allow me to express my sincerest admiration for your singing at the recent Festival Orchestra Concert, especally the "Samson and Delilah" aria was beautifully done. With best wishes for your continued success.—Earl Bernthaler, Conductor, Pittsburgh Festival Orchestra. (Advertisement.)

CLARENCE EDDY

May be engaged for the
Opening of New Organs and for Organ Recitals
During the Season of 1913-1914.
Address: 510 Oakwood Blvd., Chicago.

RENE S.
LUND
Baritone
Song Recitals Concert

All inquiries and bookings personally attended to by Mr. Lund. Circulars mailed on request.
2453 W. Monroe St., Chicago Tel. Seeley 5602

RUTH ALTA
ROGERS
PIANIST
If desired, Recital Programs will be opened with explanatory talks on the compositions to be played.
MANAGEMENT
CHARLES E. WATT 522 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

DELMA-HEIDE
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris
MAESTO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

Chicago Concert Trio
ALBERT E. FOX, Piano WILLIAM HOFMAN, Violin
MARJORIE DODGE WARNER, Soprano
Management CHARLES E. WATT Kimball Hall.

COMMENT BY MAUD POWELL

The following article by Maud Powell shows her to be a clear thinker and forcible writer as well as (in the opinion of many) the world's greatest woman violinist.

"Why these cavillers confine their criticisms to fiddlers is more than I can understand. Is Mme. Carreno a Rubinstein or Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler a Paderewski? Methinks not. Furthermore, Mme. Carreno doesn't try to be virile—she obeys the inner impulse. Mme. Zeisler doesn't try to be electric—she just is. Mme. Urso was the sincerest of artists—and never tried to ape 'mere man.' No one would have admitted sooner than she that she was not a Joachim; but she could play a downward scale without his flop in changing positions and she could draw a steadier bow than he. Moreover, her ear remained true to the last. Lady Halle was a cross old patch, but it is safe to say that any woman playing as well as she did must have been sincere and have had convictions. She was not a Vieuxtemps, but she played better than any local man in London, when I lived there. Teresina Tua was the most delightful and fascinating woman violinist I ever heard; but she was not a Sarasate, and Tua was much too pretty and fascinating to keep up the grind. It is doubtful whether her talent could ever have developed much beyond the Bruch G Minor Concerto, Mendelssohn E Minor Concerto and Vieuxtemps Polonaise stage.

"What we woman lack in art is that infinite and wonderful tenderness that speaks through the tone of Ysaye and Kreisler. We mother the whole race, our children, fathers, brothers and husbands—and with quick intuition the stranger at our door—but the quality does not as yet express itself in art. The lack, however, is not in the fiddling tribe alone, so why should we bear the brunt of that everlasting and overworked criticism? It would be a lark if the men could occasonally read our innermost thouhts when they are chanticleering around. I certainly think we are more clearly aware of our shortcomings than they are. And Oh! our sorriest wail! the question of health and physical endurance! They little know how much more it costs us in will power to achieve than it does them. And then the discomfort of our clothes, the time and trouble it takes to keep oneself looking respectable, etc., etc., etc."

MAUD POWELL

RENE S. LUND

Rene S. Lund, baritone, who has sucessfully appeared in two song recitals in Chicago, is also making a success acting as his own manager, answering all inquiries personally.

RENE S. LUND

On Thursday evening, November 9, 1911, Mr. Lund made his initial appearance at Music Hall, Fine Arts Building, at which time the comments of the Chicago critics were very favorable, as may be judged from the following short extracts:

Mr. Lund appreciates the value of a soft conclusion of a lyric phrase and has learned to control an exquisitely proportioned diminuendo.
—Chicago Daily Tribune

He has the ability to color his tones with the feeling and emotions suggested by the text.
—Chicago Record-Herald

He displayed a splendid voice and refined musical feeling. —Chicago Evening Post

Mr. Lund has a baritone voice of very agreeable quality, which he uses with appreciable artistry.
—Chicago Inter Ocean

He revealed a voice of sympathetic quality and pleasant timbre. —Chicago Examiner

His numbers were given in a musicianly manner.
—Musical Courier

He sang with refinement and much musical feeling.
—Musical America

4 GREAT AUSTRALIAN TOURS

DAVID BISPHAM Opening at Sidney May 31, 1913
MADAME
LILLIAN NORDICA Opening at Sydney July 26, 1913
MISCHA ELMAN Opening at Sydney June, 1914
MADAME
SCHUMANN-HEINK Opening at Sydney June, 1915

Under Exclusive Management and Personal Direction of
Frederic Shipman
American Address 3835 Flournoy St., Chicago
Australian Address Hotel Australia, Sydney

Mr. Lund also knows extremely well how to "tell the story" and therefore the "Three Comrades" of Hermann was thoroughly effective from the dramatic standpoint. —Music News

(Advertisement)

♯♯♯

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH IN COLORADO

The rapidly growing popularity of Frederick Preston Search, the American 'cellist, is most remarkable. The papers of every city wherein he appears are filled with most laudatory comments on his marvelous success. Grand Junction, Colo., catches all the big artists, for it is so located between Denver and Salt Lake that a booking there is necessary in order to save loss of one evening en route. Frederick Preston Search's train arrived at Grand Junction late, but he captured his audience anyway. One critic reports: "The name of Frederick Preston Search has been added to the list of illustrious artists and musicians who have won their way to the hearts of Grand Junction people. The great 'cellist gave a remarkable concert at the Majestic Theater last night; and, so great was the appreciation of his talent, that he can bear away with him a warm memory of Grand Junction. Search is undoubtedly the greatest master of the violoncello ever heard in this part of the country and is well on his way to claim the title of 'greatest in the world.' He is a musician through and through and he loves his instrument most dearly, as was illustrated last night when he announced near the end of his program that by request he would render a selection from Wagner, and that his 'wife' would sing it for him. Only a few caught the clever illusion as he smilingly settled into his chair and sent his hearers to dreaming again with the beautiful tones of his wonderful instrument."

Another critic writes concerning the same appearance: "His concert was an inspiration from the opening number until the last note of music had been uttered by the lutelike strings of his instrument. Perhaps the finest rendition of the evening was Klengel's 'Concerto in D Minor,' if mastery of instrument and technic be considered, although the 'Preislied' may have been preferred by many. 'Traumerei' was never more delicately interpreted or rendered with more depth or emotional power. Two of his own compositions, 'Romanze in C Major' and 'Romanze in F Major,' closing with 'An Evening in Tangiers' (also his own), brought the talented young master a storm of applause which he could not weather without blushingly calling in his accompanist, Walter Chapman, to share it with him. He replied to the encore with 'A Cradle Song,' which crooned its sweet melody to many a mother's ear. Pleased with the salvos of appreciative applause, Mr. Search gave the favorite 'Tarantella,' a rippling, high-spirited selection, and, as encore to this encore, Carrie Jacobs-Bond's 'A Perfect Day.' The latter also won instant sympathy with the audience, and the beautiful Beethoven 'Minuet' crested the wave. This was a number of indescribable charm. . . The concert was one of the greatest that has ever come to the city and will live as a favored memory."

HAMILTON HOPKINS

The accompanying picture is that of Mr. Hamilton Hopkins, a singer who has spared no pains or expense to acquire the best vocal method to be obtainable in the world, and who has returned to America and Chicago after seven years in Europe, four years of which were spent with Casini, finally last season with the Chicago Grand Opera Company, with which his engagement has been renewed for the present season.

Mr. Hopkins after study in this country went to Milan, where he was accepted as a pupil by Casini, later acting as his assistant for a long time. Through this double opportunity he is well equipped to teach according to the Casini method. He received the same instruction and studied under the same roof as Ruffo.

HAMILTON HOPKINS

Though his studio in the Fine Arts Building has been open but two weeks, Mr. Hopkins has already booked his teaching time almost to the limit—this being because every applicant for lessons, whether man or woman, recognizes at once in Mr. Hopkins' own singing that certain tonal quality which proclaims a method they have been searching for; in other words, a perfect method.

Lelio Casini was the teacher of Titta Ruffo. After study with Casini, Ruffo was engaged for his first appearance in the Costanzi Theater in Rome, as a baritone, though previously he had been singing as a bass. Success at his debut led to engagements in Russia, Italy, South America and

"The average pupil," says Mr. Hopkins, "does not seem to realize how important it is to get, first, the proper method of singing. If a pupil wants to do big things let him study with a teacher who can demonstrate the first principle of singing—proper tone production—which is absolutely necessary in order to sing operatic roles as they should be sung." He places stress on a forward ringing tone, and indeed his first thought is tone, concerning which he remarks, "How many singers strive for it, and never get it, yet how easy it is when once a pupil gets the right placement."

Mr. Hopkins will hear voices, without any fee for the examination, in his studio on Monday and Thursday afternoons.

GERTRUDE V. O'HANLON

Gertrude V. O'Hanlon is just back from a trip to the Pacific Coast. Miss O'Hanlon made arrangements for concerts for her artists as follows:

The Beethoven Trio is now on a western tour, and will give concerts in the following cities: Litchfield, Minn.; St. Cloud, Minn.; Dickinson, N. D.; Sheridan, Wyo.; Billings, Missoula, Bozeman, Mont.; Bismarck, Jamestown and Fargo, N. D.; Crookston, Fergus Falls, Brainard, Faribault and Minneapolis, Minn.

Albert Lindquest, tenor, will appear in the following cities: St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn.; Peru, Neb.; Atchison, Hutchinson, Newton, Topeka, Kas.; Wayne, Neb.; Sioux Falls, Watertown, Huron, Rapid City, Deadwood, S. D.; Sheridan, Wyo.; Billings, Livingston, Bozeman, Helena, Missoula, Great Falls and Lewistown, Mont.; Bismarck, Jamestown and Devil's Lake, N. D.; Moorhead, Crookston, Fergus Falls, Little Falls, Litchfield, Minn.; Oshkosh and Fond du Lac, Wis.

Hanna Butler, soprano, will sing in the following cities: Peru, Neb.; Atchison, Newton, Hutchinson and Topeka, Kas.; Des Moines, Ia.; Wayne, Neb.; Sioux Falls, Watertown, Huron, Rapid City and Deadwood, S. D.; Laramie and Sheridan, Wyo.; Baker City, Ore.; Missoula, Helena, Great Falls, Bozeman, Livingston, Billings, Mont.; Bismarck, Jamestown, Devils Lake, N. D.; Moorhead, Crookston, Fergus Falls, Little Falls and Litchfield, Minn.; Dubuque, Ia.; Oshkosh and Fond du Lac, Wis.

Rose Lutiger Gannon, contralto, in St. Paul, Minn.; New Rockford, N. D.; Owatonna, Minn.; Wayne, Neb.; Baraboo, Wis.; Peru, Neb.; Atchison, Newton, Hutchinson and Topeka, Kas.; Chicago, Ill.; Sioux Falls, Watertown, Huron, Rapid City, Deadwood, S. D.; Sheridan, Wyo.; Baker City, Ore.; Missoula, Helena, Great Falls, Bozeman, Livingston and Billings, Mont.; Bismarck, Jamestown, Devils Lake, N. D.; Moorhead, Crookston, Fergus Falls, Little Falls, Litchfield, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac, Wis.

Edna Gunnar Peterson, pianist: Fergus Falls, Minn.; Sioux Falls, Huron and Deadwood, S. D., with Alice Nielsen; Oshkosh, Wis., with Alice Nielsen; Fond du Lac, Wis.; Sheridan, Wyo., with Alice Nielsen; Billings, Livingston, Bozeman and Great Falls, Mont., with Alice Nielsen; Helena, Mont.; Bismarck, N. D., with Alice Nielsen; Mandan, N. D.; Crookston, Brainard and Minneapolis, Minn.; Laramie, Wyo.; Baker City, Ore..; in joint recital with Cornelius Van Vliet in Helena, Great Falls, Livingston, Bozeman and Billings, Mont.; Northfield, Minn.

Albert Borroff, basso: St. Paul, Owatonna, Little Falls, and Crookston, Minn.; Wayne, Neb.; Kearney, Neb.; Sheridan, Wyo.; Huron, S. D.; Billings, Livingston, Helena, Great Falls and Missoula, Mont.; Baker City, Ore.; Pocatello, Ida.; Dillon, Butte, Laramie, Mont.; York, Neb.

Through the courtesies of Charles L. Wagner Miss O'Hanlon booked ten dates for Alice Nielsen in the west.

TITTA RUFFO'S master, LELIO CASINI, recommends

HAMILTON HOPKINS

[CASINI'S Assistant for 4 Years in Milan]

STUDIO NOW OPEN 726 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM

"A Lodder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys 50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice 50
Beotitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50

At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS

VIOLINIST

WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

Bispham Summer of 1913 in Australia
For Terms and Dates, Address
Frederic Shipman, 3835 Flournoy Street CHICAGO, ILL.

ALBERT SPALDING

European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT

SOPRANO CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS
Phone Austin 12717
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT
5943 OHIO STREET

ELLA L. MILLS PIANIST
American Conservatory and
117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

PALMER CHRISTIAN

Concert Organist Pupils Coach Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

Iva Bigelow Weaver SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Jennie F. W. Johnson Contralto
American Conservatory and
4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work

May Mansfield

PARIS STUDIOS:
27 rue Boisleven
Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET

BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL
CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory

207-211 South Main St.
South Bend, Ind.

A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Ask for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN AMERICAN COMPOSER
In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals.
Recitals of His Compositions.
Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs.
WITH R. E. JOHNSTON OF NEW YORK SEASON 1912-1913

ELSE HARTHAN-ARNDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av.
Phone Normal 1466

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY.
Music Critics say: "Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose playing inspires and Makes, Not Mars' the soloist."
2550 BURLING ST. TELEPHONE DIVERSEY 8470

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art.
Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT, Sec

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Herbert E. Hyde
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
STUDIO: 407 Kimball Hall RESIDENCE: 6611 Woodlawn Av.

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

CHARLOTTE LOUISE PETTIBONE
Piano Accompanying Instruction
224 North Prairie Av., Austin, Chicago

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

van Vliet The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4365

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

ECHOES OF DAVID BISPHAM'S AUSTRALIAN SUCCESS

Mr. Bispham's stay in the Antipodes was curtailed by four weeks, owing to the outbreak of an epidemic of smallpox in Sydney, which, as all steamer sailings were canceled, preventing him from visiting New Zealand, as had been planned to do. His vessel homeward bound was quarantined in Samoa, as it was, and narrowly escaped being held up at Honolulu and San Francisco. Owing to the shorter period of his activities he made but about forty appearances, instead of the fifty anticipated.

From the volumes of praise, appreciation and eulogy written about the American baritone, the following sentences are culled from the press of Sydney, Melbourne and Adelaide:

A Brilliant Debut

A rare singer, humorist, tragedian and born entertainer; the most versatile artist who ever visited Australia. . . The concert was one of the most largely attended that any artist has drawn with a classical song recital in Australia. About 2,000 people were present and their applause was electrically spontaneous.—Sydney Herald.

The evening was one of sheer delight. Mr. Bispham captured his house.—Sydney Telegraph.

Mr. Bispham is a triumph as a vocalist, but his gift as a reciter and monologist lift him far above the ordinary concert singer.—Sydney Punch.

A Superb Artist

Truly one of the finest dramatic baritones Australians ever heard. Sydney Splashes.

Emphatically a singer of the very highest order; his voice is rich with the richness that appeals and stirs.—Sydney World's Work.

This delightful entertainer has so captured the hearts of Sydney's music lovers that an additional series of recitals has been arranged. . . Magnificent voice, perfect artistry.—Sydney Mail.

A Master Singer

David Bispham has the best of goods to offer. He is undoubtedly one of the finest of present-day artists. There was a delightful bloom and freshness in his mellow basso cantante voice. From start to finish he made good. He should be proud of his reception.—Sydney Sun.

A Great Interpretative Artist

A mellow voice, perfect technic, fluency of phrasing, a distinctness of enunciation positively delightful,—all this and more he has.—Sydney Town and Country.

A Great Singer

Bispham's singing comes as a revelation. He is more than a singer merely; he is a finished elocutionist and actor. Immense enthusiasm has greeted him.—Sydney Catholic Press.

Bispham's farewell operatic concert was a triumph. David the singer even surpassed his previous efforts.—Sydney Bulletin.

So remarkable was the performance set up by Mr. Bispham at his last concert, that all others given by him—though fine enough truly—faded into insignificance.—Sydney Australasian.

Hats off, gentlemen, a singer! No artist ever deserved more at our hands than David Bispham. As humorist, as tragedian, as lecturer, as a superb singer, he is equally successful.—Melbourne Age.

A Great Song Poet

To hear Mr. Bispham through a program is to have revealed to one what singing as an interpretative art can be made at its highest—Melbourne Table Talk.

The famous American baritone is an entertainment in himself. He combined all the qualifications necessary to achieve success.—Melbourne Leader.

It is to be doubted if such a person as Mr. Bispham ever came here before.—a new and pleasant experience. Music made homely, familiar and intimate. He steps off the pedestal of the artist and gets right amongst his hearers. He has the gift of being able to conjure up pictures in song so vividly that they take on the character of little dramas.—Melbourne Argus.

An Artistic Triumph

Through the whole gamut of human feeling he takes the listener, touching now a note of sadness, now reverting to strains of lilting happiness.—Adelaide Herald.

A Supreme Artist

The most magnetic man ever seen here upon the concert stage, the possessor of gorgeous deep notes and rich head tones. Altogether unique. Rare and unconventional art. He is one who paints his scenes and characters; he sketches them with expressive feature and eloquent gesture, and colors them with marvelous gradations of tone. Students should sit at his feet and learn. He is unique beyond compare.—Adelaide Register.

The Master

Victoria Hall has been the scene of one of the greatest artistic triumphs Adelaide has ever known. David Bispham is a force in the world's music, and one of its brightest ornaments. He is a man with transcendent abilities of tragedy, pathos and humor, pouring forth his gifts as none has ever done before in Australia.—Adelaide Mail.

Upon reaching New York an offer from Martin Beck for some weeks in vaudeville at a salary not to be refused, was awaiting Mr. Bispham, who accepted it, and immediately appeared in Milwaukee, Chicago and New York, with other cities to follow. Mr. Bispham is singing selections from his operatic and concert repertoire, and holding the standard high—with his usual triumphant success. He will shortly begin rehearsals for "The Jolly Peasant," the beautiful light opera by Leo Fall, in which he is star this autumn under the management of Werba and Luescher.

###

MR. VON ENDE'S IDEALS

The following article was printed in Musical America some weeks ago, but it is so full of fine thought that Music News is glad to reproduce it here:

About three years ago a young musician who had won high recognition as a violinist and teacher confided to a number of friends that it was his ambition to establish a large conservatory of music in New York City. Anyone who knows musical conditions in the metropolis can easily imagine that the musician received but little encouragement.

"I'll give you just six months!" predicted one. "I'll give you a year," supplemented another.

But Herwegh von Ende, the man referred to, had his own ideas on the subject, and discouragement knows no place in his make-up. He went on with his plans and today, after two years of remarkable success, he has the satisfaction of heading one of the most prominent schools of music in America.

To accomplish what Herweigh von Ende has done in practically two years requires a natural equipment of a remarkable nature. But chief among the characteristics that have made for his success is the courage of his own convictions.

"The one ideal that I have set before me," he told a representative of Musial America this week, "is to combine art and business on an ethical basis. The day of art for art's sake has passed, and we must look to some means of accommodating art to a practical business basis. By this I do not mean that it is necessary to lower artistic standards. What is needed today by our students is a musical education that is accompanied by the ability to meet present day conditions—a training that fits a man or woman to become independent, that does not leave him or her a hopeless, helpless drag on the musical community!

"This has been my conviction and it was this idea that prompted me to establish a school which would stand for something more than simply to dump upon the community each year a number of talented but unpractical and helpless musicians unable to guide themselves in the struggle they faced.

"One of the striking evils in the system of musical training that prevails in America today is the manner in which students flit about from teacher to teacher, from school to school, obtaining a smattering of ideas here and there and, in the end, a confused regard for their life-work. I make this charge against many of our musical institutions: while they are undoubtedly anxious to turn out as many full-fledged musicians as possible, they are absolutely unconcerned about the future of the men and women that have left their portals.

"This seems just as wrong as if a parent should send his child out into the world before it is able to fight the battle of life. Yet this is universally done in music. For, while students in any other branch of knowledge readily fit in with the practical needs and wants of the world, art students, especially musicians, when completing their studies, are suddenly thrown into a world for the material demands of which they have not been prepared. They plunge into the maelstrom of musical life without being able to swim.

"To overcome this unfortunate condition I have tried with gratifying results to establish a feeling of personal interest between my faculty and my students. Our numerous public recitals, the informal talks given to our students by men and women prominent in the practical affairs of life, our own concert bureau and the wholesome 'atmosphere' that pervades the whole institution have combined to establish a helpful influence the beneficial effect of which is apparent in many ways.

"So you see, it is our aim to cultivate the social side of the professional musician in the making. Here is another problem of vital interest today. I believe that the social recognition of the musician is close at hand, and, I may say, in spite of the musician himself, for it is nothing new to refer to the musician as his own worst enemy.

"At thirteen I began to earn my livelihood, at sixteen I had many pupils, and at the same period of my life I held various orchestral positions besides concertizing extensively. In Berlin I was first violin with the Philharmonic Orchestra during the season of 1898-99. This activity has more and more centered itself upon teaching, so that today my entire attention is riveted upon the development of our young generation. I have already many musical great-grandchildren and am looking forward to a more far-reaching relationship. During these years of varied experiences, coming in contact here and abroad with literary people, sculptors, painters, scientists and educators. I have long ceased to seek my intimate friends among musicians, save a very few, and this attitude toward the musician seems universal. As long as we ourselves shun our colleagues, because they are either mentally inferior to people in other walks of life, or so self-centered and vain that their company soon grows tiresome, we cannot expect social recognition from others. Whether the social recognition of the musician will be pigeon-holed and remain close at hand for a long time to come depends upon the musician. These remarks are not resigned to belittle the musician, but to reiterate what has been said so often with the hope of doing my little share in bringing the younger generation upon whom the future of our profession rests, to the realization that a thorough general education must be the foundation of every musician's career as that of a physician or lawyer.

"And what is of greater importance—I am interested in beginning a movement that will evolve a plan to enable our young people preparing for musical careers to secure a general education without being forced to neglect one or the other, as has been the case up to the present time. I am not referring to the exception, but to the average."

Mr. von Ende expresses the belief that America's future musical development lies largely in the influence of the women's musical clubs. "If the object of these clubs is to develop and improve the musical condition and taste in their respective communities, it is their duty to assist the local artist to occupy the proper position among them," he declares. "These clubs should take pride in becoming known for their generous treatment of artists and to pay them as much as possible instead of taking pride in securing them for as little as possible.

"Instead of the few great artists gathering up all the available funds in sight, every club in every city, large or small, should make it a rule to give first consideration to its local artists and not to outsiders, for its the local artist's ability that counts above all. The worship of stars is overdone."

———♯♯♯———

JOHN W. NICHOLS

Two new songs have just been dedicated to John W. Nichols, the tenor, "Morning," by Lynn B. Dana, director of Dana's Conservatory, Warren, Ohio, and a sacred song, "I Was a Wandering Sheep," by James Bird of Marietta, Ohio. Of the former song the Chautauqua Daily of July 17 says:

Mr. Nichols, as a second number, sang a beautiful new composition, "Morning" (dedicated to Mr. Nichols), by Mr. Lynn B. Dana. The number is sparkling and rich in melodic worth and well worked out. Both the singer and the song were received with favor.

———♯♯♯———

Nielsen.—Miss Alice Nielsen, one of the distinguished trio under Charles G. Wagner's management, is expected to return to America early in October.

CHARLOTTE IKERT CONCERT-ORATORIO JOINT RECITAL ROSCOE KIMBALL
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON - - - - Fine Arts Building Chicago

JOHN R. RANKL Bass-Baritone
PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING Phone Harrison 6880

SOFIA STEPHALI COLORATURE MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

HANS HESS CELLIST American Conservatory Telephone Lincoln 7917

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM
SOPRANO COMPOSER
Phone Harrison 6880 608 FINE ARTS BUILDING Accompanist

Louise George Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Preiser Violin School STUDIOS
530 N. Pine Av., Austin
5407 S. Halsted St. and
2831 Washington Boul.
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director Phone Austin 4043

CONCERTS RECITALS ORATORIOS OSCAR SEAGLE 17 Avenue Mozart Paris (France)
BARITONE
American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER In Paris all Summer 119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR HAZZARD-PEOCOCK FRANCE ENGLAND GERMANY
DRAMATIC SOPRANO RECITALS CONCERTS
Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London

WHITEHILL
BARITONE
Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

LOUISE BURTON
SOPRANO 520 Fine Arts Bldg Phone Drexel 8183

MR. MRS. Karl Buren Stein TEACHERS of SINGING ELOCUTION ACTING
TENOR DRAMATIC READER JOINT RECITALS 55 Auditorium Bldg.

Esther Plumb CONTRALTO
4173 Lake Avenue
Phone Oakland 3246
Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

WALTER DIEDERICH TENOR
TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

HELEN GALLUP Pianist Accompanist
Address
Chicago Piano College

FOR RENT—A few good teaching hours; 516 Kimball Hall.

FOR SALE—Chickering parlor grand; in good condition; $250. Address N. care of Music News.

PIANO TEACHER WANTED—A leading music school can give a capable teacher one to three afternoons per week; must play well; age 20 to 30. Address "College," care Music News.

TO RENT—Kimball Hall Studio; Tuesday, and Wednesday and Saturday a. m. Address Music News.

TIME TO RENT—In large studio in Fine Arts Bldg. Address W. D. Music News.

WANTED—Pupils in German by teacher who has studied in Germany; reasonable rates. Miss House, phone 3056 Drexel.

PIPE ORGANS—If the purchase of an Organ is contemplated, address HENRY PILCHER'S SONS, Louisville, Ky., who manufacture the highest grade at reasonable prices.

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TEACHER TENOR DIRECTOR
120 North Oak Park Av., Oak Park, Ill.

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone O. P. 4397. 206 South Lombard Av., Oak Park
Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

Sara Burdick
TEACHER OF VOICE DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Concert, Oratorio, Recital 727 FINE ARTS BUILDING

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

Shipley Watson
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
Pupil of Heinrich Barth, Berlin; Martin Krause, Leipzig; Edward MacDowell, New York; Carl & Rheinhold Faelten, Boston. 4414 Main St., Kansas City, Mo.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS, PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

LILIAN MARY STOUT

Miss Lilian Mary Stout, one of the well known teachers in the Fine Arts Building, has just returned from Berlin, where she has been for the past two years studying with the eminent pianist and Busoni exponent, Mr. Egan Petri.

While in Berlin Miss Stout had several pupils, including the small daughter of Mr. Petri, giving her the opportunity of applying the technical principles of Busoni to her teaching, both in elementary and advanced work.

LILIAN MARY STOUT

Miss Stout has opened a studio at 429 Fine Arts Building. Her class is already well started and throughout the year informal, as well as formal programs, will be given.

♯♯♯

KURT WANIECK

Mr. Wanieck has returned from his vacation in the west and has already a very full booking of piano pupils at the American Conservatory. Last spring Wanieck pupils took the first and third gold medals in the teachers' certificate classes in this institution, as well as the first medals in the collegiate and graduating classes.

On October 6 Mr. Wanieck will appear in a program at the Culture Club, jointly with Mme. Linne and Robert Ambrosius.

♯♯♯

WALTER DIEDERICH

At a reception given to Dr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Willett, at tthe Memorial Church of Christ on last Friday evening.

Mr. Walter Diedrich sang the following songs:

The Song That My Heart Is Singing.....MacDermid
If I Knew You and You Knew Me.....MacDermid
To Music .....Lester
To You.....Karl Buren Stein
Destiny.....Jane Ogden Hunter
In the Quiet of the Night.....Frank Walter

Sidney Silber

RECENT PRESS COMMENTS

Mr. Silber's playing of the Henselt F Minor Concerto elicited such spontaneous outbursts of applause that the artist was obliged to respond to nine recalls.—Berlin (Germany) Lokal-Anzeiger. Translation.

Of an interest quite extraordinary was the playing of Sidney Silber, whose interpretation of Chopin's B Flat Minor Sonata was marked by mature understanding, plastic touch, and beautiful tone.—Berlin (Germany) Boersen-Courier. Translation.

Sidney Silber is a pianist of the great order. He has power and the finest of dreamy delicacy. He has a marvelous technic, whirling in its velocity and clean as perfection. The audience gave itself over to real loving admiration and demanded a repetition of the work.—Des Moines Capital.

Sidney Silber belongs to the iron-fingered intellectual type of pianists. He is an artist given to massive effects, to great striking rhythms, and to definite ordering of the dynamic forces of the keyboard. Bach could hardly be in safer hands.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Mr. Silber's Schumann playing was of an unusually high order which bespeaks best of all musical intelligence and feeling.—New York Musical Courier.

As a Chopin player Mr. Silber was fully as satisfying as he had been in the bigger and heavier numbers which preceded the group. The brilliancy and clearness of his technic in the six difficult studies were an example of the almost unattainable. All in all, the concert has seldom been excelled in its effectiveness by even the performances of the great international celebrities who have visited this city.—Lincoln, Nebraska State Journal.

Mr. Silber's technic is remarkably facile and clean and is made artistically submissive to its true purposes—those of interpretation. The Saint-Saens Concerto was magnificently played, the pearly lustre of the second movement being charming beyond criticism.—Minneapolis Morning Tribune.

Mr. Silber scored a great success by a virtuosic performance of the Mendelssohn Concerto. His great technical dexterity and musicianship showed themselves to best advantage in this charming work.—Milwaukee Herald. Translation.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST

In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.

Address until October, Care Music News, Chicago; after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.

"Now enroute through Idaho. Opens the Boise Artists' Course with Great Recital in Pinney Opera House October 6.

BISPHAM RIVALS CENTURY

To hear opera in English—at least, excerpts of operas sung with an enunciation absolutely admirable—music-lovers flocked to the Palace to hear the inimitable David Bispham last week.

On Wednesday afternoon the distinguished baritone chose to interpret parts of "Midsummer Night's Dream" (Mendelssohn) and the favorite prologue from "I Pagliacci."

Nothing more stirring can be divined than Mr. Bispham's "Danny Deever," which is often his chosen encore.

In an interview, when the gracious singer consented to see a Music News reporter, Mr. Bispham talked on "Opera in English," a theme which is just now being much discussed in New York.

"There is nothing bad about singing in English," said he, "except bad English. At all events it is better to lose part of the inner meaning than to lose the interpretation entirely, as is the case when the usual American audience is subjected to opera in a foreign language. The trouble with the translations of most operas, in fact," said Mr. Bispham in part, "is that mere clerks are often permitted to translate operas for publication. Naturally these are not good.

"I have sung more than forty roles," Mr. Bispham admitted, upon being asked which were his favorite ones, "but I think I was at my best with the Wagner and Verdi operas." T. B.

———♯♯♯———

SOME ENDORSEMENT OF THE OSTROVSKY METHOD

From Beatrice Langley:

I have derived enormous benefit from my work with Mr. Ostrovsky's apparatus.

From Mary Dickerson:

I consider the Ostrovsky Method the most perfect method and an invaluable help to all violinists. Every technical difficulty can be overcome in an incredibly short time and the wonderful Ostrovsky Apparatus can do more for the hand than any amount of practising.

From Arthur Shattuck:

I.

I came to London a week-and-a-half ago to work with Mr. Ostrovsky and cannot begin to thank you enough for having told me about him. He is wonderful and I am working two or three hours each day with him with excellent results. He seems to know exactly what my hands need.

II.

Pardon me for not writing again to tell you the infinite good you did me in those three short weeks.

III.

It gives me unlimited pleasure to express my appreciation of Mr. Ostrovsky's method of developing the hands of artists. I cannot say too much of its superlatively excellent results which in my case have proved absolutely permanent.

The improvement in my own hands, obtained by Mr. Ostrovsky in the all-too-short course which I had the good fortune to enjoy under his personal direction eighteen months ago, was so amazing and has since so eliminated the drudgery of practice, especially during my tour of America last season, that I can endorse his admirable system with sincerest enthusiasm.

From J. Skovgaard-Pederson:

Having played for several years under Sir Henry Wood and Dr. H. Richter and now engaged in Chamber Music in France, I have no hesitation in recommending Mr. Ostrovsky's work to all violinists, as I am convinced that his theories and appliances mark an enormous advance in the teaching of technic. My own personal experience in the use of the Ostrovsky Hand Forming Apparatus has been a marvelous one.

From Mischa Elman:

Dear Mr. Ostrovsky: I gladly testify to having heard today with Professor Auer and Mr. F. Drdla three of your pupils, whom you have taught for one month the physical training of their fingers and for four months your violin method. They played the scale in three octaves very cleanly and with a good tone, also Etudes by Kreutzer. I was very satisfied with these results of your violin method and can recommend it to violin teachers.

From Professor Emile Sauret:

Dear Mr. Ostrovsky: Having thoroughly read your book of the New Scientific Method of Violin Teaching, I must indeed say that your system will surely be of great benefit to all who are studying or teaching the violin. My best wishes are with you.

From John Dunn:

Dear Mr. Ostrovsky: I am quite sure that your wonderful apparatus and your method of using it, which is most simple, canot fail to be of great assistance to all artists and eventually revolutionize the system of gaining technic. It is without doubt the thing of the future. (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

CHARLES E. LUTTON

Basso Cantante. Oratorio, Concert Recital

There is a snap and a go and a rollicking realism about his "Zummerzetzhire"—Eugene Ore, Sunday Record.

Mr. Lutton sang "Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves" (Handel) splendidly, his enunciation being perfect.—Sunday Oregonian, Portland, Oregon.

CHARLES E. LUTTON

Mr. Lutton sang the part of Druid priest in the "First Walpurgis Night" with the Evanston Musical Club, with clear conception of the character of the music.—Evanston Index.

Mr. Charles E. Lutton, a young baritone who is coming forward splendidly, sang Armstrong's "The Road" and Clarke's "Ladies of St. James" capitally. His voice is big and virile and he handles it with authoritative certainty. He was at his very best in the humorous "Zummerzetshire" song used as encore.—Music News, Chicago.

From Mr. Lutton's repertoire:

"Honor and Arms"	Handel
"Hear Me Ye Winds and Waves"	Handel
"Saki! Dye the Cup's Rim Deeper"	Bantock
The Jester Songs	Bantock
"Mighty Lord and King All Glorious"	Bach
Confutatis Maledictis (Requiem)	Verdi
The Siege of Kazan (Russian)	Moussorgsky
Zueignung	Strauss
Mit deinem Blauen Augen	Strauss
In San Nazaro	Song Cycle
Myself When Young (Persan Garden)	Lehmann
The Eagle	G. A. Grant-Schaefer
A Lament	G. A. Grant-Schaefer
Song of Saul (inscribed to Mr. Lutton)
Light	Sinding
Persian Garden	Lehmann
Morning of the Year	Cadman
Jackdaw of Rheims	Hubert Bath
Kerry Courting	French-Collison

ORATORIOS

Messiah, Elijah, First Walpurg's Night

HUMOROUS SONGS

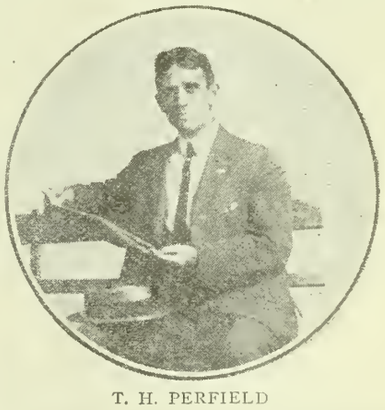
The Ballad of Little Billee (Thackeray)	Peel
Two Lovers and Lizette (Weeden)	Homer
Floral Dance (Old Welch Song)	Moss
Tragic Tale (Thackeray)	Slater
Zummerzetzhire (Old Song)	Newton
Stone-cracker John	Coates
Corporal's Ditty	Squire

For terms and dates address Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago.

———♯♯♯———

T. H. PERFIELD

Mr. Perfield is the promoter of the Effa Ellis Teaching System, Melody Building and Keyboard Harmony, and is touring the United States organizing a chain of Co-operative Studios and Schools in conjunction with his Music Teachers' Training School Bureau, which has a free registration for music teachers, school teachers, mothers and students interested in the use of our Extension Method.



T. H. PERFIELD

WANTED—Teachers to take charge of bureaus and enquirers and local normal centers. Mr. Perfield can be addressed through the general delivery, Chicago postoffice, or, permanent address 205 Old Brandeis Building, Omaha, Nebraska. (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

Pittsburgh.—The evening service at the Highland Presbyterian Church on last Sunday was devoted to Pittsburgh composers,

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS—VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Brokaw Violinist
Power-Meyer Conservatory
WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

SADIE WALKER
University Studios 5828 Woodlawn Av. VIOLINIST Exclusive M'g't Harry Culbertson

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

DEWITT DURGIN
TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg.

COLLINS J.
Basso-Cantante BROCK
EUDORA MOODY
SOPRANO Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

MARY ANN KAUFMAN
SOPRANO
Edgewater 8519 4433 Racine Av., CHICAGO, ILL.

Grant KIMBELL
Tenor
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

WILLIAMS, A TENOR OF QUALITY

Whenever a tenor of quality is discovered, the fact becomes widely heralded, and his services are in constant demand. For years, Evan Williams has had the music lovers of America at his feet, as the following press comments testify:

EVAN WILLIAMS

Among the soloists, Mr. Williams made the deepest impression. It is rare to find the dramatic and lyric style so well proportioned as they are in Mr. Williams' art. Boston Advertiser.

Mr. Williams' oratorio work is always a pleasure, and last evening was no exception to the rule. His diction was faultless, his phrasing polished and his interpretation of the text uniformly intelligent.—Pittsburgh Post.

From the beginning Mr. Williams had won his way into the very heart of his audience. How refreshing to see so much and so great an artist. This singer presents his message of beauty with absolute sincerity through the medium of his admirable voice. Omaha World-Herald.

A large audience listened to a delightful song recital by H. Evan Williams, whose singing is ever an exhibition of refinement and artistic excellence in the vocal art.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Even the most optimistic musicians must grant that a good tenor singer is indeed a rare joy, but Mr. Williams seems to be one of those rarities. His voice has a luscious timbre, susceptible as the wind strings of a lyre to the intellectual impetus behind it, and voluptuous in coloring. In fact it gratifies the ear in the same manner that a Turner appeals to the eye.—New Haven (Conn.) Morning Journal-Courier.

He poured into that vast audience the great sea of tone for which they had been waiting. He sang as he had never sang before—sometimes it seems like the Apostles of old, "as the spirit gave him utterance."—Akron (O.) Times. (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

Bachman.—Miss Ella Bachman is now located at room 85, the Auditorium Building. Besides her work as a voice teacher she maintains a class in musical history and gives lectures on the various composers, in connection with the Elba Musical Club, an organization of which she is the successful among those represented being A. M. Foerster, Harvey Gaul, W. H. Oetting and John Bohannon.

———♯♯♯———

Cowan.—Mr. Phelps Cowan, the very popular accompanist, has now located at 4596 Oakenwald avenue, and his new telephone number is Drexel 3987.

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

Wm. Clare Hall
Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Elias Bredin
TENOR
NINTH FLOOR, AUDITORIUM BUILDING

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
304 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 1931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

HAZEL EVERINGHAM
Pianist Accompanist Teacher Ensemble
Address 1251 N. State St. REDPATH BUREAU

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
Special Summer Session June to August
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Languages The Berlitz School of Languages,
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

SIDNEY SILBER

COMING ! !

PIANIST. Chicago Debut Sunday, October 10th. Whitney Opera House [Joe Howard Comedy Theater]

TICKETS: One Dollar, Seventy-five and Fifty cents. On sale at the Box-Office Monday, Oct. 13

Mason& Hamlin Piano

HE KNEW THE ALPHABET

One of the most bewildering mental diseases is that known as aphasia, a peculiar paralysis of certain portions of the brain, which affects the memory and the powers of speech. A recent case was that of a man who, after a shock, found that he could not evolve any coherent sentence, and that he could not pronounce any words.

Gradually his memory returned to him, and somewhere from the confused mass of thoughts which seemed to be crowding his memory waiting for expression, came the alphabet. At first he mumbled it over and over, and as his health improved he commenced to repeat it time and again with better enunciation.

Why was the alphabet the first to return? Simply because the man knew the alphabet better than anything else, because that was one of the very first things he learned in his student life.

Educators for a time had a tendency to neglect the elementary training of the young. They seemed to think that the ideals and models could be gained better in later life. Now modern pedagogy has turned these ideas upside down. A vast amount of scientifically correct fundamental training is now being done in all parts of the country.

Not that "scientifically correct" refers to definitely named "system" nor that any one teacher or set of teachers has a monopoly, but simply that the basic principles are being studied more and more. Each year there is a greater number of teachers whose work has something of absolutely correct thought.

As to what these thoughts may be, it is impossible to enumerate them completely in a short article, but a few of the most important may be suggested.

First, and easily the most important, pupils are being taught more and more that the mental concept must invariably precede the actual music making. In other words, brains are being developed first, or at least coordinately with fingers and voices, and this leads naturally and inevitably to the second great thing, concentration. A pupil cannot concentrate unless he is taught the correct mental attitude. Every teacher nowadays, at least every teacher who is worthy the name, knows that concentration is the secret of great success. The following suggestions regarding first lessons are worthy of careful attention:

(1) The kind of technic developed in the first lessons will cling through life. It may be modified; it may perhaps be mentally discarded, but it will in actuality cling like the alphabet. No one imagines that there is only one way to do any given thing, and in fact the mind of the pupil must be allowed freedom to evolve the various ways, but there are, of course, absolutely false ways of doing everything, and if these are taught to the very young mind they will never be completely eradicated.

(2) Memorizing taught at the beginning, scientifically, analytically and absolutely, will very soon become a fixed habit of the mind, and any pupil so taught will never reach that place where the memorizing of a piece is the one great drawback to its performance, for he will inevitably have a "system" at his command which will make it just as easy for him to memorize the piece as it is to play it from the technical or the interpretative standpoint.

(3) Interpretative ideals should be high, and they should be inculcated in the very first lessons and fostered persistently throughout the student life.

Music is a language unto itself—but even pure music is monotonous unless it be differentiated as to mood and color, unless it be shaded artistically as well as phrased according to correct principles. It is the task of the good teacher to study these questions thoroughly, and by precept and example to instill the correct thought in the young mind.

Music is not only a distinctive thing, but it is as well an imitative thing; it can be made to imitate many other things, and it may, in a sense, be made to carry the thought and the atmosphere of every other art as well as all the thoughts and emotions of the human life. That is rather a big statement, is it not? But it is a true one, and therefore, if a student is to become a real interpreter of music he must needs know life from every standpoint, and must study every art as well as nature in her most minute and her biggest poses. Literature is necessary, painting and sculpture give definite ideas, the drama teaches color, climax, the value of repose and of contrast—an endless list of things; all human thought and feeling as expressed in romance, poetry and history can be depicted in music, and so should be studied; oratory provides the key to proper projection; and nature, in her various voices, gives the divine touch.

And when the teacher has done all in her power, everything still remains for the pupil to do. Pupils do not always realize how much they may help their teachers, who have devoted so many hours of care and thought to them. Because of the teacher's long years of study and preparation, endured with determination, and often with privation, she is able to stand where she does today. Because she was willing to pay the price in time and money to study with great masters, is she able now to give her pupils the benefit of those famous masters' advice. By careful, conscientious work a pupil may advance a worthy teacher's reputation, and thus show her gratitude. —Charles E. Watt in the Etude.

###

THE FOUNTAIN OF THE GREAT LAKES

Mr. Lorado Taft's masterpiece, which stands at the south end of the Art Institute, is the beginning of new things in the way of out-of-door sculpture. Those who saw the model in the white plaster, may have wondered whether the more enduring bronze would detract from the remarkable purity of the conception. Until the water

Subscribe for

Music News

Music News of this issue will reach many people who are not subscribers—many of them in fact will see it for the first time. To such we offer the explanation that we are making a special

Promotive Campaign

and are sending sample copy ONCE to very many people who do not often read music papers. We invite all such to become

Subscribers

The cost of the paper is only two dollars a year—which is only four cents a week, and for that sum we will bring to your home

Every Week in the Year

full and adequate announcement and review of the concert and opera situation of the country.

A Premium of One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music given to each new subscriber and each renewal

Send Your Subscription Today Before You Forget It

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

IT has become quite the habit in Chicago, when any musical address is wanted, to say "Look in the classified Directory Card columns of the Music News, and you will surely find it."

The habit is growing in other localities too.

This is not without its good and sufficient reason either, for while the cost of this service is only twelve dollars a year (including subscription) the advantages gained are very material. Not only do prospective managers and pupils use this list continually to find the addresses of artists and teachers, but also, church people often find it of service in locating desired organists, directors and singers, and further – the complete list is used habitually by all sorts of advertisers who want to send announcements of new and novel productions to a representative list of musicians.

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

Bergey

CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL

Voice Piano

430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Day Williams

Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1220 Norwood St. Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND

TEACHER PIANIST
645 Sangamon St., Phone Stewart 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON

SOPRANO

Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

was turned on, it was still a problem to the onlooker. But the delicious abandon which has come with the playing spray makes the whole something ideal. There is a heavy background of granite to bring the five figures into relief. And set into the rear of this, is a bronze bas-relief of Mr. Ferguson, whose bequest makes possible such superb civic embellishment. A modest phrase attached to the tablet seems to explain the man. "There will be memory of us yet in days to come," it says, but being so said it is fruitful of the possibility that, after all, it sums up the greatest of goals. To be remembered—does any one crave any higher ascent?

For those who cannot see the group, it may be briefly said that the lakes are symbolized by five female figures. Superior towers high at full length. Her feet are at the shoulders of the other figures. Her head is thrown back and yet to one side as she watches the water run in a long stream from the tilted shell she holds in her upraised hands. This and the other shells are of that ribbed and curbed pattern, really half shells they are, and very deep. Huron catches the water in a large shell supported heavily against her thighs. Her's is an heroic pose. She is large and full-breasted, and the body leans far backward to hold steadily the weight of flowing waters. She turns eastward towards the stooping Erie, who holds her shell below that of her sister, to catch the stream. Leaning forward from the west around the central Huron is the graceful Michigan, raising her shell carefully to pour its contents forth into Huron's reservoir. Ontario, the lowest figure, is in a half sitting posture, with the right hand and arm stretched eagerly forward. The left hand curves about the shell, resting on the shelf of rocky strata on which she sits. The expression on this face is wonderful in its suggestion of anticipation, and of wonder, too. As if she let the current loose to flow towards its master, the sea, with endless longing and wide-eyed desire to fathom the mystery of it all.

When the winds are still the water runs and drips smoothly into its mapped channels, and then sprawls all over the base made to suggest ledges of rock, and then into the pool of granite below. But for the most part the winds are not still on the Lake Front, and so the water drips and splashes and sprays and roams all over the figures, and produces the most exquisite effects of grace and lightness. It blows everywhere, and makes itself a hundred tiny courses in the features and drapery of the figures. One wonders if the sculptor foresaw this, or whether the charm is an added one for him. If he did see it beforehand, his is a rare vision indeed. And to so reveal it, has made the city that much the richer because of his vision.

ALBERT COTSWORTH.

VERDI'S CENTENNIAL AT PARMA

It is operatic justice that Cleofonte Campanini, who had long made Parma his residence, and who comes from a family in operatic song, should be a leading figure in the Verdi centennial, that is currently being celebrated at that great center of Italian art. The ceremonies began near the place where the composer was born and will continue throughout the month in every town of importance in Italy. Great as was the success which attended the representation of Verdi's work during his long and useful lifetime, nothing better reveals the place he occupies in the hearts of the people of Italy, than the present celebration in which all the people are participating with enthusiasm that is contagious. The company presenting the programs is at the head of the largest lyrical companies in the country, and is the largest ever assembled in any one city. It has over three score of stars in the first magnitude, including the incomparable diva, Adelina Patti, whose devotion to the dead composer has outlived her days on the stage, and Enrico Caruso, for whom Verdi once predicted a brilliant future. Other famous artists are Carolina White, Lina Cavalieri, Riccardo Martin, Allen Hinckley, Adeline Agostinelli, Mario Sammarco, Titta Ruffo, Antonio Pini Corsi, Giovanni Zenatello, Amedeo Bassi, and many others too numerous to mention.

Cleofonte Campanini, of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, and Arturio Toscanini, of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, are conducting the programs, and from the enlistments, it will be observed that most of the artists are connected with these companies, so that America really has prime representation. The orchestra includes 100 leading players from the opera houses and music academies of Italy, and is to be advanced to 500 this week, when Verdi's requiem mass is to be performed. The centennial festivities began with a "ai fresco" performance of "Aida," in the old Roman arena of Verona, and proved such a remarkable success that it will be followed by other performances. Giovanni Zenatello was Radames and Maria Gay was Aida. Upwards of 700 people appeared in the stage groups. In addition to the operatic performances, there are many instructive features, including exhibitions of the theatrical costumes of the sixth, seventh and eighth centuries. Another interesting object for musicians is the full orchestra for the year 1609, with life size figures and musical instruments at the time, loaned by the Florentine museum. Other interesting exhibits are the manuscripts of nearly all the Verdi operas. Likewise the court dresses that the great composer wore on his periodical of European courts. At the conclusion of the centenary festivities, a monument built by national subscription will be unveiled at Parma. At present the site in the square facing the railroad station has been transformed by a colonnade of over 200 columns, extending a distance of 600 feet. In the center of this is a statue of music, surrounded by twelve figures representing the heroes and heroines of Verdi's most famous operas. It is worthy of remark that the guests of honor in this occasion who have been given the freedom of the city, are Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCormick of Chicago. In recognition of her contribution to the cause which made the Verdi statue possible, she is making up the deficit it lacks of the original fund.

OPERATIC HOUSE CLEANING

Few people realize what it means to take inventory, much less to clean house on the stage of the Auditorium, where the Chicago Grand Opera Company has its properties and paraphernalia. When one learns that the major portion of the properties and costumes are stored elsewhere, the Auditorium proper being the crux, as it were, one duly becomes impressed with the magnitude of the machinery necessary for the production of opera.

As to storage, a large warehouse at 521-523 South Jefferson street is now the receptacle for sceneries and properties that are being repaired at the Auditorium. There is another warehouse on Franklin street that will come into use next week, as the big house on Jefferson street is filled to overflowing. Since the close of last season Bairstow, the stage carpenter, with a large force of carpenters and scene painters, has been continually at work, and from the outlook they promise to be kept busy until the latter part of October; there is a large crew going over all the scenery that is used on tour.

The labors of carpenters and scene painters in a house like the Auditorium never cease. In addition to the enormous work going on in Chicago, the large warehouses of the company in Philadelphia, together with the stage and workshops of the house in that city, are now preparing for the opening of the season, and the place teems with workmen in all departments.

Among the operas stored in Philadelphia at the close of last season were "Natoma," "Quo Vadis" and "Cendrillon." They are also working there on new scenery for "Cassandra" and "Kuhreigen." In Chicago they are repairing "Aida," "Carmen," "Don Giovanni," "Crispino e la Comare," "Tales of Hoffman," "Hamlet," "The Juggler," "Cricket on the Hearth," "Die Walkuere," "Louise," "Lucia," "Rigoletto," "Tannhauser" "Thais," "Samson," "Salome," "Girl of the Golden West," "Pelleas et Melisande," "La Boheme," "Faust" and "Herodiade." Some new scenery is being done here for "La Gioconda," "Don Giovanni," "Cristoforo Columbo," "Monna Vanna," "Spanish Noble" and Massenet's "Manon."

Some understanding of the magnitude of operatic machinery may be realized when it is understood that the paraphernalia necessary for the California tour last season required fifteen cars, six of which were for scenic vans seventy-four feet long and five sixty-foot baggage cars for props. The supply of the country for long scenic cars was nearly exhausted by the demands of Bernhard Ulrich, manager of the tour, so that long passenger cars were utilized, having the greater length necessary to take in back-drops and cut-drops. The difficulties involved in the western tour were somewhat unusual, and

> The cloud capped tower,
> The gorgeous palaces,
> The fairy fabric of a dream

were roughly handled and considerably demoralized.

The scene cloths average sixty-eight feet in width. For traveling purposes they were cut down to forty feet, which meant a turning in of fourteen feet on each side of every drop, necessitating the cutting and hanging of both the top and bottom batons. As the drops are forty feet high they were left square pieces of canvas when the process was completed. As for netted scenes in the so-called cut-drops they came out of the toil and moil of traveling in a state of great dilapidation. However, since the season closed a brigade of workmen have been going about the big stage of the Auditorium on their knees, like devotees to some new religious sect doing penance—a penance, however, to art—with sharp knives, scissors, glue pots and yards of netting, repairing ravages that had been made in the palaces of kings and queens of song, the forest of their splendid parks or the filmy borders of cloudland.

The original scenic equipment of the Auditorium was for twenty operas of the standard repertory, all of the scenes having been painted in Vienna. This stock was exhausted several years ago. When the Chicago Grand Opera Company purchased the effects and good will of the Manhattan Opera Company it acquired a very elaborate stock of scenery for French as well as for Italian operas, and also some 3,000 costumes. As to scenery State Director Bairstow states that at the start the opera company owned 365 big hanging pieces. As these pieces are 68 by 40 feet in dimension a simple calculation shows an area of 375-000,000 square feet of canvas and would cover a space nearly 25,000 feet long and 15,000 feet high—an area of canvas, sewn painted, cut, netted and otherwise treated artistically. During the three years of the opera's life this has been added to at least 25 per cent—a liberal mileage to art.

As an instance of the amount of scenery required for the production of a single opera "Herodiade," is an interesting example. The scenery necessary for this opera comprises thirty-six hanging pieces, and its transportation requires two seventy-four-foot cars. "Hansel and Gretel," which seems to be a comparatively simple opera, has eighteen hanging pieces. The "golden stair case" in this opera, which looks very elaborate and involved is really "skeletonish" in its simplicity. "Tristan and Isolde" has eighteen hanging pieces. Two of these hangers are ninety feet high and 120 feet long. In addition to three sky pieces it has a 226-foot panorama.—Record-Herald.

MME. ALDA'S PROGRAM

Mme. Frances Alda, prima donna, soprano, Metropolitan Opera Company, New York, will give a song recital at the Studebaker Theater, Sunday afternoon, October 12, under the management of F. Wight Neumann. Mme. Alda will have the assistance of Frank LaForge, pianist and accompanist, and Gutia Casini, a young Russian 'cellist. Mme. Alda has prepared the following program:

Variations on a Rococo Theme.....Tschaikowsky
Gutia Casini

Lungi dal caro bene.....Secchi
Nymphs and Shepherds.....Purcell
When the Roses Bloom.....Reichardt
Pastorale.....Carey
Mme. Alda

Doch mein Vogel kehrt nicht wieder (1st time).....Sibelius
O Vater (1st time).....Melartin
Lauf der Welt.....Grieg
Tausend Sterne (1st time).....Leo Blech
Wie mir's weh thut.....Rachmaninoff
Mme. Alda

Chant du Menestrel.....Gazounow
Retreat.....LaForge
Scherzo.....Klenget
Gutia Casini

Panis Angelicus.....Cesar Franck
Mme. Alda with 'cello obligato by Gutia Casini

Green.....Debussy
L'Eventail.....Massenet
A des Oiseaux.....Hue
Soft-footed Snow.....Sigurd Lie
Storielle del Bosco Viennese.....Johann Strauss
Mme. Alda

The Musicians' Piano Tuner
Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
1450 Wordlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5156

The ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE
OF THE NEW AMERICAN SCHOOL OF VOCAL ART
(Founded by Anna Groff-Bryant.) Exclusively a Vocal School. Offering courses distinctively Cultural and Vocational. Instructions given in classes and private individual lessons. Ninth school year opened October 1, 1912. Send for booklet giving full particulars. Address THE ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE, 522 to 526 Fine Arts Building, Chicago.

ELLA C. BIGELOW
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
AKRON, OHIO

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians
by Horace D. Hitchcock
A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original.
The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:
"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."
For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cents Postpaid.

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS
SOPRANO
CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS
6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

MARY CROFUT GIBBS
Mezzo-Contralto
Oratorio Concert Recital
404 Kimball Hall

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

HUBBARD'S LECTURES

Mr. Hubbard of the Boston Opera Company has already been booked for 150 "Talks on the Opera," before different clubs of larger Boston. He begins October 27, in Westford, with the Tadmuck Club. After the season is on some days he will give three talks.

His program is not yet fully completed, but he will talk on "Madam Butterfly," in which Madam Edvina is to appear as a stellar attraction; "Monna Vanna," which will have Mary Garden in the cast at its production; "Die Meistersingers," which Felix Weingartner will conduct; "Francesca da Rimini," and probably "Tristan und Isolde," "Jewels of the Madonna," "Tales of Hoffman," "Louise," "Secret of Suzanne," "Manon," to be revived and "Don Giovanni."

Mr. Hubbard has been secured for a course of six lectures, on the operas to be produced at the Opera House this season, by several clubs around Boston.

♮ ♮ ♮

Long Trips Planned by Tufts College Glee Club

The final selection of the personnel of Tufts College Glee Club will be made in November from the candidates presenting themselves now. Daily work will be done under Leo Lewis, professor of music at the college.

Mr. Brooks, manager of the club, is arranging a schedule that will include three long trips and local concerts.

At Christmas recess concerts are to be given in Nashua, N. H.; Portsmouth, Concord, Bristol, Waterbury, Vt.; Barre, South Royalton and Montpelier. After the mid-year examinations Hartford, Conn., Bridgeport, Stamford and Pepperel, Mass., will be visited, while a two-week southern trip is being arranged for in the south. New York, Passaic, N. J., Newark, N. J., Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Richmond, Va., will comprise the larger cities where concerts are to be given on this trip.

♮ ♮ ♮

Sunday Concerts in Symphony Hall

Mr. L. H. Mudgett, the well known manager, will open the season's Sunday afternoon concerts in Symphony Hall, with Jan Kubelik, the violinist, as the soloist, October 12, at 3 o'clock. This concert will be followed by others, presenting artists of international reputation.

A song recital by Rayland W. Hayes, tenor, with Roy W. Tibbs, pianist, is scheduled for Wednesday night, November 5, in Steinert Hall. This hall is under the management of Richard Newman.

During the first semester of Smith College, Mrs. Gertrude Damon Fathergill, of Hartford, Conn., will be vocal teacher in the music department. She was formerly a teacher at Smith College for several years, resigning when she married. The head of the music department is Professor Robert E. S. Olmsted, who is now on leave of absence.

The Faelten Pianoforte School has entered the publishing field, having just issued "The Amulet," a one-page paper of post-card size. One of the news items is interesting, especially to numismatists, as Reinhold Faelten has been at home all summer working on his coin collection, which is one of the most complete in Boston, and a result of several summers spent with the antiquarians of the Old World.

Mrs. Faelten has a collection of Egyptian scarabs and amulets, among which are a number of unusually interesting ones. One is reproduced in the right upper corner of "The Amulet," which anciently meant, "May long life, happiness and prosperity be yours."

EFFA ELLIS

Keyboard Harmony
Melody Building and
Teaching System

Mean Rapid, Definite Reasoning, Based on the TRUTH Brief and Simple. Write about

Special Modulation Course

EFFA ELLIS

204-5 BOSTON STORE BUILDING
OMAHA, NEBRASKA

A recital was given by members of the school Thursday night, October 2, and Saturday afternoon, October 11, at 3 o'clock, another recital will be held.

Miss Bessie Talbot Salmon, concert soprano, a former vocal pupil of Mme. Etta Edwards, Chicago, Charles A. White, Boston, and noted teachers of Paris. She has been a student of poise and stage presence, of May Mansfield, Paris correspondent of Music News, and Clayton Gilbert of Boston. She will give interpretative recitals of French Folk Songs, an "Afternoon of Russian," or "Scandinavian Songs," and with Miss Alice Warren Pope, lecture-recitals of Colonial and Revolutionary music (in costume). Her Boston studio is on Clarendon street.

Interesting stories about Boston choirs and their music will soon appear in these columns, written by the well-known critic and writer, S. H. Lovewell, special correspondent of Music News. Mr. Lovewell is with the Boston Music Company, and his reviews of concerts from time to time will also be a special feature of Boston news.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

♯ ♯ ♯

VANCOUVER

The following comment on Mr. Eddy's concert is from the Vancouver Daily Province:

Musc has been called "The language for which there are no words," and the themes and thoughts expressed by Mr. Clarence Eddy last night through the organ of the Mount Pleasant Methodist Church, seemed truly the concrete revelation of a language beautiful and varied. From the first thunderous notes of the pipes in the player's own variation on "Old Hundred," through the delicate and sometimes plaintive days following, to the final "Overture to William Tell," a clear meaning from the soul of the musician poured forth to the listening audience, whether through triumphant strains breathing low and deep, or through the whisper of a tale of love whose notes the hearers leaned forward to hear.

Mr. Eddy, who has won fame for himself in many parts of the world, prefaced each number on his program with a few explanatory remarks which his audience greatly appreciated. His touch on the keyboards is that of a master, and there is skill and sympathy in the very turn of his wrists.

His second selection, Lemare's Spring Song "From the South," was so named, Mr. Eddy explained, because of the passages of rag-time introduced at its close. He further explained that rag-time was a "syncopated contrapuntal figure," which definition seemed more in keeping with the dignified merriment of the piece. In a double number of his own arrangements, on "The Secret of Love," the other "From the Land of the Sky-blue Water," the perfection of beauty and delicacy was expressed, and following these another humor of the organ was voiced in the "Toccata," by Thomas J. Crawford.

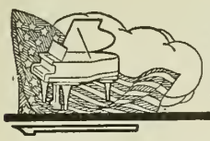
Then, like calm after storm, came the exquisite "Christmas in Sicily" by Pietro Yon, a noted Italian organist and composer. James Rogers stately Sonata in E minor, preceded Schubert's lovely melody, "Am Meer," through which sounded always a far away note of plaintive sadness through the heart of the theme.

More and more as the recital progressed did Mr. Eddy claim his audience, each number seeming to draw the congregation deeper into the spirit of the music, and when Wagner's "Pilgrims' Chorus" from Tannhauser finished in grand triumph the suppressed excitement bursting through the final chords brought forth a storm of applause to which the player responded with a prelude by Lemare for encore. Once again the organ dropped into a low sweet song in Bonnet's "Evensong," and then the always popular "Overture to William Tell" was given as a final number.

An impressive feature of the recital was the rapt attention of the audience. Nowhere in all the large gathering was to be seen an indifferent face and with increasing absorption to the very last number of a long program the audience was held captive to its charms. Mr. Eddy will play again in the same church tonight and will leave again in a few days for the East. (Advertisement.)

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914 Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used



Music in America

WORCESTER, MASS.

Quite the most pretentious musical extravaganza ever attempted in amateur musical circles in Worcester is "The College Hero," for which nearly 700 people are rehearsing for the presentation at the Worcester Theater for three nights and a matinee commencing Monday, October 13, 14 and 15.

Practically every talented person in Worcester has been secured for principal parts and to lead groups. Every well-known and prominent family is represented in the big cast by a brother or sister, son or daughter, or sweetheart or relative or friend.

The rehearsals are being conducted at the ballroom of the Bancroft Hotel. The ladies of the Memorial Charity Club have the affair in charge and the production is entirely for charity; the entire net receipts to be given to Memorial Hospital.

Among the well known Worcester women who are taking leading roles are:

Mrs. Edgar Logan Hill
Grace L. Jameson
Mrs. John Frederick Donnelly
Miss Dorothy McTaggart Miller
Mary Helen Hunt
Bertha M. Abramson
Miss Ruth Knight

The men who are taking principal parts and will be actors for a week are:

Dr. A. J. Harpin
Paul Hultman
George B. Cutting
Edward R. Cummins
Charles E. Hitchcock
Clifford Harrington

The full cast of characters, arranged in the order of their entrance upon the stage, is:

Helen, a student at college, Mrs. Edgar Logan Hill.
Elsie, a country girl at College, Miss Mary Helen Hunt.
Jack, Richard's chum, Paul Hultman, the well-known pianist.
Madam Dashington, Preceptress of the College, Mrs. J. Fred. Donnelly.
Richard Fiske, "The College Hero," Clifford Harrington.
Professor Phiz, whose hobby is chemicals.
Inez Fiske, Senator's Granddaughter.
Senator Fiske, from Texas, Richard's father, George B. Cutting.
Campus Cops
Captain Murray of the Iowa.....Edward R. Cummins
Professor Von Kaiser, German Master of the College .....Charles E. Hitchcock
The Wizard .....Dr. A. J. Harpin
Queen of the Spirits and Witches.
Danseuse Premiere of the Witches, Bertha M. Abramson.
Mrs. Johnson, an Alumna.
Mrs. Jackson, an Alumna.
Louise, a Rah Rah Girl.....Miss Grace S. Jackson
Sorority Trio
Billiken, the College Mascot....F. W. Bascom, Holden
Rosalie, a Banjo Girl.....Miss Ethel Sleeper
Indian Princess.....Miss Dorothy McTaggart Miller
Fi-Fi, a Japanese Maiden.....Miss Hazel L. Lynch
Ki-Ki, Fi-Fi's Lover.....Mr. Leroy Leighton
Violinist for Sorority Girls.....Miss Ruth Knight

Wade Davis is the director.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Worcester County Mechanics Association Entertainment Course

Almost with the issue of the Worcester County Mechanics Association Entertainment Course came the news of the passing of William Addison Smith, September 25, who for 43 years was clerk and treasurer of the Association, and who had framed many programs and secured many artists to entertain its members, during his long term of service.

♮ ♮ ♮

He was born in Leicester, Mass., March 2, 1824, was the oldest Harvard graduate in this city, the oldest resident member of the Worcester County Bar, and a 33d degree Mason.

His age was 89 years, 6 months and 24 days, and he was one of the best known and wost warmly esteemed men in Worcester.

He married Miss Eliza Adeline Howe, of Worcester, April 18, 1849. He leaves two sons, Charles E. Smith, treasurer of G. S. & A. J. Howe Co., and William E. Smith, who is with the H. M. Waite concern.

He made his last public appearance in the parade of Massachusetts Masons, September 12, when the cornerstone of the new Masonic Temple was laid.

The following announcement to the members of the Association is interesting as disclosing a spirit for fairness in the distribution of course tickets any organization may be commended for.

The entertainment course begins November 17, 1913, with a concert by Teele Band, Gertrude Holt, soloist.

Then December 15, 1913, lecture, Dr. Charles H. Tyndall; subject, "Ether Waves."

December 29, 1913, lecture, Miss Helen Keller, accompanied by her teacher, Mrs.

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL. Mrs. W. S. Bracken, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

H. W. OWENS, MUS. B. VOICE BUILDER COACHING
PUPILS PREPARED FOR CHURCH POSITIONS, CONCERTS, ORATORIO
Monday and Saturday—Maller's Bldg., Madison & Wabash
Studio Telephone Harrison 4573
CHICAGO
Friday—2112 Washington Boulevard

Peoria Musical College 102-104 North Madison Avenue PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr. Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 7958

PHELPS COWAN ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
4596 OAKENWALD AV.
Phone Drexel 3987

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago
SCHOOL OF MUSIC

A University Professional School, for the comprehensive study of practical and theoretical music, either as a profession or as an element of culture. Located upon the shore of Lake Michigan in Chicago's most attractive suburb.
I. Course in Applied Music, leading to the Degree of Graduate in Music.
II. Course in Theory and History of Music, leading to the Degree of Bachelor of Music.
III. Post-Graduate Course.
IV. Literary-Musical Course.
V. Course in Public School Music Methods.
VI. Normal Course in Piano Methods.
Course I., II. and V. include literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Academy without extra expense.
A thorough Preparatory Department is maintained.
The environment and social advantages most excellent.
Faculty of 25. Send for detailed descriptions of courses and book of Evanston views.
P. C. LUTKIN, Dean, Evanston, Ill.

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN
SOPRANO
Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital
429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

FREDK J. PERSSON PIANIST ACCOMPANIST
1921 Wolfram St.

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
Teacher of Singing
309 KIMBALL HALL
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Regina De Sales
TEACHER OF SINGING
PUPILS PREPARED OPERA, ORATORIO, CONCERT
Rue de Villejus (Bois de Boulogne), Paris
Paris Studio Open All Summer.

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON

Macy (Anne M. Sullivan); subject, "The Heart and the Hand, or the Right Use of Our Senses."

January 12, 1914, recital, Margaret Stahl, assisted by Walter Young, organist.

February 9, 1914, concert, Maquarre Sextet; Julius Von Theodorowicz, first violin; Alexander Ribarsch, second violin; Josef Keller, violoncello; Alfred Gietzen, viola; Max O. Kinze, double bass; Andre Maquarre, flute; Grace Bonner Williams, soprano soloist.

March 2, 1914, social, Light Infantry Orchestra.

March 16, 1914, concert, Boston Musical Club.

♮ ♮ ♮

Steinert Concert

The first concert of the Steinert series will be held in Mechanics Hall, October 26, 1913, with Mme. Maud Powell, violinist; Mme. Yolanda Mero, pianist; Miss Harriot Barrows, soprano; Mr. Francis L. Moore, accompanist, presenting the program given below:

Sonata, B minor, Op. 13 ..... Grieg
Lento doloroso. Allegro vivace
Allegretto tranquillo
Allegro animato
Mme. Powell and Mme. Mero

Tu fai la superbetta ..... Fesch
Aria from "Manon" ..... Puccini
Miss Harriot Barrows

Capriccio, B minor ..... Brahms
Arabesque ..... Debussy
Mme. Yolando Mero

First Movement from D minor Concerto ..... Wieniawski
Mme. Maud Powell

Plus de Depit ..... Gretry
Mignonette ..... Wekerlin
Sylvelin ..... Sinding
The Sacred Fire ..... Russell
Miss Harriot Barrows

Scherzo ..... Chopin
Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 2 ..... Liszt
Mme. Yolando Mero

Hungarian Dance, A major ..... Brahms
Minute Waltz ..... Chopin-Powell
Zapateado ..... Sarasate
Mme. Maud Powell

Ave Maria, with Violin Obligato ..... Bach-Gounod
Miss Barrows and Mme. Powell

♮ ♮ ♮

Paul Hultman, local pianist, has received from his friend, David Nyvall, Jr., formerly of Chicago, now head of the piano department of the Hill piano school, Jamestown, N. Y., a copy in manuscript of "The Tatassit Waltz," which is dedicated to Commodore Schervel, of the Tatassit Canoe Club of this city.

The work is semi-popular, yet written well within musicianly bounds.

The Tatassit Club held its last ladies' night during the week of September 21, and the entertainment consisted of a dinner, a cabaret show and a dance. Miss Hazel Childs, Dr. A. J. Hopkins and Frank Bancroft gave the cabaret, the first singing in Irish costume, "Peg O' My Heart", and "Top O' the Morning to You"; in Italian costume she sang "Italian Eyes" and "Pick, Pick on the Mandolin;" in Yiddish costume, "Yiddisher Ball." She, with Dr. Harpin and Mr. Bancroft, also sang popular songs.

Gwilym Mills, one-time festival baritone, gave a program of operatic arias and oratorio numbers in Mrs. Lillian Hanson Gray's studio, recently. J. Edward Bouvier, a local accompanist and teacher, sat at the piano.

♮ ♮ ♮

A choral society with Dona Pratt the director has been organized at the First Baptist Church. It is holding rehearsals weekly.

LESLIE S. BUTLER.

♯ ♯ ♯

CHARLESTON

Activity along musical lines in Charleston, late in starting, is about under way at last. With the schools opened and in full force, the different choirs rehearsing regularly again, and the various societies at work on new programs, the season seems to be here in earnest.

The Kanawha Musical Society announces great things in promise for the coming winter.

The Charleston Club commenced studying Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" some two weeks ago, with the idea of giving a rendition just before Christmas. The club begins the new season in a more prosperous condition than ever, both in point of membership and enthusiasm. The new officers, elected September 16, are: Frank R Hurlbutt, president; Hal W. Morris, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. G. A. Bolden, publicity; Mrs. John J. Warwick and Miss Emily J. Richardson, board of governors. They plan to give Gade's "Crusaders" and a miscellaneous program, after the new year.

Announcement has been made also of a recital by Maud Powell in the new Armory, October 17.

Altogether, the signs are really good.

J. HENRY FRANCIS.

♯ ♯ ♯

CARBONDALE, ILLINOIS

Mrs. Anna Grater Fowler, soprano, of New York City, was heard here in an extremely pleasing program of songs at the First Presbyterian Church, Tuesday evening, September 23. She was assisted by M. Marie Grater at the piano, and Harry Grater, baritone, also of New York.

Mrs. Fowler, who was formerly a Carbondale girl, is gifted by nature with a voice of unusual breadth and beauty of tone quality. It contained a wealth of possibilities which are being rapidly fulfilled, and the clear, even accuracy of the beautiful tones are enhanced by enunciation which merits exceptional praise. The aria from "Tosca" won an encore, and Mary Helen Brown's "Spring Greeting" was also enthusiastically received.

Mr. Grater's selections displayed good taste and a voice of mellow and sympathetic quality.

♯ ♯ ♯

VALPARAISO UNIVERSITY

One of the most astonishing growths ever witnessed in America is that of the Valparaiso University at Valparaiso, Ind., for, in a comparatively short time this school has reached a position where its annual enrollment of students far exceeds five thousand and where its courses and faculty have attained a position second to none.

The new catalog of the university just sent out has much interesting matter about the School of Music, some paragraphs of which are here reproduced.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

A special announcement of the Department of Music is issued annually. Those desiring further information concerning this department should address the university for the annual announcement.

The new music hall, a beautiful structure, contains twice as much room as the old building. The department is thoroughly equipped with seventy-two new pianos. Between sixty and seventy of these are in Music Hall, the remainder in other buildings available for use by the department. Each student has a private practice room. In addition to these practice rooms there are ten large studios and special rooms for harmony. For recitals, ensemble work, etc., there is a recital hall, thoroughly furnished with every appliance for such work.

For completeness in arrangement and equipment, no other conservatory of music, even in our largest cities, surpasses it.

Since the erection of this new hall, the attendance in the department has doubled.

The department of music was organized thirty-nine years ago. From the beginning it was the purpose of the founders to establish a department of music in which students might have all the advantages of the best musical conservatories in the large cities and at an expense that could be afforded by all. That the fondest hopes of the founders have been realized is shown by the fact that the department has had a growth which has never been equaled by any other conservatory of music.

The department of music is located so near Chicago that it must compete with the best work done there, so that students here have every advantage that they could possibly have in the city and at an expense not one-fifth as great.

FACULTY

While the teachers are professional soloists of high rank, yet they have been employed because they are specialists as instructors in their particular work. All have been pupils of the most noted masters and all are of wide culture and large experience. No amateurs or inexperienced teachers are employed, so that students may be assured that their instruction will be of the highest order.

COURSES OF STUDY

These are five in number, Preparatory, Teacher's Certificate, Graduate, Post-Graduate (or Gold Medal Course), and Public School Music. The time required for the completion of any of these courses of study depends upon the previous preparation, ability, talent and character of the work of the individual pupil.

DEGREES CONFERRED

Upon completing the Teachers' Course a certificate is granted.

Upon completing the Diploma Course a diploma is granted.

Upon completing the Gold Medal Course a gold medal is granted.

Upon completing the Public School Music Course a diploma is granted.

SPECIAL ADVANTAGES

All students taking the regular course in this department have access, without additional expense, to all classes in any of the literary departments of the university. This of itself is an advantage not found at any other conservatory of music.

DEMAND FOR GRADUATES

The result of the very superior advantages offered and the very thorough work done is that the graduates of the school are sought for as directors of music, singers, organists in choirs and especially as teachers in the best colleges, universities and normal schools in the land.

The faculty, as scheduled in the year book of the department of music, reads as follows:

Henry B. Brown, A. M., president of the university

Oliver P. Kinsey, A. M., vice president of the university.

Piano—Edmund W. Chaffee, Frederik Nelson, Mabel Spooner-Schuldt, Harriet Bruce-Roe, Gertrude Horn, Leada Barnes.

Voice—Orlee E. Weaver, Helen Axe Brown, Harriet Bruce-Roe, Hugh R. Roberts.

Violin, Viola, Violoncello—Fritz Ingersoll.

Clarinet, Flute, Cornet, Trombone, Saxophone, etc.—Henry Geiss.

Harmony, Counterpoint and Composition—Edmund W. Chaffee.

History of Music; Musical Analysis—Gertrude Horn.

University Chorus—Orlee E. Weaver.

Chapel Choir—Hugh R. Roberts

Sight Reading and Public School Music—Orlee E. Weaver, Hugh R. Roberts, O. E. Robinson.

Orchestra—Fritz Ingersoll.

University Band—Henry Geiss.

Guitar, Mandolin, Banjo—Mrs. J. E. Roessler.

German—John E. Roessler.

French—Gertrude E. Aby.

Italian—Sebastian Tangusso.

COLUMBIA, MISSOURI

Columbia is named "a city whose business is education and whose commerce is culture;" and fittingly, for here are the University of Missouri with its 3,500 students, and two junior colleges for women, Christian College and Stephens College. As there is no conservatory of music at the university, the two women's colleges maintain fine music departments.

The music school at Stephens College has as its head Basil Deane Gauntlett, who also is first piano teacher. Mr. Gauntlett is a fine soloist as well as musician. In the piano department are the Misses Hudson, Dixon, Le Compte and Beuick. Frances E. Oldfield has charge of the voice work, with Mrs. Lucas as assistant, and Miss Mary E. Hibbard has the violin classes.

Henry V. Stearns, an American Conservatory graduate and who has studied abroad some years, directs the music school of Christian College. Besides teaching piano and organ, Mr. Stearns has charge of the theoretical classes and the musical history class. On the piano faculty are Cady Kenney, Alma Wallace, Mary L. Barks, Walter Roberts and Ruth Howard. Alvin L. Barton has the violin class, and Frank Parker and Miss Emile Gehring the voice classes.

Both schools have concert series of outside artists but have not announced the attractions yet. It is reasonably certain that the Minneapolis Orchestra will be here for two or three concerts in the spring.

The musical season was opened by Stephens College on Monday night with a faculty concert enlisting the services of Mr Gauntlett, Miss Oldfield and Miss Hibbard. Mr. Gauntlett presented the "B Minor Ballade" by Chopin and, with Miss Hibbard the Grieg "Sonata for Violin and Piano." Miss Oldfield gave the aria from "Jeanne D'Arc" by Bemberg, and a group of songs.

F. P.

———###———

LOS ANGELES

The People's Orchestra opened the second season's course last Sunday afternoon. The patronage, approaching several thousand, manifested much enthusiasm, and the reception of the orchestra of fifty men and their conductor, Maestro Eduardo Lebegott, received, indicated the popular feeling to their music.

The overture of Mozart's "Figaro's Hochzeit" was entertaining and elicited applause. Chadwick's "Symphonic Sketches," Paul Lacombe's "Reverie" from "Gitanilla" were all well delivered.

Miss Mildred Langworthy was the soprano soloist and gave Thomas' "Polonaise" from "Mignon" with good execution, meriting hearty recall, to which she sang a pleasing English song to harp accompaniment. The concert closed with Victor Herbert's "Irish Rhapsody."

The first of the series of forty concerts promised for the season bespeaks a popular success.

A special concert in honor of Verdi will begin October 10, with Verdi's "Requiem" as the principal number, in which the People's Chorus will be enforced to 300 or more voices with the full orchestra.

S. W. MOUNTZ.

Valparaiso Music College

Department of

Valparaiso University

Second Largest University in the United States

VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks. This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President

OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER

SOLO VIOLINIST

Welsh Internationanal Festival

MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE

SOPRANO

Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils

5 42 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN

PIANIST

8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE

CONTRALTO

Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL

TEACHER OF SINGING

STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

HARLES EDWIN LUTTON

BASSO-CANTANTE

Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency

416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496

Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers

VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION

METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE

Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL

The Art of Singing

81 Auditorium Monday and Thursday

Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD LOEBER

VIOLINIST TEACHER RECITALS Musicales

3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA WAIT

Contralto

Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

REPRESENTATIVES FOR MUSIC NEWS

The following is an additional accredited list of representatives of Music News. Subscriptions or advertisements m ay be negotiated with them and copies may be ob tained or ordered

Jacksonville, Fla.—C. J. Bollinger, 306 Main street
Muskegon, Mich.—Joseph Schilling, 89 W. Clay street.
Little Rock, Ark.—Mrs. Jones, Little Rock Conservatory.
Sioux City, Ia.—Blanche R. McCutchen.
Grand Forks, N. D.—Jennie Anderson, Wesley Conservatory.
Yankton, S. D.—Annie Tennent, Yankton College.
St. Paul, Neb.—Sarah I. M. Connell.
North Carolina—F. W. Kraft, Greenboro, N. C.
Topeka, Kas.—W. D. Boughton.
Erie, Pa.—Ione Phipps, 933 Buffalo road.
Lima, Ohio.—R. A. Shappell, 65½ Public square.
Boise, Idaho.—Arthur E. Wesbrook, 1404 Heys street.
Demorest, Ga.—Miss Mary C. Reynolds.
East Liverpool, Ohio—J. S. Noah, 1113 St. George street.
York, Pa.—Roman Shuman, 456 Princess street.
Streator, Ill.—Raymond Burkholder.
Syracuse, N. Y.—Zeno Nagel, Syracuse University.
Batavia, Ill.—Martin J. McCullough, 80 E. Wilson st.
Chattanooga, Tenn.—Carl Fallberg.
Springfield—Mary Tiffany-Hudson, Springfield Conservatory.
Neodesha, Kas.—E. H. Merkle, Box 372.
Charlotte, N. C.—W. S. Huggins, P. O. Box 137.
Marion, Ind.—Allen Spurr Husic Co., Lock Box 156.
Cedar Falls, Ia.—Mrs. D. N. Hurd.
Decatur, Ill.—Angela Loos-Tooker, Suffern Building.
Carbondale, Ill.—Ellouise Sheppard.
Quincy, Ill.—Ella M. Jaques, 435 Ninth street.
New Orleans, La.—Miss Mitchell, Book Shop, The Grunewald Hotel.
North Carolina.—F. W. Kraft, Greenboro, N. C.
Springfield, Ohio.—E. W. Olds, The Magazine Han.
Freeport, Ill.—Flora Mayer, 118 Galena St.
Hillsboro, Ill., The Hillsboro Journal.
South Bend, Ind.—South Bend Conservatory.
Phoenix, Ariz.—C. R. Neutzel, Arizona School of Music.
Keokuk, Ia.—Mrs. E. B Summers.
Joplin, Mo.—Mary Bingham, 812 Wall street.
Burlington, Ia.—Ralph S. Perkins, 859 High street.

DESTINY A Striking New Song By Jane Ogden Hunter
For Sale by all Music Dealers, or address Publisher, K F. HUNTER. 2722 N. Sacramento Av.

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

Hazel Dell Neff
SOPRANO
PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN
PIANIST TEACHER
NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and
4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.
COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing
Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin
Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LESTER S. BUTLER
Voice, Harmony, Counterpoint
SPECIAL WRITER: CRITIC
Editors and others wishing articles on musical topics, gladly served.
Boston, Mass. Steinert Hall — Worcester, Mass. Day Building

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
441 Sidney Av., CHICAGO Phone Drexel 7910

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - Baritone NEWMAN
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

EIGHTEEN WORLD FAMOUS STARS SCHEDULED FOR LOS ANGELES

Of the eighteen famous stars in the musical world whom Manager Behymer will present in his three series of philharmonic courses in Los Angeles and the Pacific coast cities during the forthcoming season, but one third are women. This is quite contrary to the usual schedule of artists, the situation more generally being reversed than otherwise. In these six stars, however, one will greet the most representative types of singers. There is but one Geraldine Farrar, who will open the first series on October 9, there is but one Mme. Schumann-Heink who will follow Miss Farrar on November 18. In Mme. Frances Alda, Los Angeles will welcome a singer new to them, but one who has established herself firmly in both opera and recital in the east. Mme. Clara Butt, the famous English contralto, who so upset our preconceived ideas of the depth of the contralto voice, will visit Los Angeles in February on her return from Australia.

Kathleen Parlow, the distinguished little Canadian violinist, will be the only woman instrumentalist on the courses. A more representative type could not have been chosen by Manager Behymer to follow the successes that Maud Powell has gained in previous years. Everywhere Parlow has been accorded most flattering attentions by the critics and the musicians of not only America but the European countries.

Yvonne de Treville, will be the only coloratura soprano to visit the coast this season, coming to the Auditorium on the second series, February 17. In this prima donna we find a most interesting personality. American by birth, in spite of her French sounding name, she has during her career been accorded exceptional advantages and attentions. Her program will be considerable of a novelty, as she will present in costumes historically correct, "Three Centuries of Prime Donne," singing the songs that made Jenny Lind, Gerster, Malibran and many of the other famous singers of past generations popular. The second half of her program will be a recital program singing those difficult, but beautiful arias for the coloratura soprano that so few can sing to advantage nowadays.

Among the male stars on the first series there will be three decidedly interesting individualities in addition to Charles W. Clark, the Amrican baritone and Fritz Kreisler always a favorite. In Josef Hofmann one recognizes one of the great pianists of the present generation. Los Angeles welcomed him first a number of years ago as a child prodigy, since that time he has been returning to us on an average of ecer ythird season, each time becoming more convincing in his art.

In Jean Gerady and Gabriel Ysaye,' cellist and violinist, with probably Andre Benoist at the piano the first series will be closed March 31. How many remember when the great Eugene Ysaye first came here years ago he brought with him the "prodigy Gerardy?" Then Ysaye, senior, was the same great artist he is today, willing and capable of sharing honors with others who proved themselves equal. From that tour a most intimate friendship was formed and as both are Belgians they have seen much of each other during the intermediate years, visiting at one another's homes and spending many of their holidays together. Later Gerardy came over in concert alone, and became one of the most popular instrumentalists before the American public. On that first tour he was married and has not since returned to visit us. Now for the season 1913-14 he comes back bringing Gabriel Ysaye, the talented, gifted son of Ysaye. The latter was on the coast last season with his father but naturally had no opportunity of proving his worth, except in several duets with the father. Even then though he showed the excellent training that the father has given him, and possessor of that rare personality that placed him en rapport with the audience at once he gained innumerable friends wherever he appeared. In this closing program of the first series one will enjoy, cello, violin and piano compositions of the old masters interpreted in most gratifying manner.

———###———

MR. NEUMANN'S ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mr. F. Wight Neumann has just returned from his annual trip abroad. As usual he will present to the Chicago public artists of the highest rank and concerts and recitals will be given every Sunday afternoon commencing October 12 and ending the middle of May. Artists new in America and to be heard in Chicago under Mr. Neumann's management are Mme. Margaret Matzenauer, contralto, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York; Ottilie Metzger, leading contralto of the Hamburg Opera, and Carl Flesch, the distinguished Hungarian violin virtuoso.

The first concert under Mr. Neumann's management will take place Sunday afternoon, October 12, at the Studebaker Theater, and will be given by Mme. Frances Alda, soprano, assisted by Frank LaForge, pianist, and Gutia Casini, the young Russian 'cellist, who assisted Mme. Sembrich on her tour last season.

Helen Stanley, soprano of the Chicago Opera Company, assisted by Vera Barstow, violinist, and Harold O. Smith, accompanist, will be heard in a recital, Sunday afternoon, October 19th at the Studebaker Theater.

Clarence Whithill, basso, song recital,

Sunday afternoon, October 26, at the Studebaker Theater.

Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler, annual piano recital, Sunday afternoon, November 2, at the Studebaker Theater.

The Paulist Choristers, Father W. J. Finn, musical director, concert, Sunday afternoon, Novmeber 9, at the Studebaker Theater.

Josef Hofmann, piano recital, Sunday afternoon, November 16, at the Studebaker Theater.

The Kneisel Quartet will give as usual three chamber music concerts, the first one, Sunday afternoon, November 23, at the Studebaker Theater.

Mme. Rosa Olitzka, annual song recital, Sunday afternoon, November 30, at the Studebaker Theater.

Francis Macmillan, violin recital, Sunday afternoon, December 7, at the Studebaker Theater.

Mme. Marie Rappold, soprano, song recital, Sunday afternoon, December 14, at the Studebaker Theater.

Joint recital, Simon Buchhalter, pianist and Rudolph Engberg, basso, Sunday afternoon, December 21, at the Studebaker Theater.

Mme. Teresa Carreno, piano recital, Sunday afternoon, December 28, at the Studebaker Theater.

Mr. Max Pauer, piano recital, Sunday afternoon, January 4, at the Studebaker Theater.

Mr. Carl Flesch, violin recital, Sunday afternoon, January 18, at the Studebaker Theater.

Mr. Leo Slezak, tenor, song recital, Sunday afternoon, January 25, at the Studebaker Theater. Mr. and Mrs. David Mannes, sonata recital, Sunday afternoon, January 25.

Mme. Alma Gluck, song recital, Sunday afternoon, February 1, at the Studebaker Theater.

Mischa Elman, violin recital, Sunday afternoon, February 8, at the Studebaker Theater.

Kneisel Quartet, second chamber music concert, Sunday afternoon, February 15, at the Studebaker Theater.

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, song recital, Sunday afternoon, March 15, at Orchestra Hall.

Mme. Otillie Metzger, contralto, song recital, Sunday afternoon, March 22, at the Studebaker Theater.

Kneisel Quartet, third and last chamber music concert, Sunday afternoon, March 29, at the Studebaker Theater.

Mme. Matzenauer, song recital, Sunday afternoon, April 12, at the Studebaker Theater.

Negotiations are pending with other noted artists and organizations, dates of which will be duly announced.

———♯♯♯———

Orchestra Hall.—Wessels and Voegeli announce a violin recital by Kubelik on Sunday afternoon, October 5, and a song recital by Nellie Melba on Sunday afternoon, October 12, at Orchestra Hall.

———♯♯♯———

Cheatham.—Miss Kittie Cheatham, the celebrated diseuse, is expected to return home from her sojourn abroad, in October, according to information received from her manager, Miss H. Johnston.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4108 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 55 Rue de Seine
EVERINGHAM Hazel (Tel. North 3766) 1251 N. State St.
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Arthur (Phone Wellington 4148) 4100 N. Maple Av.
GALLUP Helen (Phone Austin 11713) Chicago Piano College
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 5171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 46 Bellevue Place
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4786) 520 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 3711
EMANUEL N. B. (Auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO Charles E. Watt, gr Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield. 27 Rue Boislevant. Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2106) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir), 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av.
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1461 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arhuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3835 Flournoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mailers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 257 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. 34 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (6th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone Drexel 3987) 4956 Oakenwald Av.
DEAL Alice R. 715 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 8210) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 524 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 64th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6507) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 6402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo, Milwaukee, Wis. 179 Pleasant St.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2855) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (51 Schiller St.) Pianist, Organist, Accompanist
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5348 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4325 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4451 North Winchester Av.

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BARTHOLOMEW H. B. 502 Kimball Hall
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 36 S. Maple Street
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4535) 2316 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Stewart 2519) 6415 Sangamon Street.
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Milwaukee, Wis.) 558 Jefferson St.
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5085) 8555 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenn
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirstl (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 338 N. Ashland Avenne
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 64 Auditorium Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3856 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Pianist—Teacher) 4009 Drexel Boulevard
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music
EDWARDS Merle (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 623 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio

ERST Stephen Adolph 1555 Edgewater Place

FAIRCLOUGH G. H. Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn

FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season, 2505 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn

FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Studio, 1527 High St.

FRAZEE Arthur (Phone Dearborn 6032) 874 Cass st.

FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.

GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 5236) Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood

GEORGE Louise Chicago Piano College

GRANQUIST Arthur Columbia School of Music.

GODFREY Eleanor F. Kimball Hall

HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music

HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music Northwestern University School of Music

HEAPHY Alice Christine (Boston, Mass.) Worcester, Mass.—Day Building

HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place

HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7045) 426 Fine Arts Building

HERSHENOW Dora (South Bend, Ind.) South Bend Conservatory

HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building

HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.

IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music) 306 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9406)

JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall

KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.

KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals) 3350 North Halsted St.

LERNER Tina (New York Loudon Charlton, Manager

LEVY Henlot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory

LIEBLING Emil Kimball Hall

LOOMIS Clarence American Conservatory

McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Le and and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music

McKAY Louis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich.

MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimball Ha

NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (University Studio of Music

NYVALL David Jr (Jamestown, N. Y.) Hill Piano School

OLIVER Mary Linnsay Moline Ill.

PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 415 W. 51st Place

PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 357 W. 63rd St

PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288) 1921 Wolfram St.

PETERSON Edna Gunnar 519 Fine Arts Bldg

PILLSBURY Agnes Hope 707 Fine Arts Bldg

PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music

RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766 620 Fine Arts Bldg

RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College

RICE Emma Stillman Valley, Ill.

RIVE-KING Julie Bush Temple Conservatory

RIPLEY Elbert N (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5629

ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg

ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.) 11 South 20th Av., East

RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn

RYDER Theodora Sturkow 4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)

SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music

SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420) American Conservatory

STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 939 E. Colfax

STEVENS Robert W (Phone Midway 6715) 5828 Woodlawn Av.

STOUT Lillian Mary 429 Fine Art Bldg.

SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music

SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.

SNELL Ella V (512 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771

SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory

SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music

STEAD Mabel Riggs Peoria Ill.

THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory

THOMPSON Frank Olin Wisconsin Conservatory Milwaukee

TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J. Berwyn) 55 Auditorium

von MICKWITZ Harold Bush Temple Conservatory

WALLACE Evangeline 522 Kimball Hall

WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory.

WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.

WATT Harmon H. Chicago Piano Colle

WILFORD J. E. 502 Kimball Hall

WILLARD Carolyn Louise 721 Fine Arts Bl

WILLIAMS Guy Revier (Berlin, Germany) Sel aper Str 22 H. P.

WILLIAMS Kathryn L. 1516 Matter's Bldg.

WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Colo (2228 Williams St.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Lonisville, Ky. Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son 820 Fine Arts Bldg.

C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block Syracuse, N. Y.

DITSON Oliver Boston, Mass

DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 81 6 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

FILLMORE Music House 528 Elm St., Cincinnati O.

FISCHER (J) and Bro., New York 7 and 11 Bible House

GAMBLE HINGED Music Co. 87 E. Van Buren

ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. 6119 Greenwood Ave.

LYMAN M. B. and Co. 622 Kimball Hall

MacDERMID James G. Fine Arts Bldg.

SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 64 E. Van Buren St.

THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co. A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.

Waldo Music Co. Publishers 236 W. Newton St., Boston

WITMARK M. & Sons New York

PIANO TUNING

LINDENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2151) 589 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music

ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1871) American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory Kimball Hall

ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art Fine Arts Bldg.

BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art 74 Auditorium Bldg.

BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle School of Music, Ripon, Wis.

BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.

BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av

BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music Zanesville, Ohio

Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.

CHAIGNEAU School of Music 59 rue Raynouard, Paris

CHICAGO Piano College Kimball Hall

CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.

CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.

Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.

COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 609 South Wabash Avenue

COSMOPOLITAN School of Music Auditorium Bldg.

DRAKE School of Music 61 Auditorium Bldg

DERDIGER (Spicker) E. J., Vocal and Piano 600 Kimball Hall

EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-6-8 Old Brandeis Bldg.

FAELTEN Pianaforte School Huntington Chambers, Boston

HINSHAW Conservatory of Music 5th Floor Kimball Hall

ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2831 Washington Boulevard

KROEGER School of Music (St. Louis) Musical Art Building

LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music) 629 Fine Arts Bldg.

LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts building

MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano 413 Kimball Hall

M. A. MONZEL Musical College Kimball Hall

MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir.) 309 Kimball Hall

Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia. (Cyril A. Morse, D.

NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass.

NORTH SHORE School of Music Evanston and Leland Avs

NORTHWESTERN University School of Music Evanston, Ill.

OAK PARK CONS. Music and Dramatic Art Warrington Bldg.

OSTROVSKY Institute. Hand Development 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)

STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art 55 Auditorium Bldg.

TOLEDO Musical College Toledo, Ohio

UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.

VALPARAISO University School of Music Valparaiso, Indiana

VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance 42 W. 76th St., New York

VILIM American Violin School 411 Kimball Hall

WESTERN CONSERVATORY F. H. Scott, Pres 1616 Mallers Bldg.

West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.

WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art 29 E 18th Av., Denver, Colo

WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 8th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

ALBERT Teachers Agency 633 S. Wabash Av.

BABCOCK Charlotte (College Church-Concert Agency Carnegie Hall, New York

LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf 421 Fine Arts Bldg

BRADLEY Kenneth M Bush Temple Conservatory

BUTLER Lester S. Worcester, Mass.

LUTKIN Peter C. Evanston, Ill.

THEORY

ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music

WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 715 Diversey Boulevard

WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall

WHITE (W. A. (North Shore School of Music) 4665 Evanston Av. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone North 815) Studio, 226 E. Ontario St.

BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st st.

BECKER Ludwig Columbia School of Music

BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 5112 Wall Street

BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Douglas 9194 Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg

BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.

BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.

BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)

CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Ravenswood 141) 1962 Leland Avenue

CLEOPHAS Cornelia Studying Abroad

COHEN Sol (Cincinnati Orchestra) 528 Lincoln Ave. (Avondale) Cincinnati

DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.) North Shore School of Music

DRAKE Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.

EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.

EVANS Clarence B. (San Francisco 1549 Octavia St.

FISCHEL Max I. 610 Fine Arts Bld

FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst) 105 Central Park West, New York

FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 426 Fine Arts Bldg.

FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4365) 4123 Ellis Av.

FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 46th Place

GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard

GOLDBLATT Maurice H. Chicago Musical College

GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.

HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music

ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)

KITCHIN Joseph 5416 Jackson Av.

KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory

LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517) 3533 W. Monroe Street

MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall

MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago Branch, Kankakee Illinois

MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street

NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nusshaum School of Music) 4654 Grand Boul.

PIZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York.

PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 630 North Pine Ave.

ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island) Villim. American Violin School

SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston 1451 Broadway, New York.

STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music

STEINDEL Albin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1325 Birchwood Av.

TOWNSEND Winifred 411 Kimball Hall.

VAN AIKEN Hal G. Soloist and Principal, Violin Dept., So. Bend (Ind.) Conservatory

WALKER Sadie (Phone Belmont 4534) Cosmopolitan School of Music

WOODARD Guy Bush Temple

WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory

YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory

ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory

SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R

VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis 22 S. 10th St.

WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.

ARKWELL Wm. J. (Bass-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.

ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory 606 Kimball Hall

ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147) 304 Athenaeum Bldg.

BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.) 85 Auditorium Bldg

BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert (Phone Hyde Park 5750 6365 Ingleside Avenue

BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall

BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York

BEARD William 410 Fine Arts Bldg.

BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music

BEERS Huidah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.

BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005) 303 Kimball Hall

BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.) Northwestern University School of Music

BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist) 6119 Greenwood Ave.

BISPHAM David
44 W. 44th St., New York

BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg.
Drake School of Music

BOGERT Walter L. (Baritone) Pres. N.Y.S.M.T.A
Aeolian Hall, New York City

BOLLMAN Maude Fenlon
Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.

BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York)
Care Haensel and Jones

BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 5819)
Kimball Hall

BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8520)
4822 Madison Ave.

BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium)
Cosmopolitan School of Music

BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor)
1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.

BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2269
Northwestern Uni. School of Music

BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3885)
(Harry Culbertson, Manager)

BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio)
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music

BRUEGGER Frederick
720 Fine Arts Bldg.

BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth)
7022 Vernon Av.

BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041)
727 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schntz (Meadville, Pa.)
Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau

BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone)
609 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183)
520 Fine Arte Building

Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass.
413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.

BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 5485)
512 Fine Arts Building

CASE Harriet
Auditorium Bldg.

CHEATHAM Kitty (New York)
274 Madison Avenue

CHENEY Mary (New York)
500 Carnegie Hall

CHILSON-OHRMAN Luella, (Soprano)
4603 Sheridan Road

CLARK Charlee W. (Paris)
12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.

CLARKE Edw. 513 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831)
Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)

CLARK Lizzie Abbott
Res. 5498 Cornell Av. (Phone Hyde Park 5971)

CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152
Sherwood Music School

CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone)
Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11

CLIPPINGER D. A.
410 Kimball Hall

CONANT Alice Widney (Soprano)
University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.

CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher)
721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495

COOK Dwight Edrus (Tel. Oak Park 2091)
120 N. Oak Park Ave., Oak Park, Ill.

COOK John Loring (Tenor)
300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 5158)

CORLEW Mabel (Contralto)
4202 Prairie Ave. (Phone Harrieon 973)

COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France)
6 rue Edmond About

CRAMER Alice Ione (Phone Drexel 7009)
608 E. 46th Place

CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor)
234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)

DAHLSTROM Margaret
3242 Clifton Ave.

DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977)
608 Fine Arts Bldg.

Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique
30 Rue Marbeuf, Champs Elysees, Paris

DE SALES Regina (Paris, France)
40 rue de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)

DeYOUNG Richard B.
American Conservatory

DEVRIES Herman
618-628 Fine Arts Building

DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478)
815 S. Harvey Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310
710 South Central Park Avenue

FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio
H. B. Turpin, Manager

FARNUM Mrs. Frank
3359 Warren Ave.

FARRELL Joseph (Kansas City)
201 Studio Building,

FICHTNER Ludwig Carl (Basso-Cantante)
149 Tremont St., Boston

FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Longwood 408)
9648 Howard Court

FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg
5906 Ontario St. (Contralto)

FRIDENBERG Abbie L. (New York)
Studio 110 Carnegie Hall

FRISBIE Constance (Soprano)
5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)

GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782)
318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.

GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886)
3435 Flournoy St.

GARTON Samuel B. (Home Phone Ravenswood 6392)
323 South Wabash Av.

GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone)
413 Kimball Hall

GIBBS Mary Crofut (Res. Phone—Longwood 1633)
404 Kimball Hall

GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone)
1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.

GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend, Ind. Conservatory)
Chicago Address, 522 Kimball Hall

GROW Ethel (Phone North 2685)
1002 Dearborn Av.

GROFF-BRYANT Anna. (Institute of Vocal Art)
523 Fine Arts Bldg

HADLEY Grant (Tenor)
Suite 73 Auditorium Building

HAGGERTY-SNELL Ida (Phone Morningside 3810)
2881 Broadway, N. Y. City

HAIGHT Irma (Detroit, Mich.)
955 Third Avenue

HALL William John (St. Louis)
Musical Art Building

HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497)
423 Fine Arts Bldg.

HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher)
72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.

HAMILTON Jessie Mack, (Phone Ravenswood 325)
714 Kimball

HARRIS Milon R.
403 Kimball Hall

HART Belle
509 Kimball Hall

HARTLEY Sybil Owen, (Atlanta)
999 Piedmont Av.

HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Phone Normal 1406)
care of Music News

HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawnvale Ave.)
Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1757)

HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Building

HERDIEN Mabel Sharp
5132 Kenmore Ave.

HEUCHLING Mathilde
712 Fine Arts Building

HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923)
Chicago Musical College

HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano)
1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel. Grac. 1733)

HINKLE Florence Soprano)
294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)

HINSHAW William Wade (New York)
Metropolitan Opera Company

HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrieon 2003)
6th Floor, Kimball Hall

HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson)
304 Kimball Hall

HOLT GeorgeNelson
609 S. Wabash Ave.

HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano)
3800 Broadway, New York

HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 13737)
5836 Washington Blvd.

HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544)
Auditorium Bldg.

Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8658 Graceland)
Tudor Mansions, 3515 Pine Grove Av.

HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante)
South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.

HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880
608 Fine Arts Building

HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund
Alliance, Ohio

HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267)
501 Kimball Hall

IKERT Charlotte (Contralto)
Management Harry Culbertson

JOHNS Ethelle Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131)
6463 Kimbark Av.

JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 6104)
4937 Michigan Ave.

KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8519)
4433 Racine Avenue

KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Edgewater 868)
North Shore School of Music, 4666 Evanston Av.

KIMBALL Roscoe (Baritone
Management Harry Culbertson

KIMBELL Grant (Tenor)
5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831

KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

LA BERGE Charles (Baritone)
American Conservatory

LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 6774)
1375 East 54th Street

LASH De Witt Durgin (Phone Harrison 5365)
420 Fine Arts Bldg

LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6830)
6460 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1

LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335)
4450 Berkeley Av.

LINDQUEST Albert (Phone West Pullman 366)
237 E-113 Street

LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto)
1311 E. 53rd St.

LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola
3814 Ellis Avenue

LUND Rene S. (Baritone)
2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 5602)

LUND Mme Edta
Scandinavian Song Program

LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J)
1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.

LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder)
Drake School of Music

MacBURNEY Thomas
609 Fine Arts Building

MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060)
3422 Fulton Street

McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439)
3620 Parnell Av.

MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E.
615 Fine Arts Bldg.

MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France)
27 rue Boisievant

MARCUSSON Grace Brune (Phone West 661)
2459 Jackson Boul.

MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402)
5256 Berteau Av.

MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.)
209 Wesley Av.

MILLER Christine
1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

MILLER Herbert
808 Fine Arts Bldg

MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn)
1. W. 34th St., New York

MILLER John B. (Tenor)
Chicago Musical College

MOSHER L. Drew
137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.

MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone)
1155 Belmon Ave

MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles)
445 W. 40th Place

MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest
3122) River Forest, Ill.

MULREY Mabel V.—Soprano—Pianist
47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.

MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4677
300 Athenaeum Bldg.

MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano)
4902 Friendsh p. Av.

MURPHY Mrs John Fremont (Soprano)
5000 Dorchester Av. (Phone Kenwood 4042)

MURRISON Harry R.
Alliance, Ohio.

NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122)
1215 E. 53rd Street

NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano
Plymouth, Ind.

NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199)
237 North Howard Av., Austin

NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York)
330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)

NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5509)
4125 Drexel Blvd.

OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute)
303 Kimball Hall

OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147)
2112 Washington Blvd.

PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England)
Care L. G. Sharpe, 51 Reg S

PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto)
Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.

PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.)
Toledo Musical College

PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3245)
4173 Lake Av.

POTTER Mildred (Contralto)
Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St., N

PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.)
Winona School of Music

PROTHEROE Daniel
610 Fine Arts Bldg.

RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Building

RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 6782)
1738 Humboldt Boulevard

RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor)
Barre Plains, Mass.

RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513
413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av

REED Esta Asber (Soprano)
Abroad for a season

REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165)
5527 Indiana Av.

REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg)
202 Nixon Building

RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.)
Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.

RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall
5518 Burchfield Av., Pittsburgh, P

ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting)
1372 E. 62nd St.

ROBBINS Edith Lucille (Lincoln, Neb.)
23 7 Washington St.

ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877
7205 Stewart Ave.

RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto)
Principal Liederheim, Aut

RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart
719 Fine Arts Bldg.

RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone G
3100 Lexington St.

SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano
999 Walnut St., Newt

SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano)
401 Boyd Theat

SCHUSTER Katherine
71 Auditorium

SCHUMANN-HEINK (New York)
Wolfsohn Bureau

SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrieon 459)
408 Kimball Hall.

SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner)
St. James Bldg., New York

SEVERINGHAUS Edna Reiffert (Soprano)
53 Auditorium Bldg.

SHELP Dr. H. Wm.
726 Fine Arts Bldg.

SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor)
516 Kimball Hall

SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano)
4044 Indiana Av.

SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano)
5523 St. Lawrence Av.

SMIDT Mable Corlew (Phone Austin 12717)
5943 Ohio St.

SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173)
625 Madison St., Gary Ind

SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano)
Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio

STEELE Mary Hinman
603 Kimball Hall

STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh)
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.

STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48)
4439 Calumet Av.

STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977)
55 Auditorium Building

STEPHALI Sofia Phone Midway 5912)
6105 Kimbark Av.

STEVENSON Lucille
4438 Berkeley Avenue

STRIBLEN Louise Mathewe (Phone Drexel 4923)
1134 E. 47th St.

STULTS Walter A. (Evanston)
Northwestern University School of Music

TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L.
Lewis Institute, Phone West 793

THATCHER Burton (Res. Phone Drexel 4861)
Chicago Musical College

THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano)
Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill

THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082)
820 Fine Arts Building

TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3765
Bush Temple Conservatory

TORRENS Mr. and Mrs. L. A. (Ninth Floor)
Auditorium Bldg., Wabash Av.

TOWNS Kirk
Chicago Musical College

TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor)
813 La Salle Av.

TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949)
404 Kimball Hall

VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799)
6511 Woodlawn Av.

WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380)
428 Fine Arts Building

WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2958)
1325 E. 64th St.

WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Oak Park 4397)
206 S. Lombard Av., Oak Park.

WATSON Ruth Swing
1225 E. 62nd St.

WEAVER Iva Bigelow
Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.

WEBSTER Frank B.
719 Kimball Hall

WEGENER Mme. Justine
Rush Temple Conservatory

WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone)
51 Auditorium Bldg.

WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 6946)
Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal

WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 E 34th St., New York

WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 1601
728 Fine Arts Bldg.

WILCOX John C. (Teacher)
Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo.

WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio)
515 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS Dr. Carver
(Samuel B. Garton) Auditorium Bldg

WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey
406 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS H. Evan
Akron Ohio

WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway
5107 Woodlawn Av.

WYNN Bessie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

WYCOFF Eva Emmet
500 W. 143rd. New York

YOUNG Walter S. (801 Carnegie Hall, New York)
Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair, N. J.

ZENDT Marie Sidenius (Wilmette, Ill.)
719 Park Av. (Phone 849-R Wilmette

ZIMMERMAN Oollata
72 Auditorium Bld

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

THE
Musical Advance

A Step Toward the Future

A Musical Monthly which is technical enough to interest the Artist, brilliant enough to amuse the Social World, of a depth which will hold the critic, and broad enough to be popular with all Musical people is

THE MUSICAL ADVANCE

For Sale on all news-stands throughout the country; ten cents per copy; one dollar a year.

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic
(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport, Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

FIFTH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER PRICE TEN CENTS

Music News

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH
America's Great 'Cellist

CHICAGO, AMERICA, OCTOBER TEN, NINETEEN THIRTEEN

Successful Singers who sing these Successful Songs by these Successful Composers

REINALD WERRENRATH

A popular young baritone in constant demand for concerts and musical festivals.

THE EAGLE

High Voice in E flat Medium Voice in C

Price, 25 cents, net, postpaid

THESE SONGS

CARL BUSCH

Eminent Danish American composer and conductor of the Kansas City Symphony Orchestra.

CHRISTINE MILLER

The young contralto who occupies a unique position today in the American concert field.

GAE TO SLEEP

Medium Voice in C Low Voice in A

Price, 25 cents, net, postpaid

PLEASE SINGERS

WILLIAMS ARMS FISHER

An American composer whose songs are in demand by leading artists.

JOHN McCORMACK

The young Irish tenor, a favorite in two hemispheres.

AT DAWNING

High Voice in A flat Medium Voice in G flat
Low Voice in E

Price, 25 cents, net, postpaid

PLEASE AUDIENCES

CHARLES WAKEFIELD CADMAN

Young American composer who has won fame.

ARTHUR PHILIPS

The American baritone who made a name for himself as principal in the Hammerstein Grand Opera Company in London last season.

THE NIGHTINGALE

High Voice in A flat Medium Voice in F

Price, 30 cents, net, postpaid

WILL PLEASE YOU

WARD STEPHENS

Noted composer and teacher of artistic singing.

OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, 150 Tremont St., Boston, Mass. CHAS. H. DITSON CO., 8-10-12 E. 34th St., New York, N. Y.

NEVADA VAN DER VEER

(Mrs. Reed Miller)

Mezzo-Contralto

REED MILLER

Tenor

Oratorio, Concert & Joint Recitals

Address:

Wolfsohn Musical Bureau, One, West 34th St., New York City

Music News

Vol. 5. FIFTH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER, CHICAGO, AMERICA, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1913 No. 41.

Editorial

ABOUT MUSIC NEWS

Rather a lusty five-year-old, don't you think?

And best of all, many of the ills and vexations of childhood are now of the past—forgotten.

The things we stand for, the things we are trying to do; you know, and the plans of the current year have been so recently detailed in our columns that recapitulation is now unnecessary.

Today we only want to say "Thank You" to all who have helped, and to promise that we will try to deserve the endorsement you have given. Music News stands uncompromisingly for "America for Americans," and it believes fully that younger artists need more help than do those already established; we think, too, that the time must come when we shall pay our own artists and regard them as generously as we do the foreigners now.

But meantime, we stand for all good music from whatsoever source, and want to help a little in the evolution of every good idea.

———♯♯♯———

AS TO CIRCULATION

The building up of the circulation of a music journal, or in fact of any "class" paper is a difficult thing. If its content be made too technical it interests its own class only; if too flippant, in an effort to reach the great public, it interests musicians not at all.

Artists want only news of great events, students want only "educational" articles; the general public wants only stories.

To combine all these wants is difficult and to build up a circulation requires much time. All music papers know that, but not all will admit it.

The advertising public knows it, however, and no objection oftener greets the advertising agent for a music newspaper than this one: "Yes, but why should I advertise in a medium which reaches only other musicians?"

As a matter of fact the objection is not valid, for a paper which reaches musicians is read by musicians' friends and patrons, and an advertisement in these columns will be noted by interested people to a much greater degree than in a daily newspaper, for instance, where not one reader of a hundred ever glances at musical notes or advertisements.

However, Music News has always endeavored to get by a circulation of "samples" a thoroughly representative list of readers each week and just to show the extent and the importance of this feature we promised our advertisers last April that in six months, i. e., from April to October, we would distribute nine thousand sample copies to new lists.

During those six months a strict account was kept of sample copies sent out, and as an actual fact, the total number amounted to thirteen thousand, seven hundred and twenty-two copies.

These copies went by mail, by messenger and by express. Lists were secured of those interested in music, but not professionally engaged in it, in every part of the country and copies were sent to these lists. It is perfectly safe to say that every state has had its quota and equally it may be supposed that Music News' advertisers have reaped some benefit, even as we ourselves have done so in an enlarged regular subscription list.

This is giving real value to our advertisers and it is a sort of value we shall continue to give in ever increasing ratio.

THE "WATCH-IN-HAND" TEACHER

An European musician it was, who after a superficial view of the situation invented the phrase "Watch-in-hand teachers" and applied it unfairly to Americans, quite forgetting that in late years Germany and France have gained the reputation of standing for commercialized music quite as much as do the teachers of Chicago and New York.

The slogan, "Watch-in-hand" has been taken up by several music newspapers and the resultant editorials have been extremely foolish.

Why should a teacher who gives just what he is paid to give be considered any less worthy than any other worker who does the same thing?

The highest priced people in the world are those who can do the most work in a short time and if a teacher be absolutely prepared and thoroughly experienced he can give in a half hour all that any pupil can absorb in one lesson, and, if he is paid for a half hour why should he give more?

In many years' experience with teachers this writer has found always that the best were the most business-like, and it is equally true that the best pupils like best those teachers who are always "on time," who keep their appointments, and never give "overtime" to one pupil at the expense of the next, who, when he is compelled to wait past his appointed time often loses interest in the lesson.

Of course if a man is not vitally interested in his pupils he should not teach at all, but vital interest does not necessarily mean "over time lessons."

It does mean good lessons and it may also be proven in various things which any good teacher may sometimes be privileged to give his pupils, experienced advice, social help, etc., but "over time lessons" are more often a mark of indolent, careless teaching, than the reverse, and good pupils know this fact full well.

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879

Chicago, October 10, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

United States, per year, postpaid..... $2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are charged to their accounts.

Frances Bowser, Business Representative

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina Place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block
Frank E. Percival

TOLEDO, OHIO
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20

Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

The Fifty-sixth Musical Festival of Worcester, Massachusetts

By LESTER S. BUTLER

Final preparations for the concerts of the Fifty-sixth Musical Festival of this city, were begun at a public rehearsal in Mechanics Hall, before a fairly large and very attractive audience, Monday night, September 29, at 8 o'clock.

Verdi's Manzoni Requiem held the stage, with a chorus of 400 picked voices, the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Miss Florence Hinkle, soprano; Lambert Murphy, tenor; Herbert Witherspoon, bass; Mme. Schumann-Heink, contralto, being absent, under the baton of Dr. Arthur Mees. The rehearsal closed with the "Hallelujah Chorus," by Handel.

Following this, Tuesday morning, afternoon and evening, there were orchestra rehearsals, the evening being devoted to "St. Francis of Assisi," Evan Williams in the title role, supported by Arthur Philips, Reinald Werrenrath, John Barnes Wells, Mme. Marie Sundelius, Miss Mary Jordan, a chorus of children, semi-chorus of mixed voices, celesta, Arthur J. Bassett, the festival chorus and orchestra, with Dr. Mees at the conductor's desk.

So many people desired to attend this rehearsal, that it became necessary to close the doors, owing to the recent law and turn the disappointed would-be patrons away. Incidentally this would seem to point emphatically to the desirability of having an auditorium in Worcester large enough to accommodate a much larger audience than gathered for this rehearsal.

Wednesday morning there was an orchestra rehearsal, and in the afternoon the orchestra divided honors with a chorus from the high schools of the city, which gave an interesting and carefully prepared program under the direction of Charles I. Rice, director of music in the public schools. This feature of the Wednesday afternoon rehearsal has been the custom for several years, and is wholly commendable, giving as it does, an opportunity for these young singers to become acquainted with the accompaniment of an orchestra, and so prepare them for the time when they take position in the festival chorus, or stand before a Worcester audience to claim its homage as a festival soloist.

On the present occasion naturalness of voice quality, and a simple organ-like orchestral accompaniment marked the presentation of "Young Thoughts Have Music," E. R. Kroeger; "While You Sleep," Henry K. Hadley; "Weave In, My Hardy Life," Frank van der Stucken; "True Freedom," Margaret Ruthven Lang, Op. 38; "Tonight," David Stanley Smith; "Massa Dear," Arthur Johnson; "The Busy Lark," G. W. Chadwick; and "Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind," by Arthur Whiting. The second and sixth with the Chadwick number, were sung with fine intonation, and well-defined mood. All of the program was heartily applauded by a good-sized audience.

The Manzoni Requiem, by Verdi, was performed at these festivals first in 1880, Carl Zerrahn conductor, and with the present production, seven times since. This might be taken as confirming Brahms judgment that the work is that of a genius, and quoting in sense another's words, it is decidedly modern, "without sensationalism, but with fine poetic effect, there are applied in its architecture and its instrumentation musical means of expression, which the present time, following Richard Wagner, has begun to make use of systematically." And this is in the face of Hans von Bulow, who declared that it contained more than a hundred errors in musical grammar and in voice leading, but later made the amende honorable by saying that "the spirit is more than the letter." Thus have wise, but hasty critics, frequently been forced, by the success of a work, to publicly admit an error in their judgment.

And one would question that errors had been made in "voice leading" after a performance such as the one given before a capacity house, Wednesday night, by the festival forces. When the soloists, Miss Florence Hinkle, Mme. Schumann-Heink, Lambert Murphy, Herbert Witherspoon, appeared on the platform, applause sprang forth hearty and inspiring. A slight pause to enable a belated comer to be seated, and obeying the signal of Dr. Mees, the orchestra began the lovely short introduction to the "Requiem e Kyrie," (Grant them rest), the chorus entering with a beautiful pianissimo which was continued, with some crescendos, until the clear, impressive "Kyrie Eleison," by Murphy, thrilled the hearer, and Mr. Witherspoon's "Christe, Christe Eleison," with prayerful tone, followed by Miss Hinkle and Mme. Schumann-Hink, with voices tuned to the prevailing mood, gave the audience an apportunity to listen to such quartet singing as is seldom heard.

And the chorus sang splendidly. With few exceptions, the "spirit" of the work was maintained. The orchestra, at a few points, was overpowering, yet the "Rex Tremendae Majestatis," (King of glories), with its great tone-volume, produced the effect desired, without doubt, by the composer when he scored the work.

It were unnecessary to mention the work of the soloists in detail. Enough said that they received the laurel crown. But the "Mors Stupebit," (Death with wonder), of Mr. Witherspoon, the "Liber Scriptus," ("Lo! the Book"), by Mme. Schumann-Heink; Miss Hinkle's "Libera Me, Domine," (Deliver Me, O Lord), the great tenor solo, "Ingemisco," (Sadly groaning), by Mr. Murphy, were given such artistic interpretation that mention should not be withheld. The "Recordare Jesu pie," (Think good Jesu) duet by Miss Hinkle, and Mme. Schumann-Heink, was a sermon in tones, as was the "Lux Aeterna," (Let Light Eternal), by Mme. Schumann-Heink, Mr. Murphy and Mr. Witherpsoon.

Beautifully sung a cappella portions of the work were heard with the utmost satisfaction, and as the softly chanted "Deliver Me," by the solo soprano, with the chorus, and the trembling chords from the orchestra sank into silence, it was realized that a great work had been superbly given.

An appropriate work, Beethoven's overture to Leonore, No. 3, Op. 72, began the concert. It was read by Dr. Mees so as to suggest the prevailing calm of perfect conjugal love. It also prepared for the devotional, tender mood of the "Requiem" that followed.

Thursday morning a rehearsal of the orchestra, Miss Eldridge, piano soloist of the festival, Mme. Sundelius, soprano, and Mr. Philips, baritone, contributed to the pleasure of a goodly number of patrons, that braved a rainy forenoon, to be present.

ERNESTINE SCHUMANN-HEINK

Speaking of these festival rehearsals, it seems to be the policy of the management to make them as interesting, from a musical standpoint as possible, and the soloists are very generous with their art, this results in a rehearsal often becoming a concert, which the patrons seem greatly to enjoy.

The Thursday afternoon concert introduced two who were new, as soloists, at these festivals, Mme. Marie Sundelius, soprano, and Arthur Philips, baritone. She first sang the recitative, "E Susanna Non Vien," and aria, "Dove Song," from "Le Nozze Di Figaro," Mozart, with fluency and ease. Her voice is sweet, penetrating, without sharpness, and her gamut is free from serious inequality. She won much applause, which she acknowledged by several appearances upon the stage, but without singing.

Mr. Philips sang Diaz's aria, "Combein de Fois au Jour a Succede La Nuit," from the opera "Benvenuto Cellini," with authority and success. He has a pleasing voice which he uses with discrimination and effect. His hearers gave him ready recognition, but he responded only by appearing on the platform.

The orchestral numbers were Dvorak's "Symphony in E minor," No. 5, from "The New World," Op. 95. This was given an interpretation by Dr. Mees, interesting, and individual. The second theme of the first movement, with its repeated suggestion of negro melodies, particularly "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," heard first as a song for the flute, and the second movement, with its beautiful solo for English horn, were moments of rare pleasure. Chausson's "Viviane," Symphonic Poem, Op. 5, beautiful music, and the Prelude to "Tristan and Isolde," (Wagner); with Liszt's "Dance in the Village Tavern, Mephisto Waltz," after Lenau's "Faust," were conducted by Mr. Strube.

Mr. Strube has sentiment and musicianship. His men seem to understand his desires and do their best to grant them. As a result the tone-picture presented to the listener is a true one of the work in hand, and this picture is painted without bluster and undue excitement. His reading of each of the works given under him at these concerts were demonstrations of the artistry of himself and the orchestra, and this is especially applicable to the "Dance in the Village Tavern," heard at these festivals for the first time, where the reading was so effective as to call to mind the amorous glances of Faust toward the "dark eyed peasant girl;" his hesitancy in making advances, even while urged by his companion, Mephisto, who laughs at his timidity; the wild dance with the maiden in his embracing arms, and the vanishing lovers into the "forest to revel in dreams of happiness,"

Thursday night "St. Francis of Assisi," by Gabriel Pierne, an oratorio for soli, choruses of men, women and children, with orchestra, was given its first American production.

Its premier was given under its composer at the Chatelet concerts, Paris, March 25, 1912, and critics spoke so well of it that it was performed the same year in several German cities.

The story of St. Francis, very briefly told, is that he was born at Assisi in 1182, of well-to-do parents. He was by nature of a cheerful, careless disposition, fond of fine clothes, and amusements with young men of his class. His parents aided him in the pursuit of pleasure, and greatly admired his princely manners and bearing.

At twenty years of age he had a serious illness, from which he rose a changed man. He declared poverty his bride, and made his aim to give relief and comfort to all, especially to the lepers in his vicinity and to the poor.

In the neighborhood of Assisi, St. Damian Chapel had fallen in ruins. This was a favorite spot to Francis. Here he heard a voice calling him to restore the chapel, and he took goods and a horse of his father, sold them and gave the money to the priest of the chapel. His father had him thrown into prison for this, but the efforts of his mother secured his release. On the advice of the Bishop he returned the money to his father. He then became a religious mendicant, gaining thereby the love of the people and the Bishop, who took him under his charge for awhile.

Francis soon gathered about him others who believed in the doctrine of Divine Poverty and founded the Order of Franciscans. About this time he met a young woman of the neighborhood, Clara, who became so much interested in his self-sacrificing life that she ran away and entered a convent, later founding the Order of Clarisses, which is an order of Poor Sisters.

Mr. Paul Hultman has appeared in more concerts in Europe and America than any other living Swedish pianist.

BRIEF COMMENTS FROM THE PRESS

The surprise of the evening was the pianist, Mr. Paul Hultman, who possesses a powerful, highly polished technic and temperament.—Minneapolis Journal.

Mr. Hultman suggested the renowned De Pachmann in lightness and flexibility of touch.—Jamestown (N. Y.) Morning Post.

Mr. Hultman is one of the most promising pianists of the day. His technic is, it seems, perfect and this combined with such subtle, artistic temperament placing him in perfect sympathy with the composer, combines to make him the real artist.—Jamestown Evening Journal.

The flexibility of his touch and ease with which he plays marks him as one of the most promising pianists in the musical world.—Red Wing (Minn.) Daily Republican.

His reputation which had reached us was of a pianist, an artist of the highest rank—and that reputation was not exaggerated.—Svea (Worcester).

As a piano virtuoso Paul Hultman was a real surprise. It would be difficult to find a greater "technic-equipment" than that he possesses.—Veckobladet (Minneapolis).

Mr. Paul Hultman, from America, proved himself to be a talented young pianist and is already the possessor of a highly developed technic.—Stockholms Dagblad.

One hardly dares say that anything is perfect, but his playing was certainly amazing.—Smalandsposten.

Mr. Hultman displayed a phenomenal technic and was equal to his great task. He also proved his ability as a composer. The audience filled the large auditorium to the last seat.—Falun Daily News.

Mr. Hultman's performance was received with a great demonstration.—Skofde "Billiogen."

Mr. Hultman displayed a phenomenal technic, playing, among other things, Schumann's "Faschingsschwank, Op. 26," and the "Mephisto Valses," the "Polonaise in E Maj." and "La Campanella," by Liszt.—Adrian Dahl in "Stockholms Morgonbladet."

Day Building, Worcester, Mass.

Huntington Chambers, Boston, Mass.

Robert Morosini, Tenor

Teacher of "The Garcia Method"

THE LYRIC

486 Boylston Street, BOSTON

Day Building, Worcester
Tuesdays

Colonial Bldg., Concord, N. H.
Saturdays

Francis was a great lover of nature and of animals. According to legend, his power over wild animals, his kindness to them, and his affection for birds, which came to hear his sermons, was extreme.

He became the subject of the infliction of the miracle of "Stigmata," the five wounds of Christ, which Pope Alexander IV., and other witnesses, testified to having seen before and after his death, and this was accepted as a sign of divine favor and stimulated greatly the growth of the order bearing his name.

EVAN WILLIAMS

He was given the title of "The Poor One" by the Italian people, and is the most beloved of all the saints. He was canonized by Gregory IX, two years after his death, October 4, 1226, a few years less than 500 years ago.

These incidents are the subject matter selected by Nigond and Pierne for the oratorio, and one of St. Francis' most characteristic songs, "The Canticle of the Sun," is introduced into the second part of the work.

The scenes into which the prologue is divided are "The Youth of St. Francis," and "Francis and the Lady Poverty." The first part has the Leper, Sister Clare, omitted in the present production, the Birds; second part, the Stigmata, "The Canticle of the Sun," the Death of St. Francis.

The setting of the prologue is in the streets of Assisi, where the merry-making companions of Francis urge him to join them in their revels. He declines and they depart.

The orchestral introduction to the chorus that opens the prologue is full of peculiar harmonies and rhythms, was played in the usual masterly style of the Boston Symphony players. The chorus attack faltered slightly, becoming steadier with the onrushing music, and ending strongly, as John Barnes Wells, assigned the role of Friar Angelo, and for the incidental tenor solos, entered and sang the first solo of the work.

Mr. Wells is a newcomer but he was received graciously and deserved the praise given him. His voice is a pleasing tenor, his diction good, and he sings with tasteful expression. After a chorus urging Francis to join in the merry-making, Francis, Evan Williams, is introduced by the words, "Leave Me Tonight." From that moment interest centered in him and his portrayal of the scenes through which the saint passed, was marked by sincerity of purpose, nobility of ideal, splendid persistency to attain it, and a very large measure toward accomplishing his great task.

The solo, "Like to a Wind-swept Flower," ending the first part of the prologue, the scene with Lady Poverty, Miss Mary Jordan, contralto, a singer new to the festival, at the close of the prologue, produced the desired impression of the saint's abnegation.

The first part, first scene, opens with a chorus of women's voices, "Ye Shepherds All, Dance on the Lawn," which was finely done by the first sopranos of the chorus. Following this Friar Leon, Reinald Werrenrath, sang "O Good Friar Francis, Great Joy Is Mine!" Mr. Werrenrath's work is always marked by sincerity, and his vocal equipment is adequate to any demand he puts upon it. In this "Leper" scene with Francis he commanded the admiration of his hearers, and divided honors with Mr. Williams. The "Leper" was Mr. Philips, and his work satisfied. His "I Was Vile, Crawling Vermin, Despised and Lowly," rose above the ordinary in dramatic intensity. This scene closed with the repetition of the opening chorus by a few sopranos, who sang beautifully.

LAMBERT MURPHY

Then the Birds scene. Mr. Werrenrath (Friar Leon) sang "Fierce the Relentless Sun Beats Down, Cruel, Unsparing." Then Francis (Mr. Williams) declares that he will preach to the birds flocking in a nearby field. Friar Leon seems to doubt his ability to keep them interested and is amazed when the birds listen. This duet introduces one of the most interesting features of the oratorio, the children as birds. At this production there were about sixty in the chorus. These were trained by Charles I. Rice, director of music in the schools of the city, who directed their singing at this concert, and the singing was distinctly pleasing. The words were clearly spoken, the rhythm well followed, and the vocal quality sweet and childlike. The chorus sang, "Light Is Our Wing, Gay Our Song," then single "Birds," Thrush, Redbreast, Sparrow, Lark, Linnet, Chaffinch, Nightingale, Warbler, Tomtit, Wagtail, Wren, represented by different children, uttered their song in praise of Francis. All of these children did surprisingly well. The scene closed with the birds singing "Farewell! Farewell!" and "flying" away in

Miss Edith Martin

GRADUATE OF VIENNA CONSERVATORY

— 1898 —

Harp Soloist and Teacher
Piano Instruction, Petersilea Method

Studio 102 St. James Avenue BOSTON, MASS.

four groups. A delightful moment. Then came "The Stigmata." This was opened by an instrumental prelude descriptive of the powerfully dramatic scenes that followed.

Quoting from "Historical and Descriptive Notes," by Dr. Mees: "St. Francis in spirit is at Golgotha, a witness to the Crucifixion, the horrors of which fill him with untold suffering. He sees the Seraph and hears a voice calling him. He falls down in a swoon. Revived by his brother friars he tells them of the vision, and as they look at his hands and feet they beheld the stigmata, for which St. Francis gives fervent thanks."

Splendidly did Mr. Williams, Mr. Werrenrath, Mr. Phillips and Mr. Wells present this great drama. Beginning with Francis' "The Fierce Autumn Blast Assails Me," Mr. Williams sang almost continuously measure after measure of highly dramatic music, accompanied by the orchestra and chorus, where Pierne says "In this part the voices are treated symphonically, forming an integral part of the musical texture," sometimes with closed, then with open lips, with a discrimination of esthetic and dramatic values rarely attained. Mr. Philips as "The Voice of Christ," also used tasteful vocal coloring in his lines, and Mr. Werrenrath added strength to the portrayal when he sang.

FLORENCE HINKLE

The "Canticle of the Sun," as given by Mr. Williams, is unforgetable. In this the orchestral accompaniment is written in "organum," fourths, fifths and octaves, and is used to mark the ends of lines, so that the voice has no support. The melodic line is intervallic, not diatonic or scale-like; this makes it especially difficult of true intonation, Here Mr. Williams won a victory, and with the second inversion of the tonic chord by the orchestra at the end of the "Canticle," his tone rested safely on the third from the root. Truly a lesson in detail.

Sister Clare, Mme. Marie Sundelius, sang her role with that touch of sweet womanliness that the part seemed to demand. Without affectation, yet with sureness, and a lovely vocal tone, she sang "In Calm Now Repose Thee," and "Francis, Go with Me, for This Sun Is Too Fierce for Thee."

The Stigmata ended with the "Awake, Praise Ye the Lord," by a men's chorus.

Now the oratorio hurries to a close, ending with the chorus singing in softest pianissimo, "Alleluia," after the death of Francis, who was surrounded by Friar Leon, Friar Angelo, Sister Clare, the Lady Poverty, other friends, and the people.

The chorus, "Along the Path Where Cypress and Elder Hang Over," was the appropriate manner by which the composer leads to the passing of the saint. The dialogue between Francis, Friar Leon, Sister Clare and the Lady Poverty, is mingled with mourning voices of the chorus.

A touch of delicate beauty is added when the Birds sing, "Weary our wing, sad our song, Mourneth now each feathered rover, While o'er thy head we do hover, Fluttering band, clustering throng; Each bird hides in its narrow breast one frail heart that is sorrowing; Above, beneath and east and west, Here we await thy spirit, little children of God! Francis."

The impression received from a first hearing of this work is that there are passages of wonderful beauty scattered through it. The instrumentation is made to strongly suggest natural phenomena, as the celesta, played at this production by Arthur J. Bassett, with the strings in harmonics, does the flight of birds; scale passages ascending and descending rapidly to suggest the sun's fiery heat: the use of the stick of the violin striking the strings, and the xylophone, to suggest the Leper's rattle, and a short motive given to the 'cellos and basses, which, says Dr. Mees in "The Notes," "One is tempted to associate it with the blows of hammers and mallets as the cross is raised and fixed in the ground." It is not venturesome to say that rarely is a work of such magnitude given so well at a first performance. Dr. Mees conducted.

Friday morning the usual rehearsal took place, and Mr. Williams, Mme. Schumann-Heink, Mr. Witherspoon and Miss Jordan were the soloists.

At the Friday afternoon concert the strong attraction was Miss Alice Eldridge, the young Boston pianist, who played the Liszt E Flat Major Concerto with an authority and mastery of technical difficulties, that is pregnant with possibility for her future as a concert pianist. Especially noticeable were the clearness of her scale-passages; sonorousness of her chords; delicacy of arpeggi; tasteful and artistic use of the pedal, and her steadiness of tempo. She was emphatically recalled and added a most poetic number to her program.

The full program was:

"Scheherazade" Symphonic Suite after "The Thousand Nights and a Night," Op. 35..... Rimsky-Korsakoff

Piano Concerto in E Flat Major .....Liszt
Miss Alice Eldridge

(Vocal Selection)
Miss Mary Jordan

Tone Poem "Death and Transfiguration" Op. 24.... Strauss

The orchestra under Gustave Strube gave a first festival performance of the Rimsky-Korsakoff Suite, which is a work of varied rythms and tonal figures, that were brought clearly before the mind by Mr. Strube's reading. The other orchestra numbers were similarly presented.

Artist night (Friday) was a repetition of the pleasure to an audience which all

Harmony and Counterpoint
By Mail if desired

Critic and Special Writer
Musical Mss. Edited

Lester S.
BUTLER
TEACHER of
SINGING

BOSTON AND WORCESTER
CRITIC AND CORRESPONDENT OF MUSIC NEWS

Steinert Hall
Boston

Day Building
Worcester
Massachusetts

Compositions and Arrangements
(By Mail to Introduce)

A Sigh (Medium Voice)
Regular Price - - .40
By Mail to Introduce - .22

Dear Girl with the Dreamy Eyes
Regular Price . . - .50
By Mail to Introduce - .27

Twilight Hour
Regular Price - - .30
By Mail to Introduce - - .17

Missionary Call
(mixed quartet) sacred .05

Brotherhood Hymn
(male quartet) sacred .06

The Darkey's Lullaby
(male quartet) - - .15

All the compositions are melodious and singable.

Order of the composer.

that took part have invariably given at these concerts.

The program was:

Overture Le Carnaval Romain .....Berlioz
"Non Piu Andrai" from "Figaro".....Mozart
Mr. Herbert Witherspoon
Suite for String Orchestra.....Bach-Bacherich
"Total Eclipse" from "Samson".....Handel
"Sound an Alarm" from "Judas Maccabaeus"..Handel
Mr. Evan Williams
Suite. Omar Khayyam.....Arthur Foote
Recitative and Aria "Vitellia" from "Titus"....Mozart
Mme Ernestine Schumann-Heink
Intermezzo from "The Jewels of the Madonna"....
..... Wolf-Ferrari
"Flower Song," from "Carmen".....Bizet
Mr. Evan Williams
Southern Fantasy .....Humiston
Air of the Drum Major from Le Caid.....Thomas
Mr. Herbert Witherspoon
"Autumn" .....Glasounow
Recitative and Aria "Gerechter Gott" from "Rienzi"
..... Wagner
Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink

Alice Christine
HEAPHY
Pianist
Management, LESTER S. BUTLER
Steinert Hall Boston
Day Building Worcester
Massachusetts

Virgil
Pianoforte School
of Worcester, Mass.
FACULTY:
Mr. Frederick W. Bailey
Organist and Choirmaster at Piedmont Congregational Church
Miss Grace Bertha Davis
Pianoforte
Miss Ernestine Harding
Of Boston, Soprano Soloist and Teacher of Singing
Studios, 19 Pearl Street Telephone

Final Chorus, "Hallelujah Chorus".....Handel
Festival Chorus and Orchestra

Encores and roses were the tributes of the hour. Beautiful lyrics sung by Mme. Schumann-Heink, Mr. Williams and Wagner's "Evening Star," by Mr. Witherspoon at their second appearance, increased the enoyment of the night, and the popularity of the singers. Mr. Strube lost nothing by comparison.

In overture or accompaniment his control over the orchestra was evident, and that splendid body of players have another sprig of bay in their keeping.

Arthur Bassett's accompaniments for Mr. Williams sustained the high artistic excellence of the evening.

The festival ended with the great chorus singing the "Hallelujah Chorus," from the "Messiah." Dr. Mees conducted.

During festival week with the exception of Thursday morning, when it rained, the weather was favorable to good audiences, and Thursday and Friday nights every seat in the hall was sold, and would-be patrons turned away.

The management is receiving many deserved congratulations for its foresight in securing such a quartet as appeared in the requiem, as well as for selecting Mr. Williams for the title role in "Francis."

The great festival chorus gave evidence of improvement in the fluidity of its singing, and its pianissimos were nearer the truth than has before been observed. Improvement was apparent, too, in the relative power of its crescendos. The "thick voice" of the women in the higher reaches being less noticeable. This makes for progress and greater musical triumphs in the future.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

WORCESTER, MASS.

After one year of successful work the Virgil Pianoforte School of Worcester, Mass., using the method of Mrs. A. M. Virgil of New York, commences its second season, affording its pupils many advantages over those of the past.

The piano instructors are: Frederick W. Bailey, organist and director of music at Piedmont Congregational Church, and Grace Bertha Davis, pianist and accompanist, also organist of First Congregational Church, Shrewsbury. The vocal instructor is Miss Ernestine Harding of Boston, who is soprano soloist at Piedmont Church.

It has been proven that frequent public performance is a great stimulus to pupils. So this season recitals will be given each month, at which pupils, parents and friends will be welcome.

The school is pleasantly situated at 19 Pearl street, in the heart of the city, affording beautiful studios, a comfortable waiting room and recital hall.

Piedmont Church is well equipped with musical organizations. It has a famous organ, splendid quartet, a choral union of forty voices which sings once a month, when oratorios or cantatas are given; and a girls' choir of forty members that sings at one Sunday morning service each month and on other special occasions.

. . . . . .

Mrs. Carolyn King Hunt, pianist and teacher of Boston and Worcester, held an informal at her studio, Worcester, after the festival concert Friday afternoon. Many festival people were present and noted musicians from different parts of the country.

Festival Artists Sing in the Schools

Following a custom promoted by Charles I. Rice, director of music in the schools, Mme. Sundelius sang for the pupils in each of the four high schools and Henry Eichheim, violinist, formerly of the orchestra, gave a program for them. Arthur J. Bassett, pianist, accompanied. William H. Cook lent his motor car for the morning.

Mr. Eichheim played "Chanson et tavan," Couperin, and "Caprice Viennois," Kreisler. Mme. Sundelius sang "Pierrot," Rubner; "Swedish Folk Song" and "Se seran rose," Arditi. She told the pupils that she had chosen the first because a high school girl had written it. She gave a little waltz song for encore at the close.

President William H. Cook of Worcester County Musical Association entertained at dinner in the Bancroft Hotel for the festival artists and other friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Bassett, Mrs. Wyllys Russell, Dr. ad Mrs. Arthur Mees, George W. Child, Jules Jordan, Providence, Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Morgan.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

WILLIAM J.
Arkwell
Basso-Cantante
Concert Oratorio Recital
Huntington Chambers Boston
Day Building Worcester
Massachusetts

Mrs. Carolyn King Hunt
PIANIST AND TEACHER
1085 Boylston St. Boston
Day Building Worcester
Massachusetts

GEORGE W. MUNRO
Voice Specialist
Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.
Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.
Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.
Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

Chicago Piano College
(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. Baritone DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING
American Conservatory
Kimball Hall

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

SERVICE, equipment, accommodations, together with a well selected and ample stock, makes our store the natural trading place for the music teacher, music student, and for the general discriminating music buyer.
CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO.
MUSIC
Publishers Importers Dealers
64 East Van Buren Street, Chicago
(Steinway Hall Building)

Katherine Howard Ward
Organist - Pianist - Teacher - Accompanist
917 Wilson Avenue Phone Ravenswood 2152

MUSIC TO COME

(Under this caption Music News will hereafter schedule all announcements received by Tuesday noon of each week.)

Saturday, October 11

Kimball Hall, 3:30, Charles La Berge, baritone, and Ramon Girvin, violinist.

Sunday, October 12

Orchestra Hall, 3:30, Mme. Nellie Melba, song recital.

Orchestra Hall, 7:15, organ recital prelude to Sunday Evening Club services.

Thursday, October 16

Columbia School Recital Hall, 8:15, program by Ludwig Becker, Winifred Lamb, Monica Graham Stults, A. Cyril Graham, Arthur Middleton and Arthur Granquist.

Friday, October 17

Orchestra Hall, 2:30, first afternoon concert, Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Saturday, October 18

Orchestra Hall, 8:15, first evening concert Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Columbia School Recital Hall, 3:00, program by Joseph Kitchin, Florence M. Granquist and Arthur Oglesbee.

Sunday, October 19

Auditorium, 3:00, benefit German Hospital, Geraldine Farrar, Clarence Whitehill and Fritz Kreisler.

Orchestra Hall, 3:30, Maggie Teyte, song recital.

Whitney Opera House, 3:30, Sidney Silber, piano recital.

Sunday, October 26

Studebaker Theater, 3:30, Clarence Whitehill in song recital.

Wednesday, November 26

The Auditorium, 8:15, opening of the Chicago Grand Opera season.

———♯♯♯———

APOLLO CLUB

Haydn's "Creation" in its entirety, was last sung in Chicago by the Apollo Club ten years ago. The revival of the "Creation" by the Apollo Club Sunday afternoon, November 9, in the Auditorium Theater is most interesting. The solo artists engaged are Florence Hinkle, soprano; Morgan Kingston, tenor, and Herbert Witherspoon, bass. The club's full roster of 300 singers will sing the choral parts and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will furnish the accompaniments.

———♯♯♯———

Pilzer.—Maximilian Pilzer, the popular New York violinist, who has appeared recently in concert with Mme. Melba, is to play the following dates: October 17, Rahway, N. J.; 21, Freehold, N. J.; 28, Wilmington, Del.; 30, Allentown, Pa.; 31, Wilkes Barre, Pa.; November 6, Bethlehem, Pa.; 13, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; 20, Burlington, N. C.; 21, Durham, N. C.; 28, Greensboro, N. C.

———♯♯♯———

Baton Club.—The first meeting of the Baton Club of Chicago for this season, will take place next Monday evening at the Boston Oyster House. A banquet will be served at 6, after which a lecture on "Unaccompanied Music" will be given by Eric De Lamarter.

SHEET MUSIC MENDED
Send me your torn and loose music and same will be put in good condition at very low rates; also your name and address stamped thereon if desired.
CHAS. A. KIMMIT Park Ridge, Ill.

Wm. Clare Hall
Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Elias Bredin
TENOR
NINTH FLOOR, AUDITORIUM BUILDING

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
304 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 1931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

HAZEL EVERINGHAM
Pianist Accompanist Teacher Ensemble
Address 1251 N. State St. REDPATH BUREAU

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
Special Summer Session—June to August
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Languages The Berlitz School of Languages,
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

The Musicians' Piano Tuner
Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel.Building Phone Harrison 2161

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
6450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

SWAINSON LECTUR RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5186

The ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE
OF THE NEW AMERICAN SCHOOL OF VOCAL ART
(Founded by Anna Groff-Bryant.) Exclusively a Vocal School. Offering courses distinctively Cultural and Vocational. Instructions given in classes and private individual lessons. Ninth school year opened October 1, 1912. Send for booklet giving full particulars. Address THE ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE, 522 to 526 Fine Arts Building, Chicago

ELLA C. BIGELOW
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
AKRON, OHIO

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians
by Horace D. Hitchcock
A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original.
The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:
"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."
For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cent's Postpaid.

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS
SOPRANO
CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS
6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

MARY CROFUT GIBBS
Mezzo-Contralto
Oratorio Concert Recital
404 Kimball Hall

ON VOCAL ART

WRITTEN FOR MUSIC NEWS BY EMMA VON ELSNER

In reference to a recent discussion in a Chicago Sunday paper between a scientist and a prominent vocal teacher concerning the voice, I wish to say a few words. When there is today contradiction among vocal teachers and writers as to the correct way to use the voice, how can the truth be established? Reading the article above referred to, one would be as much in the dark as to the science of tone production as he was before. Thus it has ever been with all articles and theories on vocalization.

The first requirement of vocal teachers is that they should have a perfect conception of pure tone. Their ear must be so keen that the slightest impurity will be detected. Only by possessing this gift and the ability to impart can they hope to bring to perfection voices under their control. Pure tones are absolutely unforced tones. They can be big, resonant and beautiful, and still be produced with no perceptible effort. With hundreds of vocal teachers here in America and abroad we have only a few (even professional singers) who use their voices correctly; who understand and employ the bel canto style of singing. Among those who are master of this art I can mention: Tetrazzini, Nordica, Bonci, Lilli Lehman (as I heard her a few years ago), Constantine, Plancon, Campanari, Sammarco, Amato, and of the younger singers, Alma Gluck. This list could be extended, but the names given are sufficient to demonstrate the method of the old school. Many vocal teachers today are making from five to ten thousand dollars a year. They are fine musicians, understand phrasing, can teach their pupils interpretations and coach them on songs and opera, but all this before a foundation is laid or the pupil has a perfect scale as to attack and intonation.

Unless a pupil has absolute control of the voice and can take his tones from the waist line spontaneously and freely, and can crescendo and diminish on a tone, or a succession of tones without forcing or pushing them, then only is he ready to be coached on opera or song. We do not expect a pianist or a violinist to play difficult compositions without first acquiring a perfect legato. Why then do we expect a singer to sing songs or be an operatic star without these essentials?

Today we hear the remark that the old Italian method is no longer needed; that the tastes of the people have changed; they want the declamatory, dramatic effects. Is it possible that beautiful, pure tone is no longer admired or pleasing to the ear? Is it not expected and demanded of the pianist, violinist and other instrumentalists, to have a pure tone? Why has not time made it necessary for them to strive for this pure legato scale and perfect intonation? But, with all the talk, one cannot help observing what effect singers with the tones of a Tetrazzini or a Bonci have upon the public; how they startle; how the people wonder if they are listening to a singer of the present day, or if the great singers of the past have appeared among them and they are listening to a voice of the long ago! Many singers today are fine musicians, are artists in interpretation, but they are tense; can not let go. They cannot play with their tones upon the breath. They know nothing of economy of breath. This freedom of production is so rarely heard that it is deplorable. Today we have only Tetrazzini as a coloratura, who can sing the old operas with the method of a Grisi or a Malibran. Either pupils are not willing to take the time to have a foundation laid, or there are only a few teachers who are teaching the old Italian method. To give power, strength and beauty to the voice it must be supported by the lower and larger muscles. The smaller muscles, as the tongue, lips and chin (jaw) are merely for diction and for enunciation. Only by relaxation of these muscles can the breath be utilized economically and the consonants be absolutely free—not down against the teeth or pushed into the nasal cavities. The frontal part of the face, as between the eyes, is the true resonant cavity, but the tone must not be placed there; it goes there itself by the action of the lower muscles. The part between the eyes and across the upper jaw or cheek bones is merely the sounding board.

Managers are vainly trying to find singers who can sing the old operas. What makes this condition? Even in this practical age one sees that the love for a pure tone still exists, whether produced by a human instrument, or that of wood or brass. What entrances and holds a De Pachmann audience but the singing, legato style of his playing? Despite his eccentricities and much criticised manner upon the stage, all is overlooked and forgiven by the true lovers of music, and the delicate, smooth rendition of all his numbers is listened to with breathless enjoyment. They drink in the clear, limpid tones which he brings from the piano. It seems not like the piano played by the conventional pianist—no jarring of strings is heard; the power seems to come from his soul, and impresses the listener with the thought that he feels kindly towards the instrument before him which helps and enables him to express what he sees in imagination. His playing reaches the heart and impresses with its coloring as do the colors in a master landscape painting. So it should be with a singer—to put the same coloring into the voice. But this is seldom heard. The inability of a pupil to recognize the difference between a forced or free tone is the great drawback to rapid advancement. Unless they hear and feel when the tone is right, no teacher, however hard he may try, can make a singer out of such an one—no more than can a great pianist be made of every pupil who has instruction from a piano teacher. The majority of vocal students are handicapped largely by not having suf-

Special Premium Offer

WE WILL give as a premium for Five New Subscribers to Music News a set of Four of the Perfield Filing and Indexed Compartments, without Cabinet.

This is advertised elsewhere in Music News today as "Style Four" and unquestionably constitutes one of the finest systems in the world for keeping sheet music in absolute order.

Other Compartments can be added to the original set as needed and also the Cabinet may be ordered at any time.

This set of Four Boxes, as described, will be given with a list of Five New Subscribers, and it certainly is worth while for any teacher to make the effort to get this number in his or her own Class.

It is not possible to give our regular Premium of Sheet Music when the Filing Boxes are given, but the latter constitutes so excellent an investment that any Class will be glad to have the teaching Studio so equipped.

ficient breath. With such pupils the work is slow and discouraging, as development takes time and patience. On the other hand, some students have so much breath and strength of lungs and body (as is mostly the case with the male sex) that it is hard to subdue their power and have their singing muscles develop gradually. Their strenuousness causes them to contract the muscles, which greatly impedes progress. This is one reason we have no great American tenors, and I might say no great German tenors (those who are masters of the bel canto). With such natures the big tone seems to be the only thing worth striving for; just as though the big tone, with the raising of the shoulders, and perhaps a dramatic expression on the face expressed anything in song. It was owing to the good judgment of Bonci, and other tenors of his class, that he did not follow the tendency of his sex—to always think of loudness and the heroic attitude. Caruso had abundance of breath, but to this day lacks poise and elegance. The big tone, strenuous manner and beautiful voices have pleased the multitudes, but not so much the refined music lovers. It is owing to his great bellows that he has been able to keep his voice, for, allowing his emotions to express what his head should express would have ruined any voice in a less robust constitution than Caruso's. But tenors like Bonci and Constantine never allow their emotions to cause them to forget that intellect (brain) alone is what they should depend upon for expression.

THOUGHT is the keynote to intellectual and sane singing. Caruso understands the bel canto, but does not always use it. In the first place, it is not in harmony with his nature. It pleases him to strive for effects and gain applause by his vigorous manner and more vigorous tone. Cool head and warm heart are qualities few singers possess. Caruso runs wild at times; his attitude lacking poise or refinement. The box office fixes his salary. Whatever he does unbecoming a true artist, he holds the public by the beauty of his voice. One can truly say it is the most beautiful voice in the world, but it would be a dangerous experience for other tenors to follow Caruso's style and method unless they possess as glorious a voice as his and the abundance of breath and strength of muscle to support it. Caruso is peculiarly gifted.

Unless teachers and pupils manifest more interest in pure singing; the disposition to achieve dramatic effects with poise—which means control of body by the mentality, there is danger of the greatest of all arts becoming extinct, or rather the pleasure of hearing singers with pure tones will remain as it is today (a rare treat) and we will have to be content with the broken, uneven scale and forced tones of the singers of the present day—trained in the hurried commercial system the majority of teachers employ.

———♯♯♯———

St. Peters.—The first festival service at St. Peters will be given on Sunday evening, October 19.

MARY GARDEN

Cleofonte Campanini, general director of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, writes from Parma, Italy: "Mary Garden again heads our list of sopranos and will make at least one appearance in each of her favorite roles. She will also be seen in "Monna Vanna," which is entirely new to America. This work has gained considerable popularity in France, and is in every respect worthy of production. Musically, it is most interesting, and it affords Miss Garden a great opportunity of displaying her great talent as a singing actress. Associated with her will be Lucien Muratore. I also propose to revive for Miss Garden, Massenet's beautiful "Manon," the title role of which she plays with infinite charm, and in which Lucien Muratore, who will sing the principal tenor role, is an ideal Des Grieux. Hector Dufranne will play Lescaut. I feel quite safe in predicting a great success for this revival. I shall also revive "Pelleas and Melisande" for her. Last year I received many inquiries, requesting this opera, and I believe performances of work so artistic and so interesting, and performed so perfectly by Miss Garden and others concerned, cannot but add to the distinction of the artistic achievements of our organization."

———♯♯♯———

Virgil.—Mme. Virgil of the Virgil School of Music in New York, is presenting several pupils in a piano recital, this afternoon (Friday) at the studio at 42 West Seventy-sixth street, New York.

JUDITH CHILSON-OHRMAN
SOLOIST AT WORCESTER FESTIVAL SEASON
Address 4603 Sheridan Road

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Sunnyside 8540

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY MURRISON MABEL
Bass-Baritone
Oratorio
Concert
JOINT-RECITALS
Pianist
Accompanist
Alliance Ohio

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL.
Mrs. W. S. Bracken, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman
Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

H. W. OWENS, MUS. B.
VOICE BUILDER COACHING
PUPILS PREPARED FOR CHURCH POSITIONS, CONCERTS, ORATORIO
Monday and Saturday—Maller's Bldg., Madison & Wabash
Studio Telephone Harrison 4573
CHICAGO
Friday—2112 Washington Boulevard

Peoria Musical College
102-104 North Madison Avenue
PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11
Strong Faculty
Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address
FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING
Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT
Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr.
Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley
Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING
PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS
Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544
STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker
TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN
ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIS
4596 OAKENWALD AV.
Phone Drexel 3987

FLORENCE HINKLE'S GROWING POPULARITY

After singing at the Worcester (Mass.) music festival, during the week of September 29, Florence Hinkle went to Aurora, N. Y., where she opened the season of recitals at Wells College. This was Miss Hinkle's third engagement at the Worcester festival.

This favorite American soprano, spent the summer motoring through New England. She visited evey state in that section. While in Massachusetts, Miss Hinkle sang at a musical given at the Beverly Farms estate of Mrs. Lewis Shaw of Boston.

Miss Hinkle's bookings for the new season will greatly surpass her record of previous years. Besides the engagements for recitals she is to appear at many oratorio performances. At Worcester, she sang in the performance of Verdi's "Requiem" in commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of the great Italian composer's birth.

A CHICAGO CRITIC'S OPINION

"In a concert recently given at the Fine Arts Theater in Chicago, Mrs. Edith Kramer Stern was heard in the glittering 'Polonaise' from the opera of 'Mignon' and at once proved her right to be classed with the most effective of coloratura singers.

"Her intonation was clarity itself and her shading was remarkably well controlled—the power ranging from a splendid forte to the most refined of pianissimos at will.

EDITH KRAMER STERN

"The tricky rhythms of this most difficult number were perfectly maintained and the brilliant color was conserved to the full—staccati, chromatic scale and difficult skips were all manipulated with the greatest of ease and at the conclusion of the number Mrs. Stern was recalled several times and given the warmest possible assurance that she had pleased her audience to the utmost.

"This young singer has advanced amazingly in her art the past few months and if her success at the Fine Arts Theater be any criterion it is certain that she has now established herself firmly with the public and that she will henceforth be in frequent demand in concert.

"Her repertoire is said to be an unusually large one and it contains much of the modern French School besides the usual list of German lieder and a long program of songs in English text."

Miller.—"The Recent Revolution in Organ Building," by George L. Miller, Fellow of the Royal College of Organists, has just been sent out by the Charles Francis Press, of New York.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST

In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.

Address until October, Care Music News, Chicago; after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.

Knoxville, Tenn., Daily Sentinel:

"Summing up the recital, it may be justly called a most unique concert and the finest 'cello recital heard here in years."

North Shore School of Music

Broadway and Leland Ave.

The Ideal School for Resident and Out of Town Pupils.

WILLIAM A. WHITE, President. Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, William A. White, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC AND THEORY, William A. White. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul

ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated)

CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar

TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The Bliss School of Music at 234 Kenilworth avenue, north, Oak Park, is a new institution which has been accepted at its very inception by the residents of the western suburb as something of infinite value to the community.

HOME OF THE BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Miss Jennie Maud Bliss, the director, has long maintained a piano school in Oak Park and is known throughout the vicinity as a splendid teacher.

In the new school she has associated with herself Permelia Gale, a fine singer and teacher of voice, Mr. Edwin Schneider, a concert pianist and accompanist who is known all over America, Day Williams, one of the best local 'cellists; George Bass, a fine violinist, and other teachers, including Clara Page Ongawa, voice; Anna Marion Thompson, piano; Beatrice Henry Piano; Ethel Robinson, dramatic art; David Jacobs, violin; Henry F. Meyers, banjo and guitar; Allen Center, Herman Krogman, Charles Lundstrom, John Cutteridge and Arthur Rice, orchestra instruments.

The building of the Bliss School contains attractively furnished studios which are well equipped, for the needs of the school. The entire lower floor has separate studios which may be thrown together, forming a large room suitable for recitals, musicales, and lectures on musical subjects. Arrangements are being made this year for a course of lectures on the history of musical form, the development of the symphony, sonata, opera, and music drama, interspersed with interesting talks on the different composers, playing on the piano, parts from their different masterpieces.

Three series of recitals will be given, the programs being furnished by pupils of the various departments.

CHARLOTTE PETTIBONE

A Chicago critic, who recently heard Miss Pettibone in Austin, wrote of her work as follows: "Miss Pettibone is that rara avis, a pianist of ample power and great technical equipment who yet has the discretion and the good taste to hold her work to absolutely musical tonal quality. She never forces the instrument and never, for one moment, allows you to forget that piano playing is intended always to be beautiful and should never degenerate into mere forcing the instrument to its greatest speed and sound capacity. She has an excellent cantabile and her melody line is conserved and shaded as clearly and as beautifully as it should be by the most beautiful of voices; withal she has great facility and power, so that, when the music requires it, she is fully able to add brilliancy and glitter."

CHARLOTTE PETTIBONE

J. E. WILFORD

Mr. J. E. Wilford, whose work as a teacher of piano and voice has so developed in Maywood that he could fill his time to repletion in that suburb, still retains his Kimball Hall Studio and has there four half days of solid bookings. Mr. Wilford is thoroughly progressive in methods and offers many opportunities to his pupils for public appearances.

J. E. WILFORD

Paulist Choristers.—The Paulist Choristers of Chicago, Father William J. Finn, C. S. P., musical director, will be heard in a concert Sunday afternoon, November 2, at The Studebaker under the management of F. Wight Neumann.

Musical Advance.—The first copies of The Musical Advance, a new musical monthly, published in New York, are at hand. It is very handsome in form and full of interesting matter. Success!

CLARENCE EDDY

May be engaged for the

Opening of New Organs and for Organ Recitals

During the Season of 1913-1914.

Address: 510 Oakwood Blvd., Chicago.

LIEBLING COMPOSITIONS

Following is a list of the favorite compositions by Emil Liebling, the renowned Chicago pianist, composer and teacher, and for general convenience it is arranged in order of difficulty and in appropriate groupings.

Mr. Liebling's compositions are in the style of the best salon music, such for instance as the popular works of Moszkowski, Godard, Bendel and Loeschhorn. They are perfect in form, always melodious, practical and pianistic. Such works as the "Gavotte" and "Spring Song" show charming contrapuntal device, and all are excellent for finish and technic, while many of them, notably the "Florence Waltz" and "Serenade" have become world famous for their effectiveness in concert use.

The revisions of the various studies are among the best of their kind.

In conjunction with W. S. B. Mathews, Mr. Liebling published a Dictionary of Music (John Church Co.) and a collection of graded piano pieces—Graded Recreations, Books I and II (Church Co.). Mr. Liebling is also the associate editor of the American History and Encyclopedia of Music, published by Irving Squire Co.

ELEMENTARY GRADE

"Allegretto," "Caprice" and "Romance," Op. 32, (Summy).

Three "Rondinos," in C, G and F, Op. 37, (Summy).

PURELY TECHNICAL

"Complete Scales, with Fingerings and Explanatory Preface," Op. 13, (Schirmer).

INTERMEDIATE GRADE

"Commonwealth March," (John Church Co.)
"Cradle Song," Op. 23, (Brainard).
"Canzonetta," Op. 26, (Church).
"Manuela," "Air de Ballet," Op. 29 (Church).
"Valse Impromptu," Op. 38 (Schirmer).
"Princess Waltz," Op. 42, (Church).

MODERATELY DIFFICULT

"Feu Follet," Op. 17, (Schirmer).
"Album Blatt," Op. 18, (Schirmer).
"Kensington Waltzes," Op. 19, (Ditson).
"Romance Poetique," Op. 20, (Brainard).
"Madeleine Waltzes," Op. 27, (Church).
"Spring Song," Op. 33, (Church).
"Serenade," Op. 34, No. 1, (Schirmer).
"Lolita," Op. 40, (Schirmer).

ADVANCED

"Meteor Galop," Op. 10, (Schirmer).
"Gavotte Moderne," Op. 11, (Schmidt).
"Romance Dramatique," Op. 21, (Brainard).
"Valse Poetique," Op. 31, (Church).
"Elfin Dance," Op. 34, No. 2, (Schirmer).
"Second Menuet," Op. 35, (Schirmer).
"Valse Etude," Op. 36, (Schirmer).

DIFFICULT

"Florence, Valse de Concert," Op. 12, (Schirmer).
"Menuetto Scherzoso," Op. 28, (Church).
"Mazurka de Concert," Op. 30, (Church).
"Scherzo," Op. 40, (Schirmer).
"Concert Polonaise," Op. 41, (Schirmer).

REVISIONS

Loeschhorn's "Studies," Op. 65, 84 and 66 (Brainard).

Heller, "Studies," Op. 45, 46, 47 (Brainard).

Graded Course, "Czerny Studies," Three Books, (Presser). Completely fingered, phrased and carefully graded.

VOCAL

"Adieu," song for soprano or alto, Op. 14 (Schirmer).

"Dost Thou Remember," song for tenor, Op. 22, (Brainard).

VIOLIN AND PIANO

"Cradle Song," Op. 23, (Brainard).

G. Schirmer of New York has published a very interesting and brilliant arrangement by Mr. Liebling of Chopin's "Etude," Op. 25, No. 9, under the name of "Salon Etude." Lack's "Song of the Brook" and Godard's "Pan's Flute," have also been revised by him for teaching purposes, published by Summy and Ditson, respectively, and the S. Brainard's Sons Co. have printed a collection of practical teaching pieces, selected and revised by Mr. Liebling under the name of "Twelve Piano Lessons."

RETURN OF MR. STOCK

Mr. Karleton Hackett writes as follows about Mr. Stock in the Chicago Evening Post:

"Frederick A. Stock has come back again with a trunk pretty well filled with the most recent masterpieces of the musical genius of Europe, but feeling on the whole rather dubious as to the quality of mastership which will be revealed when they are played. The only thing about which we found him enthusiastic was over the performances at the Prinz Regenten Theater in Munich.

"'These were really fine, something absolutely out of the ordinary,' he said, 'but talk of the increased cost of living, they have advanced the prices there, and now they make you pay 25 marks, more than six good, hard American dollars, with 40 pfennig additional for the program. It used to be bad enough at the old price of 20 marks, but now it is serious and everything else is going up the same way. As soon as President Wilson has finished with regulating the tariff over here, the kaiser ought to see if he can't persuade him to go over to Germany and do the same thing, for they need it about as much as we do.'

"'They never could give that Munich festival if it were not for the American people. The audience at the Prinz Regenten was about 75 per cent Americans; you could tell it everywhere you looked, for all about you, in the theater, in the restaurants and wherever you went you heard nothing but English. It is astonishing and then something worse, the way the Americans crowd over there and spend money, while you don't see any Germans in the theater at all. You know that at the Hotel Adlon, in Berlin, they tell that a German got in there by some mistake, but had to leave without engaging a room because he could not find anybody in the place who could speak German and he did not know any English.'

"'Munich is delightful in the summer, and I don't refer exclusively to the beer either, tho I heard of many who thought it very good; but you find a number of French, Italians and Russians there, and all of them interesting people, so that you get a taste of what is going on in the whole of Europe. Musically, things are pretty much at a standstill. Of course there is Richard Strauss, who must be recognized as the head, but he has said no really new thing in these last years, tho I think the American public will like his "Rosenkavalier" immensely—when they hear it. I heard it again this summer, beautifully given in Munich under his direction, and it is sparklingly brilliant, with fetching melodies and delightful fun; but they will have to cut it over here, for the performance lasts four solid hours. Whew! in the summer, at a festival performance, we will stand four hours of "Die Goetterdaemmerung," but not the "Rosenkavalier," and the time will come when they will take some big slices even out of the Ring, which will go all the better for it.

"'Schoenberg! Well, he is getting a following as the one man who is doing something new—but have patience for a few weeks now and we will know something about it from our own ears. It will be as new to us as to anybody, for I did not hear one of his works this summer, as there was no place to hear. Except in Munich there was nothing in all Germany, and there only the opera.

"'Now we have to buckle down here and see if we cannot do something for ourselves. When the National Academy comes here for its meeting in December we ought to give them a big American program, with our own composers to conduct in person—Chadwick, Converse, De Koven—and show them how alive we are. I will get to work on the program at once, and we will make a fine one too.'

"So in a couple of weeks we shall be in the thick of it again, with everybody mighty glad to feel the pull of the harness once more, for an old stager is not content to stay long in the green pasture with nothing to do but kick up his heels. Mr. Stock looks to be in the best kind of trim for a hard winter's work and glad to find himself back 'home.'

"He has brought from Europe the following novelties, the greatest number of which, or as many as is advisable and convenient, will be given during the coming season.

GERMAN-AUSTRIAN

Festival Prelude for orchestra and organ ..... Richard Strauss
Romantic Suite ..... Reger
Five small pieces ..... Schonberg
Symphony in B minor ..... Volbach
Fourth Symphony ..... Mahler
Fifth Symphony ..... Bruckner
Markische Suite ..... Kaun
Carneval Overture ..... Braunfels
Overture, "Reinicke Fucha" ..... Bieyle
Small Suite ..... Sekles
Sinfonietta ..... Korngold
Violin Concerto ..... Noren

SWISS

Bocklin Symphony ..... Hans Huber

SCANDINAVIAN

Swtdish Rhapsody ..... Alfven
Suite, Meister Olof ..... Tor Aulin

RUSSIAN

Symphonic Poem, "Prometheus" ..... Scriabine
Ballet Suite ..... Paul Juon

FRENCH

Suite, "Island Fishers" ..... Pierre Maurice
Symphony in C major ..... Dukas
Gigues ..... Debussy
Viennese Rhapsody ..... Florent Schmitt
Symphonic poem, "Souvenir" ..... D'Indy

AMERICAN

Symphonic Legend ..... Schelling
Symphonic Poem, "Ormazd" ..... Converse

ENGLISH

Symphonic Poem, "Ulalume" ..... Holbrook
"Falstaff," a character study ..... Elgar
"Life's Dance" ..... Delius
Overture to a Greek Tragedy ..... Bantock

SPANISH

Symphonic Poem, "Dante" ..... Granados

ITALIAN

Suite, "Piemontesi" ..... Sinigaglia

Thomas N. MacBurney

Baritone Voice Production Song Recitals

Three years assistant to King Clark

608-609 Fine Arts Bldg. Chicago Phone Harrison 6880

CHRISTINE MILLER

Music News considers it a privilege to copy the following comments on Christine Miller from the Paris letter in the last Musical Leader:

"Christine Miller was in Paris all of August, and her stay was much enjoyed, not because she treated anyone to her singing, because she did not, but because of the expression of her original and independent views on almost every current subject. She is such a loyal American and she has such a clear view of European conditions as they strike her, that it is refreshing to hear her ideas and convictions.

"For one point, Miss Miller is almost an object of curiosity because she did no shopping while here. But to repeat her own words: 'I expected to get several gowns and to buy various articles in Paris, but what I saw at my first day's looking about showed me that things were no cheaper than in America. Before taking any steps or giving any orders, I began to think of the experiences of friends here—how difficult it is to get just what one desires, how I might be compelled to take a dress after it had turned out unsatisfactory, in many ways how a foreigner would be at the mercy of the tradespeople; so after reflecting I decided to wait till I reached home and could find what I wanted at my door without bothering to be detained at customs on landing.

CHRISTINE MILLER

"'I don't care for Paris styles, at least what I've seen this time, and I am convinced there are no dressmakers in the universe as good and reliable as our own. The manner in which Americans are 'held up' by shopkeepers who seem to think us all millionaires in disguise, is as unjust as it is humiliating. Anyway, the poor workmanship and the high price does not make the garment worth while. Americans are coming to realize this fact slowly and surely. Europe may be and probably was cheap twenty years ago, but with the march of industry and with strikes, it now compares quite uniformly with the States in cost of living.

"'My summer abroad has only accentuated what was impressed on me somewhat on my first visit to the Continent, that America is up with Europe in every way except art. The high standard put on music and the number of good artists heard in the United States has educated the people and disciplined them so that only the best satisfies. All the capable artists go to America and really the only fine music heard this summer was at Bayreuth, and there the artists have mostly been in America, and their voices were more or less familiar.'

"Miss Miller was supposed to give her voice a rest while here, but her accompanist spent the morning with her and until lunch, this singer worked hard, for, as she said, she is anxious to learn modern French songs on the native soil, and her accompanist, who was a splendid coach, gave her valuable suggestions. 'I am only choosing what I really like of these modern music-makers,' said Miss Miller. 'Some of them I don't care for, not enough to cultivate a taste for their works, even though everyone else is singing them. I have chosen good songs and those that appeal to me, and these I shall use on my tour.'"

———♯♯♯———

AMATEUR MUSICAL CLUB

The first concert of the Amateur Musical Club season will be for active members only and will take place Monday, October 13, at 2:30 p. m., in the Assembly Room, Fine Arts Building. This will be preceded by a business meeting at 1:30 p. m. The program is arranged by Mrs. W. A. Alexander, Mrs. Elizabeth Garnsey Harvey. Members taking part are Mrs. Iva Bigelow Weaver, Miss Amy Keith Jones, Miss Edith Maldwyn Jones, Miss Clara J. Rubey, Miss Florence Hodge, Miss Susie B. Ford.

The Amateur Musical Club Year Book for 1913-14 is just issued. The artist recitals announced for the year are:

October 24, the Flonzaley Quartet.
January 5, Oscar Seagle, baritone.
March 2, Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler.

The regular concerts begin October 13 with an active members' program, followed October 20 by a joint program of the Lake View Musical Society and the Amateur Musical Club.

The scholarship concert will be given November 17, with Signor Gulli and Miss Lucille Stevenson.

———♯♯♯———

Cook.—Mr. Dwight Edrus Cook, well known in Chicago and Oak Park, has accepted the position of director of the vocal department at Boise Conservatory, Boise, Idaho, and entered upon his duties there last week.

———♯♯♯———

Congdon.—Miss Ethel M. Congdon, teacher of voice, opened her studio at 721 Fine Arts building, Chicago, on October 1. She is sending out a very attractive little circular.

———♯♯♯———

Willard.—Miss Carolyn Willard has returned from Colorado and re-opened her Fine Arts Studio.

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

Daniel Protheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO 955 Third Av., Detroit, Mich.
Chicago address, care of Music News

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

Katherine Howard Ward
ORGANIST and ACCOMPANIST Tel. Ravens'd 2152
Teaching Cosmopolitan School of Music

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
ABROAD FOR SEASON

THEODORA
STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

Harriet Case SOPRANO
Management Sam'l B Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., Second Floor

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

H. B. Bartholomew
Teacher of PIANO AND VOICE 502 Kimball Hall

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

FRANK STEEN
TENOR
304 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TENOR Director Vocal Department Boise Conservatory of Music.
Pinney Building, BOISE, IDAHO

THE
Musical Advance

A Step Toward the Future

A Musical Monthly which is technical enough to interest the Artist, brilliant enough to amuse the Social World, of a depth which will hold the critic, and broad enough to be popular with all Musical people is

THE MUSICAL ADVANCE

For Sale on all news-stands throughout the country; ten cents per copy; one dollar a year.

All the Leading Artists
Are Featuring
Palmer John Clark's
New Song
Someday, Sometime
Published in four keys

Low in Eb	Med. low in F	Med. high in G	High in Ab

For Sale Everywhere
GAMBLE HINGED MUSIC CO.
CHICAGO

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago

The University School of Music offers courses in Piano, Organ, Violin, Voice and Theory of Music leading to academic degrees. Also courses in Public School Music, and Piano and Voice Pedagogy. Literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Evanston Academy included without extra cost. Thorough Preparatory School maintained. Refined social environment and beautiful situation on the wooded shores of Lake Michigan.

The professional String Quartet, the student Symphony Orchestra of sixty, the A Cappella Choir, the Evanston Musical Club, and the great North Shore Musical Festivals with choruses totaling over 2,000 voices offer unparalleled practical advantages.

Send for detailed description of courses and book of Evanston views.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Dean
Evanston, Illinois

MRS. STACEY WILLIAMS

Mrs. Stacey Williams, a teacher of voice who has a very great amount of experience back of her excellent methods has, been teaching most of the summer in Chicago, alternating her teaching days, however, with frequent runs to the country for relaxation.

Her enrollment of pupils for the coming season will tax the full capacity of her Kimball Hall Studio and, as always, she has in her class very many fine voices. Professional singers find in her work and her knowledge of repertoire some very attractive features.

ESTHER PLUMB

Miss Esther Plumb, a contralto, whose work, whenever heard in Chicago, has marked her as among the most distinguished resident artists has, during the past season filled an extraordinarily large number of recital dates throughout the country, and her bookings for the coming season are already so numerous as to prove emphatically that her success and popularity are wide reaching and permanent.

ESTHER PLUMB

Magnus.—Rudolph Magnus, who has been announced to teach in the Mary Wood Chase Piano School will also continue his private class of voice pupils at the Fine Arts Studio which he shares with Mrs. Florence R. Magnus.

Silber.—Sidney Silber, whose Chicago piano recital is attracting so much attention, will play in Des Moines on Tuesday preceding his Chicago date and in Milwaukee on Monday following.

Cleophas.—Mrs. Kirsti Cleophas, teacher of piano, has opened her fall work at Kensett, Ia., where she has a very large and interesting class. She also teaches at Albert Lea, Minn.

MRS. JOHN W. NICHOLS

Mrs. John W. Nichols, who has been earning deserved recognition as one of the foremost women pianists in this country, has been engaged by the Warren (O.) Conservatory of Music, to play the Schumann Concerto in A minor with the Conservatory Orchestra, during the early part of February.

She is already booked for many recitals during the season 1913-14, and will also appear with her husband, the tenor, in their joint recitals which are becoming so popular with musical clubs. Mrs. Nichols is the recipient of several medals and prizes from the Royal College of Music, London, where she graduated as Miss Hester Hardman, and later passed the examination in that famous school which made her an A. R. C. M. (Associate of the Royal College of Music). While a student in college she has associated with many who have since become world famous, such as Mme. Kirby-Lunn, Agnes Nicholls, Beatrice McPalme, Walter Hyde, Ivor Foster, Coleridge-Taylor, Miriam Timothy, Dr. Vaughan Williams, Thomas Dunhill, etc. ,etc.

Mrs. Nichols has been engaged as pianist of the Frank Croxton quartet for thhe coming season.

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS

Miss Ethelle Florence Johns has already won distinction among the younger singers of Chicago. Since her return from abroad, July, 1912, she has appeared on numerous concert programs and sung for some of the leading clubs, including the Fortnightly Club, Martha Washington Club, Woodlawn Woman's Club, Illinois Woman's Press Association, Austin Woman's Club and others.

The Lake View Musical Club, and formerly the Apollo and Amateur Musical Clubs claimed her as an active member. Miss Johns studied first at the Conservatory of Oberlin, where her technical and pedagogic training were particularly thorough. Returning to Chicago she continued her study with Frederic Bruegger until she went abroad, where she was under Arthur Philips of the London Opera Comique, Paris. With these unusual opportunities she spent the first year in Paris and the second year in London.

FANNING IN LONDON

The work of Cecil Fanning was very much appreciated in London, as may be inferred from this short notice in the "Daily Telegraph" of that city, a notice which is only one of many of the same trend:

Mr. Cecil Fanning, who created so excellent an impression by the quality of his singing, the beauty of his diction and the sense of distinction in his style at his first recital a week ago, more than confirmed it at his second given yesterday afternoon in Bechstein Hall, for now his command over his voice was far better than before, and the art more sincere and less obvious. His interpretation of Loewe's ballad, "Sir Oluf," was finely dramatic, and his singing of "Der Heilige Joseph," and "Der Musikant," both by Hugo Wolf, was in a high degree praiseworthy. More should certainly be heard of so accomplished and so gifted a singer. (Advertisement.)

Century Opera. Concerts are to be given on Sunday afternoons in New York at the Century Theater by members of the Century Opera Company now singing there.

HAMILTON HOPKINS BECOMING WELL KNOWN IN CHICAGO

Mr. Hamilton Hopkins, whose studio is in the Fine Arts Building, is fast becoming known in Chicago, even though he has only been here a few weeks. He comes well recommended as being the assistant to Lelio Casini (who was the only teacher with whom Titta Ruffo ever studied as a baritone), which makes him a welcome teacher in Chicago.

The Casini method consists of abdominal support, an absolutely open throat and forward flowing resonating production, which makes singing beautiful whether it be in Italian or English.

Mr. Hopkins will demonstrate this method to any one calling at his studio on Monday or Thursday afternoons, by having Mrs. Hopkins, who is a pupil of his, sing for those who are interested in the real Italian tone production. Chicago's most severe critic says "her possibilities are wonderful." (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

LUELLA CHILSON OHRMAN

Mrs. Luella Chilson Ohrman, soprano, whose success with the Minneapolis Orchestra concerts (on tour) last spring, was a notable one and whose Chicago recitals have been among the most enjoyable musical functions of this city, will again be prominently before the public the coming season and enquiries as to her open dates are already numerous.

LUELLA CHILSON OHRMAN

———♯♯♯———

Bingham.—Miss Helena Bingham's new song, "How I Love Thee," has been transcribed as cornet solo and was played with much success in a concert at Streator, Ill., on Monday evening.

———♯♯♯———

Austin.—Miss Florence Austin will give a violin recital at Aeolian Hall, New York, on the afternoon of October 28.

Edward T. Clissold

BARITONE

Concerts - Oratorio

431 South Dearborn Street CHICAGO

Conductor and Soloist Second Baptist Church

Six Years Conductor Men's Fall Festival Chorus

Twelve Years Conductor Euterpean Club

4

GREAT AUSTRALIAN TOURS

DAVID BISPHAM — Opening at Sidney May 31, 1913

MADAME LILLIAN NORDICA — Opening at Sydney July 26, 1913

MISCHA ELMAN — Opening at Sydney June, 1914

MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK — Opening at Sydney June, 1915

Under Exclusive Management and Personal Direction of

Frederic Shipman

American Address 3835 Flournoy St., Chicago

Australian Address Hotel Australia, Sydney

PIANIST

BACHAUS

Management Loudon Charlton

BALDWIN PIANO USED

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers

Do you know how a "well placed tone" feels? Do you know the fifteen definite vowel forms? Do you know how all consonants should be produced? How connected? Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled? If you do not know these truths then your diction is inefficient. If you are not happy in your work, call on

KATHERINE SCHUSTER

71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO

Specialist in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

J. S. VAN CLEVE Ph. D.

Concert Pianist, Lecturer & Coach for Singers, Pianists & Composers. Lecture-Recitals a Specialty. given before Lyceums Women's Clubs, Conservatories & special audiences, either in private parlors or schools. For terms address— Care the Musicians' Club, 62 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Philip SPOONER

AMERICAN TENOR

Exponent of Bel Canto.

J. W. LYMAN, 501 Fifth Av., NEW YORK

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

CHARLES LaBergé Baritone
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

FRANK B. WEBSTER
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Bush Temple Conservatory
STUDIO—SUITE 719-722 KIMBALL HALL

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Have you seen the new Musical Journal

Every person interested in Bands or Orchestras should receive

The Army and Navy Musician

Here is a journal that makes its influence felt—one that is valuable to all its readers.

Write for FREE sample copy.

The Army and Navy Musician
ELKHART, IND., U. S. A.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Edna Reiffert SEVERINGHAUS
Mezzo Soprano - Teacher of Voice
63 Auditorium Building

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

MARIE EDWARDS

Miss Marie Edwards, long known as one of the most brilliant and effective pianists of Chicago, has been spending some months in California and wherever she has appeared has won unquestioned success.

She has given piano recitals at Los Angeles, Compton, Long Beach, Pasadena and Hollywood and Organ recitals at the "White Temple" in San Diego and the Mission Inn at Riverside.

Miss Edwards has also played the church service at the Methodist and the Congregational Churches in Pasadena and has still found time for some vacational activity. A week's camping in Bear Valley, San Bernardos, proved a thoroughly happy experience as also the charming visit made to Ellen Beach Yaw at her California home.

The far western press has been enthusiastic in its approval of the art of Miss Edwards. The Pacific Coast Musician treats her work editorially and names her with Mrs. Wilbur Hascall, Boston; Ella May Smith, Columbus, Ohio; Carl Faelton, Boston, and Theodore Bendix of New York as among the "distinguished Los Angeles visitors." It speaks further of her "exceptional talents" and commends her Los Angeles work in terms of highest praise.

The Long Beach "Telegram" commenting on a social function in that city says: "Miss Marie Edwards of Chicago was the special artist of the evening and her playing was a treat beyond expectation." The Los Angeles "Tribune" prints a front page cut of Miss Edwards and voices the general wish that she might remain there throughout the winter.

Miss Edwards returned to Chicago this week after stopping en route at Minneapolis to rehearse with Cornelius van Vliet a recital in which she will be "at the piano" in Bloomington later in the season.

MARIE EDWARDS

CHICAGO GRAND OPERA

Maestro Cleofonte Campanini has demonstrated his superiority as a conductor, through three seasons of grand opera in Chicago, and made the orchestra, under his baton, second to none not only as an artistic instrumental body, but also as a vast sympathetic organ, harmonizing with the vocal ideals of the great operatic compositions—ancient and modern. He has given further demonstration of his several sided genius, in the organization of the grand opera company, that will advance and perpetuate the high ideals already established in musical dramatic performance in Chicago. His sense of "preparedness" has already been indexed in the issuance of a prospectus quite complete in detail, several months in advance of other similar organizations in this country, and far and away ahead of announcing a season two weeks in advance, and then following it up with changes so rapidly that the plan was upset by the time that the purchasers had arranged for their season seats. It is something more than a fortunate fact that during the existence of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, it has been able to carry out its pre-arrangements, without serious change, and it is to be hoped such enviable fortune will be associated with the coming season. While Director Campanini has been artistically busy abroad, as the leading factor in the centenary celebration of Guiseppi Verdi, and directed a series of most notable performances in his own beautiful theater. Theatro Reynach, he first took precaution of perfecting his plans for the great Chicago organization.

CHARLES DALMORES

Here at the home establishment, the Auditorium, Business Manager Bernard Ulrich has been equally busy, perfecting plans on a larger scale, that not only include larger seasons than ever before, for both Chicago and Philadelphia, but an unusual list of novelties for New York, and Baltimore as well, while his activities have several times carried him across the continent to the Pacific, arranging a guaranteed tour that promises to eclipse its brilliant predecessor of last season.

During the interim of Manager Ulrich's absences, the forces under his direction have been busy at the Auditorium in this city, and at the Philadelphia house, making ready for the big season in a way that would seem to provide for every contingency in renewing the entire fabric both as to scenic environment, the making and refurnishing of costumes, manufacturing new light effects, and appropriate properties for all the operas of the big repertoire. This means a renewal of all such paraphernalia of the standard repertoire already in vogue with preparations for revivals on a scale that will give the operas correct and artistic surroundings, as well as complete equipment created for the new productions. In this latter detail can be classed Massenet's "Don Quixote," Feverier's "Monna Vanna," Franchetti's "Christofore Columbo," Leoncavallo's "Zingari," Kienzl's "Le Ranz des Vaches," Gnecchi's "Cassandra."

In addition to these costly and attractive creations, there will be a very beautiful and imposing renaissance of Wagner's "Parsifal." The costuming and complete mise en scene in itself involves an enormous amount of work and a vast expenditure, outside of the repairing and renewals necessary for the representation of operas formerly given. This has kept a big force of stage artisans, scenic artists, masters in maiche and costumers at work all summer, both here and in Philadelphia.

The Auditorium proper, is in good shape, having been thoroughly renovated, the office section of the house has been artistically modernized, many improvements have been made in the department of the stage, including redecorating and refurnishing of dressing-rooms, and the installation of the new ventilating system.

It is as unusual as it is gratifying to report thus far in advance, the plans, the personell, and the repertoire of the organization. Such a surprise is interesting to the public at large, and particularly to the patrons and subscribers of the great western artistic aggregation.

While a few important engagements are still pending, the following well known artists have been definitely engaged:

Sopranos—Mary Garden, Carolina White, Lina Cavalieri, Rosa Raisa, Frieda Hempel, Florence Macbeth, Jane Osborn-Hannah, Minnie Saltzman-Stevens, Marta Dorda, Maggie Teyte, Frances Alda, Jenny Dufau, Alice Zeppilli, Mabel Riegelman, Amy Evans, Minnie Egener, and a number of others.

Contraltos—Julia Claussen, Louise Berat, Margaret Keyes, Cyrena Van Gordon, Ruby Heyle, and Beatrice Wheeler.

Tenors—Alessandro Bonci, Amedeo Bassi, Charles Dalmores, Giovanni Martinelli, Aristodemo Giorgini, Lucien Muratore, Ferrarri-Fontana, George Hamlin, Edmond Warnery, Emilio Venturini, Francesco Daddi, Ralph Errolle.

Baritones—Titta Ruffo, Hector Dufranne, Clarence Whitehill, Vanni Marcoux, Giovanni Polese, Francesco Frederici, Nicolo Fosetta, Armand Crabbe and Frank Preisch.

Bassos—Allen Hinckley, Gustav Huberdeau, Henri Scott, Constantin Nicolay, and Vittorio Trevisan.

The regular repertoire for the Chicago Grand Opera season will embrace the following standard favorites:

REGULAR REPERTOIRE

ITALIAN

"Barbiere di Siviglia."
"Lucia di Lammermoor."
"Pagliacci-Cavalleria."
"Rigoletto."
"Hamlet."
"Tosca."
"Il Trovatore."
"La Boheme."
"Jewels of the Madonna."
"La Traviata."

FRENCH

"Jongleur de Notre Dame."
"Carmen."
"Louise."
"Thais."
"Samson."
"Herodiade."

Gertrude Cleophas

Pianist

Pupil of Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler. Now in her fifth year with Leschetizky

Fulfilling Concert Engagements Abroad

Cornelia Cleophas

Violinist

Pupil of Ohlheiser and Heermann. Now studying with Sevcik.

Will return to America next Spring.

For Particulars and Dates address

Mrs. E. Cleophas

Kensett - - Iowa

GERMAN

"Tristan and Isolde."
"Lohengrin."
"Die Walkuere."

ENGLISH REPERTOIRE FOR SATURDAY EVENINGS

"Hansel and Gretel."
"Cinderella."
"Carmen."
"Tales of Hoffman."
"Martha."
"Mignon."
"Faust."
"Natoma."
"Cricket on the Hearth."
"The Lover's Quarrel."
"Cavalleria Rusticana."
"The Secret of Suzanne."

The notable revivals with principals are as follows:

Giordano's "Fedora," Muratore and Cavalieri.

Ponchielli's "Gioconda," Bassi, Ruffo, White and Claussen.

Massenet's "Manon," Garden and Muratore.

Mozart's "Don Giovanni," Ruffo and Giorgini.

Donizetti's Linda di Chamonix," Titta Ruffo and Rosa Raisa.

Bellini's "Puritani," Bonci and Macbeth.

Debssy's "Pelleas and Melisande," Garden and Warnery.

Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," Amedeo Bassi and Rosa Raisa.

Puccini's "The Girl of the Golden West," White and Bassi.

The novelties are:

Massenet's "Don Quixote," Mary Garden and Vanni Marcoux.

Fevrier's "Monna Vanna," Mary Garden and Lucien Muratore.

Franchetti's "Christoforo Columbo," Titta Ruffo, Amadeo Bassi and Rosa Raisa.

Leoncavallo's "Zingari," Bassi, Raisa and Polese.

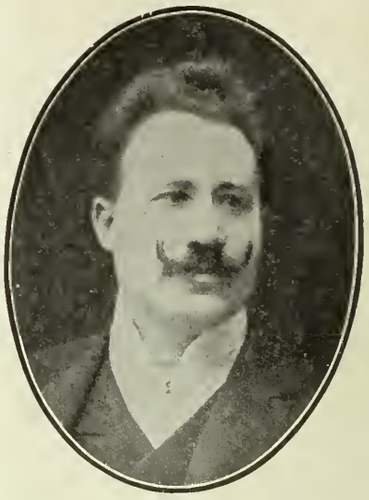
Kienzl's "Le Ranz des Vaches," Dorda, Claussen, Dalmores and Dufranne.

Gnecchi's "Cassandra," Carolina White and Julia Claussen.

There will be three performances of Wagner's "Parsifal," Sunday afternoons in Jenuary.

The foregoing tells a big story in art, as it pertains to modernity, both in music and its exemplars. It will be observed with pleasure that Mary Garden, the greatest creative artist of the age, is still a leading light in the Chicago organization; that Carolina White, another artistic American, second to none as a dramatic soprano, has been retained and that Maggie Teyte, the Irish linnet, will continue her ministry; Frieda Hempel, a fair singer, who has won wonderful esteem in the far East, will be welcomed as a stranger; likewise the beautiful Lina Cavalieri, reckoned as the loveliest type upon the stage; that sterling and serious artist, Minnie Saltzman-Stevens, will be another fine American representative, and that versatile and popular soprano, Alice Zeppilli. Maestro Campanini has several discoveries of young Americans, who have made sensational hits at home and abroad, notably Florence Macbeth, Cyrena Van Gordon. He has re-engaged Julia Claussen, Ruby Heyl, Margaret Keyes, Louise Berat, and Mme. Schumann-Heink. Additionally there will be such favorites as our own Jane Osborn-Hannah, the pleasing Mabel Riegelman, and the brilliant Jenny Dufau. This list may be augmented, as some engagements are still pending.

The tenor battery is the most notable



ALESSANDRO BONCI

ever enlisted. Alessandro Bonci is considered well up, as the greatest living lyricist; Aristodemo Giorgini has already given a taste of his vocal worth; Amedeo Bassi is a most magnetic and impressive person in his line and it would be difficult to name a more versatile or musicianly tenor than Charles Dalmores. An excellently schooled gentleman in this line, is Edmond Warnery, and our own George Hamlin needs no introduction. A fine figure in this great group is Lucien Muratore, who for seven years past, has been the idol of Paris, as a creative singing actor of remarkable power and originality. His appearances will be awaited with unusual interest as a most distinguished stranger. Among other favorites, will be Henri Scott, Clarence Whitehill, Frank Preisch, all of whom indicate that art is an American accomplishment in song; is as sonorous as it is significant. Then there is Giovanni Martinelli, the noted artist; Vanni Marcoux, the deep-voiced, popular Huberdeau, the beloved baritone Hector Dufranne, and the rising star, Armand Crabbe. Above all these, towers that wonderful potentiality Titta Ruffo, the leading baritone of the world, a master in music and dramatic delineation.

CLARENCE WHITEHILL

As previously indicated, the revivals announced are interesting and vital—not mere time-markers to make up a repertoire. Another thing that will make this season unusually significant, is the number of novelties scheduled for performances, as well as the artistic weight and importance of the meetings.

CLEOFONTE CAMPANINI

A feature of the season indicating progression, and touch with public demand, will be performances of Grand Opera in English, that will be given every Saturday night during the Chicago season. This will eliminate the so-called off nights, in the Chicago opera season, and provide an element much discussed and continuously demanded. All in all, the promise of the season is prolific and singularly satisfactory in the wide diversity of repertoire, embracing the best of the standard line, as well as the impressive modern notes and the absolutely new works competing for favor with the accepted forms that have pleased so long and so many.

The public's interest during the coming season, has been manifest by the liberality with which reservations have been made, the demand already far surpassing those of previous seasons.

———♯♯♯———

Russell School.—At the Russell School of Music and Dramatic Art at Seventy-fifth street and Vincennes avenue, on last Saturday afternoon a program was given by Louise Cozard, pianist and Mary Hester Cleary, reader.

MATINEE OF INTERPRETATIVE DANCING AT THE MANSFIELD STUDIOS, PARIS

On Monday, September 22, a matinee of interpretative dancing was given by two Mansfield pupils, Miss Louise Clark, daughter of the celebrated singer, Charles W. Clark, and Miss Genevra Clark, daughter of Dr. Frederick Clark. They have been studying the new science of movement for musical interpretation all summer with Miss Mansfield, and today their parents and friends assembled to see what they had accomplished.

By this new science, the pupil develops in an astonishing way, showing results that can hardly be believed. After a short talk by Miss Mansfield explaining the underlying principle of movement, which when comprehended, gives poise, grace and rhythm, per se, the charming young pupils gave the various motives and pantomimes, and then gave the ballet from Gluck's "Orpheus," created by Miss Mansfield. Dressed in simple Greek garments, with draperies and veils of chiffon, one in white, the other in pink, these two charming and beautiful children told the story of Eurydice lamenting for her lost ideal, Orpheus, and the search for him. Their movements were marked by charming grace and perfect rhythm, by a large and comprehensive gesture, the meaning of which was perfectly clear to the audience.

Miss Genevra Clarke did some very clever toe dancing in the traditional ballet fashion, and interpreted part of Delibes Ballet of Sylvia. She also did the minuet from the third act of "Manon."

These talented young girls were warmly applauded by their parents and friends. Both Charles W. Clark and his brother, Dr. Frederick Clark expressed their congratulations to Miss Mansfield for the excellence and originality of her work. Among those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Clark, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Clark of Chicago, Dr. Brown and the Misses Brown of Chicago, Madame Hortence D'Arblay of New York, Miss Congleton, Miss Stewart, Miss Spielman, Mr. Delma Heide, the well known singing teacher, Miss Delsolay from Cape Town, South Africa, Miss Onderdonk of New York, Mrs. Spec-Torsky, etc., etc.

Miss Mansfield's regular Monday matinees begin on October 20 from half past four to six.

———♯♯♯———

NORA LORAINE OLIN

Miss Nora Loraine Olin is again busy in her studio, 303 Kimball Hall, after several weeks of visiting in Wisconsin.

Miss Olin's pupils are proving that her teaching is thoroughly scientific, giving them the ease and beauty of tone which enables them to give expression to a great variety of emotions without wearing on the voice.

These professional pupils are very frequently sending new pupils to her studio who have been pleased with what they have heard, and her work is being commended by many prominent musicians and singers.

———♯♯♯———

Lutton.—Mr. Charles E. Lutton will give a recital at the Arche Club during the season.

PETROWITSCH BISSING

Violinist - teacher - composer, announces the opening of his studio in Kimball Hall, 304 S. Wabash. He especially invites violinists who are not quite satisfied with their technic, and soloists desiring to conquer difficult passages in their repertoire. Mr. Bissing is the author of the famous "Synthetical Violin Technic" (Book I published by Carl Fischer, New York). The later books he expects to retain for his personal teaching, having proven the results to be marvelous.

Prospectus mailed upon request.

Address
500 Kimball Bldg.
CHICAGO

GRACE HALL

Riheldaffer

SOPRANO

Has appeared with the New York Symphony Orchestra, the Russian Symphony Orchestra, the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, the Washington, D. C., Choral Club and Symphony Orchestra in "Messiah" and with many other similar organizations.

Engagements for this season include a recital in New York City on October 12. (Ovide Musin Violin School) and a joint recital with Arthur Middleton at Carnegie Hall, Pittsburgh, on October 23.

Mrs. Riheldaffer is already booked for recitals this season at Raleigh, N. C.; Wilmington, N. C.; Rock Hill, S. C., (Winthrop College); Charlottsville, Va., (State University); Tuscaloosa, Ala., (State University); Florence, Ala., (State Normal); Chattanooga, Tenn., (Wednesday Musical Club); Dublin, Ga., (second engagement in six months); Due West, S. C., (State Normal); Gainesville, Ga., (Brenau College), (second engagement in six months); Athens, Ga., (State University, third recital in six months; Tallahoma, Tenn., (Woman's Musical Club); Danville, Va., (Artists' Course); La Grange, Ga., (Artists' Course); Luverne, Ala., (second engagement in six months); Newberry, S. C., (second engagement in six months); Chicago (Conservatory of Lyceum Arts); Palm Beach, Key West and Miami, Fla.; Havana, Cuba, (two recitals) and fifty other recitals in the South and Southwest.

The Illinois College of Music

2831 Washington Boul.

One of Chicago's Very Excellent Schools.
In the Choicest Residence District.
Faculty Unexcelled.
Including:

Marie Edwards
CONCERT PIANISTE

Albert Leo Preiser
VIOLIN

Ralph Gerber
ORGAN

Ida M. Moore
EXPRESSION

And Twelve Other Excellent Artists.

Correspondence Solicited.

C. W. EDWARDS, Director

Music Teachers !

If you are capable of better positions than you now have, or if you are without positions, get in line now for a position for next season. Also church positions.

No Registration Fee

J. P. BOHLIN

Auditorium Building, Chicago
Instruction in Vocal Culture
Coaching for
Recital, Concert, Opera

[Write for Testimonials, Comments on pupils' work, etc.]

PALMER
Christian

ORGANIST—ACCOMPANIST—COACH

Kenwood Evangelical Church (Interdenominational)
4600 Greenwood Ave.

Careful Instruction in Organ Playing

Cosmopolitan School of Music
Auditorium Bldg. - Chicago

LOS ANGELES

By S. W. MOUNTZ

The changed musical aspect of the present season has given no small amount of conjecture as to the outcome, but at the present time it has worked into practical lines which promise fair possibilities for managers and a feast of good things musically to the concert-goer and connoisseur.

Our local experienced impresario, Mr. L. E. Behymer, presents an exceedingly strong and attractive coterie of artists in two series of his Philharmonic courses and a matinee series, each having six performances. The first opens October 9, with Miss Geraldine Farrar, prima donna soprano of Metropolitan Grand Opera; the Ellis Club, of nearly 100 male voices; the Lyric Club, of 100 ladies; the Ladies' Symphony Orchestra, of fifty artists; and numerous local artists of artistic excellence are also managed by Mr. Behymer. The majority of the great star artists will have a hearing here, and besides three opera companies, including the great Chicago company.

L. E. BEHYMER

The Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra, Mr. F. H. Toye, manager, and Herr Adolf Tandler, conductor, has outlined a great list of programs for Friday afternoon rehearsals and Saturday evening concerts. The conductor has completed his examination of several hundred musicians, and rehearsals have begun for daily study until the first pair of concerts will take place, November 14 and 15, the same program for each date. The first program will use Beethoven's overture to the "Dedication of the House." The $30,000 guarantee fund and the $15,000 cash fund have been secured, and the sale of tickets promises a good hearing. Herr Franz Egenieff, baritone of great dramatic power, is promised as one of the star attractions for the season. His title of nobility is Baron von Klaydorff.

The People's Orchestra has divided the season of forty concerts into a series of twenty each, and the first is well under way to fulfillment. This is the work, or mission, of the Music Teachers' Association of Los Angeles. Its object is not a commercial one; in fact, it is a risky venture to even meet the actual expense account. It is the best educational and professional movement ever undertaken, to-wit: giving good music at a minimum admission. The presentation of American composers' works and local artists who otherwise might wait a long time for the privilege of singing with an orchestra, or being heard under favorable conditions. It also has a bureau for placing talent within its own organization, thus establishing a fellowship feeling so much needed in the musical profession.

Mr. Charles Farwell Edson is the manager of the orchestra, Mr. F. G. Ellis is president of the association, and Mr. Eduardo Lebegott the orchestra conductor with fifty strong and well equipped musicians.

The second concert last Sunday was well attended and perhaps met the day's ex-

Carl Bronson

The Science of Voice and the Art of Singing

DIRECTOR

First M. E. Choir, Vocal Study Club, Wednesday Morning Choral Section and the School of Opera

204-5 Blanchard Building
Los Angeles, Cal.

HOMER GRUNN

Composer—Pianist

207 Blanchard Hall, Los Angeles, Cal.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS

Desert Suite for Piano (Illustrated)
(Published by Southern California Music Co.)
Toualouwa Hopi Indian Dance
(Published by Ditson Co.)
Life's Meaning (Song)
(Published by the Composer)

penses, which approximates $565 a performance. Many numbers were repetitions. but all the better for another hearing. Mr. Harold Webster gave Mendelssohn's violin concerto in a pleasing artistic rendition. showing good memory in thirty-two minutes continuous playing. Miss Grace Bromfield, soprano, with a good quality voice and a pleasing presence, gave Miss Freebey's song, "O Golden Sun," and Mussetta's song from "La Boheme," both songs were repeated at the demand of the audience. The orchestra number of greatest interest was H. K. Hadley's "In Bohemia." The Verdi's "Requiem Mass" will be given October 12 as a centennial memorial to the great operatic composer. The People's chorus of several hundred voices will make their first appearance for the second season.

A great interest is developing in the great event to take place in 1915, when the national federation of musical clubs will hold their biennial session here and the great opera for which Los Angeles has raised $10,000 as a prize for an American opera, and the performance of the same in a series of renditions entirely American in authorship of libretto and music, and artists who can sing the vernacular of our people. Mr. F. W. Blanchard is the president of this American opera association, and we who are English speaking consider it will be a climax of the rapidly growing desire that Americans should hear the best in music, vocal, in the English tongue. We as a nation pay more money to foreign artists than any other nation, and have a national right to hear vocal art in our own language. No other country will permit any other but their national tongue. and we should also demand it.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Homer Grunn is in preparation for a series of piano recitals and also as pianist for the Brahms' Quintet Club to present a season's course.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Carl Bronson has high musical ambition for the Christmas time with his choir of almost 100 voices.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Abraham Miller will give a song recital April 6 in which he will present the famous song cycle, "Die Schoene Mullerin" by Franz Schubert.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Gamut Club gave to Mme. Estelle Heart Dreyfus (a popular contralto who has lately returned from a year's study abroad), a cordial reception last night. She sang several groups of songs of Russian and Spanish composition. We shall hear with delight more of her charming voice during the season.

———♯♯♯———

Chicago Concert Trio.—This organization, composed of Albert E. Fox, pianist, William Hofman, violinist, and Marjorie Dodge Warner, soprano, made a very successful debut last summer in a concert at the Warren Avenue Congregational Church and will figure largely in the coming season. During October they will appear at the Campbell Park Presbyterian Church and a little later will give a program for the Lake Forest Woman's Club.

L. E. BEHYMER

MANAGER OF

Distinguished Artists for the SOUTHWEST

PROMOTER OF THE

Philharmonic Courses

ON THE PACIFIC COAST

Main Office 705 Auditorium Bldg. LOS ANGELES, CAL.

San Francisco Office 1006-1007 Kohler and Chase Building

ALFREDA VERWOERT, Rep.

ALSO MANAGER

THE AUDITORIUM, "Theater Beautiful"

Capacity 3000 Seats

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

THE LOS ANGELES DIVISION of THE MUSIC TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION of CALIFORNIA

———MANAGE——

THE PEOPLE'S ORCHESTRA, 50 Players

45,000 Attendance. Thirty Concerts. Introducing fifty-one resident artists and playing thirty-seven American Compositions first season.

THE PEOPLE'S CHORUS, 200 Voices

Four appearances with the People's Orchestra

THE ARTISTS' BUREAU did $20,000 worth of business Season 1912-1913

YANKTON, SOUTH DAKOTA

The Artists' Recital Course of Yankton Conservatory of Music was opened last evening by Hugo Kortschak, assisted by Elisabeth Schmitz-Pollender, in the following program:

Sonata, Op. 24 (No. 5) ..... Beethoven
Allegro—Adagio—Scherzo—Rondo
Miss Pollender and Mr. Kortschak

Sarabande and Tabourin ..... Leclair
Air ..... Bach
Fandango ..... Molique
Mr. Kortschak

Prelude Op. 45 C sharp minor ..... Chopin
Two Studies, Op. 25 ..... Chopin
No. 1 A major
No. 3 F major
Ballade Op. 23 G minor ..... Chopin
Miss Pollender

Arabeske ..... Koppelsberger
Hungarian Dance, (No. 7) ..... Brahms-Joachim
Spanish Dance (No. 8) ..... Sarasate
Mr. Kortschak

La Campanella (Rondo) ..... Paganini
Mr. Kortschak

Mr. Kortschak and his magnificent abilities are already well known, and he gave of his best to his Yankton audience. One may speak of the warmth, resonance, and expressiveness of tone, the faultless delivery, the manifest mastery of astonishing difficulties, the rare musicianship evident in everything presented: they are but details which by no means sum up the work of the great artist re-creating for an appreciative audience the music of exquisite beauty which this program represents.

Miss Pollender, though less well known in America, is a pianist of great attainments and rare charm. Pure beauty of tone characterizes everything she plays, both in her ensemble work and in her solos. Her reading of the G minor ballade was wonderfully interesting and in the Rachmaninoff G minor prelude given as an encore, she was magnificent.

Both players were generous indeed in responses to repeated recalls.

Last week Miss Amy Ellermann, at home on a vacation from her studies in Berlin, gave before the students of the conservatory a song recital of delightful content. Miss Ellermann has a contralto voice of such worth as will win her a large place in the not distant future in the musical world. She resumes her work in Berlin next month going later in the year to Paris.

A. E. T.

———♯♯♯———

Stephali.—The Stephali lecture recitals are arranged this season by the Musical Bureau for American Artists.

Marie Sidenius Zendt

Soprano

1140 East 44th Stre t

Phone Drexel 2778

Marie Sidenius Zendt, possesses a lyric soprano voice of beautiful quality, unusual range and power; combined with this is an ability along interpretative lines, notably in that of Oratorio and Opera, and a charming personality, which are the strongest factors in her success.

In the short time Mrs. Zendt has been before the public she has demonstrated in her many engagements that she is one of the few singers in the middle west who can adapt her work to the requirements demanded of the concert artist with the surety, not only of success, but of a greater achievement, which distinguishes the artist from the ordinary singer.

In the important appearances which Mrs. Zendt has made in the last two seasons she has given sufficient guarantee of her caliber as an artist, and this has placed her in the prominent position she now occupies.

DELMA-HEIDE

The name of Delma-Heide is so well known as an acknowledged authority on music and voice production especially, that a recapitulation at this time of a few of the details of his career will not be amiss. Every musician knows or knows of Delma-Heide, and many are the artists who have benefited by his apt criticism and advice. His life has been spent in the study and practice of music in both Europe and America.

He was a child wonder violinst and played much in public and if by overzealous practice he had not injured his hand, the world today would have had another great violinist. He played in the orchestras, however, and turned his attention to singing, which is the nearest in sympathy to the violin. All singers are familiar with the many paralells that teachers draw between voice tones and violin or 'cello tones, and Delma-Heide owes some of his great success with voice building and placing to his intimate knowledge of the magic instrument.

After having taught singing for six years at the New York Conservatory of Music, during which time he was also president of the New York State Music Teachers' Association, Delma-Heide came to Europe. He taught singing in both Rome and Milan for six years, meeting all the great artists, many of whom have since made great names for themselves in America. Delma-Heide knew them all well, and his constant attendance at the opera and concerts made him a well known figure in the musical world. Caruso was at that time singing in Italy and Delma-Heide heard him so often that he knew the roles as well as the great tenor himself. A most wise and far-reaching criticism that he made at that time, 1898, of the singer's voice has since proved a prophecy. "If Caruso, who is the most beautiful lyric tenor in the world, tries to make himself a dramatic tenor, forcing his golden voice beyond its natural tendency he will come to grief in some manner."

Since 1900 Delma-Heide has made Paris his home, and his well known studios just off the famous Champs Elysees at 30 Rue Marbeuf, have been for years the meeting place of the great artists and musicians, as well as all music lovers.

Could any one count the hundreds of voices that the maestro has been asked to try! Countless young students and timid young singers have gone to him to hear the verdict, whether their voices would repay the expense of training or not. Delma-Heide has been greatly beloved for the warm and encouraging advice that he has always so gladly given, and no one has ever left that sympathetic and kindly musician, without a golden store of wisdom.

And the celebrated singers of the world have been glad of the chance to avail themselves of his wise counsel. Delma-Heide would listen to their tone from a singer's point of view, and often he has solved the problem, "why I can't reach that tone on the stage, carrying over the orchestra" by his great knowledge of dynamics and of the blending of the various resonances of the orchestra in which as a boy he had played, at times, almost every instrument.

All this analysis of voices has been of inestimable value to secure the real principles of voice work, and how to use them from actual experience.

Any one who knows Delma-Heide personally, who has heard with pleasure his beautiful resonant speaking voice and his expuisite diction, could not fail to sound the depths of his great culture and love for the beautiful. His exacting taste fostered by a knowledge of music studied all his life under most unusual advantages in the great centers of the world, have evolved a science of tone production and development, that proclaim him one of the elect. The French government has been pleased to recognize the great services he has rendered to music by decorating him.

MAY MANSFIELD

SUCCESS OF OVIDE MUSIN AS A TEACHER

Ovide Musin, who has a most successful school of violin at No. 51 West Seventy-Sixth strect, New York City, will have a great showing of artist pupils during the month of October, as follows:

October 5, Joseph Stoopack, soloist at the Hippodrome, matinee and evening.
October 12, Marie Dennison Gailey, violin recital at Musin's Recital Hall.
October 19, Cathrine Alexander, violin recital at Musin's Recital Hall.
October 24, Violin recital at Columbia University, by Florence Austin.
October 26, Isidor Werner, Musin's Recital Hall.
October 28, Florence Austin, violin recital at New Aeolian Hall.

Among the works to be rendered at these recitals and concerts, are:

Concertos—
Saint-Saens, No. 3
Tchaikowsky
Ferdinand David
Wieniawski
Paganini
Suite of Ries, G minor
Suite of Rust, D minor
Prelude and Fugue in G minor, Bach
Sarabande, Double Bourree, Bach.
Folia, by Correli
Sonata No. 1, Corelli
Variations (Arte del Arco), Tartini and other works of the artist repertory.

CONCERNING ARCANGELI

On account of a large class, Sig. Arcangeli was obliged to keep his studio open all summer and every day. Since September 1 he has given vocal lessons from 9:30 a. m. to 7 and sometimes 8 p. m. with only a half hour for lunch at noon; and he continues to receive requests for time from students in and outside of Chicago.

In the early part of December he will present about 30 pupils in recital in Fine Arts Theater and the latter part of February or early March will present his operatic students in excerpts from operas in Studebaker theater. Among those taking principal parts will be Misses Gladys Easter, Celia Glaser, Florence Mellum and Ruth Stein, Messrs. Henry Thorpe, Oliver Mellum, Antonio Lombardo, Roy Johnson and Sig. Concialdi.

As previously announced Sig. Arcangeli planned these affairs for an earlier presentation, but was unable to secure a desirable recital hall for an earlier date. He is planning to give all his recitals in the Fine Arts theater and operatic performances in the Studebaker theater.

Carl F. Steckelberg

Mrs. Will Owen Jones

Sidney Silber

Charles H. Miller

Mrs. Lura Schuler Smith

John T. Prince Jr.

Carrie W. Pettis

Charles F. H. Mills

WILLARD KIMBALL

DIRECTOR

Howard Ira Kirkpatrick

Hazel Kinscella

J. Frank Frysinger

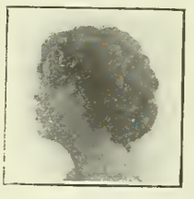
Jude Deyo

Marjorie Lelia Anderson

Clare B. Cornell

Lillian Dobbs Helms

Elizabeth Bonnell



Vera Augusta Upton

Lucy M. Haywood

Arvid Samuelson

Ethel Biles

THE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC
LINCOLN, NEBRASKA

Helen Burns

John M. Rosborough

Nell Cave

Louise Zumwinkel

Lulu Carnes

Ruth Pilcher

Abraham Loeb

A. J. Morley

Katherine Kimball

Marguerite Klinker

THE LARGEST AND BEST SCHOOL OF MUSIC IN THE WEST

Chicago Pianist Conquers Berlin

Berlin, Germany.—Myrtle Elvyn, a talented Chicago girl who began her career as a pianist in Berlin three years ago, returned to the scene of her early triumphs tonight and conquered again. Her concert at Beethoven Hall with the Philharmonic Orchestra was one of the most brilliant successes of the season. The tall and beautiful young Chicagoan was warmly applauded after the Liszt concerto, which she played with tremendous bravura.—Tribune, December 8, 1910. (Special Cable.)

MYRTLE ELVYN

Berlin, Germany.—Myrtle Elvyn, an already well-known pianist, gave a concert in Beethoven Hall on Thursday evening, December 8, with the Philharmonic Orchestra, Prof. O. Marionhagen, director. Her playing is as fresh and rosy as she is herself, with a polished technic and thoroughly musical. Following the C minor concerto by Mozart and the F major by Saint-Saens, she played the E flat major by Liszt with wonderful power and freshness, to which it was real pleasure to listen. The accompaniment by the orchestra was excellent.—Translation from Der Reichsbote, Berlin, December 16, 1910.

Miss Elvyn will tour America this season under direction of M. H. Hanson.

A Card to Music Teachers

Now at the opening of the musical season, we would like to call the attention of teachers to our large stock of graded teaching music. We would be pleased to send packages in the various grades required "on selection."

Write to us and see how promptly your orders will be filled. Send for our new catalogue and order blank. Orders filled the same day as received.

C. W. Thompson & Co.

Music Publishers and Dealers

A and B Park Street, Boston, Mass.

The Eisteddvod of the Kymry—Article I.

By WILLIAM APMADOC

The readers of Music News will be pleased, probably, with an occasional article on one of the most ancient and unique educational institutions in the history of literature, oratory and music. Its history, not in its modern form and method of the last sixty years or so, goes back to the earlier centuries of, and into the two centuries preceding the Christian era.

According to the laws of old Cambria—the Latinized name of "Kymru"—there were formerly three kinds of Eisteddvodau (the plural noun):

First—The Royal, or that which enacted the laws.

Second—The Eisteddvod of Justice, where legal questions were decided.

Third—The Bardic Eisteddvod, according to privilege and custom of the bards of the Island of Britain. It will be noticed that a "musical" eisteddvod is not mentioned. A festival of "musical contests" is what the title indicates, and not an Eisteddvod proper. In the earlier centuries its main features were competitive exercises in singing prepared and impromptu stanzas to melodies played on the harp, the national Kymric instrument from time immemorial. Some times there were spirited contests between bard-harpists, who were men of wit and repartee, able to compose stanzas to the tunes they played on their own harps. Most bards then were also harpists. It is needless to say that no such double-artists exist today.

It is not intended in this article to trace the history and describe the forms and rules of these early Eisteddvodau. But it is to be greatly regretted that the majority of Kymric, Latin and English historians who have written of the origin, customs, and of the fierce struggles for Kymric independence have not, and probably were not able to write of the really national custom of composing melodies for the harp that are marvelously well constructed, and of composing lyrics to match the rhythm and spirit of those harp-melodies.

In this special number of Music News there is only enough space to mention briefly the name and object of the Eisteddvod, and to make a number of necessary corrections in the pronunciation of some important words. The three syllables, Eis-teddvod, cannot be but phonetic, if the reader will remember that the two "dd's" in tedd are of the same sound as "th" in with, thou and those; then, the full name, with the accent on "tedd," is plain, and as easy to pronounce as any, and easier than scores of words in the Italian. In writing the name with a "v" in "vod," we have chosen the old form, instead of using the single "f," which has the same sound. The "ff" is sounded as in the English "off." The single "f" never "wafts into oft, nor do the 'ff' ever get off their own track." Again, "Kymry," the last vowel as "e" in "be," is the correct pronunciation of "Cymry." The best Welsh and English writers, such as Sir John Rhys, Mr. J. Gwenogfryn Evans, M. A., both at Oxford, England; Dr. Ernest Rhys and others always write Kymry, Kelt, Keltic. "Kymry" and not "Welsh" is the right name of the people who have inhabited "Kymru" (Cymru) for so many centuries. To pronounce "Celt" as Selt, and "Celtic" as Seltic, is unbearable, unpardonable and senseless. It is a wonder that some daring and rabid "reformer" has not driven Keltic into "Keltical." But it is more important in this age to learn what the object of the Eisteddvod is, than to try and correct old and deep-rooted wrong pronunciations of many Keltic words. The English word for this institution is "Literary Conclave," or "Bardic Congress," which is intended to encourage, especially among the young, a desire to excel in poetry and music, and love for the Welsh language and its literature. The late and beloved Rev. W. C. Roberts, D. D., Ph. D., president of the Lake Forest University, when he officiated as president of a notable session of the Chicago National Eisteddvod, January 2, 1890, said in part in his eloquent address, "What is this Eisteddvod? How old is it? What benefit is to be derived from keeping it up? Nearly all the ancient nations have had some things peculiar to themselves. A few of these have been perpetuated to the present time. The Welsh have clung tenaciously through many centuries to the Eisteddvod. . . . . The Welsh muse has not sunk into silence even in these days of overwhelming material interests. For "during the last fifty years," quoting from the program, 'Welsh poetry has been enriched with the prize odes and poems and other productions of such bards as Dewi Wyn, Bardd Nantglyn, Robert ab Gwilym Ddu, Caledfryn, the cultured and chaste Alun, the classic Nicander, Eben Vardd, with his ease and majesty; the tender Ieuan Glan Geirionydd; the erratic but talented Robyn Ddu; the polished and sweet Emrys; the pensive and profound Islwyn; the luxuriant and diversified Hiraethog; the brilliant and gifted Cadvan, and last, but not least, Dyfed, who towers above all living Welsh poets, the winner of more "Bardic Chairs" and the gatherer into his script of more Eisteddvodic spoils than any other past or present.'"

———♯♯♯———

Christian.—Mr. Palmer Christian has returned to Chicago and has so far recovered from his recent illness that he will shortly resume teaching. He is organist at the Kenwood Evangelical Church, where his work has been so highly appreciated that a new organ is being installed for his use and his teaching engagements are booked by the Cosmopolitan School of Music. His recital at the University of Chicago in August was very successful.

———♯♯♯———

Cadman.—Mr. Charles Wakefield Cadman is booked to give his lecture-recital at South Bend, Ind., shortly

MRS. CARRIE JACOBS-BOND GUEST OF HONOR AT WEST SIDE CLUB

The music study class of the Co-Educational Club held its first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs Richards, 3328 Washington boulevard, Thursday, October 2. Mrs. G. E. M. Pratt is its most able director. The club is this year devoting the program of each meeting to a single composer and this was Carrie Jacobs-Bond day.

After a delightful luncheon the company listened to two of Mrs. Bond's songs, "My Dearest Dear" and "God Remembers When the World Forgets," by Miss Alta Burton, one of the buds in the music world possessed of a charming voice.

Mrs. Bond was made the first honorary member of the club. She responded to the pretty compliment in her own genuine whole-hearted way, told some of her life stories and sang a song, unpublished and the first time in public, the words written by her son, called "In Life's Garden."

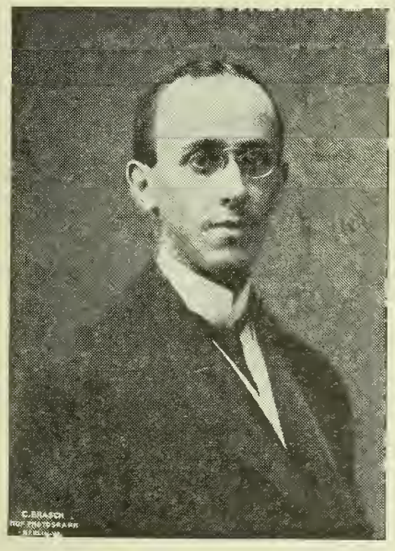
The club presented Mrs. Bond with a basket of most beautiful roses, recalling the decorations on the title page of her compositions.

Some excellent piano music was given by Mrs. Bates, who is better known, perhaps, as Mae Potvin. She gave "The Fire Scene" (Wagner), "Reflections Upon the Water" (Debussy), and a Chopin "Nocturne." Miss Burton concluded the program with Mrs. Bond's "A Pe fect Day."

M. K. W.

A RIVER FOREST COMPOSER

Walter Dellers is adding to his reputation as a brilliant violinist that of a composer par excellence. Three of his recent publications for violin, "In Hungarian



WALTER DELLERS

Style" (G. Schirmer), "Serenade-Espagnole" and "Barcarolle-Venetienne" (Carl Fischer) are already in the repertoire of a great many eastern violinists and bid fair to dislodge the "Souvenir," "Humoreske," and "Meditation" as popular request numbers.

Mr. Dellers, just returned from a third summer vacation in Europe, reports his teaching time almost filled and remaining open dates for concerts and recitals but few. Local engagements already booked include the Chicago Athletic Association, the Chicago Beach Hotel, Hotel Del Prado, Winnetka Women's Club, and many private North Shore and Lake Geneva homes.

Four pupils' recitals in Kimball Hall, in connection with piano pupils of Mr. Edward Howells, are announced, as well as a number of sonata evenings at Mr. Dellers' beautiful residence in River Forest.

ERIE, PENNSYLVANIA

The Erie Conservatory of Music was crowded to the doors on the evening of September 29, the occasion being the first faculty concert. The program was a very long one but was thoroughly enjoyed and disclosed in a very effective manner what a splendid corps of teachers has charge of the new conservatory. Piano numebrs were given by Peter LeSueur, Percival LeSueur and Alice Sloan; vocal numbers by Mr. Charles LeSeuer, Mrs. Charles W. McKean and Miss Sloan, while Miss Bowers, the head of the violin department, was heard to great advantage in two numbers. Taken all in all, this was a brilliant beginning for the Erie Conservatory of Music.

♮ ♮ ♮

Erie is to have a symphony orchestra! Under the very able direction of Franz Kohler, the well known violinist and formerly of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, an orchestra is being organized which will in all probability eclipse anything previously attempted in Erie. Mr. Kohler has been fortunate in securing some of Erie's foremost musicians to help in this lofty enterprise, and although but two rehearsals have been held, all concerned are more than enthusiastic over the prospects of what will be accomplished in Erie during the coming winter. Following is the ensemble of the orchestra at the present writing: First violin, 9; second violin, 7; viola, 3; violoncello, 5; bass, 3; flute, 2; piccolo, 1; oboe, 1; clarinet, 2; cornet, 2; trombone, 2; timpani, drums, 2; harp, 1. Since the second rehearsal several of Erie's musicians have signified their intention of joining the new symphony orchestra, and without doubt in a very short time this orchestra will number at least fifty players.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Apollo Club makes its initial appearance this season on Thursday evening, October 9, at the Columbia Theater, with Mme. Frances Alda as soloist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Mildred Watson, one of Erie's most successful piano teachers, will leave shortly for Jamestown, N. Y., where she will begin her duties as teacher in the Hill Piano School. Erie loses one of her most conscientious and successful teachers, and Jamestown is indeed fortunate to have secured so efficient a teacher as Miss Watson.

Stern.—Mrs. Edith Cramer Stern, soprano, will fulfill a concert tour under the management of Harry Culbertson during the season and will also be heard extensively in Chicago.

WILLIAM BOEPPLER

Conductor Boeppler's Symphony Orchestra of Chicago

Mr. William Boeppler, who is the director of the Milwaukee A Cappella Choir, the Germania Maennerchor, the Turner Chorus and the Chicago Singverein, has been tendered and has accepted the direction of the orchestra concerts of the Chicago Turngemeinde.

This is an important move for Mr. Boeppler, for in this work he will be able to demonstrate his abilities as an orchestra leader. The Boeppler Symphony Orchestra of Chicago will no doubt in a short time be classed with the leading orchestras of the country if Mr. Boeppler's success with the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra (which he founded and directed) is any criterion.

WILLIAM BOEPPLER

MISS KINSOLVING'S CONCERTS

Rachel Busey Kinsolving announces a series of matinee musicales at the Woman's Club in Evanston, Ill., on Wednesday mornings—November 5, December 3, January 7 and February 4.

The artists to be presented in these concerts will be Yvonne DeTreville, Julia Claussen, John Barnes Wells, Cornelius Van Vliet, Alice Cory and Francis MacMillen. Mrs. Johanna Hess-Burr will play accompaniments.

Rogers.—Miss Ruth Alta Rogers, pianist, who maintains a studio at Duluth and whose semi-private appearances in Chicago last season were so successful, will again appear in this city in February.

THE AUDITORIUM

Following is the program of the German Hospital benefit at the Auditorium on October 19, given by Clarence Whitehill, Geraldine Farrar and Fritz Kreisler:

Sonata for violin ..... Haendel

Songs—
- Wonnevoller Mai ..... Gluck
- Mit Einem gemalten Bande ..... Beethoven
- Oh! Had I Jubal's Lyre ..... Haendel
- Alleluja .....

Miss Farrar

Songs—
- Ich liebe dich ..... Beethoven
- Am Meer ..... Schubert
- Gruppe aus dem Tartarus ..... Schubert

Mr. Whitehill

Songs—
- Non t'accostar all' Urna ..... Schubert
- Heidenroslein ..... Schubert
- Wenn ich ein Immchen war / Der Schmetterling / Gute Nacht ..... Franz
- Der Ederfalk ..... Loewe
- Walpurgisnacht ..... Loewe

Miss Farrar

Soli for Violin—
- Prelude and Allegre ..... Pugnani
- Chanson Louise XIII. et Pavani ..... Couperin
- Variation ..... Tartini

Songs—
- Es blinkt der Thau ..... Rubinstein
- Sapphische Ode ..... Brahms
- Traum durch die Saemmerung ..... Strauss

Mr. Whitehill

Songs—
- Sternlein ..... Mussorgsky
- Die Lerche ..... Rubinstein
- Sprodes Kind ..... Rubinstein
- Er liebte nich ..... Tschaikowsky
- Sylvelin ..... Sinding
- Zueignung ..... Strauss

Miss Farrar

Soli for Violin—
- Caprice Viennois ..... Kreisler
- Tambourin Chinois ..... Kreisler

IDA BELLE FREEMAN

Miss Ida Belle Freeman of Austin reports having had a delightful vacation, having been the guest of Miss Jessie Adams in a houseboat party on the Mississippi River during July and spending the month of August at Bay View, Michigan, where she had the pleasure of attending the Bay View chautauqua—one of the best in the country.

Miss Freeman announces a change in studios in Fine Arts Building and will be found at the Lyceum Arts Conservatory on Saturday afternoons, and other days as usual at her home studio in Austin.

Three of the choral organizations under her direction, the Girls' Glee Club of the Presbyterian Church, the Young People's Choir of the Presbyterian Church and the Choral Union of the Baptist Church have already begun rehearsals, and the Rubinstein Club and the Handel Oratorio Society will start rehearsals next week, and a busy winter is assured.

———♯♯♯———

Ward.—Katherine Howard Ward, organist and pianist as well as one of the best accompanists in Chicago, has been added to the faculty of the Lyceum Arts Conservatory. She will remain alternate organist with Mr. Edgar Nelson for the Sunday Evening Club at Orchestra Hall this season and will also on December I resume the fine special musical services and organ programs at the First M. E. Church in Evanston, where, as last year, she will be assisted by many members of the Chicago Grand Opera Company.

THE VILIM TRIO

An excellent program was given at the La Grange Country Club Thursday, October 2, by three sterling Chicago artists—Miss Zedenka Cerny, 'cello; Joseph Vilim, violin, and A. V. Cerny, piano—who combined in a purely artistic rendering of Mendelssohn's massive D minor Trio, and later the "Andante and Rondo," from Schubert's seldom played and delightfully-varied Trio, Op. 99. The large audience testified enthusiastically their keen appreciation of the exceptionally fine ensemble work, and subsequently, Miss Zedenka Cerny's solo numbers—her performances are characterized by excellent technic, breadth of tone, largeness of conception, and a masterly handling of her powerful Bohemian 'cello, of very uncommon quality. The "Concert Polonaise" (Metzdorf), "Canzonetta" (Pergolesi), and "Tarantella" (Popper), with a fine encore number, showed to the fullest advantage the varied powers of this gifted young 'cellist. Messrs. Joseph Vilim and A. V. Carney joined in a most inspiriting, vivid performance of Grieg's violin and piano Sonata, Op. 8, infusing into the ever-charming composition the full degree of life, warmth and power needed in this picturesque invigorating music from a far distant northland. AGNES BELDON.

Artists now Booking

Season 1913-14 and 1914-15

LECTURE PIANO RECITAL
EMIL LIEBLING

PIANIST
SARAH SUTTEL

SONG—PIANO RECITAL
CHRIS ANDERSON, Baritone — EDWIN SCHNEIDER, Composer-Pianist
(After January 1)

BASSO—BARITONE
ARTHUR MIDDLETON
WILLIAM BEARD

SOPRANOS
MABEL SHARP HERDIEN
ALICE CORY
LOUISE BURTON
ELVA A. CHRYSLER
MABEL SMYLIE

TENOR
JOHN B. MILLER

CONTRALTOS
LOUISE HARRISON SLADE
HARRIET JANE MACCONNELL

SONATA RECITALS
HERBERT BUTLER, Violin
ALICE DRAKE BUTLER, Piano

VIOLIN
LACEY COE

'CELLO
FRANZ WAGNER

IMPERIAL MALE QUARTET

LECTURER
MRS. HENRY S. JAFFRAY

Personal Direction

Willis E. Mayne

934 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO

———♯♯♯———

Fredericks.—Mr. Aage Fredericks, violinist, who spent the summer at White Plains, N. Y., will be heard in many important concerts during the coming season.

ANNA M. TOMLINSON

Miss Anna M. Tomlinson, pianist and teacher, has resumed her large classes at Berwyn, Ill., and also at the Stein Musical and Dramatic School in Chicago.

Miss Tomlinson, besides having proven her own playing abilities in many environments, always fully justifying the fine predictions of her teachers, both in America and Europe, has developed into one of the most systematic and artistic of teachers and her work in Berwyn has long since been accepted by all residents of that locality as of the most pronounced value.

ANNA M. TOMLINSON

Always abreast with the times, Miss Tomlinson studies incessantly to make her own work valuable to her students and her complete success is proof sufficient that her efforts are not without avail.

———♯♯♯———

EDWARD B. SCHEVE

Mr. Edward B. Scheve, now a member of the faculty of the Grinnell College School of Music, at Grinnell, is also organist in that college and at the First Presbyterian Church of Grinnell.

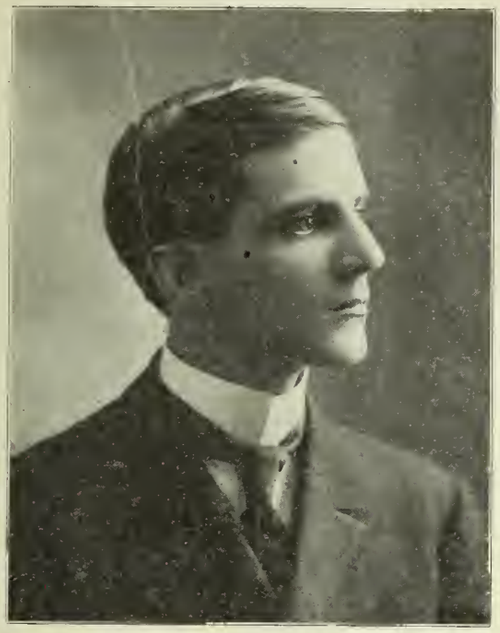
His "Requiem" for soli, chorus and orchestra is now in the hands of the printers and will soon be issued by the H. W. Gray Co. of New York.

Mr. Scheve's piano "Concerto" in D minor was played for the first time at the last May Festival at Grinnell by Miss Shutts, accompanied by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra under direction of Frederick Stock. His "Death and Resurrection," a most superb vocal score, will be sung this season in Berlin and Koenigsburg, Germany.

Some piano pieces and the song "All Souls' Day" were published last year by Clayton F. Summy Co. and Mr. Scheve is now working on a "Suite" for organ and orchestra.

———♯♯♯———

Pettibone.—Miss Charlotte Pettibone, a well established teacher of piano in Austin and a pupil of the late Regina Watson, will enter the concert field this season and will play before many societies and clubs. She is especially expert in ensemble and accompanying.



The Vocal Training of

KARL BUREN STEIN

Eminently Successful

Mrs. Karl Buren Stein

Repeatedly called the best teacher of Dramatic Art & Interpretation in the City.

Department of Light Opera and Drama a Specialty

Partial List of their Professional Students

Harold Taylor, leading tenor in Comic Opera "Sorority Days." Ralph Brainard, leading tenor with DeKoven Grand Opera Co. Glendora B rnes, soloist with Cerny Concert Co. Chas. F. Cooke, bass with Lyceum Male Quartet. Ruth Hellene Dahly, appearing in Recital. William Krimel, Leo Farmer, Maude Richardson, Gilbert Meyer, and others occupying prominent church po itions. Kepler Van Evera, Annie Pierce, C. B. Gould, Frank Tinkham, and others in charge of College Departments. Marguerite Sheffield, Marion Anderson, Dora Hurless, Rena Nelson, and others popular as public readers and teachers.

Stein Musical-Dramatic Conservatory, Voice, Violin, Piano, Elocution, Dramatic Art, Operatic Toe Dancing, Pipe Organ.

SUITES 55 and 75 AUDITORIUM BUILDING - - - - CHICAGO

EDWARD CLARKE IN RECITAL

Few, indeed, are the singers who can show such versatility or produce such a profound impression in song recital as did Edward Clarke on last Saturday afternoon at Kimball Hall.

The occasion was the opening of the American Conservatory Saturday afternoon series of concerts, and the place was crowded to the last row of seats and enthusiasm reigned supreme.

Mr. Clarke was in splendid trim and accomplished his first group, consisting of old Italian, French, German and English text songs, in admirable style, while in the "Largo al Factotum" from "The Barber of Seville" (Rossini) he was unctuous and facile.

A group of Brahms "Love Songs" was sung with the rarest sort of excellence, the "Staendchen" being particularly effective.

Johnson's "Gray Days" again proved a veritable gem and was sung with great beauty, as also the Homer "Banjo Song," which is interpreted by Mr. Clark with unusual beauty.

Parker's "If You Were Here" presents no especial charm on a first hearing, even when done so deftly as by Mr. Clarke, but "Morning," by Speaks, is a song which is thrilling in its effect and which suits Mr. Clarke to a nicety.

In addition to this admirable list of songs, Mr. Clarke recited Longfellow's "King Robert of Sicily," to the Cole music, in a way to hold his audience spellbound and to prove him a master of dramatic style. Seldom, indeed, has this or any other musical reading been so well done in Chicago.

Miss Esther Hirschberg played good accompaniments throughout and excelled greatly in the Cole number. C .E. W.

———♯♯♯———

MISS FRISBIE AND MR. LESTER

There was some very enjoyable music, of an informal nature, in the rooms of the Hardman-Peck Company, on Sunday afternoon. In fact, it was so pleasant that there is regret in the fact that there was a late start, and so the reviewer did not get as much as he really wished, owing to the inevitable second engagement.

Miss Constance Frisbie contributed the major portion of the program. She was in capital voice and spirits and did her numbers with a fine sense of their musical values and with charming abandon. The voice is large and brilliant in quality, and she sings with a sureness of intention that carries conviction. The Whelpley song, "The Nightingale Has a Lyre of Gold," was indeed excellently delivered. Mr. Strong, a young man with a singular gift for what may be called whistling, for want of a better word, did some remarkable things with this gift. In analysis, it would be hard to determine just where to place him, but the tone he produces is musical and easily modulated, and in some obligato numbers with Miss Frisbie the effect was quite interesting and unusual.

Without diminishing the value of what preceded it, the playing of Mr. Lester readily took a place of superiority. This young man has an intense imagination, a temperamental vigor, not always guarded, however, and a technical proficiency that should carry him far. In a "Prelude" of his own he used a theme of modern design and elaborated it with a brave skill and a lofty poetry. Well as he played it, the music itself was better. It really possessed a bigness of design that was absorbing.

ALBERT COTSWORTH.

———♯♯♯———

AEOLIAN HALL, NEW YORK

The first concert of the season at Aeolian Hall was given on Sunday afternoon, October 5th, by the Italian Symphony Orchestra of New York, Pietro Floridia, conductor, with Horatio Connell, baritone, as soloist.

The program was as follows:

Ouverture of "Lodoiska" .....Luigi Cherubini
Symphony in F, No. 6 (Pastorale) Op. 68.....
.....L. van Beethoven
Allegro ma non troppo
Andante molto molto
Allegro—Allegro (Storm) Allegretto
Invocation to Youth (from the Opera "Paoletta") for baritone) .....P. Floridia
Mr. Horatio Connell
Vorspiel, "Die Meistersinger von Nurnberg".....
.....R. Wagner

———♯♯♯———

Tenney.—Mr. and Mrs. George L. Tenney, who spent the summer in Colorado, are again at work at the First M. E. Church of Oak Park, where they are great favorites in a quartet, which contains also Jessie Lynde Hopkins and Frank Collins. Mr. Tenney will actively enter the local concert field.

Music in New York

By ABBIE STEPHENS FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall

AN ANNIVERSARY—A FESTIVAL

As an appropriate commemoration and celebration of its birthday, Music News has prepared an issue of intense interest—one to which music lovers and admirers of the best and choicest in musical journalism have been looking forward with anticipation ever since the Anniversary number was announced.

For Music News is as it deserves to be, a general favorite.

Quietly and without ostentation this journal has forged its way ahead until today it is regarded as the most important music paper in the West. Up-to-date; honestly aggressive in the interests of what is highest and noblest in the loveliest of the Arts, it has steadily maintained its lofty ideals and gone on the way of progress.

Compact and dainty in form it is worthy a place in the boudoir of music-room as well as in the studio and school.

Up-to-date, its readers are put in touch with what is novel as well as excellent.

To read it is to be kept informed in the pleasantest manner of what is being carried forward or doing in music everywhere.

Mr. Watt, the well-known editor and owner of Music News, is to be congratulated upon the steadfastness he has shown in adhering to a broadminded and lofty policy.

He has never stooped to unworthy methods. The Stand and Deliver policy has never been his. Honesty has characterized the conduct of his paper; consequently his plans to make his paper worthy in every regard are bearing fruit.

That he is succeeding marvelously this number proves—that he will go on to greater achievements is a foregone conclusion.

He believes in publicity—he also believes in fairness and justice. Hence his publication is bound to reach the highest level.

♮ ♮ ♮

Bachaus to Return to America

At the present time the concert goer demands soloists who are not alone specialists (as one might say) in perfection as well as efficiency and masterful artistic equipment, but blessed with personalities whose charm and attraction they construe into reflections of his genius.

The soloist must not only know his little book from A to Z, his Art must come gloriously casketed in the approach to physical perfection. Our young connoisseurs are becoming a thousand times more fastidious and exacting than ever were their forebears.

The question is not: Does he play or sing well? There must be detailed information about his masculine attractiveness.

This has become more than a propensity —this feasting of the eye as well as the ear—it is an accepted fact, and one with which the artist, no matter how great his genius, must reckon.

The 20th Century has characterized itself by an almost pagan love and worship of beauty, and young humans confess to a prejudice in favor of youth and comeliness. He who will not admit this changed front of the Ziet Geist, will be relegated to the ever increasing ranks of the Back Number. His fate is hopeless if he cannot be made to realize that the artist must charm as well as entertain and educate.

Autre Temps, Autre Moeurs. We may be reluctant to admit it but it is a fact, and there can be no arguing about it. Even extraordinary talent has ceased to be a co-efficient for physical loveliness. It is a nice question and its pros and cons must be left to the younger generation to decide.

Conditions being thus we have every reason to be grateful that Wilhelm Bachaus, fulfills each and every condition demanded by the modern amateur, lover and worshiper of the musical and the beautiful. Nature has given him all that she has to bestow. His is a personality of haunting magnetism and beauty, exquisite assets, fascinating as they slowly change, develop and ripen to fuller maturity.

In his art he ranks, of course, with the unusual ones who have fairly set the world upon fire.

Unquestionably Bachaus was a revelation to his American audiences. There was such a vivid atmosphere of youth about him; and withal so much dignity, directness and simplicity. He conquered by his personality before he struck a note upon the piano that always-to-be-remembered afternoon when he so modestly made his bow before the usual audience gathered at a Sunday afternoon concert of the New York Symphony Orchestra.

There had been very little of press-noticing preliminaries, and the rather apathetic audience was entirely unprepared for the revelation this genius of technic, tone and poetry was about to pour into their very souls.

His interpretation of the Beethoven "Emperor" Concerto was practically an epoch-making performance, and his auditors were not slow to realize that in the new pianist they were listening to a product with a new and never-to-be-forgotten message. A personality among personalities stood before them. An artist gifted with authority and knowledge—an analyst of musical ideas and meanings, interpreted a great master's test composition as it is given few to approach in poetry, passion, intelligence and technic.

Criticism is a function of the individual. It reflects not so much the moods of the artist as the caprices and physical condition and mental state of mind of the critic. A good review may be the result of a glass of wine—perhaps Ruedescheimer or Liebfrauenmilch, or, we are pained to state, that red ink (so-called) which accompanies the Taglierini of the specially chosen "Osteria" and a quiescently superinduced passivity of the spleen, the nerves, or the digestion, or (as not a few artists might state to their sorrow), the critic comes in a bad mood after a nocturnal session, with that interesting malady playfully called "Katzenjammer," or a wrestle of words with the best-beloved.

BONCI
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR
SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York
Knabe Piano Used

MYRTLE ELVYN
RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE
Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914
Concert Direction, M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av., New York.
Kimball Piano Used

CHRISTINE MILLER
CONTRALTO
In Europe until Oct. 1, 1913
Address, care of American Express Co., Paris
Management HAENSEL & JONES
Aeolian Hall, New York

MR. & MRS. JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS
Address 330 West 58th St.
NEW YORK CITY

when woe, woe, to the unfortunate soloist. His best efforts are misunderstood, and the unexpected may be his portion when he reads the papers the "morning after."

Bachaus escaped these castigations and the usual routine phrases plus a bit of added rhetoris of the invariably—with some startling exceptions—dignified variety became his portion.

He was more than amiably patted on the back. The vocabulary was searched for its choicest gems, and they still sparkle in his crown of glory.

But the stereotyped descriptions and word artistry of professional observers were not imperative to the enhancement of this youthful pianist's gifts.

He has invariably owned his audiences from the beginning. His personality—and this word really fits. Bachaus—enchains by something of the mystic as well as the magnetic, and much more than an entente cordiale is established at once.

Word comes to us from England—from youthful student-pianists, professional and semi-professional, that the art of Bachaus has broadened imensely since 1911—when he made his debut here—and we are told that we may expect some rmearkable demonstrations of his mellowed and matured art.

♮ ♮ ♮

Marie Narelle—The Irish Soprano

A few years ago Marie Narelle was touring Australasia under the management of Frederick Shipman, and winning the hearts of all by the beauty of her voice, the wild and glowing charm of her rendition of Irish songs, and the marvelous attractiveness of her presence.

Not the least of Mr. Shipman's triumphs as an astute manager and connoisseur of voices, were the results of the two seasons this great soprano drew record houses for him in the Antipodes, where her name is still a household word and her voice and vocalism a standard of comparison.

Mme. Narelle is now in America for this season at least, and the conductors who have heard her have not been slow in offering her engagements. Specializing in Irish songs in Australasia and England and the Continent, Mme. Narelle is proud of her classic repertory as well. The oratorios and operas are as familiar to her as the songs of her people and her mother's native land, and she is at her best in the broadly-sketched arias written for the dramatic soprano voice, and the lieder and songs of different tongues, and different peoples.

Mme. Narelle will be the soloist at Carnegie Hall on the evening of October 7, of a special concert of many Irish societies, the concerts which MacCormack graces so often—and indeed MacCormack's tenor and Marie Narelle's soprano have been heard together at many concerts where they were the chief artists a few years ago here and abroad. Upon this occasion she will be the principal attraction vocally. The star of equal magnitude being the young nominee for the mayoralty, John Purroy Mitchell, who will deliver an address.

Mme. Narelle will be heard in private musicales in New York and Newport, and her manager has signed a goodly number of contracts for her.

The Italian Symphony Society and Horatio Connell

The season of symphonic doings of importance starts on the evening of October 6, when the Italian Symphony Society will make its bow to New York in a program of German and Italian compositions.

This orchestra is about to initiate a novel movement. None other than an experiment in automatic subsidizing. In a word it is to be an independent self supporting institution, relying upon its active membership for existence as a musical body.

It will make no appeal for assistance from the public. It seeks no endowment fund. It starts out untrammeled by financial traditions, and the anticipation of passings around of the hat.

Some earnest in this of pleasurable and important results. It must interest the metropolis to observe its progress. It should certainly command attention from the concert-goer.

The conductor is Pietro Floridia, an excellent musician and fine composer, whose lovely modesty is not his least charm.

Horatio Connell, a baritone heard too seldom in this city, will be the soloist, and he will render an aria by Floridia, and from one of his (Floridia's) operas.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mme. Cecile M. Behrens

In a few weeks Mme. Behrens, who has been summering at her lovely home in Elberon—where she has been the soloist at more than one recital, will return to town. She has booked several important engagements for ensemble and solo appearances and she will resume teaching the large class of pupils, mostly daughters of society people, who flock to her.

We shall have more to say about the doings of Mme. Behrens and her artist pupils at a later date.

♮ ♮ ♮

Notes

Mrs. Julia Waixel, who has spent her vacation in France, Italy and Switzerland, is again in New York, and busy at work. Her vacation was a combination of resting and working. Study spiced with sightseeing and relaxation.

After the opening of the Century come the Metropolitan and then the new house of the arch impresario, Oscar Hammersten. What or whom next?

Not the Lady or the Tiger for society writ largest, but: To go or not to go, and be seen at the Metropolitan or at the "Hammerstein."

The makers of epigrams will now have subject matter for a season on end. Oscar is in America and things will hum.

English opera at two institutions, that is, part of the time. How now is our beloved David Bispham vindicated and triumphant. Consistently the champion of English as a musical language, fit vehicle when properly managed and understood, for opera as well as oratorio wherein it has shown these many years here and abroad. these many, many moons, he is about to be proven a true prophet. And never had prophet harder task than our David, fighting the Goliath of prejudice and ignorance.

It must delight his soul to feel how great a factor he has been in aiding to bring about this thing.

Which reminds us that David is doing good work just now in vaudeville, educating a new contingent of the gentle public in the art of appreciating its native tongue. And how eager that contingent is to learn is shown by the crowded audiences David draws. Audiences that cheer him to the echo and fairly eat up his words.

Mr. Bispham in the language of the Wolfville heroes is surely "some" man.

The artists and the managers are looking forward to a rushing season. Let's wish them all the luck they are entitled to, and let us hope that a lowered tariff and a consequent income tax will not disappoint the hopes of the foreign artist who comes in untaxed, and make the resident American draw his purse strings too tightly.

New Yorkers who have visited the west and who have heard Mr. Butler, a leading Chicago violinist, play, are hoping to have the pleasure of making, or rather renewing his acquaintance in their home city. It is to be hoped that Mr. Butler will be heard in New York.

Mme. Stella Barre, after her season in musical comedy and vaudeville, is preparing for her recital. This young prima donna has been observing the pother over a soprano who is considered a marvel because she sings G in Alt, and amuses herself by trilling on A flats in Alt, and a jump to C above the "high C."

She considers G too unimportant to be discussed. Plain G indeed.

Mrs. Gertrude Cowen is a new recruit managerial who will undoubtedly do great things with the artists who are fortunate enough to have her as their guide and counsellor. Mrs. Cowen appears to be the new woman who is sure to "arrive."

———♮♮♮———

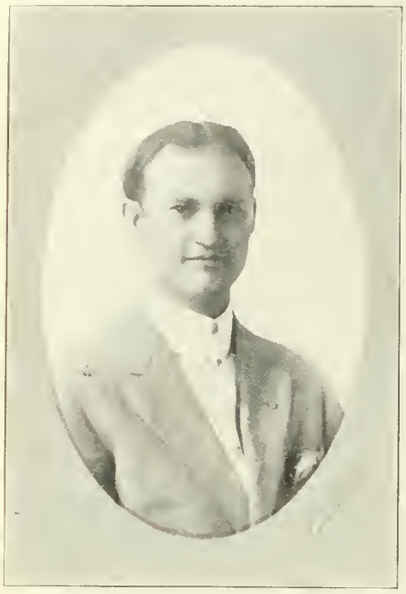
SHERWOOD MUSIC SCHOOL

Miss Georgia Kober, president of the Sherwood Music School, has just returned from a successful concert trip in Michigan and Illinois.

The first concert of the season, by a member of the faculty of this popular school was given on Sunday, October 5, at the Florentine Room of the Congress Hotel by Mr. Paul Van Katwijk, pianist. Under the able managament of Jessie Kavanagh Read the Sherwood Music School is anticipating a record year. During the summer course students were registered from forty states of the Union. Large classes are being registered for Madame Genevra Johnston Bishop, Mr. G. Magnus Schutz, Miss Mathilde Heuchling and the long list of teachers of the vocal department. Miss Kober's classes are the largest she has ever known, and Mr. Walter Keller is kept busy with the harmony and counterpoint classes, and a most promising class of organ pupils.

———♮♮♮———

Marshall Field Choral Society.—The Marshall Field Choral Society, under direction of Thomas A. Pape, will give two concerts this year, as usual. The first will be on December 4 at Orchestra Hall and will take the form of a part song concert, the second will be in April, and will include Sullivan's "Golden Legend" and Grieg's "Olaf Trygvasson." Important soloists will appear at each concert.



Dr. Lampkin

TENOR

English, French, German and Italian

Oratorio Concert Recital

2629 East 74th Street

Mme.

Gerville-Reache

Prima Donna Contralto

Marie Sundelius

Lyric Soprano

Mabel Beddoe

Mezzo-Contralto

Arthur Hackett

Tenor

Bonarios Grimson

Violinist

Exclusive Management

GERTRUDE F. COWEN

1451 Broadway New York

"MY WANDERINGS"

BY HENRY CLAY BARNABEE—REVIEWED BY ALBERT COTSWORTH

There is but one way to review Mr. Barnabee's book of reminiscence, and that is just as informally as he has written it. It makes no pretentions to literary style, and thereby has a good deal. It reads just as a happy old gentleman would talk, if he had a crowd of interested listeners about him. The Elderly Person in a recent comment on books he had been reading, said that reminiscence, to be enjoyable, should be garrulous. This book would suit him to a T. And I may as well add that I sat up half the night to read the latter half first, because that was the part contemporary with my most wide-awake interest in matters musical. When I found the sample printed program of the concerts he gave in the seventies, when Mrs. H. M. Smith and Arbuckle were associated with him, I had a regular paroxysm of renewed enthusiasm. For it was during that period that Mr. Barnabee and Mrs. Smith first came into my horizon. It was of a surety during the winter of 1876-7 that he confronted one of those diminutive audiences which he frankly says he drew during that trying portion of his career. I know that it was then, for it was also at that time that I was doing the honors of a young husband to his bride. At his concert she was beside me in the balcony of old Union Hall in Burlington, Iowa. To further interfere with his mission to the village, a fire broke out in the block adjoining, and the major part of the audience stampeded, while the engines punctuated things even worse than that foghorn did when he gave a concert on board ship. But although I have no program to quote from, I remember well how Barnabee sang Hatton's "Bold Young Oysterman," and furnished any amount of illustration of that seagoing chap's evolutions. I believe he didn't favor us with the "Cork Leg," his song of songs. And I do not remember who were the tenor and alto, who sang with him and Mrs. Smith in some lovely quartets. But I do recall that Howard M. Dow sat at the piano and played delightful accompaniments, and that some of the quartets were harmonized by him in that beautiful simplicity which made them original and full of the neat touches one always admired. Perhaps at this late date I may really find out something which has remained a bit of mystery ever since that night. Mrs. Smith's numbers were the "Linda" aria "O! Luce" and a song called "Where Is Heaven?" Modest in the extreme it was in itself, but she made it compellingly effective. She sang it as if she herself were the child asking the question. I lost my program, but it ran in my mind that the composer was set down Burnap. I knew the word of old, and knew who U. C. Burnap was, musically. But I tried in vain to get the song. Now, perhaps, if Mr. Barnabee reads press notices, as of yore, he will let me know who did write it. Incidentally this bit of reminiscence will let the young people of today know what Mr. Barnabee did and stood for in the days of musical beginnings in the west.

For those same people, it may be added, that throughout its long and very honored existence Mr. Barnabee was the comedian of the "Boston Ideals" and its successor, "The Bostonians." These companies presented light or comic opera in the days of its perfection, before the era of the inane musical comedy, that hideously deformed child of a worthy mother.

Mr. Barnabee's two marked traits, as they creep out and reveal themselves in his easily-flowing chat, are a royal sense of fun and an abiding faith in the goodness of the Father of us all. It is generally so—the men who make us laugh are nearly always deeply sensitive to purest emotion, and God's love is always that. Underneath his picture on the flyleaf he has written in a hidden rhyme, "Hale, hearty and nearly eighty. Yours sincerely, Henry Clay Barnabee." And he keeps that spirit of cheerful, happy comradeship all through the fascinating pages. Jokes! There are so many that the proverbial "Joe Miller" might well be discarded, and Barnabee's "Wanderings" substituted. For you find them all preserved—the "I fry mine in butter" story, the "Messiah" story which shocks some people, the "Climate" story of California, the "I'm from Boston" and the "Heaven isn't Boston" stories, the lady who wanted to be put off at Auburndale, the man who hadn't been able to read the bible without hissing, and lots of other good ones are there. In fact, one feels like the man in the ship's smoking room who listened to yarns all evening and said no word. The party pounced on him at last and insisted that he contribute. He edged to the door and fired this conundrum at them: "Why am I like a Christmas turkey?" Then, without waiting for reply, he answered himself: "Because I'm stuffed full of chestnuts." That's Barnabee's story, not mine, but it isn't half bad to apply the dose to him. There are dozens of others just as good and new, however, and they give a glimpse of the way the wit won his way into the hearts of hundreds. They are told capitally, and one of the best is the one he narrates of General B. F. Butler. In court one day, Butler, who was original, in addition to all his other accomplishment, undertook to make some short cuts through the forms of law, to carry his point. The presiding judge stood for these as long as he could and then called Butler down quite sharply. At lunch time the judge, passing through an ante room, encountered Butler conning some law books. Wishing to be propitiatory, he said: "Ah, Mr. Butler, studying law?" "Oh no," replied the ready General, "merely looking over some of your opinions." This joke has to trickle a little, in some of our craniums, before we catch the subtle irony of the retort.

Mr. Barnabee's account of the birth of the Boston Ideals is more than interesting. It sets at rest also some of the busy press agent's narratives, well circulated at the time, of the hardships endured by Miss Mary Beebe, the first soprano of the company. If she was persecuted and driven from her choir position by the prejudices of the rigid church people, who would have nothing to do with play-acting, nor allow their singers to do so, the present chronicle is silent on the subject. Prior to the advent of "Pinafore," the only supply of light opera came from the French Bouffe troupes whose doings, with Offenbach and Lecocq, were thought to be quite bad, by those of us who wanted to be good. And when we learned that the Russian Grand Duke, Alexis, had snapped a bracelet on the shapely ankle of the active lady singing "La Grande Duchesse," much of the censure seemed justified. "Pinafore" offered the same sort of entertainment, without the taint, and with its arrival began a long and happy reign of merry and melodious pleasure. At a juncture in the history of the Boston Theater, when an attraction, relied upon to score a great success, turned out a flat failure, the musical director said: "See here, this 'Pinafore' business has been already done to death in many ways—but has it been really sung? Never! Well, then, why not get Phillips and Whitney and Barnabee and Tom Karl together, and see what the piece is like musically?" Prodigious success crowned the idea, well worked out, and what was inaugurated as a stop gap, became for long years the choicest attraction. Mr. Barnabee is fine and genial in his philosophy at the waning and final decay and death of the splendid organization. He tries to find a reason and gives it up. He gives a roster of the singers and the operas. It is like opening a page of the book of yesterday to look at the pictures and read the list of those whose names are writ in the water of musical public life. Over and over again I can echo, with Barnabee, the quotation from "Rip Van Winkle," "Are we so soon forgot?" The Ideals reached their great climax in DeKoven's "Robin Hood." Many whose heads are not yet gray remember Barnabee's "Sheriff," MacDonald's "Scarlet," Marie Stone's "Maid Marian," and Jessie Bartlett Davis' "Alana-Dale," and how she sang "Oh, Promise Me." Palmy days they were, and the mystery deepens as to why the taste of a fickle public prefers the trashy persiflage that has taken the place not only of the Sullivan operettas but of "Fra Diavolo" and "Belles of Corneville." But it is the order of things to change with the generations. Witness the death of the "Lanciers" and quadrilles and polkas, the other dances of the same period as their operettas, and the arrival of the militant twostep and the spicy tango of today. All that we old people can do is to shake our heads sagely—just exactly as our fathers did, when we insisted on new things!

One chapter is devoted to Mrs. Barnabee, who was lovable in every way, and all and more that a real helpmeet should be. She was with her husband all through the years of travel, his guide, counsellor and friend. He is very quiet about it, but one can read in his love for children, and his enjoyment of Christmas festivities (he says he "just loves Christmas"), the real regret that no children came to their home. They lived together for over fifty years and she died at the end of a beautiful Christmas day. The chapter is a page in a man's life to be proud and grateful for. One of the great frolics of their lives was an extended trip to Europe. He carried his sense of fun with him and that added to the pleasure. And he carried his deep sense of reverence when he went to the Passion Play at Oberammergau.

Friends! He had them in legions. Like Jim Bludsoe, who had a wife in every port, his best friend lived in every town and city he visited. And he was loyalty itself. A most human document is the story of how he hunted up a former comrade on his first California trip and found him in the humblest of conditions. The tributes of friends in the closing pages of the book are alive with the keenest honesty of regard.

Barnabee had more bad luck than usual, and he supplemented this by a generous spirit which, to put it mildly, was poor business judgment. But as he and his friends state, his wife endorsed him in it and there is no more to be said. I think his worst experience was in carrying an accident insurance policy. The company accepted his payment of premiums for over forty years after the policy had lapsed, by some technicality. So that when he finally had an accident and needed aid, it was denied him. He proves, just the same, that his faith in human nature was not wrong. With the most unaffected manner he tells the story of the monster benefits arranged for him and Mrs. MacDonald. (Marie Stone), in Boston and New York. With a true active spirit, he preserves and hands out all the speeches and press notices. One can picture the kindly old man's eyes glistening with joy as he tells of the reception, and the applause and the generosity and what it meant in his hour of distress. It is his farewell, and he makes the most of it, not only for present impressions upon his audience, but as a spotlight in his life's background, to visit again and again and bask in the glow and warmth, and color, and happiness of the precious experience.

Mr. Editor, I thank you for your unselfishness in allowing me to review the book, instead of doing it yourself, as I know you desired to. And I know I've trespassed on the space. And I've not touched on a tithe of the notable pages in the book. But this man's mission has been a blessed one, and recognition of it now is our privilege. Much better to heap flowers at his living feet, than to put wreaths upon his coffin. It has been a useful, a beneficent life. No one can approach the book and read it sincerely, without having a heartier, healthier attitude toward life, its duties, privileges and responsibilities. And to make the world a little happier and therefore a little better because one has lived in it—can there be anything more worth while?

Salutations to you, Mr. Barnabee! And to all ye who read—put the book on your Christmas list.

———♯♯♯———

Wait.—Miss Barbara Wait sang at a reception at The Blackstone Hotel on last Saturday afternoon, her numbers being "Contentment" (Cerwonky) "On the Shore" (Neidlinger) and "In Blossom Time" by Needham.

AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

A recital will be given by Mr. Charles LaBerge, baritone, and Ramon Girvin, violinist, on Saturday afternoon, October 11, at Kimball Hall, under the auspices of the American Conservatory.

Adolf Weidig has returned from an extended sojourn in Europe and has resumed his post of director of the Theoretical department of the American Conservatory. Mr. Weidig met many of the musical celebrities abroad and also attended a number of musical performances. Among the most interesting incidents was a visit to the Dalcroze School of Eurhythmics at Hellerau near Dresden.

The American Conservatory Students' Orchestra meets every Monday afternoon for rehearsal under the direction of Herbert Butler. Pupils have here a fine opportunity to prepare themselves for professional orchestral work and enjoy the experience of playing with others, so necessary for every member of an orchestra.

OSTROVSKY METHOD

For the Student—

The aim of the Ostrovsky Method of Hand Development is to increase the value of every good pianoforte or violin method and to assist capable teachers in obtaining the best results from each pupil.

The greatest pedagogues have their failures and most frequently these failures are the result of a lack of the manual qualities which are essential for an artistic technic. Very often a student of only average MUSICAL Ability will make enormous technical progress with very little effort. At the same time, another who possesses marked talent and the temperament to be a great artist may work unceasingly and you NEVER acquire the polished, brilliant technic of his less gifted fellow. WHY?

For the Advanced Player—

If a player has already attained a certain amount of technic, but has, at the asme time, discoverd technical difficulties which he cannot overcome, a course of the Ostrovsky Method will help greatly in overcoming these problems.

For the Artist—

The Ostrovsky Method counteracts the destructive effects on the hands caused by the playing itself. Playing polishes the technic for excellent hands, but, later on begins to destroy it. The history of solo playing proves that at a period of life when the intellectual and spiritual qualities of the artist are ripest his technic has begun to deteriorate. The Ostrovsky Apparatus works directly against the destructive influences of overexertion and age. Parts that have become stiffened are loosened, the compression and deadness produced by pressure are relieved and the freshness and vigor of a youthful technic are restored.

RESULTS OBTAINED BY THIS SYSTEM

After one course of lessons, the span between each pair of fingers has increased from one to two or more inches. The palm has stretched and softened so that the finger lift has greatly improved and the general independence of the fingers enormously increased.

Defective manual circulation causing cold or clammy hands has been remedied.

Stiff joints have been loosened and weak joints strengthened.

Crooked fingers have been straightened and rheumatic and gouty symptoms have vanished.

Strength and speed of thumb and finger action have been doubled and the motions have become certain, accurate and elastic.

For terms and information address

OSTROVSKY INSTITUTE

513-514 Steinway Hall, 64 E. Van Buren St. Chicago.

REX UNDERWOOD,
Director

The Chicago branch is the first to be established in America and the only one outside of London, and the Stern Conservatory in Berlin. There is going to be a great opportunity for teachers who know this method.

Appointments may be made for viewing the apparatus and having the system thoroughly explained.

Four of the 180 singers, constituting the Five Vested Choirs, New First Congregotionol Church, Chicago

New First Congregational Church Choirs

The finest organized church choirs in the country.

The most finished singing of the master choruses by juvenile and adult forces.

Forty singers come out every day of the year for rehearsal.

Seventeen oratorios, cantatas and song cycles were presented before 20,000 people during 1913

H. Augustine Smith

Director, Manager

20 N. Ashland Boulevard

Phone 1017 West

MUSIC IN CHARLESTON

The first musicale of the season of 1913-14 occurred last Tuesday evening when Miss Golden Garden gave a song recital at the Burlow Opera House. Miss Gardner is a Charleston girl and was warmly received. In fact the repeated recalls gave ample evidence of the place she bears in our esteem. Her program, made up of numbers by Chadwick, Quilter, Cadman, Schubert, MacDowell, Rummel and Mary Turner Salter, gave abundant play for the lyric beauty of her voice, while the aria, "One Fine Day," "Madame Butterfly" and Henschel's "Soon Night Will Pass" showed us somcthing of her dramatic powers. We are told that Miss Gardner is to be with the Aborn people this season.

♮ ♮ ♮

Fresh evidence of the "awakening of the little towns" comes to hand in the report of the organization of the St. Albans (W. Va.) Choral Club. Mr. Robert C. Sweet is president; Mrs. U. G. Jarrett, vice president; Mrs. George C. Weiner, secretary; Miss Edith Rich, treasurer; Mr. Brown McGrew, librarian, and Mrs. R. C. Sweet, accompanist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Interest is also being centered on the Bream Memorial Church, West Charleston. Its choir of seventy-five voices and a new organ to be installed about the first of the year give promise of a new source of pride for our city.

J. HENRY FRANCIS.

———♯♯♯———

Murdock.—Some of the early fall activities among Miss Murdock's pupils are Miss Edith Kien, pianist; engagement at Warren Avenue Summer Concerts in August, and at opening of Nike Club, Lincoln Center, October 6. Miss Emma Grant, organist; Woodlawn United Presbyterian Church, September 28. Miss Lilian Cervenka, appointment as assistant organist at St. Ignatius Church, Rogers Park.

♮ ♮ ♮

Williams.—Mrs. Stacey Williams has reopened her Kimball Hall Studios with a very large and, as usual, a very distinguished class of vocal pupils.

Mrs. Elizabeth Battle Bintliff

Teacher of Piano and Pipe Organ

Director School of Music

Ripon College Ripon, Wisconsin

GRAND RAPIDS

On Friday afternoon the first recital of the season of 1913-14 was given at the auditorium of their building, by the St, Cecilia Society of Grand Rapids. The program was an excellent one, consisting of songs, piano and violin solos, rendered by regular members in a manner that reflected credit both to themselves and the society. There is much well developed talent in this society. Good voices well trained, pianists and violinists who have studied abroad with the best teachers. These students render their numbers so artistically that their hearers are always delighted.

Possibly only a few of the readers of the Music News know that the St. Cecilia Society is the only musical organization in the United States composed of women that owns its building. This building, which has an auditorium with a seating capacity of 500, together with large reception rooms, a hall used for dancing parties, a large dining room and kitchen in the basement, was built 19 years ago through the efforts of a number of earnest energetic workers, who had organized the St. Cecilia ten years earlier.

A debt of $19,000 has hung over them during this nineteen years, but this past year through the efforts of these same determined energetic women and those who have joined them, the debt has been paid, notwithstanding the fact that the Y. M. C. A. were asking for $750,000, which was raised in less than ten days. This society stands for musical progress and represents an esthetic interest which is more and more appreciated by the community, as a result of the highly creditable performances given by the members and the many artists's recitals given each year by the society, which endeavors to secure the best talent that the world affords.

The society is also philanthropie, providing musical programs for hospitals, schools, and various charitable and municipal enterprises, thus bringing joy to the afflicted and unfortunate and at the same time spreading good music in the community.

J. N. PARKS.

———♯♯♯———

HARRY R. DETWEILER

A request has just come from Omaha for a teacher schooled in piano work under Harry R. Detweiler. Two pupils of Mr. Detweiler's who have accepted college work this year are Hannah Asher in the College of Industrial Art at Denton, Texas; and Clara E. Waldron in Galloway College at Searcy, Arkansas. Miss Asher and Miss Waldron are both piano teachers and artists of ability.

Miss Irene Hummel, another fine pianist studying with Mr. Detweiler, has just returned for another year's work after spending an unusually successful summer in Chautauqua. She is already booked for next summer and the following winter with the Redpath Bureau.

———♯♯♯———

Plumb.—Miss Esther Plumb, contralto, one of the most sought-after singers of the country, will again this season be a member of the solo quartet at St. James M. E. Church.

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra

EMIL OBERHOFFER, Conductor

1913—ELEVENTH SEASON—1914

EMIL OBERHOFFER
CONDUCTOR

TWELVE SYMPHONY CONCERTS: Dates and Soloists:

Oct. 24, PUTNAM GRISWOLD ..... Baritone
Nov. 7, RICHARD CZERWONKY ..... Violin
Nov. 21, KATHERINE GOODSON ..... Piano
Dec. 5, JOHANNA GADSKI ..... Soprano
Dec. 19, CORNELIUS van VLIET ..... 'Cello
Jan. 2, EUGENE YSAYE ..... Violin
Jan. 16, JULIA CLAUSSEN ..... Contralto
Jan. 30, FRITZ KREISLER ..... Violin

Feb. 13, TERESA CARRENO ..... Piano
Feb. 20, HAROLD BAUER ..... Piano
Mch. 13, MISCHA ELMAN ..... Violin
Mch. 2, EMMA LOEFFLER ..... Soprano

TWENTY POPULAR SUNDAY AFTERNOON CONCERTS

(Dates and Soloists for First Seven. Others to be announced)

Oct. 26, LUCILLE STEVENSON ..... Soprano
Nov. 2, CORDELIA LEE ..... Violin
Nov. 9, WILLIAM HINSHAW ..... Baritone
Nov. 16, GEORGIA KOBER ..... Piano
Nov. 23, ELSA KELLNER ..... Soprano
Nov. 30, HENRY J. WILLIAMS ..... Harp
Dec. 7, ALBERT LINDQUIST ..... Tenor
Dec. 14, GERTRUDE MANNING ..... Soprano

SIX YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONCERTS

Friday Afternoons, November 14, December 12, January 9, 23; February 6, March 20

THIRD ANNUAL EASTERN TOUR

(Entire Orchestra—Eighty Men)
Three Weeks, Opening at Milwaukee, Wis., February 21, 1914

EIGHTH ANNUAL SPRING TOUR

(Festival Orchestra—Seven Soloists)
Eight Weeks, Beginning April 12, 1914

THE AUDITORIUM
MINNEAPOLIS
HOME OF THE ORCHESTRA

WENDELL HEIGHTON, Manager CARLO FISCHER, Asso. Mgr.

Offices: Auditorium Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

Arcangeli

Leading Baritone in Principal Opera Houses of Europe for Eighteen Years.

PUPILS

IRENE JONAS

Principal Coloratura Soprano, Boston Grand Opera Co.

HARRY SCHNEIDER

Principal Bass, Colon, Buenos Aires.

GLADYS EASTER and MARIUS THORPE

Negotiating with well known Impresario for Season 1914, in Principal Soprano and Tenor roles.

Many Others Singing in Concert and Church

Coming Events

Recital Fine Arts Theater, December 14.

Operatic Performances latter part of February, Studebaker Theater.

Arcangeli Studio, Athenaeum Building

THE

COLUMBIA SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Clare Osborne Reed

DIRECTOR

Recital Series---Fine Arts Theatre

NOVEMBER 16th, at 3:00
Louise St. John Westervelt, Soprano
Helen B. Lawrence, Pianist

NOVEMBER 30th, at 3:00
Winifred Lamb, Pianist---Annual Recital

DECEMBER 14th, at 3:00
Mc Elroy Johnston, Baritone

JANUARY 4th, at 3:00
Ludwig Becker, Violinist

February (Dates Indefinite)
Arthur Middleton, Basso---Recital and Columbia School Orchestra

March (Dates Indefinite)
Faculty Recital
Columbia School Chorus

For Programs, address J. B. HALL, Manager
509 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago

DAVID BISPHAM

The following editorial comment on David Bispham is from the Australian Music and Dramatic News:

"Rumor had foretold great things of David Bispham. Now, as we have been told, rumor is a lying jade; and so she proved herself in this instance. For she had not told us the half.

"Mr. Bispham gives a show 'off his own bat;' and right well doth he give it. His programs are given entirely in English; on this point the curious reader may find food for thought—and let us hope for solution of a big problem—in another column. He is delightfully frank and free with his audience. He sets out with an exordium, 'Now listen! I am going to freeze your blood with terror!' and every one's blood freezes at the word of command. Or he tells us, 'I am going to sing Tom Hood's terrible 'Song of the Shirt;' and straightway we all resolve to vote Labor tomorow. A compelling songster is Mr. David Bispham. If another Federal Election were sighted in the offing, he would prove a powerful electioneering agent. Just get him to sing a song setting forth clearly how broad your own political views are and how narrow are the other fellow's, and you would get elected every time.

DAVID BISPHAM

"Climbing down from generalities into particulars—and not too far into particulars, for we have no intention of following Mr. Bispham's programs note for note—we may start with the assertion that no better equipped singer has ever been heard in Australia. It sounds a large order, but we mean what we say. And it is said not upon hearsay, but upon the evidence of our own personal senses. Even the editorial 'we' has its senses, and 'our' auditorial senses are hereby called in as evidence in favor of Mr. Bispham's claim; a claim, be it noted, which he did not make himself, but which we hereby make on his behalf. Our reasons for making this claim are that he is the possessor of a fine voice which is under the most perfect control: that he pronounces every syllable in singing as distinctly as it would be possible to pronounce it in speaking: that he is in sympathy with every song he sings: and that—largely in consequence of these matters—he gains the sympathy of his audience.

"We may get still further down to 'particulars.' For Mr. Bispham is the lucky possessor of a voice—it is said to be a baritone! it has a compass of well over two octaves, and in our own judgment is a 'basso cantante;' it is clear and resonant right down to its lowest depth, and never comes near being offensive in its highest falsetto. To hear Mr. Bispham sing 'The Two Grenadiers' is like a liberal education—in a musical sense. When he cries out—

'Rattle his bones over the stones,
He's only a pauper whom nobody owns,'

you almost wonder why somebody doesn't cut the throat of George V. and install O'Malley king, with Mr. Bispham as grand vizier.

"Yet he, too, can modulate his voice: he is not always 'in 'Ercles vein.' In fact the perfect control under which he keeps that magnificent organ of his constitutes one of his chief claims on our recognition. 'O Ruddier Than the Cherry' is assuredly not 'in that vein'; but it has seldom been heard to such perfection. So, too, with Gounod's passionate setting of Byron's 'Maid of Athens;' the accents of the heart-broken lover were there; but never at any sacrifice of simplicity. We forebear further details. Whatever he has done, he has done well: the man is a fine artist, well-trained in his craft."

———♯♯♯———

KNOX CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC GALESBURG, ILL.

The fall semester of Knox Conservatory of Music opened September 16, with a fine enrollment. The average registration of 300 is expected, and the faculty of ten professors will be kept busy.

There has been some change in the faculty for the coming year. A pupil of Harry Dimond, Mr. Henry H. Busse, has been secured to take charge of the violin department, and Miss Josephine Mizer, a graduate of the Columbia School of Music under Mr. Holt, has taken her place as one of our voice teachers; also one of our own graduates, Miss Martha Campbell, will assist as teacher in the piano and organ departments.

The concerts and recitals here have not yet begun, but the following artists will appear in the artists' course in the conservatory: The Zoellner String Quartet, Enrico Palmetto, in song recital with Martin Bruhl as accompanist, and Thuel Burnham, pianist.

The Galesburg Musical Union under the direction of Wm. F. Bentley begin rehearsals early in October and the season will undoubtedly be crowded full as there is a great deal of interest in things musical here in our little city of Galesburg.

JENNIE F. W. JOHNSON

CONTRALTO

HAS SUNG WITH

The Handel and Haydn Society ..... Boston
The Harmonic Club ..... Cleveland
The Arion Musical Society ..... Milwaukee
The Choral Club ..... Duluth

HAS THE FOLLOWING ENGAGEMENTS

Streator, Ill., Elks Club ..... Oct. 21, 1913
South Bend, Ind., Recital ..... Oct. 27, 1913
Ripon, Wisconsin, Recital, College ..... Nov. 7, 1913
Gary, Ind., Orpheus Club ..... Nov. 10, 1913
Evanston, Ill., Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs, November 13, 1913
Chicago, Ill., Bach Choral Society ..... Nov. 19, 1913
Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Sing Verein ..... Nov. 24, 1913
Max Bruch's "Odyssens"

EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT

FANNIE E. WARREN

KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO, ILL.

Ralph Brokaw
VIOLINIST

Florence Young-Brokaw
PIANIST

Available for Joint Recitals

COMMENTS

Galesburg, Ill., Register: Opened Artists Course. . . . Displayed artistic skill. Conscientious intrepretation; precise technic.

Wichita, Kans., Beacon: Mr. Brokaw selected as soloist at the Forum, was successful before an audience of 7,000. The Paganini, Mendelssohn and Vieuxtemps concertos have been presented by him in Wichita, besides a large list of concerted numbers.

Des Moines Musical Herald: Her solo work showed ample technic and sympathetic treatment.

Marion, Ind., News Tribune: Ralph Brokaw, soloist, Philharmonic Orchestra, held the audience spellbound.

Canton, Ill., Herald: As a violinist he is a master, as is Mrs. Brokaw as a pianist.

Anthony, Kansas, Bulletin: All musicians present unanimous in declaring Mr. Brokaw the best violinist ever heard in Anthony.

Musical Standard, Chicago: A talented pianist, doing exceptional work.

Alva, Okla., News: A violinist of the highest order. Mrs. Brokaw a pianist who excels.

Lindsborg, Kans., News: They were excellent.

Thomas, Okla., Tribune: Mr. Brokaw is far above the ordinary. Both are exceptional artists in every sense of the word.

Mitchell, S. Dak., Republican: He charmed the audience with Vieuxtemps Fantasie appassionata. Mrs. Brokaw showed admirable technique and both scored successes.

Endorsed by Leading Musicians of the Country; Circulars, Press Comments, Credentials and Programs Submitted

Direction Briggs Musical Bureau

or Apply Direct to RALPH BROKAW
WICHITA, KANSAS

GRACE HALL RIHELDAFFER

The accompanying group is one which was taken at "The Jungle," the home of Mrs. Eberhart in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Reading from left to right the artists are Mrs. Grace Hall Riheldaffer, Pittsburgh, soprano; Marie Dennison Gailey, violinist; Carl Bernthaler, conductor, Pittburgh Orchestra and Nelle Richmond Eberhart, who writes the lyrics for the songs of Charles Wakefield Cadman, which Mrs. Riheldaffer is so fond of singing.

During the summer Mrs. Riheldaffer and Mrs. Gailey have made a very extended Chautauqua tour and during November and December they will cover the Southern States with Thomas W. Musgrove (formerly accompanist for Maud Powell), assisting them.

In February and March, a second tour will be undertaken which will include two concerts at Havana, Cuba.

GRACE HALL RIHELDAFFER AND FRIENDS.

"THE MESSIAH".....Handel
Monday Night, December 29, 1913—Orchestra Hall
Friday Night, January 2, 1914—Auditorium Theater.
Soloists—
Mme. Mabel Sharp Herdien, Soprano
Mme. Rose Lutiger Gannon, Contralto
Mr. Reed Miller, Tenor
Mr. Arthur Middleton, Bass

"THE MUSIC MAKERS".....Elgar
"STABAT MATER".....Dvorak
Monday Night, February 23, 1914—Orchestra Hall
Soloists—
Miss Leonora Allen, Soprano
Miss Mildred Potter, Contralto
Mr. George Harris, Jr., Tenor
Mr. Gustaf Holmquist, Bass
"MASS IN B MINOR".....Bach
Monday Night, April 6, 1914—Orchestra Hall
Soloists—
Mme. Edith Chapman Goold, Soprano
Miss Christine Miller, Contralto
Mr. Nicholas Douty, Tenor
Mr. Horatio Connell, Bass

THE CHICAGO APOLLO CLUB

Music News has already this fall given a detail of the work of the Apollo Club for the coming season which shows conclusively that this famous organization will be very much to the front throughout the winter.

The concerts will be given, as usual, in The Auditorium under the direction of Mr. Harrison Wild and with the entire Theodore Thomas Orchestra furnishing the accompaniments, reinforced by Mr. Edgar Nelson at the organ.

On November 9 "The Creation" will be given with Miss Florence Hinkle, Mr. Morgan Kingston and Mr. Herbert Witherspoon as soloists and on November 17 "Elijah" will be heard with Miss Rosalie Wirthlin in addition to the above singers. These two concerts are "Extras."

The works to be sung and the soloists in the regular season are again given here as a matter of future reference.

H. B. BARTHOLOMEW

Mr. H. B. Bartholomew has opened his Kimball Hall studio with a much larger enrollment than any previous year. The season promises to be an unusually busy one; in addition to his large class Mr. Bartholomew has a number of recital dates already booked, among them being, Batavia Woman's Club, October 6; Congregational Society, Geneva, November 5; recitals at Dewitt, Iowa, Davenport and Lake Geneva, Wis.; return date, Batavia Woman's Club, January 6.

CHARLES E. LUTTON

Charles E. Lutton, baritone, has many concert engagements for the coming season and has just been elected a member of the faculty of the North Park College, where he will have charge of the vocal department.

Mr. Lutton has made a signal success of the music department of the Clark Teachers' Agency which he has managed for the past season.

OVIDE MUSIN'S Virtuoso School of Violin

Acknowledged the LEADING School of Violin in the United States and Canada

INSTRUCTION by this WORLD RENOWNED Virtuoso in PERSON, in true classic traditions of the Masters Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, Mendelssohn, and Italian classics, which were handed down to Musin's predecessors by these great Masters. He is the ONLY AUTHORITY IN THIS COUNTRY who teaches the correct interpretations of the modern classic repertory, Wieniawski, Vieuxtemps, Max Bruch, Brahms, Lalo, Saint-Saens, etc., with whom Musin was closely associated in his early career and whose works he many times played for the composers themselves.

Musin's School is open throughout the year and during June, July, and August. Soloists and Teachers will enjoy the great advantage of repertory work with this MASTER, and of learning MUSIN'S METHOD, which greatly lessens the time ordinarily required to master technic and control of the BOW. This method became celebrated through MUSIN'S SUCCESS at the Royal Conservatory of Liege, where he turned out many young artists who took the best positions in EUROPE. AMERICAN VIOLINISTS who study with MUSIN need not fear criticism when appearing in European Concerts, as Musin is an AUTHORITY. SEND for Circular about the SUMMER TERM FOR TEACHERS, also for literature re Musin's Lessons BY CORRESPONDENCE, and Thematic List of new music composed and edited by Ovide Musin. Beautiful, effective.

Voice Department under Mme. Ovide Musin (Annie Louise Tanner). Piano Department under Mme. Delhaze Wickes. Solfeggio, Harmony, Science of Music under Prof. Edward Kilenyi.

OVIDE MUSIN'S VIRTUOSO SCHOOL OF VIOLIN 51 W. 76th St., Dept. L., New York City

ORGAN MUSIC IN AMERICA

BY WILLIAM C. CARL, MUS. DOC., DIRECTOR OF THE GUILMANT ORGAN SCHOOL NEW YORK

The activity of organists and organ students in the United States of America today is without parallel in any part of the world. Where can one have the opportunity of attending from six to eight organ recitals in a single week and not only one but for several weeks in succession during the musical season in the city of New York.

It is a remarkable achievement and deserves more than passing notice. The American public is fond of organ music. This has been proven over and again. Until within a few years the organ was considered to be intended solely for the church service. We now find the instrument in our concert and municipal halls, theaters, hotels, department stores, and still nearer, in many private residences from Maine to California.

Many of our millionaires have their private organists and we can also boast of several city organists, all of whom are doing splendid work, and their frequent recitals attract enormous audiences.

Our builders are vying with each other in the endeavor to more and more perfect their instruments, and to add improvements calculated to meet the growing demands of the day. American composers are rapidly coming to the front, and making a name that will endure for all time.

Europe is beginning to wake up and take notice of us, and well they may, for one finds no such demand for the organ or organ music in the old world today. England, for instace can boast of many great organs, in the cathedral and concert halls, so can France. Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Hungary, Spain, Italy and Russia have less but in many instances fine organs. When can you hear them? On the Continent rarely outside of the regular church services, with the exception of Switzerland, where a large number are played during the summer season for the tourists. England and France have more, but although many of the world's greatest artists are there, the opportunity of hearing them at frequent intervals during the week is not as great as here. The number of organ students in America at the present time is legion and many possess talent of no mean order. It should not be inferred that New York City is the only place to hear recitals, but in all our large cities, and as well in numerous towns throughout the country the demand is growing, and both resident as well as visiting organists are being heard. I have often observed in small towns, and remote cities that a Bach Fuge would be the "piece de resistance," and the only number encored during the course of a recital. This speaks well for the intelligence and musical taste so rapidly being developed by the concert going public.

Volumes could be written about the musical services in our churches. Organ recitals to precede the evening service, are common occurrences. Oratorios and cantatas follow each other in bewildering succession. During the height of the season in New York one has the opportunity of hearing selections from a dozen oratorios in a single Sunday! Often the entire work is sung and with an orchestra in addition to the organ. What an advantage to the organ student. It means much for the future development of music in our land, and makes one proud to be a part of it.

With the approach of each season, new demands are made upon the organist. It is commonly supposed by the general public that the work consists in the playing of two routine services, and a rehearsal during the week. What a difference are the conditions today. An organist should be a man of broad culture, one that can play a good service, conduct either a quartet, a mixed chorus or boy choir. Then he must be competent to conduct and accompany the standard oratorios and cantatas from the organ bench, play an acceptable organ recital, be a good disciplinarian, competent to select voices and be constantly on the alert to arrange music that will be appropriate, not only for the festivals but for the regular weekly work. He must be familiar with the liturgical forms of church music and should know more than one service. The machinery necessary to keep a choir in working order today requires a level head, and much time and care expended, making it more necessary for an all round education than ever before.

The Guilmant Organ School which reopens Tuesday, October 7, was organized fifteen years ago under the presidency of the late Alexandre Guilmant, organist of Trinity Church, Paris, and with Sir Frederick Bridge, organist of Westminster Abbey, the late Dr. Edmund Turpin, head of Trinity College, London, and other distinguished artists as vice presidents to meet these needs. The course of study is planned to meet the most exacting demands of the present day. The head of the school, Dr. William C. Carl, who has just returned from Paris, is the director and master of the organ. The faculty includes Clement R. Gale, Mus. Bac. Oxon. (of the General Theological Seminary of the Episcopal Church) head of the theory department; Warren R. Hedden, Mus. Bac. F. A. G. O., for many years organist of the Church of the Incarnation, musical dictation and keyboard work, modulation, harmonization, etc.; Howard Duffield, D. D., liturgical and ecclesiastical forms of church music, hymnology, etc.; Thomas Whitney Surette, musical form; Charles Schlette, organ tuning; Lewis Odell, organ construction, and corps of assistants.

The Guilmant school has always given especial attention to the liturgical forms, the Episcopal and other services, the training of boys' voices and mixed choir.

Students' recitals are given at frequent intervals, and this season historical recitals will be featured as well as conducting, the accompanying of the oratorios, and how to arrange musical services.

MABEL WOODWORTH

Miss Mabel Woodworth, violinist, has begun her teaching season with the largest class she has yet taught, at the American Conservatory, and her engagements for concert appearance are already numerous.

During the past few weeks she has been busy with semi-social affairs and has played at two elaborate weddings, one on the south side and the other in Oak Park. She will appear before the Amateur Musical club in one of the early programs of the season and early in November plays a program jointly with Edgar Nelson and Helen Bright-Bengel at the State Normal College at Normal, Ill.

THE supremacy of MAUD POWELL among violinists is evidenced by her appearance, as soloist with all the great orchestras and leading musical organizations oftener than any other artist before the public.

Re-engagements are the test.

It has been said truly: "MAUD POWELL stands today not only the greatest American musical artist, but also the most vitally interesting figure in the Violin World."

EFFIE E.

MURDOCK

Organ and Piano

American Conservatory
Kimball Hall, Chicago

Residence—6122 Woodlawn Av.
Telephone—Midway 1692

Music Lovers

will be interested in learning that there are

SIX NEW COMPOSITIONS
FOR PIANO
By Albert Küssner

Composer of "Moon Moths," "The Evening Hour," "Memories," "Hesitation," &c.

A Complete Thematic Catalogue of "Editions Küssner" sent upon request.

L. C. KÜSSNER, Publisher — Lincoln Park Station, CHICAGO, ILL.

THE CHICAGO MADRIGAL CLUB

A CHORAL SOCIETY WITH AN ENDOWMENT

It is not generally known that Chicago has perhaps the only endowed choral society in the country. While the city has been busy housing its orchestra and financing its grand opera, the Chicago Madrigal Club, without noise or public disturbance of any kind has gone about the business of laying a foundation for its future existence. The plan and the successful manner in which it has been carried out should be a source of satisfaction not only to the club but to the city at large, which beileves in carrying things to successful issues.

D. A. CLIPPINGER

The Chicago Madrigal Club was organized in 1900 by D. A. Clippinger for the purpose of producing the best ancient and modern a Cappella music. Mr. Clippinger has been musical director of the club since its organization, and has attended every rehearsal in the more than twelve years of the club's existence.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Endowment

Early in the history of the club Mr. Clippinger conceived the idea of developing a Cappella writing in America and to that end established an annual prize competition open to all composers residing in the United States. For the first two years the club paid the prize. Then a friend was found in the W. W. Kimball Company. This company, which has always supported every right musical activity, saw the effect these competitions must have on American music, and settled upon the club the sum of one hundred dollars per year, to be paid to the prize winner. Since that time the competitions have been for the W. W. Kimball Company prize of $100. American composers have taken a lively interest in these competitions and every year manuscripts are received from all parts of the United States.

These prize winning compositions become the property of the Chicago Madrigal Club. They are published on royalty and the royalty contracts are made with the Chicago Madrigal Club. On each of these compositions the club will draw royalties for fifty years. Each year adds one to the list and in this way it is building an endowment which increases year by year and insures the future existence of the organization.

For a number of years the competitors have been held strictly to the Madrigal form and the prize winners compare favorably with the best Madrigals of all ages. The prize Madrigal is sung each year at the second concert of the club's series. Thus the composer, in addition to winning the prize, has his composition produced under the most favorable conditions.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Prize Winners

Those winning the prize to date are Arthur Dunham, Chicago; Carl Busch, Kansas City, Mo., (twice); John Hyatt Brewer, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Franz Bornschein, Baltimore, Md.; Dr. H. J. Stewart, San Francisco, Cal.; Charles F. Bochau, Baltimore, Md.; Will C. MacFarlane, New York; Louis Victor Saar, Cincinnati, Ohio.

HORATIO CONNELL

Bass-Baritone

IMPORTANT ENGAGEMENTS FOR COMING SEASON

November 25, 1913 - Recital, Aeolian Hall, New York
January 8, 1914 - Buffalo, New York Symphony Orchestra, 'Elijah."
January 9-10, 1914 - Philadelphia Orchestra Symphony Concerts (Re-engagement).
February 3, 4, 5, 1914 - Toronto, Mendelssohn Choir Festival, Wolf-Ferrari's "New Life." Saint-Saens' The Promised Land," Coleridge-Taylor "A Tale of Old Japan."
March 13-14, 1914 - Philadelphia Orchestra, Ninth Symphony.
April 6, 1914 - - Chicago Apollo Club, Bach B Minor Mass.
April 10, 1914 - - Boston, St. Cecilia Society, Bach's Passion Music.

Exclusive Management, HAENSEL & JONES, Aeolian Hall, New York

Compositions Dedicated to the Club

The following have written and dedicated compositions to the club: F. W. Root, Adolf Weidig, Rossetter G. Cole, Arthur Olaf Andersen, Mrs. E. L. Ashford, Franz C. Bornschein, J. S. Fearis, George B. Nevin. Daniel Protheroe, Arthur Foote, Arthur Dunham.

♮ ♮ ♮

Club Membership

The active membership of the Chicago Madrigal Club consists of sixty voices, male and female, and are all singers who have had ample training and experience. One of the conditions of membership is that the applicant must be an acceptable soloist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Concerts

The regular concerts of the club are given to its associate members. Associate members are those who buy season tickets. No seats for single concerts are sold. The club has made four concert tours through Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, South Dakota, Kansas, Oklahoma and Michigan. Everywhere it has sung to large audiences and created much enthusiasm. At the present time it has given about 100 concerts. This concert work has developed a club spirit that is quite unusual. Rarely is there found so congenial a company of singers, and the comment is frequently heard, that they sing as if they enjoyed it. The club's programs are made up of the best music of all ages. Each program contains a number of the old masterpieces of writing dating from the fifteenth to the seventeenth centuries, as well as those of modern times. Many of these compositions new and old receive their first western presentation by the Chicago Madrigal Club.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Library

During the twelve years of its existence the club has laid the foundation of a splendid library. During Mr. Clippinger's trips abroad he has searched the catalogs of the large European publishing houses and the result is a collection, especially of old music, that will be a valuable reference library in the future.

Results

Two things enter into successful a Cappella singing: the intelligence of the membership and the ability of the director. Of the membership mention has already been made. Of the director it must be said that to organize and hold the respect of a body of singers such as the Madrigal Club requires musicianship of no mean order. Mr. Clippinger's discipline at rehearsals is almost military. There is no nonsense at a Madrigal club rehearsal. His instructions are short and to the point. He wastes no time, and the evening is filled with results.

A Cappella singing is largely a matter of detail. It is a constant refining process. Here Mr. Clippinger's intimate knowledge of the voice is of the greatest advantage He is as careful and exacting in the matter of tone quality, intonation and diction as if he were giving a private lesson. Thus his twelve years of work has resulted in building up a choir which is one of the best the country has ever produced.

Last May Mr. Adolf Weidig, then president of the I. M. T. A., engaged the club for one of the evening concerts of the annual convention at Bloomington. Mr. Walter Spry. writing of this concert in the Bloomington Pantagraph said:

"A high water mark was reached by the Madrigal Club of Chicago at its concert last evening before the convention of Illinois music teachers in this city. The audience was properly prepared to listen to the program by a short lecture by the leader of the club, Mr. D. A. Clippinger, of Chicago. He interspersed interesting historical facts with witty remarks, which brought to the minds of the hearers the character of the music to be given.

"A Cappella music, or music for unaccompanied chorus, is often more or less a bore, for there is often a lack of tonal variety. But there was no such lack in the Madrigal Club. The leader has his forces under perfect control, and they respond to his every wish.

"The program opened with some ancient music of a churchly nature and was sung in the dignified way it should be given.

"The second number brought some delightful Madrigals, also of ancient composers, the gem being 'Matona, Lovely Maiden' by Lassus. The arrangement by R. G. Cole of the English air 'Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes,' was especially appreciated by the audience.

"As the concert proceeded, the enthusiasm grew, and several recalls were asked and granted, notably Weidig's 'The Bubble.'

"The club is well balanced, although the basses are particularly sonorous and rich in quality. Mr. Clippinger has evidently given much time and thought to the training of the singers, and he should feel well repaid, for the Madrigal Club is without doubt one of the best societies of its kind in the whole country."

♮ ♮ ♮

Extension Work

Believing in the benefit of its programs to the cause of choral singing the club began some years ago to arrange with communities in and about Chicago to have one of its concerts each year. This has grown until the present year it will give about a dozen concerts in addition to its regular Chicago series.

♮ ♮ ♮

Conclusion

At present the Chicago Madrigal Club is not asking for large donations of money, but it will appreciate the donation of manuscript compositions which are suitable for its programs. It cordially invites all lovers of a Cappella singing to become its associate members, and all who have good voices to try for active membership.

♯♯♯

ALICE R. DEAL

Miss Alice R. Deal, who has served as organist and director of choir for fifteen years at Leavitt Street Congregational Church is thoroughly prepared to fill engagements for organ recitals, having through her long study witth Harrison M. Wild acquired a large repertoire of the best in organ compositions to draw from. She has also through her versatility as a musician, made it possible to accept engagements as an accompanist for singers and choral organizations.

Miss Deal is serving her second term as secretary of the Illinois Chapter of A. G. O. and her first term as state president of the N. A. O.

Sofia Stephali
SOPRANO

RECENT PRESS COMMENT

"A large and appreciative audience enjoyed last evening, the program of the noted vocalist, Mme. Sofia Stephali, who gave a fine concert. She is a singer and speaker of rare ability. The subject upon which she lectured was an interesting one, and her singing proved a rare treat. Her audience was carried away by her voice."—The Observer (Dunkirk.)

"Sofia Stephali gave a final concert lecture last evening which was well attended and proved most pleasing to an appreciative audience. It was a delightful affair. Stephali is a charming entertainer, and has the power to hold her audiences enthralled every minute.

"Since earliest childhood she has been a singer and a lover of music."—Binghamton Republican.

"The Stephali lecture-recital was enjoyed last evening, by a large audience. Her voice was in wonderful condition, and she was much appreciated. Her splendid lecture aroused much interest and she thrilled her auditors with her rich, artistic mezzo soprano voice. She is a singer of rare ability, and her program charmed her hearers and proved a musical treat."—The State (Columbia, S. C.)

"A large audience was entertained last night by a charming songstress, Mme. Sofia Stephali, in an elaborate program. The noted singer delighted her audience, and scored a decided success. She is a highly talented musician, and the evening proved one of rare pleasure to music lovers."—Durham (N. C.) Sun.

"The noted mezzo-soprano, Sofia Stephali, pleased an enthusiastic crowd last evening, in a program which gave a fine conception of the hidden beauties of music. Her work proved entertaining and instructive.

"All in all, it was a beautiful program that scored a great triumph for the soloist."—The Star, (Wilmington, N. C.)

"A delighted and appreciative audience listened last night to an attractive program by Sofia Stephali, and gave her hearty applause throughout the evening. This, the first of the series, was much enjoyed, and the pleasing singing of the prima donna, together with the hearty reception given her bespeaks for her two remaining concert-lectures a large attendance."—The Meriden (N. H.) Journal.

"The delightful concert-lecture by Sofia Stephali attracted a large audience last evening, and proved a most interesting event. The well-known vocalist captivated and delighted her audience from the start, not only by her singing, but by her charming lecture."—The Raleigh (N. C.) Times.

"Sofia Stephali rendered last evening an interesting program that proved a great success, and a genuine treat for our people. It was well patronized and thoroughly enjoyed by an appreciative audience.

"The artist first pleased, by an interesting address which appealed in addition to her superb singing.

"Her voice is a wonderful mezzo-soprano and her marked versatility was a surprise to her listeners."—Danville (Va.) Register.

"Mme. Sofia Stephali, the famous singer, gave a concert-lecture last evening that proved to be an entertainment high in quality and unique in character, and pleased a critical audience. She well portrayed in her singing the 'influence of music.' Her interpretations of old and new songs were heard with delight. This talented singer and lecturer comes from a musical family. She is thoroughly enveloped in her art and the first of the series will no doubt attract large audiences to attend the two remaining recitals."—Easton (Pa.) Press.

"The noted musician, Sofia Stephali has just closed a concert-lecture of rare merit. Her work won the praise of a good sized audience. Her lecture was very entertaining and her singing greatly enjoyed. She won many plaudits for her work. Stephali is a wonderful singer and she moved her audience, wooing first tears and then smiles. Each occasion has proved very enjoyable, and Mme. Stephali may be sure of a capacity house, should she visit this city again."—New Bedford (Mass.) Mercury.

"The Stephali concert-lectures now being given in the city are proving interesting and highly enjoyable. This noted musician is pleasing large and enthusiastic audiences."—Greensboro (N. C.) News.

MANAGEMENT

The MUSICAL BUREAU FOR AMERICAN ARTISTS

SIDNEY SILBER AND THE INDIANS

On his recent trip through the West, Mr. Sidney Silber sent Music News a snap shot of himself with a group of Indians, which is herewith reproduced.

SIDNEY SILBER AND THE INDIANS

These Indians are lineal descendants of the Pueblos, the ancient cliff dwellers, and they entertained Mr. Silber very highly with their characteristic dancing.

———♯♯♯———

ANOTHER PROFESSIONAL MISHAP!

"To have an inquisitive fly set forth on an exploring expedition down one's throat, just as he is about to electrify the audience with a thrilling top note is something calculated to disturb his equanimity," said Charles W. Clark after reading the story of George Hamlin and the fly. "But George was not the only worried artist at that festival. I, too, was the victim of a mishap and I thought I was going to lose something more than a top note.

"It was a terribly hot evening in June (that sounds like the opening line of a romance, but this was no romance). The hall was packed with a perspiring multitude and a chorus of three hundred, also warm. I was wearing something more of a rotunda then, and that night, with my person encased in a dress suit that had ceased to be comfortable the year before, I am sure that I was the hottest baritone in the world.

"The committee had made the customary arrangements and each artist was supplied with a lovely soft pine kitchen chair. The one I drew had been in a railroad wreck or an explosion at some time in its career and had been carefully repaired with the very best glue obtainable. But there are some things that even the best glue cannot withstand. Either the heat or the touching music melted that glue and it took part in the entertainment more effectively than anything on the program.

"About the middle of the oratorio there was a long chorus and immediately after the chorus came my big solo. Consequently I sat calmly in my chair and fanned myself with a program until the chorus was seated. Then the trouble began. As I started to rise I felt myself firmly held in place by an invisible power. Somewhat peeved, I made a quick start and my peevish feelings turned to anxiety when I heard an omnious sound as of something tearing. The affair was growing serious and I began to curse my tailor. Naturally I was apprehensive of the outcome of this excitement, especially as the orchestra was playing the introduction to my song and the chorus and some of the audience had begun to appreciate the awkwardness of my position. To add to my discomfort Mr. Hamlin leaned over and said, "Make a sudden jump, Charlie, and hold the chair down with your hand." That was unkind. If his trousers had been at stake he would not have been so reckless.

"Something had to be done in a hurry though, so at the risk of my life (?) I set my teeth and commenced to slowly break the attachment that had sprung up between me and the chair. Needless to say I was more or less flustered when I began to sing but considering the circumstances I was satisfied with my fortune and not many in the audience knew what a narrow escape there had been from a grim tragedy.

"Those of my friends who have heard the story of that festival refer to the baseball evening when George Hamlin caught a fly in spite of himself and Clark was stuck on first base and saved the game only by a sacrifice play. But in spite of the funny side, it was no picnic for me at the time and ever since I have always examined the chair carefully before the concert especially if the evening promises to be a hot one."

MARGARET
Soprano

LESTER

WILLIAM
Composer

JOINT RECITALS PUPILS ACCEPTED

"Margaret Lester added another success to her long list last night with her magnetic personality and her unusually beautiful soprano voice, flexible, pure and sweet, and possessing a full round tone. She was accompanied by her husband, an accompanist and composer who, although young, has already won an enviable place for himself among the musical public of America."—The News, Hutchinson, Kas., April 16, 1913.

"Mrs. Lester made instant appeal in her first group of German songs. Mrs. Lester has a voice of great beauty, added to which is a range little less than remarkable. Her work is artistic to the last pronouncement, as was particularly seen in her group of French songs. Of her English songs, perhaps the best liked were the two Lester songs, 'To Music' and 'Song of Proserpine.' Mr. Lester's accompaniments were ideal."—Gary Tribune, Gary, Ind., April 28, 1913.

"Miss Smith (Mrs. Lester) despite great charm of manner and attractiveness of person succeeds in almost eliminating herself except as a medium for song, so unconscious and unaffected is she. Her voice is a clear, rich soprano, well developed in every tone of an unusual range. . . She sang with an ease and finish that brought out new beauty in the familiar songs of Schumann. . . She was received with enthusiasm."—Constitution-Democrat, Keokuk, Iowa, September 3, 1912.

"Mr. Lester played the piano works with fine charm, and in the accompaniments was, as always, incomparable."—Music News, August 2, 1912.

"Mr. Lester, a uniquely musical figure in Chicago's growing colony, is modern to the limit; and yet he is intensely musical and so consummately artistic that every audience likes what he plays, especially because of the way in which he plays it."—Music News, December 6, 1912.

NEW COMPOSITIONS BY WILLIAM LESTER

"Singers who bewail the dearth of really good English songs, will do well to become acquainted with the compositions of this young American composer."—Musical Courier, July 16, 1913.

"The songs are brimming full of ideas, which makes them decidedly effective."—Musical America, September 7, 1912.

"The song literature composed by Mr. Lester is full of expression, and one readily finds in the music a depth of sincerity, spontaneous melody and originality."—Musical Leader, February 29, 1912.

"The work of the composer shows remarkable and distinctive talent and the public should be given more opportunity to hear these beautiful songs."—Western Musical Herald, September, 1912.

"Many of the songs are so beautiful and strong that all serious artists should welcome the day when they will be made more widely available through publication."—Music News, May 10, 1912.

SONGS

As a Perfume Doth Remain (high and low voice)	$ .50
To Phillis (high and low voice)	.50
Echo (high and low voice)	.50
Compensation (high and low voice)	.50
Apple Blossoms (high and low voice)	in press
Remembrance (high and low voice)	in press
My Rose	in press
A Dirge (low voice)	in press

Published by G. Schirmer, New York

Evening Hymn (medium voice) sacred	in press
My Prayer (medium voice) sacred	in press

Published by Clayton F. Summy Co., Chicago

Hushabye, My Baby (low voice)	.50
Rockabye Town (low voice)	.50
Just as I Am (high voice) sacred	.60

(The above poems by Mary Louise Dawson)

"To Music" and "Song of Proserpine" (high voice)	.60

Published by the Studio Publishing Co., Chicago

CHORAL NUMBERS, ETC.

Under the Rose (mixed voices)	.10c
Home (mixed voices)	.10c

Published by The White-Smith Music Publishing Co., Boston

In the Quiet Hours with Jesus (duet) sacred	.60
Abide with Me (mixed voices) sacred	.10c

Published by the Studio Publishing Co., Chicago

Phyllis and Damon (women's voices)	in press
The Tryst (women's voices)	in press
The Lord Is in His Holy Temple (mixed voices)	in press
The Way of Righteousness (trio for soprano, alto and tenor)	in press
O Mistress Mine (male voices)	in press
If She Be Made of White or Red (male voices)	in press
Come unto These Yellow Sands (male voices)	in press

Published by G. Schirmer, New York

For Concert Dates and terms Address

Telephone Harrison 6880 608 Fine Arts Building

SEASON 1913-14

John McCormack
CELEBRATED IRISH TENOR
Greatest Voice since Jenny Lind

Alice Nielsen
PRIMA DONNA SOPRANO
The most successful American Concert Singer

Riccardo Martin
TENOR
Of the Metropolitan Opera Co.

Yolanda Mero
HUNGARIAN PIANIST

☞THESE FOUR ARTISTS AND NO MORE

Special Season of 1914-15

RUDOLPH GANZ
Swiss Pianist, 100 Nights

YVETTE GUILBERT
The Great Parisian Artist
(In connection with R E. Johnston)

Exclusive Management of above Artists—
Charles L. Wagner, 1451 Broadway, New York

Louise St. John Westervelt
SOPRANO

Director
Columbia School Chorus, Chicago
Harmonie Chorus, Davenport, Iowa

PUPILS ACCEPTED

Miss Westervelt is available for Concert - Recital - Oratorio

ANNUAL RECITAL
FINE ARTS THEATER
Sunday afternoon, November 16

Address:—509 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago

MADAME PEOCOCK'S SEASON

Eleanor Hazzard Peocock, the American soprano who recently returned from Europe, is planning for a busy concert season in America. Madame Peocock is a unique artist whose serious programs have stood the test of critical Europe. Aside from this she has been able to repeat her appearances and give a children's program in which she has won the same high distinction as in her serious work.

ELEANOR HAZZARD PEOCOCK
In Child Impersonation

Madame Peocock made her Berlin, London and Paris appearances on the merit of her work and without any unusual exploiting, yet she succeeded in winning the admiration of the critics and musical public to an unusual degree. Her American tour will be under the joint direction of Antonia Sawyer, of New York, and James E. Devoe, of Detroit, Mich. Mr. Devoe will look after Madame Peocock's interests west of Buffalo.

One of Mme. Peocock's foreign notices reads as follows:

Madame Hazzard Peocock, an American vocalist of wide reputation, is one of the marvelous few who can bridge the years separating the adult from the child. It was in the skillful mingling of smiles and tears that Madame Peocock showed her great art.—Daily Citizen, London, England. (Advertisement).

RENE S. LUND

Mr. Lund's second appearance in song recital was made at the Whitney Opera House Wednesday evening, April 16, 1913, the critics commenting on his work as follows:

Mr. Lund disclosed the possession of a pleasant baritone voice. He has a fine understanding of the demands of varied style, a clean cut enunciation and the power to present his intentions clearly.

Further Mr. Lund has the courage to sing only in the language of the country and to represent native song generously and importantly in arranging his program. For the choice and the intelligent presentation of three difficult songs by Eleanor Everest Freer he deserves especial commendation. With two of these, "Old Love Song" and "Of the Need of Drinking," he was notably successful. An aria from "The Seasons," Mendelssohn's "When Through the Piazetta," and Tschaikowsky's "Pilgrim's Song" likewise must be chronicled among the successes of the evening.—Glenn Dillard Gunn, Chicago Daily Tribune.

Rene S. Lund appeared in song recital last night, disclosing a beautiful baritone voice and considerable artistic taste in his performance.—Edward C. Moore, Chicago Evening Journal.—(Advertisement).

MAXIMILIAN PILZER

Maximilian Pilzer, the young American violinist, has been secured to appear with Mme. Melba in her first two recitals, Montreal and Toronto. Mr. Pilzer will take the place of Jan Kubelik, the famous Hungarian artist, who will tour with Mme. Melba this season.

Mr. Pilzer has won a great deal of success in the east, his recitals always being well attended, and he is gradually becoming one of the best concert violinists of the day. This young artist has a wide repertoire and has also composed several excellent compositions for the violin.

This season Mr. Pilzer will make an extended tour through the south and west. He has been booked for several of the large music centers. During the season he will give his annual recital in Carnegie Hall. This recital has for a number of years been classed with the best violin recitals in the metropolis.

HARRY R. MURRISON

Harry R. Murrison is proving himself to be one of the most popular of the oratorio bass-baritones. Mr. Frederick V. Evans, Lawrence College Conservatory, Appleton, Wis., has this to say of his work:

"Mr. Murrison's voice is a big, sonorous, well controlled bass-baritone. His musicianship and artistry are very marked and clear in their evidences of a splendid innate ability. As an oratorio singer I consider him as one of the topliners of the younger singers of the country."

HARRY R. MURRISON

Mr. Murrison has sung under Mr. Evans' baton the following performances: "Messiah," five times; "The Creation," three times; and four miscellaneous concerts in four consecutive seasons.

MAC BURNEY STUDIOS

608-609 Fine Arts Building, Chicago

Thomas Noble Mac Burney

Voice Development and those Correlative Studies essential to the best development of the Singer

Artists furnished in special or general programs for Club and Drawing Room Recitals

Telephone Harrison 6880

Walter Spry Music School

WALTER SPRY, DIRECTOR

SUITE 625, FINE ARTS BUILDING
CHICAGO

One of the strongest organizations with one of the most distinguished faculties in America.

FACULTY

Piano—
Walter Spry — Edna H. Fike
Wilmot Lemont — Elizabeth Parker
Eva M. Leslie — Clinton Fahrney
Jessie E. Sage — Edna M. Bryan
Florence P. Ray — Ida May Cook

Voice—William Beard, Mrs. Clarence Eddy, Bertha Smith-Titus, Bertha M. Kaderly, Lola M. Buckingham.
Violin—Alexander Krauss, George E. Colburn.
Violoncello—Carl Klammsteiner.
Organ—Clarence Eddy, Wilmot Lemont.
Normal Classes in Faelten System—Wilmot Lemont.
Harmony, Counterpoint and Composition—George E. Colburn.
Opera—Bertha Smith-Titus.
History and Interpretation Classes—Walter Spry.
Ensemble — Wilmot Lemont, Alexander Krauss.
Public School Music—William ApMadoc.
Expression—Cora Linn Piggot, Edna Gnaedinger.
Languages—French, Leon Aubel; German, Matilda Klemm.

Fall Term begins this week.
Pupils may enter at any time

FREE ADVANTAGES

Sight Reading Classes for Singers—Preparatory Classes for Opera Study—Children's Chorus—Interpretation Class for Advanced Piano Pupils—Saturday afternoon Lectures and Studio Programs—Pupils' Recitals, First Friday evening of each month in Fine Arts Building.

For Catalog, address or phone the Secretary—Harrison 2376

A Few Specially Selected

SONGS

Recently Issued by BOOSEY & CO.

SINGERS and TEACHERS alike should find material in these to repay an examination. They are recommended by us with the fullest confidence in their ultimate success.

Fragrance of Roses (The) Katharine Barry
C. (C-E) Db, Eb.
Fairy Pipers (The) ....A. Herbert Brewer
G, (C-D) A. Bb. C.
Scent of the Roses (The) ....Lewis Carey
Bb, (A-Eb), C, D.
Awakening (The) .....Eric Coates
C, (C-F), D, Eb.
Strong Box (The) ..... Kate Coates
Eb, (D-Eb), F.
Brownies (The) ..... Franco Leoni
D min. (A-E) F minor
Dear Love, Remember Me Charles Marshall
G, (C♯-E), Ab, Bb, C.
Sensitive Plant (The) ....Charles Marshall
F, (D-F), Ab.
Little Damozel (The) .....Ivor Novello
D, (A-E), Eb, F, G.
Happy Day ..... Wilfrid Sanderson
Eb, (Bb-Eb), F, G.
In Love's Garden ..... Wilfrid Sanderson
Ab, (Bb-Eb), Bb, C.
Spray of Roses (A) ....Wilfrid Sanderson
Bb, (Bb-Eb), C, Db, Eb.
Within the Garden of My Heart Alicia Scott
C, (C-E), E.
Love's Messengers .....Haydn Wood
G, (D-E), Ab, Bb.
Crystal Heart (A) Amy Woodforde-Finden
Bb, (D-F), Db.

If your local dealer does not carry all the above let us send them to you—ON APPROVAL.

THEMATIC BOOKLETS (free) of these and other Artistic Songs on request.

BOOSEY & CO.
9 East 17th Street, New York and London

EDWARD CLARKE
Baritone

RACHEL STEINMAN CLARKE
Violinist

MR. AND MRS. CLARKE

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke will give many joint recitals this season, with Earl Victor Prahl at the piano.

Mr. Clark is a member of the Faculty of the American Conservatory, Chicago, and teaches also at his residence studio, 852 Windsor avenue; phone Edgewater 9133.

———♯♯♯———

Fitch.—Mrs. Wilbur Fitch has opened a studio for voice at 63 the Auditorium Building, where she will teach on Monday and Thursday afternoons.

FIRST ARCHE CLUB MUSICALE

The first concert of the Arche Club in Lincoln Center for this season was given last Friday afternoon, and an excellent program was presented by Mrs. Marie Sidenius Zendt, soprano; Mr. Gustaf Holmquist, bass, and Mrs. Helena Stone Torgenson, harpist, with accompaniments played in fine style by Miss Susie Ford and Mr. Phelps Cowan.

There was a great throng of interested listeners at the concert and a genuine "crush" at the reception which followed, again proving the Arche entertainments among the most popular of the city.

An extraordinarily fine feature of the afternoon was the singing of duets by Mrs. Zendt and Mr. Holmquist—"Now Thou Art Mine" (Hildach) opening the program in a thoroughly pleasant manner, "The Bud and the Bee" (Marzials) proving very popular, and a scene from "Thais" (Massenet) being done with distinguished style by the singers, assisted beautifully by Mrs. Torgenson at the harp and Mr. Cowan at the organ.

Mrs. Zendt has rarely been heard when her work was so altogether charming. Radiant in health and spirits and with her usual poise and sincerity of manner, she at once captured the audience on her appearance, and it required but a few phrases of singing to prove that her voice was in splendid condition and that her artistry had gone even a step further than before.

"Her Love Song" (Salter), "Du Mondenschein" (Bohm), and "Happiness" by Bantock constituted a group which was admirably suited to her voice and which she differentiated and colored in engaging fashion, displaying also vocal beauty and purity of the most pronounced description. For encore she delighted everyone present with the simplicity and charm of her rendition of the old "Robin Adair."

Mr. Holmquist, suave and forceful in his artistry and with a voice which pleases wherever it is heard, made a fine impression at this time with his rendition of Handel's "Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves," a number he sings with great dignity; and in the "Serenade" by Bantock he pleased so much that two encores were necessary, the first being one of the Swedish songs in which he so excels, and the second being (by request) the favorite "Meet Me by Moonlight Alone," a number he has made peculiarly his own.

Mrs. Torgenson was most cordially received in her solo group, which included an arrangement of the Liszt "Consolation" (No. 6) and two pieces of her own.

C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

HAYDN GUNTER

The following is the comment of the Detroit "Free Press" on the work of Haydn Gunter, violinist:

"The violinist of the evening was Haydn Gunter, an artist little known in this country, but who is fast coming to the front. His Paganini number was brilliant and all his numbers were exquisitely played. He was compelled to respond to many numbers." (Advertisement.)

Mr. Charles E. Watt announces the first appearance in Chicago of

Sidney Silber

Sunday Afternoon, Oct. 19th, 3:30 P. M., Sharp

WHITNEY OPERA HOUSE

(Joe Howard Comedy Theater)

Tickets, One Dollar, Seventy-Five and Fifty Cents
On Sale at the Box Office

"Bach could hardly be in safer hands."—St. Paul Dispatch.

"Mr. Silber's Schumann playing was of an unusually high order, which bespeaks best of all musical intelligence and feeling."—New York Musical Courier."

"As a Chopin player, Mr. Silber was fully as satisfying as he had been in the bigger and heavier numbers which preceded the group. The brilliancy and clearness of his technic in the six difficult studies were an example of the almost unattainable."—Nebraska State Journal.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY F. WIGHT NEUMANN

F. Wight Neumann announces that he has had to rearrange several of his dates owing to the serious operation which Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler had to undergo last Saturday, from the effects of which she probably will not recover for a number of weeks. It therefore was necessary to postpone her annual recital from Sunday afternoon, November 2 to February 22.

Mme. Frances Alda's appearance will take place Sunday afternoon, January 4, the date originally booked for Max Pauer, who was unable to secure a release from his contract with the Stuttgart Conservatory, permitting him to come to America.

Mr. Neumann's season will open with a song recital by Clarence Whitehill, the great Wagnerian interpreter, at the Studebaker, Sunday afternoon, October 26. Followed by a concert by the Paulist Choristers, 75 boys and 50 men, under the leadership of Father W. J. Finn, C. S. P., Sunday afternoon, November 2. The program will contain a novelty, Brahms' mass, dedicated to Father Finn. This mass has never been given in Chicago.

Mme. Rosa Olitzka, contralto, will be heard in a song recital, Sunday afternoon. November 9, at the Studebaker.

Josef Hofmann, piano recital, Sunday afternoon, November 16, at the Studebaker.

Kneisel Quartet, first chamber music concert of a series of three, Sunday afternoon, November 23, at the Studebaker.

Francis Macmillen, violin recital, Sunday afternoon, December 7, at the Studebaker.

Mme. Marie Rappold, soprano, song recital, Sunday afternoon, December 14 at the Studebaker.

Joint recital, Simon Buchhalter, pianist, and Rudolph Engberg, baritone, Sunday afternoon, December 21, at the Studebaker.

Mme. Teresa Carreno, piano recital, Sunday afternoon, December 28, at the Studebaker.

Mme. Frances Alda, soprano, song recital, Sunday afternoon, January 4, at the Studebaker.

Carl Flesch, violin recital, Sunday afternoon, January 18, at the Studebaker.

Leo Slezak, tenor, song recital, Sunday afternoon, January 25, at the Studebaker.

Mr. and Mrs. David Mannes, sonata recital, Sunday afternoon, January 25, at the Whitney Opera House.

Mme. Alma Gluck, soprano, song recital, Sunday afternoon, February 1, at the Studebaker.

Mischa Elman, violin recital, Sunday afternoon, February 8, at the Studebaker.

Kneisel Quartet, second chamber music concert, Sunday afternoon, February 15, at the Studebaker.

Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler, piano recital, Sunday afternoon, February 22 at the Studebaker.

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, song recital, Sunday afternoon, March 15, at Orchestra Hall.

Mme. Otillie Metzger, contralto, song recital Sunday afternoon, March 22, at the Studebaker.

Kneisel Quartet, third chamber music concert, Sunday afternoon, March 29, at the Studebaker.

Mme. Margaret Matzenauer, contralto, song recital, Sunday afternoon, April 12 at the Studebaker.

Recitals and concerts will be given every Sunday afternoon at the Studebaker with the exception of the Schumann-Heink recital, which is given at Orchestra Hall and the Mr. and Mrs. Mannes sonata recital which is given at the Whitney Opera House.

Negotiations are pending with other noted artists and organizations. dates of which will be duly announced in the hall programs and through the medium of the daily press.

The song recital by Mr. Whitehill will be the first public recital in Chicago, for which he has arranged the following program:

a. La Procession	Cesar Franck
b. Le Charme	Chausson
c. Visione Invernale (New)	Zandonai
d. Chant de Touraine (New)	Massenet
a. Am Meer	Schubert
b. Daheim	Hugo Kaun
c. Caecilie	Strauss
a. Stella Amoris (New)	Schindler
b. Looking-glass River	Carpenter
c. Song of Tristram	Borowski
d. The Sailor's Last Voyage (New)	Alnaes
e. Homeward (New)	Harty
a. As the Beam O'er the Waters (New)
b. Down by The Sally Gardens	Irish Folk Songs
c. A Ballynure Ballad

JOHN W. NORTON

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER
ST. JAMES EPISCOPAL CHURCH
Conductor—Bach Choral Society of Chicago
Teacher of Voice and Organ

OLD VIOLINS AND NEW

OUR CATALOGS WILL SAFELY GUIDE YOU ALL FREE

AUG. GEMÜNDER & SONS
42 EAST 23 ST. NEW YORK

DEP'T. T Special Discount to the Profession. Send for Sample Copy of THE VIOLIN WORLD

A Card to Music Teachers

Now at the opening of the musical season, we would like to call the attention of teachers to our large stock of graded teaching music. We would be pleased to send packages in the various grades required "on selection." Write to us and see how promptly your orders will be filled. Send for our new catalogue and order blank. Orders filled the same day as received.

C. W. THOMPSON & CO.
Music Publishers and Dealers
A. & B. Park Street Boston, Mass.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLIST

Frederick Preston Search, whose portrait has been selected for distinctive presentation on the title page of this anniversary number, is a musician of whose rising greatness all America may well be proud. It is with greatest pleasure that the Music News gives renewed emphasis to what in these pages has been so many times said. No musician in America gives more unmistakable promise of international distinction. No soloist, at the present time, is giving greater pleasure to his audiences.

Frederick Preston Search was born in Pueblo, Col., July 22, 1889. His father, Preston W. Search, is the eminent educator, who as superintendent of schools at Pueblo and Los Angeles, Cal., and later on at Holyoke, Mass., and also by authorship and lecture utterances, won fame as the leading exponent of individual instruction in schools, and in his emphasis on "the preciousness of individuality." If there is any thing in the doctrine of heredity, young Search was certainly favored; his father being a lover of music, a director of choirs and musical societies, and president and promoter of music festival associations; and the mother, a brilliant pianist and most effective organist. Music was the atmosphere in which he as a child lived and breathed. In home residences also there were fortuitous circumstances, for his parents' work was successively identified with educational associations not only in the cities already named, but with Boston, Worcester, Cincinnati, and also with the leading art and musical centers of Europe. Extensive travel, and intimate knowledge of the folk lore of the nations, and inheritance of classical study, and rare opportunity to know and to hear practically all the masters of the world, furnished their contributory enrichment. Many musicians are the product of a few specialized years of training; but, with Frederick Preston Search, this was only part of a greater whole. From earliest infancy music to him was a master passion; and everything in spontaneous interest, nerve development, artistic temperament and finger dexterity took impetus from a rare combination of natural endowment, re-enforceful environment and masterly direction. It was not, however, until he was ten years old that the 'cello became the idol of his heart and constant companion of his dreams. The home residence then was in the delightful old university city of Jena, Germany, with all that region, and glorious Weimar, so close at hand, rich in the associations of Goethe, Schiller, Liszt and others immortally inspired. Here wandered the youthful dreamer; sometimes sitting for hours amidst the sylvan retreats of Goethe's garden house; again taking his favorite path through the forest and along the river to the statue of the "Erl Konig;" or spending his birthday, by preference, in the home and amidst the priceless legacies of Liszt; and then again with dearest pilgrimages to Tannhauser's Wartburg and Eisenach, and to Alt Nuremburg of the mastersingers, or to Beethoven's birthplace at Bonn; or to Leipzig for the Ninth Symphony or Bach's Passion. In the same Jena home was living a 'cellist of the Weimar Court Orchestra; and the child often sat hour after hour silently listening to the musician's playing. One day the master turned and said: "Why don't you make a 'cellist of that boy?" "Do you think there is a 'cellist in him?" exclaimed the father. "Most certainly I do; give him to me." "Go ahead; you can have him," replied the father; and they went ahead. A rare old instrument of smaller size was found; and every day the child had a lesson with his master, the hour frequently extending to more than double time. Master and pupil played together, heard music together, walked together, lived together. The result was that in 1901, Frederick Preston Search, aged twelve, came back to America an inspired musician, to be known as "The boy 'cellist;" and as such, a little later he made a transcontinental tour, well remembered still, playing to large audiences in many western cities. Spokane, in particular, gave him an audience of 1,500.

Immediately on return from Europe at the age of twelve, Frederick Preston Search entered the New England Conservatory of music, where he had two years of training under Josef Adamowski, first 'cellist of the Boston Symphony. After that came four years at the Cincinnati College of Music, under Lino Mattioli and Georg Rogovoy, the latter having just come to America from the Imperial Orchestra at St. Petersburg. He then returned to Germany, and these seven preparatory years of magnificent instruction, of which any 'cellist might well be proud, were crowned with five wonderful years of virtuoso training, at the Royal Conservatory of Music at Leipzig, under the great Julius Klengel, who ranks as the leading 'cello master of the world. Although granted opportunity, by frequent visits to many countries, to know the greatest living 'cellists of all lands, Klengel, to Frederick Preston Search, is the master of masters. He is the chief spirit in the great conservatory, foremost adviser at the Gewandhaus, the world's most prolific 'cello composer, and unquestionably Germany's greatest 'cello soloist. From the very start the master took an exceptional fancy to the young American, and many were the delightful and interesting associations between them during the priceless five years of continuous instruction, wherein the great teacher gave his all to the indefatigable learner, until a critic, hearing the playing of the wonderful Volkmann Concerto, exclaimed: "Julius Klengel has nothing further to give to Frederick Preston Search." Under Dr Klengel the young 'cellist made the phenomenal record of mastery of over twenty-five of the world's greatest 'cello concertos, including the Dvorak, Haydn, Klengel (I, II, III, IV), Servais, Romberg. (I, II, III), Schumann, Volkmann, Popper, Lalo, Saint-Saens, Grutzmacher, Raff, Lindner, Moligue, Davidhoff, and Goltermann (I, II, III, IV); the most prominent sonatas for 'cello and piano; besides countless short concert pieces and other larger numbers with orchestral accompaniments.

Besides all this, his power and fame as 'cellist gave him opportunity for rich associations in musical Leipzig; for chamber music as 'cellist as one of the finest quartets; as soloist on great occasions; and for distinction as the only American, at that time, holding position in the famous Gewandhaus Orchestra, under Arthur Nikisch, the greatest living conductor, from whom he holds testimonials of remarkable appreciation. When Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler played at Leipzig, under engagement with the Gewandhaus concerts, she specially singled out Frederick Preston Search at the rehearsal and complimented him that one so young, and as the only American, should so honor his country by winning membership in the greatest orchestra of the world and under the greatest conductor. Frederick Preston Search, at Leipzig, organized and was leader of the only 'cello quartet in the world. He also won fame by his compositions, particularly in his arrangement of the music for the great Titanic memorial concert, given under direction of Dr. Gustav Schreck, in the old church of John Sebastian Bach.

While in Europe Frederick Preston Sarch was frequently solicited to accept appointments with the court orchestras of several important cities, and for extensive concert tours, including even Australia. Excepting as soloist and member of his special quartets, these invitations were all declined as incompatible with his greater objective. He was in Germany for an exalted purpose and permitted nothing to side-track his specialized devotion. During five years he made only one home-run to America, and that was a short one in particular for the Knoxville (Tenn.) musical festival in 1910, where his own "Miles Standish Fantasy" was presented with the help of the Cincinnati Orchestra (himself as composer being honored with invitation to conduct, although then only twenty years old), and where he captured everybody also by his matchless solo work. While not seeking such recognition prematurely he has played with great favor in many European cities, even at the King's birthday in Saxony. Frequent visits in the study of national characteristics and local colorings for interpretative purposes, and also a rich acquaintance with master musicians, have made Berlin, Dresden, Vienna, Munich, Innsbruch, Florence, Rome, Paris and Amsterdam as familiar to him as home cities.

So busy elsewhere he has had little time for American concerts, but last November, following twelve years of indefatigable preparation, Frederick Preston Search returned from Europe for a special western recital tour, playing in over sixty cities. Everywhere he more than established his reputation as a violoncello soloist of marvelous technical ability, rich, vibrant tonal quality and wonderful control of all the resources of his king of instruments. From every city of appearance come reports of most phenomenal success; his emotional playing swaying great audiences as has been the experience with no 'cellist for years. He was particularly well received in the university cities, which classic engagements he particularly sought on his opening tour. Pueblo, Colo., as the city of his birth, through an organized committee of business men, gave him a tremendous ovation. Los Angeles, with an audience of four thousand, went wild with enthusiasm. The Salt Lake critics pronounced him the "'cellist wonder." Pocatello, Idaho, became so enthusiastic over "the finest musical event ever given in the history of Pocatello" that he was compelled to play four recitals there in a single week. In cultured city and wild mining camp he was equally successful. His contemplated recitals doubled in number, and he was immediately reengaged for appearances which will once more take him to the Pacific Coast this present season. Indeed, in his engagements, he is to cross the continent four times between October and April, playing in every state west of the Mississippi, and between runs in the east. His fall tour is to begin formally with recital at Boise, Idaho, where he opens the Boise artists' course in the Pinney Opera House, on October 6; and then come his engagements on the Pacific Coast. He carries with him, as accompanist, Walter Chapman of New York, who is a superb concert pianist. Frederick Preston Search expects to play one hundred recitals this season; after which he returns to Europe for concert appointments in all the chief musical cities.

———♯♯♯———

Connell.—The Clef Club of Buffalo, of which Alfred Jury is the director, has engaged Mr. Horatio Connell for the "Elijah" performance, which will be given with the assistance of the New York Symphony Orchestra, on January 8.

Important Announcement to Music Teachers

Music Teachers! Send the name of the firm with whom you are now dealing and we will arrange to have a package of our new music sent "on approval."

Space does not permit us to list here our novelties for the coming season. We invite all Teachers who are not on our mailing lists to drop us a card stating which of our catalogues they wish mailed to their studios.

Through years of painstaking work, we have established the reputation of publishing the BEST collection of EASY AND MEDIUM GRADE TEACHING MUSIC FOR THE PIANO.

In what department of music are you interested?

Do You Use Good Music?

Why not send your name at once, and we shall take pleasure in forwarding to you—postage paid—a copy of our complete Catalog, also our THEMATIC CATALOGS of EASY TEACHING MUSIC for the PIANOFORTE. Also our Latest Complete Catalog of "EDITION WOOD."

The B. F. Wood Music Company

246 Summer Street BOSTON | Also at London and Leipzig | 29 West 38th St. NEW YORK

MRS. MARY STRAWN VERNON

Among the few good teachers of harmony, ear training and sight singing is Mrs. Mary Strawn Vernon, whose preparation for this work has been so thorough.

A descendant of the Purcell of English blood, she began life with a love of music which led her to devote many years and much toil to developing the talent entrusted to her.

She first studied harmony and piano with Mr. and Mrs. Crosby Adams, and then had seven years in harmony, counterpoint, canon and fugue with Mr. Adolf Weidig, and three years of vocal training under Miss Nora Loraine Olin.

She has had the pedagogical advantage of having taught music from primary up through all of the grades and the high school classes. This gives her a wonderful advantage in preparing and presenting her material to a pupil.

As a consequence, those who study with her look upon her unfolding of the subject as a revelation.

She has been particularly successful with teachers in formulating courses for high schools and other secondary schools, and in outlining special courses for public school supervisors.

To her each pupil is a problem to be studied. A point of contact is found and each step from that point is so plainly opened up that there is no mystery left unexplained to torment the pupil in future experiences as a teacher.

Several of her four-part songs for high school choruses have been published and have been used very successfully by some of the best schools.

We predict great success for this teacher who makes her subject so attractive.

Hugh Anderson

BASSO

Has returned from a sixteen weeks' concert tour through Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio and Pennsylvania. He has appeared as Don Fulgenzio in "A Lover's Quarrel," by Parelli, 95 times, and sung in 220 concerts in 110 cities.

HUGH ANDERSON AS "DON FULGENZIO"

HENDERSON, KY.—Hugh Anderson, the bass, caught the audience with the solo, "The Big Bass Viol." The people could not get enough of Anderson. His voice is rich, it is pleasing.—Henderson Daily Journal.

WASHINGTON, IND.—Hugh Anderson won round upon round for his singing. He has a voice of sympathy and power which he knows how to use with excellent effect. His notes are of pure musical quality and he sustains them unvaryingly. His methods showed a distinct and artistic use of a voice that is rich and resonant naturally.—The Washington Herald.

HUNTINGTON, IND.—Hugh Anderson, the remarkable basso, sings in many languages. His work in the concert and his interpretation of Don Fulgenzio, was rewarded with many encores.—The Huntington Press.

GARY, IND.—Hugh Anderson, unlike most bassos of otherwise good parts, manages to remain in the key to the end. That alone is enough for an audience to accord a bass everlasting gratitude. Then his fine musicianship and a voice of such excellence as he possesses are assets that pay big dividends to a professional singer, and as in this instance, place him in the foremost rank. As "Don Fulgenzio," though his part was not long, he showed briliantly.—The Gary Post.

CHARLOTTE, MICH.—The basso voice of Hugh Anderson is one of unusual quality, and used under best vocal methods. Lack of space will prevent an extended mention of Mr. Anderson's artistic ability.—The Charlotte Leader.

Mr. Anderson, whose superb voice and excellent operatic style are known throughout the country, particularly distinguished himself at this time and drew enthusiastic response from his audience.—The Music News.

PITTSBURGH

REVIEW BY CATHERINE ELSTON

Regardless of the fact that there will be no regular series of orchestra concerts in Pittsburgh this winter, the musical outlook is most auspicious. The most important musical attractions in the country are scheduled, and no doubt before the season is over every prominent orchestra will have been heard, as well as grand opera by the Chicago Grand Opera Company.

The first recital of the season will be given in Carnegie Music Hall Tuesday night, October 14, by Rebecca Davidson, pianist, and Katharine McGonnell, violinist, both young local players who will tour this season under New York management.

The Art Society's prospectus offers a fine series of concerts. All the evenings given by this society this season will be musical ones, with the exception of the concluding entertainment, at which time a lecture will be given on the international exhibit of paintings.

The list reads:

Tuesday, October 28—Fritz Kreisler, violinist.

Friday, November 28—Franz Egenieff, baritone.

Friday, December 19—Bach-Handel program by Charles Heinroth, Christine Miller and Nicholas Douty.

Friday, January 16—Flonzaley Quartet.

Friday, February 20—Teresa Carreno, pianist.

Thursday, March 19—Julia Culp, soprano.

Tuesday, April 14—Kneisel Quartet.

The Schenley concerts, which will be held in the ballroom of the Hotel Schenley, will be five in number:

Friday, October 31—"Il Maestro di Capello," opera.

Monday, December 15—Josef Hofmann.

Friday, January 30—Schumann-Heink.

Wednesday, February 18—Florence Hinkle and Clarence Whitehill.

Wednesday, April 15—Alma Gluck.

Thursday, January 15—New York Symphony Orchestra.

Wednesday, January 21—Mischa Elman.

Tuesday, February 3—Ysaye.

Wednesday, March 4—Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

Tuesday, March 17—Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra.

Monday, April 6—Clara Butt and Kennerley Rumford.

In addition to these artists and orchestras the local organizations will bring others. The Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra and Harold Bauer, pianist, will be heard with the Mendelssohn Male Choir, and Jacques Thibaud, the great French violinist, will appear with the Damon Choral. Also, all the artists under the management of Antonia Sawyer will appear at various times throughout the season, under the local management of McAteer and Elston, who are in charge of Mrs. Sawyer's middle west office at the Hotel Schenley.

The Ellis concerts, which will consist of four evenings, are as follows:

Tuesday, October 21—Geraldine Farrar.

Tuesday, November 25—Fritz Kreisler.

Tuesday ,December 16—Paderewski.

Wednesday, January 28—Boston Symphony Orchestra.

A special series of attractions has been arranged for by local management and is as follows:

Thursday, November 6—Melba and Kubelik.

A GROUP OF PITTSBURGH MUSICIANS AT MISS ELSTON'S EDGEWOOD HOME

Reading from left to right Myrtle McAteer, 'cellist; Margaret Davidson, pianist; Carl Bernthaler, conductor, Pittsburgh Festival Orchestra; Lena Mason, soprano, New Century Grand Opera Company, and Catherine Elston, Pittsburgh representative of Music News, and music critic of the Pittsburgh Dispatch. The dog is a valuable Russian wolfhound belonging to Miss Elston.

Special Announcement!

Season 1913-14

For a Limited Number of Engagements

Carolyn Beebe, Pianist
Florence Austin, Violinist
Margaret Harrison, Soprano
Philip Spooner, Tenor

J. W. Lyman Personal Representative
501 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK

Publicity for Artists

Driggs & Le Massena
(INC.)

501 FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK

ETHEL
ALTEMUS
PIANIST

AMERICAN TOUR, 1913-14

Soloist with Philadelphia Orchestra

CONCERTS IN

London, Paris, New York,
Boston, Chicago, Washington, Cincinnati, Etc.

Address
1526 Spruce St, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mme. Grace Brune
Marcusson

LYRIC SOPRANO

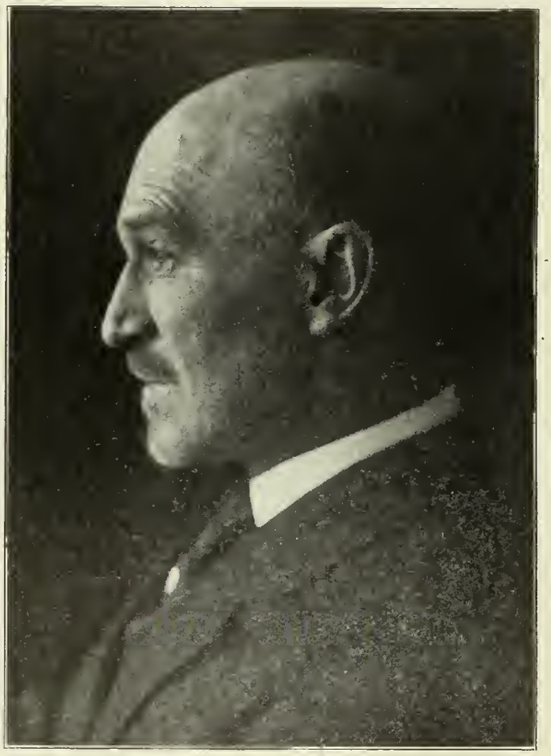
Open for Recital and Oratorio

Engagements through
HARRY CULBERTSON
Fine Arts Building

TOUR OF THE WEST ALREADY BOOKED

The Elderly Person

My Dear Editor:—On this, your hundred-paged anniversary, your Elderly Person wishes to be one of the first to offer congratulations. In domestic life, when five years of the married state have been completed, the rounded cycle is called a wooden wedding. It is generally celebrated elaborately, in that it marks the complete establishment of the household, and the safe passing of the most serious shoals of the marital voyage. If people are incompatible and are not going to get on well together, they find it out during the first five years. As a rule they are more satisfied with themselves for a steady diet. And they work together and save and deny themselves willingly. And they have lots of hard luck. And their noses are kept close to the grind stone, financially. They have generally not figured on how much it takes in money to run a household. And they find out how many unexpected expenses turn up. And they think they must have something which they do not need. And they twist and turn and work and strive devotedly towards their main interest. They forget their personal desires in their anxiety for the welfare of their home. And they grow keen and far-seeing and make fewer and fewer mistakes. And they watch for favorable signs of the turning tide. And they exult in each new annexation. And they get fresh courage with each battle fought against a common foe. And they learn how many threatened dangers may be averted by simply walking up to the scarecrow and pulling off his disguise. And all the time, though they don't realize it, they are growing together in the most complete union and are a thousand-fold more competent because of the difficulties surmounted. Until lo! one day, like you, they reach the boundaries of the first cycle. And laughing and crying over the experiences of the journey they find themselves on the plateau of rest and know that for good or better or best they are permanently established and a factor in the life about them. And that from present security they can take full breaths and a long look ahead, secure in the knowledge that by what they have done they are safe in presuming that they can go yet farther.



THE ELDERLY PERSON

And it is while they are resting and taking that look backward and the longer look forward that they discover that they are not going to celebrate alone. That all this time, while they have been engrossed in the demands of each day, any number of people have been observing them, and noting their sincerity and honest-heartedness, have grown interested in them. All unconsciously they have been making friends—friends of that most lasting sort. The best friends are those of our youth, and those perhaps who have been going through the same experiences as ourselves. In some such way you, and the paper, are to be congratulated first upon the staunch friends who are crowding now to say the things they have felt, as they have come to know the paper and what it stands for. And this thought brings into the foreground congratulations for your conception of and adherence to the plan upon which you started out. It was your theory that the local musicians, both matured and those in the making, should have representation. Your Elderly Person tells you squarely that it was that idea which appealed to him and caused him to hitch his little wagon to the rising luminary. In the development of your plan it goes without saying that you have been misunderstood, and taken advantage of, and have also made some blunders. Don't forget to be grateful for every one of the mishaps. They are the stepping stones of real progress. You have been more than generous in your manner of recognizing and noticing those who are in the front of their profession, and also those who gave promise. Among them there were, of course, some who did not prove loyal. Be glad that you found them out and are the wiser for their lack of honor. Your episode with the musician who said gracious things when he owed you for a year's advertising is an example. He gave you his note for the amount due and then persuaded you to look after a series of his recitals in a suburb. He got good notices—and let the note take care of itself when it came due. Perhaps, like Mr. Micawber, he considered the account settled when he gave the note. You did exactly right when you gave the note to a collector who forced payment. It made the notegiver mad, naturally. And some other advertisers who used your time and space freely on the same basis are also mad and don't patronize you. But you don't need them. Any good business man will tell you that there are people in every profession, every trade, who try to get something for nothing. When you are sure that a patron is not trying to pay his debts, you owe it to your other customers who do pay promptly, to drop the delinquent and by means of a collector to tell him why. By this time you know how to discriminate between the honest and the unfortunate, or the handicapped. You have stood loyally by some who needed your aid. It will all come back in good time. Keep it up. Somewhere among these younger, striving people are the leaders for future years. If they are made out of the right stuff they will never forget the man who did them a good turn. And in no one general way can they be helped better than by publicity. Your slogan is absolutely true. Where there is so much to be done and so many to do it, the two needed forces must be brought together. Advertising is the modern Aladdin's lamp. If rubbed the right way often enough it lights the path to success.

One of the best and most original things you ever did was to assume the present size and shape of the paper. It was an unique move, and as shrewd as it was unique. It is just large enough, and its pocket size makes it capital for reading during the continual transit life the city people lead. Watch yourself that you do not grow too ambitious and make it bulky, and so prevent its thorough reading. The departments are all attractive, including your out-of-town correspondents. It might be said of some of them that they do not magnify enough the chief purpose of a local correspondent. The happenings of the home musicians and organizations are the vital things. Of course the chronicle of the coming and going of the traveling artists should be noted, and certain comment on the impression made, given. But extended reviews are a real clog to a newsy, readable letter. In passing you are also to be congratulated on the appearance of the printed pages, the clear type, good presswork and material. Mr. Donaldson and his Oak Leaves plant have been of no small moment in giving you an honorable place.

And further congratulations are to go to you on the loyalty you show toward everything which belongs to musical Chicago, including those eminent in the ranks of the great who come here under the auspices of Chicago organization and managers. The orchestra and opera company are our giants, the outgrowth of years of labor and sacrifice. Your columns have been splendid in generous reviews and multiplied detail. That so very many of the famous artists value the notices, and advertising columns, is the best compliment you could receive. You could hardly hope to have all—and it is not to be forgotten, either, that some out-of-town managers have a way of being tricky, and you do not care enough for what they have to present to give them the gratis notice they continually crave. If you didn't charge for your advertising space you could easily quadruple your columns. You are very wise to preserve a dignified silence after you have been generous in initiative, and that generosity has been taken for granted. There are artists who have to learn that there is no particular honor in writing notices of their work.

And you are to be applauded for your editorial attitude. It is very level now. It was not always so. You allowed a little fret to get into it when unpleasant competition assailed you. For just a little you forgot that the competition sought to undermine and disturb you just because you were successful. If you hadn't been making good at a tremendous rate no one would have bothered you. No one throws burrs at a dead one. It's the live wire they try to devitalize. You can pursue an even course, as it is, giving your patrons the best you have and let the envious go their own way.

So may you well survey your cycle, and buckle on your armor for yet more endeavor. Success comes slowly when it is stable and worthy. It is a result, not a chance. You will not forget that all these friends have contributed towards it, some largely, some in a smaller way. But they are your foundation stones. Their interests are the paramount issue. Cultivate them, and the other things that are good for you will follow. The paper has long ago passed the experimental stage. It is established remarkably and you are surrounded by patrons and well wishers and people who are ready to substantiate their friendship with profitable endorsement.

Really, it is quite amusing the way elderly people mix their good will with equal quantities of advice. The present one seems to be no exception. On the whole he believes he will not withdraw any of it. Some of it may hit the right spot. If it does, the rest can run off. And his recital of his pleasure in being allowed to be a part of your celebration irresistibly suggests the already quoted Wilkins Micawber. Therefore, he is constrained to become imitative and to wind up by remarking that "among the many eyes upraised to behold you in your lofty flight will ever be found

The Eye
Appertaining
To
The Elderly Person."

SONGS

....by Jessie Johnston

Love's Message

On the Slopes of the Dune

One Day
Published by Clayton F. Summy Co., Chicago, Ill.

Pierrot
High or Low Voice and as trio for Ladies' Voices. Published by Wm. Maxwell Music Company, New York City.

Sweethearts!
Published by Gamble Hinged Music Co., Chicago, Illinois.

On Sale at all Music Dealers

RUTH RAY

VIOLINIST

3906 Flournoy Street

Phone Kedzie 8413

Leonora

ALLEN

SOPRANO

Oratorio, Costume Recital and Opera

Exclusive Management

The Musical Bureau for American Artists

116 S. Michigan Av. Chicago

Maximilian Pilzer

Brilliant Young Violinist, Available for Concerts and Recitals.

ADDRESS

101 West 115th St. NEW YORK CITY

Mr. Pilzer's performance of the concerto (Sinding) deepened the good impression he had made within the week on the same stage. His tone was large and good of timbre, and showed his understanding of the music.—W. J. Henderson in New York Sun, January 15, 1910.

The tone he draws from his violin is sweet and expressive and carries well. Pilzer has a good technical equipment and plays with musical taste, with temperament and energy. He will make his mark and deserves to be heard oftener. —Max Smith in New York Press, January 15, 1910.

Mr. Pilzer brings a good tone from his instrument; his technic is facile, and his style is excellent. He is, in fact, a player whose performances give much pleasure.—New York Times, February 26, 1913.

Mr. Pilzer gave a really finished performance of Bruch's G minor concerto, drawing a beautiful rich tone.—New York Evening Telegram, March 24, 1913.

Mr. Pilzer played with great beauty of tone and a technic under such complete mastery that one forgets it in the presence of his interpretation—New York Evening Mail, March 25, 1913.

ELLA BACHMAN

Miss Ella Bachman, who is shown in the accompanying cut in the part of Azucena in "Il Trovatore," has returned to Chicago after a most successful season on lecture recitals through the South, her subject being "Folk Lore" and her programs attracting very great attention everywhere.

ELLA BACHMAN

Miss Bachman has many engagements to appear before clubs in Chicago during the coming season and will continue her very successful voice teaching at 85, the Auditorium building.

Following is some of the comment of the press on the work of Miss Bachman:

The Mobile Register, Mobile, Ala.—Miss Ella Bachman's lecture recital on Folk Lore, was a decided success. She has a very attractive manner in which she presents this broad subject, proving at once interesting and instructive. The humoristic touches cleverly added, gave it a certain charm and piquancy which was a delight to everyone present. The songs were all well chosen, her perfect diction in six languages being remarkable.

The New Orleans Item, New Orleans, La.—In her lecture recital on Folk Lore, Mme. Bachman proved to be a singer of great charm and intelligence. She handled her subject with ease and rendered many folk songs with tender feeling and tonal beauty. She was ably assisted by her pupil, Fay Stewart Gregg, who, under Mme. Bachman's careful training, has learned to use her beautiful soprano voice most artistically. Their rendition of old and new folk songs brought forth storms of applause and repeated encores.

The Star, Indianapolis, Ind.—At the concert of the Spanish War Veterans, Mme. Bachman sang "Comin' Thro' the Rye" and other good old songs. Her European operatic training stood her in good stead and her wonderful voice sent thrills to many a heart.

Free Press, Milwaukee, Wis.—"Elsa's Dream," from "Lohengrin," was sung by Miss Ella Bachman at last night's Wagner concert. Her sweet soprano voice and charming stage presence are gaining her friends among our music lovers at each reappearance. (Advertisement.)

Pittsburgh.—At a special musical service at the Highland Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh on last Sunday evening, when only Pittsburgh composers were present on the program, special emphasis was placed upon the names of A. M. Foerster and Charles Wakefield Cadman.

THE MINNEAPOLIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

As will be seen by the page advertisement of the Minneapolis Orchestra printed elsewhere in this issue of Music News, the season of this notable organization will be a fine one and its usual tours will far surpass in significance anything heretofore undertaken.

The programs to be given in the Minneapolis series are very fine and the list of soloists is a remarkable one.

To have heard this orchestra once under the splendidly artistic and virile baton of Emil Oberhoffer is to wish to hear it many times more, and Chicago, as well as the other cities which have been favored with programs the past few years will welcome the concert announced in this city for this season by the Minneapolis Orchestra, with great cordiality.

EDITH ADELAIDE KIEN

Miss Edith A. Kien has just been engaged by the American Lyceum Institute to appear as pianist and accompanist in the various concerts and recitals being booked for Miss Mary Highsmith, she also played at the Nike Club on October 6, her numbers being characteristic ones by Chopin and a concert waltz by William Hubbard Harris.

EDITH ADELAIDE KIEN

Miss Kien is a teacher of piano, her work on Monday, Tuesday and Friday of each week being in Chicago, while the other days are spent at her home studio in South Elmhurst. She has also taken up the study of voice very seriously and her work has been endorsed by her teacher Miss Highsmith, and also by Dr. Florenz Ziegfeld.

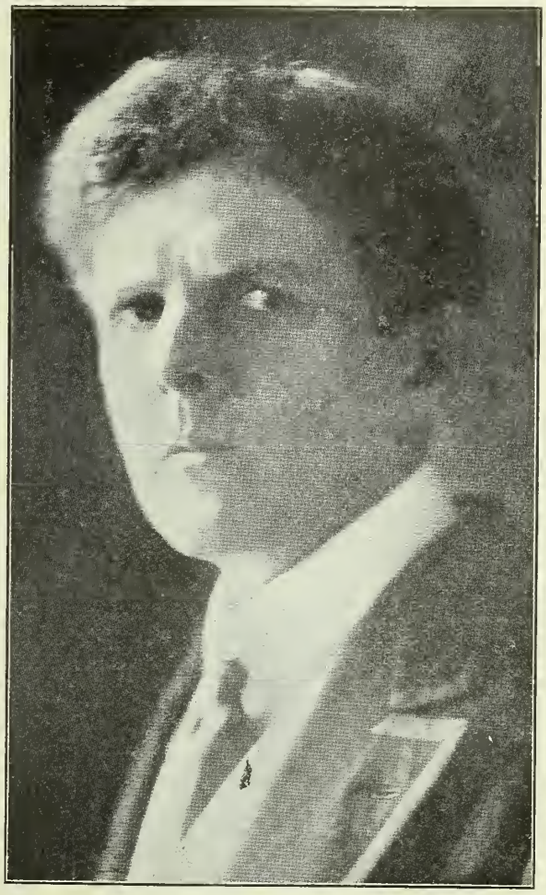
Thuel Burnham

Piano-Virtuoso

"Of the American pianists, we are inclined to consider Burnham the best of any we have heard from the other side of the Atlantic."—The Era, London.

"He is not only brilliant in execution, but possesses to a remarkable degree the highest sense of emotional expressiveness."—American, London.

"There breathes in his playing the gentle breath of sentiment, poetry, imagination, passion, soul, whatever you may choose to call it—the still, small voice that speaks to responsive hearts only when the true artist is at the instrument."—Concert Goer, New York.



"Thuel Burnham is a master of the piano. His interpretation of the Grieg Concerto unchained a veritable furore of enthusiasm. He employs an impeccable technic with an extraordinary bravoura. He added another great success to his already glorious career."—Gil Blas, (Paris.)

"He has a wonderful ability in producing a singing quality of tone in the piano."—Artists' Gazetteer, New York.

"He possesses a brilliant and powerful technic, and unquestionable musical abilities.—Musical Times, (London.)

"He possesses dramatic instinct, breadth of style, and a beautiful touch."—Topical Times, London.

"He has a magnetic personality and it is seldom that an artist so immediately touches the chord of public favor."—Musical Courier, London.

"Burnham's style is broad, big and dramatic."—Musical America, Paris.

"He has artistic repose, and, in the Schubert-Liszt Erl-Konig, showed that he has fire and knows how to grasp a tragic subject."—Topical Times, (London.)

"It was a bold rendition of the Schubert-Liszt Erl-Konig—the octave triplets were well articulated, the tempestuous gusts of octaves for the left hand were effectively played, and the tone of "Du liebes Kind" phrase was beautiful."—Athenaeum, London.

"We rarely have heard a rendition more replete with noble dignity and virile energy."—Courier, (New York.)

Thuel Burnham played a magnificent Schumann program. Few pianists are capable of interpreting Schumann with the unaffected but inspired sentiment of Mr. Burnham, who seems to have entirely caught the spirit of the composer."—London Daily Mail, (Paris Ed.)

"It was a striking justification of his title of 'poet-pianist.' In temperament and style Mr. Burnham is also an ideal Liszt player, his wonderful technic, vivid tonal effects and intensity of feeling giving his readings utmost power and brilliancy."—Musical America, (New York.)

American Concert Tour

January 1st—April 1st, 1914

Management
HARRY CULBERTSON
Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

Permanent Address
119 Rue de la Tour
Paris - - France

Delma-Heide

Famous Paris Singing Teacher

30 Rue Marbeuf (Champs Elysees).

Maestro di Bel Canto Italiano.
Decorated by the French Government.

Prepares Singers for Opera and Concert in Italian, French, German and English.

MR. DEVRIES AND HIS FRIENDS

The accompanying picture was made from a photograph presented to Music News by Mr. Herman Devries on his return from Europe recently.

To the left of the picture is seen M. Emile Engel, the eminent tenor, famous a decade ago and who now is professor of singing in the National Conservatoire of Music in Paris, besides conducting large classes at his beautiful villa in the same city.

Mme. Bathori-Engel, at the right of her husband is one of the most unique artists in France, her work has been commended and endorsed in the most flattering terms by such men as Claude Debussy, M. Camille Saint-Saens, Massenet, Toscanini, Chevillard, Colonne, etc.

Mme. Bathori-Engel sings in the four languages, English, French, German and Italian with equal facility and her repertoire includes all the classics as well as the modern songs and she accompanies everything herself, the entire work being done from memory.

This gifted artist contemplates a concert tour of the United States in the near future.

MR. DEVRIES AND HIS FRIENDS.

Mr. and Mrs. Devries are seen at the right of the picture, which was taken in the old cloister garden of M. Engel's country villa. M. Engel and Mr. Devries were colleagues at the Opera Comique in Paris and at the Opera Houses of Brussels, Toulouse, Marseilles and Bordeaux.

———♯♯♯———

Miller.—Miss Christine Miller, who is spending the summer in Europe, is now cruising in Norway. Before returning to America, Miss Miller will return to Germany, largely to look over some German songs which have appealed to her.

PETROWITSCH BISSING

Aspirants in the higher art of violin playing will be pleased to learn that Petrowitsch Bissing, the Russian violinist and teacher, having decided to locate in Chicago, has just opened a studio in Kimball Building. Mr. Bissing's greatest pleasure seems to be derived from assisting the struggling violin student to gain technical skill in the shortest possible time; to produce a good tone, and to develop a mastery over all details in the art of phrasing and interpretation. Yet he takes no less pains and conscientious effort with the beginner than with the most advanced pupils.

The perfect ease with which he executes the most tremendously difficult passages and his soulful interpretation of melody stamp him as an artist performer. His magnetic personality and extraordinary ability for bringing such astonishing results from his pupils will place him in the ranks of our greatest teachers of the queen of instruments.

PETROWITSCH BISSING

His creative genius is brought to light in a number of beautiful and interesting compositions for violin and piano. His works have been praised by such musical celebrities as Paul Stoeving, London; O. Sevcik, Prague, Bohemia; Joseph Bloch, Hungary, and Arthur Hartmann, Paris, France. His wonderful versatility is displayed in the various styles of his compositions ranging from the dainty little "Scherzino" and the showy "Capricietto" to the weeping, heart-rending harmonies in his "Romanza in G Minor" and "Traur Molitwa." For his masterwork "Ziguener Leben" he was honored with the following comment from his former teacher, Professor Sevcik. (Translation from German.)

Dear Mr. Bissing: Your composition entitled "Gypsy Life" for violin and piano, is an exquisite work. It is very suitable for concert performance. The work will be an honor to your name.

PROFESSOR O. SEVCIK.

———♯♯♯———

KATHERINE HILLEBRAND

Miss Katherine Hillebrand, soprano, who fulfills many concert engagements this season in conjunction with Sigrid Janson, violinist, and Clara Len, pianist, is a pupil of Mrs. Sara Cosgrove, who in turn was with Mme. Marchesi for seven years.

Miss Hillebrand has sung in several Chicago churches and has fulfilled many concert engagements here with great success. Her voice is a coloratura of much sweetness and her repertoire is an extensive and very pleasing one.

STELLA RODIN

Miss Stella Rodin, a popular North Side organist, is now engaged as director of music and organist at Temple Emanuel, and also at the Lake View Presbyterian Church.

Among the many positions filled by Miss Rodin have been the Lincoln Park Congregational and the Kenilworth Union churches.

On the first Sunday evening of each month, at 7:45 Miss Rodin gives a recital at the Lake View Presbyterian Church and during the series already given there she has gained a most enviable reputation for fine programs, played in thoroughly musical way.

She will also, during this season, present a week night organ recital at this church, due notice of which will be given.

Miss Rodin has a fine organ for her use at the Temple Emanuel and the Friday evening services (8 o'clock) are of particular value and interest on the musical side—she is especially proud of the quartet ensemble, the members being Mary Ann Kaufman, Louise Harrison Slade, Edward Walker and Frank Dunford.

MISS STELLA RODIN

Besides her extensive work in these two organ positions, Miss Rodin finds time to take good care of large classes, both in piano and organ, and is an active member of the Lake View Musical Club.

———♯♯♯———

Pittsburgh.—At a special musical service at the Highland Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh on last Sunday evening, when only Pittsburgh composers were presented on the program, special emphasis was placed upon the names of A. M. Foerster and Charles Wakefield Cadman.

The South Bend Conservatory

South Bend, Ind.

MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

Graduate Courses offered in Voice, Piano, Violin, 'Cello, Pipe Organ, Theory, Harmony and Composition, Dramatic Art, Italian Language.

Faculty of Fifteen Artist Teachers

Publishers of
"THE LARK"
Sample on Request

FIRST FACULTY CONCERT

The Walter Spry Music School will give a series of faculty concerts this season, presenting some of the distinguished artists who are teachers in the school. The first concert will take place Sunday afternoon, November 2, in the Fine Arts Theater. The artists who will take part are: Walter Spry, pianist; Mrs. Clarence Eddy, contralto; Alexander Krauss, violinist; Carl Klammsteiner, 'cellist; Miss Elizabeth Parker, accompanist. Among the interesting novelties to be presented are the variations on a Balkan theme by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, to be played by Mr. Spry, and a quartet for piano, violin, viola and 'cello by George Colburn, teacher of composition in the school, which will have their first presentation in Chicago.

Mrs. Eddy is known as one of the greatest vocal experts and coaches in the country and great interest has been shown in this her first appearance in Chicago. Mr. Krauss has been among the first violins of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra since its organization by Theodore Thomas; likewise Mr. Klammsteiner has been several years in the orchestra and is one of our best 'cellists.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE ZENDT

MRS. ZENDT IN A NEW ROLE

Mrs. Marie Sidenius Zendt spent a part of the summer in the woods of Michigan (Lawrence) and occasionally tested her abilities as a fisher woman in Christee Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Zendt are shown in the picture proudly exhibiting an afternoon's "catch," Mr. Zendt taking particular pains to point out just which fish was caught by the popular soprano.

Eleanor Everest Freer's SONGS

"The Volume of Eleanor Everest Freer's forty-four Sonnets from the Portuguese (a song cycle for medium voice) is a colossal work. So far as my knowledge reaches, I know of nothing that could with justice be placed beside it. It is marvelous enough that such sentiments could be poetically expressed forty-four times, by one person, and more so that another could place these wonderful sonnets in a musical setting and of the highest order."

The above is a criticism of the Freer "Forty-four Portuguese Sonnets" (William A. Kaun Music Company, Milwaukee, Wis., publishers) by a great German authority, and might suffice for all the Freer works, which are done with the same spontaneity, and sincerity; some 130 American and English lyrics having been set to music by this writer, piano works and part songs, all pronounced by authorities as among the best recent contributions to modern musical literature.

PUBLISHED BY

WILLIAM A. KAUN MUSIC CO., 90 Wisconsin Street, Milwaukee, Wis. WILLIS MUSIC CO., 137 W. Fourth Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio; CHURCH, PAXSON & CO., 1367 Broadway, New York; CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO., 64 E. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill.

The SONGS of

Albert H. Dowling Jr.

A TOAST

(An ideal number for a banquet program)

FROM YOU

(An effective love song, sung very successfully by Christine Miller)

TO MOTHER

A GYPSY LULLABY

REGRET

Any of these songs may be had at music dealers or sent postpaid from the address below for 25 CENTS each.

Albert H. Dowling Jr. 456 E. 7th St., Erie, Pa.

HARMONY SIMPLIFIED FOR PIANO PUPILS

Finger and Wrist Studies of "Scales, Intervals and Chords"

By James L. LaFleur.—Grades I to V.

Contents: Diagrams of the Major and Minor Scales with exercises for scale playing.

Perfect Major, Minor, Augmented and Diminished intervals; Triads, Chords of the 7th and 9th, Chords of the seventh on the leading tone, Diminished 7ths, Secondary 7ths and Mixed Chords with inversions, written in every key and the formation of each thoroughly explained.

While practicing the two finger exercises, wrist studies, arpeggios, octaves, chord studies, trill names of the Intervals and Chords; how they are formed, the sound of each, and plays them in every key, thereby studying harmony, sight-reading and ear-training while developing the technic of the piano. Price $1.50, usual discount.

Ask your dealer to show you a copy, or address

CHAS. W. HOMEYER & CO.

332 Boylston St. Boston, Mass.

CHICAGO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The soloists who will appear this season with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra are: Vocal, Mme. M. Matzenauer and Mr. Leo Slezak; piano, Ignace Paderewski; Harold Bauer, Leopold Godowsky and Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler; violin, Eugene Ysaye, Fritz Kreisler, Jaques Thibaud, Carl Flesch, Harry Weisbach and Hugo Kortschak; Harp, Enrico Tramonti; Violoncello, Jean Gerardy and Bruno Steindel.

THIRD PROGRAM

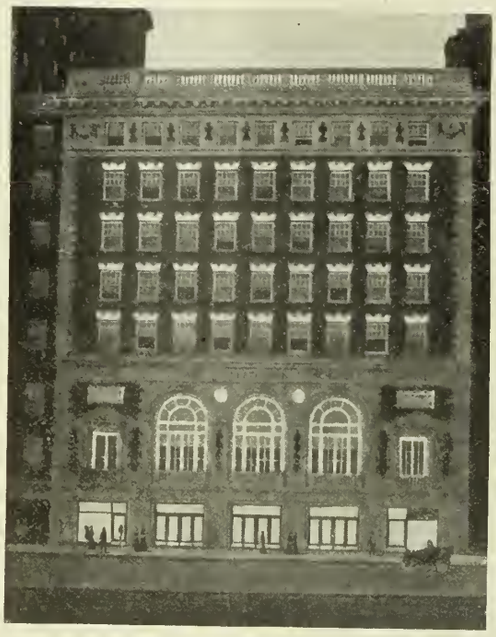
October 31 and November 1

Symphony No. 1, C major, Opus 21.....Beethoven
- Adagio molto-Allegro con brio
- Andante cantabile con moto
- Menuetto
- Adagio-Allegro molto e vivace

Five Little Pieces ..... Schoenberg

INTERMISSION

Symphony No. 2, D major, Opus 73.....Brahms
- Allegro non troppo
- Adagio non troppo
- Allegretto grazioso (quasi andantino)
- Allegro con spirito



ORCHESTRA HALL

The sale of seats has been a phenomenal one even for the orchestra, and these concerts will, as always, form the keystone of the season's musical building.

The first three programs (all without soloists), read as follows:

FIRST PROGRAM

October 17 and 18

Overture "Academic Festival".....Brahms

Symphony No. 7, A major, Opus 92.....Beethoven
- Poco sostenuto-Vivace
- Allegretto
- Presto
- Allegro con brio

INTERMISSION

Rondo, "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks"....Strauss

Suite, "Petite" .....Debussy
- Barcarolle
- Cortege
- Menuet
- Danse

Symphonic Tableau, "The Kremlin," Opus 30 ..... Glazounow

SECOND PROGRAM

October 24 and 25

Overture to "Die Entfuhrung aus dem Serail" ..... Mozart

Concerto G major.....Bach

Prolog to a Drama.....Reger

INTERMISSION

Symphony No. 10, C major.....Schubert
- Andante-Allegro ma non troppo
- Andante con moto
- Scherzo
- Finale

VALPARAISO UNIVERSITY

Last week Music News gave considerable space to a statement of facts about Valparaiso University, and especially as regards the Music Department.

Since then our attention has been called to a part of an article printed during the summer in "The Philistine," which we are pleased to reproduce here:

If Destiny has decreed that you shall not spend four years of your young life in a Gold Coast of Luxurious and Riotous Living, with everything supplied—do not despond. In Valparaiso, Indiana, is an institution of learning that dispenses with fuss and frivol, fitting young men and women for the serious business of right living. Indiana produces something beside best sellers—it produces desirable citizens.

In Valparaiso, the high cost of living is as unknown as the cost of high living. Five dollars a week defrays all the necessary expenses of the student. Dormitory accommodations are excellent. The food is fresh, wholesome, healthful. Valparaiso caters to young men and women who realize that time is their most precious possession and most transitory, and are willing to dispense with non-essentials, and work hard. It is no place for the drone, nor yet for the self-satisfied soul who haply deems he knows it all from A to Izzard. The youth who evinces a willingness to do almost anything but work, soon finds the environment uncongenial. He is a discordant note in the harmony and rarely tarries long. "Drink deep," said Pope, and they apply the advice at Valparaiso, with marked results.

Consider the following facts carefully, if perchance you have a son or a daughter for whom you hope good things. Valparaiso University boasts twenty-six departments, 195 instructors, and more than 5,600 students. The students hail from every state in the Union, and from twenty-two foreign countries as well, including Syria, India, the Philippines and Japan.

The Pittsburgh Contralto of National Prominence

Christine Miller

A Few Engagements Filled During Season of 1912-13

The List Speaks For Itself

NEW YORK ORATORIO SOCIETY (7th engagement within three years).

"Miss Miller never fails to carry conviction by her refined style and her well-schooled voice."—N. Y. Evening Mail, December 27, 1912.

CHICAGO MENDELSSOHN CLUB (2nd engagement).

"Miss Miller's interpretation strengthened the conviction that she is the first American contralto in the concert field."—Chicago Tribune, February 21, 1913.

PHILADELPHIA CHORAL SOCIETY (2nd consecutive engagement).

"Christine Miller was particularly enjoyable for the expression and earnestness of her singing—her phrasing is beautiful."—Philadelphia Record, December 31, 1912.

ST. PAUL SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA (2nd consecutive engagement).

"She is without doubt one of the greatest artists and the possessor of one of the loveliest voices on the American concert stage today."—St. Paul Pioneer Press, February 26, 1913.

CINCINNATI SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA (3rd consecutive engagement).

"Possessed of a voice warm and sympathetic, temperament and personal magnetism, Miss Miller has taken a very definite place in the musical life of the country."—Dayton Journal, November 20, 1912.

INDIANAPOLIS MAENNERCHOR (5th consecutive engagement).

"Every time she has sung here her work has been better than before—her voice, always pleasing, has become rounder and richer, and her chest tones have taken on a completeness and perfection gratifying to her listeners."—Indianapolis News, March 1, 1913.

EVANSTON, ILL., MUSICAL CLUB (7th consecutive engagement).

"Miss Miller's interpretation of the lovely alto solos has become classic—simple and dignified, her voice pours out wonderfully colored as occasion demands."—Daily News, December 20, 1912.

MILWAUKEE A CAPPELLA CHORUS (5th consecutive engagement in this city).

"Christine Miller in tone of her interpretations and the vocal delineation of them, added to one's regard for her high gifts."—Milwaukee Free Press, March 17, 1913.

NORTH SHORE FESTIVAL (2nd consecutive engagement).

"Miss Miller's oratorio sense is unerring. Her striking success in this field is testimony to her ability. Certainly no more eloquent, no more beautiful toned interpretation of this classic music are given us by any contraltos. The first aria, 'O Thou That Tellest,' was admirably sung, its superb musicianship of phrase and nuance being equaled by its enunciation. 'He Was Despised,' was the solo gem of the performance."—Chicago Inter-Ocean, May 27, 1913.

"Miss Christine Miller sang beautifully, every word coming to us with a tone color lovely in itself and full freighted with the spiritual message."—Chicago Evening Post, May 27, 1913.

MANAGEMENT

HAENSEL & JONES

AEOLIAN HALL - - - - - - NEW YORK CITY

Franz Kohler

VIOLINIST

Direction of
ERNEST BRIGGS
Chicago, Ill.

Albert Cotsworth

Organist
New First Congregational
Church, Chicago

Available as Coach for Quartets in either Church or Secular Music.

Will accept a few engagements before Clubs or Societies for Talks on Musical Topics.

Address
106 North La Salle Street, Chicago

DRESDEN

Though the musical season has scarcely commenced, the performances in the Royal Opera House are drawing big audiences. We have had some model representations of a series of Wagner works, such as "The Meistersinger," "Lohengrin," and the entire "Ring," all of them thoroughly re-staged and re-studied, new stage settings, new costumes, etc. The cast was of usual excellence under von Schuch's spirited direction.

The newly founded "Meisterschule fur Gesang" (master school of singing) under the leadership of E. von Schuch and Giacomo Minkowski, is being eagerly discussed. This institution, which gives great promise for the future, devotes its entire interest to a solid musical foundation in all branches of instruction required for public appearances on the operatic and the concert stages. Headed by the above famous artists, von Schuch and Mr. Giacomo Minkowski, whose fame from America and Berlin has preceded him, Mr. Minkowski being entirely new in Dresden, there is no doubt of success for the undertaking and its artistic results. As a rule only gifted "master pupils" are sure of admittance. Beginners are, of course, excluded, for the school goes in for a regular finishing polish. Nevertheless, the course of study comprises three years of serious work, so one may well fancy the pupils will achieve a thoroughly good musical education and routine.

Besides the above teachers, a noted phalanx of other instructors will assist, such as Alexander d'Arnals of the Court Opera; Frau Bleibtren, actress; Louise Brownson, Karl Pembaur, Royal Kapellmeister; Professor Fanto, Dr. Arthur Chitz and others.

The school building is a villa in the Bergstrasse 22, situated in the midst of a garden. The rooms are charming and comfortable, very tasteful in furnishing. I hope soon to be able to chronicle more about the lessons and the recitals occurring in the school.

The concert season is throwing its shadows beforehand. Well known soloists will assist at the philharmonic concerts, such as Elena Gerhardt, Bronislaw Huberman, Moriz Rosenthal, Claire Dux, Dr. Ludwig Wullner, Ysaye, etc.

The Petri Quartet Union began its series on October 6. Adrian Rappoldi, the exquisite violinist, in conjunction with Richard Burmeister, the famous Berlin pianist, will give sonata evenings devoted to Beethoven. Walter Bachman announces his chamber music union recitals. Marie Alberti will give a Schumann song evening, and so on.

The Dresden singing teachers are already busy with their respective classes. At the head is Mme. Natalie Haenisch, whose extraordinary pedagogic successes were chronicled last spring.

Guido Haebler's gifted pupil, Rudolf Kratina, was engaged for the Court Opera. He is doing some very respectable work both in minor roles and in bigger parts.

According to news from Finland. Mme. Aino Ackte, the celebrated prima donna of the Paris Grand Opera, she herself a native of Finland, arranged during the summer a series of operatic performances, devoted exclusively to the work of Oscar Merikanto, whose operatic drama, "Glinan Surma," was produced with Aino Ackte in the principal role of Kirsti Fleming. The performances took place on the ruins of one of Finland's oldest castles, Olavinlinna, situated in one of the most picturesque parts of the country. Mme. Ackte by all the home critics as well as by those from foreign countries, present on the occasion, achieved unstinted praise for her truly dramatic and powerful presentation of the exacting role. Her opera company was in general, to judge from reports, very good. After the operatic evenings were over the remaining days of the "Finnish music festival" of Savonlinna were devoted to concerts and recitals, the programs comprising exclusively Finnish composer's works, by Jarncfelt, Sibelius, Palmgren, Taivo-Kuula, Kajanus, Genetz, Levi Madetoja and others. Great enthusiasm prevailed.

ANNA INGMAN.

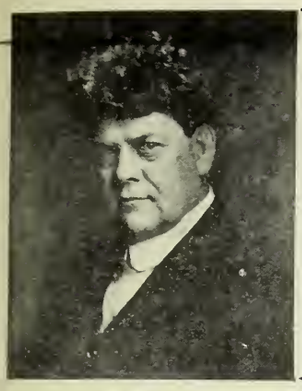
MISS ALICE DEAL

Miss Alice Deal, secretary of the Chicago Chapter of the A. G. O., and state president of the N. A. O., has arranged to continue the Sunday evening post-ludial organ recitals which she inaugurated so successfully last year at the Leavitt Street Congregational Church, where she is organist and director of music.

These programs follow immediately after the sermon of the evening service on the fourth Sunday evening of each month and the public is cordially invited to attend. Miss Deal also maintains a chorus choir, and during the winter season many special programs of much significance are given.

Besides her work as a solo organist, which has developed very much, Miss Deal is an accompanist of fine attainments and she has also large classes in both piano and organ.

ALICE R. DEAL



CHARLES W. CLARK

"The World's Greatest Interpreter of Song"

AMERICAN TOUR NOVEMBER, 1913—JUNE, 1914
Direction REDPATH MUSICAL BUREAU, Cable Bldg.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE WITH THE REDPATH MUSICAL BUREAU FOR MR. CLARK TO TEACH IN CHICAGO IN DECEMBER

For Particulars, Address Dr. Frederick Clark, Redpath Musical Bureau - - Cable Building, Chicago, Illinois

THUEL BURNHAM, PIANO VIRTUOSO

It is thus that Thuel Burnham will be presented to the American public this season, beginning January 1, 1914, under the capable management of Harry Culbertson. His fame has already preceded him, and the interest will be all the greater, as this young master brings a new note into piano interpretation, that of the reappearance as a matured artist and musician of a child prodigy, who, at the age of ten and for several years toured all America and Europe with briliant success. People often ask what becomes of the child prodigy? Often no more is heard of him. Fourteen years ago Burnham went to Europe, and studied everywhere and finally several years ago established himself in Paris, which place is now definitely his home.

Having had so much experience before the public, it is as a master indeed that he comes to claim his own, and he brings with him an equipment and a developed genius that will surprise the American public.

During these last years Burnham has given numerous recitals at his own studio, and fulfilled many important salon engagements before the elite of the large European cities—Paris, London, in Germany, etc., where socially Burnham is a great favorite. At his own recitals many famous Americans and the nobility of Europe have congregated to hear and praise him.

And what are some of the traits that distinguished this brilliant young genius among the crowd of great musicians. His technic is colossal, his tone is crystalline and has that famous singing quality that Burnham has developed to the utmost. His runs are liquid pearls. But others have these too. What, then, makes Burnham gain such a hold on his public? It is an artistic development and a force and depth of character that very few obtain at such an early age. It is the message he brings through his interpretations, that incite in his hearers the desire to achieve and to worship the beautiful as Burnham himself does. One feels inspired, one has no time to think only that Burnham is inspired. He inspires you and leaves you a stronger and more foreful character. And then how he entertains you; his great humor and play of fantasy, his tragic development of the dramatic dramas whose depths he sounds in his wonderful readings of Schubert "Erl-Konig" (Liszt), MacDowell's "Sonata Tragica," etc.

His wonderfully classical Mozart programs, his mighty renditions of the noble Beethoven, whose character he seems to impersonate, so sympathetic is he with minds of the great composers.

Burnham's repertoire is enormous, including, with the classical school, special work in the modern Russian school, and the French school headed by Debussy. Burnham has a great fondness for American composers, and has done much to spread the fame of his distinguished countrymen abroad, giving frequent programs of American works, especially our inimitable MacDowell. A program that Burnham has had to repeat many times seems remarkably well composed and balanced. MacDowell's works, the "Sonata Tragica," "To a Wild Rose," "From an Indian Lodge, "To a Water Lily," "Shadow Dance," "Improvisation," "Witches' Dance" and "Polonaise." The contrast of the readings, the poetic descriptions, leave an effect of lyrical beauty and calmness that is unsurpassed.

As a Schumann player Burnham shows another side of his character that people who have heard him many times are amazed at. Only his long residence at Vienna and in Germany could have enabled him to so perceive and so embody the Schumann spirit.

And Burnham always leaves the desire to hear him again. He makes friends and keeps them. His studio recitals have become so crowded that the late guests cannot even get in the doors.

Burnham has wanted to make his first big tour an American one. After his fourteen years' residence abroad he is more patriotically American than ever. It is to the American public that he brings his storehouse of treasures, and judging from the large number of engagements already booked, a large part of the American public is already eager to hear him, and predisposed to give him a royal welcome. Burnham is a success and his magnetic personality opens all doors to him.

To hear Burnham play will be one of the interesting events of the American season. His interesting and dramatic reappearance will make him one of the most talked of among this season's artists, and orchestras and other musical clubs seem to be vying with each other to include him in this season's programs.

MAY MANSFIELD.

Paris, September 15.

SPALDING OPENS TOUR IN NORWAY

A letter just received from Christiania, Norway, reports that Albert Spalding opened his concert tour at Brodrene Hall on the night of September 4. He was greeted by an assemblage which filled every seat and was hailed with delight by a public which heard him last autumn. Mr. Spalding was assisted at the piano by Andre Benoist, in the following program:

"Sonata in D Major," Corelli; "Adagio and Fugue," Bach; "Prelude and Allegro," Paganini-Kriesler; "Gartenmelodie," Schumann; "At the Fountain," Schumann; "Mazurka," Dvorak; "Prize Song," Wagner-Wilhelmj; "La Campanella," Paganini.

ALBERT SPALDING IN CHRISTIANIA

In reviewing the performances the critics declared that the American violinist "revealed a wealth of tonal beauty and technical finish in the lovely Italian sonata." His other numbers elicited hardly less praise; the enthusiasm of the musical connoisseurs in the music-loving city was prolonged and stormy. Spalding played a number of encores and he played them superbly.

At all of the principal hotels and in many of the shop windows in the principal cities of Scandinavia are window cards and pictures, which announce the great tour which Spalding is making in northern Europe. He will revisit many cities in which he played last year.

New Publications

SONGS

I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say
Carlton Drew .50
For high or medium voice

'Tis the Air of You
Marguerite Easter .50
A capital little encore song for medium or high voice

To You ..... Chas T. Ferry .50
The popularity of this song prompted us to issue it for high voice

Living Poems .....Isadore Martinez .60
Longfellow's words very attractively set to music. Desirable as a concert number. For high voice.

Out of the Depths.....Alfred Wooler .60
A splendid sacred song, generally Available. Published in two keys.

PIANO PIECES

In the Bottoms..... ...R. Nathaniel Dett 1.50
A suite of five pieces charmingly characteristic and attractive; descriptive of Southern life. Summy Edition, No. 61 (Gr. 4).

Graded Studies, Bk. VI.
Compiled by Mrs. Crosby Adams 1.00
A new addition to this series of studies. The growing popularity of these books is the best possible evidence of their individual excellence.

Unison Prelude—D Minor
Stephen Heller .25

Unison Prelude—Gb, Stephen Heller .35
Two extremely useful numbers (Grade 4-5).

Musical Picture Book—Part I.
Carl Koelling .50

Musical Picture Book—Part II.
Carl Koelling .75
Two new volumes in Summy Edition, Nos. 59 and 60. These have the attractiveness and general utility of the universally popular Burgmuller recreations and are being used in their stead by many.

Katrina, Waltz Intermezzo (Gr. 3)
Wilmot Lemont .40

The Shepherd's Pipe (Gr. 2-3)
Wilmot Lemont .25
These are particularly attractive musically, besides furnishing excellent teaching subjects.

Published by

CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO.,
64 E. VAN BUREN ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

MINNIE HUDD-TRELOAR

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Treloar (Minnie Hudd) have returned from a summer spent mostly in the Gogebic range of the upper peninsula of Michigan. Mrs. Hudd-Treloar sang at several functions during her vacation. The following notice appeared in a July edition of the "Ironwood News Record:"

"MRS. TRELOAR AND OTHERS PLEASE"

A fine audience assembled at the First Methodist Episcopal Church Friday evening, July 18, to hear a concert under the auspices of the church. The artist of the occasion was Mrs. Minnie Hudd-Treloar of Chicago. She was ably assisted by the Misses Lofberg, pianist and organist; Miss Jessica Bond, reader; Messrs. Bickford and Treloar, tenors, and Mr. Anderson, violinist.

Mrs. Treloar has a dramatic soprano voice. Her rendition of the aria from the "Barber of Seville" was flawlessly executed, the runs with her interpolated trills showing the voice to be also of the coloratura type.

"The Jolly Blacksmith's Lay," a quartet with anvil accompaniment, sung by Messrs. Treloar, Bickford, Rotter and Matthews, was finely rendered. The trio arrangement by Mrs. Treloar, of the beautiful "Barcarolle" from "Tales of Hoffman," and sung by Mr. and Mrs. Treloar with violin and piano accompaniment, called forth great applause. The evening's entertainment closed with two ballad numbers, Cowan's "Swallows," and Lang's "Irish Mother's Love Song." The most noticeable feature of Mrs. Treloar's work in ballad form was her clear enunciation, making it therefore possible to distinctly understand every word she sang, which was greatly appreciated by the audience. (Advertisement.)

MR. AND MRS. REED MILLER

Mr. and Mrs. Miller (Nevada Van der Veer-Miller), have returned from their summer in Europe and report an excellent vacation. Already the booking of concert and oratorio engagements for both of them is heavy and a feature of their coming season will be many joint recitals.

MR. AND MRS. REED MILLER

The accompanying picture was taken at Lake Constance in Switzerland, where they were in August.

HORATIO CONNELL, MAN OF RE-ENGAGEMENTS

Horatio Connell, the well known baritone, records a season of much activity and his plans for the near future are equally significant of a strong popular interest in his interpretative art.

Mr. Connell opened last season with a re-engagement at the Worcester Festival, October 3, singing the baritone solo in Schumann's "Ruth." This was followed by a re-engagement with the Milwaukee Musical Society, where he appeared for the second time in Wolf-Ferrari's "La Vita Nuova." With the B Sharp Club at Utica, N. Y., and with the Choral Society of Alton, Ill., he also filled re-engagements, and was re-engaged for recitals at the Middlesex Club, Lowell, Mass., and at St. Mary's School, Knoxville. Recitals were given at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.; St. Botolph Club, Boston; Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.; Notre Dame University, Notre Dame, Ind.; Tuesday Musical Club, Wausau, Wis.; Musical Club, Sedalia, Wis.; Appleton, Wis.; Grand Rapids; Wednesday Club, Harrisburg, Pa., and the Haydn Club, Philadelphia. Mr. Connell appeared before the Liederkranz Club at St. Louis, with the Choral Union at Boston in Bruch's "Cross of Fire," with the Arion Club at Providence, R. I.; in "St. Paul," at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., and filled private engagements in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Washington, concluding his season at the Paterson Festival in Massenet's "Eve," on April 30, and at the Bach Festival, May 30 and 31, in the Passion Music and the B Minor Mass, sung in Bethlehem, Pa., under the direction of Dr. J. Fred Wolle.

After a successful month at Bar Harbor, Me., during August, where he had many private engagements, he went to Spring Lake in the same state for his real vacation. He lived in camp on a beautiful lake and employed the time in fishing, being so fortunate as to hook many fine examples of the salmon and trout families.

Mr. Connell's coming season is very promising. He will give a recital on November 25 in Aeolian Hall, New York. He has been re-engaged by the Philadelphia Orchestra for symphony concerts on January 9 and 19, and has been engaged for the three-day festival given by the Mendelssohn Choir of Toronto under Dr. Vogt, February 3, 4 and 5. One of the works which he will sing will be the baritone solo role in "La Vita Nuova," Wolf-Ferrari. Mr. Connell is also engaged to sing with the Apollo Club of Chicago on April 6 in the Bach B minor Mass, and with the Boston St. Cecelia Society, April 10 in Bach's Passion Music. He will also be the baritone soloist in the performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony given March 13-14 by the Philadelphia Orchestra.

CARL E. CRAVEN

Mr. Carl E. Craven, who is a pupil and assistant of William Clare Hall, Fine Arts Building, is assured already of a busy season, both in teaching and concert work. To speak of his teaching, two of his pupils, Mrs. Edna Nall, soprano, and Mr. C. E. Matteson, baritone, whose testimonials prove them to be artists, had never studied before they came to Mr. Craven. Mr. Matteson began to study one year ago and Mrs. Nall only last May—both are now soloists at Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, where Mr. Craven is director of music and tenor soloist.

Mr. Craven had two engagements in September and is booked to appear in concert with a mixed quartet in Milwaukee shortly.

In November he will sing the tenor parts in "Prodigal Son" (Vincent), and "Olivet to Calvary" (Maunder).

Between Christmas and New Year's he is to sing the tenor role of "The Coming of the King," by Buck. An engagement for "Elijah" is pending for November. Mr. Craven has a large repertoire in oratorios and cantatas besides several new programs for concert and recital purposes. He is under the management of Harriet Martin Snow.

WALTER DIEDERICH

Mr. Walter Diederich, tenor, who made so successful a debut last year and who has many engagements for the current season, will teach on Monday of each week at the Memorial Church of Christ, Oakwood boulevard, and on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at the Chicago Evangelistic Institute, Wood street and Washington boulevard.

Cornelius Van VLIET

The Dutch 'Cellist

American Recital and Concert Tour

Season 1914-15

Management
Harry Culbertson
Chicago

CORNELIUS VAN VLIET, the Dutch 'cellist, is rapidly winning the distinction in this country that could be expected of an artist of European reputation.

Mr. Van Vliet, born in Rotterdam in 1886, has been in this country now for two seasons. His first American appearance was made in the fall of 1911, together with Tetrazzini, Mary Garden and other artists of the first order in a concert at the Chicago Orchestra Hall, and caused a sensation. Since then Mr. Van Vliet has appeared with supreme success in a number of our great cities in individual concerts or recitals, and as soloist with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra and a great many other organizations.

There are two genres of musical performers which each have their great particular following wherever heard. There are the virtuoso and the scholarly artist. One is the brilliant executant; the other, the penetrating interpreter. The former dazzles you, while the other quietly but firmly convinces you. But the exceptional performers are those who combine the qualities of the brilliant virtuoso with those of the scholarly interpreter. In this class of the all too few belongs Cornelius Van Vliet. And this is all the more to be appreciated as the repertoire of the 'cello is generally supposed to be limited and especially adapted for mere virtuose exploitation. A 'cello recital such as given by Mr. Van Vliet will thoroughly convince any one as well of the superficiality of such a supposition as of the profound and discerning musical erudition of the artist.

A child of music, Cornelius Van Vliet began his studies at six, learning several instruments, but from the age of nine specializing for 'cello work. His teachers were such men as Professor Eberle of Rotterdam and Professor Mossel of Amsterdam, while the names of Mengelberg, Winderstein, Nedbal, Sibelius, Colonne, Mahler and Weingartner through his fruitful association with them are like milestones in his development as musician and artist. Mr. Van Vliet is a man of versatile culture and many interests. It was his desire to learn to know America and Americans that caused him to realize a long harbored wish to come here. And he will not depart before he has seen and heard everything he wishes to, or before he has been heard everywhere. And to hear him is to appreciate him. Of a faultless, resourceful and brilliant technique, Mr. Van Vliet possesses a tone of phenomenal power and sweetness, while his pose in playing is a rare combination of well-calculated force and natural ease. His unfailing purity of intonation is a marvel.

It is men of Mr. Van Vliet's type who accomplish something for the spreading of genuine art appreciation in this country, and his coming was a valuable acquisition for lovers and promoters of a true musical culture.

VICTOR NILSSON.

Allen Spencer

American Conservatory
CHICAGO

Anna M. Tomlinson

Pianist &
Teacher

Stein Musical and Dramatic School
55 Auditorium Building
CHICAGO

Residence Studio—
Oak Park and Windsor Avenues, Berwyn, Ill.
Phone, Berwyn 131

ALICE R. DEAL

Concert Organist
& Accompanist

Pupils—Piano and Organ—
Mornings 8 to 10 at
LEAVITT STREET CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH
Leavitt and W. Adams Sts.

Residence 716 S. Campbell Av. Phone Seeley 6210

THE MUSICAL SEASON IN DES MOINES

Few cities of the country will enjoy a better concert season than that to be promoted in the Iowa capital this year. With three local managers in the field, a superb array of recitalists is arranged and a large guarantee has been procured in each case. The concert calendar to date follows:

October 10, Maggie Teyte.

October 14, Sidney Silber.

October 27, Harold Bauer.

November 3, Pasquale Amato.

December 15, Francis Macmillen and Frances Ingram.

January 9, Mme. Melba and Jan Kubelik.

January 13, Clarence Whitehill and Myrtle Elvyn.

January 14, Carl Flesch.

January 29, Leo Slezak.

February 2, Alma Gluck.

February 10, Ignace Jan Paderewski.

February 20, the Kneisel Quartet and Thuel Burnham.

March 9, Mischa Elman.

March 24, Margarete Matzenauer.

This does not include the orchestral concerts of the annual spring festival, the recitals of local artists, and an open date in one of the local courses. Dr. M. L. Bartlett, manager of the all-star concert course, Holmes Cowper of the Drake University course, and George Frederick Ogden of the Des Moines subscription concert series, are the enterprising promoters of these unrivaled attractions.

There will also be heard a number of concerts by the Philharmonic Choir and the Handel Choir, each of whom will have the assistance of outside soloists and orchestras.

♮ ♮ ♮

Municipal Concerts

Des Moines is also in the limelight because of her resolution to establish a series of municipal concerts during the months of November to April. The movement has been systematized and an organization of forces effected through the efforts of Mrs. F. D. Harsh, one of the brilliant club women of the city. The concerts will be held on Sunday afternoons in the Auditorium, the programs being given by the best local talent assisted by outside artists, who may be passing through the city. An admission of ten cents will be charged and an effort made to secure the attendance of all workers in the factories and shops. The plan is looked upon with favor by the majority of citizens.

♮ ♮ ♮

Changes in Professional Circles

Frederick Vance Evans, director of the voice department in Highland Park College of Music, has accepted the directorship of Lawrence College at Appleton, Wis., for the ensuing year. His successor in this city is George Ashley Brewster of Lake Forest, Ill., who will be an early recitalist this season.

Another change in this faculty was necessitated by the resignation of Mr. Eugene Hahnel, who has cast his lot in St. Louis. Mr. Hahnel's position as director of the violin department has been filled by Domenico Saluzzo, a brilliant young artist who has but recently entered this country, where he will resume his professional activities.

Mrs. Charles Hardy, one of the ablest exponents of the Virgil system of piano playing and who has been prominent here for many years, has taken up her new home in Minneapolis. Mrs. Hardy spent the past summer in study with Josef Lhevinne.

Daniel Bonus, violinist and director of the Midwestern Conservatory of Music in this city, has abandoned his school and joined the faculty of the John Milliken University at Decatur, Ill.

Miss Frances Wright, supervisor of music in the public schools, has returned from a season of summer school teaching in Boston, bringing with her some helpers for her local work. Miss Wright has been very successful during her years of service here and announces some very fine plans for the coming year.

George Frederick Ogden has opened his piano studios with a large number of students and five teachers. His lecture work will open for the season with an explanatory recital on the Harold Bauer program under the patronage of the Des Moines Women's Club. Later Mr. Ogden will resume his recital work under the management of Harry Culbertson of Chicago.

——♯♯♯——

MME. GERVILLE-REACHE

Mme. Reache, who shares the ideas of Mme. Schumann-Heink and Theodore Roosevelt on the subject of large families,

MME. GERVILLE-REACHE, DR. RAMBAUD AND SON

has lately become the mother of a second son, as chronicled in a recent issue of Music News.

The accompanying picture shows Mme. Gerville-Reache with her husband, Dr. Rambaud, and her elder son, Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Eddy

May be engaged together, or separately for

Organ and Song Recitals

Address: 510 Oakwood Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois
Telephone Douglas 9027

SIDNEY SILBER IN RECITAL

Mr. Sidney Silber, who has had great success abroad and whose various appearances as pianist in America have been universally successful, will make his first appearance in Chicago in a recital at the Whitney Opera House (Joe Howard Comedy Theater) on Sunday afternoon, October 19.

His program, which is very unusual in every way, reads as follows:

Chaconne ..... Bach-Busoni
Sonata Tragica, G minor, Op. 45 ..... MacDowell
Largo maetoso—Allegro risoluto
Molto allegro, vivace
Largo con Maesta
Allegro eroica
Barcarolle, Op. 60 ..... Chopin
Nocturne, D Flat, Op. 27, No. 2
Waltz, A Flat, Op. 42
Scherzo, B Minor, Op. 20. No. 1
Praeludium, A Flat, Op. 56, No. 1 ..... Hugo Kaun
Scherzo E flat, ,Op. 11, No. 2 Alexander MacFadyen
(Dedicated to Mr. Silber)
Eine Liebesnovelle, Op. 6 ..... Erich J. Wolff
Love's Awakening (Spring)
Love's Consummation (summer)
The Death of Love (Autumn)
Tintements de Clochettes ..... Raoul Pugno
Caprice espagnol, Op. 37 ..... Moritz Moszkowski

GRACE BRUNE MARCUSSON

Mrs. Grace Brune Marcusson, soprano, whose work was so well received by Chicagoans last season, will tour extensively during this winter under the direction of Harry Culbertson.

Series of recitals in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri are already arranged and the dates pending cover much territory, both east and west.

JESSIE LYNDE HOPKINS

Owing the very rapid growth of the Vocal Department of the Columbia Conservatory of Music at Aurora, Ill., Mr. Harry Detweiler, the director, has found it necessary to add a new teacher.

Choice for this position has fallen on Miss Jessie Lynde Hopkins of Chicago, who has made a number of very successful appearances in Aurora and who will hereafter be absent one day each week from Chicago, teaching a splendid class at the Columbia Conservatory.

ETHEL ALTEMUS' AMERICAN TOUR

Miss Ethel Altemus, the distinguished pianist, who has made so many warm friends among the American public, has just returned to this country from her concert season of 1913 and 1914. She has made Europe her home ever since she was fourteen, studying in the various capitals abroad, having made a five years' stay in Vienna, while a pupil under the famous Leschetizky. He predicted a brilliant career for her, but the marvelous way in which she has developed in her last two years before the public comes as a great surprise to all. She plays with a depth of feeling and an exquisite sense of beauty and tone color that charm and enthrall her hearers. Her press notices have been most enthusiastic and wherever she has once played she is always re-engaged.

MISS ETHEL ALTEMUS

Miss Altemus has been making a special study of modern French music, and among French musicians her interpretations of Debussy are held in high esteem. I do not know anyone better equipped in the concert field in America this season who can so truly and charmingly interpret this most elusive of modern composers. Tone color and dynamics play a great part in her readings, and as this gifted young player always works without notes at the piano, she works out marvelous effects and pictures. Her memory is so wonderful and her musical knowledge so great that I have known her to take a difficult Debussy composition of an evening, analyze it away from the piano, and the next morning she will go to the piano and play it from memory, the first time, searching and working for the balancing of colors and tonal effects.

Miss Altemus is an artist of great temperamental depths, delicacy of imagination, and of almost masculine force and technic. Her pedaling is a marvel of science. Although she has served a long apprenticeship in tradition, she has kept her originality of thought, and her exquisite taste and sense of and love of the beautiful give a harmonious result that places her among the front ranks of young pianists.

Her American tour this season will be much extended in the west, and consists of a much larger number of concerts, playing with the various orchestras and giving concerts and salon work.

F. B.

CLARA JEANNETTE PEARNE

Clara Jeannette Pearne reopened her studio in the Merrick Building for the winter's work, September 15. Besides teaching in her south side studio, Miss Pearne has classes on the north side, in Winnetka, and in Beloit, Wis. Miss Pearne has also accepted the directorship of the piano department in the School for Singing and Voice Building recently opened in the Merrick Building by Mrs. Bertha Smart-Iredale, pupil of Mr. Frederick Bruegger. Under the auspices of this school Miss Pearne will give a course of lectures on the "History of Music."

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC

LINCOLN, NEBRASKA

The University School of Music entered recently upon its twentieth year of unprecedented prosperity. By virtue of his ability as a musician to select a corps of highly efficient instructors, together with exceptional executive and administrative powers, Willard Kimball, director, has succeeded in building up an institution which undoubtedly belongs in the group of about ten absolutely first class music schools of this country. The fact that the enrollment (which last year exceeded 800 students) is recruited from eighteen states besides Nebraska, is sufficient evidence of its wide scope and reputation.

MISS EDITH LUCILE ROBBINS

The equipment includes thirty-five instructors in all the principal branches of music, sixty-five practice rooms and studios all furnished with new pianos, lecture room seating 100, recital hall seating 700, four pipe organs, besides a separate building for the juvenile department.

Following is the list of departments and instructors:

Theoretical Department

John M. Rosborough, Howard Kirkpatrick, Charles F. H. Mills, Clare B. Cornell, Lucy Haywood, Ethel Biles.

Pianoforte Department

Sidney Silber, Mrs. Will Owen Jones, Mrs. Lura Schuler Smith, J. Frank Frysinger, Marjorie Anderson, Nell Cave, Arvid Samuelson, Louise Zumwinkel, Lucy Haywood, Hazel Kinscella, Katherine Kimball, Ruth Pilcher, Ethel Biles.

Juvenile Department (Pianoforte Study for Children)

Carrie W. Pettis, Marguerite Klinker.

Organ Department

J. Frank Frysinger, Helen Burns.

Vocal Department

Howard Kirkpatrick, Charles F. H. Mills, Lillian Dobbs Helms, Charles H. Miller, Vera Augusta Upton, Edith Lucile Robbins, Lulu Carnes, Jude Deyo, Elizabeth Bonnell.

Orchestral Department

Carl Frederic Steckelberg (violin, conductor People's Symphony orchestra), Abraham Loeb (violin, violoncello, leader Junior orchestra), Clare B. Cornell, (leader University of Nebraska Cadet band), Stephen Jelinek (cornet, trombone), Rex Elton Fair (flute, saxaphone, clarinet).

Public School Music Department

Charles H. Miller, Clare B. Cornell.

Theory and Practice of Piano Tuning

Augustus Judson Morley.

Normal Department

Sidney Silber, Mrs. Will Owen Jones, Mrs. Lura Schuler Smith, J. Frank Frysinger, Carl Frederic Steckelberg.

Dramatic Art

John T. Prince Jr.

The following courses are offered:

Post-Graduate—For professional students and those preparing for a public career. Two years.

Academic—Major in piano, organ, voice, violin or composition, with minor in applied music. Full theoretical course. Five years. Leads to degree of Bachelor of Music.

Teacher's Certificate—Piano, voice, organ, of violin, with one year of harmony; theory, history and pedagogy. Two years.

Public School Supervisors—Methods, piano, voice, theory, ear training. Two years.

Piano Tuning—Practical and theoretical work, ear training, history. Six months.

Preparatory—For children. The Fletcher-Copp system of objective study. Pianoforte only. One to two years.

Extension Courses—Harmony, counterpoint and composition by correspondence.

Modern Languages—French, German and Italian.

Dramatic Art—Criticising and analysis of plays, technic of acting. Preparation for recital and the stage. Elocution.

The Faculty

Sidney Silber, head of the pianoforte department, received his first musical education in Milwaukee. Subsequently he went abroad, studying under Professors Ernest Jedliczka and Heinrich Barth of Berlin. For three years he was a favored pupil of Professor Theodore Leschetizky. He played with marked success with orchestras in Berlin and Vienna and gave many recitals in various parts of Europe. Returning to Milwaukee in 1904, he was soon established as a leading instructor and brilliant artist. In September 1906 he was called to head the pianoforte department of Des Moines Musical College. In the short period following, he has achieved a veritable triumph. Readers of Music News are well acquainted with the high standards of his teaching as exemplified by the programs of numerous graduates and post-graduates.

Mrs. Will Owen Jones, whose artistic career is so familiar to every music lover of the West, was graduated with high honors from the New England Conservatory of Music. Later she spent one year with Rafael Joseffy. She has given many recitals in Nebraska and her programs and performances have invariably called forth the most genuine expressions of admiration and enthusiasm. In the class room she takes the greatest pride in the development of serious and gifted pupils who have without exception reflected the high ideals and spirit of earnest effort which pervades her studio.

Mr. Howard Kirkpatrick's musical training was received at Knox Conservatory, Oberlin Conservatory of Music, Leipzig Conservatory of Music and under Signor Vincenzo Vannini of Florence. Since the fall of 1900 he has been instructor of voice in the University School of Music. Mr. Kirkpatrick has written a number of exquisite songs and large compositions of which the cantata "The Fireworshipers" has been repeatedly produced with fine effect and the opera "Olaf" which received its initial presentation in Lincoln, achieving a most impressive success. Mr. Kirkpatrick has also edited a number of instructive works on vocalism and his work as a high class instructor is well known throughout the entire West.

Mrs. Lura Schuler Smith has just completed the eighth year of her connection with the School of Music and has demonstrated to the complete satisfaction of all that her concise and methodical ideas of

How does the Effa Ellis Teaching System and Keyboard Harmony aid the Music Teacher?

A private talk with Effa Ellis Perfield, the originator of this work will convince the most experienced and thorough musician that there are many vital problems which at first seem simple, but are really difficult to solve for pupils unless the teacher is developing through FEELING and REASONING.

We have been told and taught mere facts so long that we do not know what it really means to develop and educate a pupil.

Teachers must begin with analysis of themselves and the material they use. Ask yourself these questions: Do I know why A is the relative minor of C, and why d-e-f-g or b cannot be its minor? Do I know why the half steps come between 3 and 4, and 7 and 8 in the major scale?

Do I present the major scale by singing it or playing it, and then building it from a pattern and think that that means presenting feeling and reasoning?

Do I teach the grand staff developed from middle C and think I am developing? Do I teach the major chord as 1-3-5 of the major scale and only enable my pupils to associate it with one key?

We have been told and taught by mere facts so long that we do not know what it really means to develop and educate a pupil.

Do I teach cadences as chords or 1-4-5 of the scale and not show why these chords are used?

Do I know five reasons why the dominant is stronger than the subdominant?

Do I know how to make a chord sentence or can I only play the chords on each letter of the scale, which sounds as though a sentence had been made of: "The, is, as, was and but."

Do I teach tonic minor scales and lose sight of the use of the scale only for technic?

Do I teach the dominant 7th chord as the 5th of the scale and enable my pupils to make only the tonic resolutions?

Do my pupils have to count while they play?
Do I know how to teach modulation to children seven or eight years old?
Do I know why augmented intervals are to be avoided?
Do I know why a major third is not to be doubled but a minor third may?
Do I know how to notate the chromatic scale in all keys, melodically and harmonically?
Do I know how to present and develop melody building?
Do I know how to have small pupils as well as adults harmonize melodies?
Do I know how to develop inner feeling and inner hearing?
Do my pupils read at first sight?
Do my pupils know how to phrase, pedal, memorize and transpose by harmony?
Do my pupils transpose IN key or merely ON keys by means of finger positions?
Do I develop rhythmic, melodic and harmonic ear training and melody dictation?
Do my pupils know music or only about music?

YOU have solved these difficulties you will appreciate the great work being accomplished by the Effa Ellis Teaching System and Keyboard Harmony, and if you have progressed to the point where you "know that you do not know" you are ready for this work.

Effa Ellis Perfield has been conducting a training class for teachers the last two weeks in Chicago, and will return in November. Full particulars may be had of the teachers who represent this work in Chicago and vicinity, a list of which is given at the bottom of this page.

EFFA ELLIS MUSIC BOOK PUBLISHED JANUARY 22, 1913, MEETS WITH FAVOR

Dear Miss Ellis:—

Am delighted with the new music book and thank you for sample programs.

Would be glad to use some of your Ellis Growing Green Postal Cards. (See date of this letter). (Signed) LEILA MUNSELL.

Muskogee, Okla., January 24, 1913.

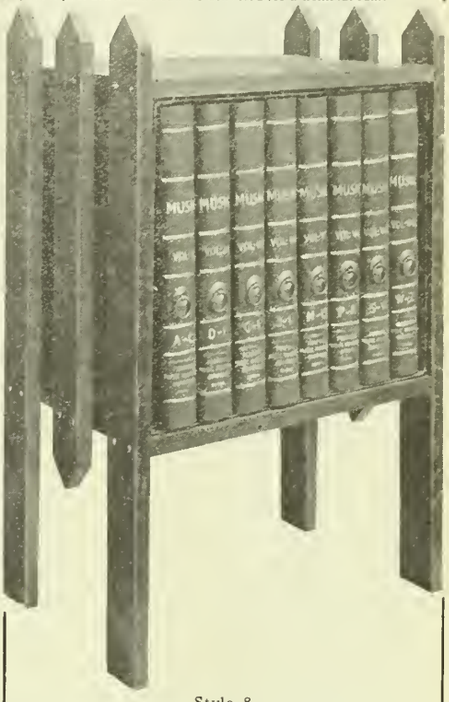
SEE OTHER ENDORSEMENTS ELSEWHERE IN THIS PAPER

Full particulars may be had of the following teachers:

MISS AMANDA E. SNAPP, Congress Hotel, R., 1364, (Chicago.)
MISS LYDIA WORTH SMITH, 720 Simpson, Evanston, Ill.
MRS. HELEN ST. RAYNOR, 1900 Sunnyside avenue, Ravenswood.
MRS. CARRIE BARRORS, 1303 Chicago avenue, Evanston, Ill.
MISS KATHERINE SCHUSTER, 71 Auditorium Building, Chicago.
MR. HARRY DETWEILER, Aurora, Ill.
MISS ANNA TOMLINSON, Berwyn, Ill.

Born of Necessity

A Filing and Finding Indexing Music System and Cabinet, a clever invention, the patent of T. H. Perfield, of Omaha, Neb. He is spending some time in Chicago while touring the United States in the interest of his device. It is a Combination Music Indexing System or Cabinet for Sheet Music, Disc or Cylinder Records, Player Rolls. The Table Cabinet Stand is for all Horn Type Talking Machines, all Victrolas and Grafinolas which do not have stands. It is a parcel post article and can be delivered for a nominal sum.



Style 8

Each compartment is two inches thick, has the appearance of a large volume of music, bound in genuine Karatol, which has a beautiful shade of green. Its wearing qualities are superior to all other bindings, stamped with gold letters. To remove compartments from case pull the ring. Holds 100 records or 400 pieces of sheet music.

A set of eight compartments standing upright just fits in the ordinary music cabinet by removing the lower shelves. Sold with or without cabinet.

Style 4

A set of 4 compartments instead of 8

OVERCOMES THESE DIFFICULTIES

1. No lost music.
2. No torn music.
3. No stray pages.
4. No ragged edges.
5. No crippled backs.
6. No soiled music.
7. No music in your way.
8. No complicated details.
9. No time lost, music handy.
10. No money lost in replacing music.
11. No trouble to take care of your music.
12. No music scattered about the room.
13. No delay when you want a piece quickly.
14. No confusion in your music cabinet.
15. No handling of music to find the piece you want.
16. No vexation over the problem of what to do with your music.
17. No music piled on the piano, on the stand or on the floor.
18. No guess work about which pile contains the piece you want.
19. No ragged and torn edges displayed when you open your music cabinet.
20. No chance to lose those pieces prized because of their rarity or of the memories connected with them.
21. No embarrassment caused by keeping your friends waiting while you find the next piece they want you to play.

Send for complete catalogue and prices.

THE PERFIELD

Indexing Music Cabinet Company

205 Old Boston Store Building, Omaha

Miss Eva Emmet Wycoff (Soprano)

Is available for Concert, Oratorio, Recital and Festivals.

The most recent engagements of Miss Wycoff, as soloist, have b en with the following:

Soprano of Quartet, Chautauqua, July, 1913. Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, Akron, O. Choral Society, Huntington, W. Va. New York, N. Y. Toledo, Ohio. Detroit, Mich. Erie, Pa. Woman's Club, Evanston, Ill. Saengerbund, Washington, D. C. Morning Musicale, Syracuse, N. Y. Morning Musicale, Auburn, N. Y. Arion Singing Society, Jersey City, N. J.
And with many other prominent organizations.

Address all communications to Virginia C. Ruckoldt, Secy.

7 W. 92nd St., New York City

study are producing results of an unmistakably high order. She graduated from the Oberlin Conservatory of Music in 1897. Subsequently she studied, before going to Europe, under Leopold Godowsky, Emil Liebling and the late Mme. Regina Watson. She then took up work in Berlin under Professor Ernest Jedliczka where she remained with him and other famous masters for three years. Mrs. Smith has appeared in recital in Lincoln and elsewhere on many occasions and has established herself firmly in the heart of the music loving public.

Mr. Carl Frederic Steckelberg has verified the remark of his former teacher, Jacobsohn, that "he was born a musician and a teacher." His musical education has been most elaborate and thorough in every respect and his tastes are, as a result, very catholic, his methods always authoritative. Being of a keen analytical mind, he has invented a time-saving technical device for violinists known as the "Nemusier." Among Mr. Steckelberg's teachers, the following should be mentioned: Ysaye, Sevcik, Hugo Hermann, Ivan Knorr and Jacobsohn. Mr. Steckelberg returned recently from a most successful tour which took him to the Pacific coast.

Mr. Charles F. H. Mils, likewise a prominent member of the vocal department, has a remarkable record as a thorough and highly efficient instructor and his musicianship and pedagogical acumen have achieved notable results. Mr. Mills was for a period of four years director of music at Tarkio College. In 1901 he became director of the Conservatory of Music at Cornell College, remaining here two years and conducting two festivals with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. In 1903 he went to Leipzig for further study under Edward Shirner, Alexander Grossi and Richard Hoffman. Locating in London, he pursued voice study with William Shakespeare. Returning to this country, he spent one year as a private teacher in Portland, Oregon. From there he came to the University School of Music in 1906 as professor of singing. Mr. Mills has published two works on the voice entitled "Voice and Vocalism" and "Voice and Vocal Exercises," both of which have met with most cordial commendation by eminent voice teachers of this country and Europe.

Mr. John M. Rosborough, head of the theoretical department, has enjoyed a thorough musical education, fitting him preeminently for the responsible position which he has thus far filled with remarkable success. Mr. Rosborough's American training was received under such musicians as Ernest R. Kroeger and Peter C. Lutkin. In London he spent one year under Stewart McPherson and Fritz Hartvigson. He spent two years in Berlin with Professor Martin Krause (piano) and Hugo Kaun, harmony, counterpoint, orchestration and composition).

Mr. J. Frank Frysinger is widely known throughout the United States as a writer of charming compositions for the organ and the piano, as an authoritative organist and an instructor of eminent ability. His musical education was received under such well known masters as Richard Burmeister, Ralph Kinder and W. Wolstenholme. By official appointment he gave many organ recitals at the Jamestown exposition. Mr. Frysinger's excellent musical and literary education, together with a most pronounced individuality, have in the short period of two years borne remarkably gratifying results in the University School of Music.

Mr. John T. Prince Jr., is the head of the dramatic department. Mr. Prince took charge of this department last year and his results for this short period have been something short of phenomenal. Mr. Prince has been associated with the greatest actors of our times and has been stage director and manager of a number of theaters in Chicago and New York City. He has staged hundreds of plays and is a playwright of well known ability, a reader of Shakespeare and other classics and an instructor of most convincing individuality.

Miss Marjorie Anderson graduated from Gates Academy and Conservatory of Music at Neligh, Nebraska, in 1900. She continued studies at Tarkio College for two years, taught privately for two years and in 1904 entered the University School of Music. After three years she graduated with high honors. She gave a scholarly recital and was immediately added to the staff of pianoforte instructors, since which time she has rendered artistic services in the class room. She has pursued the higher study of music continuously since graduation and gave a magnificent post-graduate recital in March, 1910.

Mrs. Lillian Dobbs Helme's musical education was received in Chicago, New York City and London under world famed instructors. She specialized in scientific breathing under Mme. de Polkowski, in tone sensation under Victor Bigell, in Italian and oratorio under Albert Randegger and German Lieder under Mme. Arthur Nikisch and Alexander von Fielitz. Mrs. Helms was abroad in 1910 for five months, studying methods, interpretation and research in English, Irish, Scotch and Welsh folk lore. She concertized through Nebraska during the season of 1911-12 and spent last summer in England under the tutelage of Richard von zur-Muehlen.

Miss Nell Cave entered the University School of Music, graduating after three years, in 1899. Subsequently she gained experience as a private teacher for four years. She then continued her pianoforte studies under Ernesto Consolo, after which she was elected to head the pianoforte department of the Kansas Agricultural College. Leaving this institution after two years, she returned to the University School of Music and continuing her study, presented an admirable post-graduate recital which was received with the greatest acclaim.

Miss Louise Zumkinkel is a Nebraskan of German parentage. She graduated from the University School of Music in 1907. Her numerous recitals vouched for the success she has since so notably achieved. After a post-graduate course she became a member of the pianoforte department and proved a very competent teacher. She is well known in the state as a concert pianiste and accompanist of rare attainments. A summer of study in Chicago with the late Mme. Regina Watson and a year in Berlin under Mme. Teresa Carreno have made her even better equipped for this work.

Mr. Arvid Samuelson, whose completion of the regular and post-graduate courses of the University School of Music was marked by most artistic rendering of exceedingly difficult programs is likewise a member of the staff of pianoforte instructors. Mr. Samuelson has appeared often in public and always with a high measure of success. In the summers of 1911 and 1912 he toured several western states. His virtuosity is of most pronounced calibre and the future holds much in store for him. At present his success as a teacher has proven very gratifying.

Miss Vera Augustus Upton has been associated with the University School of Music since 1901. Her musical education was further pursued in New York City under

John Mehan and Oscar Saenger. She studied also under Karlton Hackett of Chicago. Under Frank Sealy she pursued the study of Italian as well as sacred works and oratorio under Carl Duft. She has appeared before large audiences in different parts of the United States with unceasing success. For the past six years she has made a large following of loyal and enthusiastic students.

Mr. Charles H. Miller, head of the department of public school music, is well known throughout the entire West as a competent and efficient instructor of this particularly important branch. He has been the director of music in the public schools of Lincoln since 1903 and has given consummate satisfaction as evidenced by the high status of music in the city schools. He has conducted the summer normal course in various parts of the state and as director of this department in this school has emphasized the importance of special training for public school work in music.

Mr. Abraham Loeb is known throughout Nebraska as a highly competent instructor of the violin and violoncello. His musicianship is of such a high calibre as fits him pre-eminently for orchestral work and the results achieved by the Junior orchestra of which he is leader have attracted wide spread attention.

Miss Carrie W. Pettis has conducted with splendid results the classes in kindergarten study and through these modern methods has demonstrated beyond question the superiority and extremely attractive features of this objective study. Miss Pettis has completed full courses in the Fletcher-Copp method under the best teachers of Boston and Chicago and the rapidly growing attendance is evidence of the high degree of satisfaction with which her efforts have been crowned.

Miss Marguerite Klinker graduated from the University School of Music in the class of 1912 after a period of five years of continuous study. She presented a most artistic recital during her senior year. Miss Klinker has had experience in teaching and public accompanying and her connection with the children's department has added materially to its efficiency.

Miss Lucy Haywood studied under Emil Liebling and A. J. Goodrich. She has held responsible positions in Simpson College (Indianola, Iowa) and in Meadville, Pa. In Lincoln she has served as president of the Matinee Musicale, one of the largest organizations of its kind in the West. Miss Haywood is particularly interested in all branches of musical theory and since last year has occupied the position of teacher of musical theory in the Lincoln High School in conjunction with her regular work in the University School of Music. Miss Haywood has been most successful in arousing her students to intelligent work.

Mr. Clare B. Cornell is a graduate of the University of Nebraska holding the degree of Master of Arts. Although his work at the University School of Music is confined to the teaching of harmony, he has proven remarkable ability as an organizer, at present holding the conductorship of the Cadet Band of the university. In the fall of 1908 he was a professor of mathematics at the Peru, (Neb.) State Normal School and holds a life teacher's certificate granted by the state superintendent, beside the degree of Bachelor of Education.

Miss Hazel Kinscella enjoyed a thorough musical and literary education. She is a graduate and post-graduate of the University School of Music and has pursued her studies unremittingly in Chicago and for the past two years under Rafael Joseffy. Miss Kinscella is a charming pianiste and possesses the rare faculty of winning the loyalty and endearment of a large following of students by her conscientious methods of instruction.

Miss Katherine Kimball, daughter of Director Kimball, has from earliest childhood been surrounded with the best musical advantages. She has never discontinued study on her favorite instrument, the piano. Her general literary education is of the best. Miss Kimball is a graduate of the class of 1911.

Miss Ruth Pilcher received her musical education in Evanston, Ill., having graduated with honors. She supplemented this with a year of study at the University School of Music, graduating in 1912. Her brilliant recital and thorough education commend her to all progressive students of the pianoforte.

Miss Lulu Carnes is a graduate of the School of Music as well as a post-graduate. Miss Carnes' post-graduate recital attracted widespread attention by virtue of the many difficult songs and arias interpreted and their truly artistic rendering. Miss Carnes has had practical teaching experience, having formerly had complete direction of the music department at Neligh Academy.

Miss Jude Deyo is one of the more recent accessions to the vocal department. She is well known in Lincoln, having held important church positions and has concertized with great success for two seasons. She portrayed the role of "Helga" in Mr. Kirkpatrick's opera, "Olaf," receiving the most flattering commendation of her artistic interpretation. In fact, her public singing has invariably called forth the most enthusiastic comments and plaudits. Her teaching reflects her sympathetic personality and ideals as an artist.

Miss Elizabeth Bonnell was added to the faculty of voice instructors this year because of her eminent interpretive ability, her analytical tendencies and her winning personality. Miss Bonnell's scholarship is of the highest and best, and it is safe to predict splendid results for her in the class room.

Miss Ethel Biles is a graduate of the class of 1913 and one of the latest accessions to the ranks of pianoforte and theoretical instructors. She is a most accomplished pianiste and possesses uncommon theoretical training. Her graduate recital made a profound impression because of the musicianship displayed.

Miss Helen Burns, assistant to Mr. Frysinger, is an organist of splendid equipment and attainments. She gave a remarkably interesting organ recital in graduating which attracted wide attention and most favorable comment.

Mr. August Judson Morley, who has held the position of piano tuning as a theoretical and practical study since 1908 is a thorough musician and artisan. For many years he resided in Rochester, N. Y. His mechanical penchant makes him especially fitted to instruct in this important branch and as a result he has pursued this calling with marked success.

Mr. Stephen Jelinck, instructor of cornet and trombone, is well known in Lincoln ad Nebraska by virtue of high unmistakable artistry. His strong personality and thorough methods of instruction have borne splendid results in the class room.

Mr. Rex. Elton Fair enjoyed a thorough musical education and is a flutist of great distinction. For some time he was solo flutist with the famous Wolff Orchestra, playing engagements at the French Opera, symphony concerts at West End Park, St. Louis, Mo.

Miss Robins, the latest accession to the ranks of vocal instructors of the University School of Music, comes fresh from a most successful season in Berlin, where, for four years she was a pupil of George Ferguson. Miss Robbins possesses a high soprano of appealing quality and unusual range. She is especially versed in the art songs and folk lore of Scandinavia, Germany, Italy and England. Miss Robbins has had considerable teaching experience, both in Europe and in this country, having taught in Berlin, three years in the State Normal School at Kearney, Neb., one year in Ansger College, Minnesota, and a number of years private teaching in various parts of the United States.

Porter Steele

COMPOSER PIANIST

Suite for Piano "At Longwood"

1. Morning
2. Noonday Rest
3. Fireflies
4. Moonlight

Breitkopf and Hartel, New York

SONGS

1. Voice of the Clover Wind
2. Little Colleen o' Me

William Maxwell Music Company
NEW YORK
33 Monroe Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

DR. FRANCIS
Hemington
Organist and Choirmaster Epiphany Church
Organist and Musical Director Zion Temple
SPECIALTY
The Training of the Church Musician
Organ, Piano, Harmony, Counterpoint and Choir Training

Maximilian Pilzer
Brilliant Young Violinist
Soloist with Russian Symphony, People's Symphony and Volpe Symphony Orchestras
Available for Concerts and Recitals
Address
101 W. 115th St., New York City, N. Y.

Knox Conservatory of Music Galesburg, Ills.
Faculty of experienced teachers in every department. Equipment complete for a broad and thorough musical training in the following branches:
Pianoforte Pipe Organ Voice
Violin Theory History
For full information, address
WILLIAM F. BENTLEY, Director

SONGS
By J. HENRY FRANCIS
SACRED
Come to the Lord (Sop. or Ten.) - 50c
Jesus Thy Boundless Love to Me (Sop. or Ten.) - 50c
God Has Been Merciful to Me (Mezzo) 50c
He Leadeth Me (Sop.) - - 50c
C. W. THOMPSON & CO.,
Boston, Mass.
SECULAR
Dear Heart, Op. 21 No. 1 (High, Low) 50c
(I Love You Dear)
The Moon Song, Op 21 No. 2 (High, Low) - 50c
The Two Songs, Op. 26 (High voice) 60c
THE KANAWHA MUSIC CO.,
Charleston, W. Va.

PHILIP SPOONER, TENOR

There can be no question but that the musical season of 1912-13 was most noteworthy, and already there are predictions that the coming season will be even more brilliant. Last year welcomed many old European and American favorites, and introduced some excellent new artists, among them Philip Spooner, the young bel canto tenor, whose career will be watched with a great deal of interest. He is the youngest son of ex-United States Senator John C. Spooner of Wisconsin. Like all true singers, nature endowed him with a beautiful voice, which he has been using since boyhood.

During his college days he paid strict attention to the development of his voice, and on arrival in New York placed himself under a competent instructor. His progress was so rapid that he was persuaded to go to Paris and other European capitals to study languages.

PHILIP SPOONER

Upon one of his recent visits to Paris Mr. Spooner was asked to sing for Jean De Reszke, the famous Polish tenor, and so pleased this great artist with the purity of his tone as to cause him to grasp the young man by the hand and enthusiastically exclaim: "You have a voice of lovely quality and it is perfectly poised; you have a fine future."

Only a few months ago Alessandro Bonci, the great exponent of the bel canto method, heard Mr. Spooner sing and immediately proclaimed him a great artist. Last year Mr. Spooner was heard in a number of concerts and recitals, and everywhere won distinct success.

Mr. Spooner's voice possesses that quality described by the old masters as limpid, which means a peculiarly bell-like clearness and a purity which is seldom found in the voice of today. Indeed, it is a quality rarely put there by nature, and does not remain unless trained with the greatest care. He, therefore, devoted six years of the most ardent study of the bel canto method before he considered himself ready to appear in public. Since entering the concert field Mr. Spooner has met with unqualified success, and his recent recitals have been a series of triumphs. His repertory is extensive, embracing classic and folk songs, American songs and operatic arias. The critics have been unanimous in their praise of his singing and his style.

Mr. Spooner is a believer in American singers, and upon his return from Europe this summer stated that the completest opera that he had heard was in New York City. While abroad he made a motor tour through Switzerland and visited several of the musical centers. On both the outward and homeward passages he was invited to participate in the concerts given aboard the steamers and won such distinguished success as to cause everyone to remark upon his polished art. This season Mr. Spooner has booked a number of concerts for the immediate future, several being return engagements.

♯♯♯

A FINE YOUNG ARTIST

New York music lovers present were agreeably astonished at the talent and ability of Master Joseph Stoopack, a young Russian violinist, who appeared as soloist with the United States Marine Band at the Hippodrome, Sunday afternoon and evening.

Master Stoopack is a pupil of Ovid Musin, New York's famous teacher of violin.

The Saint-Saens B minor concerto (Andantino, Allegro), was chosen to display the lad's wonderful technic, his wealth of temperament, his inate love of his art.

He, a slight boy, short of stature, with black, curly hair, looking little over ten years of age, stood upon the stage and did marvelous things. Closing one's eyes, there was not heard an infant prodigy, but an artist whose art appeared as mature as could be expected of a man grown. Technical difficulties seemed nothing to the boy. the intonation, absolutely true, and a tone as warm and beautiful and full as is rarely accomplished by a truly "arrived" soloist.

Young Stoopack's success was instantaneous and encores were demanded. Truly excellent support was given at the piano by Mr. Frank Bibb, whose accompaniments were wholly sympathetic at all times.

Among the better numbers offered in the matinee program by the band, were the "Lohengrin" Fantasie (Wagner); the von Weber "Jubilee" Overture, and the "Valse Brilliant" (Chopin.)

An ovation was accorded the director, Lieutenant Santelmann. F. D. B.

♯♯♯

Cosmopolitan School.—The Cosmopolitan School of Music will this season, as usual, give many faculty and pupils' concerts, due notice of which will appear in Music News.

♯♯♯

Layfield.—Mrs. Mabel B. Layfield substituted for Miss Jessie Hopkins during the Jewish New Year's services at Thirty-third street and Indiana avenue.

INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC AND EXPRESSION

Mrs. Emma Clark-Mottl, who for the past fifteen years successfully conducted the Emma E. Clark School of Piano, has incorporated the International College of Music and Expression and merged her piano school into same, and asumed the presidency and directorship of the new college.

The faculty opens with eleven instructors of experience and some who have achieved international fame as artists in their respective branches.

Emma Clark-Mottl is head of the pianoforte department with Elizabeth Schoreck as an associate and teacher of composition, and Helen Beelman and Ethel Marie Smith, assistants in piano; Eleanor Capps-Hostler, instructor in voice, and the club chorus director; Mary Hester Cleary is in charge of the dramatic department, assisted by Helen de Loubenfels in esthetic dancing; Herman Braun Jr., member of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, as head of violin and stringed instruments, and conductor of the college orchestra and ensemble classes; Ottaker L. Mottl, head of the foreign language department; Dudley Crafts Watson of the Art Institute, will give a special lecture on "The Relations of Art and Music," and Mr. and Mrs. Mottl will, with others, give special lectures from time to time, all of which will be among the free advantages to the pupils of the college.

Saturday afternoon, October 18, the International College presents Miss Cleary in the reading of "Prunella" and the "Happy Prince," with a musical setting. Mrs. Hostler will sing a group of songs, and Miss Beelman will be the pianist and accompanist. The program will be followed by an informal reception to the faculty. These social affairs will be given frequently by this college, which, with the fine clientele, make them valuable to the pupils in broadening their culture. This college takes special interest in out-of-town pupils. Catalogs will be sent upon request to the president of the International Colege of Music and Expression, suite 54, Auditorium Building, Chicago.

HARRIET CASE

Harriet Case has returned from a summer in New England to the vocal department of the Iowa State Teachers' College, where she has a large class of talented students. Miss Case will also appear during the season in concert and recital. Of a recent appearance in Waterloo, Iowa, the Courier writes, "Miss Case has a beautiful voice with wonderful range, and completely captivated her hearers. Her arias from "Tosca" were especially fine and gave the singer an opportunity to give full play to her vocal powers."

Kimbell.—Mr. Grant Kimbell, a tenor whose work has very rapidly brought him to the front rank in Chicago, will again this season be in the solo quartet at the First Congregational Church in Oak Park, with Mary Ann Kaufman, Permelia Gale and Frank Dunford—this constituting a notable ensemble. Mr. Kimbell will also fulfill many recital engagements, one of which will be before the Rogers' Park Woman's Club.

MARY CHENEY

SOPRANO

Concerts Recitals Oratorio Songs of Wales

Three Centuries of English Ballads (Six Costumes)

Terms and Dates, Carnegie Hall, New York City

THE SEVCIK CLASS AT PISEK, 1913

GERTRUDE AND CORNELIA CLEOPHAS

It has been decided that the Misses Cleophas, who have many friends in Chicago, are to remain through this season in Europe, Miss Gertrude continuing with Leschetizky, with whom she has been studying for five years, and Miss Cornelia entering upon her third year with Sevcik.

The accompanying picture is one of the Sevcik colony of the summer of 1913, at Pisek, Bohemia. The master is shown in the center of the lower line and Miss Cleophas is indicated by a cross on her shoulder.

Miss Gertrude Cleophas has toured extensively during the past two years in Europe, and both the young artists have received the finest kind of notices from foreign critics. They expect to return to America next spring and will certainly prove an addition to the musical circles of any city where they may locate.

Cheney.—Mary Cheney has re-opened her studio at Carnegie Hall, New York, and will divide her time during the season between teaching and concert giving. The characteristic recitals of Mrs. Cheney have attracted wide-spread attention and the beauty and charm of her voice have been much admired wherever she has sung. Her appearance at Lincoln Center in Chicago last August was one of the artistic successes of the summer season.

J. Frank Frysinger

Concert Organist

FOR TERMS AND DATES ADDRESS

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC, LINCOLN, NEB.

Dr. William C. Carl

Director of the

Guilmant Organ School

Students aided in securing positions

25 now playing in New York

Send for Catalogue

44 West 12th St., New York

C. E. LE MASSENA, COMPOSER

The American composer is winning his way slowly but surely and American compositions are now figuring more frequently on programs than heretofore, for the simple reason that singers and instrumentalists as well as conductors are finding out that the American has something to say and is learning how to say it. Last season Lucile Miller of Pittsburgh, while in New York, was invited to sing before the Manuscript Society of New York, and won such success with a group of songs by C. E. LeMassena that she added them to her repertoire and has been using them in many of her concerts, so that musicians have had an opportunity to judge of their merit, and with unanimous approbation declared them to be of excellent form and context. The People's Symphony Orchestra of New York recently introduced a transcription for string orchestra of Wagner's "Albumblatt," by Mr. LeMassena, with such overwhelming success that other orchestras have followed. Wassili Leps played it at Willow Grove Park, Philadelphia, during the summer, introduced it at the exposition concerts at Pittsburgh and in Cincinnati. It has been played at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, and also by the Volpe Symphony Orchestra. Its success has been instantaneous and the enchanting melody, so beautifully and skillfully arranged, arouses audiences to great enthusiasm. Hans Merx, a German lieder singer, became acquainted with some Le Massena songs while in this country and upon his return to Germany used them most favorably, saying that the composer had caught the real German lieder spirit.

C. E. LE MASSENA

Mr. LeMassena's compositions are coming to the fore in proportion as they find their way into the hands of singers who are looking for suitable mediums. They number into the hundreds. He has to his credit two operas, a cantata, quantities of songs and violin pieces, as well as a large number of orchestral arrangements. The most popular of his songs are the "Album of Eight Songs," "How Beautiful Are the Days of Spring," "Come Unto Me," "Cradle Song" and "Nachtlied." He has recently written a new song for Florence Hinkle, also a romance and polonaise for Florence Austin, the violinist, who will introduce them this season.

Mr. LeMassena is a Princeton University man and studied violin and composition under the best masters. For several years he was on the editorial and critical staff of a large New York musical magazine, and at the present time is engaged in doing private press work for artists, under the firm name of Driggs & LeMassena, Inc. He is a tremendous worker, an earnest student, an admirer of art in all its forms, and a great reader. Pursuing a life along these lines has given him the necessary facility for writing and composing. He is a director in the Manuscript Society of New York and a member of the Musicians Club of that city.

Through his researches he was instrumental in bringing to public notice the false claim of John Stafford Smith as the composer of the "Star Spangled Banner," and his valuable essay on this subject, appearing last year in a prominent periodical, aroused considerable comment.

———♯♯♯———

MRS. SCOFIELD'S FIRST CONCERT

Mrs. W. C. Scofield opened her season of concerts by presenting her pupil, Miss Lillian Malatesta in a song recital at Kimball Hall, to a very large audience on Wednesday evening last.

Miss Malatesta has a pure coloratura voice of great brilliancy and power and she has been taught to use it with much skill. It was possible to hear her only in the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria" and the "Caro Nome" from "Rigoletto," the second of which is much the more suited to her style.

In this number she displayed remarkable facility and an absolute certainty in all sorts of bravoura work and the trill at the end was really notable.

Besides these numbers Miss Malatesta sang the "Mad Scene" from Lucia, an aria from "Aida," and a group of songs by La Forge, Loewe, Clough-Leighter and Strauss, this certainly constituting a remarkably varied list and proving much versatility in the young singer. Miss Malatesta was assisted by David Rosensweet, violinist, who played two movements from a "concerto" by Wieniawski and some shorter works by Cui and Rehfeld. Good accompaniments were played by Miss Geneva Chacey.

C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

Corlew-Smidt.—Mrs. Mabel Corlew-Smidt, soprano at the New First Congregational Church will fulfill many concert and oratorio engagements during the coming season. She will soon appear at South Bend, Ind., and has many club engagements later.

Concerts
and
Recitals

Under Management
M. H. Hanson
437 Fifth Ave.
New York

Helen Stanley

PRIMA DONNA SOPRANO

National Opera Company, Montreal

Martin Ballmann's

POPULAR SUNDAY AFTERNOON CONCERTS

—AT—

Lincoln Turner Hall

Diversey Parkway and Sheffield Avenue

EVERY SUNDAY AFTERNOON FROM 3 TO 6 O'CLOCK

BEGINNING OCT. 26th, 1913

TWENTY CONCERTS IN ALL

SEASON TICKETS FOR SALE NOW AT LINCOLN TURNER HALL AND AT OFFICE OF M. BALLMANN, 1257 FOSTER AVENUE.

Admission 25 Cents

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CALL UP EDGEWATER 7218

MARY

STRAWN VERNON

Harmony, Ear Training and Sight Singing

Pupils Received by Appointment

303 KIMBALL HALL

CHICAGO

Evangeline Wallace

Voice and Piano

Special Normal Course for Teachers.

Residence 1714 Leland Ave.

Phone Ravenswood 5818

Tuesday 1 to 6 522 Kimball Hall

An Appreciation of the MacDowell Home in Peterboro

BY MRS. FREDERICK HEIZER, SIOUX CITY, IOWA

Edward MacDowell chose one of the most enchanting spots in America for his "House of Dreams."

Nothing was omitted in making it an ideal place for creative work. Only a Ruskin should attempt a portrayal of the glorious beauties surrounding the Peterboro Farm. Eye, ear and sense of smell are delighted, refreshed and invigorated by its natural charms.

Scenes of wonderful variety may be beheld in a short ride as the driveways are kept in splendid condition.

The intense blue of the clear sky is contrasted by a purple sheen which spreads itself like a gauzy veil over hill and dale gathering with deepening shade among the sombre branches and trunks of the stately evergreen forest trees, and hovering like a benediction over the Monadnock.

Grass and shrubbery are kept resplendently verdent by early morning dew, which rises daily in mist as incense to the skies. Gently flowing streams are here and there enlivened by dashing miniature waterfalls.

A solemn majestic forest with glintings of sunlight stealing through the gloomy denseness of its shade, rises above, while the ground beneath is thickly covered with refreshing pine cones and fragrant leaves. Here grow in profusion, ferns, the red carmel, the Indian pipe and berries red, white and blue.

In this wild wood may be seen peeping forth the rustic cottages of the musicians, painters, sculptors, writers and art workers who are privileged to belong to the colony. In this secluded place they may work free from intrusion and uninterrupted from early morn until the going down of the sun.

"House of Dreams untold.
That looks out over the whispering tree tops
And faces the setting sun."

This house MacDowell built for his own use. Here in deepest wildwood where silence reigns supreme, but for the occasional warble of a song bird, chattering of furry animals, sighing pines or gurgling spring, the master found relief from worldly cares and dreamed those dreams which have immortalized his name.

From this beautiful, though isolated place came forth tone poems that have stirred the hearts of thousands. Tales of fairyland, idyls, songs of the brook, of flowers, the wind, moonshine, elves, the beauties of field and forest and the great Keltic and Norse sonatas.

Leading from the log cabin a two plank board walk winds through the forest to "Hillcrest." The deserted farm house, no longer desolate, but turned into a most inviting and homelike abode. The raftered ceilings of the living room and dining room with broad window seats and large fireplace, present a pleasing and cozy sight. The studio here is more modern, containing grand piano, life sized bust of the composer, broad fireplace, handsome desk, chairs, rugs, books and pictures. A beautiful garden with its sun dial placed there long ago in the center is a place where one longs to pause and rest. Flowers of many varieties grow in profusion and beyond is a meadow with browsing kine.

Immense trees give protection from the burning sun and the stone wall fences are covered with trailing vines.

Here lives the faithful widow of America's most distinguished composer. It is thorugh her generosity, selfsacrifice and excellent judgment that this art workers colony exists. To her remarkable energy, indefatigable devotion and tactful management is also due the success of the festivals..

The writer was recently afforded, not only the rare opportunity of witnessing these scenes, but also of beholding Mount "Monadnock and the setting sun" upon two memorable occasions; the opening and closing programs of the Edward MacDowell Memorial Association Festival of Music, given upon the pageant grounds August 21 and 24. The closing number of these two programs occurred just at the going down of the sun, and displayed nature arrayed in her most enchanting form. With the curtains of night gently drawing around to close the busy scenes of day the last strains of the chorus and symphony orchestra fell upon the ear intermingled with the evening song of birds, crooning of the crickets and whirring of nocturnal insects. The symphony was complete, creating an impression never to be forgotten. Though wearied by long sitting and intense dreaming we reluctantly withdrew to wend our way back to scenes of activity and toil.

Upon a gently rising knoll enclosed by a rustic vine-covered stone wall lies the grave of the composer. At the head of the grave rests a huge granite boulder in its natural state. A bronze inscription plate bears the name and dates. Inside the stone wall is almost covered by the choicest growing flowers and vines. The view from this point is indescribably beautiful, overlooking the great forest and Mount Monadnock.

———♯♯♯———

Stojowski.—Siegmund Stojowski, who has just completed a piano recital tour of England and France, appearing with the London Symphony Orchestra, under Arthur Nikisch, will resume his teaching at the Von Ende School of Music in New York on October 20.

———♯♯♯———

Heizer.—Frederick Heizer, violinist of Sioux City, Iowa, will appear in recitals in South Dakota and Iowa this month. Among other engagements is one to appear in joint recital with Rose Lutiger Gannon at New Rockford, N. D., on the 23d.

———♯♯♯———

Fraley.—George Fraley, baritone, last season at St. James, has accepted the position as soloist in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, La Grange.

SNOW CONCERT AND CHOIR BUREAU

The Snow Concert and Choir Bureau (located in Summy's Music Store), founded by Harriet Martin Snow, last season, has developed with unusual rapidity.

Mrs. Snow was for three seasons, assistant manager of the Apollo Musical Club and the North Shore Festival Association, and while occupying those positions formed the acquaintance of most of the prominent musicians both in and out of Chicago, so when she entered the managerial field on her own resources it was not as a novice, but with a foundation of knowledge of the work and the support of a host of friends.

HARRIET MARTIN SNOW

Many important choir positions have been filled by Mrs. Snow, and the artists under her management are more than pleased with the number of engagements she has secured for them.

Mrs. Snow is also business manager of the Bach Choral Society, John W. Norton, conductor, and announces a "Bach-Schubert" concert to be given by the society in Association Auditorium, 19 South La Salle street, on November 19 next. Mabel Sharp Herdien, soprano; Jennie F. W. Johnson, contralto; Grant Kimbell, tenor, and Luther J. Williams, bass, will be the solo artists on this occasion, and the regular mixed chorus will be augmented by a boys' choir of thirty voices. Members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will furnish the accompaniments.

———♯♯♯———

Breen.—Miss Florence Breen, daughter of Judge Mathew P. Breen of New York, will appear in recital at Carnegie Hall, New York, October 12. This is Miss Breen's initial appearance here since her return from abroad, where she met with great success as a soprano of merit.

Father Finn is doubtless the most distinguished Musician of the Catholic Church in America

His recommendation of the Conover Piano is as enthusiastic as it is sincere

FATHER WILLIAM J. FINN

Says of the

CONOVER PIANO:

The Cable Company, Chicago

Gentlemen: I take great pleasure in attesting the splendid merits of the Conover piano which has recently been installed in my choir hall.

You can appreciate how important it is for my choristers to rehearse to a cantabile tone. The sustaining singing tone quality of the Conover is perfectly suited to the unusual demands which we make on a piano. After a few rehearsals with the Conover I began to notice the freedom of vocalization which it assists. Candidly, I am delighted with the choice we have made. Incidentally, your Conover graces any room. Very sincerely yours,

March 3, 1913. William Joseph Finn C.S.P.

DIRECTOR, PALLAST CHORISTERS of CHICAGO.

The Cable Company

Wabash and Jackson MAKERS CHICAGO

DR. HEMINGTON'S RECITAL

One of the institutions of the West Side and also one the influence of which has been felt all over the city of Chicago is the fine series of organ recitals given on alternate Monday evenings throughout the season at Epiphany Church by Dr. Francis Hemington.

Throughout the year very large audiences crowd to these functions and very many people find in them their chief musical delight. On last Monday, because of the fact that it was the first concert probably, the audience was not so great as usual, but a splendid program was given and beyond question all who heard it will wish to come again.

A "Toccata and Fugue," by Bach, constituted the one solidly strong number of the organ list and it was played with strength and assuring clarity of outline.

Other fine numbers were "Reverie" (Karg-Elert); "Nuptial March," (Guilmant) "Finale" to the "First Symphony" (Vierne); "Scherzo" (Faulkes), and "Second Toccata," by Rogers, all being played with fine technical certainty and good musical judgment.

For lighter fare, numbers by Johnson, Mascagni, German and Elgar provided a rare treat and each one of these was given a light touch and musical suavity by Dr. Hemington.

As usual, there was a singer to assist and the choice for this concert had fallen upon Miss Mary Highsmith, a Chicago soprano, who makes friends for her personality and for her voice wherever she appears. Her singing of Mendelssohn's "Hear Ye, Israel," was full of authority, and "O Divine Redeemer," by Gounod was of charming musical feeling and truly religious aspect.

C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

EVANGELINE WALLACE

Miss Wallace is a teacher whose ideals have always been of the highest and whose efforts to keep her work up to the finest developments of the times, have been unceasing.

A specialist in both voice and piano she has prepared herself exhaustively for this work and in her teaching has been uniformly successful.

Early in her teaching experience Miss Wallace was impressed with the need of scientifically correct and pedagogically certain methods of training children and also of the crying need for careful preparation of teachers. She has therefore given these subjects a great deal of thought and time and is, in fact, the originator of a kindergarten system which has been pronounced by all who study it to be of the very greatest value. Her normal training courses are also logical and pleasing and in actual practice have been found practical to the final degree.

Miss Wallace has returned to Chicago after a summer spent in the west and has already resumed work with large classes of pupils. On Tuesdays, from 1 to 6 she may be found at 522 Kimball Hall for consultation as to lessons and to make appointments for work at other points in the city.

Miss Wallace is also giving considerable attention to choral conducting and has now under her care several interesting choral societies.

HENIOT
LEVY
PIANIST
Recitals Concerts
Kimball Hall, Chicago

MRS. CHARLES
ROBBINS
Soprano
Teaching
Choral Conducting
Recitals
Residence and Studio: 1372 E. 52nd Street
Phone Hyde Park 194

EDWARD B.
SCHEVE
COMPOSER
Now Teaching Piano and Composition at Grinnell College, School of Music, Grinnell, Ia.

ERNEST O.
TODD
TENOR
Bush Temple Conservatory
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
Phone Harrison 1644 Home Phone Edgewater 3765

MUSIC IN PHILADELPHIA

The Metropolitan Opera House Company of Philadelphia begs to announce that its general director, Cleofonte Campanini, has, up to the present time, concluded the following engagements of artists, and arranged for the production of the subsequent novelties and revivals. A season of even greater interest and variety than heretofore is promised the subscribers and patrons of the local institution.

The arrangement of performances will remain the same as during the past season; namely, combined productions of the Philadelphia-Chicago and Metropolitan Opera companies, which will be known as the Philadelphia grand opera season. Operas will be given on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday afternoons; and at popular prices on Saturday evenings. This unique arrangement enables Philadelphians to hear the world-famous singers of these two organizations—a privilege not accorded any other city, with but one exception.

Associated with the general director, Cleofonte Campanini, in the musical direction of the company will be MM. Giuseppe Sturani (who is already well known here), Marcel Charlier, Ettore Perosio, Attilio Parelli and Arnold Winternitz.

Among the names of newly engaged male artists, that of Giovanni Martinelli stands pre-eminent. He is a dramatic Italian tenor, with a voice of unusual brilliancy and resonance. He has been selected to sing Cavaradossi in "Tosca" on the opening night of the season. For several seasons past he has been one of the leading tenors at Covent Garden, where his triumphs have been remarkable. He will appear also as Rhadames in "Aida," and as Dick Johnson in "The Girl of the Golden West," during the first half of the season.

One of the greatest living French tenors is Lucien Muratore, the idol of the Parisian public. As an artist he is unsurpassed, possession both vocal and dramatic endowments, combined with a dominating personality and a commanding stage presence. He will be heard in the tenor roles of "Monna Vanna," "Manon" (Massenet), and other French operas.

Ferrari-Fontana, who has been proclaimed the greatest Tristan of modern times, has been secured for several performances, through the courtesy of the Boston Opera Company.

Nothing need be said of Alessandro Bonci, the greatest exponent of bel canto, whose debut with this organization will doubtless be heralded with great satisfaction by the music-loving public. Mr. Bonci's art is at its zenith, and he remains the incomparable artist of the Italian lyric school. Amedeo Bassi, who will be remembered for his unique portrayal of Gennaro in "Jewels of the Madonna," will again add distinction to the many parts in which he will be heard. He will create the tenor roles in "Cristoforo Colombo" and "Zingara" this season.

Vanni Marcoux, the eminent French baritone, whose singing of the role of Scarpia in "Tosca" created such a sensation in Boston last year, will likewise be a member of the organization, and will effect his debut in this part on the opening night of the season, when Miss Mary Garden will be heard again in the title role. He has been specially engaged to create the role of "Don Quichotte" in the opera of this name, and which role he has sung one hundred and fifty times in Paris. For several seasons past he has been regarded as one of the great artists of the French operatic stage, as he stands supreme both vocally and dramatically.

Francesco Federici, a young Italian baritone, the possessor of a splendid voice—and who has just returned from triumphs in Buenos Aires and other South American cities—has also been added to the long list of baritones.

Allen Hinckley, a native of Philadelphia, who will be remembered for his appearances several years ago as leading basso of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will sing the principal roles of his repertoire, including "Sonnambula" and "Puritani."

An engagement of much note is that of Lina Cavalieri, the beautiful Italian soprano, whose local appearances on the operatic stage have always been occasions of enthusiastic interest. She will be heard as Fedora, one of her best roles, and in many others in which she has been regarded as unsurpassed.

Rosa Raisa, a young Polish soprano, who sings both lyric and dramatic roles, will make her debut in America in this city. She achieved a substantial success on the occasion of her appearance at the Verdi Centenary in Parma, which city is regarded as the most critical, musically, in all Europe. She has a remarkable musical and dramatic temperament. She will appear in the leading roles of "Aida," "Don Giovanni," "Cristoforo Colombo," and similar parts.

Minnie Edvina, whose reputation has been made and sustained upon the stages of Covent Garden and continental theaters, and also with the Boston Opera Company, where she has sung for several seasons, will be heard in her favorite roles. She is regarded as a soprano of exceptional ability, while her histrionic talents are unquestioned.

Marta Dorda, who for several seasons has sung at Hamburg and other German opera houses, has been engaged for a limited number of performances.

Frieda Hempel, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, has been secured for several performances during the latter half of the season, during which time she will be heard in such operas as "Lucia," "Traviata," and others of that similar school.

Ernestine Schumann-Heink, whose position in the musical world is second to none, is also a valuable acquisition to the company, and will sing a number of the contralto roles in which she has won lasting fame.

Beatrice Wheeler, an American-born contralto, who laid the foundations of her career in Italy and achieved distinct successes, will likewise be heard, as well as Cyrena van Gordon, a young and beautiful mezzo-soprano (a native of Cincinnati), and Amy Evans, an English soprano from the Royal Opera at Covent Garden.

A new artiste engaged for this season, who is destined for an extraordinary career, is Miss Florence Macbeth, an American coloratura soprano. Miss Macbeth is a native of St. Paul, and created a veritable sensation in London this year upon the occasion of her debut in that city. She possesses a brilliant soprano voice, of singular purity and flexibility, and sings with remarkable assurance. Her technic is declared to be perfection. She has a magnetic and charming personality, and it is safe to predict a brilliant future for her. She will be heard in the prima donna roles of "Sonnambula," "Puritani" and "Il Barbiere di Siviglia," and was engaged for the express purpose of singing opposite Alessandro Bonci.

Ralph Errolle, a young American tenor with a promising future, has also been engaged.

Among the favorites who have been retained are the following artists: Mesdames Frances Alda, Jenny Dufau, Minnie Egener, Mary Garden, Jane Osborn-Hannah, Mabel Riegelman, Minnie Saltzman-Stevens, Maggie Teyte, Helen Warrum, Carolina White and Alice Zeppilli; as well as the mezzo-soprani and alti, Mesdames Louise Berat, Julia Claussen, Ruby Heyl and Margaret Keyes.

The tenors who have been re-engaged are Leon Campagnola, Charles Dalmores, Francesco Daddi, Aristodemo Giorgini, Emilio Venturini, George Hamlin and Edmond Warnery. The list of baritones contains such names as Armand Crabbe, Hector Dufranne, Nicolo Fossetta, Giovanni Polese, Frank Preisch, Clarence Whitehill and the great Titta Ruffo. The bassi who have been retained are Gustave Huberdeau, Constantin Nicolay, Henri Scott and Vittorio Trevisan. M. Fernand Almanz will continue as stage director, and Mr. Joseph Engel will act as stage manager.

The ballet will be led by Rosina Galli, premiere danseuse etoile. The chorus will again be entrusted to the able hands of Pietro Nepoti.

Among the new operas to be given during the season are the following:

"Monna Vanna," by Fevrier; "Don Quichotte," by Massenet; "Christoforo Colombo," by Franchetti; "Zingari," by Leoncavallo; and "Cassandra," by Vittorio Gennechi.

Among the revivals of standard operas scheduled for the season are:

"The Girl of the Golden West," "Il Barbiere di Siviglia," "Don Giovanni," "Fedora," "La Sonnambula," "Manon," "Linda di Chamounix," "Parsifal," "Giaconda." "i Puritani," "Madama Butterfly" and "Pelleas et Melisande."

Despite the assumption of the directorship, Maestro Cleofonte Campanini will continue as the general musical director of the company, and will conduct the most important novelties and revivals, as well as a number of other performances. Maestro Campanini has won a most enviable position in the musical world of both continents and is the only artist in America occupying the dual capacity of managerial and general musical directorship.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Philadelphia Orchestra

With the return of Mr. Leopold Stokowski as conductor of the orchestra, a splendid list of programs has been given to the public, and the season promises to be the finest in the history of the organization. Among the prominent soloists to be heard with the orchestra this year may be mentioned the following: Fritz Kreisler, Josef Hofmann, Teresa Carreno, Herman Sanby, Mischa Elman, Louise Homer, Mme. Schuman-Heink, Kathleen Parlow, Wilhelm Bachaus, Thaddeus Rich (concertmeister of the orchestra), Harold Bauer, Katherine Goodson and Ignace Paderewski.

At the first pair of concerts, October 17 and 18, the following program will be rendered:

Overture, "Die Meistersinger" ..... Wagner
Symphony No. 3, in E flat (Eroica), Op. 55 ..... Beethoven
Symphonic Poem, "Wieland der Schmied" ..... Von Hausegger
(First time at these concerts)
Symphonic Poem, "Tasso" (Lamento e trionfo) ..... Liszt

♮ ♮ ♮

The Philadelphia Operatic Society

An amateur organization, well known for its extremely commendable productions of grand opera, will open its season with a performance of Verdi's masterpiece, "Aida," on the evening of October 30. Under the capable leadership of Mr. Wassili Leps, and the stage direction of Mr. Ed S. Grant, the rehearsals have progressed splendidly and the performance will undoubtedly be another triumph to the organization which is helping so much to strengthen the musical atmosphere in this city, and provides a hearing for many promising young singers. May their good work continue!

WALTER ST. CLARE KNODLE.

BOISE, IDAHO

The following remarkable recital program was played by Frederick Preston Search, 'cellist, assisted by Walter Chapman, pianist, at the opening of the artists' course at the Pinney Opera House on October 6:

Violoncello Concerto in B minor ..... Antonin Dvorak
Allegro
Adagio ma non troppo
Allegro moderato
Piano Solo—
Liebestraume ..... Franz Liszt
Sonata in E-flat major for 'cello alone ..... John Sebastian Bach
Prelude (Allegro non troppo)
Sarabande (Largo)
Allemande (Allegro moderato)
INTERMISSION
'Cello Soli—
a. Nocturne ..... Frederic Francois Chopin
b. Melody from "Madam Butterfly" ..... Giacomo Puccini
c. Butterfly Waltz ..... Frederick Preston Search
Piano Soli—
a. Arabesque ..... Claude Debussy
b. Etude, Op. 25, No. 9 ..... Frederic Francois Chopin
*First Movement from 'Cello Concerto in E minor, ... David Popper

*This number has been especially placed on the program in memorial tribute to the great David Popper, often called, because of his rhapsodical compositions, "the Liszt of the 'Cello," who died August 7, 1913, aged 70, at his home in Budapest.

"As thrills of long-hushed melody
Live in the viol, so our hearts grow fine
With keen vibrations from the touch divine
Of nobler natures gone."

HERBERT
MILLER
BARITONE

716 Fine Arts Building Chicago

Success has come naturally to Herbert Miller as a result of the thorough preparation brought to his professional work. Perhaps few singers or singing teachers have enjoyed as long and comprehensive a period of preliminary study as he. His earliest studies were under the supervision of Willard Kimball, now director of the University School of Music, of Lincoln, Neb., with whom he took his first piano and organ lessons. Later, in New York, he continued the study of the organ with John White and Samuel P. Warren, also composition with Mr. White and the late Max Spicker. The vocal work soon became the leading motive, however, and has continued to be to this time.

As a singer Mr. Miller's work has been universally endorsed by critics, as characterized by "fine musicianship," "deep sincerity," "ample temperament" and interpretative excellence of a high order. His voice is declared by eminent authorities to be one of uncommon power and beauty and produced with such freedom as to give him equal authority in the fine art of recital singing and the broader style of oratorio and opera. His recital in Music Hall was acclaimed in a leading daily paper as "one of the most interesting and attractive expositions of vocal art heard in Chicago this season" (1912). Mr. Miller has appeared as soloist with many important choral bodies, including repeated engagements with the Chicago Apollo Club and the North Shore Festival Association.

Though a highly successful public singer, Mr. Miller has always been led rather by the ambition to acquire an understanding and mastery of singing as an art from its first technical rudiments to, and including the broad field of interpretative expression. Referring again to preparation, Mr. accepted his first pupil. Having to start with six noted masters of various schools, before he accepted his first pupil. Having to start with, a voice described as mediocre, handicapped as it was, by nearly every bad vocal habit that ever harassed a singer and having found the way to work out his own salvation, the conviction came that he was equipped to prescribe for others similarly afflicted. Mr. Miller's work as a teacher seems to appeal with special force to singers of unhappy experiences, desiring to find a guide who has traversed the road, to lead them out of the intricate maze of vocal dogma into which they have fallen. At his studio at 716 Fine Arts Building, he has a large class of interested workers, and has drifted more and more into the teaching field.

TEACHERS!

Start right. Use

Gordon's Graded Piano Course

In Nine Grades 50 Cents Each

It is the latest and most up-to-date graded Piano Course and is used and commended by eminent teachers and leading conservatories.

Washington College of Music, Seattle.
I have looked over your "Gordon's Graded Piano Course" with my other teachers and I have made up my mind to use them—we think you have struck a needed chord in elementary piano literature.
David Scheetz Craig, Director.

Send for descriptive circulars and recommendations. Special prices to teachers.

Ask for catalogs and

Free Thematic Booklets of New Teaching Music

H. S. GORDON

141 W. 36th St. New York

LIEDERHEIM

School of Music

For YOUNG WOMEN

Auburndale, Mass.

Ten Miles from Boston. Ideal Home School for Education of SINGERS

Instrumental and academic branches. Rare opportunity for non-college girls to obtain education and a

SELF-SUSTAINING PROFESSION

Term October to June. Admission any time. Address

MRS. MAY SLEEPER RUGGLES
PRINCIPAL

Chicago College of Music

ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

ISAAC VAN GROVE

ACCOMPANIST AND COACH
716 FINE ARTS BUILDING

LUCY J. HARTMAN

Miss Lucy J. Hartman, who is the solo alto at the new First Congregational Church, and who will have a prominent part in the many festival events scheduled at that church for the season, is a very popular quartet singer and has been sought for many engagements.

During the summer she made a most successful (quartet) chautauqua tour and has been re-engaged for next season.

A soloist also of exceptional charm, Miss Hartman has fine presence, good concert poise and an excellent voice. Her repertoire is an extensive one and embraces every style of work. She is especially fine in oratorio, though also, as a matter of fact, few singers can give a small English song with such expressiveness and such clarity in enunciation as can Miss Hartman.

LUCY J. HARTMAN

Among her early winter engagemets is one to appear as soloist at one of the popular Monday night organ concerts given by Dr. Francis Hemington at the Church of the Epiphany.

♯ ♯ ♯

THE KUBELIK RECITAL

That Kubelik remains the technical wonder of the times as far as violin playing is concerned, is true and the fact was endorsed by a very large audience at Orchestra Hall on last Sunday afternoon when he played his first recital of the season. He was, however, in a strangely unemotional mood and his larger works were found to be distinctly dry and without any degree of musical feeling.

The list of works played included a "Chaconne" by Bach, and the "Concerto" in B Minor by Saint-Saens, as well as a number of lesser works, which latter were found much more agreeable than the two mentioned.

♮ ♮ ♮

Hopkins.—Hamilton Hopkins, teacher of the Casini method of voice production is now located in studios at 726 Fine Arts building.

GARY MUSICAL CLUB

The opening meeting of the Gary Musical Club on the afternoon of Monday, October 6, took the form of a reception for the club members and their friends.

In a brief, but comprehensive talk Mrs. Ferguson, president of the club, told of the study program outlined for the coming season.

Helen Axe Brown, soprano of Valparaiso, gave the program of the afternoon. Her numbers included in the first group the following: "From the Land of the Sky-Blue Water" (Cadman); "Melisande in the Wood" (Goetz); "Chere Nuit" (Bachelet), and for encore an original setting of Riley's "Little Orphant Annie."

In the second group," "Good-Night" (Rubinstein); "Old Irish Folk Song," and Beach's "Years at the Spring." For double encore at the close of this group she gave "Mammy's Song" (Ware), and "Irish Love Song," by Herman Lohr.

Miss Brown with her gracious personality and charm won her audience from the first and held its approval to the end of her numbers. This, her first appearance in Gary, brought so many commendations that

Miss Fanny S. Amstutz acted as accom- near future.

Miss Fanny S. Amstutz acted as accompanist. The Gary Musical Club has had during its short life such unusual success and encouragement that it has given the wonderful young city of Indiana, a splendid foundation on which to build its musical future. G. B.

♯ ♯ ♯

MAC BURNEY STUDIOS

On next Monday evening the first studio recital of the season will be given at the Mac Burney studios.

The program will be sung by Alma Leslie, a pupil of Miss Huntley, and reads as follows:

Voi che sapete	Mozart
The Violet	Mozart
It was a Lover and His Lass	Morley
Maman, dites-moi	Weckelin
Bergeres legeres	Wecklein
Waldeinsamkeit	Reger
Der Lenz	Hildach
Als die alte Mutter	Dvorak
Traum durch die Dammerung	Strauss
Standchen	Strauss
L'esclave	Lalo
J'ai pleure en reve	Hue
Vous dansez, Marquise	Lemaire
Romance	Debussy
Reverie	Hahn
The Nightingale's Song	Nevin
My Laddie	Thayer
Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal	Quilter
Where Blossoms Grow	Sans Souci
Echo	Lester

♯ ♯ ♯

MATHILDE HEUCHLING

Mathilde Heuchling successfully opened her season with a concert given at Waukegan, Ill., on Thursday evening, September 18, in conjunction with other members of the Sherwood Music School. This popular contralto is looking forward to the busiest season of her career. Her concert and oratorio engagements are booked up till spring, and include appearances with the best societies and orchestras of the country. Her teaching time at the Sherwood School is almost entirely filled and she has also large classes at DePaul University, where she is in charge of the vocal department.

The von Ende School of Music

A Distinguished School with a Distinguished Faculty, Including

HANS VAN DEN BURG
The foremost of the modern Dutch composers and pianists.

HERWEGH VON ENDE
Eminent instructor of violin virtuosi and teachers.

LUDWIG HESS
Leading German tenor and coach in German lieder and opera.

HELENE MAIGILLE
Famous authority on voice placement and bel canto.

HARRY ROWE SHELLEY
Distinguished American organist and composer.

ADRIENNE REMENYI
Distinguished authority on voice culture and interpretation.

LOUIS STILLMAN
Writer and lecturer on musical pedagogy and successful pianoforte instructor.

SIGISMOND STOJOWSKI
The eminent Polish pianist and composer.

JEAN MARIE MATTOON
For nine years pupil and teacher under Leschetizky in Vienna.

ALBERT ROSS PARSONS
Dean of American pianoforte teachers.

FERNANDO TANARA
Teacher and coach of Caruso, Tamagona, Bonci, Slezak, Farrar, Gadski, Destinn, Gluck, Ruffo, Griswold and others.

ANTON WITEK
Solo violinist and concertmaster of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

VITA WITEK
Famous Berlin pianiste and ensemble player and teacher.

New Building New Dormitory Chaperonage
New Educational Features New Social Features

For Catalog and Information, Address

HERWEGH VON ENDE, Director, 44 W. 85th St., New York City

THE SCHOOL THAT BUILDS CAREERS

Possessing every facility for the musical development of its students, in an environment warm with the sympathetic atmosphere of art and ideals.

CAROLYN WILLARD

Miss Willard has returned to Chicago and re-opened her Fine Arts Building Studio after a summer spent partly in work and ending up with some fine play.

During the early summer, Miss Willard taught a summer normal school at her home in Union City, Mich., and was there surrounded by a splendid class of pupils who were glad to have this specially pleasant opportunity to continue their work with this fine teacher.

CAROLYN WILLARD

After this session Miss Willard went for a visit of the Wisconsin lakes and this was followed by a trip to Denver. Both in Wisconsin and Colorado Miss Willard spent much time in swimming, tennis and hunting and has returned to her work much invigorated.

A western recital tour is being arranged for this season and Miss Willard will also, at some time during the season, give a piano recital in Chicago. She is also to appear shortly at Birmingham, Pa.

Miss Luella Sweet, a very talented pupil of Miss Willard, is to play a recital in the Little Theater in the Fine Arts Building, and Miss Clara Len, another fine pupil will play extensively this season with a trio (piano-violin-'cello), the initial appearance being made next Thursday before the Woman's Club of Sinai Temple.

———♯♯♯———

CHICAGO PIANO COLLEGE

The Chicago Piano College, Harmon H. Watt and Eleanor F. Godfrey, directors, is busily engaged in the new season's work; the enrollment of the fall term being unusually strong.

Informal musicales are given weekly in the lecture room for the benefit of students who are inexperienced in playing for others.

Many concerts of unusual character are scheduled for the season, among them being a series of six recitals given by members of the faculty and advanced students on Sunday afternoons in the Florentine Room of the Congress Hotel.

The very high standard set by this school is apparent in the work of all its pupils, and numerous earnest and talented students have been attracted to it in consequence.

———♯♯♯———

HERBERT E. HYDE

Herbert E. Hyde, organist and choirmaster of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Belmont avenue, near Broadway (Evanston avenue), has just begun his season's work after returning from his study with Widor and Bonnet in Paris and with MacPherson in London.

Mr. Hyde is not only an excellent organist but also as a director he has gained a most enviable position in Chicago. The work of the choir of men and boys at St. Peter's ranks with the very best in the city, their "Monthly Festival Service" on the third Sunday evening of each month being especially worthy of notice.

Upon these occasions a brief organ program follows the service and the work of Mr. Hyde has at these recitals been found of absorbing interest and splendid value.

Many fine choral works are introduced in these services also, including during the season many novelties.

HERBERT E. HYDE

Mr. Hyde is also director of the Ravenswood Musical club, an organization of eighty voices—the first two concerts of the year will include Handel's "Messiah" in December and Gade's "The Crusaders" in February.

———♯♯♯———

La Grange.—At the Auditorium of the parish house of Emmanual Church on Thursday evening, October 16, there will be given a performance of the "Golden Threshold" (Lehmann). The singers being Mrs. Orpha Holstman, Miss Barbara Wait, Mr. Albert Lindquest and Mr. Marion Green, with Phelps Cowan at the piano.

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

EDITH MARTIN

Miss Edith Martin was born in Boston in 1878 and began her early musical studies with her mother, studying later piano with Carlyle Petersilea, and violin with Director Julius Eichberg. She began harp instruction, then went to Vienna to study under Professor Anton Zamara, the celebrated harpist, and graduated with first prize from Vienna Conservatory in 1898. Her Vienna teachers were Professor Anton Zamara, harp; Professor Anton Door, piano; Professor Forsten, singing; Professor Robert Hucks, harmony and theory. She made her debut in Vienna in February, 1898, at the Militar Casino, under the management of Professor Simandl, and the following autumn made her London debut at Queens Hall" promenade concerts. During the following winter she made a German tour and gave various London concerts. Since then her European tours have included Norway, Sweden, several in Germany, as well as Russia, Italy, Switzerland and Paris.

She is a member of the Vienna "Ton Kunstler Verein, the oldest musical society in Vienna, and the only American member. She has opened her studio in Boston, 29 St. James avenue, for harp instruction; also for piano (the Carlyle-Petersilea method taught) she has many concert engagements.

James LaFleur

The following comment on Mr. LaFleur's "Finger and Wrist Studies of Scales, Intervals and Chords, Preparatory to the Study of Harmony," has been published.

"The work is receiving the highest praise by our musicians. It is the only book of the kind ever published, and is greatly needed; by its use the pupil studies the fundamental principles of harmony and piano technic at the same time.

"It may be used with any method of piano instruction.

"With the aid of the diagrams, first grade pupils may commence the study of scales.

"As a rule, piano pupils receive little or no harmony instruction, and often study for several years without any knowledge of the formation of intervals or chords. Mr. La Fleur aims to correct this deficiency. Being a teacher of much experience, a pianist and organist of recognized ability, he knows the practical needs of such a work.

"If this volume is faithfully used in connection with the daily piano practice, the student will become familiar with the intervals and chords in every key. Having learned the names of the chords and how they are formed, their further study will be found comparatively easy and interesting.

"For ear-training and sight-reading, the present work will be found invaluable."

♮ ♮ ♮

The Liederheim School of Vocal Music of Auburndale, Mass., opens this season with the largest enrollment in its history. Music News entertains the modest hope that it has contributed its share in acquainting the public with Liederheim's advantages.

Liederheim is a vocal school, at the same time it provides teachers of a high order for those who wish to take instrumental branches—piano, organ, violin, 'cello, etc. It is also peculiarly advantageous to the non-college girl, the girl who for any reason is not to take a college course, seeking rather to fit herself for singing and teaching. To her Liederheim provides the opportunity to take up such academic studies as she may elect, in order to round out her education and to perfect herself in instrumental branches while pursuing her vocal studies. When one considers that all this is done under the guiding genius of Liederheim's principal, Mrs. May Sleeper Ruggles, it can be easily understood how it is that the Liederheim girls take high rank as educated musicians.

♮ ♮ ♮

Dr. Muck Brings a New Symphony

Dr. Muck has secured Noren's new symphony for the symphony concerts this season. The work was played abroad, for the first time, about four weeks ago.

♮ ♮ ♮

The annual reception of the senior class of the Faelten Pianoforte School to members of the freshman, sophomore and junior classes will take place on Thursday evening, October 9, at the school. Refreshments will be served in Faelten Hall, and there will be dancing and whist in Huntington Chambers Hall until 11 o'clock.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

CLEVELAND

The first concert of the season was given at Gray's Armory, September 30, by the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Carl Bernthaler, formerly with the Pittsburgh Orchestra. Miss Gertrude Rennyson, soprano, gave selections by Wagner, Schumann and Grieg. Mrs. Sol Marcosson, pianist, played Liszt's "E Flat Concerto." Mr. Bernthaler has been chosen to conduct the orchestra this season. He is a Clevelander but has been prominent in the musical life of Pittsburgh for several years.

The coming season promises to be the most brilliant ever experienced in Cleveland. The course of symphony concerts, ten in number, will bring seven of the greatest orchestras in this country. The soloists will include Ysaye and Carl Flesch, violinists; Josef Hofmann and Harold Bauer, pianists; and Mme. Matzenauer, contralto; Leo Slezak, tenor; and Pasquale Amato, baritone.

There will be six morning concerts at the Hotel Statler, at which Gogorza, Kreisler, Carreno, Gerardy and Alma Gluck will be heard.

Paderewski, Elman, Schumann-Heink, Julia Culp and the Kneisel Quartet are booked for recitals.

At the Hippodrome will be heard the Russian Symphony Orchestra of New York, Melba and Kubelik, and Clara Butt and Kennerly Rumford.

The Fortnightly Club has engaged George Copeland and Nathan Fryer, pianist; David and Clara Mannes, Lucille Stevenson, soprano, and the Flonzelay Quartet.

The Singers' Club has announced three concerts as usual. The soloists are to be Mme. Sturkow-Ryder, pianist; Mary Jordan, contralto, and Anna Case, soprano.

EMERSON.

♯ ♯ ♯

MR. LIEBLING'S CONCERT

When Mr. Liebling announces a concert he invariably draws a capacity audience, no matter what the hour or the place, and so on Sunday afternoon last, at Kimball Hall, not only was there the usual complimentary number of people, but also the complexion of this audience was extraordinary, and it is doubtful if the most distinguished of visiting artists could boast a larger per cent of professional and amateur musicians in his audience that there were present in that which greeted and endorsed Mr. Liebling and his associates.

The concert was a chamber music function and enlisted the artistic services of Day Williams, 'cellist, and David Rosensweet, violinist, in addition to Mr. Liebling, and the ensemble thus formed was a notably good one.

EMIL LIEBLING

The program consisted of the trios, opus 63 by Schumann, opus 6 by Bargiel and opus 52 by Rubinstein, all played in their entirety.

This constituted a feast of rare charm and great variety, the Schumann and Rubinstein being at the opposite extremes of suavity and brilliance, while Bargiel proved to be interesting to the fullest possible degree, and all of the numbers were played with spirit as well as refinement.

C. E. W.

♯ ♯ ♯

Hess.—Mr. Hans Hess has returned from Colorado and, besides teaching a large class at the American Conservatory, is fulfilling many concert and recital engagements.

MR. HENRY AT PETERBOROUGH

The little cut shows Mr. Harold Henry on the veranda at Hillcrest, which is the MacDowell home at Peterborough. Mr.

MR. HENRY AT HILLCREST

Henry played the MacDowell "Concerto" at the festival in August, and was highly successful.

MR. AND MRS. BAILEY IN CHICAGO

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, baritone and soprano, who have had charge of the voice department in Central College, Pella, Iowa, the past three years, came to Chicago last June for further work at the MacBurney studios. Their recital was one of the many interesting events that has taken place at these busy studios of late. Since their recital Mr. and Mrs. Bailey have decided to spend the coming year in Chicago. They are making a feature of their joint recitals which are above the standard usually heard in this class of work. These singers who have exceptionally well trained voices and the experience necessary for continued success, are available for concert and church work and can be seen at the MacBurney studios in the Fine Arts building.

A NEW CONCERT MARCH

One of the lesser known Marches of Franz Schubert has been selected by Theodora Sturkow-Ryder as the basis of a brilliant concert transcription, and the result, as sent out by the Lee S. Roberts Publishing Company, is a concert piece of wonderfully potent charm, one which involves technic of transcendent quality and yet which is so direct as to melody and rhythm that it cannot fail to prove of interesting content to any audience. Unquestionably a fine piece of work and one which will attain marked success.

FREER SONGS

The songs of Eleanor Everest Freer have won enviable reputation wherever they have been heard, and in fact some of the strongest words of appreciation for them have come from across the ocean.

There has been a very general demand from Germany that German text be provided as well as the English; for Germans, more loyal to their native tongue than Americans, never sing anything else than German in Germany.

To meet this request Mrs. Freer has had an admirable German translation made of two of the most charming of her short songs, "To a Painter" and "When I Am Dead, My Dearest" and the appreciation of this act has already been very wide.

"When I Am Dead, My Dearest" is a most exquisite setting of the Rossetti text, so well known and so often used, and it proves beyond any cavil that Mrs. Freer can sense the uttermost meaning of such poetry, and that she can set it to music which is at once excellent from the purely musical standpoint and wholly admirable from every scientific and technical viewpoint.

"To a Painter," though short, is one of the finest things ever done by Mrs. Freer, and wherever it is heard appreciation follows swiftly upon the hearing, and the more it is heard the more is it loved.

From the "Anacreon" (Moore) with German translation by Gertrude Walter, the very expressive text reads:

While you, my lyre's soft numbers hear,
Ingenious painter, lend an ear—
And, while it charms your ravished heart,
Display the wonders of your art.

First, draw a Nation blithe and gay,
Laughing and sporting life away.
Let them in sprightly dances bound,
While their shrill pipes the Bacchae sound.

To make them happy—bid them love.
And then, lest life insipid prove,
Bid every breathing creature live,
And if you can perfection give,

This plainly furnishes a wide range of mood and sentiment, and the definite and expressive coloring of such text is the sure proof of very great musical genius. This Mrs. Freer has happily and completely accomplished.

Other Freer works recently examined include four vocal quartets, "Stanzas to Freedom" (Lowell), "The Wood Pewee" (Scott), "Unto Us a Son Is Given" (Meynell), and "A Christmas Carol" (Foster), all of which are admirably adapted to the special times and places they are intended to adorn; and the "Six Songs to Nature," which are short solo numbers, collected in a small book, and which, as to content and beauty, are of immense value. These are written in both low key and high key and have been sent out by the William A. Kaun Company in most attractive dress. C. E. W.

Bergey.—The booking of pupils at the Bergey Chicago Opera School in the Fine Arts building is the largest in the history of the institution.

Zukowsky.—Mr. Alexander Zukowsky, violinist, has reopened his studio in the Fine Arts Building.

CLARENCE EDDY IN VANCOUVER

That Mr. Eddy in his organ recitals always brings pleasure to every part of his audience, is shown in the following comment on his Vancouver (B. C.) program from the press of that city, and on the composition of the program itself, also appended:

Mr. Clarence Eddy again made it eminently worth while for the audience at Mount Pleasant Methodist Church to spend a couple of hours last night listening to his masterly handling of the organ. Of his ten numbers perhaps the piece entitled "Echoes" was the most impressive in its sweetness and quiet. The composition carries an imitation of chimes, and Mr. Eddy's rendering of this effect, with its illusion of distance and echo, was quite wonderful. Rudolf Friml's "Orange Blossoms" and Kramer's "Negro Song" were other tuneful numbers, and the devotional suggestion of "Angelus" was most effective and impressive. More stormy moods occurred in Silver's "Rhapsody" and Guilmant's "Lamentation," though in the latter piece the varying moods of grief were well represented. The organist's fulness of sympathy, artistic sensitiveness and executive skill must have been manifest to the most indifferent listener. The program will indicate the range of selection:

CLARENCE EDDY

Concert Prelude and Fugue.....Faulkes
"In Springtime".....Alfred Hollins
"Angelus".....Albert Renaud
Rhapsody in B minor.....Silver
"Chant Negre" (an idyl).....Kramer
(Arranged by W. H. Humiston)
"Orange Blossoms".....Friml
(Arranged by William Faulkes)
"The Hour of Joy," Op. 132, No. 5 (new).....M. Enrico Bossi
"Echoes" (new).....John Hyatt Brewer
"Lamentation," Op. 45.....Guilmant
"Kamennoi Ostrow".....Rubinstein
(Arranged by Edwin H. Lemare)
"Love-Death," from "Tristan and Isolde".....Richard Wagner
March and Chorus from "Tannhauser".....Richard Wagner
(Arranged by Homer N. Bartlett)

HAROLD HENRY

Concert Pianist

Dates Now Booking For 1913-14

For Terms and Available Dates

Address
426 Fine Arts Bldg.
Pupils Accepted

NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Haake gave the following program for two pianos at the Recital Hall of the school at Leland avenue and Broadway, on Wednesday evening of this week.

Violin solos were played by Miss Minnie Cedargreen.

Two Pianos—
Overture, "Ruy Blas" ..... Mendelssohn
Violin—
Minuet ..... Beethoven
Becreuse ..... Tor Aulin
Orientale ..... Cui
The Bee ..... Schubert
Two Pianos—
Variations on a Theme by Beethoven. Saint-Saens
Violin—
Canzonetta ..... Friml
Serenade ..... Schubert
Liebesfreud ..... Kreisler
Two Pianos—
Hungarian Dance ..... Brahms
Slavic Dance ..... Dvorak
La Sevillane ..... Chaminade

Baldwin Pianos

Whitehill.—Clarence Whitehill, the American basso and member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York will be heard in a song recital under the management of F. Wight Neumann, Sunday afternoon, October 26, at the Studebaker Theater.

Gary.—The Gary Choral Society has lately been formed in the Indiana city, with a charter membership of thirty. A. N. Hirons has been elected president, and Mrs. Jane Polson Spearin is musical director.

RENE LUND

Some further comment on the second Chicago song recital of Rene Lund reads as follows:

Rene Lund, who sang last evening, has a voice of pleasant quality, freely poised, and under good control. His intonation and enunciation were both excellent, and he sang with fine feeling for the music and appreciation of the text.—Karleton Hackett, Chicago Evening Post.

His voice proved itself to be a sympathetic, well-schooled organ and his sense of interpretation made his work thoroughly enjoyable to a good audience. —Eric Delamarter, Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Kilby.—Mr. Lemuel Kilby, who has been filling Chautauqua engagements throughout the summer, and who made a very marked success on the Pacific Coast, has become a member of the faculty of the Lyceum Arts Conservatory in the Fine Arts building. Besides fulfilling his duties as soloist at the First Baptist Church of Evanston, Mr. Kilby will sing many concert and recital dates during the season, notice of which, in detail, will be given later.

Bingham.—Miss Harriet Case appeared with Helena Bingham before the Iowa State Teachers College recently and scored great success in a number of the Bingham songs.

Johnson.—Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson sang at the home of Mrs. McLaughlin, 3412 West Adams street, on last Wednesday afternoon.

OPENING OF THE MUSICAL SEASON IN WICHITA

The real music season opens here October 21, so far as outside attractions are concerned, when Reed Miller, tenor; Agnes Kimball, soprano; Elsie Baker, contralto, and Frederick Wheeler, bass, billed as the oratorio artists, appear at the Crawford as the first of the Wichita chorus concerts.

The Musicians Club, which was the leading factor in securing the credit system for music students attending high school, held its first regular meeting last week, but postponed election of officers until the next regular meeting.

The Wichita Musical Club, second oldest woman's club in the city, entered upon its twenty-first year of work September 25 in the high school room.

Mrs. Inez Dodd Barbour of this city will head the vocal department in Southwestern College at Winfield this year again, it being her second year there. She still maintains her classes here as well.

The Euterpe Club of the American Federation of Women's Choral Clubs has just been organized by Shields Dierkes, formerly of St. Louis, who has recently moved here. Operatic scores, folk songs and dramatic work will be taken up by the club. The "Egyptian Princess," a spectacular opera for women's voices, will be presented during the early season.

At the state meeting at Sedgwick for the State Federated Clubs, Ralph Brokaw, violinist; Florence Young-Brokaw, pianist; Mrs. Earl Blake, soprano, and Mrs. Shattuck, contralto, are among the Wichita musicians asked to assist in the musical programs.

Frank Power, baritone, and Rafael Navas, pianist, of the Power-Meyer Conservatory, gave a concert at Garden Plain last week.

Mrs. Jetta Campbell-Stanley, soprano, accompanied by her pupil, Miss Grace, has gone to New York City for six weeks' study with her former teacher, William Nelson Burritt.

Mrs. Shattuck has resigned the directorship of the Y. W. C. A. chorus, a position held ever since the formation of the chorus four years ago.

Ralph Brokaw, violinist, and Frank Power, baritone, were the soloists at the Sedgwick County Teachers' Association last week. Mr. Brokaw was also soloist at the annual Y. M. C. A. reception and program September 30.

The dramatic department of the Wichita College of Music presented "Mr. Bob" at Philharmony Hall September 27.

Miss Hope Hardie, violinist, will be one of the soloists at Hypatia Club at their fall reception, October 6. The remaining portion of the program will be given by other pupils of the Power-Meyer Conservatory.

Thaviu and his band come October 8 to open the big annual fall exposition here.

Miss Jessie Clark, director of the public school music, has organized again her high school band and orchestra.

By the way, there will be some band music at the exposition, aside from Thaviu's. A band tournament will be held and much music and otherwise will be in the air.

THE OSTROVSKY METHOD

Following are some letters written to the Ostrovsky Institute of London, a branch of which has just been opened in Steinway Hall, Chicago, by Rex Underwood:

From Mrs. George Cornwallis-West.—Dear Sir: I heartily approve of your system of hand training for musicians, and find that I have benefited very materially from my course of hand development with your ingenious apparatus.

From Viscount Coke—Dear Mr. Ostrovsky: I am just writing to tell you how much I admire your method for teaching the violin. I am positive it is the only certain method by which the average amateur with limited time at his disposal can ever hope to obtain a good technic.

From Dr. Adolf Brodsky, (Principal, The Royal Manchester College of Music.)—Dear Mr. Ostrovsky: . . . . . perhaps you could find several pupils whom you could present me after a time for examination, which would certainly give me a weighty proof of the value of your new method. . . . I have much pleasure in saying that I have examined the following of your pupils . . . . It is quite an astonishing result, which gives the greatest credit to you in your capacity as teacher and the splendid method you have invented. . . . . your method of training physically the hands of beginners will be a great help to all teachers of violin. . . . . The success is most surprising. . . . .

From E. Polonaski, (Late Editor of "The Violin Times."—I have heard several pupils of Mr. Ostrovsky play the violin and consider the progress they have made in the short time they have been under his care, to say the least, simply extraordinary. I wish him and his splendid "method" every possible success.

From Professor Leopold Auer—Dear Mr. Ostrovsky: I am delighted to be able to state that the three pupils aged respectively six, eight and nine years of age, who have played to me today and who have only had a few months' training in your method have surprised me greatly, and furthermore I can honestly and safely say that your method will be of very great value to violin teachers, and it will also be a great advantage and help to the pupils.

I am sure your method will be crowned with success.

From Franz Drdla.—I am glad to testify to having heard today three of your pupils play the violin after having had the treatment of your method for four months only. The result is so astonishing that I shall gladly recommend your method on the Continent and I am certain that directly your method is known amongst violin teachers yau will have a well deserved success.

With best wishes and sincere admiration.

(Advertisement.)

SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

The music program of the Sunday Evening Club at Orchestra Hall last Sunday evening was as follows:

Organ recital—
Paean ..... Matthews
"A Song of Sorrow" ..... Nevin
Fantasic Symphonique ..... Cole
Mrs. Katharine Howard-Ward
Anthem, "Blessed Be Thou, Lord God of Israel" ..... Matthews
The Choir
Anthem, "Mount Carmel" ..... Foote
Women's Chorus
Anthem, "Thou, Who Sendest Sun and Rain" ..... Chadwick
Mrs. Gannon and the Choir
Offertory solo, "Still, Still with Thee" ..... Foote
Mrs. Herdien, Mrs. Gannon, Mr. Miller, Mr. Middleton
Organ Postlude, "Festival March" ..... Foote
Mrs. Ward

Stevenson.—Lucille Stevenson is the first of the soloists in the Sunday popular concerts to be give by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, other artists being Carl Uterhart, William Hinshaw, Georgia Kober, Elsa Kellner, Henry J. Williams and Albert Lindquist.

Gale.—Mrs. Permelia Gale, contralto, will shortly give a song recital in Chicago.

CHARLOTTE IKERT CONCERT-ORATORIO JOINT RECITAL ROSCOE KIMBALL
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON - - - - - Fine Arts Building Chicago

JOHN R. RANKL Bass-Baritone
PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING Phone Harrison 6880

SOFIA STEPHALI COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

HANS HESS CELLIST
American Conservatory
Telephone Lincoln 7917

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM
SOPRANO COMPOSER
Phone Harrison 6880 Accompanist
608 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Louise George Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Preiser Violin School
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director Phone Austin 4043
STUDIOS
530 N. Pine Av., Austin
5407 S. Halsted St. and
2831 Washington Boul.

CONCERTS RECITALS ORATORIOS OSCAR SEAGLE 17 Avenue Mozart Paris (France)
BARITONE
American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER In Paris all Summer 119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR DRAMATIC SOPRANO RECITALS CONCERTS HAZZARD-PEOCOCK FRANCE ENGLAND GERMANY
Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London

WHITEHILL
BARITONE
Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

LOUISE BURTON
SOPRANO 520 Fine Arts Bldg Phone Drexel 8183

MR. TENOR MRS. DRAMATIC READER Karl Buren Stein JOINT RECITALS 55 Auditorium Bldg.
TEACHERS of SINGING ELOCUTION ACTING

Esther Plumb CONTRALTO
4173 Lake Avenue
Phone Oakland 3246
Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago.

WALTER DIEDERICH TENOR
TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

HELEN GALLUP Pianist Accompanist
Address
Chicago Piano College

WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

(Advertisements under this head will hereafter be accepted at 20 cents a line.)

FOR RENT—A few good teaching hours; 516 Kimball Hall.

FOR SALE—Chickering parlor grand; in good condition; $250. Address N. care of Music News.

TO RENT—Kimball Hall Studio; Tuesday, and Wednesday and Saturday a. m. Address Music News.

TIME TO RENT—In large studio in Fine Arts Bldg. Address W. D. Music News.

WANTED—Pupils in German by teacher who has studied in Germany; reasonable rates. Miss House, phone 3056 Drexel.

PIPE ORGANS—If the purchase of an Organ is contemplated, address HENRY PILCHER'S SONS, Louisville, Ky., who manufacture the highest grade at reasonable prices.

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TEACHER TENOR DIRECTOR
120 North Oak Park Av., Oak Park, Ill.

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone O. P. 4397. 206 South Lombard Av., Oak Park
Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

Shipley Watson
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
Pupil of Heinrich Barth, Berlin; Martin Krause, Leipzig; Edward MacDowell, New York; Carl & Rheinhold Faelten, Boston. 4414 Main St., Kansas City, Mo.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Accommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS, PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

JESSIE LYNDE HOPKINS

Marked by a wonderfully sincere attitude toward her art is all the public work of Jessie Lynde Hopkins, the well known oratorio and recital singer of Chicago.

Miss Hopkins' voice is a rich contralto of unusual range, enabling her to sing both the mezzo and contralto roles. She is an exceptionally fine musician, and has rare interpretative ability. These qualities, combined with a magnetic personality and charming stage presence, account for her success, and many re-engagements attest the quality of her work.

JESSIE LYNDE HOPKINS

Miss Hopkins has appeared in conjunction with the Theodore Thomas, Pittsburgh, St. Paul and Minneapolis Orchestras, the choral society of Evanston (five times), Apollo and Mendelssohn Clubs of Chicago, Milwaukee, Des Moines, Oberlin, and many others. She has been equally successful in recital.

CORNELIUS VAN VLIET

Mr. Cornelius Van Vliet and his 'cello were among the most potent attractions in the long series of concerts given by the Minneapolis Orchestra last year, both in the home city and on the road, and it is with pleasure that these communities learn that they are again this year, to hear the splendid artist.

CORNELIUS VAN VLIET

During the season of 1914-15 Mr. Van Vliet will tour extensively under the management of Harry Culbertson and many inquiries as to dates are already on file.

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS—VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Violinist Brokaw Power-Meyer Conservatory
WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

SADIE WALKER
University Studios 5828 Woodlawn Av. VIOLINIST Exclusive M'g't Harry Culbertson

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

DEWITT DURGIN TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg

COLLINS J. Basso-Cantante BROCK
EUDORA MOODY SOPRANO
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

MARY ANN KAUFMAN
SOPRANO
Edgewater 8519 4433 Racine Av., CHICAGO, ILL.

Grant Tenor KIMBELL
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

PETERSON EDNA GUNNAR Pianist
(Mason & Hamlin Piana used exclusively)
BORROFF ALBERT, Basso
Lecture Recital—Concert—Orataria

GANNON ROSE LUTIGER Contralto
LINDQUEST ALBERT Swedish Tenor
AND

BUTLER HANNA, Soprano
(Available far Recitals in Castume)
BEETHOVEN TRIO M. JENNETTE LOUDON, Pianist
OTTO B. ROEHRBORN Violinist
CARL BRUECKNER 'Cellist

Metropolitan Grand Opera Quartette
Season 1913-14 Now Booking
Exclusive Management GERTRUDE V. O'HANLON Cable Building, CHICAGO

LEMUEL W. KILBY

Following is some press comment on the work of Mr. Kilby:

"Mr. Kilby has fine voice, distinguished presence and unusual dramatic ability combined in his work in a way which presages a distinct career for him."

LEMUEL W. KILBY

"Mr. Kilby has splendid voice, fine bearing and a taste in song presentmnet which compasses every style and sort of song."

"Mr. Kilby is the possessor of a baritone voice that has been well schooled. He has great range, perfect control and enunciation, and his singing is at all times marked by poise and dignity."

"Mr. Kilby lived up to his reputation as one of the best known Chicago singers, and each group of songs was greeted with long applause."

"The most telling of interpretations along every line of human thought and feeling; a singer, in short, to be reckoned with."

(Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

Steele.—Mary Hinman Steele has reopened her vocal studios at 503 Kimball Hall.

AN EXCEPTIONAL TRIO

Mr. Albert E. Fox, pianist, and Mr. William Hofman, violinist, have been associated in ensemble work for eight years, with constant rehearsals. Little wonder, then, that they play together with the abandon of soloists and yet maintain invariably the most perfect unity of purpose and interpretative thought.

It follows, without saying, that their readings are scholarly and brilliant, disclosing always a deep insight into the composer's meaning.

They have a very large repertoire of classic and modern compositions for piano and violin.

Mrs. Marjorie Dodge Warner, who is associated with them in the Chicago Concert trio, is one of the most promising of young Chicago sopranos. She has been endowed by nature with a voice of great beauty and her singing possesses highly lyric qualities as well as those which are temperamental and dramatic. Her tone is full, free and round throughout its entire compass. She has also a most attractive stage presence. (Advertisement.)

IN MEMORIAM

ROBERT WARNER

July 16, 1886
October 1, 1913

Robert Warner died at his home in Bonner Springs, Kansas, Oct. 1st, after a lingering illness caused by a tumor of the brain.

For the past five years Mr. Warner has been associated with the Bush Temple Conservatory as a student and had recently been added to the Faculty. He was also Organist for the Englewood Christian Chureh.

Owing to his rare talent and unsurpassed application, Mr. Warner made for himself an enviable reputation among the younger musicians of Chicago, as Pianist, Organist and Composer.

———♯♯♯———

AAGE FREDERICKS

An artist of the greatest worth and one who will measure up to the best that can be found anywhere is the Danish violinist, Mr. Aage Fredericks, who has taken up his residence in the United States after a splendidly successful career in Europe.

A recital by Mr. Fredericks offers one of the greatest possible musical joys, for his technical equipment is beyond cavil and his readings of his unlimited repertoire are full of intelligence and teeming with vitality and emotionalism.

AAGE FREDERICKS

Mr. Fredericks is prepared also to accept engagement with symphony orchestra and has a very large repertoire of concertos from which to choose for such purpose.

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

American Conservatory
KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO, ILL. Chicago's Foremost School of Music

Modern Courses Masterfully Taught by 70 eminent artists.
Superior Normal Training School. Diplomas and Degrees.
Unrivaled free advantages.
28th Session begins Thursday, September 11, 1913.
New Catalog mailed free on application.
JOHN J. HATTSTAEDT, Prest.

THE NEW CANTATA "BETHLEHEM"

By WILLIAM RHYS-HERBERT, MUS. DOC.

To the well known cantatas "Bethany" and "The Nazarene," Messrs. J. Fischer & Brother have added a third example of the same form, in their recently issued "Bethlehem." This new work is the product of the authors of "Bethany" and "The Nazarene," Mr. William ApMadoc and Dr. W. Rhys-Herbert, who thereby have converted their creations into a trilogy. Should they go one step further and produce a cantata upon the subject of the Crucifixon, the result will be a tetralogy of exceptional value.

"Bethlehem," however, like its two forerunners, is a separately existent work, and is to be performed without reference to them.

First for the libretto: As must always be the case with modern tellings of old Bible stories, a considerable portion of the text is based upon direct Scriptural quotation. Both the Old and the New Testaments are drawn upon for this purpose, the former for the utterances of prophecy, the latter for the words of actual narration. Such vital phrases as "Comfort ye, my people," "And His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the Prince of Peace," and the like, are therefore enshrined here, as well as such essential phrases as "Glory to God in the Highest." Thus the verbal material of the cantata has qualities to render it immediately familiar even to children.

For the rest Mr. ApMadoc has made a rare selection of great poems from other centuries than our own, together with (where necessary) original verses of attractive quality. Indeed, in many respects, this libretto is an anthology of poetry relative to Christ's Nativity. Numbers which in the sevententh and eighteenth centuries were probably upon the lips of every earnest or cultured Christian, are here brought forward again, with immense benefit to the cantata.

The days have gone by when doggerel verse passed muster in religious compositions. We have arrived at a state of mind when a beautiful and significant thought must be told to us in a beautiful and significant manner. In this we are but returning to the methods of other days. It was the pressure of religious feeling in the late middle ages that gave rise to the prototypes of modern poetry (and, indeed, to modern music). It was also the pressure of a very similar emotion which, in the poet-Shakespearean period, gave rise to innumerable lyrics of an unforgetable tenderness. Within the past twenty-five years a change has taken place, and we of the twentieth century have now a small army of minor poets whose lyric verse has the true emotional ring of the Christian faith. Not a few English and American composers have recently discovered mines of valuable inspiration in the religious poetry of the seventeenth century, and it is my personal belief that the same will eventually have to be said of the vast stores of religious poetry appertaining to the twelfth and thirteenth centuries—translated, of course, from its medieval Latin.

Mr. ApMadoc, therefore, has produced here a libretto absolutely in sympathy with the truest, most vital spirit of the day. I go so far as to say that at least one-half of it should be memorized by our Sunday school children along with their text and catechisms: In every way would they benefit by so doing, as would no less the grownup folk who will sing and listen to the cantata. Consider the delicate beauty of:

On the hills of Bethlehem,
In the stilly night;
Every star a diadem—
Shining clear and bright;
Land of lily, rose and palm,
Land that prophets trod,
Where the Shepherd of the Psalm
Heard the voice of God.

or the maternal spirit of

Where did you come from, baby fair
Lullaby, oh, Lullaby;
There's angel voices in the air
Lullaby, oh, Lullaby;
Thy birth-place could no humbler be,
Unworthy are these clothes of thee,
Yet, thou'rt a royal babe to me,
Lullaby, oh, Lullaby.

(Those few lines last quoted and containing the essential spirituality of mother-love.)

Consider again the almost medieval vividness of

O'er mountains, and through valleys green
Rode Melchoir and Balthazar,
While Caspar bold leading ever on—
All following the wondrous star;
In walls and towns, in the dawns' dim light,
Stood the great Jerusalem;
And men gazed wild at the guiding blaze,
'Twas the star of Bethlehem:—

or the power of

O mothers: mothers: why such weeping?
God's love and comfort have not fled;
Your little one's are only sleeping—
They cannot all be with the dead;
O mothers: mothers: there's a morrow
Of judgment coming unto them
That brought into your homes such sorrow—
Your happy homes of Bethlehem.

I could quote up to the limits of space, but must refrain, making no further remark upon this aspect of the cantata than this: That no observing, thoughtful singer or auditor can come into contact with this libretto without finding food for far-ranging thought.

The music is of the class Dr. Rhys-Herbert has made welcome in many towns and countries. It flows along in phrases naturally responsive to the forms of the verse, with touches of local coloring (as the shepherds pipe in the chorus, "On the hills of Bethlehem") and with dramatic outburst as need arises (instances of the latter being Herod's furious solo "I am the king of the Jews," and the chorus, "They seek thy son.")

The cantata, though not a short work, is mapped out with an unfailing sense of contrast. That is to say, the successive numbers are truly successive, no more vivid illustration being needed than the juxtaposition of the lovely "Lamentation" and the above mentioned solo of King Herod.

None of the choruses are difficult, though several of them call for extreme alertness on the part of the singers. One such is the number "Then the three wise men." But throughout the work choirs will delight in the honest spontaneity of Dr. Rhys-Herbert's writing. Sections like the "Hosanna" that concludes Part one, make the reviewer sigh to be a chorister himself.

Perhaps one of the chief charms of "Bethlehem" lies in the skill with which the individual values of the different voices are brought out and maintained, the music being not so much arranged for choral use as conceived and written for the same. This is to be said as completely of the solo numbers, with which the cantata is lavishly supplied. The composer naturally allows himself a little freedom here, but never to a point of extravagance, and certainly never with a touch of arbitrary willfulness. It is not easy to make musical quotations. At innumerable points the music is of character which will fix it in the minds of the listeners, but these can scarcely be indicated by extract. The charming unaccompanied male voice chorus of shepherds will probably separate itself from the body of the cantata for use at Christmas services as also will the contralto solo, "The Peace of Thy Tranquil Kingdom." Indeed, the latter, which opens as follows:

The peace of Thy tranquil kingdom,
Shall be unto all a balm;
It leadeth beside green pastures,
Where waters are still and calm;
The love of thy blissful kingdom
Our sorrow shall take away,
While ever and ever revealing
The holy and perfect day.

Will probably be widely heard outside of churches, chapels and oratorio halls. The "Lullaby" again (of which a verse was quoted above), with its delicate violin obligato, represents an hour of inspiration, and will do much to draw the hearts of congregations and audiences.

Finally, as already hinted, the cantata is laid out on complete lines, and thus is of considerable extent. But as the authors have again adopted the practicable form proven and established in such works as "Elijah" and "The Messiah" (where the different numbers are individually complete) intelligent chorus-masters will have no difficulty in shortening the work by omission. This latter, however, must be carefully attended to, lest the artistic balance of the work—so noteworthy a feature of the original structure—be seriously disturbed.

SYDNEY GREW,
In the "London Music Standard."

♯♯♯

Dufau.—Mlle. Jenny Dufau, coloratura soprano of the Chicago Philadelphia Opera Company, will give a recital at Carnegie Hall Sunday afternoon, October 19. It is the first time Mlle. Dufau has been heard in this city in concert.

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
441 Sidney Av., CHICAGO Phone Drexel 7910

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Gertrude Consuelo Bates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred Baritone NEWMAN
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

THE LANGUAGE OF SONG

The following is an editorial comment of the Australian Music and Dramatic News on the art of David Bispham:

"In the beginning of the eighteenth century, the Italian tongue was so well understood in England, that operas were acted on the public stage in that language.

"So, according to Addison, some future historian, maybe of our own epoch, would feel constrained by the logic of facts and surrounding circumstances to write of the later years of the lamented Queen Anne. And, acording to the 'Spectator' (from which, as need hardly be said, the foregoing is taken), there was much reason even then to prognosticate the course of British musical history, precisely as Addison did. Having alluded to the 'transition period,' when 'the king or hero of the play generally spoke in Italian, and his slaves answered him in English: the lover frequently made his court, and gained the heart of his princess, in a language which she did not understand,' the essayist goes on to remark, 'At length the audience grew tired of understanding half the opera; and therefore, to ease themselves entirely of the fatigue of thinking, have so ordered it at present that the whole opera is performed in an unknown tongue.'

"Thus far, at least, Mr. David Bispham, who introduced himself to a Melbourne audience at the Auditorium on June 20, may claim support from one of the greatest 'literateurs' of Queen Anne's time. And the writer has been abundantly backed up in his plunge into prophecy by what all of us know as a matter of common knowledge. We dealt at some length in these columns with this problem of unknown tongues in opera, when discussing last year Mr. Thomas Quinlan's project to give us opera in English. We are with Mr. Bispham in his general contention all the time. Far better sacrifice some of the 'nuances' of the original version — as sacrificed they must perforce be, in any translation, however admirable—than lose the entire sense. Better to know what the slaves are pleading while ignorant concerning royalty's hot and indignant repulse of their prayers, than to know nothing at all about the matter. Half a loaf in such a case—but the proverb is as stale as the bread! The king's wrathful words may conceivably miss fire; but his rage and vexation are expressible by his acts and his actions; and if only we grasp what the slaves have been wanting him to do, it is perfectly simple to grasp that His Majesty is not going to do it.

"Polyglot opera, however, has still its champions to find. In various places it has been brought forward, but always 'faute de mieux'—there was no other way out. Neither by this way nor by any other can we escape from Mr. Bispham's logic:—The performers should sing in the vernacular. Thus and only thus, is there a reasonable chance of an intelligible production of any opera.

"Yet even here we have not by any means reached bed rock. Two other things are requisite—even when we have so far come to a distinct point of agreement. The translation must be sound and adequate, and the singers must sing to be 'understood of the people.' Now we have quoted Addison in support of Mr. Bispham: 'audi alteram partem'—hear what Addison has to say 't'other way round.' Speaking of the necessary transposition of works, if both sense and metre were to be preserved, he remarks, 'I remember an Italian verse that ran thus, word for word:

And turned my rage into pity,

which the English, for rhyme's sake, translated,

And into pity turned my rage.

" 'By this means the soft notes that were adapted to "pity" in the Italian, fell upon the word "rage" in the English; and the angry sounds that were turned to "rage" in the original, were made to express "pity" in the translation.' One need not, of course, go back to ancient history to find support for Mr. Bispham's main thesis; but the chief 'lion in the path' existed then, as we are afraid it always will exist. The problem of the best possible government is solved by finding a benevolent despot and putting him in supreme control. Mr. Bispham's problem may be really solved in a similar way. Procure an English translation which shall embody at once rhyme and reason, and which shall fit, not only with the notes, but with the meaning of the notes, of the music. When that translation is found for a song in German, in Italian or in French, it will assuredly be used by all English-speaking singers. No other version—not even the original—will stand a chance against it.

"There is also that other point: clearness of enunciation by the singer. If all singers were like Mr. Bispham, that question would not arise; but unluckily we have to take matters as we find them, and speaking from personal experience we have heard singers—in an encore number, let us say—who have allowed us to remain in doubt, during quite a long bit of their song, whether they were singing in one of the more familiar or the less familiar continental tongues: till suddenly there came a phrase quite unmistakably English. With Mr. Bispham we are left in no manner of doubt: it was, in fact quite unnecessary for him to announce that he intended to sing in English. He did it—quite simply and always intelligently. But how his inmost soul must have rebelled when he found himself called upon to sing a Wagner opera in Italian—in London! That, however, was in the bad old days when no opera was allowed on the boards of the Covent Garden—the 'Royal Italian Opera' as it was then called—save in the guise of the "lingua Toscana.'

"To say sooth, Mr. Bispham's diatribes against the absurdity of singing to people in words which they cannot understand, leaves us very much 'as we were.' When one of his genial personality talks gracefully to us about it: when he backs up his arguments by persuasive singing, such as he has given us—why of course, up go our hats. 'Bispham is right, all the time,' we cry; and we feel proud of speaking a language that admits of being sung—as he sings it. But the lion is on the path—on the war path—all the time.

"And we greatly fear that, till those translations fulfilling the almost impossible conditions of the problem come along, the lion will remain in full possession."

Valparaiso Music College
Department of
Valparaiso University
Second Largest University in the United States
VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios. Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks. This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President
OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER
SOLO VIOLINIST
Welsh International Festival
MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE
SOPRANO
Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils
5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN
PIANIST
8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE
CONTRALTO
Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL
TEACHER OF SINGING
STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON
BASSO-CANTANTE
Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency
416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496
Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers
VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION
METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE
Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL
The Art of Singing
81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday
Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD LOEBER
VIOLINIST TEACHER RECITALS Musicales
3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA WAIT
Contralto
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

LIZZIE ABBOTT CLARK
Sister of Emma Abbott
Mezzo Soprano Teacher of Singing
719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
179 PLEASANT STREET MILWAUKEE, WIS.
Available for Church position, Next Season

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio. Recital. Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Carton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

FRANK W. Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN
American Conservatory Kimball Hall

JOSEPH KITCHIN VIOLINIST
5416 Jackson Avenue
CHICAGO
Phone Midway 6400

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium. Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

BEN O. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg.

Sara Burdick
TEACHER OF VOICE DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Concert, Oratorio, Recital 727 FINE ARTS BUILDING

RUBY VARY DONALDSON

RUBY VARY DONALDSON

Mrs. Ruby Vary Donaldson, who enjoys an enviable reputation as a teacher of voice, has resumed her teaching at her studio in Oak Park as well as at the Central College of Music in Austin. Mrs. Donaldson has had eminent success in voice placing and voice development. Several of her pupils are in opera work and she predicts successful musical careers for some of the voices that she has in present training.

LUCY J. HARTMAN

Following is a list of the choral works in which Miss Hartman appeared as soloist last year:

The Star of Bethlehem	Harker
Messiah	Handel
The New Born King	Blair
Elijah	Mendelssohn
The Righteous Branch	Clough-Leighter
Penitence, Pardon and Peace	Maunder
Noel	Saint-Saens
Triumph of David	Dudley Buck
Coming of the King	Dudley Buck
Rose Maiden	Cowan
The Crucifixion	Stainer
Passing of Summer	Cole
The Resurrection	Manney

Wait.—Miss Barbara Wait appeared in a program before the Catholic Woman's League at the Blackstone Hotel on Saturday afternoon, the other artists being Helena Stone-Torgerson, harpist, and Amy Keith Jones, violinist.

Loos-Tooker.—Besides teaching her large class of vocal students at 3814 Ellis avenue (Berlin Apartments), Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker gives one day a week to North Side pupils at 4619 Kenmore avenue.

CHICAGO CHORAL SOCIETY

The early rehearsals of this society point to a wonderful success this season. A great many new voices have been admitted in order to add tonal strength but the committee on selection has been most careful to insist upon good quality also and all voices which have any tendency to harshness were discarded.

Considering this fact, in conjunction with the excellent work done last year it is easy to suppose that the society will soon grow to be one of the best in Chicago.

Mr. Hutter, the director, is very willing to admit that he alone could not have brought the society to its present satisfactory status and shares the credit with the various officers who have been so liberal in their help and unceasing in their efforts to build up the society.

Success in the future for this society is thoroughly guaranteed in the new list of officers, elected last week, which reads as follows: President, John M. Rogers; Vice President, Charles E. Sinclair; Recording secretary, May Guilfoyle; Financial Secretary, Waldo J. McCabe; Treasurer, William A. Morrison; Musical Director, Clemens A. Hutter.

Adler.—Miss Lois Adler has begun work with her usual fine class of piano pupils at her home studio, 1364 Kenwood Park Place. She will appear on October 22 in a recital before the Schubert Club of St. Paul.

OCTAVO MUSIC For Sale—50 copies each of 200 standard sacred and secular selections for mixed chorus.
Write G. MASSLICH, 936 Ashland Ave., Chicago

ELSE HARTHAN-ARNDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av.
Phone Normal 1406

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY.
Music Critics say: "Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose playing inspires and 'Makes, Not Mars' the soloist."
2550 BURLING ST. TELEPHONE DIVERSEY 8470

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art.
Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT, Sec.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Herbert E. HydE
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
STUDIO: 407 Kimball Hall RESIDENCE: 6611 Woodlawn Av.

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

CHARLOTTE LOUISE PETTIBONE
Piano Accompanying Instruction
224 North Prairie Av., Austin, Chicago

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

van Vliet
The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4366

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

ENDORSEMENT OF PALMER CHRISTIAN

Mr. Palmer Christian is an organist of unusual talent possessed of a splendid technic and fine musical feeling. His playing is characterized by breadth and brilliancy, as well as by delicacy and sentiment. He has a large and varied repertoire of classic and modern music, his rendering of which cannot fail to delight an audience.

(Signed) CLARENCE DICKINSON,
Organist Brick Presbyterian Church, New York, N. Y.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Christian is an organist of quite extraordinary ability. His really virtuosic

PALMER CHRISTIAN

technic is supplemented by his keen understanding and excellent interpretation of the master-works of organ literature. Mr. Christian played Julius Reubke's "Sonata on the 94th Psalm" in recital in the Conservatory, and also studied with me the greater works of J. S. Bach, Franz Liszt and Max Reger.

(Signed) KARL STRAUBE,
Organist St. Thomas Church, Leipzig, Germany.
(Translation.) (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

MR. LUTTON'S REPERTOIRE

Following is a partial list of the songs given in his recitals by Charles E. Lutton, baritone:

"Honor and Arms"	Handel
"Hear Me Ye Winds and Waves"	Handel
"Saki! Dye the Cup's Rim Deeper"	Bantock
The Jester Songs	Bantock
"Mighty Lord and King All Glorious"	Bach
Confutatis Maledictis (Requiem)	Verdi
The Siege of Kazan (Russian)	Moussorgsky
Zueignung	Strauss
Mit deinem Blauen Augen	Strauss
In San Nazaro	Song Cycle
Myself When Young (Persian Garden)	Lehmann
The Eagle	G. A. Grant-Schaefer
A Lament	G. A. Grant-Schaefer
Song of Saul (inscribed to Mr. Lutton)	G. A. Grant-Schaefer
Light	Sinding
Persian Garden	Lehmann
Morning of the Year	Cadman
Jackdaw of Rheims	Hubert Bath
Kerry Courting	French-Collison

ORATORIOS
Messiah, Elijah, First Walpurgis Night

HUMOROUS SONGS

The Ballad of Little Billee (Thackeray)	Peel
Two Lovers and Lizette (Weeden)	Homer
Floral Dance (Old Welch Song)	Moss
Tragic Tale (Thackeray)	Slater
Zummmerzetzhire (Old Song)	Newton
Stone-cracker John	Coates
Corporal's Ditty	Squires

———♯♯♯———

Edwards.—After a very successful list of piano recitals on the Pacific Coast, Miss Marie Edwards is returning to Chicago this week and will at once resume her classes here.

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

IT has become quite the habit in Chicago, when any musical address is wanted, to say "Look in the classified Directory Card columns of the Music News, and you will surely find it."

The habit is growing in other localities too.

This is not without its good and sufficient reason either, for while the cost of this service is only twelve dollars a year (including subscription) the advantages gained are very material. Not only do prospective managers and pupils use this list continually to find the addresses of artists and teachers, but also, church people often find it of service in locating desired organists, directors and singers, and further—the complete list is used habitually by all sorts of advertisers who want to send announcements of new and novel productions to a representative list of musicians.

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

Bergey
CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL
Voice Piano
430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St., Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Stewart 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

Hazel Dell Neff
SOPRANO
PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN
PIANIST TEACHER
NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and
4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.
COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing
Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin
Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN
SOPRANO
Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital
429 Fine Arts Building Res Phone 4923 Drexel

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

FREDK J. PERSSON PIANIST ACCOMPANIST
1921 Wolfram St.

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
309 KIMBALL HALL Teacher of Singing
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Regina De Sales
TEACHER OF SINGING
PUPILS PREPARED OPERA, ORATORIO, CONCERT
Rue de Villejus (Bois de Boulogne), Paris
Paris Studio Open All Summer.

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Management - HARRY CULBERTSON

CHARLES AND FREDERICK CLARK

The accompanying picture shows Charles W. Clark and his brother Frederick, who has. under Charles' direction, developed a fine voice in Paris and who will locate in America as a teacher.

DR. FREDERICK CLARK
CHARLES W. CLARK

ROSA RAISA

One of the attractive additions for the Chicago Grand Opera Company is a young and cultured artist, Rosa Raisa, a discovery of Maestro Campanini, who feels positive that she will make a profound impression as she did as the principal soprano at the opening performance of the Verdi Centenary Festival at Parma. He declares she has one of the most beautiful voices he has heard in years, and has a remarkable musical and dramatic temperament. There are few singers on the operatic stage today who can sing dramatic and lyric roles as she does, and he is confident that she can achieve the greatest success in these lines. As previously remarked, the impression of her appearance at the Parma Festival was unanimously in her favor.

Schumann - Heink. — Mme. Schumann-Heink is to fulfill five engagements with the Chicago Opera Company at The Auditorium during the season. Her work in "Le Prophete" will be one of the greatest treats of the season.

Miller.—The Boston Symphony Orchestra has engaged Miss Christine Miller, the popular American contralto, as soloist for its concert at Worcester, Mass., Tuesday evening, February 10.

Popper.—David Popper, without whose 'cello works no recital of the past twenty-five years has been complete, died in Austria recently.

MAINE MUSIC NOTES

The coming Maine Festival at Portland is a big event, with the favorite festival soloist, Mme. Schumann-Heink. As the new city hall proved last festival to have such poor acoustics, the old Armory will be used this year.

October 27, the first of the series of the Steinert concerts at popular prices in the City Hall Auditorium. Maud Powell, violinist; Mme. Yolando Mero, pianist, and Lambert Murphy, tenor. A splendid trio will open up the series of concerts.

Bar Harbor concerts have attracted great crowds this past season: August 2, the Balalaika Orchestra; August 9, Horatio Connell and Bonarius Grimson and Ruth St. Denis; August 16, the famous classical dancer, was a big drawing card.

Miss Wyman and William Durieux for August 23; Miss Greta Torpadie and George Harris, Jr., for August 30. Alice Cave Cole, accompanist.

The multo-millianaire colony were out in force at all the concerts.

ROBERT DOUGLAS.

WILLIAMS AND PROTHEROE

The accompanying picture shows H. Evan Williams, the eminent tenor, and Mr. Daniel Protheroe of Chicago, no less eminent as a composer and teacher.

These two are fast friends and have been associated in many musical affairs, one of these being the program of Protheroe music given at the La Salle Hotel last winter, and another at Pittsburgh last July, when Mr. Williams was principal soloist and Mr. Protheroe was adjudicator.

DANIEL PROTHERO and
H. EVAN WILLIAMS

THE OPERA BALLET

The picture on the next page shows a group of the young Chicago women who were trained here for the Grand Opera Ballet two years ago and who have helped materially in the success of the various seasons.

THE CHICAGO GRAND OPERA BALLET

Special Premium Offer

Music News has now on hand a small stock of

Hints and Helps for Perfection in Singing

An admirable work by

Luisa Cappiani

This Book is listed at $1.00 and as long as the stock lasts we will give a Copy as Premium to New Subscribers, who express a wish for it instead of the One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music usually given.

TITTA RUFFO'S master, LELIO CASINI, recommends
HAMILTON HOPKINS
[CASINI'S Assistant for 4 Years in Milan]
726 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM
"A Ladder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys .50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice .50
Beatitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50
At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS
VIOLINIST
WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago
Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

Bispham
Summer of 1913 in Australia
For Terms and Dates, Address
Frederic Shipman, 3835 Flournoy Street CHICAGO, ILL.

ALBERT SPALDING
European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT
SOPRANO CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS
Phone Austin 12717 5943 OHIO STREET
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT

WILLIAM HINSHAW
BARITONE
Of the Metropolitan Opera Company Management: R. E. JOHNSTON, 1451 Broadway, New York

PALMER CHRISTIAN
Concert Organist Pupils Coach Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

Iva Bigelow Weaver
SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Jennie F. W. Johnson
Contralto
American Conservatory and
4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work
May Mansfield
PARIS STUDIOS:
27 rue Boisleven
Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET
BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER
VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL
CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory
207-211 South Main St.
South Bend, Ind.
A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Aak for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN
AMERICAN COMPOSER
In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals.
Recitals of His Compositions.
Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs
WITH R. E. JOHNSTON OF NEW YORK SEASON 1912-1913

GEORGE L. TENNEY

The following appreciation of the work of George L. Tenney, tenor, was written for the Musical Leader by Professor Edwin Herbert Lewis, Ph.D. Litt. D., Lewis Institute, Chicago:

"We whose chief share in music is to pay for tickets and carry away a mood of fine satisfaction, are not expected to know the details of the equipment and method by which the singer moves us.

"I know nothing technically of the registers of my friend's voice; to me it seems all one register, of the same quality in every part. I am very far from understanding how he gets certain bursts of clear, free tone at altitudes where figuratively the air is too thin to breathe. But of three virtues in him I can speak with assurance; his enunciation, his dramatic power and his exquisite tenderness.

GEORGE L. TENNEY

"Tenney enunciates . . . His dramatic power and tenderness are doubled in their effect upon me because I never miss his words."

———♯♯♯———

GRANT KIMBELL

Some recent press comment on the work of Grant Kimbell, tenor, is as follows:

"Grant Kimbell sang the part with intelligence and good style and gave the aria with excellent taste and effect."—Western Musical Herald, Des Moines, Iowa.

"Mr. Kimbell has a clear, tenor voice, wide range and pleasing expression, and his work convinced those who heard him that he has a bright future before him in the musical world."—Clinton Daily Herald, Clinton, Iowa.

"The abounding recitative was cleverly done by Grant Kimbell, displaying good musicianship and a very distinct predilection for oratorio style."—Musical Leader, Chicago. (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

CHARLES E. LUTTON

The following is some recent comment on the work of Charles E. Lutton, basso cantante:

"There is a snap and a go and a rollicking realism about his 'Zummerzetzhire.'"—Eugene (Ore.) Sunday Record.

"Mr. Lutton sang 'Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves' (Handel) splendidly, his enunciation being perfect."—Sunday Oregonian, Portland, Ore.

"Mr. Lutton sang the part of the Druid priest in the 'First Walpurgis Night' with the Evanston Musical Club, with clear conception of the character of the music."—Evanston Index. (Advertisement.)

REINDAHL VIOLINS AND BOWS
VIOLAS and 'CELLOS

Artists know the rarity of violins whose tones are "sweet" from lowest G to A in altissimo. You know how much you desire a violin whose tone qualities are distinguished in power, intensity, brilliance, evenness, sympathy, perfection of open fifths, stopped fifths, thirds, octaves, clear harmonics, pure pizzicato tones, distinct arpeggios, distinct in shake, trill and staccato, and withal quickly responsive to bow-pressure from real pianissimo to fortissimo. If you have such a violin you may not be interested; if you have not, you will be interested in a booklet—"An Artist's Touch"—which I will gladly mail you FREE, and which contains opinions from world famous artists who use Reindahl Violins

Violins sent to responsible persons on trial, for comparison with other new or famous old violins. If desired, gradual charge accounts opened.

Reindahl Grand Model, $250.00

REINDAHL VIOLINS
Used and Endorsed by
Bernard Listemann — Kocian
Chas. Gregorowitz — Jan Kuhelik
Leonora Jackson — Emile Sauret
F. E. Haberkorn — Fritz Kreisler
Axel Skovgaard — Alexander Bull
S. M. Jacobsohn — Hugo Heermann
Arthur Hartmann

Knute Reindahl
Atelier, 318 Athenaeum Bldg., 59 East Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill.

RENE S.
LUND
Baritone
Song Recitals Concert

All inquiries and bookings personally attended to by Mr. Lund. Circulars mailed on request.
2453 W. Monroe St., Chicago Tel. Seeley 5602

RUTH ALTA
ROGERS
PIANIST
If desired, Recital Programs will be opened with explanatory talks on the compositions to be played.
MANAGEMENT
CHARLES E. WATT 522 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

DELMA-HEIDE
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris
MAESTO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

Chicago Concert Trio
ALBERT E. FOX, Piano WILLIAM HOFMAN, Violin
MARJORIE DODGE WARNER, Soprano
Management CHARLES E. WATT Kimball Hall

RUTH ALTA ROGERS

Some comment on the work of Miss Rogers is as follows:

"Her program ranged from the severely classical music of Bach to that of the modern composers. Her technique proved ample for the requirements of the difficult music she played, and her interpretation left nothing to be desired. Miss Rogers is gifted with the emotional temperament, but she has it under the splendid discipline of a mind well trained by thorough education and experience. Her playing was characterized by absolute steadiness of rhythm, unerring technique and artistic interpretation. One who commented said: 'Her playing is so melodious'—which is true; but there was no lack of power and breadth."
—Ripon (Wis.) Commonwealth.

RUTH ALTA ROGERS

"An admirable reading, colored with feeling and marked authority, was given Grieg's Sonata. A group of three Chopin numbers, to the first of which (the E major Nocturne) she gave a singularly sympathetic and dreamy interpretation, while the Mazurka and Scherzo offered a brilliant contrast, formed the concluding numbers. In 'Carillon' (Oldberg), Miss Rogers Simulated remarkably the sound of chiming bells."—Minneapolis Tribune.

"A pianist of unusual ability, Miss Ruth Alta Rogers, opened the program with the Grieg Sonata. She imparted to the work a rugged force that is possible only to an artist who has the instrument well in hand, and played the minuet movement, especially, with excellent style. Oldberg's 'Carillon' . . . displayed a remarkably sensitive control of fingers and keyboard."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.—(Advertisement).

———♯♯♯———

MABLE CORLEW-SMIDT

Mrs. Smidt is a singer of excellent presence, lovely voice, and the finest interpretative ideals. She is soloist at the New First Congregational Church, Chicago.

Some newspaper comment follows:

She sings easily and her stage presence might well be marked by many of the singers before the public today. She is unassuming and natural in her bearing and sincere in giving to others the message she has to impart.—Streator (Ill.) Free Press.

It was left for Mable Corlew-Smidt, a young Chicago artist, however, to carry off the honors, this owing not a little to the fact that she completely surprised her audience. A very young girl practically making her first pretentious appearance, her singing at first betrayed nervousness, but this was lost later. Her voice is a full glorious soprano, with deep, rich lower tones, full, clear middle tones and gorgeous special high notes which range above the orchestra like a bell. With all there was an intelligent comprehension of the spirit of rejoicing which marks the close of "The Redemption."—Aurora (Ill.) Beacon. (Advertisement.)

STEINDEL ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studebaker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Doyton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production — Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

14 Selected Songs by A. M. FOERSTER

The Daisy	The Robin's Lullaby
At Night	Nights of Music
The Fir Tree	After the Revel
In March	Those Eyes of Thine
The Water-Lily	Song of Hope
An Old Melody	Russian Lover's Song
Love Seemeth Terrible	When Evening Shades

$1.75 NET
New York—G. Schirmer Chicago—C. F. Summy Co.
Boston—Oliver Ditson Co.

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE - ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY
Music Critics Say: Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose proficiency especially in the art of interpretation not only supports but inspires—makes not mars—the soloist, enabling him to bring out his best. 246 N. CLARK ST. Tel. North 4579

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

EFFA ELLIS Method

CANNOT HELP USING THE EFFA ELLIS IDEAS

Dear Miss Ellis:—

I received a New Year's card from you and wish you the same the whole year throughout. Your course seems to have made itself famous throughout a large territory because I hear from it from many different sources.

I have been teaching piano and voice since September, in a new institution in Lincoln, the Lincoln Musical Colllege. Their system of harmony and theoretical work in general is one written by Mr. ————. They do not advertise any other system, but I have your ideas so thoroughly ingrafted into my private work that my pupils will always profit by the product of your mind.

The head of our piano department is Mr. ————. He is a very fine performer, and I would like very much to advertise to him, your system, with your permission, what do you say? I like it so much I almost "break out," any how, but haven't done so yet, and will not unless you say I may.

Sincerely,

Lincoln, Neb., January 28, 1913. (Signed) MARION SARGENT.

LIKES THE TAPPING EXERCISES IN THE EFFA ELLIS MUSIC BOOK

Dear Miss Ellis:—

I am so glad to get your new music book. It fits onto your Teaching System splendidly —the tapping exercises are just what I have wanted for the class work, and the walking exercises are great.

I am glad you do not keep the pupils playing on the 5 notes above middle C. The pieces are nicely arranged for harmonic analysis.

I am delighted with all of it—send me ten more copies.

Sincerely,

January 30, 1913. (Signed) MRS. LYDIA WORTH SMITH.

MUSICAL CRITIC OF THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE ENDORSES IT

Dear Miss Ellis:—

I desire to offer you my studio as headquarters for any teaching that you may be able to do later and to include in this offer the heartiest possible endorsement of your work, which I believe to be the most complete course of the kind that has ever come under my notice.

Yours most cordially,

(Signed) GLENN DILLARD GUNN,

Chicago, Ill., Fine Arts Bldg. Pianist and Teacher.

AUTHOR OF "NATURAL LAWS OF PIANO TECHNIC" TOOK THE COURSE

My Dear Miss Ellis:—

I find your ideas on Keyboard Harmony simple, practical and systematic, and differ so from the conventional methods generally in use, that I have been much interested in knowing how you reached your conclusions.

My best wishes go with you as you are carrying this work over the country. I shall be glad to help you whenever I can.

Cordially yours,

(Signed) MARY WOOD CHASE,

Chicago, Ill. Pianist and Teacher.

Address EFFA ELLIS

204-5-6 Boston Store Building, OMAHA, NEB.

THE OPERA CHORUS

Signor Pietro Nepoti, the choral director of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, arrived in this city Thursday, direct from Italy. He has been spending the major portion of the summer at his home in Bologna, since the close of the Covent Garden Opera season. He visited General Director Cleofonte Campanini at his home in Parma, and found him, as usual, very busy, in the midst of the stupendous work he has taken upon himself in directing the Verdi Centenary in that city. While musical directors are generally content to spend the summer taking a little rest, Maestro Campanini seems to rest at work. Happily, his efforts this season have been rewarded with enormous success, in association with the revivals of Verdi masterpieces at his beautiful new house, Teatro Reynach.

Signor Nepoti visited the choral class, rehearsing at the Auditorium, and expressed his delight to Chevalier Emanuel, who is in charge of the choral school, congratulating him on the fine new vocal enlistment that has come in this season. When he returns to Philadelphia on Sunday he will escort a number of the Chicago singers, who are already familiar with the repertoire for the opening performances in that city. This will not affect the main singing body here, as Chevalier Emanuel will keep the ranks closed up for the full quota of the chorus. This season the chorus will number regularly forty-five male and forty-five female singers, and the body will be augmented from time to time in order to meet the demands of various operas of the repertoire.

HAMILTON HOPKINS

Mr. Hamilton Hopkins, now of Chicago, enjoys the distinction of being the only pupil in America of Lelio Casini, having acted also as his assistant for four years in Milan, Italy.

Many may ask the question, Who is Lelio Casini?

Lelio Casini was the only teacher with whom Titta Ruffo ever studied. When Lelio Casini took hold of Titta Ruffo, he was singing as a bass in the very smallest theaters of Italy. He told Ruffo emphatically that his voice was a baritone and not a bass, and after hard and careful study under Casini, Titta Ruffo was engaged to make his first public appearance as a baritone at the Costanzi Theater which is the largest opera house in Rome.

The first night he sang he made a tremendous hit and with that glorious voice he sang only in the best theaters of Italy until he was engaged to sing in Russia, Spain, Portugal, South America, and at last we have him singing in the United States with the Chicago Opera Company. His salary for the coming season of twenty performances is to be $50,000.

———♯♯♯———

Emanuel.—Harrison Emanuel, violinist, will play in concert at Zion M. E. Church on October 16, his principal number being the Fourth "Concerto" of Vieuxtemps.

———♯♯♯———

Rock Hill.—At Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., Mr. Clarence Eddy played to an audience of 1,200 people with very great success.

GEMUNDER ART VIOLINS

The new catalog of violins, violas and violoncellos sent out by August Gemunder and Sons of New York is a very handsome book, profusely illustrated and it has certainly been compiled by those who knew whereof they wrote.

So well indeed has the introduction to this book been written and so aptly does it touch upon vital questions of violin values that we here reproduce a large part of it.

After speaking of the endorsement received from many renowned virtuosi on the violin the article continues:

"It is not enough that the greatest virtuosi, living and departed, have testified to the superior merits of Gemunder art violins. A class of persons quite as critical as regards tone-qualities, workmanship, and sufficiency of power and volume, have been called in, this class being the workers in the field of music upon whom the future of the violin and violin music depend.

"Without the earnest, plodding, practicing of the average ambitious amateur, or the persistent instruction of the teachers, or the many-sided activities of the professionals, with their every-day occupations in theaters and orchestra playing, and the enlivening of social functions, we would not and could not have a serious musical activity in America.

"It is the 'average musical person' who is largely instrumental in the organization of symphony orchestras, in the fostering of love for the larger works of the great composers. It is this average musical person who makes the concertizing virtuoso a possibility. Without this 'average person,' there would be no audience to fill the many hundreds of seats; no money flowing through the box offices; no demand for virtuosi, and no virtuosi!

"That Gemunder art violins have helped musical emanate—not only do the prodigies rise from this class, but the critics, as well. While there may be a lack of that supreme technique which marks the virtuoso, there is no lack of appreciation for that supreme technique, and no let up in their practicing for the proficiency that is necessary to attain this goal.

"In this day and generation, more than in any earlier day or generation, the demand for an unequivocal stand on the part of violinists in general as to the relative merits of 'new' and 'old' violins is imperative.

"This is not so much because of the fact that ninety out of every hundred 'old' violins have reached a stage in their development where they are too old to be of service as musical instruments, and are of value only as relics, antiques, or keepsakes, but more so because of the fact that our music halls and auditoriums today have a seating capacity and area entirely beyond the tonal range of the average 'old' violin.

"Cremonese and Brescian makers made violins in a day when churches were the largest of buildings, and when churches were very diminutive compared to present-day edifices. And, in their day, the spinet, the viol da gamba, the lute and harpsichord were the most powerful accompaniment instruments.

"Today we have halls seating, as does the New York Hippodrome, nearly eleven thousand people! We have accompaniment instruments of wood-wind, brass and percussion that earlier violin-makers never dreamed of! And, never having so much as thought of an instrumentation of 80 or more pieces, many of them wood or brass wind instruments, these old masters certainly never designed their violins as fit for solo or ensemble in such large ensembles, or in such large auditoriums as we have today.

"But for the skill of modern makers, in fitting Cremona instruments with new bass-bars and in refitting them generally, it would be absolutely impossible for any artist to use a Cremona instrument in a hall seating anything like five thousand people.

"Cremona violins were not made for present day conditions, and our modern orchestral instrumentation was not made or modified to aid Cremona violins. Naturally, the violin must be made to fit modern conditions—and this simply means the modern violin must be recognized at its true worth—the only violin that should be seriously considered today.

"Price, too, is bound to be a deciding factor in the decline of 'old' violins in popularity. Of the few hundred or less fine specimens of the old masters, which today are in fit condition to give results in a large hall, nearly all are held at thousands of dollars. Each time one of these changes hands its price goes up a thousand or more!

"For an instrument having the volume, power, resources and reserve power of a Gemunder art violin you would have to pay from ten to fifteen thousand dollars if you insisted upon an old one, where in the new one you get quite as much tone-beauty, quite as much beauty in wood and workmanship and varnish, quite as much mellowness and twice as much power and volume for a few hundreds, and you can feel safe that your instrument will increase in value, tonally and financially, the longer you own it. But the important point is, to begin with it is better in tone than any old violin your means would allow you to purchase, and is made by violin makers who know violins as a watchmaker knows watches, and as an architect knows effects or an artist knows colors. Art and artistry and artisanship combine with the hereditary aptness and intuitiveness of three generations of violin makers to make the Gemunder art violin the best violin investment for the modern violinist. All Gemunder art violins have increased in value from the time they were made, and to purchase one of them is an investment.

—Advertisement.

———♯♯♯———

Elvyn.—Myrtle Elvyn opens the Des Moines subscription concerts under direction of George Frederick Ogden, the other artists of the series being Clarence Whitehill, Thuel Burnham, Margarete Matzenauer, The Kneisel Quartet and Harold Bauer.

———♯♯♯———

Bartholomew.—Mr. L. B Reeder, tenor, voice pupil of Mr. H. B. Bartholomew, has been re-engaged as soloist at the First Baptist church, Aurora. Mr. E. Fitzgerald, pianist, gave two programs at Joplin, Mo., in August.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 65 Rue de Seine
EVERINGHAM Hazel (Tel. North 3766) 1251 N. State St.
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Arthur (Phone Wellington 4148) 4100 N. Maplewood Av.
GALLUP Helen (Phone Austin 11713) Chicago Piano College
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 6171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4788) 520 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 3756
EMANUEL N. B. (Auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO Charles C. Wing Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boislevant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2106) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir.) 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
DRIGGS and LEMESSENA Publicity for Artists 501-5th Av., New York
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av.
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V. Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arbuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3865 Flonrnoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 257 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. 34 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 544 Woodland Park (8th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone Drexel 3937) 4955 Oakenwald Av.
DEAL Alice R. 716 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6210) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 524 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6507) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo, Milwaukee, Wis. 179 Pleasant St.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2868) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (51 Schiller St.) Pianist, Organist, Accompanist
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra, Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4325 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 5014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4451 North Winchester Av.

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music New York
BACHAUS (London Charlton)
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BARTHOLOMEW H. B. 502 Kimball Hall
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 36 S. Maple Street
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4635) 2315 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Stewart 2519) 6415 Sangamon Street.
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Milwaukee, Wis.) 558 Jefferson St.
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5065) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenu
BURNHAM Thuel (Parle France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirstl (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 336 N. Ashland Avenue
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 64 Auditorium (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3856 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Phone Oakland 3433) 303 Kimball Hall
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 16th Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 523 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio

ERST Stephen Adolph, 1663 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H., Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn
FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season, 2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Studio, 1527 High St.
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearborn 6032), 874 Cass St.
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236), Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise, Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur, Columbia School of Music
GODFREY Eleanor F., Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music, Northwestern University School of Music
HEAPHY Alice Christine (Boston, Mass.) Worcester, Mass.—Day Building
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773), 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7046), 426 Fine Arts Building
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.), 443 Day Building
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741), Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music), 306 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9206)
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41), Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School), 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals), 3350 North Halsted St.
LEVY Henlot (Kimball Hall), American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil, Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence, American Conservatory
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Lonis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich.
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W), American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (University School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (Jamestown, N. Y.) Hill Piano School
OLIVER Mary Lindsay, Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute), 416 W. 61st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904), 419 Merrick Bldg. 367 W. 63rd St
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288), 1921 Wolfram St.
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope, 707 Fine Arts Bldg.
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766), 620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma, Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie, Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5629
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142), 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.) 11 South 20th Av., East
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow, 4716 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420), American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715), 5528 Woodlawn Av.
STOUT Lillian Mary, 429 Fine Arts Bldg.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V. (512 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mahel Riggs, Peoria, Ill.
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin, Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J. Berwyn) 55 Auditorium
von MICKWITZ Harold, Bush Temple Conservatory
WALLACE Evangeline, 522 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831), American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H., Chicago Piano Colle
WILFORD J. E., 502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise, 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L., 1616 Maller's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Col'o (2226 Williams St.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHER'S SONS, Louisville, Ky.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son, 820 Fine Arts Bldg.
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block, Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver, Boston, Mass
DOWNING Luln Jones (Phone Graceland 8196), 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House, 628 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro., New York, 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co., 67 E. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO., 6119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co., 622 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G., Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 64 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co., A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. Publishers, 236 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons, New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2151), 639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music
ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1671) American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory, Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art, Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art, 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle, School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice, 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music, Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director, N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music, 69 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College, Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 609 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music, Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music, 61 Auditorium Bldg
DERDIGER (Spicker) E. J., Vocal and Piano, 600 Kimball Hall
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianaforte School, Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music, 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2831 Washington Boulevard
KROEGER School of Music (St. Lou's) Musical Art Building
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music) 629 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano, 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College, Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir) 309 Kimball Hall
Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music, Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music, Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music, Evanston, Ill.
OAK PARK CONS. Music and Dramatic Art, Warrington Bldg.
OSTROVSKY Institute. Hand Development, 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art, 65 Auditorium Bldg.
TOLEDO Musical College, Toledo, Ohio
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music, Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance, 42 W. 76th St., New York
VILIM American Violin School, 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1516 Mallers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art, 29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 69th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

ALBERT Teachers Agency, 633 S. Wabash Av.
BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency

THEORY

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf, 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M, Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S., Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C., Evanston, Ill.

WILLIAM WADE HINSHAW

Mr. Hinshaw will be an important feature in the concert field during the current season.

WILLIAM WADE HINSHAW

# # #

Longman.—Marie White Longman gave a song recital at Albion on October 3.

CONCERT ANNOUNCEMENTS

(Under this heading Music News will hereafter print advertisements of Concerts at the rate of 20c a line, minimum, 5 lines.)

PIANO RECITAL—Whitney Opera House, now Joe Howard's Comedy Theater, Chicago debut of Sidney Silber, Sunday, Oct. 19, 1913, 3:30. Tickets $1.00, 75c and 50c; at Box Office Monday, Oct. 13.

CONCERT—Memorial Church of Christ, Oakwood boul., near Cottage Grove ave., Thursday evening, October 23, at 8:15. The Imperial Quartet and Mrs. William Lester. Tickets for sale at 522 Kimball Hall or at church on evening of concert.

THE BATON CLUB

A Group of Chicago Choir Leaders Organized for Mutual Helpfulness in the Consideration of Musical Problems in Non-Liturgical Churches.

Addresses by Leading Musicians and Ministers

Some things worked for in practical ways.
Greater efficiency in the Choir Gallery.
More intelligent singing from the Pew.
Co-operation and sympathy between Minister and Choir.

ANNUAL CHOIR CONTEST A FEATURE OF THE WORK

First bi-monthly meeting of the club's season will be held next Monday evening, OCTOBER 13th. Dinner at 6 o'clock at the Boston Oyster House, followed by an address by ERIC DELAMARTER, the subject being "Unaccompanied Music."

Interested choir directors may communicate with any of the Officers, regarding Membership.

J. B. TROWBRIDGE, President
813 La Salle Av. Phone, Dearborn 451
WM. GRISWOLD SMITH, Program Committee
6758 Perry Av. Phone, Normal 580
R. H. OWEN, Secretary and Treasurer
2023 W. Adams St Phone, Randolph 2076

SONG RECITAL BY EDITH LUCILE ROBBINS

On Wednesday evening, October 1, Edith Lucile Robbins, the latest accession to the ranks of vocal instructors of the University School of Music of Lincoln, Neb., appeared in a song recital before an audience that filled the Temple Theater. The following interesting program was presented:

Widmung	Schumann
Immer leiser wird mein Schlummer	Brahms
Du bist wie eine Blume	Schumann
Heimliche Aufforderung	Strauss
Variations (Italian text)	Rode
Nymphs et Sylvans	Bemberg
Songs My Mother Taught Me	Dvorak
Norwegian Echo Song (Norwegian text)	Thrane
Summer	Chaminade
Bid Me Discourse	Bishop
Little Blue Pigeon	Hadley
Wiegenlied	Brahms
My Baby	Gaynor
Doan You Cry My Honey	Landsberg
Sleep Little Baby of Mine	Dennee
Aira: "Care Nome," from "Rigoletto"	Verdi

Hazel Kinscella at the Piano

Commenting upon this event the Nebraska State Journal stated in part as follows: "The delicate finish of her vocal art, her purity of tone, and clearness of enunciation made the recital most pleasurable. Miss Robbins' voice is a lyric coprano, flexible, sweet and of extensive range. She sang a program of sixteen numbers in almost as many different styles and representing fourteen composers, two of the number, Schumann and Brahms, each being represented by two songs. In Rode's "Variations" and the Aria from Verdi's "Rigoletto," Miss Robbins showed a fine command of the florid Italian style. The "Norwegian Echo Song" displayed the beauty of her tones to as full a degree perhaps as anything on the program. The pianiste Hazel Kinscella furnished very satisfying accompaniments.—(Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

COMMENT ON THE EFFA ELLIS SYSTEM

Following is some comment on the work of Effa Ellis:

The Special Course for teachers as taught by Miss Effa Ellis will commend itself to any one who will examine into Miss Ellis' methods of presenting the work in music.

I can recommend it to those wishing a working knowledge of music. Yours sincerely,

(Signed) W. M. DAVIDSON,

Supt. Public Schools, Omaha, Neb., now president National Educational Society.

The method is as interesting as it is simple and pupils of all ages and various abilities at once become enthusiastic in the work.

(Signed) E. A. ZARTMAN.

Teacher of Shorthand and Longhand Writing, Omaha High School. (Advertisement.)

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC.

of Music News, published weekly at Chicago, required by the Act of August 24, 1912.

Editor, Charles E. Watt, Chicago.

Managing Editor, Charles E. Watt, Chicago.

Business Manager, Charles E. Watt, Chicago.

Publisher, Charles E. Watt, Chicago.

Owner: Charles E. Watt, Chicago.

Known hondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders, holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities, none.

CHARLES E. WATT, Publisher.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 27th day of September, 1913.

MARTHA GROSSER,

(Seal) Notary Public.

(My commmission expires January 12, 1915.)

ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 716 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A. (North Shore School of Music) 4566 Evanston Av. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone North 815) Studio, 726 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Ludwig Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Wabash 1260 Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Ravenswood 141) 1962 Leland Avenne
CLEOPHAS Cornelia Studying Abroad
COHEN Sol (Cincinnati Orchestra) 528 Lincoln Ave. (Avondale) Cincinnati
DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.) Nortb Shore School of Music
DRAKE Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.
EVANS Clarence B. (San Francisco 1549 Octavia St.
FISCHEL Max I. 610 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst) 105 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 425 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4365) 4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Maurice H. Chicago Musical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KITCHIN Joseph 5415 Jackson Av.
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Pbone Kedzie 6517) 3533 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago Branch, Kankakee, Illinois
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nussbaum School of usic) 4654 Grand Boul.
PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York.
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 5302 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island) Vilim, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston) 1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music
STEINDEL Albin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1326 Birchwood Av.
TOWNSEND Winifred 411 Kimball Hall.
VAN AIKEN Hal G. Soloist and Principal, Violin Dept., So. Bend (Ind.) Conservatory
WALKER Sadie (Phone Belmont 4534) Cosmopolitan School of Music
WOODARD Guy Bush Temple
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis) 22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Pbone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugb (Hinshaw Conservatory 606 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147) 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.) 85 Auditorium Bldg.
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert (Phone Hyde Park 5750 6365 Ingleside Avenue
BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 419 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.
BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005) 303 Kimball Hall
BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.) Northwestern University Scbool of Music
BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist) 6119 Greenwood Ave.
BISPHAM David 44 W. 44th St., New York
BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg. Drake School of Music
BOGERT Walter L. (Baritone) Pres. N.Y.S.M.T.A. Aeolian Hall, New York City
BOLLMAN Maude Fenlon Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.
BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York) Care Haensel and Jones
BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 5819) Kimball Hall
BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8520) 4822 Madison Ave.
BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium) Cosmopolitan School of Music
BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor) 1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.
BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2269 Northwestern Uni. School of Music
BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3885) (Harry Culbertson, Manager)
BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio) Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
BRUEGGER Frederick 720 Fine Arts Bldg.
BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth) 7022 Vernon Av.
BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041) 727 Fine Arts Bldg.
BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.) Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau
BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183) 520 Fine Arts Building
Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass. 413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.
BUTLER Hanna (Pbone Harrison 5485) 512 Fine Arts Building
CASE Harriet Auditorium Bldg.
CHEATHAM Kitty (New York) 274 Madison Avenue
CHENEY Mary (New York) 500 Carnegie Hall
CHILSON-OHRMAN Luella, (Soprano) 4603 Sheridan Road
CLARK Charles W. (Paris) 12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.
CLARKE Edw. 613 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831) Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)
CLARK Lizzie Abbott Res. 5498 Cornell Av. (Phone Hyde Park 6971)
CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152 Sherwood Music School
CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone) Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus, 1908-9-10 11
CLIPPINGER D. A. 410 Kimball Hall
CONANT Alice Widney (Soprano) University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.
CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher) 721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495
COOK Dwight Edrus (Boise, Idabo) Boise Conservatory of Music
COOK John Loring (Tenor) 300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 5156)
COOLEY Sydnie Smith (Phone Garfield 2613) 4117 W. Harrison St.
CORLEW Mabel (Contralto) 4202 Prairie Ave, (Phone Harrison 973)
COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France) 6 rue Edmond Ahout
CRAMER Alice Ione (Phone Drexel 7009) 5628 E. 45th Place
CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor) 234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)
DAHLSTROM Margaret 3242 Clifton Ave.
DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977) 508 Fine Arts Bldg.
Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique 30 Rue Marbeuf, Champs Elysees, Paris
DE SALES Regina (Paris, France) 40 rue de Villejnst (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)
DeYOUNG Richard B. American Conservatory
DEVRIES Herman 518-528 Fine Arts Building
DOWNING Frederica Gerbardt (Phone Oak Park 1478) 815 S. Harvey Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.
DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310 710 South Central Park Avenue
FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio) H. B. Turpin, Manager
FARNUM Mrs. Frank 3359 Warren Ave.
FARRELL Joseph (Kansas City) 201 Studio Building.
FICHTNER Ludwig Carl (Basso-Cantante) 149 Tremont St., Boston
FITCH Mrs. Wilhur (Phone Harrison 3695) 63 Auditorium (Home Phone Longwood 40[illegible])
FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg 5906 Ontario St. (Contralto)
FRIDENBERG Abbie L. (New York) Studio 110 Carnegie Hall
FRISBIE Constance (Soprano) 5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)
GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782) 318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.
GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4896) 3435 Flournoy St.
GARTON Samuel B. (Home Phone Ravenswood 6392) 323 Soutb Wabash Av.
GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone) 413 Kimball Hall
GIBBS Mary Crofut (Res. Pbone—Longwood 1633) 404 Kimball Hall
GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone) 1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.
GRIFFITH Milton B. (Sonth Bend, Ind. Conservatory) Chicago Address, 522 Kimball Hall
GROW Ethel (Phone North 2635) 1002 Dearborn Av.
GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art) 523 Fine Arts Bldg
HADLEY Grant (Tenor) Suite 73 Auditorium Building
HAIGHT Irma (Detroit, Mich.) 955 Third Avenue
HALL William John (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497) 423 Fine Arts Bldg.
HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher) 72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.

HAMILTON Jessie Mack. (Phone Ravenswood 326) 5057 Winthrop Av.
HARRIS Milon R. 403 Kimball Hall
HART Belle 609 Kimball Hall
HARTLEY Sybil Owen, (Atlanta) 999 Piedmont Av.
HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Phone Normal 1406)
HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.) Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)
HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Building
HERDIEN Mahel Sharp 6132 Kenmore Ave.
HEUCHLING Mathilde 712 Fine Arts Building
HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923) Chicago Musical College
HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano) 1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel. Grac. 1733)
HINKLE Florence (Soprano) 294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)
HINSHAW William Wade (New York) Metropolitan Opera Company
HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003) 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson) 304 Kimball Hall
HOLT GeorgeNelson 509 S. Wabash Ave.
HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano) 3800 Broadway, New York
HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 13737) 6836 Washington Blvd.
HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544) Auditorium Bldg.
Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland) Tudor Mansions, 3616 Pine Grove Av.
HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante) South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.
HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880 608 Fine Arts Building
HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund Alliance, Ohio
HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267) 601 Kimball Hall
JOHNS Ethelle Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131) 6463 Kimbark Av.
JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 5104) 4937 Michigan Ave.
KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8619) 4433 Racine Avenue
KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Ravenswood 7201) 523 Fine Arts Bldg (Phone Harrison 2074)
KIMBELL Grant (Tenor) 5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831
KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
LA BERGE Charles (Baritone) American Conservatory
LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 6774) 1376 East 54th Street
LASH De Witt Durgin (Phone Harrison 5365) 420 Fine Arts Bldg
LAYFIELD Mabel B. (Phone, Wenthworth 2082) 7111 Normal Av.
LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6830) 6460 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1
LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335) 4460 Berkeley Av.
LINDQUEST Albert (Phone West Pullman 366) 237 E-113 Street
LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto) 1311 E. 53rd St.
LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola 3814 Ellis Avenue
LUND Rene S. (Baritone) 2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 6602)
LUND Mme Edla Scandinavian Song Program
LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J) 1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.
LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder) Drake School of Music
MacBURNEY Thomas 609 Fine Arts Building
MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060) 3422 Fulton Street
McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439) 3620 Parnell Av.
MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E. 616 Fine Arts Bldg.
MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France) 27 rue Boisievant
MARCUSSON Grace Brune (Phone West 661) 2459 Jackson Boul.
MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402) 6256 Berteau Av.
MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.) 209 Wesley Av.
MILLER Christine 1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.
MILLER Herbert 808 Fine Arts Bldg
MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn) 1. W. 34th St., New York
MILLER John B. (Tenor) Chicago Musical College
MOSHER L. Drew 137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.
MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone) 1166 Belmon Ave
MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles) 446 W. 40th Place
MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.
MULREY Mabel V.—Soprano—Pianist 47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.
MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4677 300 Athenaeum Bldg.
MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano) 4902 Friendship Av.
MURPHY Mrs. John Fremont (Soprano) 5000 Dorchester Av. (Phone Kenwood 4042)
MURRISON Harry R. Alliance, Ohio.
NAZOR Naoni (Phone Midway 7122) 1215 E. 53rd Street
NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano Plymouth, Ind.
NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199) 237 North Howard Av., Austin
NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York) 330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)
NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5509) 4125 Drexel Blvd.
OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute) 303 Kimball Hall
OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147) 2112 Washington Blvd.
PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England) Care L. G. Sharpe, 61 Reg S
PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto) Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.
PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.) Toledo Musical College
PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3246) 4173 Lake Av.
POTTER Mildred (Contralto) Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St., N
PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.) Winona School of Music
PROTHEROE Daniel 610 Fine Arts Bldg.
RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bluilding
RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 6782) 1738 Humboldt Boulevard
RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor) Barre Plains, Mass.
RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513 413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av
REED Esta Asher (Soprano) Abroad for a season
REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165) 5627 Indiana Av.
REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg) 202 Nixon Building
RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.
RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall 6318 Burchfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.
ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting) 1372 E. 52nd St.
ROBBINS Edith Lucille (Lincoln, Neb.) 2317 Washington St.
ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877) 7205 Stewart Ave.
RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto) Principal Liederhelm, Anhurndale, Mass.
RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 5265) 719 Fine Arts Bldg.
RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448) 3100 Lexington St.
SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing 999 Walnut St., Newton Highlands, Mass.
SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano) 401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.
SCHUSTER Katherine 71 Auditorium Bldg.
SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York) Wolfsohn Bureau
SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 469) 408 Kimball Hall.
SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner) St. James Bldg., New York
SEVERINGHAUS Edna Reiffert (Soprano) 53 Anditorium Bldg.
SHELP Dr. H. Wm. 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor) 516 Kimball Hall
SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano) 4044 Indiana Av.
SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano) 6523 St. Lawrence Av.
SMIDT Mable Corlew (Phone Anstin 12717) 5943 Ohio St.
SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173) 626 Madison St., Gary, Ind
SPECK Anita Belle (Lyric Soprano) Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio
SPOONER Philip (New York) 205 W. 57th St.
STEELE Mary Hinman 603 Kimball Hall
STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh) Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.
STEEN Frank (Tenor) 304 Kimball Hall
STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48) 4439 Calumet Av.
STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 65 Auditorium Building
STEPHALI Sofia (Phone Midway 6912) 6106 Kimbark Av.
STEVENSON Lucile 4438 Berkeley Avenue
STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923) 1134 E. 47th St.
STULTS Walter A. (Evanston) Northwestern University School of Music
TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L. Lewis Institute, Phone West 793
THATCHER Burton (Res. Phone Drexel 4861) Chicago Musical College
THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano) Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill.
THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082) 620 Fine Arts Building
TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3766 Bush Temple Conservatory
TORRENS Mr. and Mrs. L. A. (Ninth Floor) Auditorium Bldg., Wabash Av.
TOWNS Kirk Chicago Musical College
TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor) 813 La Salle Av.
TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949) 404 Kimball Hall
VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799) 6611 Woodlawn Av.
WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380) 428 Fine Arts Building
WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2958) 1325 E. 64th St.
WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Oak Park 4397) 206 S. Lombard Av., Oak Park.
WATSON Ruth Swing 1226 E. 52nd St.
WEAVER Iva Bigelow Mack Block, Milwankee Wis.
WEBSTER Frank B. 719 Kimball Hall
WEGENER Mme. Justine Rush Temple Conservatory
WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone) 61 Auditorium Bldg.
WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 6946) Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal
WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 1 E 34th St., New York
WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 160) 728 Fine Arts Bldg.
WILCOX John C. (Teacher) Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo
WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio) 616 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS Dr. Carver (Samuel B. Garton) Auditorium Bldg
WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey 406 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS H. Evan Akron, Ohio
WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway 6107 Woodlawn Av.
WYNN Bessie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall
WYCOFF Eva Emmet 500 W. 143rd, New York
YOUNG Walter S. (801 Carnegie Hall, New York) Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair, N. J.
ZENDT Marie sidenius (Phone Drexel 2778) (1140 E. 44th St.)
ZIMMERMAN 72 Auditorium Bld

J. HENRY FRANCIS

Mr. J. Henry Francis is choirmaster and organist of St. John's Church, Charleston, W. Va., with a choir of thirty men and boys; director of music, Charleston High School; conductor of the Charleston Choral Club; director of the Bream Memorial Choir, West Charleston; conductor of the St. Alban's Choral Club, and choir director of the Presbyterian Church, St. Alban's, W. Va. In addition to all this he does a little private teaching. It would seem, therefore, that he has a chance to know something of the possibilities of the human voice, and some of his latest compositions bear evidence to the fact to a remarkable degree. They are pleasing and easily singable to the average vocalist.

J. HENRY FRANCIS

♯♯♯

GERTRUDE CLEOPHAS IN BAVARIA

Miss Gertrude Cleophas has been enjoying a visit to the wonderful Bavarian castle of Ludwig II. Writing from Botzen, Tyrol, under date of August 26, she tells of the magnificent view of the castle from the lake and the uncanny feeling it inspired—the grounds being neglected—the fountains never playing.

"We went thru the castle itself—only one wing is completed and only one floor of that. But such furnishings I have never seen. Usually castles over here are a great disappointment and nothing especially elaborate or splendid, but this exceeds the utmost flights of fancy. Gold leaf everywhere. Heavy velvet draperies, richly handembroidered in gold, splendid mirror room, golden beds and wash sets—in fact it is all beyond description."

♯♯♯

Ballmann.—Mr. Martin Ballmann has sent out a circular announcing that he will conduct a series of concerts at Lincoln Turner Hall on Sunday afternoons throughout the season, beginning on October 26, at 3 o'clock. Programs will be announced later.

♯♯♯

Indiana Harbor.—Miss Constance Frisbie, soprano, Mr. F. Harry Strong, whistler, and Mr. William Lester, pianist, gave a very successful concert at Indiana Harbor on October 4.

Two Gala Performances

BY THE

Apollo Musical Club

of CHICAGO

[300 Singers] Harrison M. Wild, Conductor

CREATION

Sunday Afternoon, Nov. 9

AUDITORIUM

ELIJAH

Monday Night Nov. 17

THEATER

SOLOISTS

Florence Hinkle, Soprano
Rosalie Wirthlin, Contralto
Morgan Kingston, Tenor
Herbert Witherspoon, Bass

Edgar Nelson, Organist

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra

TICKETS, $2.00, $1.50, $1.00, 75c, 50c, Box $25.00

NOW ON SALE at the Apollo Club Box Office in LYON & HEALY'S, Wabash and Adams

CARL D. KINSEY, Secretary

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Subscribe for

Music News

Music News of this issue will reach many people who are not subscribers—many of them in fact will see it for the first time. To such we offer the explanation that we are making a special

Promotive Campaign

and are sending sample copy ONCE to very many people who do not often read music papers. We invite all such to become

Subscribers

The cost of the paper is only two dollars a year—which is only four cents a week, and for that sum we will bring to your home

Every Week in the Year

full and adequate announcement and review of the concert and opera situation of the country.

A Premium of One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music given to each new subscriber and each renewal

Send Your Subscription Today
Before You Forget It

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic
(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport, Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

Music News

WILLIAM BOEPPLER

Conductor Boeppler's Symphony Orchestra of Chicago

$6.50 Cash

and four $5.00 monthly payments will get this GUARANTEED Shopworn No. 7 BLICK TYPEWRITER

Worth $50.00

Traveling and professional men will find this machine a big help. It will make your private and personal correspondence less irksome. At home on trains—in hotels—anywhere.

Don't Miss This Opportunity

The number is limited—order now—Pay on delivery of machine.

Blickensderfer Mfg. Co. 121 N. Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.

14 Selected Songs by A. M. FOERSTER

The Daisy	The Robin's Lullaby
At Night	Nights of Music
The Fir Tree	After the Revel
In March	Those Eyes of Thine
The Water-Lily	Song of Hope
An Old Melody	Russian Lover's Song
Love Seemeth Terrible	When Evening Shades

$1.75 NET

New York G. Schirmer Chicago C. F. Summy Co. Boston—Oliver Ditson Co.

Have you seen the new Musical Journal

Every person interested in Bands or Orchestras should receive

The Army and Navy Musician

Here is a journal that makes its influence felt—one that is valuable to all its readers.

Write for FREE sample copy.

The Army and Navy Musician
ELKHART, IND., U. S. A.

Concert and Choir Bureau

HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

SHEET MUSIC MENDED

Send me your torn and loose music and same will be put in good condition at very low rates; also your name and address stamped thereon if desired.

CHAS. A. KIMMIT Park Ridge, Ill.

Languages

The Berlitz School of Languages
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879

Chicago, October 17, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

United States, per year, postpaid.....$2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are charged to their accounts.

Frances Bowser, Business Representative

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina Place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block
Frank E. Percival

TOLEDO, OHIO
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20
Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

SERVICE, equipment, accommodations, together with a well selected and ample stock, makes our store the natural trading place for the music teacher, music student, and for the general discriminating music buyer.

CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO.
MUSIC
Publishers Importers Dealers
64 East Van Buren Street, Chicago
(Steinway Hall Building)

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians

by Horace D. Hitchcock

A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original. The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:

"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."

For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cent's Postpaid.

The Musicians' Piano Tuner

Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

DEP'T. T Special Discount to the Profession. Send for Sample Copy of THE VIOLIN WORLD

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY

Evanston-Chicago

The University School of Music offers courses in Piano, Organ, Violin, Voice and Theory of Music leading to academic degrees. Also courses in Public School Music, and Piano and Voice Pedagogy. Literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Evanston Academy included without extra cost. Thorough Preparatory School maintained. Refined social environment and beautiful situation on the wooded shores of Lake Michigan.

The professional String Quartet, the student Symphony Orchestra of sixty, the A Cappella Choir, the Evanston Musical Club, and the great North Shore Musical Festivals with choruses totaling over 2,000 voices offer unparalleled practical advantages.

Send for detailed description of courses and book of Evanston views.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Dean
Evanston, Illinois

Subscrice for Music News

$2.00 per year

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

Vol. 5 CHICAGO, OCTOBER 17, 1913 No. 42

Editorial

OUR ANNIVERSARY

Perhaps in a week or so we shall let you read some of the splendid letters of congratulation which have been called forth by our Anniversary Number.

It certainly attracted much attention and has done a lot toward showing other parts of the United States that Chicago is in the musical ring to stay.

No other city in the country could be the home of such a music paper or such a special number excepting only New York—and, even though New York has the great group of "Big Managers," and even though it is the "GATEWAY" through which the Foreigners come to visit America, yet, even New York can scarcely surpass our Anniversary Number in beauty or importance.

Such a number is an immense undertaking from the purely physical standpoint also, and just a word on that point may be enlightening. For instance, more than ten thousand pounds of white paper were used in printing our special number and the resources of the Oak Leaves Company—a very elaborate plant by the way—were taxed to the very limit from Saturday previous to the date of issue up to the very moment when Music News went to the postoffice early on Friday morning just six days later.

Proof sheets began to arrive at Music News office as early as Sunday morning previous to the Red Letter Friday (October 10), and not only did the office force work all day and every night, but also the entire force at the Oak Leaves Company stayed on the job each night till 2 a. m., or later.

In spite of all this extra work the paper went to the postoffice promptly on time and all our subscribers received their papers on the Friday morning mail just as usual. To our printers and to all who had to do with this achievement sincere thanks are given.

A LESSON IN ENUNCIATION

Vocal students and some teachers of the vocal art also have a tendency to attend song recitals with the single end in view of studying tone production and sometimes in noting excellencies or shortcomings. In this respect they lose track of other things.

In the work of Mme. Melba at Orchestra Hall last Sunday afternoon, for instance, there may have been or there may not have been noticeable impurity of tone—judged by the Melba standard of the past—and the comment on that point may or may not be worth while, but one thing is certainly very much worth while, and that is for students and teachers to study the Melba enunciation as it is in evidence today and try to discover if possible the means by which she has brought it to such absolute perfection.

In all her English text songs the words came as clearly last Sunday as spoken text to the audience, and while most of the songs were old and the text therefore more or less familiar, there was one number on the program which provided a rigid test and which gave absolute proof that the purity of enunciation was no fancied merit of the singer but an absolute and very vital thing.

This number was a new song by Liza Lehmann, absolutely unknown in Chicago, and involved in content to the extent that it disclosed a dialog between two persons, with airy interjections thrown in by a blackbird. Just the kind of song where most singers leave the audience in a hopeless muddle as to just who said each thing and which was bird talk and which man or woman.

Melba left no doubt whatever, and it is safe to say that every word of the entire song was distinctly heard and understood by every person in the audience.

This is a triumph worth much comment and that attention from other singers which will guide them into the same admirable methods used by the noted prima donna.

———###———

ON VERSATILITY

If you stop to think about it a moment, it is easy to recall that the vast majority of great artists in music are very versatile and that in their earlier days they excelled in several departments of the art—Sembrich, for instance, being both violinist and singer, and quantities of other fine vocalists having begun as pianists.

It is a point worth keeping in mind by young students today, and especially inasmuch as there is a certain commercial development in the music field which demands that for traveling companies of musicians the young artist shall have at least two strings on his professional harp.

Again and again during the summer this writer was asked for a "violinist who could play good piano accompaniments" or a "pianist who could also sing or play some other instrument."

Such combinations are exceedingly rare, and while it may be said that the student whose aim is a thoroughly artistic one, should have only one absorbing ambition, it yet is true that if the concert development of the times is such that two talents are expected, many young people ought to take this into consideration and provide themselves with a secondary musical attainment.

A young vocalist for instance, certainly cannot work at her voice all day long and even though she may be very ambitious as to languages and other adjuncts to the great vocal art, she yet, if she were wholly ambitious, might find time to make of herself a good piano accompanist, and in doing so might very readily be securing for the future an engagement in concert work which, as a singer alone, would not be given to her. The subject is worth attention in these days when so many young musicians

(Continued on page 24)

STEINDEL ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS—VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Violinist Brokaw Power-Meyer Conservatory WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

SADIE WALKER
University Studios 5828 Woodlawn Av. VIOLINIST Exclusive M'g't Harry Culbertson

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

DEWITT DURGIN TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg

COLLINS J. Basso-Cantante BROCK
EUDORA MOODY SOPRANO
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

MARY ANN KAUFMAN
SOPRANO
Edgewater 8519 4433 Racine Av., CHICAGO, ILL.

Grant Tenor KIMBELL
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

WILLIAM BOEPPLER

CONDUCTOR BOEPPLER'S SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA OF CHICAGO

A resume of the work and achievements of Mr. William Boeppler, whose picture appears on the title page of this week's issue, gives to the reader but a slight conception of the abilities of this popular conductor.

Mr. Boeppler came to America in the winter of 1894-5 and made his first home in Milwaukee. Shortly after his arrival he organized the Milwaukee A Cappella Chor, which, under his baton, soon became one of the leading choral organizations of the city. A few years later he founded the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music and also organized the Milwaukee A Cappella Chor, chestra, both of which organizations met with immediate success under his management and direction. The Chicago Concert Goer in writing of one of the Symphony concerts said: "The success of the Symphony Orchestra last week is still a topic of conversation. Milwaukeeans are proud to have at last a Symphony Orchestra, and nothing but praise is heard for Mr. Boeppler, whose energy and effort have made the organization possible." The Evening Wisconsin wrote: "One of the most prominent musical conductors openly admitted that he had never heard an orchestra of Milwaukee musicians perform with such finish and subtle artistic feeling as under Mr. Boeppler."

Desiring to give wider scope to his work, Mr. Boeppler located in Chicago in the year 1905, and soon became a factor in the musical world in this city. The Germania Maennerchor, the most representative German male chorus in the city, at once recognizing his abilities, chose him for their leader, which position he still holds.

Always on the alert for producing bigger and better things in a musical way, Mr. Boeppler saw the need of just such a chorus as he founded in 1910, the Chicago Singverein. This society, a chorus of mixed voices, devotes its efforts to the cultivation of German choral music in the vernacular. Although still a young society, it has won for itself an established place among the leading choral organizations of the city. This achievement has been due entirely to Mr. Boeppler's intelligent leadership. Of their first concert (Die Schoepfung) Mr. Gunn, of the Tribune wrote: "The new chorus justified itself by giving one of the most brilliant performances of a season filled with splendid choral offerings." This same authority in reviewing their last concert (Aus Deutschland's Grosser Zeit) which was given in April, 1913, said: "The capacities of the Singverein in the direction of broad and massive climaxes probably exceed those of any similar chorus in the city. That it can compass the more intimate and restrained inflections with precision and much refinement of tone has been demonstrated on several occasions in the past. Last night's performance was a tour de force, a brilliant sustained assault upon the heights and depths and breadths of choral expression, that moved with the inspiring and irresistible, but ordered progress of a perfectly drilled regiment." Karleton Hackett, in the Chicago Evening Post, was enthusiastic in his criticism, a part of which follows: "The poem and music were both intended for popularity, simple in structure, easily understood, cast in melodious form. with broad lines where a man could get a good breath and let go of himself without fear. Mr. Boeppler knew just how to bring the feeling of it out of his forces, and they were as solid under his baton as though they were one of the Kaiser's own garrison regiments at Potsdam performing their evolutions under his very eye. It was the chorus that shone, for Mr. Boeppler is a conductor of temperament, and they willingly followed where he showed them the way. To judge from the way they sang and from the audience which came out to hear them, they are now thoroughly established as one of the choral societies of the city."

The Turner Chorus was the next to take advantage of Mr. Boeppler's skill as a leader, and selected him for their musical director. For twenty-five years this chorus has won first prize at the National Turnfests, the last two times under Mr. Boeppler's leadership, four years ago in Cincinnati and this year in Denver.

When Mr. Boeppler came to Chicago he gave up his work in Milwaukee, but after a short time the A Cappella Chor and the Conservatory extended to him a very flattering offer to return. Having undergone a number of changes in the meantime, it was quite gratifying to Mr. Boeppler, after he had resumed charge of the A Cappella to read what the "Germania" said of it: "The A Cappella Chor rose 'Wie ein Phoenix aus der Asche' (like a phoenix out of the ashes)."

In summing up Mr. Boeppler's work as a choral director, we find him the leader of the Milwaukee A Cappella Chor, the Chicago Singverein, the Germania Maennerchor and the Turner Chorus of Chicago. These societies each give two or more concerts during the season. Early in the spring 1912, Mr. Boeppler introduced a novelty to the Chicago musical public, by combining his A Cappella Chor of Milwaukee with the Chicago Singverein, and giving a rendition of Handel's "Samson" in Chicago and Milwaukee. Of this performance we quote the following musical critics: Nicholas Devore, in Musical America wrote: "A two-year-old among Chicago choruses and an organization from Milwaukee came to the Auditorium on Sunday night and gave Chicago a taste of singing, such as New York might well feel proud to produce. Mr. Boeppler has few equals among choral conductors and he is a musician through and through and knows just what he wants and how to get it. The pianissimos of this chorus were second only to the flawless Mendelssohn Choir, and the attack and release were thrilling in spontaneity." The Milwaukee Sentinel wrote: "The single word 'triumph' can be unhesitatingly set

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

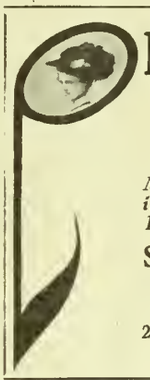
down to sum up in a word the splendid achievement of conductor. soloists and chorus." Felix Borowski, in the Chicago Record-Herald, said: "Mr. Boeppler has succeeded in accomplishing the remarkable feat of inducing five hundred vocalists to sing pianissimo." Maurice Rosenfeld, in the Examiner: "Mr. Boeppler is a very talented choral leader. He has that magnetic personality and that German perseverance, which is the most necessary adjunct of a conductor of choral societies. He gets through this means, a clear tone from his body of singers, which swells and diminishes at his will, and it is musical whether at its greatest fortissimo or at its softest pianissimo." The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin: "Mr. Boeppler demonstrated convincingly that he deserves the praise which has been bestowed upon him. The allegiance to every subtle markation of his baton and hand, made up an ensemble of musical sincerity, tonal quality and technical perfection, the like of which this city has not known heretofore.

Last April the Milwaukee A Cappella Chor gave a most wonderful performance of Bach's "St. Matthew Passion," before an audience which completely filled the great Auditorium, the seating capacity of which is seven thousand. Many distinguished persons from all parts of the state of Wisconsin, among them the governor of the state (and a great many prominent musicians from Chicago), attended this concert. In commenting on this performance, the Milwaukee Sentinel had this to say: "From every standpoint the A Cappella's achievement reflected glory upon the participants, the auditors and the city itself. Mr. Boeppler conducted in his usual refined and incisive style, and as the general of the 550 odd singers and players he must be accorded full credit for attaining so complete a musical victory." Other critics compared the A Cappella favorably with the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir and the Sheffield Choir of England.

Mr. Boeppler's efficiency as a musical director and manager is also shown in the success of the Wisconsin Conservatory, with its faculty of sixty teachers and more than 2,000 pupils. It is today one of the largest. best equipped and best regulated schools in the middle west. His marvelous success is not only due to his most excellent and thorough musicianship, but also to his exceptionally strong and magnetic personality.

By his thoroughness and his intelligent method of voice placing and voice building he has gained much distinction as a vocal teacher, and these qualities have won for him many serious-minded and enthusiastic pupils, both in Milwaukee and in Chicago, where he has a large class in Kimball Hall. Among professionals he is regarded as an authority in coaching for concert, church and opera. Following are a few of the best known artists who have coached with him: Iva Bigelow Weaver, soprano; Elsa Bloedel, contralto; Beecher Burton, tenor; Hannah Butler, soprano; Helen Cafarelli, soprano; Lotta Chatroop, soprano; Gustaf Holmquist, bass; Jessie Lynde Hopkins, contralto; Anna Langrich, soprano; Rene S. Lund, baritone; Alma von der Muehlen, soprano; Dorothea North, soprano; Marion Roddy, soprano; Alfred Shaw, tenor; Mary L. Young, contralto; Marie Sidenius Zendt, soprano; Katherine Clarke, contralto; Ora M. Fletcher, soprano, and Adolf Gill, tenor.

Surely, all these activities would test the ability of a busy man, and in many cases would prove disastrous. Not so with Mr. Boeppler, for as a crowning success to his achievements, he has this year been tendered and has accepted the direction of the orchestra concerts of the Chicago Turngemeinde. In this venture Mr. Boeppler will be enabled to display his exceptional abilities as orchestra leader. His success with the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra assures for him a brilliant future in Chicago, in this his latest undertaking. A man of Mr. Boeppler's genius and talents is sure to bring the Turngemeinde concerts up to an artistic standard, which will meet the demands of the most critical of music lovers. As the Turngemeinde celebrates its golden jubilee this year, it will give him an opportunity to offer his very best. His unusual artistic gifts, his intelligence, his knowledge and wide experience are bound to bring splendid results.



EFFA ELLIS
Keyboard Harmony
Melody Building and
Teaching System
Mean Rapid, Definite Reasoning, Based on the TRUTH Brief and Simple. Write about Special Modulation Course
EFFA ELLIS
204-5 BOSTON STORE BUILDING
OMAHA, NEBRASKA

Mr. Boeppler's popularity as a director is attested by the following words of commendation from some of the most prominent musicains who have appeared under his direction:

"It is an honor conferred on any singer to appear in concert under Mr. William Boeppler. The guidance and support of this efficient and compelling master dispel all fears of possible troubles. He is deserving of all the praise allotted him as an exceptionally capable conductor."

BEECHER BURTON.

"I consider Mr. Boeppler one of the ablest and most inspired directors of the country."

ROSE LUTIGER GANNON.

"I have had the pleasure of being associated with Mr. Boeppler in a performance of 'Elijah,' and I am glad to be able to say that I have always looked upon it as one of the very best choral performances I have ever heard or taken part in. Mr. Boeppler knows music, the voice and the orchestra, and really a man who knows all three of those things is a rare one these days. I shall follow his work with keen interest, for I believe in the man."

MARION GREEN.

"I am very glad to add my testimony to that of the host of William Boeppler's friends among the artists of America. I have found him an able and inspiring conductor and a gifted master of choral singing."

MATHILDE HEUCHLING.

"It has been my privilege and pleasure to know Mr. William Boeppler for several years. I have sung for him and his Choral Societies several times. and have always found him a most competent and efficient choral and orchestral conductor, also a perfect gentleman."

FREDERIC MARTIN.

"I was fortunate enough to be the alto soloist in a presentation of 'Elijah' directed by Mr. Boeppler, and it remains in my mind as an ideal performance, an evening of inspiration. Mr. Boeppler is a poet as well as a musician, and conducts the text as well as the notes."

JESSIE LYNDE HOPKINS.

"I consider Mr. Boeppler a splendid conductor. He has knowledge and experience, and most of all, an enthusiasm for his work which communicates itself to his singers, and makes them give of their best efforts.

ALBERT BORROFF.

"The performance of 'Elijah' I sang with Mr. Boeppler certainly showed him to be a fine musician and an able conductor."

SIBYL SAMMIS MAC DERMID.

"It was my privilege to sing under the direction of Mr. Boeppler, which I consider a great opportunity for any musician. He is an inspiration and most accurate leader, as well as master of the art of conducting."

DOROTHEA NORTH.

"A great musician must first of all be a scholar; second, he must be a poet—a poet in the sense that he must thoroughly understand and appreciate the emotional value of music and not try to reduce it to a mathematical progression; third, he must possess boundless tact and a personality which wins from his performers the most enthusiastic response and the very best work that they are capable of doing. Were I to name a man who possesses these qualities in the highest degree and one in whom they are perfectly blended, I should perforce name Mr. William Boeppler, who, by his seeming unconsciousness of these virtues, really enhances them."

GEORGE L. TENNEY.

"A singer who travels about the country, appearing with many different choral societies under strange conductors, meets

HERBERT
MILLER
BARITONE

716 Fine Arts Building Chicago

Success has come naturally to Herbert Miller as a result of the thorough preparation brought to his professional work. Perhaps few singers or singing teachers have enjoyed as long and comprehensive a period of preliminary study as he. His earliest studies were under the supervision of Willard Kimball, now director of the University School of Music, of Lincoln, Neb., with whom he took his first piano and organ lessons. Later, in New York, he continued the study of the organ with John White and Samuel P. Warren, also composition with Mr. White and the late Max Spicker. The vocal work soon became the leading motive, however, and has continued to be to this time.

As a singer Mr. Miller's work has been universally endorsed by critics, as characterized by "fine musicianship," "deep sincerity," "ample temperament" and interpretative excellence of a high order. His voice is declared by eminent authorities to be o e of uncommon power and beauty and produced with such freedom as to give him equal authority in the fine art of recital singing and the broader style of oratorio and opera. His recital in Music Hall was acclaimed in a leading daily paper as "one of the most interesting and attractive expositions of vocal art heard in Chicago this season" (1912). Mr. Miller has appeared as soloist with many important choral bodies, including repeated engagements with the Chicago Apollo Club and the North Shore Festival Association.

Though a highly successful public singer, Mr. Miller has always been led rather by the ambition to acquire an understanding and mastery of singing as an art from its first technical rudiments to, and including the broad field of interpretative expression. Referring again to preparation, Mr. Miller had studied singing for eleven years, with six noted masters of various schools before he accepted his first pupil. Having to start with, a voice described as mediocre, handicapped as it was by nearly every bad vocal habit that ever harassed a singer and having found the way to work out his own salvation, the conviction came that he was equipped to prescribe for others similarly afflicted. Mr. Miller's work as a teacher seems to appeal with special force to singers of unhappy experiences, desiring to find a guide who has traversed the road, to lead them out of the intricate maze of vocal dogma into which they have fallen. At his studio at 716 Fine Arts Building, he has a large class of interested workers, and has drifted more and more into the teaching field.

with varied experiences. Often he finds the chorus ill-prepared, the orchestra rough, and the conductor a good musician enough, but with insufficient routine, and none too well acquainted with the work which is being performed. It was my great pleasure to sing a performance of Bach's "St. Matthew Passion" under Mr. William Boeppler, in Milwaukee. This stupendous work taxes soloists, chorus, orchestra and conductor to the limit. Here, if ever, some excuse might be found for an inadequate performance. But Mr. Boeppler was everywhere complete master of the situation. His beat is clear, easily followed, and yet elastic. The chorus was well trained; indeed, one seldom hears the chorales, of which this work is full, sung with such good effect, except in Germany and in Bethlehem. Mr. Boeppler knew the music, every note of it, not only the chorus parts, but the orchestra parts, and the solos as well. It was altogether a delight to be associated with a man who is at once a musician and a gentleman." NICHOLAS DOUTY.

"Mr. William Boeppler is to my mind one of the best conductors I have had the pleasure to sing for."

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST.

"I have been singing under Mr. Boeppler's direction for a long time and I think he is a musical genius, a most sincere, conscientious director, teacher and friend."

ELSA BLOEDEL.

"It gives me much pleasure to speak of Mr. William Boeppler as a musical director. His splendid natural musical ability, together with his splendid training, place him among the really great choral conductors. His broad mental vision permits him to grasp music in its larger meaning. It is a real pleasure to sing with him."

(Advertisement.) FRANK ORMSBY.

THE MAC BURNEY STUDIOS

The third season of recitals at the MacBurney Studios opened on Monday evening with a program by Alma Leslie, a very talented pupil of Miss Hazel Huntley, one of Mr. MacBurney's assistant teachers.

Miss Leslie is tall and graceful, and presents a very reposeful attitude to her audience—her expression is most amiable and her enthusiasm for her work is distinctly sincere.

Her voice is a liquid clear soprano of considerable volume and range and her method is so good and so well established that she is able to sing with great ease and to produce her effects with security.

Her control of shading is fine and she is easily able to cover a wide range of dynamic effects.

More than this, however, is the altogether patent fact that she has a genuine musical feeling and that her intelligence is such as to cover adequately text of wide range of significance.

She gave fifteen songs on Monday, covering French, German and English text and she gave them all about equally well though it seems that her German songs are a little more germane to her personality than the French ones, and it is also quite sure that serious songs suit her much better than do frivolous ones.

The composers represented were many and very good, and the choice of selections was admirable. Mozart, Morley, Weckerlin, Reger, Hildach, Dvorak, Strauss, Lalo, Hue, Lemaire, Debussy, Hahn, Nevin, Thayer, Quilter, Sans Souci and Lester were all represented, and if a few selections should be named and labeled "best" those few—in the mind of this writer, would be: "It Was a Lover and His Lass," by Morley; "Der Lenz" (Hildach), and "Als die alte Mutter," by Dvorak, though, as matter of fact, the last group, comprising most of the English text songs, was not heard. Mr. William Lester assisted at the piano with his usual force and discretion. C. E. W.

THE MELBA RECITAL

A capacity audience greeted Mme. Nellie Melba on the occasion of her appearance in concert at Orchestra Hall on last Sunday afternoon, the first of such occasions for several years.

Mme. Melba was exquisitely gowned—even if the effect was that, of stern simplicity and—worthy of remark, was the fact that she paraded none of those extreme styles or dress affectations which have distinguished the appearances of so many singers of the past year or so, or perhaps it were better to say, marred their appearances and made them the cause for untoward merriment.

Mme. Melba has lost considerable of that avourdupois which was a distinguishing feature when she last sang here in opera and she was so svelte and light on Sunday as to suggest irresistably that her "Violetta" or "Mimi" would be much more attractive now than then.

These are merely externals, however, and have nothing to do with her beautiful voice and excellent methods.

True, she avoided some of the high notes she once took so glibly in "Se seran Rose" (Arditi), and other numbers given, but purity of tone and control of resources was at all times in wonderful evidence.

The very best work, if the least showy, was done in the great arias from "La Boheme" and "Louise," arias which depend for their effectiveness upon pure art such as was lavished upon their presentment at this time.

The audience was most cordial and was rewarded by many extra selections. "Comin' Through the Rye," "Goodbye," and John Anderson, My Jo," being some of them.

Mme. Melba was assisted by two fine artists and a fairly good accompanist.

Mr. Burke sang an aria from "Benvenuto Cellini" with superb display of voice-and much artistic detail, two shorter songs given for second number were hardly worth while and some encores were inconsequential. But the opulence of his tone and the certainty of his work in all his numbers was notable.

Such flute playing may be heard but rarely as that provided by M. Moyse, whose solos were exhilarating and whose obligato to the "Mad Scene," from "Lucia," which was sung by Mme. Melba, was nothing short of wonderful in its perfection. C. E. W.

Wing.—Mrs. Eloise Wing, soprano, sang at a musicale at Girton School in Winnetka on Friday evening, October 10, with Mr. Emory L. Gallup at the piano. The work of both artists was fine and was received with much enthusiasm.

AMATEUR CLUB CONCERT

Of infinite charm are the concerts of the Amateur Musical Club and of abounding variety also. In this cozy and thoroughly appreciative environment hundreds of musicians have appeared, always giving of their best because they know full well that the most excellent is appreciated at its full value and every bit of finish which may be added is enjoyed definitely.

The opening concert for the season was of particular interest, opening with a serious "Sonata" for violin and piano, written in the best John Alden Carpenter vein and played with discretion and sincerity by Amy Keith Jones and Florence Hodge, the latter of whom also furnished delightful accompaniments later for Mrs. Iva Bigelow Weaver.

Mrs. Weaver, now of Milwaukee, but with a host of friends and admirers in Chicago, showed her luscious soprano voice to be in prime condition and her growth in artistry very marked.

She sang three French songs (Holmes, Faure and Massenet) with delightful finish and beautiful tonal quality, and in the great "Ave Maria" from "Cross of Fire" (Bruch) she was magnificent, both in vocal sweep and in dramatic fire.

Miss Edith Maldwyn Jones sang a group of English text songs with great beauty as to quality of vocalism and with most unusual interpretative valuations as well.

Grieg's "The First Primrose," was delightful, and Protheroe's "Ah, Love But a Day" was a revelation as to the true valuation of that song, bringing out many before unheard beauties and contrasts.

IVA BIGELOW WEAVER

Miss Clara Rubey, a young pianist with certain technic and great breadth of style, played a composition of her own, one by Cyril Scott and the great "Rhapsody" in C Major by Dohanyi, excelling especially in the last, which indeed she delivered with wonderful sweep.

C. E. W.

###

Irish Choral Society.—The Irish Choral Society has begun rehearsals for its winter concerts, Daniel Protheroe continuing as conductor. The organization meets on Tuesday nights at the Hotel La Salle. A concert of part-songs will be given early in December and there will be a performance of Handel's "Messiah" on Palm Sunday of next spring. The soloists have not yet been chosen.

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

CHARLES LaBergé Baritone
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

FRANK B. WEBSTER
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Bush Temple Conservatory
STUDIO—SUITE 719-722 KIMBALL HALL

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Edna Reiffert SEVERINGHAUS
Mezzo Soprano - Teacher of Voice
63 Auditorium Building

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

van Vliet The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4365

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

MR. GIRVIN AND MR. LA BERGE

Mr. Ramon Girvin, violinist, and Mr. Charles La Berge, baritone, united in giving a very attractive program to the pupils of the American Conservatory at Kimball Hall last Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Girvin is a violinist of fine attainments—he has breadth of tone in abundance, and he also has facility for every kind of brilliant work, while at the same time his control of these resources is such that color and shading are managed with great dexterity.

His shorter numbers by Debussy, Kreisler and Kramer were gems—every one, and his playing of the Corelli "La Folia," was a revelation in exact technical control and pure beauty of tonal development.

Mr. La Berge successfully opened the program with a group by Elgar, Tschaikowsky and Damrosch, in which he ran the full gamut from tenderness to bold dramatic touch of the sort demanded by the forceful "Danny Deever."

In a great scene from "The Flying Dutchman" (Wagner), he disclosed dramatic talent of fine degree and was able to show great musical values as well in spite of the ridiculous English translation which had been made of the text.

His last group was composed of (true) English text songs and disclosed among other things the fact that his enunciation and pronunciation of this text is extremely good.

Mr. La Berge has a keen sense of humor and this group was made both dramatic and humorous, it being one in which there was wide reach of content as may be imagined from the detail list—"Here's a Health to Thee, Robert," by Bullard; "The Refractory Monk" (Rosse), and "Smuggler's Song," by Kernochan. C. E. W.

RAMON GIRVIN

CHARLES LA BERGE

SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

The anthems sung at Orchestra Hall on last Sunday night were: "Rise, Crowned with Light" (Otis), "Angelus" (Elgar), and "Evening Hymn" (Reinecke). The offertory was "Seek Ye First the Kingdom of God" (Fisher) sung by Mabel Sharp Herdien, and the organ numbers were played by Edgar Nelson. Before the service he gave "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" (Rachmaninoff), "Arabesque" (Debussy) and "Allegro" (Dupuis). After the sermon he played the "Triumphal March" by Mansfield.

CLARENCE WHITEHILL

Clarence Whitehill, the American basso, will make his first recital appearance in Chicago Sunday afternoon, October 26, at the Studebaker, under the management of F. Wight Neumann. Mr. Whitehill, who is universally known through his Wagnerian interpretations, will sing the following program:

La Procession ..... Cesar Franck
Le Charme ..... Chausson
Visione Invernale (New) ..... Zondonai
Chant de Touraine (New) ..... Massenet
Am Meer ..... Schubert
Daheim ..... Hugo Kaun
Cecilie ..... Strauss
Stella Amoris (New) ..... Schindler
Looking-glass River ..... Carpenter
A Song of Tristram ..... Borowski
The Sailor's Last Voyage (New) ..... Alnaes
Homeward (New) ..... Harty
As the Beam O'er the Waters (New)
Down by The Sally Gardens
A Ballynure Ballad
..... Irish Folk Songs

DUFAU IN RECITAL

Miss Jenny Dufau's song recital at Carnegie Hall in New York on next Sunday afternoon will have this program:

I.

Das Veilchen ..... Mozart
Standchen ..... Strauss
Elfenlied ..... Wolf
Ich hab' in Penna einen Liebsten ..... Wolf

II.

Aria from "Lucia di Lammermoor" ..... Donizetti

III.

Le Violette ..... Scarlatti
Odorava L'April ..... Parelli
Amore Amor ..... Trindelli
Viens, mon bien aime ..... Chaminade
Dites, que faut-il faire? ..... Air du XVIII-Siecle

IV.

Indian Bell Song from "Lakme" ..... Delibes

V.

An Irish folk-song ..... Arthur Foote
Marian ..... Kurt Schindler
Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark ..... H. Bishop

Thomas N. MacBurney
Baritone
Voice Production
Three years assistant to King Clark
Song Recitals
608-609 Fine Arts Bldg. - Chicago
Phone Harrison 6880

North Shore School of Music
Broadway and Leland Ave.
The Ideal School for Resident and Out of Town Pupils.

WILLIAM A. WHITE, President. Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, William A. White, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC AND THEORY, William A. White. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul
ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated)
CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar
TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868

A CHARMING PROGRAM

The season at the Little Theater was inaugurated on Tuesday afternoon by a program of seventeenth and eighteenth century music which was given by Helen Abbott-Beifeld, soprano, and Helen Sears, pianist.

HELEN ABBOTT-BEIFELD

The choice of numbers was made with the rarest sort of intelligence and in the presentation of the dainty list both artists were as effective as it is possible to imagine any one to be.

The Little Theater is a very small place and the acoustics are perfect. It would therefore, here, be quite out of place to attempt any bravoura work and utterly useless to force the tone either of voice or piano. Both artists sensed this fact absolutely and both of them gave out therefore pure tone, and all the shading and coloring was done with Dresden-china elegance and simplicity and each piece presented therefore, stood out a miniature gem.

Miss Sears plays with remarkable elegance as to all musical values and her technical advantage is absolute.

Mrs. Beifeld has one of the sweetest voices in Chicago and she uses it with utter abandon to the most artistic of ideals and with an effectiveness in the interpretative thought which is equaled by very few singers.

The program was such a rarity and so absolutely met the requirements of its caption that it is a pleasure to reproduce it in entirety.

Voice—
Caro mio ben.....Giuseppe Giordani, 1743-1798
La Columba, Folk Song of Tuscany.....
.....arranged by Kurt Schindler
Danza, fanciulla gentile.....
.....Francesco Durante, 1684-1755

Piano—
Fugue .....Girolamo Frescobaldi, 1587-1653
Minuetto.....Alessandro Scarlatti, 1649-1725
Aria .....Alessandro Scarlatti, 1649-1725
Tempo di Ballo.....Domenico Scarlatti, 1683-1754

Voice—
Liebster Herr Jesu .....
.....Johann Sebastian Bach, 1685-1750
Cradle Song.....Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, 1756-1791
"Faithfu' Johnie," Scottish Folk Song.....
.....Arranged by Beethoven, 1770-1827
Spinnerliedchen .....Anonymous, 16—

Piano—
Sonata, G major.....
.....Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, 1756-1781
Allegro
Andante
Presto

Voice—
"Have You Seen But a Whyte Lillie?".....
.....Anonymous, 1614
Sally in Our Alley.....Anonymous, 17th Century
Fairy Lullabye (Gaelic Folk Song).....Anonymous
The Jolly Miller.....Anonymous, 17th Century
Come Lassies and Lads.....Anonymous, 17th Century
Un doux baiser (Musette).....
.....Anonymous, 17th Century
Fuyez l'Tmour.....l'Abbe de l' attaignat, 1750
Menuet d'Exaudet (Chanson a danser).....
.....Anonymous, 17th Century

Mrs. Beifeld is under the management of Fannie E. Warren. C. E. W.

CHICAGO CONCERT QUARTET

On October 7 the Chicago Concert Quartet, Mary Ann Kaufman, soprano; Permelia Gale, contralto; Grant Kimbell, tenor; Frank Dunford, bass, and Carl D. Kinsey, pianist and director, appeared before the West Side Co-educational Club at its annual reception and musicalc in the following program:

Quartet from "Rigoletto".....Verdi
Aria, "Fleeting Vision," from "Herodiade"..Massenet
Mr. Dunford
Duet, "Home to Our Mountains" from "Il Trovatore" .....Verdi
Mrs. Gale and Mr. Kimbell
Aria, "Love and Music, These I Have Lived For," from "Tosca" .....Puccini
Miss Kaufman
Spinning Wheel Quartet, from "Martha".....Flotow
INTERMISSION
Song Cycle, "Nonsense Songs" (The songs that came out wrong), from "Alice in Wonderland....
.....Liza Lehmann
Quartet, How Doth the Little Crocodile
Solo (bass), Fury Said to a Mouse
Duet (tenor and bass), You Are Old, Father William Solo (contralto), Speak Roughly to Your Little Boy
Quartet, Will You Walk a Little Faster
Recitative (contralto), Oh, 'Tis Love
Solo (tenor), Mockturtle Soup
Solo (soprano), The Queen of Hearts
Quartet, They Told Me You Had Been to Her

The quartet has a number of future engagements, detailed notice of which will be given later.

APOLLO CLUB

The Apollo Musical Club of 300 singers will give a single performance of Haydn's "Creation" in the Auditorium Theater, Sunday afternoon, November 9. This will be the first time in ten years this beautiful choral work has been given in Chicago in its entirety.

The last examination of new applicants for membership in the club was held last Monday evening and there is now a waiting list of fifty singers ready to take the places of members not finding it possible to attend the rehearsals regularly. No excuses for absence are accepted other than

IDELLA CHILSON-OHRMAN
SOLOIST AT WORCESTER FESTIVAL SEASON Address 4603 Sheridan Road

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING Phone Sunnyside 8540

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY MURRISON MABEL
Bass-Baritone Pianist
Oratorio Accompanist
Concert
JOINT-RECITALS
Alliance Ohio

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL. Mrs. W. S. Bracken, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman
Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

H. W. OWENS, MUS. B.
Monday and Saturday—Maller's Bldg., Madison & Wabash
Studio Telephone Harrison 4573
CHICAGO
VOICE BUILDER COACHING
PUPILS PREPARED FOR CHURCH POSITIONS, CONCERTS, ORATORIO
Friday—2112 Washington Boulevard

Peoria Musical College
102-104 North Madison Avenue
PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT
Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr.
Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker
TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN
ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIS
4596 OAKENWALD AV.
Phone Drexel 3987

sickness, and important business engagements in the case of men. This insures an attendance of ninety per cent of the members at rehearsals each Monday night.

JOINT MEETING OF THE LAKE VIEW MUSICAL SOCIETY AND AMATEUR MUSICAL CLUB

Studebaker Theater, Monday, October 20, 1913, at 2:30 p. m. Program arranged by a committee from the Lake View Musical Society and Amateur Musical Club. Assisting artist, Mr. Bruno Steindel.

PROGRAM

Trio, Op. 101 ..... Brahms
Mrs. Bruno Steindel, Mrs. Charles Hagenow, Mr. Bruno Steindel

Vissi D'arte from "La Tosca" ..... Puccini
Ariette ..... Vidal
The Groves of Shiraz ..... Cadman
Spirit of Spring from "The Poet and the Dryad" ..... A. Cyril Graham
Mrs. Monica Graham Stults
Mrs. Theodora Sturkow-Ryder at the piano

Adagio ..... Haydn
Intermezzo ..... Beethoven
Tarantelle ..... Popper
Mr. Bruno Steindel
Mrs. Steindel at the piano

My Dear Soul ..... Sanderson
Sacrament ..... MacDermid
An die Musik ..... Schubert
Der Lenz ist da ..... Foerster
Mrs. Frederica Gerhardt Downing
Mrs. Katherine Howard Ward at the piano

Pastoral Variations ..... Mozart
Etude in C sharp minor ..... Chopin
Etude in A minor ("North Wind") ..... Chopin
Miss Jeannette Durno

CECIL FANNING AND H. B. TURPIN AT HOME

Cecil Fanning and H. B. Turpin have returned to their separate homes for four days, after their successes at the Maine Festival and in the East. While in New York Messrs. Fanning and Turpin had daily rehearsals for a week with Anna Case, of the Metropolitan Opera House, of an Irish sketch they wrote while abroad, and which will be given in the East a number of times during January. On the morning of October 10 Mr. Fanning, accompanied by Mr. Turpin, gave a recital at the home of Mrs. Riker, at Seabright, N. J., which was one of a course of concerts arranged by Mrs. R. W. Hawkesworth, Anna Case and Albert Spalding being the previous artists. On October 17 Fanning and Turpin start on an extensive tour, which will take them as far west as Denver, Colo., and will close December 18, when they will return to their homes for Christmas.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The first pupils' concert of the season at Music Hall in Evanston was of a value and beauty to set a fine pace for the season, and it is doubtful indeed whether any offering of the winter will discount it.

Mr. Charles E. Lutton is a singer who is immensely popular in Evanston and that is for the good and sufficient reason that he has appeared there so many times and always with uniformity of success. Mr. Lutton, while possessing all the attributes of other successful young vocalists in the matter of voice, style and musicianship, has also an added value in the fact that he is a natural born comedian, and his singing of humorous songs long a special feature of each recital given by him is of surpassing degree of excellence.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST

In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.

Address until October, Care Music News, Chicago; after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.

Knoxville, Tenn., Daily Sentinel:

"Summing up the recital, it may be justly called a most unique concert and the finest 'cello recital heard here in years."

On Tuesday evening he gave "On the Road to Mandalay" (Speaks), "Ballad of Little Billee" (Peel), and "Supposin'" (Trevelsa), with an unction that was irresistible and with an effect on the audience indiscribably potent.

His encores too were of the same ilk and one of them—a musical setting of a limerick about "Mary Ann" was uproariously funny both in the serio-comic tone given it by Mr. Lutton and in the "bang" and glissando furnished by Mr. Grant-Schaefer at the piano, these being ludicrously typical of the explosion and upward flight of Mary Ann which followed her use of coal oil in lighting her morning fires.

But quite aside from these comiques, Mr. Lutton proved himself a splendid singer. His "Confutatis Maledictus" from Verdi's "Requiem" was splendidly virile, the Sinding "Light" was exhilarating and "The Song of Saul" by Grant-Schaefer (inscribed to Mr. Lutton), was superb both in initial content and in presentation at this time.

The alternate artist was Miss Claire P. Livingston, a mezzo-soprano with superb dramatic style and a very good voice.

Her program was distinctly unhackneyed and, after the "Penelope ein Gewand wirkend" (Bruch), it comprised "Les Berceaux" (Faure), and "Love and Eternity" (Morgan), intensely emotional songs, given with great feeling, "Standchen" (Brahms) her very best offering, "Zueignung" (Strauss) well sung, "Three Birds," a really wonderful song by Cui, to most poetic text by Coppee, and sung with remarkable coloring, and "Come Dance the Jig," an extremely modern song by John A. Carpenter, which is by far the most attractive of his list yet heard by this writer.

Mr. G. A. Grant-Schaefer played the accompaniments—and that is equivalent to saying that they were superbly played.

♯♯♯

C. E. W.

Olitzka.—Mme. Rosa Olitzka will give her annual song recital Sunday afternoon, November 8, at The Studebaker under the management of F. Wight Neumann. This will be Mme. Olitzka's only appearance in Chicago this season, as she has been engaged as prima donna contralto for the opera season in Montreal and will also go on tour with the Montreal Opera Company, besides filling a large number of recital dates.

MUSIC TO COME

(Under this caption Music News will hereafter schedule all announcements received by Tuesday noon of each week.)

Friday, October 17

Orchestra Hall, 2:30, first afternoon concert, Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Fisk Hall, Evanston, 8:15. Organ recital, John Doane, Jr.

Saturday, October 18

Columbia School Recital Hall, 3:00, program by Joseph Kitchin, Florence M. Granquist and Arthur Oglesbee.

Kimball Hall, 3:30. Concert by Mabel Woodworth, violinist, and Frederick Persson, pianist.

International College of Music, Auditorium Building, 3 o'clock. Reading by Miss Mary Cleary.

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. First evening concert Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Sunday, October 19

Auditorium, 3:00, benefit German Hospital, Geraldine Farrar, Clarence Whitehill and Fritz Kreisler.

Orchestra Hall, 3:30, Maggie Teyte, song recital.

Whitney Opera House, 3:30, Sidney Silber, piano recital.

Thursday, October 23

Memorial Church of Christ, Oakwood boulevard, 8:15, concert. The Imperial quartet, and Mrs. William Lester, soprano.

Friday, October 24

Orchestra Hall, 2:15. Second concert by Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Campbell Park Presbyterian Church, Leavitt street and Campbell Park, 8:15. Chicago Concert Trio.

Saturday, October 25

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Sunday, October 26

Studebaker Theater, 3:30, Clarence Whitehill in song recital.

Fine Arts Theater, 3:30. Piano recital, Jessie King.

Sunday, November 2

Fine Arts Theater, 3:30. Faculty concert, Walter Spry Music School.

Wednesday, November 26

The Auditorium, 8:15, opening of the Chicago Grand Opera season.

NIKE CLUB

The opening reception of the Nike Club in Chicago was given on October 6, the musical program being as follows:

Miss Edith Adelaide Kien ..... Pianist
Miss May L. Edwards ..... Vocalist
Miss Effie E. Murdock ..... Accompanist
Elegie ..... J. Massenet
L'Heure exquise ..... Hahn
Miss Edwards
Etude in D flat ..... Liszt
Miss Kien
Villanelle ..... Dell'Acqua
Miss Edwards
Etude in C sharp minor ..... Chopin
Concert Waltz ..... Hubbard Harris
Miss Kien
Mighty Lak' a Rose ..... Nevin
In a Garden ..... Cadman
A Perfect Day ..... Carrie Jacobs Bond
Miss Edwards

♯♯♯

STEIN STUDIOS

Miss Ruth Dahley, contralto, and Mr. William F. Krimel, baritone, students of Karl Buren Stein, gave a vocal recital before the Forum in the Auditorium Hotel last Sunday p. m., October 12. Both the singers sang with splendid vocal poise and expression. They presented songs by Sanderson, Wilson and Ball and closed with a delightfully rendered duet by Campana. Mr. Stein announced the numbers very satisfactorily and played the accompaniments with taste and skill.

♯♯♯

SIDNEY SILBER'S PROGRAM

Mr. Sidney Silber, pianist, will make his Chicago debut on next Sunday afternoon (October 19) at the Howard Theater (Whitney Opera House) in the following unusual and very attractive program.

Chaconne ..... Bach-Busoni
Sonata Tragica, G minor, Op. 45 ..... MacDowell
Largo maestoso—Allegro risoluto
Molto allegro, vivace
Largo con Maesta
Allegro eroica
Barcarolle, Op. 60
Nocturne, D flat, Op. 27, No. 2
Waltz, A flat, Op. 42
Scherzo, B minor, Op. 20, No. 1
..... Chopin
Praeludium, A flat, Op. 56, No. 1 ..... Hugo Kaun
Scherzo E flat, Op. 11, No. 2 ..... Alexander MacFadyn
(Dedicated to Mr. Silber.)
Eine Liebesnovelle, Op. 6 ..... Erich J. Wolff
Love's Awakening (Spring)
Love's Consummation (Summer)
The Death of Love (Autumn)
Tintements de Clochettes ..... Raoul Pugno
Caprice Espagnol, Op. 37 ..... Moritz Moszkowski

CLARENCE EDDY

May be engaged for the

Opening of New Organs and for Organ Recitals

During the Season of 1913-1914.

Address: 510 Oakwood Blvd., Chicago.

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

THE VARIABLE CHARGE FOR LESSONS

An interesting topic to musicians, teachers in particular, is being discussed here by thoughtful people, and that is the equity of the variable price charged to different pupils for the same amount of time.

Some assert that a difference in the charge to conform to the pocketbook of the student is at least sentimentally just, if not business-like; others say that it seems to put the teachers' instruction on a "bargain counter" basis, or like a net whose meshes are so fine as to catch all comers.

The question is an important one, and is closely related to that of "missed lessons," which the Musical Forum of Worcester, Mass., voted to charge for; and the "Etude," promoted a strong campaign in favor of teachers doing so throughout the country.

At first view, it would appear the fairer way to have one price for all, and, when this price seemed greater than a desirable pupil could afford, make a difference in the time allotted him, arrange a class-schedule, or even accept fewer recitations in the week or month. These ways would accommodate the finances of all, and without disturbing the charge for the regular lesson time. It might also put the music teaching profession on a less unstable basis, and prevent hidden methods of competition quite worthy the acumen of "Stealthy Steve."

♫ ♫ ♫

At the New England Conservatory

The New England's Conservatory's season of recitals and concerts began on October 4 with a recital by pianists and singers in Recital Hall. The program included numbers from Chopin, Scarlatti-Godowsky, Henselt, Brahms, MacDowell, Schuett and Strauss, presented by G. Calvin Ringgenberg, Samuel Goldberg, Dorothy Cook, Viva Richardson, Gladys Zimmerman and Isabelle Wilson.

Ramon Blanchart, baritone of the Boston Opera Company, and member of the New England Conservatory faculty, is planning a concert tour of the middle west next spring. Mr. Blanchart now makes his home in Brookline, Mass.

Alfred De Voto of the faculty, member of the Boston Music Commission, has been actively interested in the Verdi celebration planned by the Italian societies of Boston for Columbus Day, October 12. For a Pan-American meeting in Faneuil Hall on the same date, to emphasize the idea of an intercontinental holiday, David Sequeira, pianist, also of the New England Conservatory faculty, has been asked to play some of his own compositions. Mr. Sequeira, a native of Nicaragua, was graduated from the Conservatory in 1904-06, and shortly thereafter made instructor in pianoforte, sight playing and Spanish.

Miss Bertha Draper King, teacher of dancing at the New England Conservatory, has returned from three months' study of the latest developments of dancing abroad. In Paris she paid special attention to the much discussed American dances in the form in which they have won recognition in the best European society. She also had a month at the Jacques Dalcroze College of Eurhythmics at Dresden-Hellerau.

Henry Albert Lang, composer, of Philadelphia, has been awarded by a committee in charge of the contest inaugurated last spring by the Sinfonia, Phi Mu Alpha, musical fraternity of America with a prize of $100 and a gold medallion for the best piece of string quartet music submitted in competition. The contest was limited to men musicians. The judges were Dr. Hugh A. Clarke, professor of music at the University of Pennsylvania; Arthur Foote, the well-known Boston composer, and Arthur Shepherd of the faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music, recently winner of the National Federation prize with his "City in the Sea."

Mr. Lang was born at New Orleans in 1854. He was educated in Germany and for several years was on concert tours with Strakosch, Emile Sauret, Rosa Papier, Hausmann, Natchez and other artists. Since 1890 he has lived in the United States. A sonata of his for pianoforte has been premiated at a Hamburg competition, and two years ago he won first prize in the chamber music competition instituted by the National Federation of Music clubs. Among his other works are two symphonies and two suites for orchestra, a violin concerto and a cycle of four symphonic poems.

The Sinfonia fraternity, the oldest of music school Greek letter societies, was organized at the New England Conservatory of Music by O. H. Mills, now bursar of the school. It has chapters at many American conservatories and universities which include music departments.

♫ ♫ ♫

Boston Teacher's Pupils Heard in Saco, Maine

Louis Scholk, baritone and teacher, with studios in Steinert Hall, will make bi-monthly trips to Saco, Me., where he has a fine class of pupils, who began study with him during his stay at his summer home this year.

Mr. Scholk's pupils gave a program of songs in Saco City Hall, September 10, which presented many modern composers and the Elizabeth Seidel, Mary Blake, Roy Hutchins, Ruby McClintock, Louise Harfard, Harold Moulton, Sarah McCarthy, Elroy Harford, Marcia Hill, with Alma Cooper at the piano.

♫ ♫ ♫

Faelten School Recitals

A recital was given by the pupils of the Carl Faelten Pianoforte School, Saturday afternoon, October 11, in Huntington Chambers Hall. The composers played were Donizetti, Zucher, Krogmann, W. S. Smith, Beethoven, Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, Mozart and others.

The ensemble was Lois Hannaford, Mildred Gates, Eva Lee, Edith Clement, Florence Fleming, Zayma Galvin, Emma Crone, Fannie Brodrick. Others who took part were Ruth Eyre Davies, Kenneth Beardsley, Lewis Harlow, Alberta Avonelle Sanford, Helen Genevieve Tracy, Maxine A. Buck. The next recital will be Thursday night October 23, at 8 o'clock.

♫ ♫ ♫

At Symphony Hall

Jan Kubelik, the Bohemian violinist, opened this season's series of Sunday afternoon concerts in Symphony Hall October 12. He played Saint-Saens' Concerto in B

MARIE NARELLE SOPRANO
110 Carnegie Hall, New York

PIANIST BACHAUS
Management Loudon Charlton
BALDWIN PIANO USED

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers
Do you know how a "well placed tone" feel? Do you know the fifteen definite vowel forms? Do you know how all consonants should be produced? How connected? Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled? If you do not know these truths then your diction is inefficient. If you are not happy in your work, call on
KATHERINE SCHUSTER
71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO
Specialist in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

J. S. VAN CLEVE Ph. D.
Concert Pianist, Lecturer & Coach for Singers, Pianists & Composers Lecture-Recitals a Specialty, given before Lyceums Women's Clubs, Conservatories & special audiences, either in private parlors or schools. For terms address—
Care the Musicians' Club, 62 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Philip SPOONER
AMERICAN TENOR
Exponent of Bel Canto.
J. W. LYMAN, 501 Fifth Av. NEW YORK

OVIDE MUSIN'S Virtuoso School of Violin

Acknowledged the LEADING School of Violin in the United States and Canada

INSTRUCTION by this WORLD RENOWNED Virtuoso in PERSON, in true classic traditions of the Masters Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, Mendelssohn, and Italian classics, which were handed down to Musin's predecessors by these great Masters. He is the ONLY AUTHORITY IN THIS COUNTRY who teaches the correct interpretations of the modern classic repertory, Wieniakski, Vieuxtemps, Max Bruch, Brahms, Lalo, Saint-Saens, etc., with whom Musin was closely associated in his early career and whose works he many times played for the composers themselves.

Musin's School is open throughout the year and during June, July and August. Soloists and Teachers will enjoy the great advantage of repertory work with this MASTER, and of learning MUSIN'S METHOD, which greatly lessens the time ordinarily required to master technic and control of the BOW. This method became celebrated through MUSIN'S SUCCESS at the Royal Conservatory of Liege, where he turned out many young artists who took the best positions in EUROPE. AMERICAN VIOLINISTS who study with MUSIN need not fear criticism when appearing in European Concerts, as Musin is an AUTHORITY. SEND for Circular about the SUMMER TERM FOR TEACHERS, also for literature re Musin's Lessons BY CORRESPONDENCE, and Thematic List of new music composed and edited by Ovide Musin. Beautiful, effective.

Voice Department under Mme. Ovide Musin (Annie Louise Tanner). Piano Department under Mme. Delhaze Wickes. Solfeggio, Harmony, Science of Music under Prof. Edward Kilenyi.

OVIDE MUSIN'S VIRTUOSO SCHOOL OF VIOLIN 51 W. 76th St., Dept. L., New York

minor, the famous "Chaconne" of Bach, Wieniawski's "Legends," "Mazurka" and "Carnival Russe;" a "Caprice" by Paganini, and "Scene de la Czardas," by Hubay. George Falkenstein was the accompanist.

Melba gives the second concert of the series on Sunday afternoon, October 19. She will be assisted by Edmund Burke, baritone; Marcel Moyse, flutist, and Gabriel Lapierre, accompanist. Mme. Melba will sing the mad scene from "Lucia;" an aria, "Depuis le Jour," from Charpentier's opera "Louise;" a song, "Magdalen at Michael's Gate," by Liza Lehmann, and two pieces by Puccini and Lalo.

Geraldine Farrar comes to Symphony Hall Tuesday afternoon, October 28, for a song recital. The program calls for some twenty-four songs from the compositions of German, Russian, French, Norwegian and American composers.

Paderewski is just starting on an American tour, under the direction of C. A. Ellis. He comes to Symphony Hall for a recital Friday afternoon, November 7, his first appearance in this city in four years.

The program for the opening concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra Friday afternoon, October 10, was Beethoven's "Seventh Symphony," Brahms' "Tragic Overture," Liszt's "Les Preludes" and Wagner's overture to "The Flying Dutchman."

♮ ♮ ♮

Kneisel Quartet

This season's series of Tuesday evening concerts by the Kneisel Quartet open in Steinert Hall, November 4, at 8 o'clock. The dates for the other concerts are December 2, January 6 and March 17. The sale of subscription seats opens October 22 and single seats October 8. L. S. B.

♮ ♮ ♮

An Evening at Faelten School

From a beginning twenty years ago, the Faelten Piano School stands unqiue in the country's musical development as probably being the largest school devoted exclusively to the teaching of pianoforte. The institution, which now numbers approximately 800 students—and "never of a finer quality than this season," as Mr. Carl Faelten reports—is domiciled in Huntington Chambers, near Copley Square and occupies some sixteen rooms; also having at its disposal an excellent hall for concert purposes and a smaller hall for lectures and Mr. Faelten's Wednesday morning class in interpretation.

Of a Thursday evening, your correspondent visited the school and found himself present at an informal reception and dancing party, two matters that do not appeal to him, unless it be a third one, a matter of refreshments! Evidently from the abundance of activity, the young people were having much pleasure in their dancing, and while they were thus engaged, there was plenty of opportunity to revive memories of the past with Mr. Carl Faelten. This fine musician is older in appearance but retains all the fire and vigor that characterized him twenty years ago. He plays as well as ever, although he has given up concertizing. The repertory he plays at the school for his class in interpretation is marked by catholicity, although (as he says), Beethoven still remains his warhorse.

His visit to the Pacific Coast last summer was enlivened by one most pleasant experience. The Gamut Club of Los Angeles, which is composed of New England Conservatory students residing in Southern California, invited him for the sake of old times to give a piano recital before the club. Music News has already reported the success of that recital.

The faculty of the Faelten Piano School numbers fifteen, which seems almost inadequate for the large number of students. But the class system makes possible what would be impossible in private lesson-giving. The school has no endowment and wishes none. Also there are no scholarships. Mr. Faelten believes that scholarships should be endowed with the understanding that the student be privileged to study in the school of his own election. This is broad-minded and should be heeded both by those who endow scholarships and also by those schools that offer the same as extra inducements.

Refreshments having been served and the dancing party no longer being a special attraction, your correspondent withdrew with a promise of returning to some musical function in the near future. S. H. L.

♮ ♮ ♮

Music at the Church of the Advent

That the Church of the Advent, Boston, has a reputation for good music will hardly be disputed. Located but a few minutes' walk from the heart of the city and close to the Esplanade (a narrow park skirting the bank of the Charles River for two or more miles), the building is spacious without being grand and fairly adorned without being ornate. Accoustically, the edifice is resonant and music loses nothing in the way of brilliancy. While the organ is not large, its mellow and substantial tones are sufficiently ample, and it can very rightly be called a superior church instrument.

The organist and choirmaster is Mr. A. W. Snow, a musician, whose playing is attractive and fully in keeping with all churchly traditions. He does not pose as a concert performer, although fully competent to appear as such if that were his purpose. Never does he play the organ in an obtrusive manner and, in accompanying, good taste and sound judgment forbid any obscuring of the voices of the choir. Among its many qualities, this choir is able to sing effectively A Cappella. Choral Evensong invariably is sung without accompaniment. And in figured music, when an unaccompanied manner is designed, there is no uneasiness respecting change of pitch or of rhythmic uncertainty. Singing A Cappella under such circumstances is always a delight in the sanctuary.

While there is no choir school in connection with the Church of the Advent, nevertheless, results that are little short or marvelous are produced by only three rehearsals per week, and these musical results are obtained without ulterior objects such as choir camps, silver crosses and medals. Probably the secret lies very largely in the choirmaster. If one will eavesdrop during a rehearsal, it will be noticed that Mr. Snow does

Sidney Silber

PIANIST, Chicago Debut, Sunday, Oct. 19th, 3:30 P. M. Sharp. Whitney Opera House (Joe Howard Comedy Theater).

Tickets: One Dollar, Seventy-five and Fifty Cents

Mason & Hamlin Piano

Bispham In Cincinnati

The following is an Editorial from the Cincinnati Times Star—

THE POPULARIZATION OF DAVID BISPHAM

When Mme. Schumann-Heink essayed comic opera a few years ago, she regarded the departure at a "lark" or vacation from the heavier demands of classical music. Doubtless Mr. David Bispham, who is at B. F. Keith's theater this week, regards in the same manner his appearance in vaudeville. There is apparently no diminution in the great baritone's art. He still sings selections from grand opera with the almost superlative virtuosity of the experienced vocalist and with the instinct of the born actor. And with Mr. Bispham the more popular airs are interpreted as with a new life and in golden tones.

Vaudeville has claimed distinguished artists. Within the past few seasons Bertha Kalisch and Ethel Barrymore have wandered from the exactions of the legitimate into the paths of vaudeville dalliance. But Mr. Bispham's advent means something more. In the first place he is reaching a class of people to whom his art was a matter of hearsay, and, in view of Mr. Bispham's temperament, he must regard such acquaintance as a mutual pleasure. Furthermore, his art becomes more accessible to those who have admired him, but have failed because of financial considerations to indulge their appreciation in any proportion to their desire.

Vaudeville has long been excoriated for its sins. But it seems also to have something to do with the general uplift. There is a positive debt of gratitude from both the artist and his hearers to vaudeville managers for this delightful "popularization" of David Bispham.

Mr. Bispham spends the next four weeks in Providence, Buffalo and Toronto, after which he will begin rehearsals of "The Jolly Peasant," in which he is soon to appear.

not waste energy in vain correcting of conduct, but each moment of the hour is utilized in the proper rendition and study of music. The boys seem to be quite of the same spirit as other choir boys, and yet there is a difference. They are not only obedient, but enthusiastic. No time is frittered away on vocal gymnastics, but all the rehearsal hour is devoted to the practice of music. The services at the Advent require a superabundance of music and always of the highest type. High Mass is sung every Sunday, and the music includes the Kyrie, Credo, Sanctus, Benedictus, Agnus Dei, Gloria in Excelsis, Introit, Anthem and Hymns. Each Sunday a different mass is sung. Because of the consistent avoidance of repetition much new music is learned in the course of the season. The ritual and the intoning of the service are very impressive and beautiful. Gregorian music is used for Introit and Psalter, but not for other portions of the services except during penitential seasons when Plain Chant is sung.

The choir is comparatively small but the parts are well balanced, even the alto part being clearly in evidence.

An average Sunday was within the octave of St. Michael and All Angels. The Mass for the day was Parker's very beautiful and nowise commonplace service in B flat. It was sung in a manner that occasioned no ground for criticism. And very solemn and impressive was Cruikshank's "And There Was War in Heaven," a work that is not usual, but one that is worthy. The evening Canticles were by Gadsby, elaborate and very florid; the anthem was Rheinberger's "And He Shall Give His Angels Charge Over Thee." Music of this type arouses devotion and acts of worship and excludes all feeling of sensuous entertainment; it harmonizes with the solemn ritual and pervades the whole building very much like the clouds of incense ascending from the altar. Large congregations attend the Church of the Advent and all the people seem actuated by the spirit of reverential worship.

♮ ♮ ♮

Personalities

At the Arlington Street Church (Mr. Benjamin Whelpley, organist), there is a select chorus of men's voices. During the season there will be special choir music and organ recitals.

Mr. W. Lynwood Farnham, formerly of Montreal, is the newly appointed organist and choirmaster at the Church of the Emanuel, Newbury street. Mr. Farnham not long since gave a most successful recital on the Wolsey organ at Yale University. During the winter he plans recitals at the church and these will receive due attention.

Mr. Ernest Mitchell is the organist and choirmaster at Trinity. He studied with Widor during the past summer. Beginning in October, a short recital is given after Evensong. On the first Sunday of this month, the number was Widor's "Symphony, No. 111," its four movements being very effectively played on the large instrument. The gallery organ at Trinity is about 150 feet from the chancel organ. When played simultaneously, the building is filled with sound, although at the console several seconds elapse before the tones come to the hearing of the organist. Mr. Mitchell, who is one of the youngest organists in Boston, already stands in the first rank.

♮ ♮ ♮

Clough-Leighter — Magnificent and Nunc Dimittis, in G

The first of these two choral numbers opens free and bold with voice parts woven as a web, having orchestral continuity and color. The shifting mood of exaltation is touched with reverence befitting "and holy is His name." The spontaneity of the composer's gifts continues to the close of the first part, and there is produced a work of genius that is largely in modern spirit. The word "scattered" evidently was the source of inspiration for the second section; the passages built on this word have dramatic intensity with more involved, although lucid, harmonization. Having reached a climax, the surgings of the work now break with decreasing force by use of chromatic retardations until clearer motion is found on the words "and the rich," aptly portraying their "emptiness." Again the music presses forward in broad fashion to a climax on "and his seed forever," although no overwhelming climax is achieved until the closing amen. The text has received a masterly setting, evidencing the composer's inspiration and fertility of musical attainments.

The opening motive of the Nunc Dimittis lends itself to strong development, hence it is not surprising that so pregnant a theme should have produced a composition quite the peer of the magnificat. The devotional beginning rises higher and higher into the realm of ecstasy.

S. HARRISON LOVEWELL.

♯ ♯ ♯

HERMAN DEVRIES

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Devries will give in the near future as in previous years, recitals in the Fine Arts Theater and opera performances in Studebaker Theater with their students.

Among those who will appear are: The Mesdames Hazel Eden Mudge, Ella O'Neil Corrigan, Marie Yahr, E. Swigert, P. Lochner, George Harris, L. Cook, Blessing Martin, Everett Brown, Midred Hansen Hostedter, A. Boyce, de Pierrefen Smale. The Misses Pratt, Ruth Coffin, Martha Thomas, Emily Wilkinson, Beatrice Hartman, Anita Chapman, May Edwards, Harriett Stuart, Evalyn Ffrench, Hortense Brunswick, M. M. McLee, E. McAdoo, Edna Williams, Kate Carrol, Ada Morris.

Messrs. Arthur A. Kanberg, P. J. Mathews, Charles Rouse, Harry Thomson, John Filipek, P. Liska, Dr. M. Wylie, Dr. A. A. Shere, Montgomery White.

Some of these students will also appear at the Arche Club and the North Shore Woman's Club, where Mr. Devries has been engaged to give lectures and recitals.

♯ ♯ ♯

MacLeish.—Miss Lillian MacLeish, soprano, has just resumed teaching at Association House, Chicago, where she is in charge of the vocal department. Miss MacLeish is becoming extensively known in her specialty, Scotch songs.

♯ ♯ ♯

Madrigal Club.—The Chicago Madrigal Club, D. A. Clippinger director. will give a concert at the State Normal University, Normal, Ill., October 17. The club will travel in a special car furnished by the Chicago and Alton Railroad.

Artists now Booking
Season 1913-14 and 1914-15

LECTURE PIANO RECITAL
EMIL LIEBLING
PIANIST
SARAH SUTTEL
SONG—PIANO RECITAL
CHRIS ANDERSON Baritone EDWIN SCHNEIDER Composer-Pianist
(After January 1)
BASSO—BARITONE
ARTHUR MIDDLETON
WILLIAM BEARD
SOPRANOS
MABEL SHARP HERDIEN
ALICE CORY
LOUISE BURTON
ELVA A. CHRYSLER
MAYBEL SMYLE
TENOR
JOHN B. MILLER
CONTRALTOS
LOUISE HARRISON SLADE
HARRIET JANE MAC CONNELL
SONATA RECITALS
HERBERT BUTLER, Violin
ALICE DRAKE BUTLER, Piano
VIOLIN
LACEY COE
'CELLO
FRANZ WAGNER
IMPERIAL MALE QUARTET
LECTURER
MRS. HENRY S. JAFFRAY

Personal Direction
Willis E. Mayne
934 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO

Every Music Lover should read the
Pacific Coast Musician

Published in Los Angeles, the Mecca of Prominent Musical Organizations, Artists and Composers during the Summer of 1915

When among other events Los Angeles will have the Biennial Convention of National Federation of Music Clubs; production of America's $10,000 Prize Opera and German Saengerfest.

This magazine will help in planning your visit, giving you information on musical matters. This is the fastest growing musical journal in the world, containing absolutely new music, vocal and instrumental, by California Composers, in each issue, and worth many times the price of its yearly subscription

$1.50 per Year

Your friends will enjoy this unique, newsy and valuable musical journal.

Pacific Coast Musician
BLANCHARD HALL

Churches

SAINT PETER'S

Mr. Herbert E. Hyde, the organist and choirmaster of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Belmont avenue near Broadway (Evanston avenue), has prepared for his October "Festival Service" on next Sunday evening, October 19, a program of unusual interest.

The anthems selected for the occasion are Beethoven's "Hallelujah Chorus" from the "Mount of Olives," West's "The Woods and Every Sweet Smelling Tree," and "God That Madest Earth and Heaven" by Naylor. The service numbers consist of a "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis" of Mr. Hyde's own composition, which were sung at the twenty-fifth anniversary service of St. Peter's. The service will be brought to a close by Lutkin's beautiful "Farewell Anthem." after which Mr. Hyde will give a short organ recital. The compositions are appended:

Praeludium (Sonate No. 14) ..... Rheinberger
Intermezzo (Fantasia Sonata) ..... Hyde
Elfs ..... Bonnet
Caprice Heroique ..... Bonnet

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

St. Andrews, almost destroyed by fire a year ago, has risen Phoenix-like and is today resplendent in new decorations, new lighting and, best of all, with a brand new and very good organ.

This is played by Mrs. C. H. Zimmerman very effectively, her fine musical training and abounding good taste making her work of much more than the ordinary value.

Not much opportunity is given at St. Andrews for solo organ playing, but the hymns were played with an unusual crispness and body, while the accompaniments throughout on last Sunday evening were of admirable quality.

The choir, a small but well selected body of men and boys, sang service numbers by Floria with great sincerity and musical value, and in the offertory displayed solid tone and musical intelligence in good degree, the number being a fine old anthem by Barnby, "He Shall Give His Angels Charge."

The choir is under the direction of Mr. Will Schaubel, and that he and Mrs. Zimmerman work in full accord and that the result of their work is of good quality, was shown conclusively on Sunday evening.

C. E. W.

A DUDLEY BUCK PROGRAM

The California Avenue Congregational Church Choir, under direction of Milon R. Harris, will on next Sunday evening give their annual memorial musical service to Dudley Buck, who died on October 6, 1909.

The program is as follows:

Prelude, organ—
"Noel"
"Sunshine and Shadow"
"Triumphal March"
Anthem, "Sing Allelujah Forth"
Solo, "My Redeemer and My Lord"
Offertory, "At Evening"
Anthem, "Brightest and Best"
Remarks, "The Te Deum," the pastor
"Festival Te Deum" in E flat
Postlude, "Overture to William Tell" (Transcription)

The choir of fifty voices will be assisted by Myrtle E. Mattison, organist; Ruby Saaf, soprano; Charles Schelter, tenor, and Charles Alden, baritone.

MUSICAL SERVICE AT ST. JAMES' CHURCH

Sunday, October 19, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon the monthly festival service by the choir will be sung in St. James' Episcopal Church, Cass and Huron streets. The choral numbers include the Parker anthem, "The Lord Is My Light," and Dudley Buck's setting of "Rock of Ages." At this service will also be sung an orison hymn by the organist and choirmaster, John W. Norton.

The soloist for this occasion is to be Mr. Robert R. Birch, an organist of prominence in Chicago. His numbers are as follows: First movement of the First Sonata by Guilmant, "Fiat Lux" (Dubois); Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," and the Toccata and Fuge in D minor of Bach.

LEMUEL W. KILBY

Two sample programs given by Lemuel W. Kilby, show the great range and variety of his repertoire:

I.

Love Leads to Battle ..... Buononcini
Page's Song ..... Mendelssohn
Enticement ..... Ruckauf
Monotone ..... Cornelius
Thine Eyes So Blue and Tender ..... Lassen
Creation's Hymn ..... Beethoven
I Am Thy Harp ..... Woodman
Uncle Rome ..... Homer
A Little Dutch Garden ..... Loomis
Yesterday and Today ..... Spross
The Wind Speaks ..... Grant-Schaefer
The Eagle ..... Grant-Schaefer
False Phyllis ..... Old English
Long Ago in Egypt ..... Lehmann
Tommy Lad ..... Margetson
Pleading ..... Elgar
Sweet and Twenty ..... Beck-Slinn
The Road ..... Armstrong

II.

"O Richard, O mon Roi" ..... Gretry
(Richard Coeur de Lion)
Si mes Vers ..... Hahn
L'Heure exquise ..... Hahn
Che pena a che dolor ..... Tuscan Folk Songs
Questa e la sera ..... Tuscan Folk Songs
"Ah! Pescator" ..... Ponchielli
(La Gioconda)
Der Wanderer ..... Schubert
Minnelied ..... Brahms
Vergebliches Staendchen ..... Brahms
Abendstern ..... Wagner
(Tannhauser)
Widmung ..... Schumann
Die beiden Grenadiere ..... Schumann
African Love Song ..... Nevin
I Know a Hill ..... Whelpley
Banjo Song ..... Homer
Stone-Cracker John ..... Coates
Arietta ..... Cyril Scott
My Captain ..... Cyril Scott

Wilford.—Mr. J. E. Wilford was pianist at a musicale given at the residence of Mrs. Ray, 637 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park, last week. His success was a distinctly fine one. Others on the program were Mrs. McCarthy and Mr. Farrar, vocalists, and Miss Thurston, harp.

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
6450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

SWAINSON LECTUR RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5196

The ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE
OF THE NEW AMERICAN SCHOOL OF VOCAL ART
(Founded by Anna Groff-Bryant.) Exclusively a Vocal School. Offering courses distinctively Cultural and Vocational. Instructions given in classes and private individual lessons. Ninth school year opened October 1, 1912. Send for booklet giving full particulars. Address THE ANNA GROFF-BRYANT INSTITUTE, 522 to 526 Fine Arts Building, Chicago

ELLA C. BIGELOW
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
AKRON, OHIO

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS
SOPRANO
CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS
6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

MARY CROFUT GIBBS
Mezzo-Contralto
Oratorio Concert Recital
404 Kimball Hall

Voices Made Beautiful
Our new book tells how to transform weak, tuneless voices into beauty, sweetness, power, birdlike trill. Falsetto to pure tenor. Robust health. Price, $1.00. Lessons by correspondence.
Mme. Girard, 818 E. 51st St., Chicago, Ill.

Katherine Howard Ward
Organist - Pianist - Teacher - Accompanist
917 Wilson Avenue Phone Ravenswood 2152

SOME NEW YORK COMMENT

By J. S. VAN CLEAVE

New York is awake. All the churches are open and their choirs and quartets are singing more or less well, usually more and not less, for New York choirs, whether chorus or quartet, are excellent. Why should they not be so? New York has more than five million people in its civic limits, and more than half, yes, nearly two-thirds are skimmed, as well as skummed, from the whole civilized world. True, we are congested and driven to semi-madness at times with the awful influx of the cheaper Europeans, but besides these there is a wonderful percentage of the best elements of Europe as well. This better element of trans-Atlantic life is, I think, larger among musicians than in any other class, for the simple reason that for a quarter of a century the great virtuosos of Europe have been in the habit of touring our country, and each season brings us a still larger army of invading artists. Of these the most brilliant usually run back home as soon as their checks have been properly cashed, or accredited to European banks, and rest and study in the quiet and reposeful beauty of their own older countries. This I can hardly wonder at or blame. Do not many of our "Creme de la creme" denationalize themselves by living in Europe and spending the surpluses of American wealth there? But the second best of Europe, which is wonderfully good, comes and stays. In the organ world, New York has just added two admirable English organists to her forces, viz., Dr. Noble, who is a newcomer, I believe, and Dr. Richardson, who is new in New York, but has lived in America some years previously.

There are also many excellent pianists who come to cast in their lot with us. I do not believe they are necessarily the most valuable teachers, especially for our American youth. The recent remarks of Xaver Scharwenka upon our conservatories which came floating over seas to us, was both partly true and partly not true. Of course, the way in which he added a financial whip-cracker, "Let the American pupils come over to Europe," gave a very pretty tinge of the despised American commercialism to the dear brother Scharwenka's pronouncement. America has graft enough in it, God knows, but the United States of North America did not invent graft.

A Fine Church Service

One of the most edifying and interesting services which I have attended lately was at the Collegiate Church at Fifth avenue and Forty-eighth street. Here the organist is Mr. Frederick Schlieder, the soprano Mrs. Zimmerman, the contralto Mrs. Stein-Bailey, both of whom made successful appearances at the May festivals at Cincinnati. The tenor is Dr. Jackson, and the bass Mr. Edouard Jahn.

Of the singing is is only necessary to say that it was a worthy piece of art-work to offer to the Heavenly Father.

The organ, which is a remodeled Hutchins, is a wonderful instrument. Its quality is pure and appealing, and its range is wide.

The organ is arranged with the great, choir and swell behind the pulpit, then there is an exact duplicate of these in the rear of the church, while high in the vault there is an echo organ of an ethereal sweetness. There is a carrillon which gave at the close of the service such a silvery peal that it sounded like a true heavenly benediction.

Church of the Pilgrims

Another performance which interested me of late was an evening musical service at the famous Church of the Pilgrims in Brooklyn, where Mr. Cornell is organist and choirmaster. Here, with an augmented chorus and with four well known soloists, the "Stabat Mater" of Rossini was performed most admirably. The singers were Miss Anna Case of the Metropolitan opera, Mrs. Vandevere-Green, Mr. Lambert Murphy of the Metropolitan, and Mr. Clifford Carnes. I must pay an especial compliment to the organist. His delivery of the accompaniment was one of the finest, most discreet, most sympathetic bits of work I ever heard. Usually the organ, great as it is among instruments, does lumber around and flounder whenever it replaces an orchestra, but Mr. Cornell not only chose his stops for tone color and loudness with judgment, but cut out his phrasing and musical articulation so neatly and so quietly, that one felt as if he were looking into the very heart of the musical structure.

Much as I love the organ, I have been so long and so deeply steeped in the peculiar beauties of the piano, and especially of the orchestra and string quartet, that the ineradicable limitation of the organ as to accent has always seemed a most serious matter. Not only has seemed, but does seem so. The idea advanced by an eminent organist in conversation with me, viz., to secure the effect of accent by prolonging the first tone of the phrase is essentially vicious. This device does not make the opening tone of a phrase louder, and louder is what accent means, but it twists the rhythm disagreeably.

The only thing to do is to avoid music upon the organ which needs vigor and frequency of accent. True, at long intervals, of time, and in short heavy chords the organ, can accent most effectively. However, its supreme efficiency is in sustaining interlinked phrases, in maintaining inner voices, or solid basses, and in emotional tone color with a range of dynamic degrees not approached by any other instrument of music. While listening again to Rossini's "Mezzo Serio" presentation of that tender, pathetic mediaeval hymn, the "Stabat Mater," (Rossini himself said that he intended it to be mezzo serio), I was once more reminded of the old argument as to what constitutes sacred music. This battle has been raging with special vehemence since the publication of the "Motu Proprio" letter of Pius the Tenth, ruling out all but Gregorian music from the Roman Catholic service. There are parts of Rossini's music which do sound antique, severe, even solemn; witness the "Quando Corpus," but even here he can not hold out in a solemn mood, for it soon lightens up. There is a vast deal of most ravishingly sweet tender melody, not at all out of keeping with the general mood of the poem, but, he can scarce ever get into a major key, and into a brisk movement but the lilt of the lightest sort of comic opera blossoms forth gaily. And yet, when all is said against this work, that German intellect can suggest or our protestant idea of worshp demand. we must never forget that Latin peoples, such as the Spanish, the Italians, and the French have more excitability of feeling than the Gothic peoples, and that they have little of that reserve which the English and all descended from the English have in their blood.

To them there is nothing inappropriate in praying and weeping and repenting in public, and this work was composed by Rossini for one of his friends who was a Spanish Ecclesiastic.

And the other thing we must remember is that very few of our thousands of serious and intellectual musicians can really make a tune. One of the best tests of any music is, can you whistle or hum any part of it after listening? True this is the chief trait of the flash song, which is the thistle and burdock of music, but it is a merit just the same. Music which does not catch the ear, touch the heart, and lodge in the memory has little probability of long life.

Melodies there are in the world which doubtless came down through the ancient Christian Church from the Hebrews, and through them from the Egyptians, and whence they derive them no one knows.

♮ ♮ ♮

Some Ancient History

The Brooklyn Eagle contained lately two immense pages filled with the announcements of musicians and music teachers of such a bewildering variety that it made one's head ache. As a pleasant accompaniment to this vast regiment of artistic advertisers the Eagle gave an extended history of Brooklyn's musical achievements. Among these I culled a few anecdotes which interested me and perhaps are worth repeating. Previous to 1855 the hymnbooks had no music printed with the words, but then the organist at Plymouth Church, the renowned John Zundel at the instance of Mr. Beecher, issued his "Temple Melodies." Four years later was issued the famous "Plymouth Collection" in which the most commendable catholicity of taste was displayed. The hymns were chosen from religious poets of all imaginable shades of belief. The organ in Plymouth church when installed in 1866 by E. and G. G. Hook of Boston was then the largest organ in America. On the 32-foot double, open C pedal pipe is an inscription, "Henry Ward Beecher crawled through this pipe."

Marie Sidenius Zendt

Soprano

1140 East 44th Street
CHICAGO
Phone Drexel 2778

Marie Sidenius Zendt, possesses a lyric soprano voice of beautiful quality, unusual range and power; combined with this is an ability along interpretative lines, notably in that of Oratorio and Opera, and a charming personality, which are the strongest factors in her success.

In the short time Mrs. Zendt has been before the public she has demonstrated in her many engagements that she is one of the few singers in the middle west who can adapt her work to the requirements demanded of the concert artist with the surety, not only of success, but of a greater achievement, which distinguishes the artist from the ordinary singer.

In the important appearances which Mrs. Zendt has made in the last two seasons she has given sufficient guarantee of her caliber as an artist, and this has placed her in the prominent position she now occupies.

NEW YORK GOSSIP

Assuredly the New York season is late this year as regards the musicians. However, during the last fortnight each day has marked the arrival of some light on the musical horizon.

Among the more recent landings are those of Maggie Teyte and Mr. Ignace Paderewski, William Hinshaw of the Metropolitan Opera Company is again in town and occupying his luxurious apartment at the Hotel Ansonia. Other opera stars of the first magnitude, Destinn, Scotti and Caruso, will arrive in a fortnight on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse.

Miss Julia Waixel, a well known New York accompanist, returned home after a sojourn abroad, reporting a delightful and profitable summer. During her vacation, however, Miss Waixel, true American that she is, was not idle, and acquired perfection in a number of new French and Neapolitan songs. During her voyage Miss Waixel was responsible for a most delightful concert in which she was assisted by Miss Virginia Clark, the very charming daughter of Charles W. Clark.

Shortly before sailing on the steamship St. Louis, Miss Waixel attended the premiere of "The Jewels of the Madonna" in Paris.

"Speaking of opera," said Miss Waixel, "the highly superior productions are given in America. The larger salaries paid here naturally give us the greatest artists. Here we have better houses and better stage settings. However, every little hamlet, practically, abroad has its own little company which naturally gives ambitious singers more opportunity to appear. It is hoped that such may be the case here at a not too far distant time," she finished.

♮ ♮ ♮

As to the Century Company

Headlines of the New York Sun of October 8 amazed one at the wonderful performance of "Lohengrin" given by the Century Opera Company the previous evening, but the story reads in part:

There was a time when "Lohengrin" was the most popular opera in all the world, but that time seems to have passed. It by no means improbable that if the work could be given today with a new Jean de Reszke as the Knight of the Grail and a new Emma Eames or Melba as Elsa the old favor might be restored.

Since no really great impersonators of the characters in this old opera are in sight it would be foolish to expect suddenly to discover them in a company singing opera at low prices as workers, in a new and entirely praiseworthy experiment. It will be gathered from these prefatory comments that the performance of "Lohengrin" in English at the Century Opera House last evening was not the most satisfactory feature of the still young season.

It ought to be said at once that the weakest brothers and sisters in the representation were not the principals, for all of these disclosed certain valuable merits to offset their shortcomings. And since it was the chorus which wandered almost helplessly in a wilderness in the first act, we may justifiably hope that before the end of the week the chorus singers will do much better.

At any rate the almost chaotic muddle which preceded the entrance of Lohengrin served to prove that Mr. Szendrei, the conductor, knew how to save such a situation. His readiness and mastery of routine were most commendable. In the prayer the chorus did something toward redeeming itself; but this passage is almost as plain sailing as some of Verdi's earlier ones.

The most pronounced shortcomings in the entire representation was the lack of intelligent and significant action. Miss Ewell's Elsa rose above the general

TITTA RUFFO'S master, LELIO CASINI, recommends
HAMILTON HOPKINS
[CASINI'S Assistant for 4 Years in Milan]
726 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM
"A Ladder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys .50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice .50
Beatitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50
At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS
VIOLINIST
WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago
Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

Bispham
Summer of 1913 in Australia
For Terms and Dates, Address
Frederic Shipman, 3835 Flournoy Street CHICAGO, ILL.

ALBERT SPALDING
European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT
SOPRANO CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS
Phone Austin 12717
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT
5943 OHIO STREET

WILLIAM HINSHAW
BARITONE
Of the Metropolitan Opera Company Management: R. E. JOHNSTON, 1451 Broadway, New York

PALMER CHRISTIAN
Concert Organist Pupils Coach Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

Iva Bigelow Weaver
SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Jennie F. W. Johnson
Contralto
American Conservatory and
4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work.
May Mansfield
PARIS STUDIOS:
27 rue Boisleveu
Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET
BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER
VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL
CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory
207-211 South Main St.
South Bend, Ind.
A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Aak for Cotolog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN
AMERICAN COMPOSER
In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals.
Recitals of His Compositions.
Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs
WITH R. E. JOHNSTON OF NEW YORK SEASON 1912-1913

level in this respect, for it had purpose in pose, gesture and facial expression. She sang her music fairly well. The most enjoyable singing was that of Morgan Kingston as Lohengrin, and the merits were those of the beautiful voice itself.

Mr. Szendrel conducted the opera with generally good judgment. The tempi in much of the first act were very slow, but perhaps the requirements of the moment may have been answerable for this. A stumbling horse should not be driven too fast.

In spite of its defect last evening's performance must have given pleasure to many persons who do not hear "Lohengrin" quite as often as habitual operagoers.

♮ ♮ ♮

"The Lost Vocal Art," from the pen of W. Warren Shaw, and the introduction of which book was written by David Bispham, will be off the press November 1. (J. B. Lippincott, publishers.)

In this work Mr. Shaw has pointed out that the psychological principle was the vital principle of the old established school of vocal art, but in that time (sixteenth century) was not explained, and the physical efforts following the mental was the old way.

The book has received the endorsement of George Trumbell Todd of Yale University, and that of Dr. P. M. Marafonti, Bonci's and Caruso's physician.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Florence Austin, a product of the successful Ovide Musin school, will appear in a violin recital Sunday afternoon, October 26, at Aeolian Hall. Miss Austin is also booked to appear in Montreal this season.

Miss Florence Hinkle, the prominent New York soprano, will sing a recital at Aeolian Hall Sunday evening, October 26.

F. B.

♯ ♯ ♯

EDITH LUCILE ROBBINS

Miss Edith Lucile Robbins, recently added to the faculty of the University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb., has just returned from study in Europe. The following notices are typical of many which Miss Robbins has received:

Edith Lucile Robbins of Lincoln, Neb., who has been studying here for the past three years with George Fergusson, is the possessor of a sweet, pure soprano voice and a technical proficiency that bespeaks her admirable training. I recently heard the artist sing "Summer," by Chaminade, "The Norwegian Echo Song," by Thrane, and the aria, "Hear Ye, Israel," from "Elijah." A noteworthy feature of Miss Robbins' singing is her trill, which is remarkably quick and brilliant. She reveals intelligence and feeling in her interpretation and seems fitted particularly for oratorio work. She is also well equipped for concert singing and her repertory includes a large number of arias and songs.—Berlin Correspondent, Musical Courier.

Miss Robbins is unusually well prepared for work on the concert and oratorio stage. She has a clear, high soprano voice of great purity and flexibility. To her practical experience acquired in pedagogical work in America she has added the broader outlook gained by an intelligent assimiliation of the vocal principles characterizing the Fergusson "school," and goes back admirably equipped to do effective work in the parallel lines of teaching and concertizing, between which she means to divide her time.—Berlin Correspondent, Musical Leader.—(Advertisement.)

♯ ♯ ♯

Joint Club Meeting.—A joint meeting of the Amateur Musical Club and the Lake View Musical Society will take place in the Studebaker Theater on Monday, October 20, at 2:30. Those taking part in the program will be Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Steindel, Jeannette Durno, Frederica Gerhardt Downing, Monica Graham Stults, Mrs. Ina Hagenow, Katherine Howard Ward, and Theodora Sturkow Ryder.

People & Events

CECIL FANNING

Cecil Fanning, after a very successful year abroad is touring America again this season.

Mr. H. B. Turpin is, as usual, his very effective accompanist.

CECIL FANNING and H. B. TURPIN

SPALDING TO PLAY WITH SILOTI IN ST. PETERSBURG

According to the by-laws of the Siloti Symphony Orchestra of St. Petersburg, only two artists of each solo instrument can be engaged for one season. Albert Spalding is one of the two violin soloists booked to appear with the orchestra this winter. He is announced for December 28, and in order to fill the engagement, the American violinist will be obliged to abandon his earlier plans for spending the Christmas holidays in Florence, where the Spaldings have a residence.

After concerts in Copenhagen early this week Spalding goes to Holland for twenty recitals, his last appearance being in Leiden on November 8. A Spalding concert is scheduled in Hamburg, November 11 and one in Bremen on November 14. From northern Germany Spalding will go to Italy for some concerts in Florence and Rome.

Mr. Spalding has stirred the phlegmatic temperaments in the frozen north. His press notices from Norway indicate that he was received with even greater enthusiasm than was showered upon him last year, when he made his first tour in Scandinavia. At the last concert in Kristiansand Spalding was obliged to play seven encores, and after the concert a crowd followed him to his hotel and gave him a rousing ovation.

Spalding's compositions are winning popularity everywhere. He has received many requests to perform his first prelude and a "Siciliana," two pieces which he played a year ago this autumn at his recital at Carnegie Hall, New York.

Mrs. Spalding, mother of the violinist, who sailed from New York Tuesday of last week, will join her gifted son in Holland the end of this week. At the close of the tour in Holland. the Spaldings go to Italy, where Mr. Spalding has some concerts in Florence and Rome.

After he plays under Siloti in December, Spalding will tour Russia.

PITTSBURGHER'S POPULARITY

Of the orchestral compositions by Adolph Foerster, there were played at the Exposition concerts by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra the "Dedication March" as opening number, first night; the "Hero and Leander" and the "Dream on, Love on," for soprano and orchestra, Miss Mary V. Cunningham, soloist, and the "Heroic March." Sousa and his band played the "Dedication March" and the Russian Symphony Orchestra the "Heroic March."

Madam Karola Frick recently sang Foerster's bright song, "The Daisy," in the second program of American songs in Berlin, Germany.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Frederick Preston Search

'Cello soloist of international reputation, formerly with Arthur Nikisch as the only American holding position in the famous Leipzig Gewandhaus Orchestra (founded by Mendelssohn and recognized as greatest in the world) is now in America playing a recital tour of over 100 cities, requiring four trips this season across the country.

Trained under the best masters of the world, including twelve years under the pre-eminent first 'cellists of the renowned Gewandhaus Orchestra, the Boston Symphony and the Imperial Orchestra of St. Petersburg, with five years in particular under the master of masters, Dr. Julius Klengel of Leipzig, Germany, a graduate and honor post-graduate of the Royal Conservatory of Leipzig, rich in experience under Arthur Nikisch, the greatest living conductor. "Matchless in tone and marvelous in technical accomplishment." "Skilled in all the resources of the King of Instruments." Frederick Preston Search, by Salt Lake critics, pronounced "The 'Cellist Wonder," is playing to large and enthusiastic audiences, with engagements for returns in almost every city of appearance.

Frederick Preston Search is available for superior engagements as soloist at Symphony Orchestra Concerts, Music Festivals and for Classic Recitals in musical centers. His programs for this season represent the noblest offerings of all 'cello literature.

For terms and dates address:

The Search Recitals

Cincinnati (Sta. R)

Soloist's Western Address [Nov. and Dec.] care GAMUT CLUB, Los Angeles, Cal.

ELLA L. MILLS — PIANIST — American Conservatory and 117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

JOHN R. RANKL — Bass-Baritone — PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL — 609 FINE ARTS BUILDING — Phone Harrison 6880

SOFIA STEPHALI — COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO — CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS — Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912 — Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

HANS HESS CELLIST — American Conservatory — Telephone Lincoln 7917

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM — SOPRANO — COMPOSER — Phone Harrison 6880 — Accompanist — 608 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Louise George — Children's Harmony — Chicago Piano College

Preiser Violin School — STUDIOS 530 N. Pine Av., Austin; 5407 S. Halsted St. and 2831 Washington Boul. — ALBERT LEO PREISER Director — Phone Austin 4043

CONCERTS RECITALS ORATORIOS OSCAR SEAGLE — 17 Avenue Mozart Paris (France) — BARITONE — American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM — PIANIST AND TEACHER — In Paris all Summer — 119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR HAZZARD-PEOCOCK — DRAMATIC SOPRANO RECITALS CONCERTS — FRANCE ENGLAND GERMANY — Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London

WHITEHILL — BARITONE — Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

LOUISE BURTON — SOPRANO — 520 Fine Arts Bldg — Phone Drexel 8183

MR. TENOR MRS. DRAMATIC READER Karl Buren Stein JOINT RECITALS — 55 Auditorium Bldg. — TEACHERS of SINGING ELOCUTION ACTING

Esther Plumb — CONTRALTO — 4173 Lake Avenue — Phone Oakland 3246 — Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson — Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago, Ill

WALTER DIEDERICH TENOR — TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL — 608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

HELEN GALLUP — Pianist Accompanist — Address Chicago Piano College

SIDNEY SILBER

PIANIST

Some comment on the recital given by Sidney Silber:

Sidney Silber, who has been presented here after the manner of a full-fledged virtuoso, "made good" at his debut recital at the Pabst Theater, when his striking qualifications for success excited enthusiasm rarely seen at concerts here. His tone is sonorous and round, yet marked by great delicacy and clearness. With a few colors and a deft brush he already paints a clever and highly attractive picture. Of many writings he has a fine conception, notably Schumann, in all three of whose compositions the pianist charmed and moved his hearers with his beautiful conception and purely vocal tones. The artist gave evidence of manipulatory skill in Liszt's Rhapsody No. 9, which being within the power of the layman's understanding, was followed by a storm of applause so insistent that the pianist was brought to the footlights again and again. The demonstration swelled into a kind of ovation, which only came to an end when he seated himself at the piano and began a supplementary number. Truly the gifted artist has every reason to be satisfied with the unqualified success of his first appearance in America—in his native town, which in this instance at least disproved the maxim that has to do with a prophet in his own country.—Evening Wisconsin, Milwaukee, Wis.

Waiving the enumeration of his other merits, what impressed one most agreeably, were his powers of coloring, his fine tone-gradations, his really beautiful piano and pianissimo, his legato, in other words his sympathetic touch. Mr. Silber's runs are clear and like strings of pearls, his trills are round and powerful, his staccato piquant.—Milwaukee Herald.

Mr. Silber was at his best and captivated the audience with the rendition of selections from Op. 1 of the works of Eugen d'Albert. The pianist played with a sincerity and simplicity that marks the artist. —Milwaukee Sentinel.

Mr. Silber presented an artistic program which afforded him ample opportunity of displaying great musical versatility. Mr. Silber appealed to me as a Schumann player. He has the requisite qualities for interpreting romantic pianoforte literature which are, poetry, soul, warmth of expression, singing tone and fresh rhythmic life.—Milwaukee Herald.

Sidney Silber pleased many friends by a well selected and brilliantly performed list of piano solos. His opening number was the Suite Op. 1, by d'Albert, at the end of which the pianist was compelled to appear several times in acknowledgment of continued applause. His second number was the interesting list of Fantasy Pieces, Op. 12, by Schumann, which he played in its entirety showing much poetic imagination in the depiction of the varous moods. His last two numbers were the well known Kamennoi-Ostrow by Rubinstein, and a brilliant performance of the E major Polonaise by Liszt, which latter was a fine piece of pianistic art and was rewarded by continued applause.—Milwaukee Journal.

Sidney Silber, concert pianist, appeared in two numbers. His playing was of the highest order and his choice of selections, particularly happy. His faultless technic and perfect tempo together with his sympathetic interpretation, kept his audience in a continual state of delighted surprise which was manifested by the spontaneity of the applause which followed each conclusion.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Mr. Silber is an artist of much finish and the numbers met with sympathetic response from the audience. Mr. Silber's selection displayed his delicate touch and his technic. His interpretation of Chopin's rather dreary Nocturne in C sharp minor, was very effective, the quaint melody standing out sharply against the subdued bass. Liszt's Polonaise in E in which Mr. Silber had plenty of opportunity of showing his finished execution, and closing number, Liszt's difficult Rhapsody "Carneval de Pesth," were loudly applauded.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Mr. Silber possesses a well developed technic and plays with understanding and brilliancy. He has a vigorous temperament and infuses warmth and individual color into all of his work. The popular young artist was rewarded with warm applause by his highly pleased audience.—Musical America.

His pianistic qualities are exceptional, combining brilliancy of technic, beauty of tone and fearlessness. At the artistic height which he has attained it is only necessary for him to look to the pointing hand of art and to lend his ear to her promptings. It requires but little sacrifice on his part now to reach the place of the chosen few.—Evening Wisconsin.

HAMILTON HOPKINS

Speaking of the proper placement of the middle register of the singing voice Mr. Hamilton Hopkins, whose ideas on Voice Production are creating much comment in Chicago, told recently of an interview he had not long since with Dr. Holbrooke Curtis of New York.

Dr. Curtis is, as every singer knows, the physician who is almost invariably in attendance in the dressing room of Caruso at the Opera House whenever the tenor is engaged in performance of opera and not only so, but every great singer of the world who has ever been in New York knows the fame of Dr. Curtis and has, on occasion employed his professional services.

In the interview referred to Dr. Curtis said that vocalizing on the vowel e was the most ruinous thing a singer could do. Mr. Hopkins agrees thoroughly with this idea if the usual American way of producing the middle register of a voice be employed. But he claims that properly produced, the middle register is the backbone of the entire vocal outfit and that the vocalizing of the vowel e is in this case, the finest thing an artist can do.

If the middle register is properly placed the high voice will take care of itself—the difficulty being, of course, to find the teacher who can properly place the middle voice.

———♯♯♯———

WILLIAM LESTER

The White-Smith Company have sent out a "tabloid" edition of William Lester's "As a Perfume Doth Remain," in entirety, with a single page, within the same covers, of "To Phillis," "Echo" and "Compensation."

This is done wholly for the purpose of acquainting the professional singers of the land with the very great beauty and supreme worth of these remarkably good songs.

There can be no question as to the fact that many singers seeing these works in this dainty form will be moved by it to order the larger editions, and it is certainly only a question of time when these compositions will be used by all singers.

The estimate placed on Mr. Lester by the White Smith Company is so good (and withal, so just) a one that it is here reproduced:

One of the most promising of the younger composers in this country, is of English parentage, having been born in England in 1889. Here he received his fundamental piano training. In 1902 the family came to America, going to Keokuk, Iowa, where great interest was taken in the artistic gifts of the son—especially by Miss Jane Carey, a talented pianist After graduating from Keokuk High School in 1908, the young man sought further instruction, especially along theoretical lines, in Chicago, where he studied piano and theory with Adolf Brune and organ with Wilhelm Middelschulte. During the two years following, he was assistant to Felix Borowski, music-critic for the "Record-Herald." Later, Mr. Lester became associated with Thomas N. MacBurney, one of the most prominent voice teachers, as coach. His work as a concert accompanist has made him very well known, and he is considered to be one of the finest exponents of that difficult art in the West. An accomplished organist, he is the director and organist at the Memorial Church of Christ, Chicago. In the creative field he has written extensively, and critics have praised his compositions for their harmonic richness, individuality of ideas, and mastery of technic.

MISS BINGHAM'S RECITAL

Miss Mary Bingham, who studied in Chicago last year, gave her debut recital in her home city, Joplin, Mo., last Monday evening, with the following program, in which she was assisted by George Winter, tenor, and Mrs. George Winter, accompanist:

Fantasia Appassionata, Op. 35 ..... Vieuxtemps
She Is So Innocent ..... Lecocq
Who Is Sylvia? ..... Schubert
A Hunter's Song ..... Mendelssohn
Concerto ..... Mendelssohn
Andante
Allegretto
Allegro Molto Vivace
I Think of Thee, Sweet Margareta ..... Meyer-Helmund
The Monotone ..... Cornelius
Good-Bye ..... Tosti
Souvenir de Posen ..... Wieniawski
Slumber Song ..... Drake
Mazurka ..... Drake
Good-Day, Susanne ..... Pessard
Without Thee ..... D'Hardelot
A Birthday ..... Cowen
Canzonette, Op. 35 ..... Tschaikowsky
Hejre Kati ..... Hubay

Following is some comment from the Joplin press:

Miss Bingham plays with accuracy and attention to detail that shows a mastery of her difficult instrument and a keen appreciation of the artistic beauties of the numbers in her program. Her tone was smooth, even and of beautiful quality. Her program was wisely chosen, as it permitted of a great deal of variety. She graciously responded to encores which were well selected.

Mr. Winter has a clear, sweet tenor voice under perfect control. His songs were new to Joplin and he sang them with splendid effect. In the few years Mr. Winter has lived in this city he has won an eviable place among Joplin vocalists. A great part of the success of the evening's entertainment was due to the satisfactory way in which Mrs. Winter accompanied.

Miss Bingham is a violinist of rare ability. Her tone is remarkably rich, musical and strong and she possesses to a high degree the temperament of a mucian. Although Miss Bingham's numbers were all rendered exceptionally, she especially excelled in her andante passages and in her songs. Her "double stop" and "harmonic" work promise great things for her as a violinist in the future.

The numbers on the program were difficult, but Miss Bingham played each with an ease and grace, equal to the most celebrated artist. Her offerings of Allego Molto Vivace, by Mendelssohn, Mazurka, and the Slumber Song, by Drake, were among the favorite numbers. (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

MR. JOHN T. PRINCE JR., SCORES GREAT SUCCESS

Mr. John T. Prince Jr., head of the dramatic department of the University School of Music of Lincoln, Neb., appeared in the Temple Theater on the evening of the 9th in a dramatic recital which met with great success at the hands of a thoroughly representative audience, both in point of culture and numbers. The following highly interesting program was rendered:

Day and Night ..... John P. Mulgrew
Her Faults ..... Harry B. Smith
Scene from Act 3—
"As You Like It" ..... William Shakespeare
Song Poems—
An Old Sweetheart of Mine ..... Riley-Harris
Just by Laughing ..... Leslie Harris
(Miss Lauretta Spencer at the Piano)
Le Vieux Temps ..... William Henry Drummond
Song Poems—
When Earth's Last Picture Is Painted ..... Kipling-Dale
A Fallen Star ..... Chevalier-West
My Old Dutch ..... Chevalier-Ingle
(Impersonations of Albert Chevalier)
Scene from Act 3, "Paid in Full" ..... Eugene Walter
The Spell of the Yukon ..... Robert W. Service
Scene from Act 2, "The Music Master" ..... Charles Klein
(Impersonation of David Warfield)

Commenting upon this event the Nebraska State Journal said in part:

"Not content with the rendering of an already generous program, the audience insist-

Valparaiso Music College
Department of
Valparaiso University
Second Largest University in the United States
VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President
OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER
SOLO VIOLINIST
Welsh International Festival
MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE
SOPRANO
Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils
5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN
PIANIST
8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE
CONTRALTO
Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL
TEACHER OF SINGING
STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON
BASSO-CANTANTE
Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency
416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496
Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers
VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION
METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE
Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL
The Art of Singing
81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday
Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD LOEBER
VIOLINIST TEACHER RECITALS Musicales
3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA WAIT
Contraito
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

LIZZIE ABBOTT CLARK
Sister of Emma Abbott
Mezzo Soprano Teacher of Singing
719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
179 PLEASANT STREET MILWAUKEE, WIS.
Available for Church position. Next Season

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

FRANK W Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN
American Conservatory Kimball Hall

JOSEPH KITCHIN VIOLINIST
5416 Jackson Avenue CHICAGO
Phone Midway 6400

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium. Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

BEN O. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg.

Sara Burdick
TEACHER OF VOICE DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Concert, Oratorio, Recital 727 FINE ARTS BUILDING

ed upon recalling the artist numerous times after each selection and forcing him to add three selections by way of encore. Since the public is the artist's first and last court of appeal, it can not be otherwise interpreted than, in view of the 'make up' of this particular audience, Mr. Prince more than 'made good.' To say that he is a splendid type of artist, imbued with all the graces that make for attracting, fascinating, charming, yea, even thrilling, is praise sufficient to attest his really high rank. His technic is always adequate and legitimate, his manner straightforward, natural and simple, his artistic judgment, for the most part unerring."—(Advertisement.)

MISS ROGERS' PROGRAMS

Following are two of the characteristic programs played by Ruth Alta Rogers, American pianist:

PROGRAM 1

Overture to 29th Church Cantata	Bach-Saint-Saens
Sonata Op. 78	Beethoven
Intermezzo, Op. 117, No. 2	Brahms
Rhapsodie, Op. 79, No. 1	Brahms
Romanza	Sgambati
Frolic of the Waters	Ravel
Etude, Op. 10, No. 12	Chopin
Mazurka, Op. 33, No. 4	Chopin
Fantasie in F minor	Chopin
The Ride of the Valkyries	Wagner-Brassin

PROGRAM No. 2

Sonata in E minor	Grieg
Intermezzo, Op. 117, No. 1	Brahms
Fugue (from Handel-Brahms Variations)	Brahms
Sea-Birds	Ravel
To the Brook	Schuett
Carillon	Oldberg
Etude, Op. 10, No. 8	Chopin
Nocturne in E major	Chopin
Scherzo in B minor	Chopin
Legend of St. Francis Walking on the Waves	Liszt

CHARLOTTE PETTIBONE

Two sample piano programs to be played by Miss Pettibone this year read as follows.

SLAVIC PROGRAM

Waltz E minor	Chopin
Etude, Op. 10, E major and C major	Chopin
Chinoiseries	Stcherbatcheff
Etude	Wihtol
Far Niente	Cui
Intermezzo	Moussorgsky
Two Preludes	Blumenfeld
A Race Course	Blumenfeld

MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAM

Davidsbundler Tanze	Schumann
Etudes, Op. 25, F minor, D flat major	Chopin
Nocturne C minor	Chopin
Lee jeaux d'eau de la Villa d'Este	Liszt
Romance	MacDowell
Scotch Poem	MacDowell
Les rochere d'Outre-Coche	Bortkiewicz
Fantasie, Op. 15, C major	Schubert-Liszt

EDITH KRAMER STERN

Mrs. Stern has naturally a most beautiful soprano voice as well as an admirable stage presence, and these she has greatly enhanced by a most comprehensive course of study.

Her repertoire is a very large one; a favorite program reading as follows:

Verborgenheit	Hugo Wolf
Elfenlied	Hugo Wolf
Widmung	Schumann
Der Nussbaum	Schumann
Obstination	Fontenailles
Jeunes Fillets	Weckerlin
Maman dites Moi	Weckerlin
Les Filles de Cadiz	Delibes
Chanson Provencale	Del Acqua
I Hear You Calling Me	Marshall
Day Is Gone	Margaret Lang
Spring	Henschel
Recompense	Hamond
Je suis Titania (Polonaise) (Mignon)	Thomas

Wm. Clare Hall
Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Elias Bredin
TENOR
NINTH FLOOR, AUDITORIUM BUILDING

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
504 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 1931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

HAZEL EVERINGHAM
Pianist Accompanist Teacher Ensemble
Address 1251 N. State St. REDPATH BUREAU

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
Special Summer Session—June to August
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. Baritone DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING
American Conservatory Kimball Hall

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

ISAAC VAN GROVE
ACCOMPANIST AND COACH
716 FINE ARTS BUILDING

DELMA-HEIDE
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris
MAESTO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Herbert E. HydE
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
STUDIO: 407 Kimball Hall RESIDENCE: 6611 Woodlawn Av.

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

CHARLOTTE LOUISE PETTIBONE
Piano Accompanying Instruction
224 North Prairie Av., Austin, Chicago

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

LIMA, OHIO

Madame Homer, incomparable, queenly, was the brilliant star that opened the local musical season at Memorial Hall, last week. A program of picturesque beauty and astonishing difficulty was sung, including a German group of six numbers and Saint-Saens' "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" (Samson and Delilah) in the French. A handful of Sydney Homer's compositions, including several of the more recent writings, was the most attractive. In fact, it was his "Song of the Shirt," now famous the world over, that brought the audience to audible appreciation of the singer's art, wildly voicing its pleasure. Encores were demanded regularly, and given generously, with several repetitions; but will audiences never learn that a diva is wearied after a twenty-song program and that an encore to the final number demands more than the legal pound of flesh?

LOUISE HOMER

In several ways Homer's recital was superior to the multitude that have gone before. Her interpretative art is a veritable genius of insight, as though the writer of the score and Madame had collaborated originally in its creation, with a view to its usage by her in after years. Her very voice—but why repeat that it is one that comes from Heaven's open gates, when the musical world knows that so well? And her silent presence is a triumph!

♮ ♮ ♮

Clarence Eddy will play at Trinity Church on Wednesday night, in concert recital, under auspices of Women's Music Club.

———♮♮♮———

Nichols.—Not long ago a concert was given in Richfield Springs, N. Y., by Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Nichols, the New York baritone, and his wife, the contralto, and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Nichols, the New York tenor, and his wife, the pianist. With the exception of a soprano, it appeared to be a "Nichols" affair, and on leaving the hall an individual was heard to inquire "How did you like that 'twenty-cent' concert?"

CHARLESTON

Thus far the offerings at the Burlew Opera House have been of the drama, or the straight comedy type (as "The Bachelor's Baby," etc.), and have not, therefore, held out any special lure to the music-lover to view the new decorations and general rejuvenation. That is, with the exception of Miss Golden Gardner's concert of last week. We are promised, however, some of the best attractions on the road for the coming season; and Manager Burlew has laid out quite lavishly in making his house attractive and comfortable.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Philathea Society of the Baptist Temple has sent out announcements of its Lyceum Course, and has a couple of musical numbers, "The Staffords," a male quartet, and the "White Musical Review," both highly recommended.

♮ ♮ ♮

It would seem, too, that the idea of the chorus choir is spreading to good purpose. At the Baptist Temple, where for some years a quartet has done duty for the "musical rendering of the service," Professor F. Arlington Smith is organizing a chorus of twenty-five to thirty voices. Frank R. Hurlbutt is organist. Let the good work go on.

J. HENRY FRANCIS.

———♮♮♮———

CINCINNATI

The Melba-Kubelik Concert Company made its initial appearance at Music Hall on Thursday evening, October 9, thus opening the musical season of Cincinnati. The Auditorium was well filled with music patrons, who were in entire sympathy with the program. Madame Melba was in excellent voice and spirits, and sang with her old-time fervor. The mad scene from "Lucia"

GEORGE W. MUNRO
Voice Specialist
Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.
Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.
Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.
Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

Chicago Piano College
(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

(Advertisements under this head will hereafter be accepted at 20 cents a line.)

FOR RENT—A few good teaching hours; 516 Kimball Hall.

FOR SALE—Chickering parlor grand; in good condition; $250. Address N. care of Music News.

TO RENT—Kimball Hall Studio; Tuesday, and Wednesday and Saturday a. m. Address Music News.

TIME TO RENT—In large studio in Fine Arts Bldg. Address W. D. Music News.

WANTED—Pupils in German by teacher who has studied in Germany; reasonable rates. Miss House, phone 3056 Drexel.

OCTAVO MUSIC For Sale—50 copies each of 200 standard sacred and secular selections for mixed chorus. Write G. MASSLICH, 936 S. Ashland Ave., Chicago

CONCERT ANNOUNCEMENTS

(Under this heading Music News will hereafter print advertisements of Concerts at the rate of 20c a line, minimum, 5 lines.)

PIANO RECITAL—Whitney Opera House, now Howard's Theater, Chicago debut of Sidney Silber, Sunday, Oct. 19, 1913, 3:30. Tickets $1.00, 75c and 50c; at Box Office now.

CONCERT—Memorial Church of Christ, Oakwood boul., near Cottage Grove ave., Thursday evening, October 23, at 8:15. The Imperial Quartet and Mrs. William Lester. Tickets for sale at 522 Kimball Hall or at church on evening of concert.

CONCERT—Campbell Park Presbyterian Church, Leavitt St. and Campbell Park, Friday evening, Oct. 24, 8:15. The Chicago Concert Trio. Tickets at the door.

EDITORIAL

(Continued from page 3)

are anxious for their first paying engagements, even to the extent that work with a traveling company is alluring as a beginning to a career.

♯♯♯

BROTHER DETWEILER'S PHILOSOPHY

A joy of no uncertain proportions is our portion each time a new "Lyre" comes to hand.

This small booklet, publisned "occasionally," by Harry Detweiler in Aurora, Ill., is full to the brim with quaint sayings and sound philosophy and it is a refreshing pastime to read it.

A few of the gems from the latest issue are here quoted:

People who wait till they know they're right, never go ahead.

We all make mistakes—but some of us try to explain.

The pretentious pupil who "merely wants to learn to play" and is too lazy to study harmony, reminds me of the boy who didn't care to study grammar 'cause the folks at home had already learned him how to talk.

♯♯♯

Musin.—A thematic catalog of the works of Ovide Musin has been issued and may be had by application to the Ovide Musin Violin School in New York.

♯♯♯

Immanuel Church.—At Immanuel Church, Hinsdale, a concert was given on October 2, in which several good piano numbers were furnished by Herr Conrad Bryant Schaefer.

received an ovation, Madame Melba's wonderful technic leaving no room for criticism. Nevertheless, the lack of warmth in her voice is ever present. Mr. Kubelik created the same impressions as on previous visits. The real joy of the evening, because of the great surprise, was the baritone, Mr. Edwin Burke, whose beautiful voice and remarkable phrasing won great applause well deserved.

In the same week we had the pleasure of hearing the incomparable baritone, Mr. David Bispham, who has been engaged for a short season on the Keith circuit. Mr. Bispham was always the chief attraction, singing to capacity houses each performance. He sang many of the standard arias and songs as no one can sing them but David Bispham, this man with his marvelous mind and talent. He possesses the gift of wonderful interpretation, and that in combination with his able musicianship and splendid stage presence, makes him stand out alone in his art. Mr. Bispham will later be the leading baritone in the interesting opera, "Jolly Peasants," which has had a run of seven years in Europe. This opera was written by Mr. Leo Fall.

Mr. L. Drew Mosher, voice teacher, has opened his studio for the season of 1913-14 with the usual large class of students. He hopes to present to the public of Cincinnati several private recitals as in former years, and the opera "La Mascat," of which the chorus is now being trained by his assistant, Mr. Will C. Smith. The opera will be produced in the early spring.

Mr. Henry Eerch has returned from his summer outing and has again opened his studio at the Odd Fellows Temple, and reports good prospects for the coming year.

Mr. Emil Wiegaud, violinist, is preparing for a busy season in concert work and teaching.

Mr. Sidney Durst, pianist and organist, is now receiving pupils at his studio, 137 W. Fourth street. L. DREW MOSHER.

♯♯♯

AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

Frederick Persson, a recent acquisition to the Conservatory faculty, and Miss Mabel Woodworth, the accomplished violinist, will give a joint recital at Kimball Hall, Saturday afternoon, October 18. Mr. Persson will play several groups by Chopin and the last movement of the Saint-Saens Concerto in F major, and Miss Woodworth will play two movements from the violin Concerto in G, by Max Bruch, and a miscellaneous group of compositions.

The classes in the Dalcroze System of Eurhytmics, under the direction of Miss Lucy Hall, from the Hinman studios, began with a large attendance, insuring a successful future.

♯♯♯

RENE S. LUND

Rene S. Lund, baritone, will appear in joint recital with Mrs. Mabel Corlew-Smidt, soprano, at the Arche Club Friday afternoon, October 17. Miss Alice R. Deal will be accompanist.

♯♯♯

Little Theater—The opening bill at the Little Theater will the the three short plays, "Columbine," "Maker of Dreams" and "Mr. and Mr. Pierrot," by Reginald Arkell. The date is Tuesday, October 21.

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

Hazel Dell Neff
SOPRANO
PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN
PIANIST TEACHER
NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and
4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.
COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing
Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin
Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN
SOPRANO
Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital
429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

FREDK J. PERSSON PIANIST ACCOMPANIST
1921 Wolfram St.

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
Teacher of Singing
309 KIMBALL HALL
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON

Now Ready. Second Edition Cloth, 192pp. $1.00 Postage 8c
THE RECENT REVOLUTION IN ORGAN BUILDING
By George Laing Miller, F. R. C. O., Eng.
Shows how mechanism and tone production have completely changed. Many illustrations, biographies and portraits of inventors. Specifications and views of keyboards of notable organs in England, France and U. S., including Unit organs and the new Liverpool Cathedral.
May be had from all Book and Music Sellers
The trade supplied by Lyon & Healy, A. C. McClurg & Co., Ditson, Schirmer Gray, Presser, Baker & Taylor, Fischer, Nordheimer, Novello & Co., Ltd., or THE CHARLES FRANCIS PRESS 32B. 13th Street, New York.

The Elderly Person

The Elderly Person has been watching, for some time, one of the original "Hikers" (which is a short and familiar name for the Prairie Club), and the scrutiny convinces him that he has found the lineal descendant of the first wearer of the seven-league Boots. Their names are not the same, however. The Elderly Person does not recall the title of him who could reach seven leagues in one step when he put on the magical boots, but he knows that it was not Morehouse. Perhaps Mr. Morehouse inherited them. Anyhow, while he is slight and spare, and you wouldn't believe it of him, he skims over the ground bird-like. Happy are you if you follow him for a guide and the walk lead you about the Sag, and Palos Park and the Mount Forest hills. There were 165 ramblers in his train the other afternoon, and he kept them winded the best part of the time. But he gave the seventy-five who followed him to the end of his trail in the Long Walk something to remember for a lifetime.

You see, it is like this when the conditions are right. The walkers board a train somewhere, about 1 o'clock of a Saturday afternoon, and ride all the way from twenty minutes to an hour and a half. The objective station reached, the leaders start off with the party straggling all of the distance of a mile in the rear. At a certain point there is a separation, not of sheep and goats, but of those who do not have appointments or babies to look after, from those who do. The Short Walk is four or six miles long, and ends at a station where a train will bring its members back to the city not later than 7 o'clock. Then the picked men and women of Gideon's band take the Long Walk of from ten to twelve miles, and get home at any old time of night.

There are all sorts and conditions of people in these groups and they have so many different kinds of a good time that there is no vocabulary to describe either. The comradery of the excursions is easy and unassuming. A friendly man will find friends. If one want to walk alone he can do so undisturbed. If he wants to talk to his nearby personality he can do so freely, without the form of an introduction. Ten to one a barbwire fence and the need of rolling under it will separate the talkers, and a new coalition soon made. It is perfectly amazing how competent the ladies become on this barbwire question. The Soprano, who hailed the Elderly Person in the initial moments of the walk, and was jubilant in her enjoyment of the wonderful out of doors, looked askance at the first barrier. She also looked down at her pretty suit, and felt upwards at her hat. She then balked squarely and, con agitato, said she couldn't do it at all. The new husband and the lady friend compassed the snug space readily and urged her to come along. But she told "Dear," adagio pathetique, that she simply couldn't. Then "Dear" strained his long arms in drawing the wires and barbs further from the ground. Then the combined forces cajoled and pulled and pulled and smoothed and the Soprano was initiated. After that she was the first one through, and when the Elderly Person said good-bye to her, for she was wisely a short walker since it was her first trip, she was sitting on the side of a steep hill munching cookies allegro con spirito.

The mushroom man was along also. In fact there were two of him and they acquired any number of fungi. One specimen was a wide-spreading many-arched red affair, which excited intense enthusiasm. On the train coming home the connoisseurs compared notes. One carried his treasures in a basket, the other used his handkerchief. But there were so many varieties that the Elderly Person knew once more that life could never become dull, if the spirit to expand was cultivated. Here was a whole new treasure house crowded with fascinating mysteries, every one of them a sealed book to him, and every one of them, like Mrs. Browning's trees and bushes, "A-flame with God." Incredible, is it not, that any healthy soul could find life unprofitable and waste it?

There were three stalwart boys in the party, ever in the forefront and keenly alert for whatever might be doing. They exploited an apple orchard, despite the warnings that there must be no marauding. And then, strange to tell, every other man, and an equal number of women, forgot that they were grown up, and threw stones and sticks at the fruit on the boughs. When they caught up with the advance guard, all were vigorously at work on some very fair samples of the average orchard which receives no attention, but like Topsy is just allowed to grow. At home the apples would have been snubbed. On the march, and with the tingling elixir of the air and magnetic sunshine, they were golden fruit. These lads were eager to arrive at the place where the contents of the lunch packages might be unloaded. The moment came just as the sun went out of sight and sent up great wreaths of splendid color. There had persistently followed the sun, all afternoon, some spiral masses of clouds, scaly and wisplike. As the Elderly Person said to the lady who was watching the mass of color, they resembled the moire antique silk of the dress of the village queen when he was a boy. Feathery and twisted and disintegrated they were, but they played and danced fantastically, and flung graceful curves elastically into bewitching postures. On the edge of a ravine cut by the hurrying waters from many storms, the Elderly Person sat himself and wrested his lunch from his overcoat pocket. It came out so reluctantly that he was reminded of Sairy Gamp's party, where Betsy Prig dislodged much lettuce and parsley from her pocket, and finally in triumph produced what she called a "cowcumber." But the shadows fell so fast that the whistle sounded for the renewal of the walk, before the lunch was half done. Then came the wonderful experience of a day already full of unadulterated pleasure. Down the hill went the fleet Mr. Morehouse, with the boys at his heels; and into a

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studeba ker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

Gertrude Consuelo Bates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - Baritone NEWMAN
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE - ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY
Music Critics Say: Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose proficiency especially in the art of interpretation not only supports but inspires—makes not mars—the soloist, enabling him to bring out his best. 1246 N. CLARK ST. Tel. North 4579

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
441 Sidney Av., CHICAGO Phone Drexel 7910

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

Daniel Protheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO 955 Third Av., Detroit, Mich.
Chicago address, care of Music News

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
ABROAD FOR SEASON

THEODORA
STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

Harriet Case SOPRANO
Management Sam'l B Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., Second Floor

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

H. B. Bartholomew
Teacher of PIANO AND VOICE 502 Kimball Hall

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

FRANK STEEN
TENOR
304 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TENOR Director Vocal Department Boise Conservatory of Music. Pinney Building, BOISE IDAHO

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art. Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address, KATE JORDAN HEWETT, Sec.

thicket of woods dark and spooky but deliriously thrilling to those who love such emotions. One man, who shall be nameless, did as he inevitably does—put his arms about the stately trunks, and his ear close to the bark to hear the little tremors which come murmuring from the topmost boughs. It was hard not to be allowed to lag, but the leader's quick "This way" sounded again and again, and was passed along to hurry the deliberate ones. Out into the open led the trail, beside a little stream that must be leaped over repeatedly. Then along a side hill blazoned with the glorious reds and bronzes and yellows of the stubby oak bushes. Twining among them the party became a tenuous line. Here it was that the far-stepping boots fairly twinkled in their flight, for the call of the wearer sounded ever farther and farther beyond, and the echoing replies farther and yet farther behind. At the entrance of another stretch of woods his immediate followers were few, but the boys were still at his heels. There was nothing to do, but to send a messenger to round up the slow ones, lest they be lost in the gathering night. The moon was due, but she was flirting demurely with her cloudy admirers, and had gathered also a filmy veil about her rays. Like all charming ladies she was not going to appear on time. Her beauty and the splendor of her costume would be enhanced if she kept her admirers waiting somewhat. So the light, figured upon to make easier a tramp across a field of stubble, was not in evidence. The feet sank deep into the cool lusciousness of the new growth that had sprung up amongst the stalks still left in the ground. Uneven as was the foothold, the gathering dusk along the lines of the horizon entranced the eyes with its endless soft folds. It was better to stumble than to miss "the long melodious sorrow of the hills." There was a pause to let its mystery sink deeply into the sensitive souls who responded to such marvels. At the outlet of the field a bright-eyed woman found a solitary evening primrose filling the nearby air with its evasive perfume. How ready the mother earth is to yield and yield again to those who have the eyes to see!

Here a man shouted: "I see my shadow," and sure enough the moon was putting aside the layers of her veil, and the light began to stream softly a glistening radiance. The roadway outside the gate lay like a ribbon of silver, and the forest just beyond was heavy and portentous with shadow. Did the moonlight elves dance before the leader, and blind him so that he turned to the right instead of to the left down that ribbon of road? Who shall say? But that was the wrong direction, and not discovered until a looked-for exit failed to appear. Then the error was confessed. And then did the magical boots really get in their deadly work. They flew across the earth. And soon even the voice could not be heard. Such a scamper was there among his flock until they found him with a farmer, letting down the bars for the final cross-country stride. Too bad we can't stop and hear the farmer talk. It was rich with wisdom, and some other things.

Away down the lane in the glowing moonlight and into the glades of the forest! Up and down steep hillsides with the moonlight making pictures amid the trunks and interlacing limbs! Patches of bewildering gleam and shade! Long slanting stretches of flooding light! Deep, deep, fathomless fastnesses of darkness! On the downward slopes exaggerated lines of tree trunks and wide glades of moonshine! Nymphs and fauns, elves and fairies and dryads and all the wild creatures of the woods did we quickly grow to be! And the view halloo rang and rang and echoed and replied like delirious, ecstatic music! Eager dancing and running feet beat the soft earth, the fresh grass and among the roots of the trees! A glorious dream come true! An hour of hilarious exhilaration! In the woods under the moonlight's spell there is no time, no space, no maturity, no nothing but the abandon of youth and the pure joy of life!

THE ELDERLY PERSON.

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

Shipley Watson
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
Pupil of Heinrich Barth, Berlin; Martin Krause, Leipzig; Edward MacDowell, New York; Carl & Rheinhold Faelten, Boston. 4414 Main St., Kansas City, Mo.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Accommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS, PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TEACHER TENOR DIRECTOR
120 North Oak Park Av., Oak Park, Ill.

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone O. P. 4397. 206 South Lombard Av., Oak Park
Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Orotorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

ELSE HARTHAN-ARNDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av.
Phone Normal 1406

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

IT has become quite the habit in Chicago, when any musical address is wanted, to say "Look in the classified Directory Card columns of the Music News, and you will surely find it."

The habit is growing in other localities too.

This is not without its good and sufficient reason either, for while the cost of this service is only twelve dollars a year (including subscription) the advantages gained are very material. Not only do prospective managers and pupils use this list continually to find the addresses of artists and teachers, but also, church people often find it of service in locating desired organists, directors and singers, and further—the complete list is used habitually by all sorts of advertisers who want to send announcements of new and novel productions to a representative list of musicians.

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

Bergey
CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL
Voice Piano
430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St., Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Stewart 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714, Kimball Hall

Music in America

ERIE, PENNSYLVANIA

Erie's musical season opened with one of the most brilliant concerts ever given in this city, when Mme. Frances Alda, assisted by Frank La Forge, pianist, and Gutia Casini, 'cellist, joined with the Apollo Club in its initial concert of the 1913-1914 series. This was Mme. Alda's first appearance in Erie, and she certainly can find no fault with the way in which she was received, for the Columbia Theater was packed to the roof and enthusiasm was unbounded; and justly, too, for not since we have heard Gadski has a soprano of such wonderful finish visited Erie. Mme. Alda's numbers were all well chosen, but the ones that seemed to find the greatest favor were her "Prayer" from "Tosca" (Puccini), "Nymphs and Shepherds" by Purcell, Grieg's "Lauf der Welt," the exquisite Gavotte from Massenet's "Manon," Lehmann's "The Cuckoo," and Frank La Forge's dainty "Like the Rosebud."

Casini, the 'cellist, pleased greatly in all of his numbers, as well as in the obligatos to two of Mme. Alda's numbers. The work of the Apollo Club was up to its usual fine standard and the members deserve congratulations for providing Erie with one of the finest musical treats it has enjoyed for many months.

♮ ♮ ♮

It now looks as though Erie is going to have the busiest musical season of her history. Immediately following the announcement of the appearance of Paderewski at the Columbia Theater on October 27, under the direction of S. Gwendolyn Leo, comes the report that Mrs. Eva McCoy, who has so successfully conducted the artist series for the past two years, will provide another course for Erie music-lovers, and the artists already engaged include Christine Miller, Francis Macmillen, violinist, and Fanny Bloomfield Zeisler, pianist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Franz Kohler, violinist, will give a recital in the assembly room of the Hotel Lawrence on Thursday evening, October 16. He will be assisted by Miss Lena Mason, soprano, of the Century Opera Company. This is the first of a series of programs Mr. Kohler has arranged to be given at the Hotel Lawrence during the coming winter.

♮ ♮ ♮

The newly organized Erie Symphony Orchestra is holding frequent rehearsals and hopes to be in shape to give the first concert some time during November. Among the numbers being rehearsed are Schubert's "B Minor Symphony," the "Oberon" Overture and Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance."

ALBERT H. DOWLING, JR.

———♯♯♯———

JOPLIN, MISSOURI

With the coming of October and its beautiful fall weather, the musical activities begin. The various schools and private studios are busy with enthusiastic music students eager to begin their winter's work. Many musicales are being planned and concerts have begun.

Following is the program of a musicale given by the Gleaners' Circle of the Presbyterian Church at the home of one of its members. Each number was enjoyable and pleased very much:

PROGRAM

Quartet—
Divine Lullaby ..... J. A. Parks
Miss Imo Price, Mrs. Forney, Mr. Kelly and Mr. McAntire

Hungarian Air ..... Liszt
Instrumental Solo ..... Selected
Miss Holiday

Vocal Solo—
The Temple Bells ..... Amy Woodforde Finden
Less Than the Dust ..... Amy Woodforde Finden
Miss Imo Price

Instrumental Solo
Arabesque in G ..... Debussy
To a Water Lily ..... MacDowell
By the Brook ..... Schnepp
Miss Helen Scoville

Violin Solo—
Gavotte ..... Gossic
Bertha Laundeaur

Vocal Solo—
In Those Soft Silken Curtains (from the opera of Manon) ..... Strauss
Will O' the Wisp ..... Strauss
Miss Hortense Wheatley

Violin Solo
Sovenir ..... Drdla
Polish Dance ..... Drake
Miss Mary Bingham

Vocal Solo—
Turn Keys ..... Rob Roy
Dr. McAntire

Quartet ..... Selected
Miss Imo Price, Mrs. Forney, Mr. Kelly and Dr. McAntire

The choirs of the various churches are planning interesting things for the winter. The Episcopal choir, under the direction of F. B. Rogers, is preparing Dudley Buck's "Triumph of David," to be given the latter part of October. A special musical program was given at the First Presbyterian Church last Sunday evening. The numbers included "Festival Prelude" by Brewer, "Come, Holy Spirit, Come" (Koschat); "The Lord Is King" (Marston); duet, "They Shall Hunger No More" (Gaul); anthem, "Even Me," by Warren. The offertory consisted of the beautiful trio, "Praise Ye the Father," by Verdi. The other musical numbers were a tenor solo, "All Through the Night" (Old Welch air), by Mr. Paul Kelley, and anthem, "I Will Magnify Thee, O God."

On Monday evening last a recital was given by Miss Mary Bingham, violinist, assisted by Mr. George Winter, tenor, and Mrs. Winter, accompanist. Miss Bingham has just returned from two years' study with Earl R. Drake in Chicago and has opened a studio at her home, 812 Wall street.

———♯♯♯———

NEW HAVEN

Much activity is apparent in the opening of the musical life of New Haven. Professor Horatio Parker has returned from his year's sojourn abroad and is busy getting ready for what looks to be the best musical season since the starting of the Yale Symphony some years ago.

A treat is in store for the lovers of Beethoven's opera "Fidelio," which is scheduled under the auspices of the Dorscht lodge en-

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4 08 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 66 Rue de Seine
EVERINGHAM Hazel (Tel. North 3765) 1251 N. State St.
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Arthur (Phone Wellington 4148) 410 N. Maplewood Av.
GALLUP Helen (Phone Austin 11713) Chicago Piano College
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorinm Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 6171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4786) 520 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Sumuy, 64 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 378
EMANUEL N. B. (Auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO [illegible] Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield 27 Rue Boisievant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2106) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir), 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
DRIGGS and LEMESSENA Publicity for Artists 501-5th Av., New York
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arbuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3835 Flonrnoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 306 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) Powers Bldg.
VAN CLEVE [illegible] (Lecture Recitals) 6? W. 45, New York

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., Central Park Pres. Church) [illegible] Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. [illegible] West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (6th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone Drexel 3937) 4956 Oakenwald Av.
DEAL Alice R. 716 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6210 (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 624 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6507) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo, Milwaukee, Wis. 179 Pleasant St.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2866) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (61 Schiller St.) Pianist, Organist, Accompanist
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie Amgrican Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4451 North Winchester Av.

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BACHAUS New York (Loudon Charlton)
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BARTHOLOMEW H. B. 502 Kimball Hall
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 36 S. Maple Street
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4635) 2315 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Stewart 2519) 6415 Sangamon Street.
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Milwaukee, Wis.) 568 Jefferson St.
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5065) 8656 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenu
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill).
CLARK 338 N. Ashland Avenne
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 54 Auditorinn (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) in Enrope
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3856 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Phone Oakland 3433) 303 Kimball Hall
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 523 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio

tertainment committee. The opera which is given too seldom, will have its first hearing in New Haven, when it will be sung by a first-class German company of New York, augmented by New Haven singers which are in course of rehearsals under the direction of Max Dessauer. The affair will take place the latter part of November.

On the evening of October 20 Miss Lucile Foretzka, dramatic soprano, will make her initial appearance to a New Haven audience at a recital to be given in Harmonie Hall. She will be assisted by Mr. Arthur Troostwyk, violinist; Master Allie Avrutin, violinist; Mr. Burton Bachmann, pianist, and Mr. Adolph Linkenbach, bass. They are all accomplished musicians, including Master Avrutin, who is but seven years old He is a protege of Professor Isadore Troostwyk, who is concertmester of the Yale Symphony Orchestra, and president of the Dorscht Lodge of Musicians.

Walter Lawrence, boy soprano soloist of All Angels' Church, New York, will be assisted by Alfred Neuman, boy pianist of New Haven, in a concert October 15. Master Lawrence is said to be the greatest boy soprano in America. Both boys are only twelve years old and have made enviable records for themselves.

The rehearsals of the New Haven String Orchestra commenced October 6, in Professor Troostwyk's Studio in the Insurance Building. The director, Professor Troostwyk, was much pleased with the progress of the orchestra last season.

Many bright things in music are promised for the season. First and foremost the Yale Symphony will give five symphony concerts in Woolsey Hall under Professor Parker.

There is promised for the coming season several operas to be given by the best companies which are to be sung by leading artists of repute.

Studios in every branch of music have been re-opened with a goodly roll of students intent to become proficient in the several branches of art. A prosperous season is looked forward to and much advancement is expected from the teachers.

MADAME TEALDI.

———###———

OGLESBY, ILL.

The Oglesby Choral Club has resumed operations for the season and on each Monday evening has a splendid rehearsal under the baton of Milon R. Harris, who comes from Chicago for the purpose.

Mr. Harris is more than pleased with the outlook for a very prosperous season and declares that in all his experience he has never conducted a society in which the proportion of talented singers was greater or where the musicianship was higher.

A number of concerts will be given during the season, due notice of which will appear in Music News.

———###———

MILWAUKEE

Plans for giving the opera "Martha" by the vocal students and orchestra of Marquette Conservatory of Music, are announced. The opera is in preparation and will be given in the early spring, under the direction of Louis La Valle, late of the Sheehan Opera Company.

Mrs. Shepard's first concert of the season consisted of a recital by Maud Powell, violiniste, assisted by Francis Moore at the piano. Mme. Powell is an artist of the first rank and one who has a message for every listener in her unlimited lights and shades and superb technic which ceases to be anything to her listeners but the soul of the artist.

Mrs. Elva Smolk Sprague, pianist, and Henrietta Pepin, soprano, will be heard in an interesting program October 10.

———♯♯♯———

LOS ANGELES

The third concert of the People's Orchestra presented a program of much interest in variety of color and in excellent finish. The "Bacchanale" from Glazonouw's "Season's," and Brahms' "Tragic Overture," the "Dance of the Hours," from "La Gioconda," Nevin's "A Day in Venice" and Herbert's "Serenade" were the orchestra selections. The Imperial Quartet (mixed voices) sang very effectively the "Rigoletto," quartet, and a sacred number by Godard, unaccompanied. The members are Mme. Ulrich, soprano; Eva Young Zobelin, contralto; Mr. G. Haydn Jones, tenor, and Mr. Edwin House, bass. The attendance is on the increase and strong hopes are held that the receipts wil equal the expense account. A reception was given to Mme. Jenny Kempton, who ocupied first box to the stage.

Mr. Bela A. Adams, flutist, gave Doppler's "Fantasia Hongroise," with splendid technic and good expression.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Abraham Miller's lecture song recital of Franz Schubert's song cycle, "Die Schoene Muellerin," had a good hearing. and the rendering, while entirely in German, was more or less enjoyed by having an English translation in hand and the brief verbal talk given before the vocal and instrumental rendition. Mr. Miller sings with good expression and his medium voice power was very pleasing, which was used almost entirely. On demand for a song in English he sang "Hark! Hark! the Lark," charmingly.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Tivoli Opera Company is billed for October 13 in "Bohemian Girl," and will remain for several weeks at popular prices in popular operas.

The season opens tonight and many great artists will appear under Mr. Behymer's management during the season.

♮ ♮ ♮

Last night at the Mayor Rose reception into the Moose Order, a good musical program was given by the Banks Cregier Orchestra and the Festival Chorus of 250 voices. Mr. Demorest as organist and the Philharmonic Male Quartet, all giving good satisfaction.

♮ ♮ ♮

Verdi "Centennial," with the "Requiem Mass" will have a full house next Sunday, by the People's Orchestra and chorus.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Ammalee Smith gave a splendid performance in piano numbers last night, with Miss Mason as vocalist and Mr. Carl Bronson as accompanist.

S. W. MOUNTZ.
446 W. Fortieth Place.

ERST Stephen Adolph, 1553 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H., Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn
FARDAHL Anna M. Ahroad for season, 2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Studio, 1527 High St.
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearborn 6032) 874 Cass St.
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236) Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise, Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur, Columbia S[illegible]
GODFREY Eleanor F., Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music, Northwestern University School of Music
HEAPHY Alice Christine (Boston, Mass.) Worcester, Mass.—Day Building
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7045) 426 Fine Arts Building
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music) 306 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9205)
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals) 3350 North Halsted St.
LEVY Henlot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil, Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence, American Conservatory
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Louis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich.
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (University School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (Jamestown, N. Y.) Hill Piano School
OLIVER Mary Lindsay, Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 415 W. 61st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 357 W. 63rd St
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288) 1921 Wolfram St.
PILLSBURY Agnes Pope, 707 Fine Arts Bldg.
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766 620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma, Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie, Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5629
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.) 11 South 20th Av., East
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow, 4716 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420) American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715) 5828 Woodlawn Av.
STOUT Lilian Mary, 429 Fine Arts Bldg.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V. (612 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs, Peoria, Ill.
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin, Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J. Berwyn) 55 Auditorium
von MICKWITZ Harold, Bush Temple Conservatory
WALLACE Evangeline, 622 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo, Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H., Chicago Piano Colle
WILFORD J. E., 502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise, 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str. 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L., 1516 Mailer's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Col'o (2225 Williams St.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Louisville, Ky. Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son, 820 Fine Arts Bldg.
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block, Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver, Boston, Mass
DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8195) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House, 528 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro., New York, 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co., 67 E. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO., 5119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co., 522 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G., Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 64 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co., A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass
Waldo Music Co. Publishers, 235 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons, New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2131) 633 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music
ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1571) American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory, Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art, Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art, 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle, School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice, 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music, Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director, N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music, 69 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College, Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 609 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music, Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music, 61 Auditorium Bldg
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianaforte School, Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music, 5th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2231 Washington Boulevard
KROEGER School of Music (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music) 629 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano, 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College, Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir) 309 Kimball Hall.
Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music, Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music, Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music, Evanston, Ill.
OAK PARK CONS. Music and Dramatic Art, Warrington Bldg.
OSTROVSKY Institute, Hand Development, 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art, 65 Auditorium Bldg.
TOLEDO Musical College, Toledo, Ohio
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music, Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance, 42 W 76th St., New York
VILIM American Violin School, 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1515 Mallers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art, 29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 69th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

ALBERT Teachers Agency, 633 S. Wabash Av.
BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency

THEORY

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf, 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M., Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S., Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C., Evanston, Ill.

ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 715 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A. (North Shore School of Music) 4666 Evanston Av. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Lonis (Phone North 815) Studio, 226 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Ludwig Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Wabash 1260 Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Ravenswood 141) 1952 Leland Avenue
CLEOPHAS Cornelia Studying Abroad
COHEN Sol (Cincinnati Orchestra) 628 Lincoln Ave. (Avondale) Cincinnati
DASCH George. (Evanston and Leland Avee.) North Shore School of Music
DRAKE Earl R. 84 Anditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.
EVANS Clarence B. (San Francisco 1549 Octavia St.
FISCHEL Max I. 610 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst) 106 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 426 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4365) 4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Maurice H. Chicago Mnsical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KITCHIN Joseph 5416 Jackson Av.
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517) 3533 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago Branch, Kankakee, Illinois
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nussbaum School of usic) 4654 Grand Boul.
PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York.
PREISER Albert Leo. (Austin-Chicago 530 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island) Vilim, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston) 1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Mnsic
STEINDEL Albin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1325 Birchwood Av.
TOWNSEND Winifred 411 Kimball Hall.
VAN AIKEN Hal G. Soloist and Principal, Violin Dept., So. Bend (Ind.) Conserva*ory
WALKER Sadie (Phone Belmont 4534) Cosmopolitan School of Music
WOODARD Guy Bush Temple
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis) 22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory 606 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147) 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.) 65 Auditorium Bldg
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert 6557 Ingleside Avenue
BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 419 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.
BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005) 303 Kimball Hall
BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.) Northwestern University School of Music
BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist) 5119 Greenwood Ave.
BISPHAM David 44 W. 44th St., New York
BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg. Drake School of Music
BOLLMAN Maude Fenion Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.
BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York) Care Haensel and Jones
BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 5819) Kimball Hall
BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8520) 4822 Madison Ave.
BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium) Cosmopolitan School of Music
BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor) 1425 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.
BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2259 Northwestern Uni. School of Music
BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3885) (Harry Culbertson, Manager)
BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio) Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
BRUEGGER Frederick 720 Fine Arts Bldg.
BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth) 7022 Vernon Av.
BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041) 727 Fine Arts Bldg.
BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.) Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau
BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183) 520 Fine Arts Building
Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass. 413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.
BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 5485) 612 Fine Arts Building
CASE Harriet Auditorium Bldg.
CHEATHAM Kitty (New York) 274 Madison Avenue
CHENEY Mary (New York) 500 Carnegie Hall
CHILSON-OHRMAN Luella, (Soprano) 4603 Sheridan Road
CLARK Charles W. (Paris) 12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.
CLARKE Edw. 513 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831) Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)
CLARK Lizzie Abbott Res. 5498 Cornell Av. (Phone Hyde Park 5971)
CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152 Sherwood Music School
CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone) Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11
CLIPPINGER D. A. 410 Kimball Hall
CONANT Alice Widney (Soprano) University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.
CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher) 721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495
COOK Dwight Edrus (Boise, Idaho) Boise Conservatory of Music
COOK John Loring (Tenor) 300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 5158)
COOLEY Sydnie Smith (Phone Garfield 2913) 4117 W. Harrison St.
CORLEW Mabel (Contralto) 4202 Prairie Ave. (Phone Harrison 973)
COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France) 6 rue Edmond About
CRAMER Alice Ione (Phone Drexel 7009) 508 E. 46th Place
CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor) 234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)
DAHLSTROM Margaret 3242 Clifton Ave.
DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique 30 Rue Marbeuf, Champs Elysees, Paris
DE SALES Regina (Paris, France) 40 rue de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)
DeYOUNG Richard B. American Conservatory
DEVRIES Herman 618-628 Fine Arts Building
DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478) 816 S. Harvey Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.
DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310 710 South Central Park Avenue
FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio) H. B. Turpin, Manager
FARNUM Mrs. Frank 3359 Warren Ave.
FARRELL Joseph (Kansas City) 201 Studio Building,
FICHTNER Ludwig Carl (Basso-Cantante) 149 Tremont St., Boston
FITCH Mrs. Wilhur (Phone Harrison 3895) 63 Auditorium (Home Phone Longwood 407)
FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg 5905 Ontario St. (Contralto)
FRIDENBERG Abbie L. (New York) Studio 110 Carnegie Hall
FRISBIE Constance (Soprano) 5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)
GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782) 318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.
GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886) 3435 Flournoy St.
GARTON Samuel B. (Home Phone Ravenswood 6392) 323 South Wabash Av.
GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone) 413 Kimball Hall
GIBBS Mary Crofut (Res. Phone—Longwood 1633) 404 Kimball Hall
GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone) 1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.
GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend, Ind. Conservatory) Chicago Address, 522 Kimball Hall
GROW Ethel (Phone North 2635) 1002 Dearborn Av,
GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art) 523 Fine Arts Bldg
HADLEY Grant (Tenor) Suite 73 Auditorium Building
HAIGHT Irma (Detroit, Mich.) 955 Third Avenue
HALL William John (St. Louis) Mnsical Art Building
HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497) 423 Fine Arts Bldg.
HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher) 72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.
HAMILTON Jessie Mack, (Phone Ravenswood 326) 5057 Winthrop Av.

ELGIN, ILLINOIS

The violin solos of Master Ora Ballinger, who was specially engaged for the occasion, were one of the main features of a very successful concert last Wednsday at the Unity Hall, where he played "Souvenir de Lubeck" "Humoreske," Dvorak, and other concert pieces of high musical value and technical difficulty, in excellent style, and with a comprehension of their requirements very remarkable in so young a boy. Master Ballinger is a very sincere and successful young musician, and very rightfully is in great demand.

Miss Ethel Beldon supported him with artistic accompaniments, and he was enthusiastically recalled after each performance.

RICHARD M. FIELDE.

MR. CRANE'S DREAM

The following very interesting editorial is taken from the Chicago Evening Post:

"Mr. Frank Crane, in one of our contemporaries, presents a dream of what grand opera is going to be in the year 2013, when the 'star nuisance' shall have been abolished and 'twenty municipal opera houses' shall have been established.

"What a pity Mr. Crane did not wake up in the rural towns of Germany and France and discover what one hundred years of his method of running grand opera has developed: No 'stars,' a mediocre orchestra and the girls and boys in the neighborhood in the chorus.

"Yet if Mr. Crane's spirit should come back to this country in 2013 he will discover more than 'twenty opera houses' in America, more likely 100. But in each there will be presented operas by the stars, or to use the proper term, 'great artists,' and an orchestra of one hundred pieces with every instrument commanded by a musician of high rank.

"Mr. Crane's dream is really more a bit of his social philosophy than a dream, and if carried out to its ultimate end would mean that we would have no great artists in music, painting, sculpture or architecture.

"On his premise, why should we build magnificent houses on the Lake Shore Drive, the creation of a great architect's mind, when a cottage on Halsted street would house just as many people where they could live just as comfortably? And why should Mr. Lorado Taft spend his life working out his composition of the 'Spirit of the Great Lakes' when a copy of the 'Apollo' in plaster paris can be purchased for 25 cents?

"Why should we have an Art Institute where young men and young women are spending hours in hard work and study, when 'Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch' would be perfectly satisfied with a 25-cent chromo picture of figure or landscape?

"Why should our preachers spend days and nights in earnest study in order that they may present the gospel of Christ to the thinking people, when they could get a larger crowd, more noise and a greater demonstration by having a revivalist pitch a tent on the Lake Front?

"Why should we do anything to make Chicago not only a greater city but a more beautiful city, a city where the people could come from far and near to be entertained and educated in the higher and nobler things?

"If we follow Mr. Crane's dream and philosophy it is simply useless for us to endeavor to leave anything to posterity that posterity would want to emulate."

———♯♯♯———

THE ART OF SONG WRITING

The following excellent article is copied from the new music magazine, "The Musical Advance:"

"So many budding song composers are daily making their debut that one is tempted to ask, what prompts the muse in the majority of cases? There seems to be no especial reason for the enormous output of vocal material beyond a desire to acquire the reputation of being a song writer.

"The business of song writing is quite susceptible of analysis. Certain fundamental verities are hard to get away from. Following are a few essentials:

"A broad musical education on the part of the composer, including a thorough knowledge of the rules of harmony and counterpoint, and plenty of courage in the breaking of these same rules. An extensive general education, to make sure of proper word interpretation.

"A poem of merit; which must be lyrical, adaptable, not too long, having a good lilt and rhythm, containing no offensive words, properly unified, sufficiently original, and not previously associated with unsurpassable music.

"Technical grasp of character details, a lack of which is an annoying drawback, and will kill an otherwise meritorious manuscript.

"A certain amount of inspiration and spontaneity. This being, of course, along with musical ability, a kind of presupposition.

"As much originality as possible, without eccentricity; a simplicity with elegance."

———♯♯♯———

Bachman.—The Misses Bachman entertained the French Club "Le Circle Intirne" at their home, 1304 North Hoyne avenue, last Saturday afternoon. The topic was the life of Gounod and his opera "Mireille." Mrs. Hannah Butler delighted the guests with a number of "Chansons" and the valse from "Romeo and Juliet." She was in splendid voice and sang in her fascinating style of grace and charm. Miss Bachman gave a fine rendition of Mireille's great aria of the third act.

———♯♯♯———

Liebling.—The Emil Liebling Musical Club of Chicago held its monthly meeting at Hamlin Park Auditorium, Monday evening, October 6, 1913. The members of the club, who are pupils of Mrs. L. J. Stumpf and Miss Aimee C. Stumpf, rendered pleasing musical numbers. An additional feature of the evening was a vocal solo by Miss Irma Sundmacher.

———♯♯♯———

Potter.—Walter Anderson has booked Mildred Potter to appear with the Kansas City Symphony Orchestra on Tuesday evening, January 6, and with the Whitman, Mass., Woman's Club January 26.

———♯♯♯———

Stout.—Lilian Mary Stout, who has been abroad for several years, has returned to Chicago and resumed teaching piano in the Fine Arts Building.

HARRIS Milon R. 403 Kimball Hall
HART Belle 609 Kimball Hall
HARTLEY Sybil Owen, (Atlanta) 999 Piedmont Av.
HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Phone Normal 1406) care of Music News
HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawnuale Ave.) Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)
HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Building
HERDIEN Mabel Sharp 6132 Kenmore Ave.
HEUCHLING Mathilde 712 Fine Arts Building
HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923) Chicago Musical College
HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano) 1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel.Grac. 1733)
HINKLE Florence (Soprano) 294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)
HINSHAW William Wade (New York) Metropolitan Opera Company
HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003) 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson) 304 Kimball Hall
HOLT GeorgeNelson 609 S. Wabash Ave.
HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano) 3800 Broadway, New York
HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 13737) 6836 Washington Blvd.
HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544) Auditorium Bldg.
Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland) Tudor Mansions, 3616 Pine Grove Av.
HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante) South Bend(Ind.)Conservatory of Music.
HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880 608 Fine Arts Building
HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund Alliance, Ohio
HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267) 501 Kimball Hall
JOHNS Ethelle Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131) 6463 Kimbark Av.
JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 5104) 4937 Michigan Ave.
KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8619) 4433 Racine Avenue
KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Ravenswood 7201) 523 Fine Arts Bldg. (Phone Harrison 2074)
KIMBELL Grant (Tenor) 6418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831
KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
LA BERGE Charles (Baritone) American Conservatory
LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 6774) 1375 East 64th Street
LASH De Witt Durgin (Phone Harrison 6365) 420 Fine Arts Bldg
LAYFIELD Mabel B. (Phone, Wenthworth 2082) 7111 Normal Av.
LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6830) 6460 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1
LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335) 4460 Berkeley Av.
LINDQUEST Albert (Phone West Pullman 366) 237 E-113 Street
LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto) 1311 E. 63rd St.
LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola 3814 Ellis Avenue
LUND Rene S. (Baritone) 2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 6802)
LUND Nme Edla Scandinavian Song Program
LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J) 1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.
LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder) Drake School of Music
MacBURNEY Thomas 609 Fine Arts Building
MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060) 3422 Fulton Street
McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439)
MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E. 616 Fine Arts Bldg.
MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France) 27 rue Boislevant
MARCUSSON Grace Brnne (Phone West 661) 2459 Jackson Boul.
MARELLE Marie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall
MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402) 5256 Berteau Av.
MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.) 209 Wesley Av.
MILLER Christine 1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsbnrg, Pa.
MILLER Herbert 716 Fine Arts Bldg
MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn) 1. W. 34th St., New York
MILLER John B. (Tenor) Chicago Musical College
MOSHER L. Drew 137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.
MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone) 1166 Belmon Ave
MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles) 446 W. 40th Place
MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.
MULREY Mahel V.—Soprano—Pianist 47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.
MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4677 300 Athenaeum Bldg.
MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano) 4902 Friendship, Av.
MURPHY Mrs. John Fremont (Soprano) 5000 Dorchester Av. (Phone Kenwood 4042)
MURRISON Harry R. Alliance, Ohio.
NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122) 1215 E. 53rd Street
NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano Plymouth, Ind.
NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199) 237 North Howard Av., Austin
NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York) 330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)
NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5509) 4125 Drexel Blvd.
OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute) 303 Kimball Hall
OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147) 2112 Washington Blvd.
PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England) Care L. G. Sharpe, 61 Reg S
PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto) Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.
PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.) Toledo Musical College
PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3246) 4173 Lake Av.

POTTER Mildred (Contralto) Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St.,
PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.) Winona School of Music
PROTHEROE Daniel 610 Fine Arts Bldg.
RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bluilding
RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 6782) 1738 Humboldt Boulevard
RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor) Barre Plains, Mass.
RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513 413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av
REED Esta Asher (Soprano) Abroad for a season
REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165) 6627 Indiana Av.
REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg) 202 Nixon Building
RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.
RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall 6318 Burchfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.
ROBBINS Edith Lucille (11th and R Sts. University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.
ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting) 1372 E. 52nd St.
ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877) 7206 Stewart Ave.
RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto) Principal Liederheim, Auburndale, Mass
RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 5265) 719 Fine Arts Bldg.
RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448) 3100 Lexington St.
SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing 939 Walnut St., Newton Highlands, Mass
SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano) 401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.
SCHUSTER Katherine 71 Auditorium Bldg.
SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York) Wolfsohn Bureau
SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 469) 408 Kimball Hall.
SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner) St. James Bldg., New York
SEVERINGHAUS Edna Keiffert (Soprano) 63 Auditorium Bldg.
SHELP Dr. H. Wm. 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor) 516 Kimball Hall
SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano) 4044 Indiana Av.
SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano) 6523 St. Lawrence Av.
SMIDT Mable Corlew (Phone Anstin 12717) 5943 Ohio St.
SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173) 625 Madison St., Gary, Ind
SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano) Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio
SPOONER Philip (New York) 205 W. 57th St.
STEELE Mary Hinman 603 Kimball Hall
STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh) Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.
STEEN Frank (Tenor) 304 Kimball Hall
STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48) 4439 Calumet Av.
STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 65 Auditorium Building
STEPHALI Sofia (Phone Midway 5912) 6106 Kimbark Av.
STEVENSON Lucille 4438 Berkeley Avenue
STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923) 1134 E. 47th St.
STULTS Walter A. (Evanston) Northwestern University School of Music
TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L. Lewis Institnte, Phone West 793
THATCHER Burton (Res. Phone Drexel 4881) Chicago Musical College
THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano) Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill
THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082) 620 Fine Arts Building
TODD Ernest O. (Tenor)Phone Edgewater 3766 Busb Temple Conservatory
TORRENS Mr. and Mrs. L. A. (Ninth Floor) Auditorinm Bldg., Wabash Av.
TOWNS Kirk Chicago Musical College
TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor) 813 La Salle Av.
TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949) 404 Kimball Hall
VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799) 6611 Woodlawn Av.
WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380) 428 Fine Arts Building
WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2958) 1325 E. 64th St.
WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Oak Park 4397) 206 S. Lombard Av., Oak Park.
WATSON Ruth Swing 1226 E. 52nd St.
WEAVER Iva Bigelow Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.
WEBSTER Frank B. 719 Kimball Hall
WEGENER Mme. Justine Rush Temple Conservatory
WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone) 61 Auditorium Bldg.
WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 8046) Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal
WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bnreau 1 E 34th St., New York
WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 160 728 Fine Arts Bldg.
WILCOX John C. (Teacher) Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo
WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Stndio) 516 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS Dr. Carver (Samuel B. Garton) Auditorium Bldg
WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey 406 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS H. Evan Akron, Ohio
WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway 6107 Woodlawn Av.
WYNN Bessie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall
WYCOFF Eva Emmet 500 W. 143rd. New York
YOUNG Walter S. (801 Carnegie Hall, New York) Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair, N. J.
ZENDT Marie sidenius (Phone Drexel 2778) (1140 E. 44th St.)
ZIMMERMAN Ooliata 72 Anditorinm Bld

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Subscribe for

Music News

Music News of this issue will reach many people who are not subscribers—many of them in fact will see it for the first time. To such we offer the explanation that we are making a special

Promotive Campaign

and are sending sample copy ONCE to very many people who do not often read music papers. We invite all such to become

Subscribers

The cost of the paper is only two dollars a year—which is only four cents a week, and for that sum we will bring to your home

Every Week in the Year

full and adequate announcement and review of the concert and opera situation of the country.

A Premium of One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music given to each new subscriber and each renewal

Send Your Subscription Today
Before You Forget It

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic

(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport, Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

EMIL OBERHOFFER

CHICAGO, AMERICA

OCTOBER 24, 1913.

Voices Made Beautiful

Our new book tells how to transform weak, tuneless voices into beauty, sweetness, power, birdlike trill. Falsetto to pure tenor. Robust health. Price, $1.00. Lessons by correspondence.

Mme. Girard, 818 E. 51st St., Chicago, Ill.

Now Ready. Second Edition Cloth, 192pp. $1.00 Postage 8c
THE RECENT REVOLUTION IN ORGAN BUILDING
By George Laing Miller, F. R. C. O., Eng.
Shows how mechanism and tone production have completely changed. Many illustrations, biographies and portraits of inventors. Specifications and views of keyboards of notable organs in England, France and U. S., including Unit organs and the new Liverpool Cathedral.
May be had from all Book and Music Sellers
The trade supplied by Lyon & Healy, A. C. McClurg & Co., Ditson, Schirmer, Gray, Presser, Baker & Taylor, Fischer, Nordheimer, Novello & Co., Ltd., or THE CHARLES FRANCIS PRESS 32B, 13th Street, New York.

14 Selected Songs by A. M. FOERSTER

The Daisy	The Robin's Lullaby
At Night	Nights of Music
The Fir Tree	After the Revel
In March	Those Eyes of Thine
The Water-Lily	Song of Hope
An Old Melody	Russian Lover's Song
Love Seemeth Terrible	When Evening Shades

$1.75 NET

New York—G. Schirmer Chicago—C. F. Summy Co.
Boston—Oliver Ditson Co.

Have you seen the new Musical Journal

Every person interested in Bands or Orchestras should receive

The Army and Navy Musician

Here is a journal that makes its influence felt—one that is valuable to all its readers.

Write for FREE sample copy.

The Army and Navy Musician
ELKHART, IND., U. S. A.

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

SHEET MUSIC MENDED
Send me your torn and loose music and same will be put in good condition at very low rates; also your name and address stamped thereon if desired.
CHAS. A. KIMMIT Park Ridge, Ill.

Languages
The Berlitz School of Languages,
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
0 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

The Musicians' Piano Tuner
Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879

Chicago, October 24, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS
United States, per year, postpaid.....$2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are charged to their accounts.

Frances Bowser, Business Representative

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina Place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block
Frank E. Percival

TOLEDO, OHIO
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20

Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

Subscribe for
Music News
$2.00 per year

SERVICE, equipment, accommodations, together with a well selected and ample stock, makes our store the natural trading place for the music teacher, music student, and for the general discriminating music buyer.

CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO.
MUSIC
Publishers Importers Dealers
64 East Van Buren Street, Chicago
(Steinway Hall Building)

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians
by Horace D. Hitchcock
A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original.
The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:
"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."
For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cents Postpaid.

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

All the Leading Artists
Are Featuring
Palmer John Clark's
New Song
Someday, Sometime
Published in four keys
Low in Eb Med. low in F Med. high in G High in Ab
For Sale Everywhere
GAMBLE HINGED MUSIC CO.
CHICAGO

DEP'T. T Special Discount to the Profession. Send for Sample Copy of THE VIOLIN WORLD

Music News

Vol. 5 CHICAGO, OCTOBER 24, 1913 No. 43

Editorial

AS TO OUR ANNIVERSARY NUMBER

That any paper in Chicago could have issued so complete and handsome a book as the Fifth Anniversary Number of Music News was unbelievable to many people, and the comment, since the appearance of that number has been full of wonder as well as of admiration.

One New Yorker referred to it as "the unexpectedly fine issue of Music News," thereby complimenting and slighting us in one breath, while many other comments from near and far voiced equal surprise, if not amazement.

It is impossible to reproduce all that has been said, but a few sentences will be quoted from many sources.

The Charleston (W. Va.) Gazette speaks of the issue flatteringly, and J. Henry Francis, organist of St. John's in the same city writes, "Congratulations! you and the Music News. May you continue to prosper in your usefulness."

Effa Ellis writes from Buffalo, "Hurrah for the Music News! My, but the anniversary number is a fine one."

The J. Fischer and Brothers publishing house in New York wrote to a Chicago friend after seeing the anniversary number, "Music News is, in our estimation, one of the brightest and newsiest of music papers published in this country. Mr. Watt deserves the success with which he is meeting."

Mrs. E. B. Summers writes from Nauvoo, Ill., "I have received the beautiful anniversary number, which I think is a great credit to you."

Sidney Silber had this to say: "Your anniversary number was, to my mind, a wonderful success."

Mrs. E. E. Froman wrote from Clinton, Mo., "Just a line to tell you how fine the anniversary number is. May more and more success be yours"

Ad M. Foerster, the well known Pittsburgh composer, wrote us, "Bravo! and congratulations on your 'five-year-old!'"

Milton B. Griffith says, "Congratulations! Anniversary looks great!"

From Cincinnati, Mrs. Preston Search sends this cheering line: "You have in me a constant reader. I never miss a name or a line, and feel that I am much better posted on musicians since I have been perusing the pages of Music News."

From Des Moines our good friend, Dr. M. L. Bartlett wrote this letter: "I do not propose to be last in sending my congratulations for your superb anniversary number of Music News. It is certainly an evidence of your ambition and preservance. These two qualities you possess in large measure, and they are the qualities that win success. I express the hope that it will add as much 'to your basket and store' as it has to the pleasure and profit of your many readers."

From among the many Chicago musicians who have written or verbally expressed their appreciation of the number we give the following:

"I hasten to be among the very first of those who will feel constrained to offer you sincere congratulations on the splendid issue. I am proud to be numbered among those appearing on its pages."

George W. Munro.

"I wish to add my congratulations on your beautiful October copy. It surpasses all expectations, although I was prepared to see an elaborate copy this month. Wishing success to Music News, I am sincerely,

Mrs. W. C. Scofield.

"That 'labor has its sure reward' is manifested to the highest degree in the Fifth anniversary number of Music News. From cover to cover this beautiful edition shows the labor and painstaking care with which it was gotten up, and the result might well make an older publication feel proud. We now appreciate the possibilities of Music News and predict for it a great future.

'May I offer my sincere congratulations as a part of your reward?"

Harriet Martin Snow.

"The special fall edition of Music News reached my hands today. It is very interesting and the mechanical make-up exceedingly fine. I congratulate you on this edition of your paper, which very convincingly shows wonderful growth in the past five years."

Carl D. Kinsey.

'Congratulations and best wishes on your fifth birthday."

Emma Clark-Mottl.

"I wish to hereby express to you my heartiest congratulations on the success of your valuable publication, Music News, as evinced in your magnificent anniversary number. It demonstrates the fact that the combined forces of true musicianship and remarkable business ability which you exercise with your indominable energy, gives to the public such a musical journal as is really desired. With best wishes for continued success, which you undeniably deserve."

Petrowitsch Bissing.

AS TO DICTION

In a front page article in the Chicago Tribune, on the "blackmail letters" which have been flooding Chicago, there occurs this sentence—"One striking thing about the letter is the good diction and the perfect typography of the document."

This is the absolutely correct use of the word "Diction" as opposed to the meaning given it by most vocal teachers.

Webster says, "Diction is the choice of words for the expression of ideas; the construction, disposition and application of words in discourse with regard to clearness, accuracy, variety, etc.; mode of expression, as 'the diction of Chaucer.'"

Critics, as well as vocal teachers often use the word improperly. Reference is frequently made to the "diction" of a singer when instead of that word "pronunciation" or "enunciation" should be used.

A singer may pronounce his words correctly or incorrectly, and he may enunciate deftly or otherwise—but he has nothing whatever to do with "diction," unless, like George Cohan he "writes his own lyrics."

AS TO EXORBITANT FEES

It has been reported that Paderewski is to receive five thousand dollars for each of his forty appearances in the United States this season. This totals $200,000 (two hundred thousand dollars), and is just three times the annual salary of the president of the United States.

If the figure is correct it certainly gives occasion for serious thought.

There are hundreds of well trained American pianists, singers and violinists to whom a $50 engagement occasionally would be a splendid help, and $100 for a recital a God-given joy.

Counting at the larger figure—the great sum to be paid Paderewski would provide two thousand engagements for our own artists.

That would be enough to provide encouragement to hundreds of them. And yet, instead of paying this sum to encourage our own artists, we blandly pay it to a foreigner!

Time was when we, as a nation needed to do this—but that time is now long past, and we should have reached a place where discrimination would be a factor of our national make-up, a discrimination which should favor Americans rather than foreigners.

The managers are not to blame for exploiting the foreigners, for, as a matter of fact, they make more in doing this than in exploiting Americans. The fault must be laid directly at the door of the public, which pays the enormous sums which not only provide the foreign artist with his princely fee, but also allow the American manager a handsome profit.

And American teachers, schools, and the artists themselves cannot be held entirely blameless for the existing circumstances either, for the public looks to them, at least in a degree, for guidance, and if, instead of continually lauding the foreigner they would begin to support and encourage each other, the public would very shortly follow suit.

Thomas.—Mr. Arthur Thomas, who has just begun his work at the Lawrence Conservatory of Music at Appleton, Wis., will be heard in a piano recital there very shortly.

Music in Chicago

DR. HEMINGTON'S RECITAL

The second of Dr. Francis Hemington's organ recitals at Epiphany for the season, took place on Monday evening, when he played a very attractive program and was assisted by Marjorie Dodge Warner, a soprano whose beautiful voice is becoming more widely known each week.

On Monday she sang first, "With Verdure Clad" (Creation), and sang it most excellently, displaying opulent tonal quality and an abiding good taste.

Her second number was Allitsen's "The Lord Is My Light," and this was built up to a rousing climax and very easily proved Mrs. Warner to have great dramatic power as well as much musical feeling.

Dr. Hemington played a Mendelssohn "Sonata," the "Prelude" to "Lohengrin," and the "Great Fugue in G minor" (Bach), as a sample of his splendid musicianship and virtuosic technic, and having thus delivered himself of his duty he made the balance of the program frankly popular—or at least, he included nothing but very well known selections.

The Guilmant "Funeral March and Seraphic Chant" was played with remarkable coloring and fine climax building, while the "Autumn" of Brewer was played better than this writer has ever heard it—the flutes of the Epiphany organ being particularly well adapted to it.

Dvorak's "Humoreske" was also deftly treated and besides pieces by Chopin, Godard and Rogers, the program contained further the fine "Theme and Variations," by Thayer, which was brilliantly played.

C. E. W.

MR. HOPKINS NOW IN NEW STUDIO

Mr. Hamilton Hopkins has now taken the large studio, 710 Fine Arts Building, where he may be found every day and where voices are heard daily from 10 to 12 a. m. Mr. Hopkins makes a specialty of twenty-minute lessons on correct tone production.

Mr. Hopkins asks the following question of vocalists:

What is the most important thing for a singer to have? and in answer he claims:

The proper placement of the middle register, for, having that, the upper voice will take care of itself.

Also: Why is it that Titta Ruffo's voice is so beautiful?

It is because he has the middle register fully at command, and this gives him the forward resonance, loose jaw and open throat which every singer should have.

(Advertisement.)

Harris.—Sarah Hanken, a young pupil of Esther Harris, played at the Zion Temple Auxiliary on Tuesday afternoon, October 21, meeting with very great success. Her number was the "C Minor Concerto" by Beethoven, and for encore she gave the "Military Polonaise" of Chopin.

ARCHE CLUB MUSICALE

The musicale given by the Arche Club on last Friday afternoon prefatory to the regular bi-weekly lecture enlisted the artistic services of Mable Corlew-Smidt, Alice R. Deal and Rene S. Lund and was indeed a charming function.

Mrs. Smidt was in perfect voice and never has the beauty of her work been more apparent and never has she shown more conclusively her fine musicianship.

MABLE CORLEW-SMIDT

Campbell-Tipton's "Spirit Flower" is a very effective song always, and in the reading given by Mrs. Smidt it was exceptionally so. Mary Turner Salter's "Autumn" was the vehicle through which she showed beautiful sustained work, and Speaks' "Morning" was exhilarating and facile to the utmost. For encore she gave Thayer's "My Laddie" much better than its inherent values would warrant a less careful artist in doing.

Mr. Lund was also in very good form and his voice filled the spaces of Lincoln Center most convincingly, while his enunciation was such as to prove a distinct pleasure to every listener.

Always Mr. Lund is certain to sing something of unique value and this appearance was no exception. "Hamlet's Soliloquy" by Dudley Buck was done with seriousness and artistry, Weidig's "Good Night" again

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

proved attractive, Porter Steele's "I Know a Little Girl" showed its intrinsic value and entire worthiness to be placed on a worthwhile program, and John Carrington's "Rich Earth" proved to be a very exceptional song in the reading accorded by Mr. Lund. So unusual is the text of this song that it is given here.

"Rich Earth"

O rich Earth, yet but a fringe—
A fringe on the star-filled skies,
And we but atoms riding on the fringe.

Oh mystery, O power enfolding us—
Oh, power within, Oh power within us.
Somehow it is glorious, even to ride this narrow fringe.
And be as nothings, nothings in the boundlessness of night.

There is such room for the future,
Such vast worlds yet to be lived,
Such far adventures calling yonder in Mars,
Or hid on some planet dim in the milky way.

Oh let us fling our lives in with God's life,
And in our little corner, our cranny of Earth,
Make our part of the world deathlessly great.

—Words from "The Pioneers" by James Oppenheim.

The program was closed with the duet "In Love's Domain" (Squire) in which the two voices showed their entire adaptability to each other and the total of good singing was markedly effective.

Miss Deal proved herself an alert and thoroughly musical accompanist. Never obtrusive and never leading, she yet is so good a student of the song literature that she always knows exactly how to shade and color each number in the way that will be most helpful to the singer and at the same time prove effective with the audience.

C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

LINCOLN TURNER HALL

The first concert of the Sunday afternoon series to be given at the Lincoln Turner Hall, Diversey boulevard and Sheffield avenue, by the Ballmann Orchestra, under the direction of Martin Ballmann, will take place on October 26, at 3 o'clock. The following excellent program has been prepared:

Festival March ..... Ballmann
Overture, "Der Freischuetz" ..... C. M. von Weber
Grand Suite from Opera "Cavelleria Rusticana" .....
..... Mascagni
For Orchestra, Organ and Piano, consisting of: Introduction, Siciliana and Grand Chorus of the Peasants; Alfio's Song; Church Scene; Lola's Song; Intermezzo Sinfonico.
Piano, Mrs. Bruno Kuehn; Organ, Hermann Gunkler
Contra-bass Solo—
Adagio ..... Simandl
Koncertstueck
Herr Josef Houdek
Mrs. Bruno Kuehn at the Piano
PART II.
Prelude to Opera, "Il Guarany" ..... Gomez
Two Numbers for String Orchestra, Organ and Piano—
Le Dernier Sommeil de la Vierge (The Last Sleep of the Holy Virgin) ..... Massenet
In the Garden (Garden Scene) ..... Lunt
Violin obligato, Concertmaster Edmund Hunnemann; Piano, Mrs. Bruno Kuehn; Organ, Mr. Hermann Gunkler
Excerpts from Opera, "Mikado" ..... Sullivan
Grand Opera Quartet and Orchestra
Zither Solo: Fantasia, "Alpine Echoes" (Echoes von den Alpen) ..... Wunderle
Zither, Mr. Carl Wunderle
PART III.
Hungarian Dance (No. 5) ..... Brahms
Russian Patrol ..... Tschakoff
Traumbilder Fantasie (Dream pictures) with Zither Solo ..... Lumbye
Zither, Mr. Carl Wunderle
Quartet from Opera "Martha" ..... Flotow
Martha, Nancy, Lionel, Plunkett
Quartet from Opera "Rigoletto" ..... Verdi
(Duke, Maddalena, Gilda, Rigoletto)
Grand Opera Quartet and Orchestra.

EFFA ELLIS
Keyboard Harmony
Melody Building and
Teaching System
Mean Rapid, Definite Reasoning, Based on the TRUTH Brief and Simple. Write about Special Modulation Course
EFFA ELLIS
204-5 BOSTON STORE BUILDING
OMAHA, NEBRASKA

JESSIE KING RECITAL

Following is the program of the piano recital to be given by Miss King at the Fine Arts Theater on Sunday, October 26, at 3:30:

Toccata and Fugue, D minor ..... Bach-Tausig
Sonata, Op. 53 ..... Beethoven
Allegro con brio
Adagio molto
Allegretto moderato
Capriccio ..... Brahms
Scherzo ..... Brahms
Impromptu, F sharp major ..... Chopin
Scherzo, B minor ..... Chopin
Barcarolle ..... Liadow
Rhapsody ..... Dohnanyi
Au Bord d'une Source ..... Liszt
Rigoletto Paraphrase ..... Liszt

———♯♯♯———

THE COLUMBIA SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Another large audience which taxed the capacity of the Columbia School Recital Hall was drawn by the program given by Joseph Kitchin, violinist, assisted by two members of the faculty, Mrs. Florence M. Granquist, soprano, and Mr. Arthur Oglesbee, pianist, Saturday, October 18.

This recital was in the nature of a farewell so far as Mr. Kitchin is concerned, as he has accepted a position with the St. Paul Symphony Orchestra. He, of course, was the principal artist and the three groups he played were very well done. He plays with a surety and artistic finish which all of Mr. Becker's pupils have. He was particularly happy in his last number, the Carmen Fantasie. Both Mrs. Granquist and Mr. Oglesbee added to the success of the program. Mrs. Granquist has a clear soprano voice and her work is most artistic in every way. Mr. Oglesbee is doing a considerable amount of concertizing this season and in every instance gives the keenest pleasure to his listeners. He played especially well, the Leschetizky arrangement of "Lucia." The complete program follows:

JOSEPH KITCHIN

Concerto, A major ..... Sinding
Mr. Kitchin
Miss Ruth Bishop at the Piano
Ich liebe Dich ..... Grieg
May, the Maiden ..... Carpenter
Chere Nuit ..... Bachelet
Mrs. Granquist
Swedish Dances ..... Bruch
Hejre Kati ..... Hubay
Mr. Kitchin
Liebestraum ..... Liszt
Andante and Finale from "Lucia" ..... Leschetizky
Mr. Oglesbee
Carmen Fantasie ..... Hubay
Mr. Kitchin

———♯♯♯———

WILLETT SCHOOL OF SINGING

The Willett School of Singing presented this program at Kimball Hall on Wednesday evening, assisted by Bessie Howland of the Chicago Piano College:

"O Sleep Why Do'st Thou Leave Me" (Semele) (1710) ..... Handel
"Graceful Butterfly" (Les Fetes Venitiennes) ..... Campra

"She Is so Innocent" (La Fille de Madame Angot) ..... Lecocq
"To a Nightingale" ..... Brahms
"To a Violet" ..... Brahms
"Spring Night" ..... Jensen
Miss Langbourne
Allegro Maestoso" (From Sonata Op. 5) ..... Brahms
Miss Howland
"The Pine Tree" ..... Franz
"The Rose Complained" ..... Franz
"The Song That You Sang Long Ago" ..... Tschaikowsky
"No. I Have Never Loved" ..... Tschaikowsky
"Morgen" ..... Strauss
"If Thou Do'st Say" ..... Chaminade
"In the Woods" ..... MacDowell
Miss Langbourne
"Romance Op. 24" ..... Sibelius
"Concert Etude Op. 36" ..... MacDowell
Miss Howland
"A Little Winding Road" ..... Landon Ronald
"Serenade" ..... Campbell-Tipton
"Dear When I Gaze" ..... Rogers
"Where Blossoms Grow" ..... Sans Souci
Miss Langbourne

COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL

The following program will be given Saturday afternoon at 3, at the Auditorium Recital Hall:

Prelude and Fugue (W. T. C.) E flat minor ..... Bach
Miss Mildred Meents, pupil of Mr. Eames
Sonata D major, Opus 12 (for piano and violin) ..... Beethoven
Allegro con brio
Miss Mabel Coder and Mr. Arcon Sheasby
(Members of the Ensemble Class)
Sapphic Ode ..... Brahms
Feldeinsamkeit ..... Brahms
Miss Agnes Schuette, pupil of Dr. Williams
Sea Pictures ..... MacDowell
To the Sea
From a Wandering Iceberg
Song
Nautilus
In Midocean
Miss Helen Koch, pupil of Mr. Eidam
"Golden Rolls Beneath Me" ..... Rubinstein
An Irish Noel ..... Holmes

Mme.
Gerville-Reache
Prima Donna Contralto

Marie Sundelius
Lyric Soprano

Mabel Beddoe
Mezzo-Contralto

Arthur Hackett
Tenor

Bonarios Grimson
Violinist

Exclusive Management
GERTRUDE F. COWEN
1451 Broadway New York

Mr. William G. Lindquist, pupil of Mrs. Bracken
Sonate E flat, Opus 12 (for piano and violin) ..... Beethoven
Allegro con spirito
Miss Elizabeth Layman and Mr. Arcon Sheasby
(Members of the Ensemble Class)

THE HADLEY SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The opening student recital of the Hadley School of Music was given Tuesday evening, October 21, the special feature of the evening being "The Hein Ladies Trio," under the direction of Miss Hedwig Hein. The trio is composed of Miss Hein, pianist; Miss Mabel Hill, violinist, and Miss Emilia Hagstrom, 'cellist. The following students appeared on the program.

Mesdames Jacobson, Walker and McGough, Misses Russell, Moss, Rounsavell, Hey and Schwarze; Dr. Laughlin and Mr. Thomas.

THE CHICAGO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

A sold-out house and the most intense enthusiasm were among the factors at Orchestra Hall on last Saturday night, and these were the results of the fact that the occasion was the first evening concert of the season and that the program had been chosen by Mr. Stock with rare discrimination and that it was played by the orchestra with admirable poise and finish.

After dutifully opening with the Brahms "Academic" and playing afterward the Beethoven "Symphony No. 7," royally, the balance of the program was turned over to fancy and romance, and anyone who could not have enjoyed it would certainly be subject for commiseration.

The "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," the "Petite Suite" of Debussy and the "Les Preludes" of Liszt certainly provided a riot of color and a sufficiency of rhythmic swing and flowing melody, all of which was most avidly absorbed by the audience and appreciation of which was shown in the afore mentioned intense enthusiasm.

Some comment of the daily papers on the orchestra is here appended:

"More is there in the chronicle of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra's inaugural of its twenty-third season than the mere record of an audience's quick response and comment upon its demonstrations. More there was in Friday afternoon's function. That the orchestra's clientele was music-hungry for the season of its symphonic gorgings goes without saying, as it has gone for two decades or so. The interesting aspect of the occasion was the personal note in this welcome.

"During the intermission that fact was pointed clearly in little, odd phrases. The solidarity of the matinee clientele—a clientele developed to such a point of loyalty that only four season holdings changed hands this autumn—revealed itself in individual expressions of pleasure like nothing so much as a homecoming to civilized bathtubs and hardwood floors after a session among the northern mosquitoes and other hickory shirt appendages to the annual pilgrimage after "fish" of mythical existence and perennial lure. This is a very matter of fact fashion of putting the case, but nothing so surely indicates enduring satisfaction in any custom as reference to it in terms of every day routine.

"In the outburst of applause (which began in the balcony, by the way, and swept over the house from that vantage point of your most faithful devotee) was the note of individual welcome to the orchestra members coming to their desks. In the salvo which greeted Mr. Stock was even more. It expressed admiration for the conductor whose brilliant record has been made from its very beginnings within the decade. Pride there was in those salutes, and pride there may well be.

"This may not have been the direct aim of the far-sighted directors who made Orchestra Hall possible, and the orchestra self-sustaining thereby, but it is a corollary whose truth is the basis of the institution's sure foundation. In the scheme was only the idea that a sufficient season sale in such a house would result of necessity, if the public wished to be certain of attendance. In accomplishing so much with the Friday afternoon concert that only the two-shilling seats are available—and these quite in advance of the matinee days—the scheme has resulted also in welding that audience into a unit of interest, and in bringing into its attitude the feeling of individual loyalty and pride, and opportunity. No beter basis of co-operation between public and orchestra could be devised.

"The same situation is approaching with regard to the Saturday evening audiences. This second gathering is even more 'sympathetique,' in the Gallic sense, than its afternoon counterpart. A larger proportion of its number has been faithful in the orchestra's support since the early days. The prophetic of sight see a fast-approaching time when the concert room will be sold out for the season as the matinee is sold out. A marked increase has been noted in these reservations this fall, and the end is not yet. Then, when that situation faces them, the directors will be able to carry out their plan of a decade ago and submit a third concert each week, in the afternoon, probably, and at popular prices, possibly.

"The beginning and the ending of all these intricate problems is the same—the feeling of individual interest and individual loyalty."—The Inter-Ocean.

There have been a few changes in the orchestra. Hugo Kortschak returned to his former place as second concert master, and was greeted cordially by the audience when he took his seat at the first violin desk. Mr. Weisbach also was welcomed warmly when he appeared upon the stage. Alfred Steindel, gifted nephew of the first 'cellist, has been given place among the first violins, and Messrs. Schoeniger, Hand and Hecker have been added to the second violins. Messrs. J. and R. Fitzek have been transferred to the viola section.

"Mr. Starke, for many years the English horn player, retired at the close of last season, and his place has been given to Mr. A. Napolilli. Mr. A. Weiss has assumed the duties of the second bassoon, and Mr. W. Pierce has been given a place at the desk of the fourth French horn. The orchestra now numbers ninety men, four more than were enrolled last season."—The Tribune.

The program for the current week reads as follows:

Symphony No. 36, C major (Kochel 425) ..... Mozart
Adagio—Allegro
Poco adagio
Menuetto
Presto
Romantic Suite ..... Reger

INTERMISSION

Symphony No. 10, C major.....Schubert
Andante—Allegro ma non troppo
Andante con moto
Scherzo
Finale

A COMBINATION MUSICALE

The Chicago Amateur Club and the Lake View Musical Society joined forces on Monday afternoon and gave a splendid concert at Studebaker Theater before the combined membership, this totaling a capacity house even for this large auditorium.

The program opened with the Brahms "Trio," Op. 101, for piano, violin and 'cello played by Mrs. Bruno Steindel, Mrs. Charles Hagenow and Mr. Bruno Steindel, and closed with a group of piano pieces played by Miss Jeannette Durno, neither of which were heard by this writer.

Between these two numbers there were two groups of songs and a characteristic group of 'cello numbers in which Mr. Steindel was accompanied by Mrs. Steindel.

The singers were Mrs. Monica Graham Stults, soprano, and Mrs. Frederica Gerhardt Downing, contralto, both of whom are the possessors of beautiful voices and both having temperament and brains. On this occasion also they were so fortunate as to have for accompanists Mrs. Theodora Sturkow Ryder and Mrs. Katherine Howard Ward, respectively, this arrangement being one that could not have been improved upon.

Mrs. Stults sang the same songs heard last week at the Columbia School of Music and commented upon elsewhere in this issue of Music News, with the addition of Vidal's "Ariette," a number which suits her facile style to perfection and which in itself is a gem. She was in fine voice and scored a great success.

Mrs. Downing, in splendid voice, sang Sanderson's "My Dear Soul" with fine emotional outpouring and made the new "Sacrament" of MacDermid very charming. Schubert's "An die Musik" was of classic elegance, and Foerster's "Der Lenz ist da" proved to be a moment of exhilaration most positive and thoroughly effective.

C. E. W.

HAYDN CHORAL SOCIETY

The Haydn Choral Society has entered upon its winter work. Rehearsals are being held in the Athenaeum Building, corner of Van Buren street and Wabash avenue, on Monday evenings. The choir is under its old leader, H. W. Owens, and expects to place itself among the good choral societies of Chicago. While it is very young, very few choruses can enjoy the reputation that this organization has already gained. At an international contest of choirs held in Pittsburgh last summer, the Haydn Choral won second place and elicited from the critics such high praise and compliments that it was thought best to continue as an organization. The Choral Society will give Elgar's "King Olaf" in December, and expects to present other well known works later. New singers are being added and a successful season is anticipated.

Rennay.—Leon Rennay will give a song recital at Aeolian Hall, New York, on Thursday afternoon, October 30.

COLUMBIA SCHOOL CONCERT

Few schools are so equipped with concert rooms as is the Columbia, which in its location in the Ohio building has a hall which is elastic and can be made larger or smaller by the mere raising or lowering of movable partitions. When at its greatest size this room accommodates considerably over a hundred persons and on last Thursday evening it was crowded to capacity and an overflow filled the smaller rooms in every direction.

LUDWIG BECKER

Great enthnsiasm was also in the air, and it is seldom indeed that such a completely successful function is given.

Miss Winifred Lamb played a Chopin "Nocturne" and the Schuett "Die Fledermaus" transcription with an abiding tastefulness and with splashes of color at times which were amazing. Mr. Arthur Middleton sang some Schubert songs excellently, and in the Kaun "Der Sieger" he gave a display of virtuosity which was very telling and which brought him a genuine ovation.

Mrs. Monica Graham Stults sang delightfully her "Down in the Forest," being a perfect reading, and Cadman's "The Shores of Shiraz" disclosing under her sympathetic touch rarest kind of beauty.

The "Vissi d'Arte, Vissi d'Amour" (Tosca) disclosed her rare temperamental equipment as well as suiting her voice admirably, and her group ended with a successful reading of "Spirit of Spring," (A. C. Graham), to which the composer supplied the accompaniment.

Ludwig Becker played a number of small selections with great variety of mood, and with a constant display of technical proficiency which was immensely appreciated by the audience and which brought him persistent applause. His great work, however, and one which for absolute virtuosity and flaming sentiment will be equaled very few times in the season, was the reading of the Wieniawski "Concerto" in D Minor. This is a magnificent work for the instrument, and it was read magnificently.

In this triumph Mr. Arthur Granquist was also a factor, for it is indeed rare to hear any one play the piano accompani-

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

CHARLES LaBergé Baritone
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

FRANK B. WEBSTER
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Bush Temple Conservatory
STUDIO—SUITE 719-722 KIMBALL HALL

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Edna Reiffert SEVERINGHAUS
Mezzo Soprano - Teacher of Voice
63 Auditorium Building

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

van Vliet The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4366

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

ment for any concerto so beautifully or to have the feeling that this part of the work is equally vital with the solo line itself.

Not only did Mr. Granquist accomplish this, but he also played other accompaniments notably well (especially "Der Sieger" for Mr. Middleton), and in his solo group he rose to a point of efficiency which was not excelled during the evening.

The "'Cello Etude" by Chopin—stupid in the extreme unless actually made to "sing," proved under his fingers a melodic delight, the Otterstrom "Preludium" became worth while and the "Love Death" from "Tristan and Isolde" transcribed by Liszt for piano proved to be a piece of work so big and thrilling as to almost wholly overflow the place and to carry the audience in a wave of enthusiasm.

C. E. W.

MISS WOODWORTH AND MR. PERSSON

The American Conservatory of Music presented Miss Mabel Woodworth, violinist, and Mr. Frederick Persson, pianist, in an excellent program at Kimball Hall on Saturday afternoon—the place being full to the last seat.

Miss Woodworth, a great favorite with the Conservatory audiences, was in fine spirit and distinctly good violinistic form and played the Bruch "Concerto" with breadth of style and clarity of detail besides investing it with very much and very great variety of meaning.

The Coleridge-Taylor "Deep River" Transcription, proved to be very novel and equally beautiful in the well sustained and well colored reading given by Miss Woodworth, while her presentation of the Zarzycki "Mazurka" glittered with virtuosity.

Mr. Persson was very effective in the Chopin "Fantasie" Op. 49, and in four "Etudes" by the same master, but it was in the last movement of the Saint-Saens "Concerto" in F that he rose to a height of pianistic eloquence rarely attained on the concert platform.

The moment was a most propitious one—the mood was just right, the feeling in the audience was perfect, the support of Mr. Levy was all that could be asked, and so the resultant playing proved to be a vivid flame in effect and the enjoyment of the reading was one which was intensely exceptional.

C. E. W.

Choral Union.—The Men's Choral Union of fifty voices from the Cook County Sunday School Association gave a concert at the Belden Avenue Baptist Shurch on last Thursday evening.

Russell.—Mrs Estelle Russell will present her vocal pupils in a song program at the Auditorium Recital Hall next Monday evening.

MUSIC TO COME

(Under this caption Music News will hereafter schedule all announcements received by Tuesday noon of each week.)

Friday, October 24

Orchestra Hall, 2:15. Second concert by Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Campbell Park Presbyterian Church, Leavitt street and Campbell Park, 8:15, Chicago Concert Trio.

Saturday, October 25

Kimball Hall, 3:30. Elma Wallace and C. Ellen Loveless, joint recital.

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Sunday, October 26

Studebaker Theater, 3:30. Clarence Whitehill in song recital.

Fine Arts Theater, 3:30. Piano recital, Jessie King.

Lincoln Turner Hall, 3:00. Diversey and Sheffield avenues; first concert of Ballmann Orchestra series.

Sinai Temple, 8:15. First of the Sinai Orchestra concerts; Arthur Dunham, director.

Sunday, November 2

Fine Arts Theater, 3:30. Walter Spry Music School faculty concert.

Thursday, November 6

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Recital; Mme. Gadski.

Sunday, November 9

Studebaker Theater, 3:30. Song recital; Rosa Olitzka.

Fine Arts Theater, 3:30. Song recital; Alice Nielsen.

Auditorium, 3:00. "Creation;" Apollo Club.

Monday, November 17

Auditorium, 8:15. "Elijah;" Apollo Club.

Wednesday, November 19

Association Auditorium, 8:15. Bach Choral Society; Orchestra, soloists, Herdien, Johnson, Kimbell.

Wednesday, November 26

The Auditorium, 8:15. Opening of the Chicago Grand Opera season.

SINGERS IN SEMI-POPULAR PROGRAM

Mrs. Frank Farnum and Mr. Thomas McGranahan appeared at the Kedzie Theater last week in a short program of semi-popular songs. The audience showed great appreciation of their work which included two duets, one of which was a scene from "Il Trovatore," sung in excellent style, and "Isle d' Amour," and "Bonnie Sweet Bessie." Mrs. Farnum, and "Mother Machree," Mr. McGranhan. Mr. Harry Simpson was at the piano.

APOLLO CLUB

Herbert Witherspoon, bass, and Morgan Kingston, the English tenor, have been engaged for the forthcoming performance of Haydn's "Creation," Sunday afternoon, November 9, and Mendelssohn's "Elijah," Monday night, November 17, by the Apollo Musical Club in the Auditorium Theater. This will be Mr. Kingston's first appearance in oratorio in America, and Mr. Witherspoon's first appearance in Chicago in oratorio in a good many years.

Florence Hinkle, soprano, will appear in both "Creation" and "Elijah," and Rosalie Wirthlin, contralto, in "Creation" only. These two performances promise to be memorable in many ways.

SIDNEY SILBER RECITAL

The honor of giving the first piano recital of the Chicago season fell to Mr. Sidney Silber; the time being last Sunday afternoon, and the place, the rejuvenated and very much spick-and-span Howard Theater, formerly known as the Whitney Opera House, and much used for Sunday afternoon concerts.

The audience, which came to hear Mr. Silber was a notable one, for, despite such attractions elsewhere as Farrar, Kreisler, Whitehill and Teyte, this audience was numerically very satisfactory and in its personnel included a remarkable number of Chicago professional musicians. In fact, the audience took on very much the appearance of a special gathering of local pianists, with many vocalists, organists and violinists also appreciating and applauding the work of Mr. Silber.

This pianist made his Chicago debut at this time, but he is by no means an unknown quantity elsewhere, for besides having made many important appearances abroad, several of which were with great symphony orchestras, he has repeatedly played with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra in this country and his recitals have been uniformly successful everywhere. Just previous to his Sunday appearances here he had played as the opening attraction on the artist course projected by Dr. M. L. Bartlett in Des Moines, and his appearance in the Iowa city was a decided triumph.

On Sunday, Mr. Silber disclosed himself to be a pianist of very marked individuality and positive charm—to say nothing of the fact that he very promptly and emphatically proved himself the possessor of a technical equipment so complete and so broad that analysis of it is quite unnecessary. To say that it amply covered every requirement of an exceedingly taxing program is but to state the simple truth.

Mr. Silber is a program maker par excellence and knows very definitely how to please every factor which may be present at a first class piano recital. By way of absolute and solid value he offered the Bach "Chaconne" with its stupendously difficult elaboration by Busoni—a work for an intellectual and technical giant!

It would be difficult to say wherein it could have been played better. There was first of all splendid repose, and at all times an absolute clarity of outline and detail and added to this Mr. Silber gave it a distinctly musical touch—in other words, he made it very interesting.

The MacDowell "Sonata Tragica,"—which in spite of some sneering comment to the contrary, remains today one of the

(Continued on page 23)

Thomas N. MacBurney

Baritone — Voice Production — Song Recitals

Three years assistant to King Clark

608-609 Fine Arts Bldg. Chicago — Phone Harrison 6880

North Shore School of Music
Broadway and Leland Ave.
The Ideal School for Resident and Out of Town Pupils.

WILLIAM A. WHITE, President. Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, William A. White, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC AND THEORY, William A. White. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul
ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated)
CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar
TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868

THE NEW FIRST CHOIR

Music News reprints this very interesting article on the work of H. Augustine Smith at the New First Congregational Church of Chicago from the Chicago Congregational News:

"[We quote the following from a report prepared by Professor H. Augustine Smith at the close of the ten months' work, July 15, just before starting out for the summer camps. It is a remarkable record achieved by a real genius for choir leadership, but it must be remembered that for the most part the young people with whom such success has been attained, come from the less cultured homes of the city and with whom character training is an absolute necessity for success of any kind. And moreover, no talent or genius is relied on to take the place of the hardest kind of most persistent work. Read the mere outline record which follows and then imagine what it cost—but how vastly more it is worth!—Ed.]

NEW FIRST CHURCH CHOIR ON VACATION AT SAUGATUCK, MICH.

306 Days of Bee Hive Activity

"September 12, 1912, to July 15, 1913.

"13,116 singers present (43 every day for 306 days).

"392 different rehearsals, concerts and services (9 meetings every week).

"540 hours of musical drill and singing (54 solid days at 10 hours a day).

"577 selections sung, including 17 different cantatas and song cycles.

"20,000 people reached through twelve great free festivals (twice the audience the Apollo Club sings to each season. The Symphony Orchestra and the Grand Opera Company alone surpass the New First Church choirs in their musical clientele).

"$1,151 total collections from these free festivals.

"55,400 pieces of printed matter distributed under 37,000 one cent stamps.

"11 rehearsals within six days, attended by 306 singers, is the record of one week of June when the thermometer registered 90 to 95 degrees.

"787 cantatas and 511 octavo copies purchased during these ten months at $308.15 expense.

"1,481 miles traveled by Professor Smith and choir concert troupe, 12 concerts and club dates away from the church, including Wisconsin and Illinois towns, Congregational Club, La Salle Hotel, Volunteers of America, Washingtonian Home, Cook County S. S. Convention, Thomas Arnold School, and the World in Chicago.

"80 singers enrolled in the Pageant of Darkness and Light (the largest number from any one church in Chicago or suburbs).

"Favorite anthems of the year:

"'Jerusalem, O Turn Thee' (Gounod) sung six times.

"'O Come to My Heart' (Ambrose), sung five times.

"'Sanctus' (Gounod), sung five times.

"'God So Loved the World' (Stainer), sung 12 times.

"277 singers enrolled in the five choirs during the ten months, present enrollment July 21, 171 singers.

"93 singers present at 80 per cent of all the choir meetings during 306 days.

"42 singers present at 90 per cent of all rehearsals, etc., during 306 days.

"The Summer Night concerts brought out a total audience of about 2,000 people and a total collection of $141, just enough to pay all bills. Musically and socially the concerts were most successful. Such choral work as 'Hesperus,' 'Paul Revere's Ride,' 'Lohengrin' and 'The Holy City' were presented with true sincerity and refinement, the boys especially reaching fine altitudes in their singing of 'Paul Revere,' and the little girls in their Mother Goose songs, which were quite the 'hit' of the series. 'Lohengrin' showed what masterly concentration could do on a tropical, steaming night. It was great singing against strong odds. 'The Holy City,' shorn of organ accompaniment and high gallery position, was rich in light and shade, and the massing of tone."

NEW FIRST CHURCH CHOIR ON VACATION AT SAUGATUCK, MICH.

DELMA-HEIDE
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris
MAESTO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

ISAAC VAN GROVE
ACCOMPANIST AND COACH
716 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Herbert E. HydE
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
Studio 521 Kimball Hall, Tues. and Fri. Res. 6611 Woodlawn Av

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

CHARLOTTE LOUISE PETTIBONE
Piano Accompanying Instruction
224 North Prairie Av., Austin, Chicago

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

Churches

ST. PETER'S CHURCH

The first festival service of the season at St. Peter's, and also the first since the return from Europe of the organist and choirmaster, Mr. Herbert E. Hyde, was given on last Sunday evening, and the audience was of such flattering size as to prove conclusively that the prestige of these special monthly musical services is now firmly established in the neighborhood and that it is well known that when Mr. Hyde announces a program of music the resultant pleasure will be a great one.

Thus early in the season Mr. Hyde has brought his forces into fine shape and the choral work of the evening was of notable smoothness, and it was filled also with vitality of tone and crispness of manipulation.

Each part of the choir seems to be fully formed and the blend of voices and manipulation of the tonal mass contains very much of finish and effect.

The hymns were excellently presented and the service numbers by Tallis, Foster and Bennett were accurately done, while the orison by Peter C. Lutkin was a perfect gem.

The "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis" were from the Hyde service in D flat and they were all-sufficient to prove the popular organist of St. Peter's to be also a composer of great worth.

The anthems were "The Woods and Every Sweet Smelling Tree" (West), "God That Madest Earth and Heaven" (Naylor), and "The Hallelujah Chorus," by Beethoven.

These furnished great variety of effect, and whether in sustained legato phrase or complicated contrapuntal effects, they were admirably handled by the choir; the Beethoven number, especially, rising to a point of positive eloquence.

Mr. Hyde gave a post-ludial program of organ numbers with great facility. The "Praeludium" from the Rheinberger "Sonata," No. 14, was played with distinct enunciation; the "Intermezzo" from the Hyde "Fantasia Sonata" again proved the writer's versatility and worth, while "Elfs" and "Caprice Heroique," by Bonnet, affirmed this composer to have great color in his musical scheme, and also showed that Mr. Hyde has technic more than ample to cover their difficulties, and taste aplenty for their interpretation.

C. E. W.

ST. JAMES METHODIST

A special musical service will be given at St. James Methodist Episcopal Church on Sunday evening, October 26, at 7:45. Full vested choir with Mrs. Sheppard, soprano, and Mr. Reid Hilliard, baritone, assisting. Miss Tina Mae Haines, organist and director.

Organ Prelude, "Allegro con brio" (Sixth Sonata), ... Guilmant
Anthem "Rex Regum" .....Tina Mae Haines
(Dedicated to Dr. and Mrs. Charles Bayard Mitchell)
Anthem, "List the Cherubic Host (Holy City).... ..... Gaul
Anthem, "Hark, Hark, My Soul". .Chadwick
Anthem, Excerpt from "Harvest Song". ..... C. Lee Williams
Anthem, "Lamb of God" (Antiphonal Chorus)..... ..... Widor
Anthem, "Ho Every One That Thirsteth"..... ..... Macfarlane
Organ Postlude, "Marche Religieuse"..... . Guilmant

SINAI TEMPLE

The first concert of the second season of the Sinai Orchestral concerts, will take place Sunday evening, October 26, at 8:15, at Sinai Temple, Forty-sixth street and Grand boulevard.

The orchestra will be composed of twenty-two men of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Arthur Dunham, conducting.

The soloist will be Mr. Albert Lindquist, tenor.

Overture, "Merry Wives of Windsor"..... .....Nicolai
Orchestra
Aria, "O! Paradise" from "The Prophet" Meyerbeer
Albert Lindquist
Suite from the South ..... Nicode
Poetic Waltz ..... Andre
Orchestra
Organ Solo
Arthur Dunham
Eu Badinant ....d'Ambrosio
Orchestra
The Day Is Gone ..... Lang
Mammy's Song ....Ware
Hymn to the Night ..... Campbell-Tipton
Albert Lindquist
Pizzicato Polka
Valse Lente
March and Procession of Bacchus, from "Sylvia Ballet" .....Delibes
Orchestra

LEAVITT STREET CONGREGATIONAL

Program of Post-Ludial organ recital Sunday evening, October 26:

Concert Overture, C minor ..... Hollins
Elegy in G ....Lemare
Allegro vivace, Pastorale, Fugue — From the First Symphony....Vierne
Alice R. Deal, organist.

SAINT PAUL'S

On Sunday afternoon, October 26, at 4:30 a special musical service will be given at St. Paul's church under direction of John Allen Richardson.

Wilhelm Middelschulte will play an organ program consisting of Bach exclusively, and a special choir feature will be the Mendelssohn "Hear My Prayer," in which the solo will be sung by Robert Rea.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH

Following is the list of soloists for the monthly festival services (third Sunday each month) at St. James':

October—Mr. Robert R. Birch, organist.
November—Public service, American Guild of Organists.
December—Mr. Beecher C. Burton, tenor.
January—Mr. Harrison M. Wild, organist.
February—Mr. Marion Green, basso cantante.
March Miss Florence Hodge, organist.
April—Masters Abramson and Heise, sopranos.
May—Mr. John R. Rankl, baritone.
June—The Organist of St. James'.

(Continued on page 23)

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

A WELCOME VOICE

Music News has just passed its fifth birthday and with increased strength it speaks with convincing brevity of its position upon certain matters which have too long been neglected by musical weeklies.

Its words should be considered by every musician, music-lover, and music-promoter of the country. There is an inspiration in them that makes for patriotism and loyalty as does the pronouncement of the Monroe doctrine to a true American. And, lest some have not carefully read the part of the editorial in the anniversary issue referred to, and to give it added prominence by repetition, it is here included: "Music News stands uncompromisingly for 'America for Americans,' and it believes fully that younger artists need more help than do those already established. We think, too, that the time must come when we shall pay our own artists and regard them as generously as we do the foreigners now."

A similar sentiment by President Monroe "America for Americans," liberated this nation's sailors from the tyranny of the press gang, and the country's patriotism to a brighter flame, and to a stronger unity for accomplishing its great destiny.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Henry Jewett Players, Inc.

The first play, given by the newly organized dramatic company, the Henry Jewett Players, Inc., will be "Let's Go a-Gardening," by Florence J. Lewis, at the Plymouth Theater Monday night, October 27. The cast will include Marie Leonard, Marie L. Day, Blanche Latell, Virginia Chauvenit, Mary Davis, Bertha Livingstone, Eliza Mason, Carolyn Graves, Louise Burleigh, Edith Seabury, Elizabeth Almy Jones, Ruth Ahrens, Ruth Russell, Henry Jewett, John Weber, Arthur Hoyt, Harry Crosby, Robert Swasey, Frederick Wesley and William Harrington.

Quoting from a Boston daily, the Herald:

"The company has been organized in accordance with the laws of the commonwealth of Massachusetts. Its officers are Henry Jewett, managing director, Arthur Warren Fletcher, treasurer, and the following board of directors: Arlo Bates, J. M. Oliver Hewitt, Nathaniel S. Simpkins, Jr., Henry Jewett and Arthur Warren Fletcher. The hope is that the company may ultimately have its own theater, and that it may come to be a permanent Boston institution, recognized and indorsed by the public.

"Mr. Jewett, whose standing as an actor and as a man is well recognized and deservedly high, has been the leader in the movement. The aim of the movement is to establish a first-class repertory company in Boston, supported by Bostonians for Bostonians, so that our city may be able to provide its dramatic fare at first hand, as it already does its opera and orchestral music. It is hoped to build up a theater popular in the best and most desirable sense of the word; a theater to which patrons may go always with the assurance of finding plays attractive and entertaining, wholesome and inspiring."

♮ ♮ ♮

The Symphony Concerts in Cambridge

The concerts given by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in Sanders Theater, Cambridge, eight in all, began Thursday night, October 16, with an audience that packed the house, in attendance, and another audience desirous of being present, turned away.

The dates for the rest of the series are November 13, December 11, January 15, February 5, February 26, March 26, and April 23.

The assisting soloists will be Mme. Teresa Carreno, pianist; Mme. Boehn van Endert, soprano; Fritz Kreisler, violinist; Miss Ruth Deyo, pianist; Mme. Marie Sundelius, soprano, and Mr. George Proctor, pianist. Mme. Carreno, Mme. van Endert and Mr. Kreisler are included in the soloists who will appear with the Symphony Orchestra at its Boston cencerts. Miss Ruth Deyo is a brilliant American pianist of whom much is expected. Mr. George Proctor is a Boston pianist, who has many friends in Cambridge. Mme. Marie Sundelius is also a resident of this city, and is regarded as one of the foremost of Boston sopranos.

The first and last concert will have no soloist.

The sale of tickets for the Tremont Temple concerts began Monday, October 13, and the series begins Thursday night, November 6.

The following appeared in the Hearld recently:

"Miss Evelyn Parnell, a Boston coloratura soprano, who has just returned after four years in European opera houses, will be heard for the first time since she left the Boston Opera House, at the opening concert of the Tremont Temple concert course, with Michael J. Dwyer, tenor, on Thursday evening, November 6. Miss Parnell had a signal success in Dublin with the Quinlan Opera Company last season, and will return to Ireland this winter to fill operatic and concert engagements, after which she will go to La Scala, Milan. The Tremont Temple course this season will consist of six concerts. The first will be Irish in its general character, the second Scotch, and the third an evening of Home Songs of America and England. The fourth concert will be patriotic, the fifth a request night and the final concert an operatic night. Miss Evelyn Scotney and Howard White of the Boston Opera Company will be heard at the second concert with Miss Ellen Keller, violinist, Thanksgiving night, November 27."

♮ ♮ ♮

Boston, Mass.

In honor of Verdi's one hundredth anniversary, the Perkins Municipal Band gave a "Verdi" concert on Boston Common recently in honor of the one hundredth anniversary of the great Italian composer's birthday.

The Boston Italians were greatly interested in the event and attended the concert in large numbers. The program was "I Lombardi;" excerpts from "Ernani;" vocal selection from "Aida." Mme. Wilhelmina Wright Calvert and band; selections from "Un Ballo in Maschera;" duet for cornet and trombone, "Miserere" from "Il Trovatore," Theron D. Perkins, cornet, and Jerome N. Proctor, trombone; selection from "Simon Boccanegra;" Anvil Chorus from "Il Trovatore;" selection from "Otello;" vocal selection, "Good-by," Mme. Wilhelmina Wright Calvert and band; quartet for brass from "Rigoletto;" selection from "Aida" and the "Star Spangled Banner."

♮ ♮ ♮

News from Schools and Others

Advanced students of the New England Conservatory, in the first concert of the present season in Jordan Hall Thursday evening, October 16, presented a varied program. Two young boys from the western plateau, both of whom established reputations for themselves as very little fellows, were together in two movements of Grieg's F major Sonata for violin and pianoforte. These boys are Irvin Robertson of Victor, Idaho, and Stanley Schaub, Logan, Utah, who have been heard before at Conservatory concerts and who are always enthusiastically received. Twin performers who likewise are well received whenever they appear in Jordan Hall are the Misses Mae G. and Wilhelmina G. Cotton of Newtonville, Mass. They gave a spirited performance of Saint-Saens' Polonaise for two pianofortes.

G. Calvin Ringgenberg, Ames, Iowa, had the opening number, Bach's Fantasie and Fugue in C minor for the organ. Another organ selection was Guilmant's "Lamentation," by Vera Johnson, Northfield, Vt.

Isabel Clark, Portland, Ore., played a Beethoven Sonata, and Pearl N. Talbot,

CLARENCE EDDY
May be engaged for the
Opening of New Organs and for Organ Recitals
During the Season of 1913-1914.
Address: 510 Oakwood Blvd., Chicago.

Brownwood, Tex., Brahms' Scherzo in E flat minor.

The vocal department was represented by Marguerite Neekamp, Ironton, Ohio, in songs by Henschel and Chadwick, and Agnes D. Reid in selections from Faure, Franck and Leroux.

David Sequeira of the New England Conservatory faculty, a native of Nicaragua, where his father, Modesto Sequeira, is a leading attorney and statesman, had a place on the program of Faneuil Hall meeting Sunday, October 12, at which a movement was launched to make Columbus Day a Pan-American holiday, John Barrett, director of the Pan-American Union, Washington, was the principal speaker. Mr. Sequeira entered the New England Conservatory in 1902 and has been connected with it as student and teacher ever since. He was some time ago named as a candidate for the directorship of the newly established national conservatory in his native country but preferred to remain in Boston.

The senior class of the New England Conservatory of Music has elected the following officers: President, Henry Damsky, Birmingham, Ala.; vice president, Gladys Gilbert Hunt, Stroudsburg, Pa.; recording secretary, Marjorie Gaskins, Sunbury, Pa.; corresponding secretary, Armida Hall Richardson, Bar Harbor, Me.; treasurer, Simon Goldberg, Dorchester, Mass.; assistant treasurer, Marion Feeley, Brookline, Mass.; chairman entertainment committee, Belle Gardner, Roxbury, Mass.; chairman finance committee, Alice P. Davis, Rochester, N. Y.

Miss Elizabeth F. Young, New England Conservatory, '13, of Millsville, N. S., has been elected to the pianoforte faculty of Blue Mountain College, Blue Mountain, Miss. Miss Josephine Smith '12, of Bedford, Pa., has gone to a similar position at the Northfield, Mass., seminary.

A movement to start alumni associations in various New England centers is outlined in the New England Conservatory Magazine and Alumni Review, the September-October number of which appeared last week. It is suggested that each state be divided into districts and that counties in which only a few alumni are residents should be united with others. Constitution and by-laws applicable to the formation of such associations, are printed in full.

A recital Saturday afternoon, October 11, consisted of two ensemble numbers and solo selections by Armida Richardson, Bar Harbor, Me.; Helen Osburn, DuBois, Pa.; Roberta Kennard, Glendora, Cal.; Frances A. McWeeney, Providence; Loretta Curley, Pittsfield; Lenora C. Clark, Arroyo Grande, California.

Ramon Blanchart, baritone of the Boston Opera Company and head of the operatic course at the New England Conservatory, announces a recital in Jordan Hall Friday evening, October 24, assisted by his pupils, Bertha F. Manley, Ethel Frank, Rosa Sharfson, Erminda Blanchart, Maybelle Day, Orra Doloff and Gertrude Brailey.

♮ ♮ ♮

Faelten Pianoforte School

A particularly attractive program has been arranged for the student's concert next Thursday evening. Two of Mozart's trios for piano, violin and 'cello, the Polonaise for piano and 'cello by Chopin, Weber's E-flat major Concerto, and recent productions of highly popular English composers, will be presented. Admission is by ticket, which may be obtained by addressing the manager at 30 Huntington avenue.

♮ ♮ ♮

Notes

Ludwig Carl Fichtner, basso contralto, has been engaged by the Roxbury Presbyterian Church as its soloist, and members of the quartet. He fills frequent concert engagements.

Manager L. H. Mudgett's soloist for Sunday afternoon, October 26, in Symphony Hall, will be Josef Hofmann, the pianist. Melba appeared October 19. L. S. B.

♮ ♮ ♮

Kubelik's Recital

The concert given, to piano accompaniment, by Jan Kubelik, world-renowned violinist, at Symphony Hall, on the afternoon of Sunday, October 12, was patronized by a throng of people completely occupying all available seats and standing room. But his playing did not warrant so much attention. At the most, it was a "tame" affair.

Mr. Kubelik plays with little display of artistic virility and his interpretations lack masterful authority. Naturally he is absolute master of execution, but technical certainty cannot substitute for a sheer lack of passionateness and strength. A suave style of playing and music calling for little nobility of tone are best suited to this musician. Thus it is that he presented Saint-Saens' "Concerto in B minor" in a smooth, but not convincing manner; while, for the same reason, the Bach "Chaconne" was a distinct disappointment, although slightly redeemed by the beauty of his tone in the D major theme.

All succeeding show numbers afforded pleasure, but without entitling the performer to be regarded as an artist of the first rank. The audience accepted each and all offerings of the program with complaisant equanimity. S. H. L.

♯ ♯ ♯

Mandy.—Miss Elsiemarie Fritz, pupil of Mrs. Frank P. Mandy, played with fine success the "Rondo Capriccioso," Mendelssohn, and "Wedding Day," Grieg," at a musicale in Olivet Church last evening.

BONCI
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR
SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York
Knabe Piano Used

CHRISTINE MILLER
In Europe until Oct. 1, 1913
Address, care of American Express Co., Paris
CONTRALTO
Management HAENSEL & JONES
Aeolian Hall, New York

MR. & MRS. JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS Address 330 West 58th St. NEW YORK CITY

MARIE NARELLE SOPRANO
110 Carnegie Hall, New York

PIANIST BACHAUS
Management Loudon Charlton
BALDWIN PIANO USED

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers
Do you know how a "well placed tone" feels? Do you know the fifteen definite vowel forms? Do you know how all consonants should be produced? How connected? Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled? If you do not know these truths then your diction is inefficient. If you are not happy in your work, call on
KATHERINE SCHUSTER
71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO
Specialist in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

J. S. VAN CLEVE Ph. D.
Concert Pianist, Lecturer & Coach for Singers, Pianists & Composers. Lecture-Recitals a Specialty, given before Lyceums Women's Clubs, Conservatories & special audiences, either in private parlors or schools. For terms address—
Care the Musicians' Club, 62 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Philip SPOONER
AMERICAN TENOR
Exponent of Bel Canto.
J. W. LYMAN, 501 Fifth Av.
NEW YORK

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST

In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.

Address until October, Care Music News, Chicago; after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.

Aberdeen (S. D.) Daily News:

"The sweet tones of his 'cello thrilled every one."

WORCESTER, MASSACHUSETTS

For five performances the Worcester Theater was crowded to see Worcester's musical, histrionic and terpsichorean talent give "The College Hero," under the experienced direction of Wade Davis, who wrote the musical extravaganza in such form as to make possible the inclusion of a small village, perhaps a thousand persons, in the cast and ensemble.

The matinee Monday, October 13, opened the series, and Wednesday night, the 15th, witnessed the fall of the curtain.

During the last performance Mr. Davis was presented a diamond scarf pin by George B. Cutting, as an appreciation by members of the Memorial Charity Club, of the excellent work done in preparation for, and at the production of the extravaganza. The management claim that over 2,000 persons were turned away, owing to lack of seating capacity in the house, and that this was a sufficient number to constitute an audience for another performance.

Three hundred of the performers attended a banquet in the Bancroft Hotel ballroom, between the matinee and the evening production, Wednesday. These were in the costumes and makeups used on the stage, and while the orchestra played the music of "The College Hero," groups gave their special dances and some individual danees were given.

The proceeds of the performance will go to the Memorial Hospital of this city.

THE CAST OF CHARACTERS

Arranged in order of their entrance upon the stage was

Helen, a student at college.....Mrs. Edgar Logan Hill
Elsie, a country girl at college.....Miss Mary Helen Hunt
Jack, Richard's chum ..... Paul Multman
Madam Dashington, Preceptress of the College.....Mrs. J. Fred Donnelly
Richard Fiske, "The College Hero"..... Clifford Harrington
Professor Phiz, whose hobby is chemicals..... Frank Marlowe
Inez Fiske, senator's granddaughter..... Margaret Fitzpatrick
Senator Fiske, from Texas, Richard's father.....George B. Cutting
Campus Cops .....
William R. Fletcher, Herbert M. Buck, Fred E. Richardson, Philip O. Whittle
Captain Murray of the Iowa.....Edmund R. Cummins
Professor Von Kaiser, German Master of the College ..... Charles E. Hitchcock
The Wizard ..... Dr. A. J. Harpin
The Spookus ..... Adela T. King
Queen of the Sprites and Witches.....Olga Forsberg
Mrs. Johnson, an Alumnae .....Florence C. Mellor
Louise, a Rah Rah girl.....Angelina Gauthier
Sorority Duet .....Marion Wood, Alice Flann
Billiken, the college mascot.....Fred W. Bascom
Rosalie, a banjo girl.....Ethel May Sleeper
Indian Princess .....Dorothy McTaggart Miller
Fi-Fi, a Japanese maiden ..... Hazel L. Lynch
Ki-Ki, Fi-Fi's Lover ..... Mr. Leroy Leighton

MUSICAL NUMBERS—ACT I.

Overture, "The College Hero" ..... Orchestra
Opening Chorus, "Hail to the College Girl,"
College Sophs, Graduates, Freshies and Crew
"I Can't Reason This Old Thing Out"
Helen, Elsie, Widows, Bookworms and Students
March of the Cadets
"Morning, Noon and Night".....
.....Richard and College Men
Campus Cops Quartet
Hornpipe ..... Sailors
"We're Sailors of the Iowa".....
.....Captain Murray and Sailors
Dance of the 'Varsity Crew
Dance of the Spooks
March and Minuet
"I am a Man of Mystery".....Wizard and Alumni
"Grandpa" ..... Inez and Alumni
"The College Witch" .....
.....Queen, Sprites, Witches and Imps
Dance of the Sprites, Witches and Imps
Flight of the Sprites, Witches and Imps .....
Finale

MUSICAL NUMBERS—ACT II.

"Rah! Rah! for the College" .....
.....Eta-Bita-Pi and Graba-Hunka-Fudga
"Banjo Serenade".....Rosalie and Banjo Girls
Dance of the Banjo Girls
"Billiken, the College Mascot".....
.....Billiken, Mary Jane Girls and Busters
Dance of the Sorority Girls and Frat Men
"On the Wings of Dreams" .....
.....Madam, Elsie and Basketball Girls
"When You Play on the 'Varsity Team" .....
Von Kaiser, Football Men, Basketball Girls and Tennis Groups
"My Chosen Chief".....Indian Princess and Indians
"Love Is All Sufficient".....Helen and Richard
"The College Hero" ..... Students
"Fi-Fi" .....Fi-Fi, Ki-Ki, Japanese and Geisha Girls
Grand Finale
Pianist—Ruth Barrington
Stage Manager—Clark Mays.

The production reminded one of the dictum of an editor who tells the novice that what appeals to him in the short story is action!

There was something happening all the time from the rise of the curtain to its fall. The opening chorus, with its pretty maidens and their vari-colored costumes, and Helen with her fine figure; its sturdy young men in costumes of the different phases of college life; the cadet scene, with its manual of arms exhibition, very well done! the "jackies" from the Iowa, with their leader, Captain Murry, a veteran of more than one stage production; the campus cops, a quartet with persistent attempts at money extortion from "Senator Fiske," who ran away with equal persistency; the love scene between the senator and "Madam Dashington," a most discreet moment; the Fi-Fi and Ki-Ki duet, one of the best scenes; the banjo girls, with their "ping-a-pang" and graceful movements; the "College Hero," whose claim to that distinction seemed largely based upon breaking college rules, although he saved some lives when he had left the grounds without permission; the Wizard, taken by one of our most prominent basses with that touch of sureness that only stage experience gives; the widows and their solemn faces and black gowns with white trimmings; the bookworms, with trousers too short, and silly facial expressions; the Indian princess, whose song pleased by its naturalness and spirit; "Professor Von Kaiser," another local singer and actor who shows greater histrionic ability than many professionals; "Inez Fiske," a young girl whose singing and acting gave a touch of naivete most welcome to the audienee; "The spookus," who frightens the girls; Professor Phiz, altogether a queer character; "Queen of the Sprites and Witches," a well known figure upon the concert platform; and through the cast to "Billiken," whose portrayal of that inane charaeter was exceptionally conceived and executed, while over all played light effects, charming or fantastic as the moment demanded, and the orchestra enhancing the melee kept the audience constantly wondering what would happen next.

The story, told practically by action, was about a young man at college who, although very popular with his fellows, studied little, and was in danger of expulsion. His father, the senator, was coming to pay him a visit, and he was very anxious that Professor Van Kaiser should not see his father until notice of his success as an author had been received by the Hero.

His friend, Jack, promised to keep the professor and father apart, and in doing this, very ludicrous situations came about. While the college boys and girls were engaged in their work, Professor Phiz thought that he had discovered chemicals that would change old age to youth, and the Wizard enters and declares it will be necessary to have a young person exchange ages with the old one who becomes young. "Inez Fiske" agrees to make this sacrifice, and Professor Van Kaiser becomes a callow youth and she a little old lady. After a time this mystery is found to have been only a dream, which the professor had, and the story ends with the declaration that the senator will marry Madame Dashington, his son has chosen Helen; and Jack, Richard's chum, has found his fate in another nember of the cast.

When one considers that none of the cast makes the stage a vocation, the surprising excellence of each is little short of wonderful. It was the evenly balaneed quality of work by all that made the performances most noteworthy.

"The College Hero" will be produced to aid the babies' hospital in Springfield, Mass.; and in Newark, N. J., for charitable purposes in Syracuse, N. Y.; the Industrial Home for Crippled Children, Pittsburgh, Pa. This will be under the patronage of Senator Flinn's daughter.

It takes about six weeks for Mr. Davis to prepare for a local performance.

* * *

For Effieient Choir Service

The choir of Trinity Methodist Church had a most enjoyable trip to New York City recently, the expense of which was met by the church, as a way of showing its appreciation for the good work and faithful service that the choir has performed.

John T. Russell, tenor and direetor; Mrs. Russell, L. B. Osborne, ehairman of the musie committee, and other church members were with the party.

From Woreester the route led to Albany, N. Y., where the night was passed at the Ten Eyck Hotel; thence in the morning down the Hudson, stopping at West Point and points of interest, reaehing New York City in the late afternoon. The next day was spent looking about the city until 5:30 p. m., when the Fall River boat was taken, en route to Woreester, which was reached Saturday morning, having been away since the previous Wednesday.

The choir gave the "Harvest Cantata," by Garrett, at a Sunday night service a few weeks ago, and is preparing Mendelssohn's "Elijah" for a concert in the early spring.

The personnel of the choir is:

Annie Tibbits, Sarra Northridge, Jennie Cox, Lillian Clowater, Judith Laurin, Violet Moore, Frances Sylvester, Esther Carlson, Pauline Lamson, Marion Clapp, Gladys Haines, Ada Nyquist, Gladys Higgins, Katherine Wallace, Ruth Elis, May Wiley, Olive Bryant, Emily Anderson, Lou Blanchard, Janet Leafe, Barbara Miner, Mildred Steele, Helen Luster, Marion Bartlett, Mildred Duncan, Bertha Pettigrew, Rae Jones, Marguerite Moore, Esther Cleveland, Zelida Betterly, Esther Park, Prescott Kneeland, Roy Northridge, Murray Ewing, Rex Clark, G. N. Burch, James Livingstone, Walter Livingstone, H. Bellaire, Charles Willett, Paul Whittaker, Leon Jones. The solo quartet consists of Miss Isaphine Patterson, soprano; Miss Caroline M. Foster, contralto; John T. Russell, tenor, and Direetor Louis E. Mason, organist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Some Interesting Programs

Some interesting and varied programs taken part in by Miss Mabel Black, daughter of J. W. Black, Doniphan, Neb., composer of the "Inner Voice Waltz," a pleasing study of melody playing in middle parts, and a pupil of the writer, at the Grand Island College Conservatory of Music, Grand Island, Neb., have just been received.

She is a member of the faculty of the conservatory, a pupil of Robert Yale Smith, director of the school, and her programs present works by the masters of composition.

The first was:

Fantasia in C minor ..... Mozart
Miss Black
Aria (from Opera Samson and Delilah) ..Saint-Saens
My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice
Miss Livingston
Miss Schwyn accompanying
Chant sans Paroles, Op. 2, No. 3..... Tschaikowsky
Le Papillon ..... Lavallee
Marche Mignonne, Op. 15, No. 2 ..... Poldini
Valse Brilliante, Op. 34, No. 1 ..... Chopin
Miss Black
A Tale ..... Browning
Miss Hill
Caprice-Valse, Op. 76 ..... Saint-Saens
Miss Black

The second:

Sonata, Op. 14, No. 1 ..... Beethoven
(Allegro, Allegretto, Rondo)
Miss Black
Robin Hood's Farewell ..... Holway Atkinson
Aus Dienen Augen ..... Franz Ries
Mr. Ross
Etude, Op. 25, No. 3..... Chopin
Etude, Op. 25, No. 3 ..... Chopin
Staccato-Caprice ..... Vogrich
Miss Black
Am Rhein und Bein Wein ..... Franz Ries
Mr. Ross
Hungarian Fantasie ..... Liszt
Miss Black
Orcaestra parts on second piano by
Mr. Robert Yale Smith

♮ ♮ ♮

And the last, a piano recital by herself alone, of whieh the press report spoke highly:

Sonata (Moonlight) ..... Beethoven
Adagio sostenuto
Allegretto
Presto Agitato
Nocturne, Op. 27, No. 2 ..... Chopin
Polonaise, Op. 46, No. 12 ..... MacDowell
Carnival Mignon, Op. 48 ..... Schuett
Prelude
Serenade d' Arlequin
Tristesse de Columbine
Pierrot reveur
Caprice-Sganarelle
Concerto B flat minor, Op. 23 ..... Tschaikowsky
Andante non troppo

The President's Own Band

Sunday night, October 12, the United States Marine Band, William H. Santelmann, leader; Walter F. Smith, second leader, with Miss Mary Sherier, soprano, George Frey, euphonium, soloists, and fifty players, gave an exhibition of band playing in Mechanics' Hall, before an audienee of nearly 2,000, that ought to make every American proud that such an organization exists in the country as a part of its governmental forces. The band's members are regularly enlisted men for a four years' term. The band plays five days a week for the marine eorps at Washington, D. C.; rehearses two hours daily, gives concerts during the summer at the White House, leads the marine corps at parade, and is nicknamed the "President's Own Band."

It is now enjoying a furlough of six weeks, which President Wilson granted at the request of representatives and senators, so that concerts might be given in different sections of the country, thus acquainting their constituents with one of the sources that eontributed greatly to enjoyment while they sojourn in Washington.

The band's last appearance in Worcester, before now, was in 1907, during the March blizzard. The storm was so fierce then that Lieutenant Santelmann had to walk to the hall, as no conveyance could be secured. The audience, in spite of the weather, numbered over 200, and it felt repaid for its effort in getting there, by the playing of the band.

At the present concert the encores were continuous and additional numbers lengthened the program.

Miss Sherier sang twice after the "Carmen" aria, "Comin' Thro' the Rye" being her last song.

Mr. Frey surprised by his admirable work on an instrument not too often heard in solo performanee.

"The Lost Chord," with the organ as a foundation to the harmony, played by Walter I. Ingalls, a local organist, and the trombone giving out the first part of the song as a solo, and the trombones of the band adding their voices in the last part aroused so much enthusiasm that it was repeated.

"The Star Spangled Banner" appropriately ended the program.

The concert was given for the building fund of Alhambra Council, Knights of Columbus.

The program:

Overture, "Rienzi" ..... Wagner
Reverie ..... Leybach
Euphonium Solo, "Polka Badine"..... Frey
Mr. Frey
Invitation to the Dance ..... Weber-Weingartner
(Translated for Military Band by W. H. Santelmann)
INTERMISSION
Grand Scenes, The Valkyrie ..... Wagner
Aria from Carmen "Je dis que rien ne m'epouvante" ..... Bizet
Miss Sherier
Oriental Dance "Esotica" ..... Mascagni
Hungarian Rhapsody No. 14 ..... Liszt
The Star Spangled Banner
Special, "Lost Chord"..... Sullivan
Organ, Trombone, Band

♮ ♮ ♮

Concert at the Shrewsbury Public Library

Miss Helen F. Fish, a loeal pianist and teacher, pupil of George M. Morley of Boston, assisted by Madam Estelle Pinckney Clough, a well known soprano of Worcester, and A. Gardner Bonnell in physical har-

4
GREAT AUSTRALIAN TOURS

DAVID BISPHAM — Opening at Sidney May 31, 1913
MADAME LILLIAN NORDICA — Opening at Sydney July 26, 1913
MISCHA ELMAN — Opening at Sydney June, 1914
MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK — Opening at Sydney June, 1915

Under Exclusive Management and Personal Direction of
Frederic Shipman
American Address 3835 Flournoy St., Chicago
Australian Address Hotel Australia, Sydney

BISPHAM
All communications to
Private Address 44 West 44th St.
NEW YORK

mony expression, gave a program in the Shrewsbury Public Library Hall Thursday night, October 16, which presented compositions by Haydn, Arditi; Schubert, Paderewski, Graun, Debussy, Moszkowski, Liza Lehmann, Donizetti, Leschetizky and others.

♮ ♮ ♮

William J. Arkwell, basso cantante of this city and Boston, gave a recital before an audience of Masons in Masonic Hall, Springfield, Mass., Monday night, October 13, and sang with the Nevin mixed quartet of Fitchburg, in Lowell, October 15, and in Wolton October 18.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

———♯♯♯———

TALI ESEN MORGAN

Arrangements have been made to give five oratorio performances in the New York Hippodrome on the last Sunday night of each month, beginning in December with a chorus of not less than twelve hundred voices. The concerts will be under the direction of Tali Esen Morgan, the conductor of the Ocean Grove musical festivals. Mr. Morgan will unite three or four of his regular festival choruses which are accustomed to sing together in the summer time at Ocean Grove. Rehearsals for the Hippodrome concerts will begin this coming week in New York, Brooklyn and Newark. The first rehearsals will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday nights in the Church of the Strangers, Fifty-seventh street and Eighth avenue.

Both Mr. Schubert and Mr. Johnston, the managers, were present at "The Messiah" performance, given by a chorus of seven hundred and fifty voices in the Auditorium at Ocean Grove last August, and so impressed were they with the magnificent singing of the chorus that it was decided then and there to give such concerts as these in the New York Hippodrome. Mr. Johnston is of the opinion that "The Messiah" could be given every Sunday evening to capacity houses during the winter time in the Hippodrome. These monthly concerts are to test out the public feeling on the matter.

The first performance will be "The Messiah," on Sunday evening, December 28, to be followed by Mendelssohn's "Elijah" on Sunday evening, January 25. It is probable that both "The Messiah" and the "Elijah" will be repeated in February and March, and another oratorio to be given at the last concert on Sunday evening, April 26. Singers desiring to join one of Mr. Morgan's choruses are invited to send their names to him at the Hotel McAlpin, New York.

———♯♯♯———

CLARENCE WHITEHILL

Clarence Whitehill, the great Wagnerian basso, will be heard in song recital next Sunday afternoon, October 26, at The Studebaker under the management of F. Wight Neumann. This will be Mr. Whitehill's first recital appearance in Chicago this season.

———♯♯♯———

Burnham.—The offertory at the Memorial Church of Christ on last Sunday evening was sung by Cardon V. Burnham, his number being "Blest Are the Pure in Heart" by Huhn.

LUELLA CHILSON-OHRMAN
SOLOIST AT WORCESTER FESTIVAL SEASON
Address 4603 Sheridan Road

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Sunnyside 8540

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY MURRISON MABEL
Bass-Baritone
Oratorio
Concert
JOINT-RECITALS
Pianist
Accompanist
Alliance Ohio

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL. Mrs. W. S. Bracken, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman
Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

H. W. OWENS, MUS. B.
VOICE BUILDER COACHING
PUPILS PREPARED FOR CHURCH POSITIONS, CONCERTS, ORATORIO
Monday and Saturday—Maller's Bldg., Madison & Wabash
Studio Telephone Harrison 4573
CHICAGO
Friday—2112 Washington Boulevard

Peoria Musical College
102-104 North Madison Avenue
PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT
Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr.
Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING
PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS
Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544
STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker
TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN
ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
4596 OAKENWALD AV.
Phone Drexel 3987

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
6450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5168

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL Phone Harrison 5910

ELLA C. BIGELOW
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
AKRON, OHIO

LESTER S. BUTLER
Voice, Harmony, Counterpoint
SPECIAL WRITER: CRITIC
Editors and others wishing articles on musical topics, gladly served.
Boston, Mass. Steinert Hall Worcester Mass Day Building

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS
SOPRANO
CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS
6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

Katherine Howard Ward
Organist - Pianist - Teacher - Accompanist
917 Wilson Avenue Phone Ravenswood 2152

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. Baritone DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING
American Conservatory
Kimball Hall

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Management - HARRY CULBERTSON

EMIL OBERHOFFER

Minneapolis has long since fallen very decidedly into the opinion that Emil Oberhoffer is the orchestra conductor par excellence, and the same idea has gained ground very rapidly wherever the work of this excellent musician has been heard.

Chicago has reached the stage where a musical season would be entirely incomplete without at least one concert by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra under the Oberhoffer baton, and scores of other cities which have been favored by visits from this fine musician and splendid orchestra have learned to swear by them as the beginning and end of musical benediction.

The program given today at the opening of the season in Minneapolis includes, for the first time in America, the "Festival Prelude" by Richard Strauss, which has created a sensation in Europe and which Mr. Oberhoffer was so fortunate as to secure in advance of all others.

The detailed programs, both for tonight and for next Sunday afternoon follow:

First Evening Concert

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1913
Soloist, Putnam Griswold, Baritone

Symphony No. 5, in E minor, Op. 64 ..... Tschaikowsky
Andante - Allegro con anima
Andante cantabile con alcuna licenza
Valse - Allegro moderato
Finale - Andante maestoso - Allegro - Allegro vivace

Songs for Baritone with Orchestra
"Gruppe aus dem Tartarus" ..... Schubert
"Mit Madeln sich vertragen" ..... Beethoven
*Festival Prelude, for Grand Orchestra and Organ ..... Richard Strauss

INTERMISSION

Hans Sachs' Monologues from "Die Meistersinger" ..... Wagner
"Was duftet doch der Flieder"
"Wahn! Wahn!
Prelude to "Die Meistersinger" ..... Wagner
*First performance in America.

First Popular Sunday Afternoon Concert

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1913, AT 3:30
Soloist, Lucille Stevenson, Soprano

Indian March from "L'Africaine" ..... Meyerbeer
Overture to "Oberon" ..... Weber
Kol Nidrei—Old Hebrew Chant ..... Bruch
Aria, "Ave Maria," from "Cross of Fire" ..... Bruch
Suite, Op. 42, in E flat major (Woodland Sketches) ..... MacDowell
*Prelude to Act II., of "Cyrano" (Cyrano's letter to Roxane) ..... Damrosch
Arioso, "One Fine Day," from "Madam Butterfly," ..... Puccini
Invitation to the Dance ..... Weber-Weingartner
*First time in Minneapolis.

Mr. Oberhoffer spent the entire summer in Europe and besides fulfilling many social obligations he was constantly on the alert to study musical conditions across the water. A few salient thoughts are expressed by him in the following interview, which is copied from the Minneapolis Journal:

"Freedom of thought is getting less and less continually in Europe, while the people are burdened with ever-increasing taxation for militarism," declared Emil Oberhoffer, director of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, today, on his return with his wife from spending the summer abroad.

"'I am glad to be back,' he said. 'Every time I have been across the water, I return more thoroughly happy at the thought of being an American citizen. Europe is fine for trips of study and recreation, but give me America to live in, where there is air and sunshine and space to move around in, and freedom of movement and opinion.

Leave Thinking to Others

"'It seems to me that the faculty of free deliberation is getting smaller right along over there. People do not think; they do not take the liberty to think, leaving all that to the class just above them, or to the few above all classes. Also, the spirit of militarism is everywhere on the increase; and so, in proportion, the burden of taxation. People are taxed for everything, and heavily at that. If there are some individuals who make their living, or part of it, from American sources of income, they have to furnish sworn statements of all they make, and are taxed accordingly. Switzerland is about the only country where officialdom and taxdom do not make life a burden to all.

"'We were in Switzerland, staying there a long while and seeing all the places of interest, climbing the Pilatus, the Rigi and what not, traveling back and forth on mountain railroads and electric lines. If anywhere in this world one gets his money's worth, it is traveling on the Swiss railways, except those climbing up the mountains, on which fares are exorbitant. Switzerland is beautiful and her traditions fascinating, but I found many famous sights rather limited as to scope and impression as compared with what we have seen in the American west, particularly in the Selkirks and the Cascades. With the sole exception of the immense snowfields and chain of glacier mountains called Mont Blanc, there is nothing in all Switzerland that we have not on a grander scale in America.

Berlin Capital of Music

"'Most of our young students of music, science or the arts betake themselves to Berlin nowadays, in preference to the smaller centers of ofttimes greater traditions. And right they are, for Berlin is not only politically and commercially the capital of Germany, but in every other respect as well. The glamour of the glory of names like Mendelssohn, Liszt or Wagner, to take a few musical illustrations only, cannot continue to make a small city a center of culture in competition with such a giant as Berlin.

"'The most perfect operatic productions I have ever seen are those at the Royal Opera of Dresden. Artists, scenery and orchestra are all attuned to an ensemble of soothing harmony. Schuch conducts his orchestra of 145 with such superior skill that although the orchestra pit is not screened or vaulted, every note and every word of the singers can be distinctly heard. And, besides, the prices are moderate, while in Munich the opera seats in the summer

The Piano Pedals By Mrs. A. M. Virgil. Clear, Concise, Melodious, Results unequaled. Price $1.00 Sale unparallelel. Your Dealer or The Virgil Piano School Co. 42 W. 76th St., New York time sell at prices that prove that the system of preying upon tourists is there developed into a science.

"'Munich is one of the most beautiful of cities and is musically at high tide during all seasons of the year. There is a chance to hear everything new in music, if ever so atrocious. I really believe that from listening to so much freakish and outlandish music, the people of Munich have quite lost their bearings. They no longer know what is beautiful and what is not.

♮ ♮ ♮

Ideas of America Crude

"'The conceptions held of America over there are still ridiculously antiquated. It seems as if they had read of America only what Dickens said and they seem to think that there has been no cultural development in these last fifty years. Of our avalanche of cultural progress in this country they know nothing at all.

"'They have little sunshine, few clear days during their short and uncertain summers, but they have a spirit of sacrifice for cultural ends just as we have. The perfect opera in Dresden causes yearly colossal deficits, but they are paid quietly, without a murmur, out of the royal treasury of Saxony, last year the neat sum of 800,000 marks or a little more.

"'For the coming season I have a good many new things, and I believe that what I have selected is all sound, sane and beautiful music, for such is yet to be had over there if one takes time to look for it.'"

———♯♯♯———

MINNEAPOLIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra of eighty-five musicians, Emil Oberhoffer, conductor, will give its annual Chicago Concert Sunday afternoon, February 22, in Orchestra Hall under the management of Carl D. Kinsey.

———♯♯♯———

Henry.—Miss Clara Rubey, whose playing last week for the opening concert of the Amateur Musical Club aroused so much enthusiasm and was favorably commented upon by this paper, is a member of the artists' class of Mr. Henry.

♮ ♮ ♮

Barron.—Further dates for Robert Louis Barron, violinist, are these: During the balance of October, Ogden, Salt Lake City, Utah; Rock Springs, Wheatland, Cheyenne, Wyoming; Windsor, Eaton, Ft. Collins, Loveland, Brush, Wray and Ft. Morgan, Colorado.

♮ ♮ ♮

Cooley.—Sydnie Smith Cooley, the young contralto, has filled the following concert engagements this season: Royal Arch Masons, Grand Crossing; opening day of the Allied Druggist Wives' Club, in the Crystal room, Sherman House; St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church and the Berwyn Club.

♮ ♮ ♮

Koelling.—Mme. Helen Koelling, soprano, will give a song recital Sunday afternoon, November 16, at the Illinois Theater, under the management of Carl D. Kinsey.

People & Events

CAROLYN HARDING BEEBE, PIANIST

For the past ten years, that is, ever since her pronounced successful Berlin debut, Carolyn Harding Beebe has been before the musical public as a pianist of rank, especially in the field of ensemble work, the excellence of which was noted as far back as 1900, when she appeared at Mendelssohn Hall, New York, as assisting pianist with a string quartet playing Schumann's celebrated quintet. Miss Beebe has performed largely at various ensemble functions, drawing room affairs, musical clubs and concerts, at all of which she has shown her mastery of the instrument as well as her ability to interpret the highest grade of music.

Miss Beebe is a natural musician,—one of those who has received the divine gift. At the early age of three years she was able to read music. "I never knew how I did it," said she, "as I never had been taught. One day, when I was about three years old, I was standing at the organ pumping with one foot and reading Fabian, a piece of five flats, when my father came in and asked me how I did it. I was just about to cry, as I supposed I had done something naughty, when he reassured me and I kept on playing. My musical instruction began several years later, at the age of twelve, with my aunt. Then I studied with Joseph Mosenthal until his death, and later with Paul Tidden, Moritz Moszkowski and Harold Bauer, under whom I developed still further the qualities which since have attracted such wide recognition."

One of the most important musical announcements of the season is that of the concerts to be given by the Longy, New York Modern Chamber Society at Aeolian Hall on Saturday evenings, November 8, December 6, January 10, February 21 and March 21, and for which Carolyn Beebe has been engaged as associate artist. The project for the founding of the new concerts was due to the apparent need in New York City for chamber music of a class and style not heretofore provided for. As is well known, there exists in all branches of modern chamber music, a large number of works that have never been heard because of the peculiar combinations of in-

Father Finn is doubtless the most distinguished Musician of the Catholic Church in America

His recommendation of the Conover Piano is as enthusiastic as it is sincere

FATHER WILLIAM J. FINN

Says of the

CONOVER PIANO:

The Cable Company, Chicago
Gentlemen: I take great pleasure in attesting the splendid merits of the Conover piano which has recently been installed in my choir hall.
You can appreciate how important it is for my choristers to rehearse to a cantabile tone. The sustaining singing tone quality of the Conover is perfectly suited to the unusual demands which we make on a piano. After a few rehearsals with the Conover I began to notice the freedom of vocalization which it assists. Candidly, I am delighted with the choice we have made. Incidentally, your Conover graces any room. Very sincerely yours,

March 3, 1913. William Joseph Finn C.S.C.
DIRECTOR, PAULIST CHORISTERS of CHICAGO.

The Cable Company
Wabash and Jackson MAKERS CHICAGO

MYRTLE Elvyn RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE

Kimball Piano Used — Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914

Concert Direction M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av. New York

TITTA RUFFO'S master, LELIO CASINI, recommends

HAMILTON HOPKINS

[CASINI'S Assistant for 4 Years in Milan]

710 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM

"A Ladder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys .50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice .50
Beatitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50
At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS

VIOLINIST

WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST 106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

ALBERT SPALDING

European Tour Season 1912-13

Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris

Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT

SOPRANO Phone Austin 12717 — CONCERTS — ORATORIO — RECITALS 5943 OHIO STREET

MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT

WILLIAM HINSHAW

BARITONE

Of the Metropolitan Opera Company Management: R. E. JOHNSTON, 1451 Broadway, New York

Iva Bigelow Weaver SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals

Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Jennie F. W. Johnson Contralto

American Conservatory and 4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work. May Mansfield PARIS STUDIOS: 27 rue Boisleven Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET

BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER VIOLINIST

KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory 207-211 South Main St. South Bend, Ind.

A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers

Publishers of THE LARK Aak for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN AMERICAN COMPOSER

In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals. Recitals of His Compositions. Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs.

WITH R. E. JOHNSTON OF NEW YORK SEASON 1912-1913

struments called for, and have little chance of being heard because the existing organizations are not equipped to give them. In addition to this, the difficulty of assembling artists capable of executing such music amounts almost to an impossibility.

CAROLYN HARDING BEEBE

With the object of supplying this deficiency in the chamber music world, Georges Longy, the first oboeist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, officer d'Academie and officer de l' Instruction Publique, has organized an ensemble consisting of twenty members from that orchestra and placed himself at the head of this movement in favor of neglected works worthy of public performance, with the added purpose of subsequently organizing similar series of concerts in other cities where the Boston Symphony Orchestra appears. On account of Mr. Longy's relations with that organization, he is able to bring together artists of the first rank accustomed to working together and who may be depended upon to give interpretations of the highest order. Mr. Longy has been in Europe all summer, arranging his programs, which will present works never before heard in this country and written for instrumental combinations new to the musical public. In giving these concerts the society enters an entire new field, and their efforts will undoubtedly be adequately rewarded.

As some of the works called for an assisting pianist, Miss Beebe has been engaged, and her artistic ability and experience will ensure the performance of her duties in a manner that will prove worthy of the confidence placed in her by the management.

###

FREDERIK FREDERIKSEN

Mr. Frederiksen has joined the faculty of the Wisconsin School of Music at Madison and will teach in that institution two days out of each week hereafter.

On October 12, at the Woman's Building, Mr. Frederiksen gave the following program, assisted by members of the Theodore Thomas Orchestra and Mrs. Frederiksen:

Overture to "Fingal's Cave" ..... Mendelssohn
Violin solo, Elegie Op. 48 ..... Sauret
Harry Podalsky

Peer Gynt Suite ..... Grieg
Morning
Ase's Death
Anitra's Dance
In the Hall of the Mountain King
Violin duet, Suite ..... Moszkowski
Miss Olive Woodward and Miss Pearl Hinkel
Two Swedish Melodies for Strings—
Orchestra ..... Svendsen
Valse Triste ..... Sibelius
Intermezzo to 3rd Act "The Jewels of the Madonna" ..... Wolf-Ferrari
Violin Concerto Op. 22 II minor ..... Wieniawski
(First movement)
Miss Pearl Hinkel
Norwegian Suite ..... Ludwig Schytte
Peasant Dance
Eventide
Rhapsodie

THOMAS McGRANAHAN

On last Sunday evening Mr. McGranahan sang with the Paulist Choir at Janesville, Wis., with very great effect.

THOMAS J. McGRANAHAN

Also, in connection with Mrs. Frank Farnum he fulfilled a most successful vaudeville engagement the latter half of the week at the Kedzie.

A few of Mr. McGranahan's fine notices, given during his summer tour of the West and the Pacific Coast, are here appended:

Mr. Thomas McGranahan has an exceedingly pleasing tenor voice, and his selections won great favor with the audience.—Idaho Statesman, Boise, Idaho.

Mr. Thomas McGranahan, the tenor singer with the quartet, possesses a beautiful and powerful tenor voice, and his singing is one of the features of the program rendered by the Chicagoans.—Albany (Ore.) Herald.

The tenor, Mr. Thomas McGranahan, though a younger singer than the other members of the quartet, held his own with the other people, a wonderfully sympathetic lyric tenor voice, delightful personality, splendid interpretation, and a beautifully placed and resonant tone are Mr. McGranahan's chief assets.—Capital News, Boise, Idaho.

The Boise Choral Society scored another triumph in its production of Handel's "Messiah" last evening. Mr. McGranahan's voice showed the great beauty of the tenor score of Handel's masterpiece.—Idaho Statesman.

(Advertisement.)

THE TEYTE PROGRAM

The program given by Maggie Teyte at Orchestra Hall last Sunday was as follows:

Caro mio ben ..... Giordani
La Colomba ..... K. Schindler
Invocazione a Venere ..... Parelli
Air de Louise, Depuis le jour ..... Charpentier
C'est l'extase langoureuse
Fantoches
Romance
Femmes de Paris } ..... Debussy
Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal
Im Kahne ..... Grieg
Mifanwy ..... Strauss
Heimliche Aufforderung ..... Strauss
Ich grolle nicht ..... Schumann
Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes ..... Old English
Ferry Me ..... Homer
Her Rose ..... Coombes
An Open Secret ..... Woodman

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER

Marjorie Dodge Warner has been soprano soloist at the Temple Beth-El during the holiday services. Was soloist at Dr. Hemington's organ recital at the Church of the Epiphany. October 20; concert at Wheaton, October 21, and concert at Campbell Park Presbyterian Church, October 24.

JENNY DUFAU IN NEW YORK

Readers of the Music News were made acquainted last week with the charming program prepared by Jenny Dufau for her New York debut on October 19, at Carnegie Hall, and all the musicians of her adopted city (Chicago) will be glad to know that the success of this recital was a very marked one.

The New York World in its Monday edition spoke in glowing terms of the clarity and flexibility of her voice and commented warmly on her animation and the grace with which she appeared before her large audience.

JENNY DUFAU

All the papers agree that she received an ovation and that she deserved it. Her voice is crystal-clear, as all who have heard her at the Auditorium in Chicago in opera can testify, and also in recital it shows infinite variety of color, and the singer has such absolute control of her varied resources that she is able to create a great variety of moods and impressions.

STEINDEL ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Violinist Brokaw Power-Meyer Conservatory WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

SADIE WALKER
University Studios 5828 Woodlawn Av. VIOLINIST Exclusive M'g't Harry Culbertson

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

DEWITT DURGIN
TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg

COLLINS J. BROCK
Basso-Cantante
EUDORA MOODY
SOPRANO Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

MARY ANN KAUFMAN
SOPRANO
Edgewater 8519 4433 Racine Av., CHICAGO, ILL.

Grant Tenor KIMBELL
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

Edith V. Rann TEACHE OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

ELLA L. MILLS
PIANIST
American Conservatory and
117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

JOHN R. RANKL
Bass-Baritone
PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING Phone Harrison 6880

SOFIA
STEPHALI
COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

HANS HESS
CELLIST
American Conservatory
Telephone Lincoln 7917

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM
SOPRANO COMPOSER
Phone Harrison 6880 608 FINE ARTS BUILDING Accompanist

Louise George
Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Preiser Violin School
STUDIOS
530 N. Pine Av., Austin
5407 S. Halsted St. and
2831 Washington Boul.
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director Phone Austin 4043

CONCERTS
RECITALS
ORATORIOS
OSCAR SEAGLE
17 Avenue Mozart
Paris (France)
BARITONE
American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER In Paris all Summer 119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR DRAMATIC
SOPRANO
RECITALS
CONCERTS
HAZZARD-PEOCOCK
FRANCE ENGLAND
GERMANY
Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London

WHITEHILL
BARITONE
Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

LOUISE BURTON
SOPRANO 520 Fine Arts Bldg Phone Drexel 8183

MR.
TENOR
MRS.
DRAMATIC READER
Karl Buren Stein
JOINT RECITALS
55 Auditorium Bldg.
TEACHERS of SINGING
ELOCUTION
ACTING

Esther Plumb
CONTRALTO
4173 Lake Avenue
Phone Oakland 3246
Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson
Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago.Ill

WALTER DIEDERICH TENOR
TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

HELEN GALLUP
Pianist Accompanist
Address
Chicago Piano College

Her program was considered in New York a master work of variety and contrast, and she was obliged to lengthen it by the addition of four encores.

The program in full read as follows:

Das Veilchen	Mozart
Standchen	Strauss
Elfenlied	Wolf
Aria from "Lucia di Lammermoor"	Donizetti
Le Violette	Scarlatti
Odorava L'April	Parelli
Amore Amor	Trindelli
Viens, mon bien aime	Chaminade
Dites, que faut-il faire?	Air du XVIII-Siecle
Indian Bell Song from "Lakme"	Delibes
An Irish Folk Song	Arthur Foote
Marian	Kurt Schindler
Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark	H. Bishop

MARION, IND.

A harp and violin program was given by Mildred and Charlene Dilling at the Congregational Church in Marion last week, which was commended in highest terms by the local press. The program was as follows:

Gavotte	Bach
Nocturne	Hasselmans
Am Springbrunnen	Zabel
Le Cygne	Saint-Saens
Swing Song	Barns
Cradle Song	MacDowell
To a Wild Rose	MacDowell
Feerie	Tournier
Fantasia Appassionata	Vieuxtemps
Priere	Hasselmans
Follets	Hasselmans
Chaconne	Durand
Impromptu Caprice	Pierne

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER

Mme. Sturkow-Ryder played at Pittsburgh last week and was re-engaged for March. In November she will appear before the Thursday Club of Minneapolis. Following is a program she gave at the Academy of Fine Arts on last Sunday:

Prelude and Fugue	Arthur Foote
Etude for left hand alone	Arthur Foote
The Deserted Sands	Rhene-Baton
Spinning Girls of Carantec	Rhene-Baton
Invitation to the Dance	Von Webber-Tausig
Impromptu	Schubert
March, Op. 40	Schubert

Arranged by Theodora Sturkow-Ryder

LEONORA ALLEN

Miss Leonora Allen, soprano at the First Presbyterian Church in Oak Park. and very popular as a concert singer, has many engagements for the near future, among which may be mentioned the following:

October 28, Danville, Ill., with the Chicago Operatic Quartet; November 13, Lake Geneva; November 18, before the Milwaukee Athletic Club.

Also during November an engagement at South Bend and a little later an appearance in St. Louis, and a two weeks' concert tour in the South.

From Miss Allen's very handsome new circular the following information is gleaned:

Leonora Antoinette Allen is a young American artist with extensive experience, both in the concert and operatic field. She possesses a voice of beautiful quality and of unusual range and flexibility, enabling her to render equally well an aria from any of the operas and the simpler forms of song. She has coached with Herman Devries for opera and with Genevieve Clark Wilson in oratorio, and is just closing a most successful season as the soprano in the Chicago Operatic Quartet. Miss Allen has also been engaged as soloist with the Chicago Apollo Club for the ensuing season. While she is available for concert, recital and oratorio, Miss Allen has made a special study of the folk songs of all nations and has prepared as a special feature, a most novel and instructive program, weaving bits of interesting folklore with these folk songs, all to be presented in costume. Miss Allen has had several flattering offers to appear in opera but has chosen the concert field as her work in which she has a most brilliant future, possessing as she does, not only the voice and musicianship but a most charming and winning personality.

SOUTH BEND, IND.

The artist course of concerts under direction of Milton B. Griffith will be given at the Oliver Theater as follows:

November 10—Richard Czerwonky, Mable Corlew-Smidt and Max Wald.

November 21—Charles Wakefield Cadman, Hal Van Aiken, Hans Roeder and Milton B. Griffith.

December 16—Jennie F. W. Johnson, Grant Kimbell and Clarence Eidam.

January 19—Lucille Stevenson and Marion Green.

March 2—The Steindel Trio.

ANNA TOMLINSON

Miss Tomlinson, who teaches both in Berwyn and Chicago, and who has just been appointed a representative of the Effa Ellis system of key board harmony in Chicago and vicinity, gave a fine program with her pupils at the Berwyn M. E. Church on last Thursday evening.

LA GRANGE

A large and enthusiastic audience pronounced the "Golden Threshold," Liza Lehman's melodious cycle, given in La Grange Thursday, October 16, the best thing of its kind ever given there. The singers were Orpha Holstman, soprano; Barbara Wait, contralto; Albert Lindquest, tenor; Marion Green, basso, with Phelps Cowan accompanist.

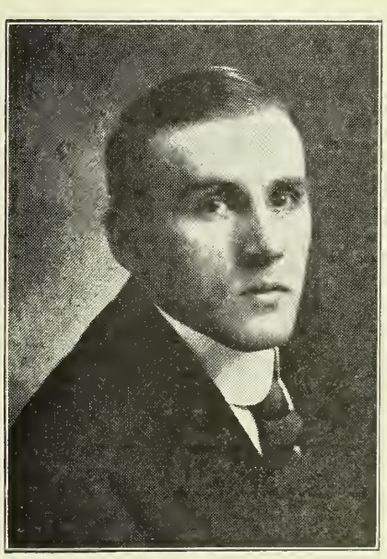
BARBARA WAIT

The exceptionally smooth and well-balanced ensemble work, with the no less brilliant solo performances almost resulted in a double performance of the work so insistent was the applause of the audience after each number.

Each of the solo parts except the alto affords opportunities for the singer to display considerable vocal art, and it is hardly necessary to say that Mrs. Holstman, Mr. Lindquest and Mr. Green made the most of them.

Miss Wait so distinguished the meager allotment of solos to the contralto by her superb singing, to quote a La Grange paper, that the limitations of the score were effectually disguised.

Mr. Cowan provided good accompaniments, although obviously hampered by a poor piano.



PHELPS COWAN

Artists now Booking
Season 1913-14 and 1914-15

LECTURE PIANO RECITAL
EMIL LIEBLING
PIANIST
SARAH SUTTEL
SONG—PIANO RECITAL
CHRIS ANDERSON Baritone — EDWIN SCHNEIDER Composer-Pianist
(After January 1)
BASSO—BARITONE
ARTHUR MIDDLETON
WILLIAM BEARD
SOPRANOS
MABEL SHARP HERDIEN
ALICE CORY
LOUISE BURTON
ELVA A. CHRYSLER
MAYBEL SMYLIE
TENOR
JOHN B. MILLER
CONTRALTOS
LOUISE HARRISON SLADE
HARRIET JANE MAC CONNELL
SONATA RECITALS
HERBERT BUTLER, Violin
ALICE DRAKE BUTLER, Piano
VIOLIN
LACEY COE
'CELLO
FRANZ WAGNER
IMPERIAL MALE QUARTET
LECTURER
MRS. HENRY S. JAFFRAY

Personal Direction
Willis E. Mayne
934 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO

Valparaiso Music College
Department of
Valparaiso University
Second Largest University in the United States
VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks. This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President
OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER
SOLO VIOLINIST
Welsh International Festival
MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE
SOPRANO
Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils
5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN
PIANIST
8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE
CONTRALTO
Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL
TEACHER OF SINGING
STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON
BASSO-CANTANTE
Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency
416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496
Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers
VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION
METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE
Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL
The Art of Singing
81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday
Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD VIOLINIST LOEBER TEACHER RECITALS Musicales
3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA Contralto WAIT
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

Theaters

THE YELLOW JACKET

If this writer could have his way, every theatergoer in Chicago would see "The Yellow Jacket" at the Fine Arts Theater before that play departs this scene, even though it took a decade of years to accomplish the purpose. For, the seeing of this dainty conceit, even once, is sufficient to give a new outlook on the stage, and its people and the taste engendered by it are such that the ordinary namby-pamby musical comedy and every other sort of inanity would very soon lose all potency with those so inoculated.

It is impossible to tell in a short notice even what may be the character or the presentment of this wonderful play, but it may be said in all seriousness that it is different from every other play ever seen in Chicago, and by the same token it is vastly superior in entertaining power to the vast majority of them. Purporting to be a real Chinese play, given in the real Chinese way, it yet includes such a wealth of fancy and so much of eloquent proverb as to make it worth while for any one to study it through many hearings.

♯ ♯ ♯

AT THE MAJESTIC

Seldom indeed is a bill presented in any vaudeville theater which is so absolutely clean and so fully diverting as that on view at the Majestic last week. Charles Ross and Mabel Fenton is a travesty were simply irresistible, and "The Three Bohemians" were distinctly good musicians to say nothing of a pleasant little operetta and some very expert balancing.

The chief musical joy of the bill, however, was the appearance of Lola May Buckingham, a Chicago soprano, who at this time made her debut on the vaudeville stage.

Miss Buckingham has a fine voice and excellent musicianship, and in her new environment she pretended to do nothing else than to sing her three songs in absolutely legitimate style. These were the "Banjo Song" of Homer, "Musetta's Waltz Song" from "La Boheme" and Woodman's "Birthday." This made admirable contrast and variety and all of the songs were well done; if a choice should be made as to "best" it would fall upon the Woodman Song which was not only sung exceptionally but for which a delightful orchestra accompaniment was provided.

♯ ♯ ♯

HOWARD'S THEATER

A few moments of the "Broadway Honeymoon" the other evening, were enough to show that this attraction has many things to make for popularity.

The story is at least cohesive, the dressing is admirable and the funning is constant and mostly new.

The company has been splendidly chosen and every part is well done. The chief burden, however, is carried by the capable Emma Carus, and this whole-souled funmaker is right in her element and provokes hilarity at her every appearance.

BRIEFER FORM

Hinshaw.—Mr. John Arno Hinshaw, manager of the Hinshaw Conservatory, reports a larger enrollment of pupils coming from other towns and states than ever before, and while the season is advanced past the time when the largest enrollment is made, yet new students from a distance are coming in each week. Arriving this week were Mr. Helmer Johnson of Wisconsin, Marie Barber from Kentucky, Miss Georgia Carlson and Miss Fannie Oppenheimer from Pennsylvania, and Mrs. B. Redlick from New York City. Mrs. Redlick has studied several years in New York City and was advised by Mr. Hunt, a well known New York tenor, to complete her training under Mr. Marvin Hinshaw.

♮ ♮ ♮

Baltimore.—The Chicago Grand Opera company will give a series of seven performances at the Lyric in Baltimore, on Friday nights, November 7, 14 and 21, and February 6, 13, 20 and 27. One of the items of interest in this engagement will be the appearance of Titta Ruffo, who has never been heard in Baltimore.

♮ ♮ ♮

Burdick.—Miss Sara Burdick, who spent the summer in the east, re-opened her studio at 727 Fine Arts Building, on October 1, with a fine enrollment of pupils. She has been singing as substitute at the Second Baptist Church recently and on last Sunday afternoon was engaged for a special memorial service, which was held by the Illinois Press Club in honor of a former president at the La Salle Hotel. Also last week she appeared in a private musicale in Evanston.

♮ ♮ ♮

Hopkins.—Miss Jessie Lynde Hopkins appeared in Pullman on October 16 in connection with Dr. William Carver Williams, and among other songs gave William Lester's "Rockabye Town" (dedicated to her) with great success. On last Sunday evening Miss Hopkins gave a song recital at the People's Church in Aurora and sang at the West High School in the same city on Monday.

♮ ♮ ♮

Beebe.—Mr. Chester H. Beebe gave a free organ recital on the splendid organ at the Janes M. E. Church in Brooklyn on October 25. Two unusual numbers were a sonata (Op. 40) by Rene L. Becker and the Faulkes transcription on "Ein Feste Burg."

♮ ♮ ♮

Frysinger.—On last Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian Church in Lincoln, Neb., the "Traumlied" of Mr. J. Frank Frysinger was played as the opening prelude.

♮ ♮ ♮

LaBerge.—Charles LaBerge, baritone, will give a program at the Ravenswood Woman's Club Monday, October 27.

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
504 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 7931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

HAZEL EVERINGHAM
Pianist Accompanist Teacher Ensemble
Address 1251 N. State St. REDPATH BUREAU

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL. CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL. CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
Teacher of Singing
309 KIMBALL HALL
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Hope-Jones.—Music News acknowledges an invitation to dinner at the Pitt Theater in Pittsburgh on tomorrow (Saturday) evening. After the dinner a demonstration will be given of the new Hope-Jones unit and orchestral organ, which has just been installed in the theater. This concert will be at 11 p. m., and is exclusively for newspaper men and the musicians of Pittsburgh.

♮ ♮ ♮

Bayreuth.—After a lapse of two years the Wagner Festival will be resumed at Bayreuth in the summer of 1914. It is understood that Charles Dalmores, the distinguished tenor of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, has been called by Frau Cosima Wagner to appear in "Parsifal" in July.

♮ ♮ ♮

Geneseo, Ill.—A recital was given by the Faculty of the Geneseo Collegiate Institute on last Thursday evening, which was of much worth as to program. Those taking part were Mr. and Mrs. George E. Turner and Mrs. H. J. Ruckner, a very large part of the program being devoted to compositions by Mr. Turner.

♮ ♮ ♮

Walker.—The national convention of the Universalist Church is being held in Chicago this week, and at the last and largest meeting of the convention, next Sunday evening, Edward Walker will sing "Cujus Animam" from Rossinni's "Stabat Mater."

♮ ♮ ♮

Mount Pleasant.—At Mt. Pleasant, Mich., on last Wednesday evening at the Central State Normal School, a concert was given by Mabelle G. Wright, piano; Alberta Park, soprano; Cyril Davis, violin, and William E. Rauch, baritone.

♮ ♮ ♮

Hillebrand.—Miss Katherine Hillebrand, soprano, and Miss Sigrid Jensen, violinist, appeared before the Woman's Club at the La Salle Hotel last week. Miss Hillebrand sang Arditi's "Se Seran Rose" and numbers by Leoni, Del Aqua and Dvorak.

♮ ♮ ♮

Congress Hotel.—In the Florentine room of the Congress Hotel, on Tuesday afternoon a lecture and program of music was given for the Women's Association of Commerce. Margaret Lester sang two groups of songs to the accompaniment of William Lester.

♮ ♮ ♮

Lutton.—Mr. Charles E. Lutton sang at the North Park College reception to new students, October 17. Mr. Lutton is to sing at the Oakland M. E. Church Thursday, October 23.

♮ ♮ ♮

Votaw.—Miss Lyravine Votaw sang the offertory solo at the Woodlawn Park Presbyterian Church last Sunday night, her number being "He Shall Feed His Flock" from "The Messiah."

CHURCHES

(Continued from page 10)

CALIFORNIA AVENUE CONGREGATIONAL

The pipe organ at California Avenue Congregational Church responded to every wish and thought of the organist last Sunday evening while Miss Myrtle E. Mattison furnished her audience with an organ concert seldom equaled in church musical services. Not only was her work thoroughly appreciated by the congregation, but the inspiration given the choir was a tremendous help to them in rendering one of the best musical services ever given by this well trained body of vocalists.

The program included: Prelude. (a) "Noel" from "Coming of the King;" (b) "Sunshine and Shadow;" (c) "Triumphal March." The chorus was excellent. All attacks made with military precision and full firm voices that showed the confidence each member had in his or her own voice.

Miss Ruby Saaf, soprano, did the real solo work of the evening. Her voice is of a very fine quality and is daily gaining in richness. She rendered "My Redeemer and My Lord" with ease and dignity. Her fine articulation adds much to the value of her singing.

Mr. Charles Schelter, tenor, did the best work it has been his auditors' pleasure to hear from him for a long time. His voice was clear, steady and confident.

Mr. Charles Alden, baritone, rendered his parts in the same pleasing manner that his audience has become accustomed to expect.

The church can well be proud of this well selected body of young musical artists and the choir shows its appreciation of its director's instruction by ready response and loyal service.

The whole service (which was a Dudley Buck memorial), reflected great credit upon the director, Mr. Milon R. Harris.

FRANK A. ALDEN.

ST. PAUL'S NORWEGIAN LUTHERAN CHURCH

On Sunday evening, October 26, the following program will be given under the direction of Miss Ora A. Johnson, organist and director:

Organ—
Prelude from Sonata in C minor.....Guilmant
At Twilight.....Nevin
March Pontificale.....Widor
Hymn 194
Anthem, Jehovah Reigns.....Mendelssohn
Gloria and Apostles' Creed
Duet, Glory to Thee My God.....Gounod
Miss Elsie Rasmussen and Emily Peterson
Anthem, Comes at Times a Stillness.....Woodward
Tenor solo, Still, Still with Thee.....Schnecker
Mr. Robert Rasmussen
Hymn 212
Hymn 290
Offertory anthem, Savior When Night Involves the Sky.....Shelley
Postlude, Military March.....Schubert

CHICAGO

(Continued from page 8)

most glorious of works for the piano—seemed to fit Mr. Silber's gifts to perfection, and he was able to disclose through it to his audience a great story—tragedy, pathos, occasional hopefulness, sometimes utter dejection. All this is contained in the Sonata, and all of it, with infinite variety in nuance was presented by Mr. Silber.

Chopin, the incomparable composer for the piano, was chosen for the next group, and in this choice Mr. Silber showed his wisdom, for not only does the average concert goer insist upon his Chopin, but also it happens that Mr. Silber's gifts fit the Polish writer excellently. The "Barcarolle," "Nocturne" (D flat), "Waltz" (A flat), and "Scherzo" (B minor), were all played admirably, and each was accepted gratefully by the audience.

(Continued on next page)

GEORGE W. MUNRO
Voice Specialist
Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.
Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.
Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.
Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago
The University School of Music offers courses in Piano, Organ, Violin, Voice and Theory of Music leading to academic degrees. Also courses in Public School Music, and Piano and Voice Pedagogy. Literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Evanston Academy included without extra cost. Thorough Preparatory School maintained. Refined social environment and beautiful situation on the wooded shores of Lake Michigan.
The professional String Quartet, the student Symphony Orchestra of sixty, the A Cappella Choir, the Evanston Musical Club, and the great North Shore Musical Festivals with choruses totaling over 2,000 voices offer unparalleled practical advantages.
Send for detailed description of courses and book of Evanston views.
Peter Christian Lutkin, Dean
Evanston, Illinois

Anna Groff - Bryant
Studios of Vocal Art
Ethel Bell Reeves Assistant
606 Fine Arts Building Chicago, Ill.
Phone Wabash 1051

Chicago Concert Trio
ALBERT E. FOX, Piano WILLIAM HOFMAN, Violin
MARJORIE DODGE WARNER, Soprano
Management CHARLES E. WATT Kimball Hall

MARY CROFUT GIBBS
Oratorio Mezzo-Contralto Concert Recital
404 Kimball Hall

Chicago Piano College
(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

(Advertisements under this head will hereafter be accepted at 20 cents a line.)

FOR SALE—Concert grand piano; genuine Henry F. Miller, Boston; eight feet ten inches long; unusually beautiful instrument; suitable for hall, school or large drawing room; bring expert musician to test it; owner going away; $250 cash. Address Music News.

FOR RENT—A few good teaching hours; 516 Kimball Hall.

TO RENT—Kimball Hall Studio; Tuesday, and Wednesday and Saturday a. m. Address Music News.

TIME TO RENT—In large studio in Fine Arts Bldg. Address W. D. Music News.

CONCERT ANNOUNCEMENTS

(Under this heading Music News will hereafter print advertisements of Concerts at the rate of 20c a line, minimum, 5 lines.)

CONCERT—Campbell Park Presbyterian Church, Leavitt St. and Campbell Park, Friday evening, Oct. 24, 8:15. The Chicago Concert Trio. Tickets at the door.

Warren.—Helen Axe Brown, soprano, is the soloist with the Mineapolis Symphony Orchestra, Minneapolis, Sunday afternoon, February 15. Miss Brown is under the exclusive management of Fannie E. Warren.

RENE S.

LUND

Baritone

Song Recitals Concert

All inquiries and bookings personally attended to by Mr. Lund. Circulars mailed on request.

2453 W. Monroe St., Chicago Tel. Seeley 5602

Arthur P. Thomas

CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER

Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

Wm. Clare Hall

Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Elias Bredin

TENOR

NINTH FLOOR, AUDITORIUM BUILDING

Hazel Dell Neff

SOPRANO

PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN

PIANIST TEACHER

NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and

4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.

COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing

Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin

Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN

SOPRANO

Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital

429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

The next four numbers were decidedly novel, and they were as distinct in their interpretations as they were in initial content. Hugo Kaun's "Praeludium" in A flat, is a thoughtful, energetic creation; the "Scherzo" in E Flat by MacFayden (dedicated to Sidney Silber) is extremely characteristic, and the "Tintements de Clochettes" by Raoul Pugno proved to be a dainty conceit, wholly pianistic and admirably musical, while "Eine Liebesnovelle" (Op. 6) by Erich J. Wolff easily proved to be one of the greatest novelties introduced here in several seasons. It is in three short movements, and is written around three wonderful short poems found in the novel "Stumme Musikanten" by Louise Glass.

Mr. Silber has studied these poems and the music built about them to splendid purpose and is able therefore to give his hearers a tone poem of great beauty, and one which is not only filled with virtuosity of technic, but which also is colored and shaded most deftly.

Closing with the sparkling "Caprice Espagnol" by Moszkowski, Mr. Silber, who had been received with marked favor throughout the afternoon was destined to be the recipient of a most unusual demonstration, for not satisfied with repeated returns to the stage of the pianist, the applause kept up unabated until he had played an encore number and this one proving to be very charming, the same request was again and again made by the audience until he had played three final encores—surely a record when the length of the initial program is taken into consideration.

These three encores at the end were very delightful bits of piano playing and of marked variety also. The "Humoreske" (Dvorak), with "Old Folks at Home" worked in as contrasting counterpoint, a scintillant "Etude" by Juan and a solo arrangement of an "Adagio" from a Mozart "Concerto" which was irresistible in its freshness and clarity, and in which Mr. Silber showed himself master of pure tone.

———♯♯♯———

MAC BURNEY STUDIOS

The next program given under the auspices of the MacBurney Studios will be presented by Elsa Fern Smith-MacBurney, soprano; William G. Hay, bass, and William Lester, accompanist, Monday evening, October 27, and will consist of songs by Chicago composers. The program will be as follows:

Flower in the Crannied Wall
The Butterfly Is In Love
The Year's at the Spring — Mrs. Alexander Mason
Awakening

Mrs. MacBurney

Love's Reverie ..... Nusbaum

The Wind Speaks
Autumn — Grant-Schaefer
The Song of Saul

Mr. Hay

Longing
Korean Song
Confession — B. Trotwood Eberhardt
Somebody

Mrs. MacBurney

Were I a Rose ..... Bergen
Love's Solace
My Rose — Lester
The Nightwinds

Mr. Hay

If
You — Miessner
The Moon and I
Rejected

Mrs. MacBurney

The White-Smith Music Publishing Company of Boston, has accepted two Christmas anthems by William Lester, "The Glory of the King" and "Give Thanks Unto God." Two part songs for mixed voices, "Under the Rose" and "Home," by the same composer, will be sung by the Madrigal Club, D. A. Clippinger, director, at the March concert of that organization. These chorus have just been issued by the White-Smith Company.

———♯♯♯———

CHURCH CONCERT

The following program will be given at the Campbell Park Presbyterian Church, Leavitt street and Campbell Park this (Friday) evening by the Chicago Concert Trio:

Piano and violin—
Sonata, Op. 21 ..... Gade
Allegro di moto
Larghetto-Vivace
Allegro molto Vivace
Vocal, Depuis le jour ..... Charpentier
Piano—
Presto, Op. 10, No. 3 ..... Beethoven
Impromptu A flat ..... Schubert
Rhapsodie Hongroise, No. 8 ..... Liszt
Piano and violin—
(Sonata E minor) ..... Bossi
Andante Sostenuto-Vivace
(Suite Op. 44) ..... Schuett
Allegro Risoluto
Vocal—
Barcarolle (Tales of Hoffman) ..... Offenbach
Spirit Flower ..... Campbell-Tipton
Elegie ..... Massenet
Heaven Hath Shed a Tear ..... Kuechen
(Violin Obligato)
Piano and violin—
(Suite Op. 44) ..... Schuett
Rondo a la russe

———♯♯♯———

HERBERT BUTLER

Following is some press comment on the playing of Herbert Butler:

Milwaukee Sentinel.—Mr. Butler's playing was characterized by broadness and ease of execution, an exquisite depth and mellowness of tone, and the grasp and interpretation of a thorough artist. He played the Wieniawski Concerto, a Romanza by Brockway and the Laub-Wilhelmj Polonaise and displayed in these varied numbers perfect command of the technic of his instrument, coupled with deep feeling and finished musicianship.

Press-Post, Columbus, Ohio.—Mr. Butler has marked talent and his violin playing is certainly extraordinary. His interpretation of the Wieniawski Concerto was beautiful beyond compare. He imparted to his selections a harmonious sweetness due to genius alone.

St. Paul (Minn.) Dispatch.—Mr. Butler was not a disappointment and his numbers were greeted with the enthusiasm they deserved. Mr. Butler's reading of the Wieniawski Concerto convinced his audience of his really great talent, and his broad and thorough training. He proved himself especially in the last movement of the Concerto, to be a thorough master of technic. In Chopin's beautiful Op. 27, No. 2, Mr. Butler proved that he could make his instrument speak in sweet and tender accents as well as strong, and in the Laub-Wilhelmj Polonaise his distinguishing facility of execution shone pre-eminent.

Gazette, Montreal.—Mr. Butler gratified his hearers exceedingly with his violin. He is a master of technic. His encore to the "Carmen" Fantasie was a prodigy of difficulty.—(Advertisement.)

John Allen Richardson

TEACHER OF SINGING

Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

HARRISON EMANUEL

CONCERT VIOLINIST

6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

The Elderly Person

Somehow things musically never seem to really get going until our Orchestra men have come on the stage with that sort of studied stolidity they effect. There is a storm of applause for each man with his fiddle, or flute, or bassoon as he lugs it in, easily or heavily as the case may be, with special marks of consideration for those players who are best known. But no man of them cracks the faintest sort of a smile, or evidences by the least demonstration that he is to be regarded as any factor in the tumult of pleasure in circulation. One knows that it cannot but be sweet music to their ears, and that they have keenly looked forward to it as their one big moment of the year. For at no other time are the players individually singled out for compliment. As a whole they are applauded in plenty. The Elderly Person, from his perch watched for one ghost of a smirk on those features, largely Teutonic, but it was forced aside and only the severe set expression presented. When Mac deferentially opened the side door, and let Mr. Stock out of his cage, the applause was more than ever tumultuous. But true to tradition the conductor did not relax from austerity and, as a woman wittily said, his three bows were rigid. He is developing a hopeful rotundity and his bald spot will soon bear comparison with that of his predecessor. When he raised his wand and let loose the pent up sounds of the instruments one felt a thrill of the enthusiasm which inaugurates affairs, and that, despite the crowds at two or three prior events, this was unquestionably the real start.

Prior to this, the man seeking entertainment has fallen back upon the theaters. And some of the offerings have been rich in good material. The Elderly Person found himself tasting some of the things he has little time for when days are better filled. Not forbidden fruit, but rather unripe. This explains why he must chronicle his presence at "The Whip" with all its bunkum and the same dime novel situations that made him laugh at their absurdity when he was much younger than now. The only way in which things were markedly different, was that this affair being "bigger and better," has all the plots of all the stories ever written incorporated into its fibre. That's the reason that the villain is so doubly dyed black. And the villainess! My, but she is bad! As usual she wears gorgeous clothes. No, that's not quite correct. She does not truly wear many. And in one costume she gives evidence of being encased in one of those suits of pink armour seen in some of the shop windows which men are not supposed to take note of. She couldn't raise her arms because the sleeve bands crossed her shoulders at the elbow.

"Within the Law," had a hearing and so did its companion. "The Double Cross." Of course these plays had the advantage of exceptional acting. That condition made for restraint. In the provinces later on they will be "thrillers." They are decidedly of value and of importance in our present stage of discoveries and correction. We simply have to learn that the other man and woman thinks and feels that he suffers and beats against his environment at times. We can't put people in groups and tag them. Every life has its explanation and no two lives are alike. We can't fairly condemn anything unheard. The excuses may be unsatisfactory, the reasoning specious, but each must be weighed before deductions are made. Somewhere in all the chaos, there is truth and it comes to the surface again and again by reason of our present willingness to listen to the various voices speaking everywhere. The lingering thought with the Elderly Person is the often revealed hunger of these distorted lives for something better. "Maggie" in "Kindling" and the hardened sinners in "The Deep Purple" and in "The Double Cross" were all longing in a desperate way to get "out West" where there was air and sunshine and a chance to be different. They felt they could be better there. Naturally they failed to sense that they would still have themselves to contend with. There yet remained their warped and crippled standards, which could only be corrected from within. The desire for better surroundings was the entering wedge, but the surroundings could not do what the individual must do.

"The Governor's Lady" just escapes being a big play and is deficient also in its presentation. The "Lady" has limitations in its exponent. The enjoyable feature, just now, is to feel the tense interest of the audience. There is the most pronounced anxiety lest the elderly lovers fail to come together. It is a healthy demonstration of the reverence felt for a well established home, and the regret when any influence disturbs its order and serenity. The Elderly Person confesses that he has never seen the complications of a pair of youthful lovers' affairs followed so eagerly. And when, in a curtain call, the Governor, still preserving his character, leaned over and kissed the little woman, there was a shout of unaffected delight all over the house.

"Maggie Pepper" and her slangy insouciance are capital for half an hour. After that her embarrassments are too evidently avoidable, and the moments do not ring true.

"Damaged Goods" is a brave effort and entirely commendable. There may not be all the self surrender to lofty impulses which are rather gushingly protested by the management. If there were not profitable houses the play would doubtless be withdrawn. Trouble is, it is not reaching the people who need it most. Its motive being known, those who are sure they will be hit, stay away, just as the sinners do from camp-meeting. The audiences are a study. The people who will not think along orthodox lines, who are artistic, temperamental, anarchistic, sociological, and all the other forms of revolt against arbitrary lines of decorum and thought, are there. But they are a goodly company, and only those who will not see fail to realize what a mighty army is that of the disaffected. The play's

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studeba ker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - NEWMAN Baritone
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE - ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY
Music Critics Say: Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose proficiency especially in the art of interpretation not only supports but inspires-makes not mars-the soloist, enabling him to bring out his best. 1246 N. CLARK ST. Tel. North 4579

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
441 Sidney Av., CHICAGO Phone Drexel 7910

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

Daniel Protheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO 955 Third Av., Detroit, Mich.
Chicago address, care of Music News

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 690

ESTA ASHER REED
ABROAD FOR SEASON

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

Harriet Case SOPRANO
Management Sam'l B Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., Second Floor

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

H. B. Bartholomew
Teacher of PIANO AND VOICE 502 Kimball Hall

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

FRANK STEEN
TENOR
304 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
922-926 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art. Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT, Sec.

mission is needed because of that same blindness. The intimate matters concerning themselves, which created beings simply have to know, have seldom been taught. More often they are acquired from unhealthy sources and many times at deplorable cost. If the knowledge did not have to be a part of every creature's life, there would be no wrong in withholding it. But it simply has to be learned. Nobody escapes it.

"Romance" is the great play of recent years. One submits to the spell of Doris Keane's impersonation, and marvelously perfect it is. But the play itself is atmospheric and helps her. It reproduces a period. It is as if young Mr. Sheldon had saturated himself with countless numbers of "Harper's Monthly," wherein George William Curtis sat in his "Easy Chair" and talked of the music and the prima donnas of his day. There we discover the adoration of the singer, of the extravagant adulation and surrender to the fascinating creatures. The light glows on the scene of the first act, and the figures come and go like a moving picture of another day. It is such a markedly different day, too. Now we are all for slender young women with slim dresses. Then it was wide spreading crinoline. The flounces are there also, and the nosegay from the hot house, with its fringed paper holder. And the dresses have garlands of flowers upon them, and the girls have wreaths upon their flowing hair. The Van Tuyl dress suit has baggy trousers, a velvet vest, a sharp pointed collar and black stock, and white cuffs turned over the outside of the velvet cuffs of the coat. The coat itself is a beauty, very full, with velvet collar, flaring wide, and with jovial gilt buttons. A bunch of seals dangles from his fob, and a broad ribbon has an eye glass at its end. Some of Miss Keane's young people do not take easily to their 1860 clothes, and mar the picture by their indifference. Too palpably do they show that the persons inside the garments are not fitting themselves to those garments, but are expecting the disguise to do all the work of illusion. The play is big and momentous as well as being brilliant in incident and movement. And the fitting together, in the epilogue of the ancient and modern is masterful. When the granddaughter of the man wild with overwhelming passion in the preceding acts, reads casually, from the "Evening Post" (just one of the many bits of color, is this newspaper's presence) that Madam Cavalina is dead, and following the bit of biography supplied by the paper, notices with a curious inflection in her voice, that the great prima donna had never married, the nobility of the woman regenerated by a great love and a greater renunciation stands out superbly. The presence of grandchildren indicates that the man had possessed no such bravery, even if he had had the depth of soul to compass so great an emotion. Once again is it shown that splendor of character can be developed by means of devotion to an ideal whose feet were moulded of clay and could not support the superstructure. It is a great play—a wonderful feat of the imagination.

And the "Yellow Jacket,"—there is simply nothing like it. But if you are one whit artistic you've been to see it, not once, but three times and been more charmed each time as has

THE ELDERLY PERSON.

RUTH ALTA
ROGERS
PIANIST
If desired, Recital Programs will be opened with explanatory talks on the compositions to be played.
MANAGEMENT
CHARLES E. WATT 522 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Palmer Christian
Concert Organist - Pupils - Coach - Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TENOR Director Vocal Department Boise Conservatory of Music. Pinney Building, BOISE IDAHO

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone O. P. 4397. 206 South Lombard Av., Oak Park Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

ELSE HARTHAN-ARENDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av
Phone Normal 1406

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

Shipley Watson
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
Pupil of Heinrich Barth, Berlin; Martin Krause, Leipzig; Edward MacDowell, New York; Carl & Rheinhold Faelten, Boston. 4414 Main St., Kansas City, Mo.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS, PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

IT has become quite the habit in Chicago, when any musical address is wanted, to say "Look in the clas i-fied Directory Card columns of the Music News, and you will surely find it."

The habit is growing in other localities too.

This is not without its good and sufficient reason either, for while the cost of this service is only twelve dollars a year (including subscription) the advantages gained are very material. Not only do prospective managers and pupils use this list continually to find the addresses of artists and teachers, but also, church people often find it of service in locating desired organists, directors and singers, and further—the complete list is used habitually by all sorts of advertisers who want to send announcements of new and novel productions to a representative list of musicians.

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

Bergey
CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL
Voice Piano
430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St., Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Stewart 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325,
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Verdi, the Composer Who Never Grew Old

The following article is reprinted from "The Outlook:"

Only a little more than twelve years ago Giuseppe Verdi, one of the greatest opera composers of all time, died at his home in Italy, and this year the world is celebrating the centenary of his birth. Yet Verdi, though he was nearly ninety years of age when he died, did not live long enough to become an old man. In the whole history of art there was never a better instance of the fact that when youth once possesses a man it cannot be shaken off. This spirit of youth is seen in the portrait of Verdi on another page. Verdi was incorrigibly young.

In these days when it was fashionable in some artistic circles to be decadent, when some youngsters in art are afflicted with all the symptoms of senile dissolution and others affect them, there is a saving healthfulness in influence of such an artist as Verdi Happily that influence is reinforced by the fact that he was commercially successful. The advertising value of an intimation by an artist that he has spoiled products for sale has been, we believe, overestimated; and it is primarily because of its supposed advertising value that many aspirants for honor and income in art seem to believe, out of duty to their families, that it is desirable to have such intimations circulated. All the zest would die out of competition in decadence if it should become evident that the winner was to get no material prize. If for no other reason, therefore, than that he made something more than a comfortable living in spite of his sanity and wholesomeness, Verdi is to be gratefully remembered today. With the years he grew younger, and as he was approaching the end of his ninth decade he went out from the world a clear-eyed, impressionable, robust youth.

Enough happened to him when he was still a young man to have given him ample excuse, if he had wanted it, to become old before his time. He was still in his twenties when tragedy overtook him. At twenty-three he was married, before he had attained anything more than a local reputation or had secured anything like an assured income. By the time two children had been born to him he had one of his operas produced and he was under commission to write three more, one of them, on which he was at work, being a comic opera. He was finding it hard to pay his rent, and to relieve his anxieties his wife disposed of her trinkets so that the obligation might be met. Then one of his children fell ill of a malady that could not be diagnosed, and died in his mother's arms; then in a few days the other child fell ill and died; and within a few weeks the young wife, as he says in his own words, was "taken from me by a most violent inflammation of the brain, so that on the 19th of June I saw the third coffin carried out of my house." There was irony in the tragedy "I was alone, alone," he writes later; "my family had been destroyed, and in the very midst of these trials I had to fulfill my engagement and write a

LIZZIE ABBOTT CLARK
Sister of Emma Abbott
Mezzo Soprano Teacher of Singing
719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
179 PLEASANT STREET MILWAUKEE, WIS.
Available for Church position. Next Season

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

FRANK W Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN
American Conservatory
Kimball Hall

JOSEPH KITCHIN VIOLINIST
5416 Jackson Avenue
CHICAGO
Phone Midway 6400

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

BEN O. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg.

Sara Burdick
TEACHER OF VOICE DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Concert, Oratorio, Recital 727 FINE ARTS BUILDING

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 66 Rue de Seine
EVERINGHAM Hazel (Tel. North 3766) 1251 N. State St.
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Arthur (Phone Wellington 4148) 4100 N. Maplewood Av.
GALLUP Helen (Phone Austin 11713) Chicago Piano College
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6380) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 6171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4786) 620 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 376.
EMANUEL N. B. (Auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO [illegible] Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield 27 Rue Boisievant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2106) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir.) 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
DRIGGS and LE MESSENA Publicity for Artists 501-5th Av., New York
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V. Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arbuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3935 Fiornoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Maliers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.
VAN CLEVE J. S. (Lecture Recitals) 62 W. 45, New York

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 267 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. 44 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (8th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone Drexel 3987) 4956 Oakenwald Av.
DEAL Alice R. 716 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6210 (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 624 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6507) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo, Milwaukee, Wis. 179 Pleasant St.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2866) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (61 Schiller St.) Pianist, Organist, Accompanist
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mahel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Aillson (First Presbyterian Church Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia
MURDOCK Effie (Res. Phone Midway 1692) American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4783) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Out
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E. Church 4461 North Winchester Av.

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BACHAUS New York (Loudon Charlton)
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BARTHOLOMEW H. B. 502 Kimball Hall
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 36 S. Maple Street
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4635) 2315 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Stewart 2519) 6415 Sangamon Street.
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Milwaukee, Wis.) 558 Jefferson St.
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 6065) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenu
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill).
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 338 N. Ashland Avenue
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3856 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Phone Oakland 3433) 303 Kimball Hall
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 623 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio

comic opera!" No wonder the opera was a failure.

Stunned, he dropped composition. But he could not hide within him the gift of song. A libretto which an importunate impresario virtually forced him to read proved in part, to be of Biblical character, and brought him comfort. Soon this libretto was singing itself in Verdi's grief-stricken brain. The result was an opera that succeeded. The man who passes through such an experience as Verdi passed through at that time has no taste for what is degenerate. There may be much in Verdi's work that seems to us today artificial, much that is really naive and in a way primitive; but there is nothing that is not consonant with the tone of youthful health.

And Verdi's spirit of youth showed itself in his buoyant reaction to the political conflicts of his time. He lived through that period in which the Italian people made a united nation of Italy, the period of Italian liberation. He lived, too, among a people who took their music as seriously as they took their politics. It is related by one of his biographers that when he was about twenty years of age Verdi went to Busseto, in fulfillment of an understanding with those who had contributed to his musical education, to take the post of maestro and organist at the cathedral, and conductor of the Philharmonic Society. The church wardens of the cathedral, however, had other plans of which the beneficiary was rather an indifferent organist who had the support of two bishops. The result was that the Philharmonic Society in a tumult raided the cathedral, despoiled the archives of all music belonging to the society, and began what amounted to a civil war which involved "satires, insults, affrays, riots, imprisonments, persecutions, banishments, and the like," and which continued through several years. We Americans sometimes wonder why we do not produce great composers. We do not take the composers seriously enough. We regard music as something to be hired for a dance, but not something to be imprisoned or banished for, as Verdi's countrymen did. Taking their music seriously, Italians on both sides of the political struggle found in more than one of Verdi's operas occasion for spirited controversy. This is illustrated very well by the opera of Verdi's that has an American setting. The fact that the scene of "Un Ballo in Maschera" came to be laid in America was due to Italian politics. In its original form the plot of the opera related the story of a conspiracy against a Swedish king, ending in his assassination. The police of Naples felt that an opera with such a subject had a sinister significance, and peremptorily ordered the composer to set his music to different words. Verdi refused, and thereupon became a hero to the Neapolitan masses. Crowds followed him through the streets and cheered under his window, shouting "Viva Verdi," using Verdi's name as standing for the initial letters of the phrase, "Vittorio Emmanuele Re D'Italia" (Victor Emmanuel, King of Italy). A Roman impresario had a bright idea; he changed the scene from Sweden to the United States of America, the King to Count Richard, Governor of Boston, and the other characters to suit, and brought out the work in triumph. The powers that were in Italy had no objection to the assassination of a Boston governor! This was not the only instance in which Verdi found himself the center of a manifestation of Italian patriotism. Unlike some other artists who have found themselves in somewhat similar positions, however, Verdi never assumed a patriotic pose.

Free from the temptation to assume the pose of a patriot, he was free also from any inclination to assume the pose of the artist. He escaped that influence which has marred the careers of so many young composers of our day—the influence that leads them to fancy that they must justify their own work by what they are pleased to call originality, innovation, a contribution to the music of the future, the revelation of an individual soul that is different from any other soul, or something of that sort. Different as he was in most respects from his German contemporary Brahms, his direct opposite in being an operatic composer and virtually nothing else, Verdi was like Brahms in this one respect—that he had the singleness of purpose and standard of the artist. In all he did he worked to make his product as perfect as he could. The result is always what must happen when genius harnesses itself to the task—a set of masterpieces that survive change of fashion. When Verdi began his career, the orthodox operatic form in Italy was at the other extreme from the realistic drama. It consisted of set pieces which furnished opera singers with an opportunity to display their vocal charms and arouse the audience by dramatic declamation and song. The plot served merely as a convenient line on which these set pieces could be strung in something like order. This conventional form Verdi accepted, and infused it with his genius. Meantime his contemporary Richard Wagner, born in the same year as he, was exerting his genius in creating a new form. Wagner, part reformer, part poseur, altogether genius, influenced the form of the opera profoundly; and as the opera changed its form Verdi accepted the changes and infused with his genius its traditional conventions. In 1871 was produced for the first time "Aida," which in tone and spirit as well as in form is as different from "Il Trovatore" and "La Traviata" (both produced first in 1853) as if they had been written by another composer. And when we come to his latest works, "Otello" (1887) and "Falstaff" (1893) the change is complete. Nothing in history of music is more extraordinary and more stimulating as an example than Verdi's production of "Falstaff" in his eightieth year. Not only is it an astonishing instance of a man advancing with the times as he advances in years, of unimpaired powers of assimiliation at a time when one would expect a man to be satisfied with what he had acquired through painful effort in middle age and youth, of extraordinary and almost incredible ability on the part of a man trained in the old form to use a new form as if he had been accustomed to it all his life, of the development in a direction of realism of powers trained to accomplish dramatic feats of an altogether artificial sort; it is something still more extraordinary—it is like the appearance of a new star; because, after a series of operas of melodramatic or tragic character, it is the purest and livest kind of comedy, bubbling over with the kind of

ERST Stephen Adolph 1553 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H. Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn
FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season. 2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Studio, 1527 High St.
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearborn 5032) 874 Cass St.
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3235) Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur Columbia School of Music
GODFREY Eleanor F. Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music Northwestern University School of Music
HEAPHY Alice Christine (Boston, Mass.) Worcester, Mass.—Day Building
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7045) 425 Fine Arts Building
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music) 306 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9205)
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agatbe (Pupils, Recitals) 3350 North Halsted St.
LEVY Henlot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence American Conservatory
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Louis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich.
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (University School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (Jamestown, N. Y.) Hill Piano School
OLIVER Mary Lindsay Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 415 W. 51st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 357 W. 63rd St.
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288) 1921 Wolfram St.
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope 707 Fine Arts Bldg.
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766 620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5629
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.) 11 South 20th Av., East
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow 4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420) American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715) 5828 Woodlawn Av.
STOUT Lilian Mary 429 Fine Arts Bldg.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V. (512 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs Peoria, Ill.
THAL Delta (620 Addison St.) 510 Fine Arts Building
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J. Berwyn) 55 Auditorium
von MICKWITZ Harold Bush Temple Conservatory
WALLACE Evangeline 522 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H. Chicago Piano Colle
WILFORD J. E. 502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str. 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L. 1516 Maller's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Col'o (2226 Williams St.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Louisville, Ky. Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son 820 Fine Arts Bldg.
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver Boston, Mass
DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8195) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House 528 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro. New York 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co. 67 E. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. 5119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co. 522 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G. Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 64 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co. A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. Publishers 236 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2151) 639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music
ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1871) American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music 69 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 509 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music Auditorinm Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music 61 Auditorium Bldg
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianaforte School Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2831 Washington Boulevard
KNOX Conservatory of Music Wm. F. Bentley, Dir., Galesburg, Ill.
KROEGER School of Music (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music) 529 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir.) 309 Kimball Hall.
Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music Evanston, Ill.
OAK PARK CONS. Music and Dramatic Art Warrington Bldg.
OSTROVSKY Institute, Hand Development 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art 55 Auditorium Bldg.
TOLEDO Musical College Toledo, Ohio
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance 42 W. 76th St., New York
VILIM American Violin School 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1515 Mallers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art. 29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 59th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

ALBERT Teachers Agency 633 S. Wabash Av.
BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency

THEORY

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S. Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C. Evanston, Ill.

ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 716 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A. (North Shore School of Music) 4566 Evanston Av. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Lonis (Phone North 815) Studio, 726 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Ludwig Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Anton. Phone Wabash 1260
BROKAW Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg
BURKHOLDER Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BUTLER Raymond Streator, Ill.
CEDARGREEN Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CLEOPHAS Minnie (Phone Irving 22273) 4420 Kimball Av.
COHEN Cornelia Studying Abroad
DASCH Sol (Cincinnati Orchestra) 628 Lincoln Ave, (Avondale) Cincinnati
DRAKE George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.) North Shore School of Music
EMANUEL Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.
EVANS Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.
FISCHEL Clarence B. (San Francisco 1549 Octavia St.
FREDERICKS Max I. 510 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERIKSEN Aage (Tolhurst) 106 Central Park West, New York
FRENCH Fredrik 426 Fine Arts Bldg.
FROSOLONO Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4365) 4123 Ellis Av.
GIRVIN Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GOLDBLATT Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GUNTER Maurice H. Chicago Musical College
HEIZER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
ITTE Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music
KITCHIN Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KOHLER Joseph 5416 Jackson Av.
LOEBER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
MARTINSON J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517) 3533 W. Monroe Street
MICHAELIS Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MONEAK Drake School of Music, Chicago Branch, Kankakee, Illinois
NUSSBAUM Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
MUSIN Ovide (Virtuoso) 51 West 76th St., New York
PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York,
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 630 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island) Vilim, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston) 1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music
STEINDEL Alhin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1325 Birchwood Av.
TOWNSEND Wiulfred 411 Kimball Hall.
VAN AIKEN Hal G. Soloist and Principal, Violin Dept., So. Bend (Ind.) Conservatory
WALKER Sadie (Phone Belmont 4534) Cosmopolitan School of Music
WOODARD Gny Bush Temple
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis) 22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory 605 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147) 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.) 85 Auditorium Bldg
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert 6557 Ingleside Avenue
BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 827 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.
BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005) 303 Kimball Hall
BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.) Northwestern University School of Music
BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist) 6119 Greenwood Ave.
BISPHAM David 44 W. 44th St., New York
BOHLIN J. P., 51 Auditorium Bldg. Drake School of Music
BOLLMAN Maude Fenton Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.
BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York) Care Haensel and Jones
BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 5819) Kimball Hall
BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8520) 4822 Madison Ave.
BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium) Cosmopolitan School of Music
BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor) 1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.
BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2259 Northwestern Uni. School of Music
BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3886) (Harry Culbertson, Manager)
BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio) Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
BRUEGGER Frederick 720 Fine Arts Bldg.
BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth) 7022 Vernou Av.
BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041) 727 Fine Arts Bldg.
BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.) Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau
BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183) 520 Fine Arts Building
Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass. 413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.
BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 5485) 512 Fine Arts Building
CASE Harriet Auditorium Bldg.
CHENEY Mary (New York) 500 Carnegie Hall
CHILSON-OHRMAN Luella, (Soprano) 4603 Sheridan Road
CLARK Charles W. (Paris) 12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.
CLARKE Edw. 513 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831) Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)
CLARK Lizzie Ahbott Res. 5498 Cornell Av. (Phone Hyde Park 5971)
CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152 Sherwood Music School
CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone) Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus 1908-9-10 11
CLIPPINGER D. A. 410 Kimball Hall
CONANT Alice Widney (Soprano) University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.
CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher) 721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495
COOK Dwight Edrus (Boise, Idaho) Boise Conservatory of Music
COOK John Loring (Tenor) 300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 5156)
COOLEY Sydnie Smith (Phone Garfield 2913) 4117 W. Harrison St.
CORLEW Mabel (Contralto) 4202 Prairie Ave. (Phone Harrison 973)
COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France) 6 rue Edmond About
CRAMER Alice Ione (Phone Drexel 7009) 508 E. 46th Place
CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor) 234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)
DAHLSTROM Margaret 3242 Clifton Ave.
DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique 30 Rue Marbeuf, Champs Elysees, Paris
DE SALES Regina (Paris, France) 40 rue de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)
DeYOUNG Richard B. American Conservatory
DEVRIES Herman 618-628 Fine Arts Building
DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478) 816 S. Harvey Avenue. Oak Park. Ill.
DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310 710 South Central Park Avenue
FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio) H. B. Turpin, Manager
FARNUM Mrs. Frank 3359 Warren Ave.
FARRELL Joseph (Kansas City) 201 Studio Building,
FICHTNER Ludwig Carl (Basso-Cantante) 149 Tremont St., Boston
FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Harrison 3895) 63 Auditorium (Home Phone Longwood 407)
FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg 6905 Ontario St. (Contralto)
FRIDENBERG Ahbie L. (New York) Studio 110 Carnegie Hall
FRISBIE Constance (Soprano) 5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)
GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782) 318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.
GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4885) 3435 Flournoy St.
GARTON Samuel B. (Home Phone Ravenswood 6392) 323 South Wabash Av.
GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone) 413 Kimball Hall
GIBBS Mary Crofut (Res. Phone—Longwood 1633) 404 Kimball Hall
GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone) 1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.
GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend, Ind. Conservatory) Chicago Address, 522 Kimball Hall
GROW Ethel (Phone North 2635) 1002 Dearborn Av.
GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art) 623 Fine Arts Bldg
HADLEY Grant (Tenor) Suite 73 Auditorium Building
HAIGHT Irma (Detroit, Mich.) 955 Third Avenue
HALL William John (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497) 423 Fine Arts Bldg.
HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher) 72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.
HAMILTON Jessie Mack, (Phone Ravenswood 325) 5057 Winthrop Av.

gayety that delights in practical jokes. Did ever any other artist crown his career with a work like this?

At least one man found that youth could be perennial.

———###———

INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

The following program was given on October 21, by Johann Berthelsen, baritone, and Charles H. Gabriel, Jr., pianist:

Fruelingsglaube . . . Schubert
Der Lindenbaum . . . Schubert
Ich Grolle Nicht . . . Schumann

Mr. Berthelsen

Sonata, Op. 26 . . . Beethoven
Andante con Variazioni
Schertzo molto Allegro
Marcia Funebre
Allegro

Mr. Gabriel

L'Heure Exquise . . . Reynoldo Hahn
J' ai Pleure en reve . . . Georges Hue
A Toi . . . H. Bemberg

Mr. Berthelsen

Jeux d'eau (The Play of the Waters) . . . Ravel
Ballade, No. 1 . . . Brune
(First time in Indianapolis)

Mr. Gabriel

Prologue (Pagliacci) . . . R. Leoncavallo

Mr. Berthelsen

Mephisto Waltz . . . Liszt
(Aus Lenau's Faust)

Mr. Gabriel

A Spirit Flower . . . Campbell-Tipton
The Love of Yesterday . . . Charles H. Gabriel, Jr.
(Dedicated to Mr. Berthelsen, first presentation)

Mr. Berthelsen

Miss Alta M. Randall, Accompanist

MUSIC IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

WILLIAM AP MADOC ARTICLE II.

Pertaining to the remarks in the first article on the above topic in Music News, September 26, that "It would be the best kind of support if some of the leading singers in different communities—those who have at heart the advancement of the music art—should they seek permission once in awhile to visit classes of the higher grades, in order to listen to the young voices in the matters of tone, enunciation and expression; also, in order to sing to them and speak a few words of encouragement." It was very pleasing to read on page 6 of the fifth anniversary number of Music News, the following paragraph in Mr. Lester S. Butler's excellent account of the fifty-sixth Musical Festival of Worcester, Mass., which shows some of the artists of that festival thought of pupils in the public schools. Mr. Butler writes:

"Following a custom promoted by Charles I. Rice, director of music in the schools, Mme. Sundelius sang for the pupils in each of the four high schools and Henry Eichheim, violinist, formerly of the orchestra, gave a program for them. Arthur J. Bassett, pianist, accompanied. William H. Cook lent his motor car for the morning. Mr. Eichheim played "Chanson et tavan," Couperin, and "Caprice Viennois," Kreisler. Mme. Sundelius sang "Pierrot," Rubner; "Swedish Folk Song" and "Se seran rose," Arditi. She told the pupils that she had chosen the first because a high school girl had written it. She gave a little waltz song for encore at the close."

What a boon and a blessing it would be if some of the soloists of the Chicago Opera Company; of the Apollo Musical Club concerts and oratorios; of the Chicago Singverein, etc., and a number of the splendid Chicago soloists of which the musical public is always proud, should they seek permission to establish a similar "custom" in connection with some of our public schools. We are confident that the superintendent of schools, Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, would heartily endorse such a custom.

The artists who willingly visited the Worcester High Schools believed that their labor of love was good music education, that it created high ideals in the young minds. The sordid "rag-time" and the so-called "popular song" destroy good musical taste and demoralize the conscience. All the classes, glee clubs and orchestras through their music selections are working together to stem the destructive tide of "rag and jingle." But what are the American homes all over the land doing toward this end? Thousands and upon thousands of homes open wide their doors to this "trashiest trash" that bears the sacred name of music! Within the schools only music of the best kind, secular and sacred, has a place; and efforts are being made to persuade pupils to use their talent, time and money, outside of the schools, for music that tends toward good taste, right thinking and right conduct. It goes without the saying that the audiences of public school pupils referred to proved themselves as capable of giving as good a hearing to the artistic programs rendered, and applauded as intelligently as any of our adult audiences, and more so than many of them. Give them such opportunities once or twice a year at least, and see what the result would be.

Probably such innovations would help to bring about the operatic and orchestral golden era a little sooner than in the year "2013"—of which Dr. Frank Crane wrote a few weeks ago in the Chicago Daily News. Dr. Crane describes that the grand opera season of A. D. 2013 in a great American city was about to begin. George Israels, the chief director of municipal music, was at his desk in the city hall, and it is he, after a retrospective view of one hundred years at the "feudal conditions" of our 1913 time, that is made to remark:

"Our twenty opera houses hold 5,000 people each. No seat is more than $1. The best places go to those most interested in music, and not to the rich. The star nuisance we abolished years ago. Our singers are thoroughly trained from infancy in the public schools, and our artists are chosen by natural selection. We use the voices of our own people, and it is our children who form our orchestras. We have got over the delusion that an Italian can sing better than an American. Music knows no patriotism. It is international.

"We realize now that music is an essential to morals, to culture, and to civic conscience. It is no longer the plaything of the rich. It is the spiritual bread and meat of the people."

———— ‡ ‡ ‡ ————

Riegelman.—Mabel Riegelman, who has made some concert appearances with David Bispham this season, will pass through this city next week, en route to rejoin the Chicago Grand Opera Company in Philadelphia. She is one of the representative young Americans with the organization and was the first artist to be re-engaged by Maestro Campanini.

HARRIS Milon R. 403 Kimball Hall
HART Belle 509 Kimball Hall
HARTLEY Syhll Owen, (Atlanta) 999 Piedmont Av.
HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Phone Normal 1406) care of Music News
HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.) Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)
HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Building
HERDIEN Mabel Sharp 6132 Kenmore Ave.
HEUCHLING Mathilde 712 Fine Arts Building
HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923) Chicago Musical College
HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano) 1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel.Grac. 1733)
HINKLE Florence (Soprano) 294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)
HINSHAW William Wade (New York) Metropolitan Opera Company
HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003) 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson) 304 Kimball Hall
HOLT GeorgeNelson 509 S. Wabash Ave.
HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano) 3800 Broadway, New York
HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 13737) 5838 Washington Blvd.
HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544) Auditorium Bldg.
Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland) Tudor Mansions, 3615 Pine Grove Av.
HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante) South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.
HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880 608 Fine Arts Building
HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund Alliance, Ohio
HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267) 501 Kimball Hall
JOHNS Ethelle Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131) 6463 Kimhark Av.
JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 5104) 4937 Michigan Ave.
KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8619) 4433 Racine Avenue
KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Ravenswood 7201) 523 Fine Arts Bldg. (Phone Harrison 2074)
KIMBELL Grant (Tenor) 5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831
KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
LA BERGE Charles (Baritone) American Conservatory
LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 8774) 1375 East 54th Street
LASH De Witt Durgin (Phone Harrison 5365) 420 Fine Arts Bldg
LAYFIELD Mabel B. (Phone, Wenthworth 2082) 7111 Normal Av.
LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6880) 6450 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1
LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335) 4460 Berkeley Av.
LINDQUEST Albert (Phone West Pullman 366) 237 E-113 Street
LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto) 1311 E. 53rd St.
LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola 3814 Ellis Avenue
LUND Rene S. (Baritone) 2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 5602)
LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J) 1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.
LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder) Drake School of Music
MacBURNEY Thomas 609 Fine Arts Building
MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060) 3422 Fulton Street
McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439) 3620 Parnell Av.
MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E. 616 Fine Arts Bldg.
MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France) 27 rue Boislevant
MARCUSSON Grace Bonne (Phone West 661) 2459 Jackson Boul.
MARELLE Marie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall
MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402) 6256 Berteau Av.
MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.) 209 Wesley Av.
MILLER Christine 1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.
MILLER Herbert 716 Fine Arts Bldg
MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn) 1. W. 34th St., New York
MILLER John B. (Tenor) Chicago Musical College
MOSHER L. Drew 137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.
MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone) 1165 Belmon Ave
MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles) 446 W. 40th Place
MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.
MULRFY Mahel V.—Soprano—Pianist 47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.
MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4677 300 Athenaeum Bldg.
MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano) 4902 Friendship. Av.
MURPHY Mrs. John Fremont (Soprano) 5000 Dorchester Av. (Phone Kenwood 4042)
MURRISON Harry R. Alliance, Ohio.
NARELLE Marie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall
NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122) 1215 E. 63rd Street
NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano Plymouth, Ind.
NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199) 237 North Howard Av., Austin
NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York) 330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbns)
NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5509) 4126 Drexel Blvd.
OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute) 303 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 5919)
OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147) 2112 Washington Blvd.
PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England) Care L. G. Sharpe, 61 Reg S
PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto) Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.
PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.) Toledo Musical College
PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3246) 4173 Lake Av.
POTTER Mildred (Contralto) Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St.,
PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.) Winona School of Music
PROTHEROE Daniel 610 Fine Arts Bldg.
RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bluilding
RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 6782) 1738 Humboldt Boulevard
RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor) Barre Plains, Mass.
RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513 413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av
REED Esta Asher (Soprano) Ahroad for a season
REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165) 5627 Indiana Av.
REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg) 202 Nixon Building
RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.
RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall 6318 Burchfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.
ROBBINS Edith Lucile (11th and R Sts.) University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.
ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting) 1372 E. 52nd St.
ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877) 7205 Stewart Ave.
RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto) Principal Liederheim, Auhurndale, Mass
RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 5265) 719 Fine Arts Bldg.
RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448) 3100 Lexington St.
SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing 201 Clarendon St., Boston
SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano) 401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.
SCHUSTER Katherine 71 Auditorium Bldg.
SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York) Wolfsohn Bureau
SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 469) 408 Kimball Hall,
SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner) St. James Bldg., New York
SEVERINGHAUS Edna Reiffert (Soprano) 63 Auditorium Bldg.
SHELP Dr. H. Wm. 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor) 616 Kimball Hall
SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano) 4044 Indiana Av.
SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano) 6523 St. Lawrence Av.
SMIDT Mahle Corlew (Phone Austin 12717) 5943 Ohio St.
SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173) 625 Madison St., Gary, Ind
SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano) Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio
SPOONER Philip (New York) 205 W. 57th St.
STEELE Mary Hinman 503 Kimball Hall
STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh) Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.
STEEN Frank (Tenor) 304 Kimhall Hall
STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48) 4439 Calumet Av.
STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building
STEPHALI Sofia (Phone Midway 5912) 6106 Kimhark Av.
STEVENSON Lucille 4438 Berkeley Avenue
STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923) 1134 E. 47th St.
STULTS Walter A. (Evanston) Northwestern University School of Music
TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L. Lewis Institnte, Phone West 783
THATCHER Burton (Res. Phone Drexel 4861) Chicago Musical College
THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano) Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill
THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082) 620 Fine Arts Building
TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3765 Bush Temple Conservatory
TOWNS Kirk Chicago Musical College
TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor) 813 La Salle Av.
TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949) 404 Kimhall Hall
VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799) 6611 Woodlawn Av.
WAIT Barhara (Phone Midway 2380) 428 Fine Arts Building
WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2958) 1325 E. 64th St.
WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Oak Park 4397) 206 S. Lombard Av., Oak Park.
WATSON Ruth Swing 1225 E. 62nd St.
WEAVER Iva Bigelow Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.
WEBSTER Frank B. 719 Kimball Hall
WEGENER Mme. Justine Bush Temple Conservatory
WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone) 61 Auditorium Bldg.
WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 6946) Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimhall Hal
WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 1 E 34th St., New York
WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 160) 728 Fine Arts Bldg.
WILCOX John C. (Teacher) Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo
WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio) 616 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS Dr. Carver (Samuel B. Garton) Auditorinm Bldg
WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey 406 Kimhall Hall
WILLIAMS H. Evan Akron, Ohio
WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway 6107 Woodlawn Av.
WYNN Bessie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall
WYCOFF Eva Emmet 500 W. 143rd. New York
YOUNG Walter S. (801 Carnegie Hall, New York) Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair, N. J.
ZENDT Marie sidenius (Phone Drexel 2778) (1140 E. 44th St.)
ZIMMERMAN Odiata 72 Anditorinm Bld

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Subscribe for

Music News

Music News of this issue will reach many people who are not subscribers—many of them in fact will see it for the first time. To such we offer the explanation that we are making a special

Promotive Campaign

and are sending sample copy ONCE to very many people who do not often read music papers. We invite all such to become

Subscribers

The cost of the paper is only two dollars a year—which is only four cents a week, and for that sum we will bring to your home

Every Week in the Year

full and adequate announcement and review of the concert and opera situation of the country.

A Premium of One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music given to each new subscriber and each renewal

Send Your Subscription Today
Before You Forget It

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic
(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport, Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

CELESTE D. HECKSHER,

AMERICAN COMPOSER

From an Oil Painting

CHICAGO, AMERICA

OCTOBER 31, 1913.

Voices Made Beautiful

Our new book tells how to transform weak, tuneless voices into beauty, sweetness, power, birdlike trill. Falsetto to pure tenor. Robust health. Price, $1.00 Lessons by correspondence.

Mme. Girard, 818 E. 51st St., Chicago, Ill.

Now Ready. Second Edition Cloth, 192pp. $1.00 Postage 8c
THE RECENT REVOLUTION IN ORGAN BUILDING
By George Laing Miller, F. R. C. O., Eng.
Shows how mechanism and tone production have completely changed. Many illustrations biographies and portraits of inventors. Specifications and views of keyboards of notable organs in England, France and U. S., including Unit organs and the new Liverpool Cathedral
May be had from all Book and Music Sellers
The trade supplied by Lyon & Healy, A. C. McClurg & Co., Ditson, Schirmer, Gray, Presser, Baker & Taylor, Fischer, Nordheimer, Novello & Co., Ltd., or THE CHARLES FRANCIS PRESS 328, 15th Street, New York.

Have you seen the new Musical Journal

Every person interested in Bands or Orchestras should receive

The Army and Navy Musician

Here is a journal that makes its influence felt—one that is valuable to all its readers.

Write for FREE sample copy.

The Army and Navy Musician
ELKHART, IND., U. S. A.

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St. Chicago

SHEET MUSIC MENDED
Send me your torn and loose music and same will be put in good condition at very low rates; also your name and address stamped thereon if desired.
CHAS. A. KIMMIT Park Ridge, Ill.

Languages
The Berlitz School of Languages.
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

The Musicians' Piano Tuner
Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

Bergey
CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL
Voice Piano
430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879

CHICAGO, OCTOBER 31, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS
United States, per year, postpaid.....$2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are charged to their accounts.

Frances Bowser, Business Representative

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina Place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block
Frank E. Percival

TOLEDO, OHIO
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20

Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

IT has become quite the habit in Chicago, when any musical address is wanted, to say "Look in the classified Directory Card columns of the Music News, and you will surely find it."

The habit is growing in other localities too.

This is not without its good and sufficient reason either, for while the cost of this service is only twelve dollars a year (including subscription) the advantages gained are very material. Not only do prospective managers and pupils use this list continually to find the addresses of artists and teachers, but also, church people often find it of service in locating desired organists, directors and singers, and further—the complete list is used habitually by all sorts of advertisers who want to send announcements of new and novel productions to a representative list of musicians.

Music News
522 Kimball Hall
Chicago

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians
by Horace D. Hitchcock
A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original.
The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:
"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."
For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cents Postpaid.

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

OUR CATALOGS WILL SAFELY GUIDE YOU ALL FREE
OLD VIOLINS AND NEW
AUG. GEMÜNDER & SONS
42 EAST 23 ST. NEW YORK

DEP'T. T Special Discount to the Profession. Send for Sample Copy of THE VIOLIN WORLD

Music News

Vol. 5 Chicago, October 31, 1913 No. 44

Editorial

TRUE TEACHING

Arnold Schoenberg, who is to be interpreted by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra this week, was written about most entertainingly by Mr. Borowski in last Sunday's Record-Herald, the article being reprinted in another column of this issue of Music News.

In this article the statement is made that Schoenberg has said: "The kind of instruction which a student should receive should at least be that which helps him to understand his own ideas. Added technical resources will not help him; they are merely secrets of the craft to which only he should have access who finds them out for himself. Whoever understands his own ideas will evolve his own technic—by other paths. perhaps, than those which are generally followed in a course of study, perhaps even by round-about ways—but infallibly, surely."

This most modern of eccentriques is not alone in his ideas as to what true teaching should be.

It has been proven again and again that technic may be imposed upon a personality by assiduous teaching and yet that the student may be left absolutely without musical development and his public work be positively devoid of any interest.

Only that teaching is worth while which develops individuality.

There may be some few definite things which every singer must have in order to gain effectiveness in projection of songs—but these things will be useless unless supplemented by a thoroughly developed personality. Interpretation should be individual always, and the teacher who insists on exactly his own interpretation from each pupil is not preparing that pupil for any great success.

It is true in the instrumental field, also. Individuality of interpretation and individuality in the way of accomplishing effects are what count, and if these be not developed nothing else matters a whit.

It follows then inevitably that unless a pupil has individuality of thought and independence and perseverance enough to work out his individual bent it is of but little avail for him to study at all.

And this brings up again the question as to whether there really are very many serious students of music now-a-days and whether both teachers and pupils should not more often take account of stock and see just where they are drifting.

Far too many pupils are simply learning music in the most ordinary way—according to set routine—and few indeed are studying for individuality or independent effect.

This is proven most conclusively in the attitude of the vast majority of students to the opportunities offered in a city like Chicago for hearing artists great and small and deducting their knowledge from actual observation instead of the too-oft repeated rule of the school room.

Every really great artist has something very individual about him and even the mediocre ones have the same thing in lesser degree. It would pay students, therefore, to study the public work of artists much more fully than they do—for, genius will fan into flame other genius; talent will excite other talent; individualism in interpretation, while not to be copied, will nevertheless suggest other variants of individual expression.

And even the bad has its uses, for by it the student is taught what to avoid much more swiftly than he could be in the class room and a continual weighing of good against bad will inevitably suggest a sane and effective medium course.

There are many other ways in which the student may learn besides listening to other musicians and trying experiments for himself. He may learn from every other art manifestation besides music—from literature, from the stage, from painting and sculpture, and most of all from nature—but all that is a long story and needs much self-communion to work out.

But, by whatever means and with whatever help—be it from teachers, literature, art, or the observance of interpretations of others—it yet remains an absolute truth that Individualism must come from somewhere and it must come by the application of energies far in advance of those put forth by the average student.

ON SMOKING IN THE CONCERT ROOM

The announcement that all singers at the Turner Hall Concerts will be placed on the first half of the program and that smoking will not be permitted until after that time, is a welcome announcement.

It is an outrage at any time—or in any place—to ask singers to appear (especially women singers) when smoking is in progress—and yet there are clubs in plenty in Chicago—fine clubs, too, as the word goes—which do not so consider the matter.

Really high-grade singers should utterly refuse to sing anywhere unless smoking is prohibited during the time the program is in progress.

TO "GAICUS"

Music News is in receipt of a letter from St. Louis signed "Gaicus," in which facetious exception is taken to a number of sentences in the last Van Cleve article in this paper.

If "Gaicus" will give his full name and address we shall be glad to print his protests on these or any other points—but as his letter is practically anonymous as it stands we cannot reprint it. It will be forwarded to Mr. Van Cleve, however, and if he choose to answer parts of it later he may do so at discretion.

Valparaiso Music College
Department of
Valparaiso University
Second Largest University in the United States
VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President
OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER
SOLO VIOLINIST
Welsh International Festival
MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE
SOPRANO
Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils
5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN
PIANIST
8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE
CONTRALTO
Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL
TEACHER OF SINGING
STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON
BASSO-CANTANTE
Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency
416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496
Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers
VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION
METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE
Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL
The Art of Singing
81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday
Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD LOEBER
VIOLINIST TEACHER
RECITALS
Musicales
3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA WAIT
Contralto
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

Music in Chicago

A FINE CONCERT

The programs given by the Chicago Concert Trio are of unusual charm and they contain musical value of great significance as well.

Mr. Albert E. Fox, pianist, and Mr. William Hofman, violinist, have rehearsed together through so many years that they have established a much more than usual satisfactory ensemble and through this means they have also acquired a magnificent repertoire.

At their concert at the Warren Avenue Congregational Church in the summer they proved these two points absolutely and at a concert given at the Campbell Park Presbyterian Church on Friday last they again emphasized them.

The Gade "Sonata" Op. 21, was played in entirety, and to this serious feast there was added a slow movement from the Bossi "Sonata" E Minor, and two movements from the Schuett "Suite a la russe." The Gade work was given with great impressiveness and style, the Bossi number was an exposition of pure tone very unusual and the "Rondo" was a piece of scintillant virtuosity.

Mr. Fox added further to his acclaim by playing a group of piano numbers in excellent style as to musical effect and with a thoroughly satisfactory technical display. Mr. Hofman, besides holding his own in the ensembles so admirably, also furnished an obligato for one of the songs which was ideal.

Mrs. Marjorie Dodge Warner was in splendid trim and sang with great freedom, power and intelligence.

The "Louise" (Charpentier) aria was done with much musicianship, the "Barcarolle" (Hoffman) served to give the audience a treat in melodic values, the Campbell-Tipton "Spirit Flower" has seldom had so satisfactory a hearing, the Massenet "Elegie" was filled with true sentiment and Kueeken's "Heaven Hath Shed a Tear" (with violin obligato) was a musical delight, immensely approved by the audience.

♯ ♯ ♯

THE GADSKI PROGRAM

Next Thursday night, at 8:15, Mme. Johanna Gadski gives a song recital at Orchestra Hall, under the management of Carl D. Kinsey. Edwin Schneider will be the accompanist and the following program has been arranged:

Part I.

Fruhlingsnacht, Lotosblume, Waldgesprach } Schumann

Nacht und Traume, Madchens Klage, Ungeduld } Schubert

Part II.

Aus meinen grossen Schmerzen, Liebchen ist da, Im Herbst } Franz

Mainacht, Auf dem Kirchhof, Meine Liebe ist grun } Brahms

Part III.

Ver' orgenheit — Hugo Wolf
Im Treibhaus — Wagner
Serenade — Strauss
Zueignung — Strauss

Part IV.

Ein Schwan... — Grieg
Good Morning — Grieg
A Slumber Song — H. C. Gilmour
The Swan Bent Low, Midsummer Lullaby, A Maid Sings Light } MacDowell

♯ ♯ ♯

APOLLO CLUB

One week from this Sunday, at 3:30, the Apollo Musical Club of 300 singers will give a single performance of Haydn's choral work "The Creation," at the Auditorium Theatre. The solo artists engaged are Florence Hinkle, soprano; Morgan Kingston, tenor, and Herbert Witherspoon, bass. Harrison M. Wild is the conductor, Edgar Nelson will preside at the organ and there will be a full orchestra to play the orchestral accompaniments.

♮ ♮ ♮

Monday night, November 17, the Apollo Musical Club gives a performance of Mendelssohn's beautiful choral work "Elijah," at the Auditorium Theater. Two soloists engaged are Rosalie Wirthlin, contralto, and Edwin A. Wolf, boy soprano. A professional choir of sixteen singers will assist, namely:

Sopranos: Mary Ann Kaufman, Edithe Roberts, Helen Axe Brown, Louise Burton.

Contraltos: Hazel Huntley, Permelia Gale, Ora Padget Langer, Louise H. Slade.

Tenors: Grant Kimbell, William Johnson, William Griswold Smith, Elias A. Bredin.

Basses: Hyde W. Peree, Frank M. Dunford, F. C. Atwill and Ernest D. Dewey.

The beautiful ladies' trio will be sung by Mabel Sharp Herdien, Leonora Allen and Rose Lutiger Gannon.

♯ ♯ ♯

AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

The concert of the American Conservatory last Saturday afternoon, when the hall was crowded to the limit as usual, introduced Miss Elma Wallace and Miss C. Ellen Loveless in a piano and song program to fine advantage.

Miss Wallace has technic which is well developed; she is very accurate and decidedly musical. Her Schumann was thoughtful, her Chopin very musical and her Liszt was brilliant.

Miss Loveless, quite a young girl, has sweetness and power very satisfactorily blended in her voice and sang two difficult arias with much display of poise and finish.

C. E. W.

♯ ♯ ♯

TURNER HALL CONCERTS

The Golden Jubilee season of concerts at the North Side Turner Hall will open on Sunday, November 9, with the first appearance of the new Boeppler Symphony Orchestra of Chicago, William Boeppler, conductor.

The soloists will be Mabel Sharp Herdien

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

and Isidore Berger. The program follows:

A word of introduction: Mr. George A. Schmidt president Chicago Turngemeinde.
Jubel March.....Boeppler
Dedicated to the Chicago Turngemeinde.
Jubel Overture.....Weber
Soprano Solo—"Ritorna Vincitor" from "Aida" .....Verdi
Mrs. Mabel Sharp Herdien
Selection—"Carmen" .....Bizet
Intermission
Andante, from Fifth Symphony.....Beethoven
Finale, from Fifth Symphony.....Beethoven
Violin Solo—"Polonaise Brilliante".....Wieniawski
Concertmaster Isidore Berger
Tannhauser Overture.....Wagner
Intermission
Second Hungarian Rhapsody.....Liszt
Waltz—"Blue Danube".....Strauss
Grand American Phantasie.....Herbert

♮ ♮ ♮

List of Soloists

Director Boeppler has been exceedingly fortunate in securing for the concerts of his symphony orchestra—to be given at the North Side Turner Hall each Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, from the second Sunday in November to the last Sunday in March—the following remarkable array of soloists:

♮ ♮ ♮

I. Vocal Soloists

Sopranos: Mrs. Mabel Sharp Herdien, Mrs. Minnie Fish Griffin, Mrs. Else Harthan Arendt, Mrs. Dorothea North, Mrs. Marie Sidenius Zendt, Mrs Anna Langrich, Mrs. Mable Corlew Smidt, Miss Letitia Gallaher, Miss Lotta Chatroop, Miss Sarah Fine, Miss Daisy Rosen.

Altos: Mrs. Rose Lutiger Gannon, Mrs. Elizabeth Rennen, Miss Jessie Lynde Hopkins, Miss Mathilde Heuchling, Miss Clara Pruessmann, Miss Katherine Clarke (Milwaukee), Miss Elsa Bloedel (Milwaukee).

Tenors: Mr. John B. Miller, Mr. George L. Tenney, Mr. Beecher Burton, Mr. Tor van Pyk, Mr. Arthur Kraft, Mr. Reinhold Essbach, Mr. Adolf Gill.

Baritones and basses: Mr. Marion Green, Mr. Gustave Holmquist, Mr. Hans Schroeder, Mr. Rene S. Lund.

♮ ♮ ♮

II. Instrumental Soloists

Piano: Miss May Doelling, Miss Agatha Langrich, Mrs. Bruno Kuehn, Miss Marie Annen, Mr. Alessandro Scuri, Mr. Frank Olin Thompson (Milwaukee), Mrs. Norman Hoffmann (Milwaukee), and several artists from the Mary Wood Chase School.

Violinists: Mr. Isidore Berger (concertmaster), Mr. Bruno Kuehn, Mr. Frederik Frederiksen.

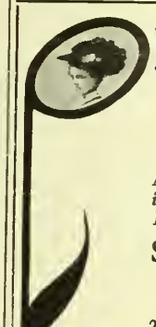
'Cellists: Mr. Franz Wagner, Mr. Day Williams. Other members of the Boeppler Symphony Orchestra.

This extraordinary array of artists enables Director Boeppler to have two soloists, one vocal and one instrumental, appear in each and every one of his concerts.

PAULIST CHORISTERS

The Paulist Choristers of Chicago, seventy-five boys and fifty men, Father William J. Finn, musical director, will be heard in a concert next Sunday, November 2, at 2:30, at the Studebaker, under the management of F. Wight Neumann. Father Finn has arranged an entirely new program, a number of the selections being sung to the accompaniment of a string quartet. The program is as follows:

Emmitte Spiritum Tuum.....Fr. Josef Shuetky
Eia Mater Fons Amoris.....Josef Rheinberger
Fair the Dawn Appears (from "Paradise Lost").....Theodore Dubois
Missa Solemnis in C .....J. Lewis Browne
(This Mass is dedicated to Father Finn, and is performed for the first time at this concert)
Kyrie
Gloria
Credo
Sanctus
Benedictus
Agnus Dei
Tene' rae Factae Sunt.....Michael Haydn
Priere .....Cesar Franck
For violin, 'cello, harp, organ
Ave Verum .....J. S. Bach
Into the Silent Land.....H. J. Stewart
Panis Angelicus.....Cesar Franck
Master Francis Casey, Soloist
Quando Corpus Morietur.....Josef Rheinberger



EFFA ELLIS
Keyboard Harmony
Melody Building and
Teaching System
Mean Rapid, Definite Reasoning, Based on the TRUTH Brief and Simple. Write about Special Modulation Course
EFFA ELLIS
204-5 BOSTON STORE BUILDING
OMAHA, NEBRASKA

APOLLO CLUB MUSICALE

The Apollo Musical Club ushered in its busy season last Thursday evening with a reception in Blackstone Hall and a musicale in Fullerton Hall of the Art Institute. The many members enjoyed a social hour, after which they listened to the charming artists, Leonora Allen, soprano; William Clare Hall, tenor; Clarence Whitehill, bass, and Edgar Nelson, pianist and accompanist, in the following program:

Recitative and Aria from "Sigurd".....Reger
"Lina" .....Fiorenzo
Mr. Hall
"Chant de Bacchante".....Bamberg
"Contemplation" .....Widor
"Rhapsodie" .....Campbell-Tipton
Miss Allen
Allegro from "Faschingschwank aus Wien".....Schumann
Mr. Nelson
"Tourine" .....Massenet
"Es blinkt der Thau".....Rubinstein
"Die Beiden Grenadiere".....Schumann
Mr. Whitehill

H. M. B.

MISS HEYMAN IN RECITAL

Miss Dora Heyman, an artist pupil of Della Thal, will appear in piano recital at the Howard Theater on Sunday, November 9, at 3 o'clock. Her program will be as follows:

DORA HEYMAN

Prelude and Fugue, A minor.....Bach-Liszt
Theme and Variations, A major .....Paderewski
Etude, Op. 10, No. 3
Etude, Op 25, No 2
Prelude, Op. 28, No. 7
Ballade, Op. 47 .....Chopin
Clair de Lune .....Debussy
En Automne .....Moszkowski
From a Wandering Iceberg.....MacDowell
Br'er Rabbit .....MacDowell
Rhapsodie No. 12 .....Liszt

BERTHA SMART IREDALE

A pupils song recital was given by Mrs. Bertha Smart Iredale on Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. James Gray, 6923 Parnell avenue, the following young singers taking part: Leone Easterly, Othelia Boller, Olive Michenfelder, Marie Easterly, Mrs. H. A. Gilkison, Mrs. Laura Culbertson, Mr. Kassel, Ethel Gray, Mrs. Meta Whitesell, Miss Kappelman and Florence Gray.

Accompaniments were played by Marie Easterly and Mrs. Lillian Johnston and piano solos were furnished by Mrs. Laura Culbertson, Ella Michenfelder and Marie Easterly, pupils of Clara Jeannette Pearne.

KNEISEL QUARTET

The Kneisel Quartet will again give three concerts this season under the management of F. Wight Neumann. The first one takes place Sunday afternoon, November 23, at The Studebaker. The personnel of the quartet remains the same as last season, Franz Kneisel, first violin; Hans Letz, second violin; Louis Svecenski, viola, and Willem Welleke, 'cello.

MARTIN BALLMANN CONCERTS

Martin Ballmann has established a prestige which cannot be disturbed by changes of location, and though he is this season in a new place with his Sunday afternoon concerts, the same old Ballmann following was in complete evidence at the first concert of the season on last Sunday, and the same enthusiastic approval often noted in the past was again his.

MARTIN BALLMANN

Lincoln Turner Hall is at Diversey Park way and Sheffield avenue, and is in appearance much like the North Side Turner Hall with the exception that it is newer and brighter, and the added pleasure that the lighting is much more advantageous. There is no direct glare of light beating upon the occupants of the balcony (the only vantage ground where one can escape, partially, the ubiquitous waiter) and the view of the stage is a good one. It is excessively noisy, however, and the suggestion is made that matting should certainly be laid in the aisles and especially on the stairs leading to this part of the house.

The stage on Sunday afternoon presented a cheerful aspect, and immediately on the entrance of Mr. Ballmann there was a definite reception given him which would have gladdened the heart of any conductor—without pause, however, he took up the baton and swung into a "Festival March" which he had written for the occasion, and which was played with such infectious joy by the men that a repetition was demanded. After this the enthusiasm would no longer be denied, and the stage was invaded by a committee of women who presented Mr. Ballmann with a huge bunch of roses, and a man who (in German) felicitated the popular conductor most heartily.

The orchestra was in splendid trim and besides delivering the initial piece and some succeeding semi-popular music with great style and vigor, played the Overture to "Der Freischutz" with much shading and a very clean pointing out of melodies and a deft coloring of the same.

The best number on the first half of the program (which is all that was heard by this writer) was the "Suite" from "Cavalleria Rusticana," including the half dozen best songs from that opera, arranged for orchestra and ending with the "Intermezzo," played with great freedom and beauty in so far as the orchestra was concerned.

An organ was used in connection with this number and also its encore, and unfortunately it was enough out of tune to cause decided impurity, and when to this were added the tones of a piano, which was also far from being what it should have been, it cannot be said that the effect was a good one.

However, this was but a passing mishap, which doubtless will be corrected before the number is given again, and the general excellence of the orchestra was such as to completely offset it.

This division of the program ended with a contra-bass solo, a treat as fine as it was unusual—Josef Houdek being the soloist and Mrs. Bruno Huehn playing the piano accompaniment.

The following sections of the program showed additional evidences of the good taste, and the musical knowledge of Mr. Ballmann, and included, besides the well selected and contrasted orchestral numbers, a zither solo by Carl Wunderle, and opera excerpts sung by a quartet whose abilities were listed to cover the "Martha" and "Rigoletto" quartets as well as excerpts from Sullivan's "Mikado."

C. E. W.

Helene Koelling

Prima Donna Soprano

Montreal Grand Opera Co.

Recital, Illinois Theater, Chicago
Sunday Afternoon, November 16th

Management
CARL D. KINSEY, Chicago

WILLETT SCHOOL OF SINGING

Miss Annette Pangbourne, soprano, a pupil of William A. Willett, and Miss Bessie M. Howland, a young pianist of Chicago Piano College, furnished the program at the monthly studio musicale held in the lecture room of Chicago Piano College, at Kimball Hall last Wednesday evening. On Miss Pangbourne fell the responsibility for the greater part of the program, which ranged in songs from the Handel era down to the present day composer. She presented her numbers in a manner which should be very gratifying to her many friends as well as her teacher. Miss Bessie MacAllister did satisfactory work as accompanist.

H. M. B.

EMILY PARSONS HUNT

Emily Parsons Hunt, pianist, who can be found at her studio, 520 Fine Arts Building, every Monday and Thursday afternoons, presented her pupil Miss Helen Leale Johnstone, assisted by Miss Mary Hansen, violinist, in a studio musicale, last Saturday afternoon. An appreciative audience was present to hear these young performers in the following program:

Opus 10, No. 2—Allegretto, Presto ..... Beethoven
Adagio, Gondoliera ..... Franz Ries
Romance, F Sharp Major ..... Schumann
Impromptu, Opus 142 No. 3 ..... Schubert
Melody ..... Dawes
Les Farfadets ..... Pente
Improvisation ..... MacDowell
Nocturne, F Minor ..... Chopin
Scherzo ..... Paul Juon
Colinette ..... Beaumont

H. M. B.

WALTER SPRY MUSIC SCHOOL

The program for the first faculty concert of the Walter Spry Music School, to take place in Fine Arts Theater on Sunday afternoon, November 2, reads as follows:

Trio for piano, violin and 'cello in B flat major, Op. 11 ..... Beethoven
Allegro con brio. Adagio
Allegretto
Messrs. Walter Spry, Alexander Krauss and Carl Klammsteiner

Ballade, "Aghadoe," (for contralto and orchestra) (first time in Chicago) ..... G. W. Chadwick
Mrs. Clarence Eddy

Concerto for Violin, E minor, Op. 64 ..... Mendelssohn
Andante
Allegro molto vivace
Mr. Krauss

Variations on Balkan Themes, Op. 60 ..... Mrs. H. H. A. Beach
Adagio malincolico (O my poor country)
Piu mosso.
Maestoso
Allegro non troppo
Andante alla Barcarola
Largo con molto espressione
Allegro-Hungarian (Grandpa has planted a little garden)
Cadenza (Macedonian appeal and first theme)
(First time in Chicago)
Mr. Spry

Dedication ..... Popper
Serenade ..... Glazounow
Mr. Klammsteiner

"Bist du bei mir," (Art thou with me) ..... J. S. Bach
"Allerseelen," (All Souls' Day) ..... Richard Strauss
"O weine nicht" (O weep not) ..... Anon
Mrs. Eddy

Trio for piano, violin and 'cello, Op. 99 ..... Schubert
Rondo, allegro vivace
Messrs. Spry, Krauss and Klammsteiner

Permelia Gale

CONTRALTO

ORATORIO
CONCERT
RECITAL

Management
ALMA VOEDISCH
3836 Wilton Av.

Business Phone Harrison 3604

Anna Groff - Bryant

Studios of Vocal Art

Ethel Bell Reeves Assistant

606 Fine Arts Building Chicago, Ill.
Phone Wabash 1051

Chicago Piano College

(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

CHICAGO PIANO COLLEGE

Mr. Elmer Johnson gave the following program last Saturday afternoon to a crowded house and again displayed those admirable pianistic powers which has made his work notably good and placed him among the very successful young pianists and teachers of Chicago:

Barcarolle in F.....Chaminade
Valse Romantique Op. 115.....Chaminade
Romanza .....Harmon H. Watt
Aufschwung .....Schumann
Nocturne in G.....Chopin
Scherzo B Flat Minor.....Chopin

Fall Bulletin

The Fall Bulletin of the college reads as follows:

October 18—Recital by pupils from advanced grades.
October 25—Recital by Elmer G. Johnson.
November 1—Pupils' recital.
November 8—Term examinations.
November 15—Recital by Miss Violet A. Vokoun.
November 22—Pupils' recital.
November 29—Recital by Mr. Watt.
December 6—Children's recital.
December 13—General recital.
December 20—Holiday vacation begins.

EDWARD CLARKE

Edward Clarke, the Canadian baritone, gave his lecture recital on "The Development of the German Lieder," before the study class of the Englewood Woman's Club, on October 20, singing the following songs:

Wanderer's Nachtlied
Morgengruss
Die Post
Der Doppelganger
Die Forelle
Erlkoenig
.....Schubert

Aus Meinen Tranen
Marienwurmchen
Ich Grolle Nicht
.....Schumann

Wir Wandelten
Staendchen
Botschaft
.....Brahms

Mr. Clarke appeared with Mrs. Clarke, violinist, and Earl Victor Prahl, pianist, at Kankakee, Ill., October 16.

EVANSTON WOMAN'S CLUB

The first of the series of morning musicales, under the direction of Miss Rachel Busey Kinsolving, will be given at the Evanston Woman's club, on Wednesday morning, November 5, at 10:30, the program by Yvonne De Treville.

THE CHICAGO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The second concert of the season, wholly orchestral and consisting of but three numbers, drew fine audiences and furnished further proof that the makeup of the orchestra and the individual excellence of the men are this year at par, if not a little above and also, that the programs are being selected with rare skill and good judgment.

The Mozart "Symphony" in C major proved to be not the most interesting of works by this composer, and developed a tedious quality in the first and second movements. The "Menuetto" is, however, ideally characteristic of all the finest Mozart points, and the "Presto" proved a joy also.

The Schubert "Symphony" No. 10, C Major, was unalloyed musical delight—great in sweep, vivid in coloring, and full of sentiment—it proved again to be a glorious work, and it was read by Mr. Stock in a glorious manner.

In contrast with these, and wholly admirable, whether alone or in such juxtaposition, the Reger "Romantic Suite" Op. 125 was found to be a work of wonderfully pointed character and one affording keen musical enjoyment in spite of the fact that its mood seems to be a somewhat weakened reflection of Debussy. The "Nocturno" movement is full of originality and wonderful painting of color splashes, but it is not absolutely convincing. The "Scherzo," however, is characteristically original, absolutely cohesive and wonderfully effective. The audience endorsed the number unreservedly.

The program for the current week is as follows:

Symphony No. 1, C major, Opus 21.....Beethoven
Adagio molto—Allegro con brio
Andante cantabile con moto
Menuetto
Adagio—Allegro molto e vivace
Five Little Pieces.....Schonberg

INTERMISSION

Symphony No. 2, D major, Opus 73.....Brahms
Allegro non troppo
Adagio non troppo
Allegretto grazioso (quasi andantino)
Allegro con spirito

MEMORIAL CHURCH CONCERT

The first concert of a series to be given at the Memorial church of Christ took place on last Thursday evening and was a distinct success, the participants being The Imperial Male Quartet, Margaret Lester, soprano, and William Lester, accompanist.

The Imperial Quartet has very easily stepped into a place of first importance in local musical affairs and their out-of-town demand is constantly so great that few nights indeed remain without engagement for them.

This is not surprising in view of the very great excellence of their ensemble and the fine personality and good talent of each individual member of the quartet.

Mr. Wallace Moody has a splendidly poised tenor voice—and the quality of his musicianship is very high. He makes an ideal first tenor, and is ably flanked by C. Robert Wood, who as second tenor has every requirement for the place musically and temperamentally.

Mr. Ben Q. Tufts, who is the manager of the four, is also the first bass, and it is due to his very keen insight into both business affairs and artistic matters as well that the ensemble has attained such prominence and such perfection. Last season Mr. Julius Worthington was second bass, and made many friends for his fine voice and style—this year he is studying abroad and this necessitated a new member in The Imperial. Mr. Tufts was most fortunate in securing Oliver Johnson, who has both the voice and the personality to fill the place to excellent advantage, and who on last Thursday evening made an emphatically good impression.

The numbers sung were almost identically the same as those given at the University Concert last summer and again was the list found thoroughly desirable.

Buck's "Robin Adair" is one of the best of pieces for male quartet, the Mendelssohn

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
5th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

CHARLES LaBergé Baritone
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Edna Reiffert SEVERINGHAUS
Mezzo Soprano - Teacher of Voice
63 Auditorium Building

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

van Vliet The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4365

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

MAE Doelling Pianist Teacher
4141 N. Hermitage Av.

"Battle Hymn" is superb and the long list of other works given showed great versatility, much variety and constant artistry. Especially beautiful is Carrie Jacobs Bond's "I Love You Truly" and the Imperials sing it exquisitely.

Mrs. Lester was not in perfect physical condition, but such is her voice and her art that she was able to make a splendid showing nevertheless, and to so fill her work with artistic charm that she completely captivated the audience.

Her opening group comprised "Deh vieni non Tardor" (Marriage of Figaro), Mozart, and the "Ave Maria" (Othello) Verdi, in Italian, "Der Nussbaum" and "Fruhlingsnacht," Schumann, in German and "L'Heure Exquise," Hahn, in French, and in all these—besides proving herself a mistress of language and infinite variety of style she also disclosed warm tone, clear enunciation and great finish always.

Her second group was in English and included the cunning "Pastorale" by Wilson, sung exquisitely, the "Song of the Chimes," a really wonderful tone poem by Worrell and one which made emphatic success with the audience. Andersen's "Maytime" gay to the limit, and tossed off with great abandon by Mrs. Lester and two songs by William Lester, which of course were sung with great distinction and the accompaniments to which were ideal.

The first of these "As a Perfume Doth Remain" is a sentimental song with great depth of feeling and much beauty of musical content—the second, while not at all like either, has yet the same general frolicsome character and the same immediate effectiveness of Arthur Olaf Andersen's "Maytime," and Mrs. Lulu Jones Downing's "June," and like those numbers it will certainly become not only a local favorite, but will have a wide vogue throughout song land.

It was remarkably well received on Thursday and added one more feather to the Lester cap.

———♯♯♯———

MARGARET SLATTERY AT THE SWEDISH CLUB

Miss Slattery, a soprano with a fine voice and a splendid concert style, appeared in concert before the Swedish Club at their home on La Salle avenue on Sunday afternoon and was assisted by Mr. N. W. Anthony, who gave some baritone selections, principally Swedish; and the Harmonie Singing Club which sang with much spirit and considerable musical value.

In the "Stein Song" from the "Prince of Pilzen" this ensemble was particularly effective—singing with a great vim and effect, the elaborate obligato solo line being assigned to Mr. A. A. Carlson.

Miss Slattery, evidently a great favorite at this club, was greeted with much enthusiasm when she first appeared, and throughout the program, and her work was indeed a treat. To good voice and appearance she adds an intelligence which enables her to vary her work to the fullest degree and to make it always interpretatively excellent.

Ware's "Joy of the Morning" was sung with great vivacity, and Spross' "Will o' the Wisp" was done with engaging lightness in spite of a depressing accompaniment.

Franz's "Out of My Soul's Great Sadness" and Strauss' "Du meines herzen Kronlein" were sung with much intelligence as to their texts and ample color and beauty as regards the musical content.

Several Swedish songs made immediate success. Schumann's "Der Nussbaum" proved a wise choice for the voice, and Homer's "Dearest" as well as some sentimental bits used for encore, were delivered with taste and discretion, while "My Lover He Comes on the Ski" by Clough-Leighter proved to be unusually exhilarating.

C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

THE DUNHAM CONCERT

Arthur Dunham opened his series of concerts at Sinai Temple on Sunday evening very auspiciously in spite of the bad weather, and a goodly audience listened to the first concert with the same enthusiasm which was so much in evidence last year.

Mr. Dunham has made a wise selection of instruments and of players for his orchestra, and his drill must certainly be insistent as well as being backed up by ample musicianship, for the results are of solid worth. On Sunday evening the numbers were of bijou dimensions and light in content, but they were played exquisitely, every one.

Mr. Dunham himself appeared as organ soloist and quite as usual, he walked away with the greatest honors. The organ at Sinai is superb and Mr. Dunham's reading of the "Marche Religieuse" by Guilmant, was organ playing at its best and finest.

The vocal soloist was Albert Lindquest, who showed at this time an advance in his art, which was remarkable. Always possessed of an exceptionally good voice, he has now added dramatic value of amazing effectiveness, and it is difficult, indeed, to imagine a more successful group than the short songs given by him on Sunday night or to picture a more sincere success.

Early in the evening Mr. Lindquest sang an aria from "L'Africaine," and as an encore the one from "Rigoletto," both of which were excellent in conception and presentment, according to all who heard them, and in the group sung later Lang's "Day Is Gone" was a fine example of legato, "Mammy's Song" (Ware), was a deftly colored story, and the Campbell-Tipton "Hymn to the Night" showed breadth and style in splendid degrees.

C. E. W.

THE MAC BURNEY STUDIOS

The six program of songs by Chicago composers was given at the MacBurney Studios on Monday evening and again it was proven that there is here an immense repertoire of songs practically unknown—some of which are entirely worth while, and the missionary work of Mr MacBurney and Mr. Lester is certainly of great value.

Mrs. Fern Smith-MacBurney and Mr. William Hay were the singers, and as usual the most comprehensive of support was given at the piano by Mr. William Lester.

Mrs. MacBurney has a charming style and a very attractive voice—since last heard it has grown in power to a very appreciable extent and in all matters making for artistry she is certainly worthy of much commendation.

Mr. Hay has a fine voice, an absolutely attractive style and an evident sincerity in his work which will carry him far.

Mrs. MacBurney sang first a group of the songs by Mrs. A. O. Mason, "The Butterfly Is in Love" being attractive, "Flower in the Crannied Wall" worthy of attention, and "Awakening" still standing as the best song from this pen, it being unusually temperamental. "The Year's at the Spring" is ineffective.

B. Trotwood Eberhardt, who was honored by the fact that Mrs. MacBurney had prepared four of his songs in an exceptionally serious way and that she delivered them with much art hardly seems worth while for exploitation. Perhaps the "Korean Song" might grow in favor with repeated hearings, but all of the songs have a fatally inadequate piano score.

One of the strongest groups of the evening was that consisting of "Four Love Rhymes" by W. Otto Miessner. These are songs with a purpose—songs with true musicianship back of them and when sung so charmingly as by Mrs. MacBurney they prove to be a fine addition to the repertoire.

Mr. Hay first presented a rather colorless song by Nussbaum, but followed it at once with Grant-Schaefer's "The Wind Speaks," a song with an intensely breezy and effective message, as also "Autumn" and "Song of Saul" by the same composer, the latter especially being a dramatic flame.

Bergen's "Were I a Rose" ushered in the second group chosen by Mr. Hay, and William Lester's "Love Solace," "My Rose" and "The Night Winds" completed the list. All three of these are good songs, varied in character and each one musically exact in the depiction of text-suggested mood. "My Rose" was perhaps the most effective on Monday.

C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

Kimball Hall—A concert will be given at Kimball Hall next Monday evening by Alice Geer Ferguson, vocalist, assisted by Isadore L. Buchhalter, pianist, and Mrs. Lida Browning White, accompanist. Several of Mrs. White's compositions will be sung.

———♯♯♯———

Rishel—Austin C. Rishel, chairman of the music committee and lately vice president of the Apollo Club, died in Chicago last week. Funeral services were held at the North Shore Congregational Church last Sunday afternoon.

Thomas N. MacBurney

Baritone — Voice Production — Song Recitals

Three years assistant to King Clark

508-609 Fine Arts Bldg. Chicago — Phone Harrison 6880

North Shore School of Music
Broadway and Leland Ave.
The Ideal School for Resident and Out of Town Pupils.

WILLIAM A. WHITE, President. Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, William A. White, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC AND THEORY, William A. White. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul
ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated)
CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar
TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868

JESSIE KING IN RECITAL

The first few Sundays of the new season are filled with great variety and importance of musical offerings, and some find no chance for success because of the great mass and variety.

Not so in the case of the Jessie King recital at the Fine Arts Theater on last Sunday, however, for this fine young pianist has a host of personal friends and still more ardent admirers of her art, and therefore she was greeted with a fine audience in spite of great counter attractions on the occasion of her first public recital since her long stay abroad, during which she was a pupil of Leopold Godowsky.

JESSIE KING

Miss King has personality of the most pronounced sort, and she presents a thoroughly attractive figure on the concert stage.

Her program was a beautifully contrasted one and contained much that was proof eloquent of her fine attainments, while at the same time there were other offerings which allowed full play to those finer and dainter graces of which she is so much possessed, as well as providing moments of power and breadth as well.

That the audience liked the arrangement of numbers and appreciated the finish and the virility of the playing was evidenced by a continual show of enthusiasm and took the form also of repeated demands for encore, even after the lengthy program was completed, the pianist being compelled to add still one more number before the audience was willing to leave. Flowers, too, were much in evidence, and by this gracious means Miss King was proven to have many warm friends.

The Bach-Tausig "Toccata and Fugue" and the Beethoven "Sonata" Op. 53 disclosed solidity of technic, breadth of style and an intimate acquaintance with the serious style and intent of these master minds, while Brahms in his "Capriccio"and "Scherzo" received an interpretation which was at once intimate and original, and still held to proven tradition in all that is best of musical interpretation.

The Chopin "Impromptu" F Sharp Major and the "Scherzo" in B Minor proved Miss King to be an interpreter of this composer far in advance of the average—one who has studied most minutely the inner meanings of his greatest works and who has the full equipment for presenting these difficulties in the clearest and most convincing way.

After this feast of pure music—both intellectual and temperamental—Miss King turned to technically brilliant and melodically appealing things and read the Liadow "Barcarolle" charmingly, and put much vivacity and sparkle into a "Rhapsody" by Dohnanyi, ending the recital proper with Liszt in his "Au Bord d' une Source" and "Rigoletto" (Paraphrase), and appearing for final encore in a Chopin "Prelude" which was played excellently.

Unquestionably Miss King is one of the best equipped of the young school of pianists and undoubtedly she will rapidly advance to a place in the front ranks of local artists.

CLARENCE WHITEHILL'S RECITAL

At his recital on Sunday afternoon Mr. Whitehill succeeded in creating an unusual atmosphere. His attitude was essentially manly and straightforward and free from any sort of affectation. Thereby it became at once authoritative and impressive. There was a quiet consciousness in his preparedness, and unhesitating personality in his delivery. He gave out his musical messages with the keenest fervor and openness, and seemed sincerely glad that what he had to say gave so much satisfaction. When he saw a desire on the part of his hearers for the repetition of a song, he sang it over again cheerfully. At the close of each group he came out once or twice to bow acknowledgment—and be it said in passing, he has a fine bow—and then, without further ado, he sang an encore. In this way the recital was not prolonged unduly and the auditor left the theater refreshed and inspirited and truly grateful for a personality both sane and artistic.

The program was also masterly in its release from conventional shackles, and in the frank expression of individual desire. There were a lot of new things, some old well-liked ones, and a group that might be called popular in the best sense of the

DELMA-HEIDE
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris
MAESTO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

ISAAC VAN GROVE
ACCOMPANIST AND COACH
716 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Herbert E. HydE
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
Studio 521 Kimball Hall, Tues. and Frf. Res. 6611 Woodlawn Av

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

CHARLOTTE LOUISE PETTIBONE
Piano Accompanying Instruction
224 North Prairie Av., Austin, Chicago

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

word. The successions made for ease and relaxation. Everything was given its weight or deftness or sentiment, and yet there was no palpable striving for effect. The impression left was that of undisguised spontaneity. The imagery of Franck's "Procession," the weaving mystery of Chausson's "Charme," the dramatic passion of the Zandonai excerpt, and the valiant, lofty loyalty of Massenet's "Touraine" gave to the French group superb distinction. It contained by far the most exalted moment of the afternoon, and nothing was more exquisite in flavor than the Franck number. And the Touraine was gallantly close at hand.

Kaun's "Daheim" was enveloped in that elusive longing which its name and text suggest. Strauss' "Caecilie" had a more vigorous interpretation than usually offered. The Schubert "Am Meer" created a desire to hear Mr. Whitehill do it in a lower key, despite the telling brilliancy of the upper tones called for on this occasion. The "Two Grenadiers" given as encore was vividly picturesque.

Mr. Whitehill honored his audience by introducing for accompanist, Mr. Kurt Schindler, many of whose fine-grained songs have found place on recital programs. The two men are in marked contrast, one so martial in his vigor, the other so poetic. But the mutual support was admirable, and after using the Schindler song, "Stella Amori," the honors of applause were shared. The song is on noble lines, intensive and appealing. Carpenter's "Looking Glass River" was fascinatingly presented—a fact quickly recognized by the audience. The text and its setting are perfection. A whirlwind of intensity is Borowski's "Tristram," which lies exactly in Mr. Whitehill's grasp, and he poured out its impulsive phrases opulently. Alnaes' "Last Voyage" and Harty's "Homeward," two capital songs, closed the English group. And what pure English it was, as it came from Mr. Whitehill's lips. Clear and expressive was the diction of all the songs, giving new and charming value to the melodies and their phrasing. Again we know that the text of a song need not be bungled if care and intelligence be brought also to its presentation.

The Irish Folk Songs topped off the afternoon unctuously. The artist fitted himself into the grave and gay lyrics with the same surrender to the demands, and made the little things fairly glow. Altogether the event was notable. The presence of Mr. Schindler was a chord of further distinction. It was privilege to view at close range this interesting personality. And it will take much to obliterate the remembrance of the smooth flow of the Franck song and the clear ringing lilt of "Touraine" as Mr. Whitehill made them shimmer and shine.

ALBERT COTSWORTH.

———♯♯♯———

MRS. RUSSELL'S CONCERT

Mrs. Estelle Russell presented her vocal pupils in a program on last Monday evening which was nothing short of remarkable when it is taken into consideration that the season is yet so young. The only possible explanation of this excellence lies in the assurance that Mrs. Russell is a teacher who does her work so thoroughly one year that the good effects of it inevitably carry over into the next.

Mrs. Russell is fortunate also in having so many serious minded and thoroughly talented pupils, and on Monday she was still further to be congratulated in having the artistic services of Mr. Oscar Deis "at the piano."

The program in full is appended:

Bridal Chorus (from "The Rose Maiden").....Cowen
He Gave me a Rose ..... Cadman
Ladies Chorus
The Gift ..... Cowen
A Pink Rose .....Carrie Jacobs-Bond
Mary Price
Beloved It Is Morn .....Alyward
Mignon ..... d'Hardelot
Elizabeth Hubbard
My Ain Folk ..... Lemon
Ah! 'Tis a Dream ..... Hawley
Lyda Perry
Provencal Maidens .....Del 'Acqua
To You ..... Speaks
Pauline Solomon
Mother o' Mine ..... Tours
O, Heart of Mine ..... Clough-Leighter
William Clancy
Vilanelle ..... Del 'Acqua
A Bowl of Rosess ..... Conningsby-Clarke
Ethel McSween
Vous Dansez Marquise ..... Lemaire
At Dawning ..... Cadman
Marian Moreau
Just a Wearyin' for You ..... Bond
In the Time of Roses ..... Reichardt
Barcarolle ..... Offenbach
Charlotte Beck, Glenn Sherwood, Mabel Hatton, David Pershing
I Love You Truly ..... Bond
The Sweetest Flower That Blows ..... Hawley
A Dream ..... Bartlett
Dorothy Schumann
Piano Solo, Tarantella ..... Liszt
Oscar Deis
A Spirit Flower ..... Campbell Tipton
Serenade ..... Schubert
Glenn Sherwood
The Erl King ..... Schubert
Hedge Roses ..... Schubert
Angela McSween
The Danza ..... Chadwick
Rose in the Bud..... Forrester
Helen Rein
Mattinata ..... Tosti
Who Is Sylvia ..... Schubert
Margaret Given
I Am Titania (from Mignon) ..... Thomas
The Swing ..... Liza Lehman
Charlotte Beck
Caro Nome (from Rigelotto) ..... Verdi
Down in the Forest ..... Ronald Lucille Hayley
Mattinata ..... Leoncavallo
Romance ..... Debussy
The Cuckoo ..... Lehman
Alice Eberhard
Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves ..... Handel
The Vulcan Song (from Philemon and Baucis)..... Gounod
David R. Pershing

Other engagements made it impossible to hear all of this program, but of the part heard it is possible to speak in terms of high praise of the work of Glenn Sherwood, who has a very pleasing tenor voice, and David R. Pershing, whose baritone is really remarkable; as also of Angela McSween, Helen Rein, Margaret Given, Charlotte Beck, Lucille Hayley and Alice Eberhard, the last three of whom, at least, have been with Mrs. Russell a long time, and whose work is distinctly that of young artists.

Mrs. Russell's choice of program was remarkably effective and the audience was unstintedly enthusiastic. C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

Madrigal Club—The Chicago Madrigal Club, D. A. Clippinger, director, will give a concert for the Nike Club November 6, in Lincoln Center, Oakwood boulevard and Langley avenue.

MUSIC TO COME

(Under this caption Music News will hereafter schedule all announcements received by Tuesday noon of each week.)

Friday, October 31

Orchestra Hall, 2:15. Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Saturday, November 1

Kimball Hall, 3:30. American Conservatory Pupils' concert.

Chicago Piano College, 2:00. Pupils' concert.

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Sunday, November 2

Fine Arts Theater, 3:30. Walter Spry Music School faculty concert.

Lincoln Turner Hall, 3:00. Ballmann Orchestra.

Studebaker Theater, 3:30. Paulist Choristers.

Sinai Temple, 8:15. Dunham Orchestra, Albert Borroff, soloist.

Monday, November 3

Kimball Hall, 8:15. Song recital, Alice Geer Ferguson.

Wednesday, November 5

Woman's Club, Evanston, 10:30 a. m. Song recital; Yvonne de Treville.

Thursday, November 6

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Recital; Mme. Gadski.

Sunday, November 9

Studebaker Theater, 3:30. Song recital; Rosa Olitzka.

Fine Arts Theater, 3:30. Song recital; Alice Nielsen.

Auditorium, 3:00. "Creation;" Apollo Club.

North Side Turner Hall, 3:00. First concert The Boeppler Symphony Orchestra, Mabel Sharp Herdien, soloist.

Howard Theater, 3:00. Dora Heyman, piano recital.

Sunday, November 16

Illinois Theater, 3:30. Song recital; Helene Koelling.

Monday, November 17

Auditorium, 8:15. "Elijah;" Apollo Club.

Wednesday, November 19

Association Auditorium, 8:15. Bach Choral Society; Orchestra, soloists, Herdien, Johnson, Kimbell.

Wednesday, November 26

The Auditorium, 8:15. Opening of the Chicago Grand Opera season.

———♯♯♯———

Doelling—Miss Mae Doelling played on October 7 at the Rogers Park Woman's Club; October 28 at Lake View Woman's Club; November 12 she will appear in a concert at Cedric Hall; November 29, recital at American Conservatory, and December 8, a joint recital at The Fine Arts Theater with Elsa Holinger.

———♯♯♯———

Marion, Ind.—Miss Anna Von Hoffman appeared at the Grand Theater with great success. She has a fine voice and style.

Churches

ST. JAMES M. E. CHURCH

The special musical service arranged by Tina Mae Haines for last Sunday evening at St. James, was one of exceptional value and afforded absolute proof of the values of organist, quartet and chorus choir—all of which at St. James are much above the average.

Miss Haines played a preliminary program with distinction and was also very much mistress of the whole situation both as regards selection and arrangement of the program and the satisfactory carrying-out of the same.

Besides this she shone to special advantage inasmuch as her own "O King of Kings" was sung and proved itself to be a splendid piece of composition. It is written along broadly virile lines—English in effect rather than otherwise, and it would be difficult to imagine more solid massing of four voices or more effective incidental soprano solo than those provided by Miss Haines, while the organ background, as written by her, is, of course, ideal.

Chadwick's "Hark, Hark, My Soul," built upon very much the same lines as the famous work by Rowe-Shelly, but not its equal in every respect, was sung with fine values also—the two alto solos being exquisitely done by Esther Plumb and the bits of soprano obligato being projected with great beauty by Naomi Nazor.

In these two singers Miss Haines has a combination of artistry very difficult to duplicate.

"List the Cherubic Host" from "Holy City" (Gaul) served to show the good voice of Charles Champlain, the basso, and proved also that Miss Haines is a successful chorus manager, although it must be said that the attacks in the first few phrases were not clean cut.

The selection of anthems other than these was ideal for showing the splendid resources of Miss Haines and her singers and included a generous excerpt from C. Lee Williams' "Harvest Song," the antiphonal chorus "Lamb of God," by Widor, and "Ho Every One That Thirsteth," by MacFarlane. C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

WINNETKA CONGREGATIONAL

The choir of the Winnetka Congregational Church will give the first of their musical vesper services for this season, next Sunday afternoon, November 2, at 5 o'clock.

Miss Mary Porter Pratt is organist and choir-director here, and the quartet consists of Mrs. Greenwood E. Murch, soprano; Mrs. J. Tyrrell Cheney, contralto; Mr. Arthur B. Elliott, tenor; Mr. Roscoe G. Kimball, bass.

On November 2 they will give an entire Mendelssohn program, one of his sonatas being played for the organ prelude and sections of the "Hymn of Praise" will be sung, as well as "Hear My Prayer."

The quartet will be assisted by Mrs. Lawrence Clark, soprano. These special musical services are to be given once a month throughout the winter.

———♯♯♯———

ST. PAUL'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

The regular monthly musical service was given at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Fiftieth street and Dorchester avenue, last Sunday afternoon, under the direction of John Allen-Richardson, organist and choirmaster. The choirs had the assistance in this service of William Middelschulte, organist; Anna W. Lawrence, harpist, and Robert Rea, soprano. Mr. Richardson is achieving splendid results with his choir of forty male voices and there is no question but that there will be excellent music heard at these afternoon services during the winter. Mr. Middelschulte again proved he is master of the great organ by playing selections from Mozart, Alkan, Bach, Mendelssohn, Handel and Middelschulte.

Excellent solo work was accomplished by Robert Rea, a boy soprano, who has few equals in Chicago. H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

ST. PAUL'S NORWEGIAN LUTHERAN CHURCH

The choir of St. Paul's Norwegian Lutheran Church, 2215 W. North avenue, gave the first song service of the regular monthly series last Sunday night. The music offered was a splendid proof of the good work being done by this choir under the direction of Miss Ora Johnson, whose talent not only lies in being able to successfully direct a choir, but she is also an organist of whom the church may well be proud. Her playing of the "Prelude" from "Sonata" in C minor by Guilmant, and "At Twilight" by Nevin, were especially enjoyed and deserve specific mention. A duet for soprano and contralto, "Glory to Thee, My God," by Gounod, was very well sung by Miss Elsie Rasmussen and Emily Peterson. H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

Russell.—The first pupils' recital of the Russell School of Music and Dramatic Art was given at the studios, Seventh-fifth street and Vincennes road, on Saturday afternoon by pupils of L. Douglass Russell and Louise Cozad.

CLARENCE EDDY

May be engaged for the
Opening of New Organs and for Organ Recitals
During the Season of 1913-1914.
Address: 510 Oakwood Blvd., Chicago.

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
6450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
200 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5196

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL Phone Harrison 5919

ELLA C. BIGELOW
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
AKRON, OHIO

LESTER S. BUTLER
Voice, Harmony, Counterpoint
SPECIAL WRITER: CRITIC
Editors and others wishing articles on musical topics, gladly served.
Boston, Mass. Steinert Hall Worcester, Mass Day Building

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS
SOPRANO
CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS
6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

Katherine Howard Ward
Organist - Pianist - Teacher - Accompanist
917 Wilson Avenue Phone Ravenswood 2152

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. Baritone DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING
American Conservatory
Kimball Hall

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusiv Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON

Theaters

AT THE LITTLE THEATER

There is no music at The Little Theater—for which all the gods be praised! And if one knows how to fill forty minutes of intermission with tea drinking or has within himself resources which makes this waiting endurable, he may find in the current bill something of superlative merit, and that which will provide pleasure in the highest degree provided further that the mind is still open to poesy and fantasy and has not been completely ossified through a continual procession of the prevalent inanities of the ordinary stage.

The evening is made up of three plays, and while these are from three different pens the central idea of each is the alliance of Columbine and Pierrot. The locale is somewhat mixed, for while one play is "at the Top of the World" and the second is "Seen Through the Window" the third one is "Under the Skylight," and these various locations might be anywhere on earth or in dreamland for that matter.

Presumably from the characters employed the first one is in England and the second in France, while the third might be in Chicago, Paris or London. That Chicago is meant is indicated in various touches—the "Movies," the "Settlement House Worker" etc., being typically, but not necessarily exclusively of Chicago, while the diet of cheese, herrings, muffins and honey indicates London, but the constant recurrence of thought to "the happy days of Versailles" points to the fact that the big city of the scene is Paris.

Anyway, it is all delightful and the first especially is of a literary charm hardly surpassed by the beauty of the stage pictures and the deftness of the action.

It shows the love making and the mating of Columbine and Pierrot after a most fantastic scene in which is included also Harlequin and Dan'l and Nathan'l—two rustics, one very young and the other very old, but both admirable.

In the second play "Maker of Dreams" Pierrot is brought to a realization of the steadfastness of the love of Columbine through the ministrations of the "Maker of Dreams," a middle-aged but still chubby and ruddy Cupid, into whose mouth the author has put much of quaint homily and an abundance of fancy.

The last play, by a member of the company, is fantastic travesty in the broadest sense, and it is played most beautifully.

Columbine and Pierrot, grown very old, are in the city where times have become very difficult for them and they have their "first quarrel" over money (or rather the lack of it). A chance remark, however, recalls their younger and happier days, and both don the old time clothes in a spirit of reminiscence and immediately thereupon youth returns, and with it the determination to leave the sordidness of the city and return to the natural haunts of Columbine and Pierrot—the ever young and the ever gay, so the play ends with Pierrot trundling Columbine off in a little red wheelbarrow and the assumption of the final curtain is "happiness ever afterward."

All this is done with the most delightfully light and naive touch, and the amount of artistry employed through the evening is marvelous and its effectiveness is almost beyond belief when one considers the tiny stage on which all the illusion must be created and the action carried forward.

Maurice Browne is a remarkable personality and a very great artist, and he is admirably seconded by Mrs. Browne, while many others in the current cast are excellent also, notably Edward Pasmore, Margaret Allen, Marguerite Hertz, George Wolff and Elizabeth Goodrich Beckitt.

One of the most unique effects of the bill is the introduction, immediately upon the opening of the first play of a faun (Pan, perhaps), who, as silhouetted by Mr. Browne, is wonderful. This effect was gained by Mr. Browne through study of the Russian ballet dancers in London, and it is truly remarkable.

At intervals through the evening the flute-playing faun reappears and the final curtain goes down on him, silhouetted against the window at the back of the scene, with flute to lips, voicing his tune, alternately gay and sad. C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

HAMILTON HOPKINS' FIRST SEASON HERE

Hamilton Hopkins, the dramatic tenor and pupil of Titta Ruffo's teacher, Lelio Casini, whose method of placement and production he teaches, is making a success of this, his first season in Chicago. His studios in the Fine Arts Building are very busy with pupils who have been attracted by the opportunity of studying the tonal methods of Maestro Casini.

Mr. Hopkins has returned to America after seven years spent in Europe, four of them as assistant to Casini in Milan. Mrs. Hopkins, who is associated with her husband, has an effective lyric soprano which drew the following tribute from a critical Chicagoan: "Your husband deserves great praise for bringing out your voice. Your career should be a wonderful one, as you have what is necessary to be a great prima donna."

A number of interesting voices are already in Mr. Hopkins' charge, and he is occupied with correcting faulty breathing, developing resonance and properly placing voices.

Mr. Hopkins is now located in a beautiful new studio, 710 Fine Arts Building.

———♯♯♯———

Huntley—Miss Hazel Huntley sang at the Woman's Association of Commerce Exhibition at the Congress Hotel, on October 14; was soloist at the special music service of the Ravenswood M. E. Church last Sunday evening, and on Wednesday evening gave a recital at Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill.

———♯♯♯———

Zeuch.—William E. Zeuch has left Chicago to assume his duties as organist for the municipal concerts in Atlanta, Ga.

Music in New York

By ABBIE STEPHENS FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall

What type of woman is Celeste M. Heckscher, of whom you speak so frequently, the writer has been repeatedly asked. Is she an aggressive? A suffragist? Is she blond or brunette? Tall or short? Ardent or apathetic? In a word how does she appeal to one?

Sweeping decisions regarding human beings, their physical presentment and attributes are usually of small value. Snap-shot decisions may hit the bull's-eye, but in the majority of instances they are of little or no value.

A snap-shot decision would not be possible in the summing up of the personality of the subject of this article, for it is difficult to define the elusive, almost indefinite charm that subjugates one when in the presence of this exceptional woman. Any superficial characterization of a being of Mrs. Heckscher's type might be liable to misapprehension. The judgment of her friends and acquaintances would probably be condensed in the compound word: Poetess-composer.

And yet this significant and comprehensive title does not by any means cover or convey the total of this distinguished composer's charm and fascination.

As to the physical environing of her personality, she is an appealing Greuze pastel done into flesh. A subdued, ash-gold, blonde (not even remotely suggesting Rudyard Kipling's famous line: "Bar gold in the Mint") tints the aureole of hair—almost auriferous framing in certain lights—glorifying the pale, mobile, sweet, aristocratic, oval countenance, providing in itself a note of definition.

This face can not be done (subtly) into a word picture. There is only suggestion to fall back upon, and the portrait adorning the cover-page of the present issue of "Music News," so delicately suggesting a marquise of the best French period.

Yet there is a different impression made and one which vividly remains in the observer's consciousness after seeing the original of the painting herewith reproduced. Something neither painter nor engraver has power to catch or transcribe.

The eyes themselves, starry and emotional, elude the painter's pursuit. These orbs, looking out upon the world, have also the introspective inward gaze of a marble Psyche symbolizing the upward-yearning soul. There is the word of supreme significance—of obviously suitable import: Soul! Psyche, Soul! That is the impression detaching itself from all others, and remaining insistently in the memory. Eyes whose visional flight pierces the empyrean, and searches the infinite.

While listening to the beautifully modulated voice of Mrs. Heckscher one cannot get away from the Sir Joshua Reynolds effect of physiognomic light and shading. A limpid chiaroscuro that compels a reminiscent, backward glance of memory's enshrined, Rossettian "Blessed Damozel." The ivory exquisite half-tones—the pale tints of transfused lights and shades.

Perforce one always comes back to the face, so finely aristocratic, sensitive and delicately chiselled.

One is startled by the recollection that this fragile appearing lily of womanhood has the fiery dramatic instinct of Magyar and Gypsy—of hot-blooded, languorous Latin when she chooses. "The Suite of the Pyrenees" has Bizet-like touches that chase the blood up and down the spine. This modern recrudescence of the Blessed Lady of Dante—Rossetti's Dreams, has the masculine vigor to make sonorous, virile rhythms. To give the strings something more than velvet vocalizings; to touch grandly, and with startling highlights of drums and cymbals.

Caught up by an inspiration stronger than herself Celeste Heckscher developed this entrancing suite into a homogenous scheme logically, fittingly and broadly worked out.

If Tschaikowsky had fathered this opus one would have remarked upon his intense originality and versatility.

As it is, a shock is superinduced almost when one learns that the composer is a woman of poetic appeal and exquisitely poised personality, to whom one would dedicate a sonnet, or celebrate in stanzas as Heaven-kissing as the versification of Keats.

So much for a small suggestion of an idea regarding a figure so important in the world of music.

At some time in the near future we shall have something to say regarding Mrs. Heckscher's ancestry and her devotion to her art; and the quiet but emphatic manner in which a cult of her works is developing, and the impress of her genius making itself felt.

BONCI
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York
Knabe Piano Used

CHRISTINE MILLER
In Europe until Oct. 1, 1913
Address, care of American Express Co., Paris
CONTRALTO
Management HAENSEL & JONES
Aeolian Hall, New York

MR. & MRS. JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS
Address 330 West 58th St.
NEW YORK CITY

MARIE NARELLE SOPRANO
110 Carnegie Hall, New York

PIANIST BACHAUS
BALDWIN PIANO USED
Management Loudon Charlton

J. S. VAN CLEVE Ph. D.
Concert Pianist, Lecturer & Coach for Singers, Pianists & Composers. Lecture-Recitals a Specialty, given before Lyceums Women's Clubs, Conservatories & special audiences, either in private parlors or schools. For terms address Care the Musicians' Club, 62 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Philip SPOONER
AMERICAN TENOR
Exponent of Bel Canto.
J. W. LYMAN, 501 Fifth Av.
NEW YORK

BISPHAM
All communications to
Private Address 44 West 44th St.
NEW YORK

STEINDEL ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS—VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Violinist Brokaw Power-Meyer Conservatory WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

SADIE WALKER
University Studios 5828 Woodlawn Av. VIOLINIST Exclusive M'g't Harry Culbertson

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

DEWITT DURGIN TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg

COLLINS J. Basso-Cantante BROCK
EUDORA MOODY SOPRANO
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

MARY ANN KAUFMAN
SOPRANO
Edgewater 8519 4433 Racine Av., CHICAGO, ILL.

Grant Tenor KIMBELL
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

RAYMOND B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

Spencer T. Driggs Passes

As we write word comes to us of the demise of Spencer Turner Driggs, one of the most prominent figures of New York's sphere of musical journalism, and a man identified with musical affairs for over 25 years.

In him the musician and artist, as well as the Musical Courier (the well-known musical publication with which he has been so long identified, and whose success has been helped by his constant endeavors), lose a friend, an eminent counsellor and adviser.

At first secretary and treasurer of the Courier, during these last years Mr. Driggs became its general advertising manager. Each post that he filled was a distinctive attestation to his energy and intelligence.

Mr. Driggs was only 52 years of age. His death will come as a shock because of his apparently excellent health, his unfailing optimism and smiling cheerfulness. A widow and two sons survive him.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Recitalers To the Fore

The season opens with a rush, and "recitalling" (this is my own verbal coinage and I am justly proud of it) is going on at a pace that makes one wonder if the opera season had not better make haste before all the pasteboard in the land is consumed.

There was Harold Bauer of the creped hair for example. How does he get that more than Marcel wave in his Titian topknot? Admirable it looked in the dining-room of the Wellington the other evening; putting quite out of color and luxuriance the coiffures of the elaborately coifed ladies in that elegant refectorian. Indeed, I myself sighed to think that nature had denied me such a wonderful ruddy pompadour, and thought desperately of henna—but that's another story. What I wanted to say was that Harold played in Aeolian Hall on the afternoon of October 25, and doubtless made each and every woman (there was a slight sprinkling of men) happy by his pose, his poise and his pedals.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever" and Mr. Bauer's record is made. So it will be a matter of supererogation to recount his ability; his pianistic feats; his technique and all the rest of the repertory of an elegant young persuader of the key-board.

Also a new aspirant for favor, Miss Ethel Newcomb was charming at her own recital on October 22, in Aeolian Hall. Apparently she loved the piano, and her audience approved of her.

Also, Mr. Reinald Werrenrath did an entire recital of non-classic songs—and his intentions in this respect were more than praiseworthy; for we hear Brahms—especially Brahms,—Schubert and Schumann murdered too, too frequently throughout the season—and earned the respect of his listeners by making a new program for them.

Roast beef and potatoes are excellent things in their way—I am no vegeterian—but nature has not restricted herself to these tried and not-found-wanting viands. The petit souper at which Werrenrath was a musical Amphitryon was not a bad sort of repast.

♮ ♮ ♮

Recital by Chas. N. Granville

A function which many will look forward to with pleasure will be the concert of Chas. N. Granville, baritone, on the evening of October 29. An interesting program is promised by this handsome and popular young singer.

♮ ♮ ♮

The "Shipmans"

From Australia come pictures and letters galore. Madame Nordica sends a few which almost do justice to her beauty, and the "Freddie Shipmans," as those who love them call them, send a wonderful picture, standing together in that attitude of complete "palship" which characterizes their marital companionship.

They have all sorts of nice things to say, especially regarding Madame's wonderful success. Mrs. Shipman writes to me: "Your Nordica and Bispham writeups were great; the Nordica reviews have been reprinted here in toto."

♮ ♮ ♮

Wedding Bells

Our esteemed Paris representative of Music News has sent me the announcement of her marriage to Mons. Armand Boulet.

Happy Mons. Boulet to have won the hand of the esteemed correspondent of the rightest little, tightest little, musical paper in the union. Felicitations to Mons. et Madame Armand Boulet, nee May Mansfield.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Jenny Dufau Scores a Hit

Miss Jenny Dufau was the soloist at the great concert given on the evening of October 26, at the Hippodrome, with the Nahan Franko Orchestra supplying the symphonic numbers and the important accompaniments.

Miss Dufau, an arch, mignonne slip of a girl—a very ingenue in appearance, pose and costume—made a decided success with her audience, who were not slow to realize the charm of her voice, manner and style as a vocalist and the charm of her gracious personality.

She exhibited, beside the grace of a fresh young voice, the ability to sing on the pitch, a desideration not invariably the reward of careful listeners.

Her coloratura is brilliant and her trills and roulades are emitted with ease.

Decidedly Miss Dufau scored a hit, and decidedly she will be called upon to sing soon again in the metropolis, unless her duties in Chicago under the baton of Maestro Cleofonte Campanini prove too arduous and time-limiting, for Miss Dufau is a valued member of the aggregation of vocalists singing at the Chicago Opera House.

——— ♯♯♯ ———

Boydston.—Miss Florence Boydston, organist and director of music, presented a special song service at the Central Park Presbyterian Church last Sunday evening, inaugurating a series which will fill the last Sunday evening of each month. The numbers given were "I'm a Pilgrim" (Marston), "Jubilate Deo" (Buck), "Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem" (Maunder) and "Softly Falls the Twilight" (Havens). The quartet personnel is Marguerite Wilcox, Marguerite Soule, Charles Cram and Glenn Pray.

——— ♯♯♯ ———

MacLeish—Miss Lillian MacLeish sang on Wednesday afternoon at Association House.

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

THE INCOME TAX AND MUSICIANS

It is interesting to think that those teachers, vocal and instrumental, whose annual incomes are more than three thousand dollars—and, if the number of pupils some instructors are said to have is correct, and the price, as reported, the true one, the income of many is increased several thousand a year above that figure—will assist the government very materially toward meeting its expense. Of course it will be necessary for each musician to disclose his, or her, exact financial returns from the business, and it will move the curious to inspect the list, as do townsfolk the names of those who pay a tax of more than a hundred, or more, dollars a year.

But shall we not be amazed should the many who get these good incomes, when the test comes, be reduced to the few? And one, who is observing, wonders where all of this wealth is put, or has been put, in the past—in banks, in stocks, in real estate, or has it been spent as they went along?

Is it possible that the stories of the large class are exaggerated? If so, for what purpose? Does it add to one's importance, or to the esteem of the community?

And is it really a sure sign of great ability to spread abroad the extent of one's private income, or the number of one's clients?

But the teacher may, with dignity to his profession and himself, seek publicity by advertising in legitimate mediums, newspapers, musical weeklies, magazines and by circulars, writing and other ways, by which no one is cheapened.

And isn't it fair that visiting artists should contribute to the income tax?

Their monetary returns will then not all leave the country.

♮ ♮ ♮

The New Symphony by Sibelius

At the Symphony Orchestra Concert Friday afternoon, October 24, the Fourth Symphony by Sibelius was played the first time here.

Speaking of it, Louis C. Elson, in the Advertiser, says:

"The score of the Sibelius Symphony is not extreme in its instrumental demands. With the exception of bells, introduced in the finale, it is almost the 'classical orchestra,' but the 'classical' ends there; for the treatment is of the twentieth, or perhaps the twenty-first century. The work begins with a passage of great promise, sombre, and with the picturesque and monotonous reiteration that is typical of Scandinavia. Evil is suggested, and the muted horns blow very dismal blasts. There are "sounds and lamentations heard in the air,"—that is if there were any air, which there is not, for mere tune is left out of this mis-called symphony. There were dissonant and doleful mutterings, generally leading nowhere.

"One could understand the feelings of the Frenchman who once asked, after a piece of music—'Ce Sonate, que me veutil?' So we were tempted more than once to ask—'What does this symphony want?'

"The second movement was as fragmentary as the first and ended, like its predecessor, for no apparent reason. The third movement, on the contrary, wound up with an everlasting organ-point which suggested an end several minutes before it came.

"Finding how easy this trick was to do, Sibelius continued the organ-point business (an organ-point is a continuous bass-note against changing harmonies), a long way through the finale, and this last movement contained some of the most discordant effects ever achieved even in modern music.

"The symphony is nominally in A minor; practically it is in all known, and some unknown, keys. Yet it is not, on the whole, a repulsive work. It has moments of greatness. It seems to be the work of a genius who has not yet found himself. He is still groping, and often ineffectually."

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Mudgett's Sunday Afternoon Concerts

Mr. Mudgett announces a list of artists for his concerts in Symphony Hall, Sunday afternoon, that will sustain the high quality that was held last season.

♮ ♮ ♮

Of Local Import

W. Lawrence Cook, organist at the First Parish Church, Concord, Mass., and a pupil of Wallace Goodrich, gave the following program at the vesper service, Sunday afternoon, October 26. He was assisted by the Van Vliet Orchestra.

Prelude (Organ), "Grand Chorus" in march form (Guilmant); Prelude to Act V., "King Manfred," organ and orchestra; "Meditation" (Thais), violin solo, organ accompaniment, Massenet; "Ecstasy," violin, 'cello and organ (Gaune); "Reverie," 'cello and organ (Dancla); "Cujus Animam," "Stabat Mater" (Rossini), orchestra and organ, and the organ march in E flat by Faulkes.

♮ ♮ ♮

Raymond C. Robinson, organist and director of the Central Church, Boston, has been chosen to succeed Everett J. Harrington, organist at the Church of Disciples, since the death of Frank Lynes, the composer, as the director of the Central Church Choral Club, Worcester.

Mr. Robinson has very interesting and appropriate musical services at his Boston church and plays a short program at the close of the vesper service.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Alice Eldridge, the young Worcester festival pianist, leaves for Chicago, November 5, for a month's concert tour.

Mr. Newman, her eastern manager, has arranged for a concert at Rockland, November 3, and upon her return from the west she opens an engagement with the Steinert course at Providence, December 9.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Bessie Talbot Salmon, fresh from study and singing in Europe, makes her Boston debut in Jordan Hall, November 10.

David Bispham is singing to large audiences at B. F. Keith's Theater. A recent program was, by request: Handel's "O Ruddier Than the Cherry," "When Two That Love Are Parted" (Secchi); "When I Was a Page," from "Falstaff," and Schumann's "Two Grenadiers."

♮ ♮ ♮

The Kneisel Quartet will give a series of Chamber Music concerts in Steinert Hall, Tuesday nights, November 4, December 2, January 6 and March 17. Mr. Mudgett, Symphony Hall, has charge of the series.

♮ ♮ ♮

"A Sigh," words by Harriet Prescott Spofford, with a musical setting by the writer, has met with recognition when sung from manuscript, and will soon be out, as it is now in the printer's hands.

♮ ♮ ♮

Harvard Musical Clubs cannot make their annual western trip this year, the faculty refusing consent. They may, however, give concerts in Princeton, November 7, preceding the Princeton-Harvard game, and a dual concert with Yale in Jordan Hall, Boston, November 21. L. S. B.

♮ ♮ ♮

Song Recital in Steinert Hall

It does not commonly happen that a recital gets focused wrong and assisting artists get the credit, while the supposed central figure proves a distraction instead of an attraction. At a song recital given on October 21, in Steinert Hall, before an audience that would have been appreciative of Mme. Keon if worthy of its commendation, the praise, first of all, should be bestowed upon Sig. de Segurola, of the Metropolitan Opera; then upon Mr. George Harris, Jr., and finally upon Sig. Capelloni. The accompanist was Sig. Vallini. The presentation of a program almost entirely composed of selections from grand opera merited laudation in the order mentioned: Sig. Segruola was superior, Mr. Harris excellent and Sig. Capelloni good. As for Mme. Keon nothing favorable to her interests can be said. The program, with the exception of that which has been hinted, was above the average of recital programs and won distinct commendation and abundant applause.

♮ ♮ ♮

A Students' Recital at the Faelten Piano School

On the evening of October 23, it was practically impossible to find other than standing room at the Faelten Students' Recital. Ensemble numbers predominated and while none can lay claim to special distinction, each person who performed in the same did creditable work at the pianoforte. The middle place was given to ensemble transposition exercises by students in the freshman class and their tasks seemed to present no special difficulties, on account of the easy way in which they were solved. No great feats of technic were displayed, but it was evident that honest effort is daily being put forth to teach the mastery of the keyboard and the art of music. The program proved that even a young pupil in knee-long dress and curls could provide a most creditable reading of the "Finale" of Weber's E flat concerto. Others who were not children in point of size and age demonstrated the same good schooling. The evening recital was an enjoyable one.

♮ ♮ ♮

Music at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross

The great Missionary Conference to which there were said to be 6,000 delegates from all parts of the United States, Canada, Mexico, the Philippines and Porto Rico, opened with pontifical high mass at the Roman Catholic Cathedral on Sunday, October 19, and every seat was occupied. It is needless to enter extensively into ecclesiastical matters, but it may add color to the musical program if it is stated that it is unlikely if in the history of the Roman church in America there has been assembled so large a body of dignitaries as on this occasion. Two thrones were in position before the altar, one for the Most Rev. John Bonzano, celebrant at this pontifical mass, and the other for Cardinal O'Connell, who preached the sermon. The vast building, with nearly 6,000 sittings, was lavishly adorned with red draperies and gold trimmings, transforming darkness and gloom into brightness and brilliancy. The procession and recession were long and dignified, an ecclesiastical spectacle in which there were more than 600 persons, clad in uniforms, as were the Knights of Columbus of the honor order; or in surplices, as were the men and boys of the Sanctuary Choir; or in the richest of vestments, as were the priests, abbots, monsignori, bishops, archbishops, monks and cardinal. All this, with gorgeous ritual, made an imposing sight. There were sung on this occasion two hymns by Cardinal O'Connor, "The Hymn to the Holy Name" and "The Hymn to the Holy Cross," the second one for the first time, and both words and music being by His Eminence. The effect was very fine. The music of the mass was in most competent hands: Sig. Pio de Luca conducted a body of men constituting the Choral Union of the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, and there was sung a remarkably strong mass (in A) by F. Mattoni; and Mr. J. Francis Driscoll conducted a large male sanctuary choir of about 75 voices. The work of this sanctuary choir was exceedingly impressive. It sang a cappella most ornate and elaborate numbers with full, resonant and ringing tone, and the parts were well-balanced, conclusively demonstrating that this choir could honorably compare with the best boy choirs of Boston. The Choral Union sang with forceful expressiveness and with perfected gradations of shadings. The music as a whole was commendable from every point of view and reflected great credit upon those who had it in charge. The organist, Mr. E. P. Illingworth, played the "Allegro" from Guilmant's "First Sonata" and a "Postlude" by Spence. As feats of transposition are in order these days, it might be stated that he transposed the entire Mattoni mass. The musical numbers which have not been mentioned were:

Ecce Sacerdos Magnus.....Terz'ani
Salva Sancta Parens.....Capossi
Benedicta et Venerabilis.....M. Haydn
Ave Maria.....Benz
Beata Viscera.....Pitsch
Dresden "Amen"

Gounod's "Hymn to the Pope" was sung by both choirs during the Recessional That it was a red letter day in the annals of the Roman church in Boston may perhaps be discerned from this writing.

S. HARRISON LOVEWELL.

———♯♯♯———

WORCESTER, MASS.

Saturday afternoon and evening, October 18, Sousa's Band held the stage in Mechanics' Hall. Herbert L. Clarke, cornetist; Margel Gluck, violiniste, and Virginia Root, soprano, were the announced soloists, but Miss Root was unable to sing, owing to a severe cold which she had contracted.

♮ ♮ ♮

Rob Roy at the Worcester

The De Koven Opera Company, under the direction of Daniel V. Arthur, with Bessie Abbott and Jefferson De Angelis the featured stars, gave a production of "Rob Roy," the de Koven comic opera of Scotch setting, at the Worcester Theater, Tuesday night, October 21, to an audience few in numbers but great in staying qualities. It took until after 11 o'clock to present the work, owing to the length of time taken between the acts. Considering that no rehearsal with the chorus was obtainable in the afternoon, the ensemble was surprisingly accurate in attack and in ending its measures. The soloists entered into their characters with verve and acquitted themselves to the enjoyment of their listeners. This is especially true of Miss Abbott, Miss Wakefield, Messrs. Stevens, Waterous, Lachiel and De Angelis. The latter, with Highlanders in the dance, and the quaint wiggle of the sturdy legs, "brought down the house" at every appearance. "My Home Is Where the Heather Blooms," by Miss Abbott, was noticeable because of the assurance of her manner and the authority of her style.

One thing, too little heard at concerts, and which should always be commended, was the excellent diction of the entire company. Words were distinctly and, in many instances, beautifully pronounced, and they could be heard by the listener without effort.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Newman Club Concert

A concert was given in the Assembly Hall of the high school, Marlboro, Mass., Monday night, October 20, under the auspices of the well-known Newman Club of the town, by the Whites Boston Octette. Although the day had been severely rainy, and the night was threatening, a good audience came out and felt repaid for the effort. The personnel of the octet was: Grace S. Chandler, soprano; Olive Whitely Hilton, soprano and violinist; Marcia West Lewis, contralto; Abbie J. Conly, contralto; Henry Behnke, tenor; Herbert Wellington Smith, baritone; Katherine Halliday, violoncello; Herbert Seiler, pianist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Personal Mention

Paderewski will give the first concert of the Ellis course, in Mechanics' Hall, Tuesday night, November 4.

Other dates are December 9, January 13, February 10 and March 10.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, with Dr. Muck conducting, appears on some of these, while soloists will be heard at other times Thursday night, October 23, a large audience gathered in Mechanics' Hall, to hear Hugh O'Donnell give an illustrated lecture upon "Egypt."

He showed Gibraltar, Alexandria, the harbors old and new; Cairo, the Marmadukes' tombs, pyramids, sphinx, Arab shops, farming along the Nile, early methods of irrigation, a wedding procession, funeral of a child, and other local views, closing with splendid pictures of the Suez canal.

October 30, "Palestine"; then "Damascus," "Constantinople" and "Athens," the series ending November 13 with a lecture on "Ireland."

Stephen Ezra Rich, tenor, sang "The Perfect Day" and "I Love You Truly" by Bond, and Mrs. H. H. A. Beach's "Ecstacy," at the marriage of Miss Sophia Hawthorne to Ernest Miller, at their new home, Tuesday afternoon, October 21. He also played the "Bridal March" from "Lohengrin," and during the ceremony Jensen's "Bridal Song" and MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose."

LESTER S. BUTLER.

———♯♯♯———

Koelling—Mme. Helen Koelling, soprano, late of the Manhattan and Montreal Opera Company, is announced for a song recital at the Illinois Theater, Sunday afternoon, November 16, under the management of Carl D. Kinsey. A program of old and modern songs will be presented.

———♯♯♯———

Forchheimer—A concert "In Memoriam" of Dr. Frederick Forchheimer was given at the Conservatory Recital Hall in Cincinnati last evening, by Theodore Bohlmann, Pier Adolfo Tirindelli, Hugo Kupperschmid, Max Schulz and Julius Sturm, the program consisting of an address by Theodore Bohlmann, the "Quartet" Op. 60, No. C minor, and the "Quintet" Op. 34, F minor, Brahms.

GEORGE W. MUNRO
Voice Specialist
Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.
Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.
Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.
Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

People & Events

MARGARET HARRISON, SOPRANO

Among the younger New York singers who have won an esteemed position in musical circles is Margaret Harrison, whose ancestors, for generations back, were famous for their patriotism as well as for their prominence in the social world. Miss Harrison was born in Harrison Valley, Pa., which received its name from her great-grandfather. Her grandfather was second cousin to President William Henry Harrison. At an early age she showed a marked tendency toward music and possessed an acute sense of tone and pitch. When six years old she began to study the piano, which she continued to do for ten years. Her naturally beautiful soprano voice was noted by her playmates, but not until she went to college did she realize that she was a better singer than pianist. She therefore decided to have her voice trained, and so placed herself under the guidance of an instructor. Subsequently she studied with Frank G. Dossert, Julian Walker and Alice Garrigue Mott.

MARGARET HARRISON

It is, therefore, a most commendable virtue in this young artist that she not only recognized her talent, but saw to it that it was developed and made ready for use. She is an assiduous and faithful student and will undoubtedly rise to a position of influence and honor in the field of music. She has filled engagements with clubs, societies and at social functions, at which she has been most cordially received. She is also soprano at the old First Presbyterian Church (Dr. William C. Carl, organist) and Temple Beth-El, New York, having held these positions for over two years, and where her work is greatly appreciated. Miss Harrison is preparing to devote more time this season to concert work, for which she is so well equipped.

MARRIAGE OF MAY MANSFIELD

Music News is in receipt of cards announcing the marriage of our Paris correspondent, May Mansfield, which took place on October 4 in London, the fortunate bridegroom being M. Armand Boulet.

M. and Mme. Boulet will live at 27 Rue Boislevent, Paris. Music News extends congratulations and sincere good wishes and is joined in this by many Chicagoans and other young musicians who, while in Paris, have found the Mansfield studios one of the most artistic as well as one of the most home-like (American home-like) places in the French capital.

THE CANTATA "BETHLEHEM"

The editor of "The Luther League Review" for October (New York) has the following to say concerning J. Fischer & Bro's latest published cantata:

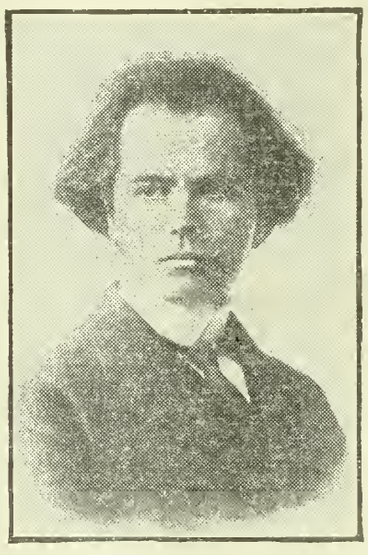
"Bethlehem," a sacred cantata, affords young Christians, who are both reverent and joy-loving, an opportunity to combine in one Christmas celebration their religious devotion and the gratification of their artistic taste. On this cantata Wm. ApMadoc has gathered all the prophecy and all the history of the birth of the Christ-child, and interweaving with them the words and songs of devotion uttered by the people of the time, he has told the story of this wonderful event in a wonderfully appropriate and impressive manner. The musical setting by W. Rhys-Herbert is in excellent taste and of truly classical character, while in range and power it is well within the reach of any group of singers of average ability.

EMIL LIEBLING

Mr. Emil Liebling is announced for four historical piano lecture recitals, at the Milwaukee-Downer College, the dates being October 25, January 17, March 7 and April 25.

The first was devoted to "The Classical Period" and had the following very interesting program, which was played very beautifully on the fine new Kimball concert grand piano recently purchased by the college.

Sonata in G Minor ..... Scarlatti
Variations in E and G Minor ..... Handel
Fantasia in G Minor
Prelude and Fugue in A Minor
Prelude and Fugue in G Minor
..... Bach
Sonata, Opus 31, No. 2 ..... Beethoven
Variations in A ..... Mozart
Menuet in B Minor ..... Schubert
Rondo in E Flat ..... Weber



Jan Kubelik

Writes as follows of the

Mason & Hamlin

CHICAGO

Mason & Hamlin Co.,

Gentlemen: It is with the utmost pleasure that I contemplate my tour in this country with your wonderful piano for an accompanying instrument. Its remarkable tone qualities will prove most satisfying to me and most pleasing to my audience.

Sincerely yours,

Jan Kubelik

Mason & Hamlin Pianos on exhibition and sale only at store of

Wabash and Jackson Cable Piano Company CHICAGO

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers

Do you know how a "well placed tone" feels? Do you know the fifteen definit: vowel forms? Do you know how all consonants shou'd be produced? How connect-d? Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled? If you do not know hese truths then your diction is inefficient. If you are not happy in your work, call on

KATHERINE SCHUSTER
71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO
Specialist in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

MUSIC STUDY CLASS

The music study class of the West Side Co-Educational Club celebrated Theodore Thomas Day Thursday, October 16.

The first number on the program was luncheon, after which the real interest of the day was brought out in an address by Mrs. G. E. M. Pratt on the life of Theodore Thomas and his connection with the orchestra; many interesting stories of his eventful career, were given and a letter from Mrs. Thomas to the club was read.

A very comprehensive report of the biennial meeting of the National Federation of Musical Clubs was given by Mrs. Walther. She was assisted by Miss Alta Burton, who interpreted the folk songs.

Miss Florence Greenburg gave a short program of songs.

A Proposal ..... Mary Turner Salter
Nothing But Love ..... Carrie Jacobs Bond
At Dawning ..... Cadman
Mary Mine ..... Lohr

Mrs. Elma Powers Patterson of Monmouth, Ill., added two piano numbers.

Pocatelle ..... Raff
Rustle of Spring ..... Sinding

M. J. W.

NEW WORKS BY MACDERMID

The new compositions by James G. MacDermid attracted considerable attention in the display window of the Gamble Hinged Music Company, recently. These new numbers are considered by many to be the best efforts of this writer, and are already in big demand. They are as follows:

"Sacrament," (a love song).

"Behold, What Manner of Love," (scriptural song).

"Query," (a romance for the piano).

"Reply" (companion piece to "Query.")

Mr. MacDermid has an able exponent of his songs in Mrs. MacDermid, who was the first to program them. Marion Green, Herbert Miller and Isabelle Richardson were among the first to sing "Behold What Manner of Love," in their respective churches, and the first programs in which "Sacrament" found a place were given by Ora Padget-Langer with the Steindel Trio at the LaSalle Hotel; Frederica Gerhardt-Downing at the joint meetings of the Lakeview and Amateur Musical Clubs; and Hazel Eden Mudge at the Illinois Athletic Club.

Mr. MacDermid's natural melodic gift is much in evidence in his piano pieces, "Query" and "Reply." Emil Liebling, Birdice Blye, Lois Adler and other of the prominent Chicago teachers immediately voiced their approval, and William Zeuch will play his own organ arrangement of them at his first concert in Atlanta, November 2.

SHOW WINDOW OF THE GAMBLE HINGED MUSIC COMPANY WITH DISPLAY OF MACDERMID MUSIC

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH AT ALBIA, IOWA

On September 29 Frederick Preston Search gave one of his wonderful 'cello recitals at Albia, Iowa, the occasion being the dedication of the new High School Auditorium. The audience to such classic performance far exceeded all expectations, reaching to more than 650. The hearers were so delighted over the talented young musician giving his best on such popular occasion, and the profits were so large to the promoters, that arrangements were immediately made for a return engagement in the spring.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH IN THE WEST

Frederick Preston Search, America's brilliant young 'cello soloist, is now touring the west, being assisted by Walter Chapman, the same concert-pianist who accompanied him last season. From every city of appearance come the most enthusiastic reports. No 'cellist in years has been creating the furore attending this distinguished soloist's western recitals.

The soloist's regular season began with his opening of the Boise annual artists' course on October 6, but he played many preliminary recitals on his outward trip. The first of these recitals was given at Bloomington, Ill., before the Normal University, on September 25. The Bloomington Normalite reports:

"Music lovers who were shrewd and read between the lines of the printed announcements of the recital given by Frederick Preston Search at the university last night were well repaid for their time. The young 'cellist, altho only twenty-four years of age, is a most remarkable soloist. The program rendered was one of beauty. The two most difficult selections rendered were the Dvorak 'Concerto in B Minor' and the famous Bach 'Sonata' for 'cello alone. The former ranks as the greatest of all concertos and is so full of difficulties that it is seldom attempted even by the most skilled artists, and therefore more rarely heard. Possibly his interpretation of the Bach 'Sonata in E Flat Major,' for 'cello alone, displayed the artist's amazing technic to best advantage. Here the 'cello plays its own accompaniment. The young musician is not only an artist on the 'cello, but also a composer of merit. During the entertainment he gave one selection of his own composition which was well received. For five years he studied under Dr. Gustav Schreck, professor of harmony in the Royal Conservatory at Leipzig. When the Titanic disaster occurred Frederick Preston Search was appointed by Schreck, leader of the Bach Motette Choir, to compose and arrange the musical service for a great Titanic memorial concert to be held in Bach's church. With but four days to work, this young composer furnished music specially adapted to the occasion, and at the first concert 3,500 heard it, while 2,000 were unable to get admission. Fully 7,000 more attended the second and third performances. In musical circles Frederick Preston Search is recognized as the best 'cello interpreter of Bach's productions.

"The remainder of the short 'cello numbers included some of the most delightful concert pieces ever written. The beautiful Chopin 'Nocturne,' with its dreamy, emotional and heart-reaching strains captivated the audience.

"Walter Chapman played the piano accompaniments. He is not only a rare accompanist but a charming soloist. His solo selections were Liszt's 'Liebestraume,' Debussy's 'Arabesque' and Chopin's 'Etude,' Op. 25, No. 9.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago

The University School of Music offers courses in Piano, Organ, Violin, Voice and Theory of Music leading to academic degrees. Also courses in Public School Music, and Piano and Voice Pedagogy. Literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Evanston Academy included without extra cost. Thorough Preparatory School maintained. Refined social environment and beautiful situation on the wooded shores of Lake Michigan.

The professional String Quartet, the student Symphony Orchestra of sixty, the A Cappella Choir, the Evanston Musical Club, and the great North Shore Musical Festivals with choruses totaling over 2,000 voices offer unparalleled practical advantages.

Send for detailed description of courses and book of Evanston views.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Dean
Evanston, Illinois

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

"If Frederick Preston Search should return for a second recital, the audience would pack the auditorium, but it could not be more appreciative than the one which heard him last night."

Frederick Preston Search, because of his classic programs, is very fond of university audiences and they are of him. On October 2 he gave a recital before the State University of Wyoming, the success of which is apparent from the following report in the Laramie Republican:

"Frederick Preston Search, the violoncellist, and Walter Chapman, his assisting concert-pianist, appeared before a large and well pleased audience at the university auditorium last evening, in a concert that brought applause from the audience at the conclusion of every number, the gracious performers responding to the hearty encores that would not take no. They played some of the most brilliant numbers ever heard on that platform and both won praise from the music lovers of the city. Mr. Search is indeed a marvel with the 'cello. He found the tones with all their depth and richness and gave them shades of expression that none but he who understands could do. He is a musician of wonderful power and won the hearts of his audience through his personality as well as by his artistic playing. As an encore he rendered one of his own compositions, showing he is a composer as well as player, the 'Butterfly Waltz' being heartily received. The university can well be congratulated upon the appearance of these gifted young men, Mr. Chapman sharing the honors of the evening with his brilliant principal. Both are pleasing, graceful, suave and brilliant. They deserve whatever recognition they receive in their tour of the country. The numbers played last night were both brilliant and pleasing."

Report of the opening of the Boise artists' course will be given next week. In Idaho he is to play, in rapid succession, recitals in Boise, Idaho Falls, Pocatello (fifth recital in eight months), Twin Falls, Caldwell, Orofino and Moscow, with other engagements in that state which must be deferred until a later trip. (Advertisement)

♯♯♯

THE ILLINOIS COLLEGE OF MUSIC

The Pupils' Recital Club of the Illinois College of Music, 2831 Washington boulevard, gave their first program of the season last Saturday afternoon. Following the program there was a party in which about forty children joined in games and a general good time.

♮ ♮ ♮

Members of the faculty of the Illinois College of Music gave a concert at the Central Park Presbyterian Church last Tuesday evening.

♮ ♮ ♮

Marie Edwards will give a joint recital with Cornelius van Vliet at Jacksonville, Ill., next Monday evening.

♯♯♯

Hay.—William G. Hay, baritone, sang a group of songs at the Young Woman's Auxiliary at Sinai Temple on Sunday afternoon.

♯♯♯

Bingham.—Miss Mary Bingham, violinist, has just been elected director of the high school and the First Presbyterian Church Orchestras in Joplin, Mo.

LUELLA CHILSON = OHRMAN
SOLOIST AT WORCESTER FESTIVAL SEASON Address 4603 Sheridan Road

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING Phone Sunnyside 8540

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY MURRISON MABEL
Bass-Baritone Oratorio Concert
JOINT-RECITALS
Pianist Accompanist
Alliance Ohio

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL. Mrs. W. S. Bracken, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman
Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

H. W. OWENS, MUS. B.
VOICE BUILDER COACHING
PUPILS PREPARED FOR CHURCH POSITIONS, CONCERTS, ORATORIO
Monday and Saturday—Maller's Bldg., Madison & Wabash
Studio Telephone Harrison 4573
CHICAGO
Friday—2112 Washington Boulevard

Peoria Musical College
102-104 North Madison Avenue
PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT
Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr.
Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley
Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS
Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker
TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHILIPS COWAN
ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
4596 OAKENWALD AV.
Phone Drexel 3987

ELLA L. MILLS
PIANIST
American Conservatory and
117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

JOHN R. RANKL
Bass-Baritone
PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 6880

SOFIA
STEPHALI
COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

HANS HESS
CELLIST
American Conservatory
Telephone Lincoln 7917

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM
SOPRANO COMPOSER
Phone Harrison 6880 Accompanist
608 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Louise George
Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Preiser Violin School
STUDIOS
530 N. Pine Av., Austin
5407 S. Halsted St. and
2831 Washington Boul.
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director Phone Austin 4043

CONCERTS
RECITALS
ORATORIOS
OSCAR SEAGLE
17 Avenue Mozart
Paris (France)
BARITONE
American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER In Paris all Summer 119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR HAZZARD-PEOCOCK
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
RECITALS CONCERTS
FRANCE ENGLAND GERMANY
Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London

WHITEHILL
BARITONE
Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

LOUISE BURTON
SOPRANO 520 Fine Arts Bldg Phone Drexel 8183

MR. Karl Buren Stein TEACHERS of
TENOR SINGING
MRS. ELOCUTION
DRAMATIC READER JOINT RECITALS 55 Auditorium Bldg. ACTING

Esther Plumb
CONTRALTO
4173 Lake Avenue
Phone Oakland 3246
Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago, Ill

WALTER DIEDERICH TENOR
TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

HELEN GALLUP Pianist Accompanist
Address
Chicago Piano College

TSCHAIKOWSKY PROGRAM

The following program of works by Peter Iljitsch Tschaikowsky was given on Saturday afternoon in St. Louis by vocal pupils of William John Hall, assisted by piano pupils of Mrs. Addy J. Stemmler:

Piano Duo—
Allegro con Grazia (Symphony Pathetique)
Miss Yeargain and Mrs. Stemmler

Vocal—
None but the Lonely Heart
No Word from Thee
Miss Junker

Vocal—
If You But Knew
Was I Not a Blade of Grass
Whether Day Dawns
Mrs. Tuxhorn

Piano—
March, "Song of the Lark"
Nocturne, Op 10, No. 1
Miss Chamberlain

Vocal—
Pimpinella
Serenade
Mr. Moir

Vocal—
Aria, "Farewell Ye Mountains"
Miss Doorley

Piano—
Danse Russe
Danse Mirlitons
(Nutcracker Suite)
Miss Yeargain

Vocal—
Don Juan's Serenade
Pilgrim's Song
Mr. Starck

Vocal—
Endless Love
Cradle Song
Why
Mrs. Krutzsch

Piano Duo—Marche Slave
Miss Yeargain and Mrs. Stemmler

AMATEUR MUSICAL CLUB

Program for Monday, November 3, 1913, at 2:30 p. m., at Assembly Room, Fine Arts Building:

Poeme ..... Scriabine
Isolde's Liebestod ..... Wagner-Liszt
Gnomenreigen ..... Liszt
Miss Helen B. Lawrence

Affairs Choral
Mr. Harrison M. Wild

The Creative Listener
Mr. Eric Delamarter

The American Guild of Organists
Mr. Rossetter G. Cole

The Composer in Modern Music
Mr. Edward C. Moore

Prospectus of the Chicago Grand Opera Season.
Mr. Charles E. Nixon

Arioso ..... Delibes
Le Papillon et la Fleur ..... Faure
Traum durch die Daemmerung ..... Strauss
Caecilie ..... Strauss
Mrs. Sibyl Sammis MacDermid
Mrs. Edith Bowyer Whiffin at the piano

MR. NEUMANN'S CONCERTS

Attractions during the month of November under the management of F. Wight Neumann are a song recital by Mme. Rosa Olitzka, contralto, Sunday afternoon, November 9, at 3:30 at the Studebaker. Mme. Olitzka leaves immediately after her recital for Montreal where she will sing with the opera company. This will be Mme. Olitzka's only appearance in Chicago this season and she will again have the assistance of A. Leon Bloom, as accompanist. Josef Hofmann, pianist, will be heard in a recital, Sunday afternoon, November 16, at 3:30 at The Studebaker. Mr. Leon Sametini, violinist, and Rudolph Reuter, pianist, will be heard in a joint recital, Sunday afternoon, November 30, at Howard's Theater, formerly the Whitney Opera House.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH
AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST
In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.
Address after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.

Pocatello (Idaho) Tribune:
"The finest musical event ever given in Pocatello"

Music in America

JOPLIN, MISSOURI.

A recital was given at the First Presbyterian Church on the evening of October 14, by Miss Hortense Wheatley, soprano, assisted and accompanied by Miss Helen Scoville, pianist, which was a true delight to all who attended. Miss Wheatley spent last winter studying in Italy and England with her brother, Walter Wheatley, the distinguished tenor, who is this season with the Century Opera Company of New York. She has a high clear voice of beautiful quality and shows wonderful development. Her phrasing is good and her interpretations show true musical feeling. The high notes were sustained with ease and the colorature passages very clearly and easily delivered. The program was well chosen and proved so pleasing to the appreciative audience that several encores had to be given. Miss Wheatley has a very pleasing manner and has made herself a favorite here.

HORTENSE WHEATLEY

Miss Scoville gave very sympathetic accompaniments and her solo numbers were played in a beautiful style. Her technic is finely developed, her playing always brilliant and clear, the most difficult passages being played with utmost ease. She has abundant temperament, beautiful tone quality and a refined musical sense. Her appearances are always looked forward to with great pleasure.

Following is the program:

Aria—Waltz Song (Romeo and Juliet) ..... Gounod
Miss Wheatley

By the Brook ..... E. Schuett
Evening ..... Isidor Seiss
Arabesque ..... Leschetizky
Miss Scoville

Berceuse (Jocelyn) ..... Godard
Summer ..... Chaminade
Miss Wheatley

Aria from "Louise" ..... Charpentier
Miss Wheatley

Rigoletto Fantasie ..... Verdi-Liszt
Miss Scoville

A June Morning ..... Willeby
Villanelle ..... Dell'Acqua
Will o' the Wisp ..... Spross
Miss Wheatley

MARY E. BINGHAM.

N. A. O. AT OCEAN GROVE

At the meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Organists, held at the residence of the president, Dr. J. Christopher Marks, in New York, last Tuesday night, the time for holding the seventh national convention, to be held at Ocean Grove, was decided to be August 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 11 and 12, 1914. Enthusiastic letters were received and read from a number of the state presidents and members of the national committee. Reports were given of the successful state banquet held at Meriden, Conn., and an announcement made that another banquet will be held in Hartford, Conn., on Monday evening, November 10, which will be attended by several members of the association from New York City and vicinity. Edward Young Mason, the state president of Ohio, writes that a great banquet of organists is to be held at Columbus, Ohio, on Tuesday evening, November 11. Other states and localities are organizing local councils and it is certain that no such activity has ever been known before in the organization.

The name of the official paper, the N. A. O. News, is to be changed to the "American Musical Times," and will be published and edited by Tali Esen Morgan, the national superintendent.

The first "get-together $1 dinner" of the National Association of Organists in New York will be held at the Hotel Gerard on Monday evening, November 17.

At the close of the meeting the committee sat down to a delightful supper furnished by the hostess, Mrs. J. Christopher Marks.

GERTRUDE COWEN

Mrs. Cowen, the New York manager, reports the following bookings for Mme. Sundelius:

September 26—Windsor, Vt.; a concert given in honor of President and Mrs. Wilson.

October 2—Two appearances at the Worcester festival.

October 28—Boston Symphony Orchestra.

November 8—Longy Club, Aeolian Hall, New York.

November 11—Boston Symphony Orchestra.

November 13—St. John, N. B.

November 21—Cleveland, Ohio.

November 23—St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, St. Louis, Mo.

December 2—Lexington, Mass.

December 10—Bridgeport, Conn.

December 18—St. Cecelia Society, Boston.

December 30—Springfield, Mass.

February 3, 1914—Mendelssohn Glee Club, Aeolian Hall, New York.

February 24—Professor Spalding's Harvard course.

February 25—Professor Spalding's Harvard course.

March 3—Tuesday salons, Hotel Sherry, New York.

March 13—Professor Spalding's Harvard course.

March 14—Professor Spalding's Harvard course.

April 23—Boston Symphony Orchestra.

June 8 to 11—Swedish Singing Festival, Minneapolis, Minn.

JENNY DUFAU
COLORATURA SOPRANO
CHICAGO GRAND OPERA COMPANY

The Piano Pedals By Mrs. A. M. Virgil. Clear, Concise, Melodious, Results unequaled. Price $1.00
Sale unparallelel. Your Dealer or The Virgil Piano School Co. 42 W. 76th St., New York

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
504 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 7931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

HAZEL EVERINGHAM
Pianist Accompanist Teacher Ensemble
Address 1251 N. State St. REDPATH BUREAU

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
Teacher of Singing
309 KIMBALL HALL
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

CHARLESTON, WEST VIRGINIA

Music-lovers, this week, had a treat worth while, and were not slow to avail themselves of it, either. as evidenced by the good sized audience that greeted Maud Powell in the New Armory Friday evening. Appreciative in the extreme, and clamoring for more at each new strain, they compelled her to return again and again, until even the very walls seemed to echo their enthusiasm.

To those who have heard her it were folly, indeed, to attempt to voice an impression; while to one who has that great joy in store, it would be of still less value, inasmuch as each individual must needs form and revel in his own. It is enough to say that she was at her best—and we heard her.

Madame Powell was assisted by Francis Moore, pianist, and it does not detract from her performance to say that he added much by his splendid accompanying. His solo, also, was greatly enjoyed.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Mason Quartet has sent out announcements that it will entertain the members of the Country Club. Sunday afternoon, with the following program:

PROGRAM

Overture, "Pique Dame" ..... Von Suppe
Manon's Letter, Gillet Intermezzo Picturesque .....
..... Kocian
Tales from the Vienna Woods .....Johann Strauss
Selection from "Mme Butterfly" ..... Puccini
Two Hungarian Dances ..... Brahms

J. HENRY FRANCIS.

♮ ♮ ♮

Other happenings seem to be unimportant or of an unmusical nature.

———♯♯♯———

LOS ANGELES

The season's opening has shown a strong musical pulse beat. The Geraldine Farrar combination drew a full capacity house.

The music teachers' work in giving a good grade course of popular concerts by the People's Orchestra and Chorus, at poor people's prices, had a crowning victory in the Verdi memorial centennial of last Sunday, when they presented in excellent shape the "Requiem Mass" of Italy's world known composer. Every seat sold and many turned away. Such was the desire to hear the work that it will be repeated next Sunday that others, unable to get in, may have the pleasure of hearing it.

The quartet of soloists—Mrs. Bertha Winslow Vaughan, soprano; Mrs. L. J. Selby, contralto; Mr. Roland Paul, tenor, and Mr. Frederick C. McPherson, bass—all acquitted themselves with artistic honors in the very difficult music, but the great surprise was in the splendid manner the chorus, with very limited rehearsals, as well as small in numbers, came up to the requirements of the great choral writing. Five hundred would be a proper vocal ensemble, rather than less than 200, who accomplished so fine a rendition. This work gave proof of the effectiveness of our conductor, Eduardo Lebegott.

Mr. Reginald E. Blight, lecturer of the Los Angeles Fellowship, gave a fine ten or fifteen minute talk on Verdi and his place and work in the musical and operatic world. His power and influence among the common people in developing musical taste in the realm of musical imagination; also the relationship of the People's Orchestra to the work and educational course in the public schools, was recognized as helpful in the educational processes of Los Angeles.

Mr. C. L. Bagley paid a compliment to Maestro Lebegott in making popular good music and presented and pinned upon his lapel a gold medal as a token of their esteem and affection for the part he is performing in this music work for the people.

Mr. F. G. Ellis sang in his best style the "Credo" from "Otello," the March from "Aida" and the overture of "The Power of Destiny," introduced the program by the orchestra.

The first day's sale of season tickets of the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra, Herr Adolph Tandler, conductor, exceeded $3,000. A large interest is manifested.

The Friday Morning Club gave a fine program of Edvard Grieg, with Mrs. Willis N. Tiffany, soprano, Mr. France Woodmansee as pianist, and Mr. Axel Simonsen as 'cellist. The work of each was strictly first class. Mrs. Tiffany, who remained for some days for this special recital, left immediately for a trip to Europe for study and equipment for a still larger field of musical artistry. Her list of ten Grieg settings was an education to her large audience whose appreciation drew forth several additional encores. Mr. Woodmansee in "G Minor Ballade" Op. 24, gave evidence of good technique and splendid interpretation.

Mr. Simonsen is a master in 'cello playing and is very popular to our city lovers of the great soulful instrument. This number was sonata, Op. 36. The latest new musical and art enterprise is the construction of a stately stadium in the open air in the mountain park of 3,015 acres, the gift of Griffith J. Griffith, presented to the city some years ago. The park has now become a close suburb to our outreaching city and the donor has expressed a willingness to expend a million for art, science and histrionic education by construct this theater and an astronomical observatory. A place has been located where the acoustics are complete for an auditorum capacity of 50,000, or twice that number to hear and see great pageants and plays of world interest. Great interest is aroused for the future in world plays by this wonderful gift of nature's adornment within the annexed city limits.

The Tivoli Opera Company is presenting good performances of Balfe's "Bohemian Girl."

S. W .MOUNTZ.
446 West Fortieth Place.

———♯♯♯———

DENVER, COLORADO

The Philharmonics are out with their season's bill of fare, and but three artists are given. The Cavallo-Burke series has nothing but visitors in contrast to the Philharmonics, who advance several musical celebrities, mostly of the gentler sex, they being more attractive to the usual afternoon audiences.

The "farewell" of young Abe Greenfield, with our talented Franklin Cleverly at the piano, took place during the past week with a somewhat small patronage. These "assisting mediums" to young artists of promise are not as successful as of yore.

Has the public been too thoroughly played upon?

Musicians of this city have expressed their sincere sympathy with Mrs. Smissaert, one of the best piano pedagogues of this city, in the death of her husband, which occurred early in the week under the most tragic circumstances.

The lure of eccelesiastical music has at last successfully seized John C. Wilcox, he having taken charge of the music at the First Congregational Church, with Nelson Sprackling at the organ. The quartet is composed of students of Mr. Wilcox, he being the director in chief. This will certainly put their music on a high plane this winter.

Paul Clarke Stauffer has organized a large choral society of ladies in Golden and reports most satisfactory progress.

Henry Housely, the dean of music in this city, will give "The Messiah" during the holiday season, and later the "Elijah." These works will be sung by the augmented choir of St. John's Cathedral and local soloists.

Under Mayor Speer's administration a contract was given to an eastern builder for an organ commensurate with the building which is used for civic entertainments. An effort is now being made to have this contract set aside and have new specifications calling for one of another make which will appeal to the popular taste to a greater extent than a strictly legitimate specification would do. Men of means are behind this project, which will doubtless add weight to the effort and clear the way financially.

The first of the Slack series was offered on Monday night with Geraldine Farrar, assisted by Alwin Schroeder, 'cello, and Arthur Rosenstein at the piano. One of the most receptive audiences greeted the artists and the pace set will be difficult to surpass. A program which ran the gamut of vocalism was sung in a faultless style and the versatility and genuine character of the artist was displayed when she responded to encores by sitting at the piano and singing to her own accompaniment most delightfully. The program was well divided between the singer and the 'cellist, and each received a just tribute by frequent anl hearty recalls. The accompaniments of Arthur Rosenstein were something that all aspirants to ensemble playing might study to advantage. Absolutely subservient to the soloist, and still virile where necessary.

The choir of St. Mark's will give several choral works during the winter season under Director R. Jefferson Hall. Gade's "Christmas Eve," Nevin's "Nativity," and the Grail music from "Parsifal" have already been put in rehearsal.

Schumann-Heink at the Auditorium gave one of her characteristic programs on Thursday night. It was unfortunate she so closely followed Farrar. Denver is in line for the same complaint that other cities have. Too many attractions and at too close a period will certainly make the promoters lose money. There is, however, one splendid change noticeable in programs offered here by visiting artists. They no longer dare to offer a weak program and we have as splendid offerings as may be heard in any eastern city and at every reasonable prices.

The orchestral programs offered by Mr.

MYRTLE Elvyn RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE

Kimball Piano Used — Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914

Concert Direction M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av. New York

TITTA RUFFO'S master, LELIO CASINI, recommends

HAMILTON HOPKINS

[CASINI'S Assistant for 4 Years in Milan]

710 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM

"A Ladder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys .50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice .50
Beatitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50

At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS

VIOLINIST

WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

ALBERT SPALDING

European Tour Season 1912-13

Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris

Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT

SOPRANO CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS

Phone Austin 12717 5943 OHIO STREET

MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT

WILLIAM HINSHAW

BARITONE

Of the Metropolitan Opera Company Management: R. E. JOHNSTON, 1451 Broadway, New York

Iva Bigelow Weaver SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals

Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE. WIS.

Jennie F. W. Johnson Contralto

American Conservatory and
4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work.

May Mansfield

PARIS STUDIOS:
27 rue Boisleveo
Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET

BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER VIOLINIST

KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory 207-211 South Main St. South Bend, Ind.

A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers

Publishers of THE LARK Aak for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN AMERICAN COMPOSER

In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals.
Recitals of His Compositions.
Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs.

WITH R. E. JOHNSTON OF NEW YORK SEASON 1912-1913

and Mrs. Fred Baker, each as artistic violinists as may be found in any city, have become quite one of the musical attractions for lovers of string quartets and quintets.

♯ ♯ ♯

ERIE, PENNSYLVANIA

Franz Kohler was given a very warm welcome upon his appearance in recital at the Hotel Lawrence assembly room last Thursday evening. He has won the deep appreciation of all Erie musicians by his untiring efforts in organizing and directing the new Symphony Orchestra, and on this occasion was the recipient of great applause for his masterful playing. Mr. Kohler's program contained several numbers new to Erie audiences, among which were Schuett's "Suite for Violin and Piano," Smetana's "Bohemian Fantasie," and Zimbalist's "Slavic Dance." Miss Lena Mason, soprano, of the Century Opera, was assisting artist and displayed a voice of great flexibility, her colorature work being especially effective. This is the first of a series of recitals Mr. Kohler has arranged for the Hotel Lawrence, and several prominent singers will be heard there during the coming winter.

Mrs. Esther Murray Ellis, reader of Meadville, Pa., was heard in Erie recently at a private recital. Mrs. Ellis is a reader of exceptional ability, her best work being the Irish and Yankee dialects, and all of her interpretations are free from any of those artificialities which so often creep into the work of the best readers. To be natural above all things seems to be Mrs. Ellis' creed, and her delightful impersonations give ample proof that her faith is not misplaced. Mrs. Ellis will make a concert tour with Mrs. M. Schultz Burkhard, soprano, during the coming winter.

Among the artists being considered for Mrs. McCoy's series of concerts is mentioned the name of Anna Case, the very popular young soprano of the Metropolitan Opera House. This is indeed welcome news, and with Christine Miller, Francis MacMillen and Fanny Bloomfield-Zeisler already engaged, Erie is assured a series of programs of the very first class.

ALBERT H. DOWLING JR.

♯ ♯ ♯

NEW ORGAN

The Pitt Theater in Pittsburgh, Pa., is installing a Hope-Jones Unit Organ. Its use will be inaugurated on October 25 and 26 by public recitals and lectures and demonstrations by the inventor. On the evening of the 25th Mr. Hope-Jones will be entertained at a banquet at the Duquesne Club, by the proprietors of the theater and leading citizens of Pittsburgh.

This organ is much larger and more powerful than the well-known instrument at Ocean Grove, N. J., and contains several novel features; it is possible to control the swell shutters through the keys, a resource which is absolutely new.

♯ ♯ ♯

Logan Square—The students of the Logan Square Musical College will give a recital Saturday evening, November 1, at 8 o'clock. This is the fifth monthly recital to be rendered in the College Recital Hall, at 2600 Milwaukee avenue, and is designed to show the progress made by the college students. There will be a number of assisting artists of the Third Presbyterian Church Quartet Choir. The program will introduce Mrs. Wentworth, who is an instructor of elocution and cultural studies.

♯ ♯ ♯

Cramer.—Miss Alice Ione Cramer is soprano in the quartet with Albert Borroff at B'nai Sholom Temple Israel and has also been substituting for Mary Ann Kaufman at the extra holiday services at Temple Emanuel.

IN BRIEFER FORM

Eddy.—Clarence Eddy gave an organ recital at Harrisburg, Ill., on Monday evening. ♮ ♮ ♮

Faculty Concert—A fine faculty concert was given on Tuesday evening, at Central Park Presbyterian Church, by The Illinois College of Music. ♮ ♮ ♮

Rogers Park.—Mae Doelling, pianist, and Hans Hess, 'cello, under management of Fannie Warren, gave a program before the Rogers Park Woman's Club on October 7. ♮ ♮ ♮

Carter—Russell Carter, organist and choir master, prepared an exceptionally good program for Parish Foundation Sunday at St. Ann's Church of Amsterdam, N. Y., on October 26. ♮ ♮ ♮

Mandy—Arthur McClure, a fourteen-year-old, very talented pupil of Frank Mandy, played at the Oak Park High School last Monday afternoon with great success. ♮ ♮ ♮

McGranahan—Thomas McGranahan sang at Arcadia Hall on Broadway (Chicago) on Tuesday evening, including in his list one of the Chauncey Olcott songs in honor of Mrs. Olcott, who was in the audience. ♮ ♮ ♮

Lincoln Turner Hall—The second concert of the Lincoln Turner Hall series, under direction of Martin Ballmann, next Sunday afternoon, will include violin, flute and 'cello numbers, besides the orchestra and a vocal quartet. ♮ ♮ ♮

Moline.—Mrs. Lily Wadhams-Moline, pupil of William E. Zeuch, played a very successful organ recital at the Swedish Lutheran Augustana Church at Sioux City, Ia., on last Sunday evening, assisted by Carl Norrbom, basso, whose principal number was the new sacred song by Mrs. Moline, "Psalm of Praise." ♮ ♮ ♮

Steele—Martha S. Steele, the well-known contralto of Pittsburgh, has just returned from New York, where she spent several profitable and very pleasant weeks.

On November 11 she will sing a group of Brahms' songs before the Tuesday Musical Club of Pittsburgh. On November 14 she will appear at the College Club, singing six numbers by Charles Wakefield Cadman. And the first week in December she will give a group of "Ye Olde Time Songs" at the Twentieth Century Club.

Mrs. Steele is rapidly booking dates, and the season promises to be a busy one for her. ♮ ♮ ♮

Titus.—Mrs. Bertha Smith Titus, of the vocal department of the Walter Spry Music School, has become widely known as a choral conductor, and for the current season will have three Chicago singing societies under her care. These are: The Harvester Choral Society, which will, as usual, appear at the annual Christmas concert at Orchestra Hall, given by Mr. McCormick to his employes, and in an opera in the spring; the North Shore Congregational Young People's Chorus, which is to sing on Sunday evenings at the North Shore Congregational Church; and the College Club, a group of young women members of the College Club, who appear at intervals in the club entertainments.

WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

(Advertisements under this head will hereafter be accepted at 20 cents a line.)

TO RENT—Time in Studio; 84 Auditorium Bldg. Apply any morning.

FOR SALE—Concert grand piano; genuine Henry F. Miller, Boston; eight feet ten inches long; unusually beautiful instrument; suitable for hall, school or large drawing room; bring expert musician to test it; owner going away; $250 cash. Address H. Music News.

FOR RENT—A few good teaching hours; 516 Kimball Hall.

TO RENT—Kimball Hall Studio; Tuesday, and Wednesday and Saturday a. m. Address Music News.

TIME TO RENT—In large studio in Fine Arts Bldg. Address W. D. Music News.

RENE S.
LUND
Baritone
Song Recitals Concert

All inquiries and bookings personally attended to by Mr. Lund. Circulars mailed on request.
2453 W. Monroe St., Chicago Tel. Seeley 5602

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

Wm. Clare Hall
Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Elias Bredin
TENOR
NINTH FLOOR, AUDITORIUM BUILDING

Hazel Dell Neff
SOPRANO
PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN
PIANIST TEACHER
NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and
4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.
COMPOSER CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing
Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin
Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN
SOPRANO
Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital
429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

The Elderly Person

The Elderly Person found himself with sufficient leisure to read two books "hand-running,"—to use a form of speech that has no warrant for being, but which nevertheless seems to carry an understood meaning. The present use of the expression is to say that the two books were absorbed in such close association that they might have been read at the same time, and that of course couldn't be. By one of those queer twists which can make even such an incident as the choice of a book become a matter of importance, the books might well be bracketed for future guidance in serious reading, so sharp is the contrast in the development of the chief figure in each narrative, and so pronounced is the moral influence conveyed.

We have some immensely strong figures in the literary world and, perforce, some disciples who, having sat at the feet of their gods, dispense freely the acquired drippings from the sanctuaries. Bernard Shaw issued a pronunciamento that Samuel Butler's "The Way of All Flesh" was one of the four or five great books of the century. The young men who read with such vehemence as to excite admiration from those who haven't learned to gulp down books, have not hesitated to add to Mr. Shaw's endorsement their own approval. They have even gone further and spoken lightly or cynically of those who opined that the new god might be a bit unsteady on his pedestal. The Elderly Person does not desire what he voices to sound like criticism of the younger men, or their methods of procedure. It is to be expected that those to whom life opens with fresh and vigorous possibilities shall be downright, positive, impatient, impulsive. It makes things exciting and there is a glory in the enthusiastic delivery of views from young people that is adorable. Their indifference to consequences, and their willingness to stand by an opinion to the bitter end has a pulsating thrill in it, uncompensated for by maturer certainties. It was only the very old sage who said: "I know only one thing, and that is that I know nothing at all." His previous years did not give him such a vision. But while making all sorts of concessions, the Elderly Person yet finds himself wondering why this unnecessarily lengthy book should be placed among the immortals. Reading it was painfully exacting. Irrelevancy was the least trying of its heavily printed pages. The paragraphs were ponderous and the sequences disordered. The statement was made that the book had been some years in the writing, and the carpenter work of construction is easily indicated. Even the changes in the mode of thinking are evidenced in the forms of expression, and there was necessary quite a little of labored effort to reconcile the inconsistencies. To an admirer all this might seem no shortcoming, since it is the privilege of all the truly great to nod at times. To the people who have to be shown why they should admire, it is the way of all such flesh to grow weary with padding.

The narrative concerns itself with one Edwin, born of parents who came together as the result of a mother's and her daughter's determination that the young curate and the daughter should marry. Then follows a long chronicle of this boy and man through endless commonplaces and sordidnesses. He was everything by turns and nothing long. All his fancies, ambitions and aspirations are set up only to be knocked down and punctured by the author, who set them up for just that purpose. Butler died a short time ago, quite an old man, and after having been extremely happy in his home relations. If this be true, it is hard to understand why he should deliberately make the character, on which he lavished all the benefits of his own life experience, one of such deplorable weakness. And he leaves him at the end of the book an elderly man, alone and so far as one can apprehend, ready for some more buffetings which can still further upset him and let him become a sort of floating atom in a universe which is all chaos, and from which one has no right to expect any permanent form of happiness. Now this isn't true to life, no matter how determinedly the younger advocates of the pessimistic in literature may preach it. Naturally, it is correct to intimate that people get what they work for, and that they at times must work under the disadvantage of not being well born. But it is inconceivable that all the best pleadings of a man's life are vagaries. He can be impulsive, unbalanced, shiftless, irresponsible, hesitating, selfish, gross, and all the other sins in the category, but for every one of them there is a counteracting influence calling him to be sane, serene, industrious and so on. And so rare is that man who does not respond to some of the stronger forces,—for they are the stronger as every erect man can testify—that he is a poor specimen of creation to select as the hero of an epic either in prose or verse. It makes of something great, something insipid, of something superb, something insignificant.

And what was the other book? Why, "John Halifax, Gentleman," by Dinah Mulock Craik. Not a novelty by any manner of means, and reread for perhaps the third time. The temptation for the last reading lay in the attractive volume itself, printed on soft India paper with such clear faced type, and bound so pliably in leather that it is a delight to the eye and a comfort to the hand. And of a size, too, that enables it to be slipped easily into the pocket. And best of all was the fact that it came quite unexpectedly at Christmas tide, wrapped up in a novel way with the tissue paper and red ribbon which give a gift the value of a pretty setting. And inside were the cards of a young couple. These gave the book its real charm, for there is nothing quite so delightful to all elderly persons as an attention from younger men and women. It moistens the accumulated years and touches all sorts

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils Studeba ker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - Baritone
NEWMAN
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE - ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY
Music Critics Say: Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose proficiency especially in the art of interpretation not only supports but inspires—makes not mars the soloist, enabling him to bring out his best. 1246 N. CLARK ST. Tel. North 4579

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
Management Alma Voedisch, 3836 Wilton Av., Chicago

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St., Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Stewart 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Palmer Christian
Concert Organist - Fupils - Coach - Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TENOR Director Vocal Department Boise Conservatory of Music. Pinney Building, BOISE IDAHO

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone O. P. 4397. 206 South Lombard Av., Oak Park Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Il

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

ELSE HARTHAN-ARENDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av
Phone Normal 1406

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

Shipley Watson
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
Pupil of Heinrich Barth, Berlin; Martin Krause, Leipzig; Edward MacDowell, New York; Carl & Rheinhold Faelten, Boston. 4414 Main St., Kansas City, Mo.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS. RECITALS.
PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

of springs of emotion, to be yet counted as of moment among those who are in the heyday of things.

